SLATE IS FIXED FOR CONVENTION BY THE REPUBLICAN BOSSES

Republican State Gathering Is Likely to Be Perfunctory Affair.

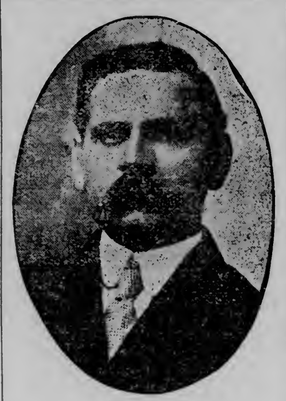

Eberhart, Cole, Iverson, Simpson and Schmahl Have Been Selected.

Al Kaiser of Bagley Is the Choice of Machine for State Treasurer.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Candidates for nomination before the next Republican state convention are beginning to see well-defined outlines of a slate. The meeting of the state fair society last week brought to town more than half the legislature's membership and double that number of more or less active politicians. The hotel lobbies heard a great deal of talk, and some of the discussion doubtless did not reach the lobbies but was behind closed doors. A number of receptive candidates for state office went home convinced that the greater part of the work of the next Republican state convention has already been cut out for it and that the convention itself is going to be more or less a perfunctory affair. Friends of R. C. Dunn, who were quite in evidence, confessed to a belief that Governor Eberhart would be nominated to succeed himself. This seemed to be quite generally conceded. That Dr. A. B. Cole of Fergus Falls is on the Eberhart slate for lieutenant governor seems to be credited in well-informed circles. State Auditor S. G. Iverson's canvass for renomination was quickened by the announcement of R. J. Wells for auditor, but it is generally understood that Iverson is on the list. Al. Kaiser of Bagley is slated for state treasurer. Julius A. Schmahl is said to be slated to succeed himself in the of-

Early War Veteran's Widow Is After Pension in Washington.

War of 1812 and That With Mexico Are Named in Her Claim.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A claim made by Mrs. Sumeral Dennis of Dadeville, Ala., has caused the pension officials here considerable surprise, accustomed as they are to investigating old claims for pensions.

From the official records, Sumeral Dennis appears to have been a most remarkable figure. The records show that he died in 1815 after having served in the war of 1812; also that he died in 1817, after having done good services in the Mexican war. Now comes his widow and claims that he died only a few years ago, having lived to an old age.

Senator Johnston of Alabama is pushing the claim with the hope of winning it for Mrs. Dennis, who lives in Dadeville with a son, an attorney.

MAY ASK STUART TO TAKE A HAND

Philadelphia Street Car Men Will Try to Avoid Calling Strike.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—It was said today that no strike would be declared by the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company until every effort to bring about peace has been exhausted. An appeal may be sent to Governor Stuart to intervene. In the meantime the union will look around for other methods to bring about an adjustment of differences. The leaders in the trolley men's organization declare they have not yet given up hope of a peaceful solution of the question.

SIX HURT IN WRECK NEAR CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 22.—Six persons were hurt, three seriously, when passenger train No. 38, from Chicago on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway was thrown from the track two miles west of this city today. The injured include five trainmen and one passenger, the latter of whom was only slightly hurt. The official explanation of the accident is that a piece of iron dropped under the locomotive.

DULUTH WOMEN WILL CONSIDER JOINING IN BOYCOTT ON MEATS

The International Union Label League Will Receive Resolution on Monday.

Movement Started in Cleveland Has Assumed Huge Proportions.

Several hundred women in Duluth, doing the buying for as many families, will give the butcher the "go-by" if the local branch of the Women's International Union Label league adopts a resolution which will be introduced at the meeting of the association next Monday night.

No pork chops, no succulent tenderloins, no crisp bacon, no provender, in short, which comes from the flesh of an animal by way of the abattoir and packing house, will do a Salome sizzle in the frying pan or take a Turkish bath on the broiler.

"Let us eat vegetables, and put down the price of meats," say many of these women.

Will Follow Other Cities.

"Yes," said Mrs. R. H. Dempsey, secretary of the Women's International Union Label league, this morning, "we are going to try the plan of some of our friends in other cities to put down the price of meats."

Interrogation elicited the admission that Mrs. Dempsey is going to introduce a resolution at the meeting of the league Monday which will read as follows:

TOM TAGGART WILL LOSE EYE

Democratic Leader Wounded While Hunting With His Secretary.

Natchez, Miss., Jan. 22.—Thomas Taggart, of Indianapolis, Ind., who was accidentally shot by W. H. Norton while hunting yesterday near Fayette, left here at 8:30 a. m. today for Jackson. He will leave that city over the Illinois Central for Louisville later in the day.

Mr. Taggart rested well last night. He will lose the sight of the right eye.

Mr. Taggart, his private secretary, W. H. Norton, and J. E. Bell, an attorney of Indianapolis, composed the hunting party. Late yesterday afternoon the hunters became separated, and when a bevy of birds was flushed, Mr. Norton fired from a thicket. The entire charge of small shot struck Mr. Taggart, who was hidden in a clump of underbrush, in the face, chest and right arm. A number of shot lodged in his face and dangerously near his right eye.

EIFFEL TOWER MAY TUMBLE

French Flood Is Assuming the Proportions of a Catastrophe.

Many Buildings Are Undermined in Paris---Many Cities Inundated.

Paris, Jan. 22.—The flood of the Seine threatens to assume the proportions of a catastrophe. The water at 2 o'clock this afternoon had risen a foot since morning. The foundations of many buildings, and notably the Eiffel tower, have been infiltrated and the structures are in danger of collapse.

Railroad, telegraph communication is interrupted throughout Eastern France because of floods. Many bridges have been swept away and canal traffic has been abandoned.

The streets in scores of cities and villages are under water. Lille, Chalons and Troyes suffered most.

The waters of the Rhine and the Marne with their tributaries were reported at a standstill today. The situation in Paris, however, promises to be worse than yesterday, as the North Dakotan Attempts Life When Not Permitted to Go to Town.

Edinburg, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a quarrel with his mother at their home, five miles from here, Ole Johnson, aged 23, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself. His mother had refused to let the young man use a horse to drive to town and a quarrel followed.

Johnson first secured a revolver which was taken from him by his mother and a moment later while her back was turned he secured a shtgun, stepped out of doors and discharged the contents into himself.

The charge struck the lower section of his face but there is hopes of his recovery. He was taken to Fargo for treatment.

EARTHQUAKE IS IN ICELAND

Jar Recorded at St. Louis and Cambridge Located in Far North.

St. Louis, Jan. 22.—The seismograph of St. Louis university registered an earthquake which began at 3:03:18 o'clock this morning and lasted until 3:45:36. The movement was directly from the west with traces from the south.

Father Goesse, who has charge of the seismograph, estimated the principal tremor was 6,530 miles from St. Louis. There were four vibrations to the minute.

At Cambridge Too.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 22.—A very severe earthquake was recorded at the Harvard seismographic station early today. The shocks began about 3:55 a. m., and ended about 7:00 a. m. The shock was the heaviest recorded since the installing of the seismographic station in April, 1908.

Where It Was Felt.

Seydisfjord, Iceland, Jan. 22.—Three severe earthquake shocks were felt here at 7:45 o'clock this morning. The tremors were felt elsewhere in Iceland, but so far as reported no damage was done.

NUMBER DEAD IS NOT KNOWN

Some Perish From Fright or Fearful Injuries After Being Rescued.

Three Cars Take Terrible Plunge Through Ice on Spanish River.

Victims in Hospital Suffer Nearly Every Conceivable Kind of Injury.

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 22.—The horror of the wreck of the Canadian Pacific passenger train at Spanish river yesterday afternoon grows as the hours pass. At least two score lives were snuffed out in a twinkling, and others have since died from frightful injuries. Not one car, as at first reported, but three, took the terrible plunge down the steep embankment into the icy waters of the river.

The train when it left Sudbury at noon, carried in the neighborhood of 100 souls. The train was made up as follows:

Engine, mail and baggage car, express, second-class coach, colonist, first-class coach, dining car and Pullman.

Spanish river is thirty-eight miles from Sudbury. The railroad at that point cuts into the side of a hill, and crosses the river over an iron bridge. The bridge was approached at a fair rate of speed and the engine, mail, baggage and express cars were on the structure.

May Lie There for Weeks.

Of the dead who perished in the river, it is impossible to compile any list and it may be weeks before all are known. The cars are there with only the ventilators sticking out of the water.

With such force were the cars hurled down the bank that they cut a wide

CAUCUS IS KING FOR THE SESSION

Cannon's Power Is So Far Impaired That Members Will Act.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Throughout the remainder of the present congress, it is agreed, the caucus rule is to prevail in the house of representatives. This state of affairs is credited to the efforts of the president. The power of Speaker Cannon and the rules committee has been so far impaired that the caucus has come as the best and fairest means of providing for legislation. Before each caucus is held, the purpose of the gathering is to be announced, and no other subject is to be considered. Regulars and insurgents alike are to be invited to such caucuses, and in this way the administration believes it is assured of the support of all Republicans.

BANDITS RUN AWAY WITH PART OF MISSOURI TRAIN

Rifle Mail and Make Futile Attack on Safe in Express Car.

Deputies, Constables and Special Men Join in the Pursuit.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—With more than 100 deputy sheriffs, constables and special service men in pursuit, it is believed that the four men who held up Missouri Pacific train No. 8 last night near Eureka, thirty miles from this city, will be run to earth today. Bloodhounds were put on the trail today, the dogs being brought from Jefferson City.

It is believed the four men are hiding in the foot hills near Eureka. The men had three hours' start, but the country is wild and inaccessible and the officers think they were unable to reach a place of safety before the pursuit started.

How much the men got from the mail car is unknown. Twenty-five sacks of mail were ripped open and hundreds of letters were rifled, while many other letters and packages are supposed to have been carried away.

Could Not Open Safe.

CANNON MEN TO DIRECT CAMPAIGN

Insurgents See Significance in Choices---Tawney Is Vice Chairman.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Men who are reputed to be staunch adherents of Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives will direct the next Republican congressional campaign. They were selected last night at a meeting of the Republican congressional campaign committee. The meeting is asserted to have been none too tranquil though so far as could be learned, there were no "insurgents" present. The officers chosen were as follows:

Chairman, William B. McKinley, Illinois; vice chairman, James A. Tawney, Minnesota; secretary, Henry C. Loudenslager, New Jersey; treasurer, Charles G. Dawes, Chicago; assistant secretary, Col. Henry Casson; assistant treasurer, John C. Eversman; auditor, W. J. Browning; literary director, Francis Curtis.

So far as could be learned, none of the insurgent Republicans were invited. Some of these are pointing out the significance of the election and declaring it is an attempt to give the speaker added power in saving the election in districts represented by them.

ARRESTED BY HIS FATHER'S DEPUTY

Michigan Man Accused of Forgery, Embezzlement and Deserting Navy.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22.—Sought by his own father, for three years sheriff of a Michigan county, Roy E. Pettik, university graduate and alleged to be an embezzler-forger and deserter from the United States navy, was arrested here last night upon a chance meeting on the street with one of his father's deputies. It is understood that he will be turned over to federal authorities.

According to the police, Pettik, who is 28 years of age, lived in Ithaca, Gratiot county, Mich., graduated from the University of Michigan and became an attorney at Ithaca. He is alleged to have forged the name of his wife's mother to a mortgage for $3,500, secured the money and disappeared. He then, say the police, enlisted in the navy, but deserted in Virginia, first borrowing, the police state, sums from his shipmates.

The Michigan deputy who captured Pettik came west to attend the funeral of a brother, and was instructed by Sheriff Pettik to make inquiries for the son here.

UNIONISTS GAIN NINETEEN SEATS AND LIBERALS TWO

Tariff Reform Champion Is Returned By Surrey Constituents.

Landlords, Church and Publicans Are Accused of Overawing Voters.

London, Jan. 22.—The Unionists place 32 seats to their credit out of the 56 contests yesterday. The Liberals take 20 seats, the Nationalists 3 and the Laborites 1. The Unionist gains are 19 and the Liberal 2. The latter are the only gains that the government has made during the last four days.

With yesterday's returns complete, the state of the parties is:

Government coalition—Liberals, 179; Irish Nationalists 64; Laborites 33.

Opposition— Unionists, 217.

Total gains—Unionists, 100; Liberals, 12; Laborites, 1.

Out of the 56 seats the results for which are announced today, the Liberals in the last parliament held 37, and the Unionists only 15. Accordingly, the change of opinion in these English counties in favor of the Tories, as shown by the turnover of seats,

TAKE TAX LAW TO SUPREME COURT

Applicants for Injunction Will Get Final Ruling on Corporation Levies.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The first direct steps to have the supreme court of the United States decide the constitutionality of the corporation tax imposed by the Payne tariff act, was taken yesterday, when the case of Stella P. Flint, as general guardian of the property of Samuel N. Stone, Jr., a minor, against the Stone-Tracy company at Windsor, Vt., was filed in the offices of the clerk of the court.

Part of the property of the minor consists of shares in the Stone-Tracy company, a mercantile corporation. Suit was brought to prevent the corporation from filing a statement of its indebtedness and giving other information as required by the Payne act as a basis for applying the tax.

BELIEVES IN KEATING

President of Company Says It Is Greatest Gold Mine in Montana.

Stockholders Will Be Informed as to Developments at Property.

Jesse B. Roote, president of the Keating Gold Mining Company of Butte, is in Duluth today, en route to Butte from the East. Mr. Roote is enthusiastic and optimistic as to the future of the Keating mine, and he has facts and figures to show as basis for his enthusiasm.

The directors of the company have decided on the policy of enlightening their stockholders regularly as to the status of the property and the progress of development and marketing.

"As soon as I reach home," said Mr. Roote this morning, "I will issue a circular letter to the stockholders, showing the progress made at the mine since active work was begun three months ago. The statement will show the exact cost of mining, the smelter returns and the average value of ore per ton, and the extent of the development of the property, so that stockholders may satisfy themselves as to the value of the property. Such statements will be sent hereafter for each two months' operation."

On the general outlook at the mine and the extent of the operations already conducted, Mr. Roote said:

"The Keating mine has been sufficiently developed and explored to make certain its permanency as one of the great mines of the Rocky Mountain states. The opinion that it is the best and the greatest gold mine in the state of Montana is shared by a number of eminent mining engineers of wide experience. The men interested in the Keating company have never at any time attempted to make money out of the stock, and have at all times expected to reap their profits out of the mine in the form of dividends.

"Developments at the mine have been most encouraging. shipments have continued at the rate of one carload per day from the old shaft and the sinking of the new shaft has continued until it is now almost ready for operation from the 400-foot level to the surface. Sinking below the 400-foot level on the new shaft began just before my departure from Butte last week. On the fourth level the drift on the vein is now open for nearly 2,000 feet and both ends of the drift still in ore working along the vein. This work is all being done to date on the one big Keating vein. There are several other veins on the property which will be open by crosscuts with depth. We have proved the main vein, on which the drift base been extended 2,000 feet on the 400-foot level, to three-quarters of a mile from the shaft.

"The company has recently purchased adjoining claims, until now it controls and owns outright a total of almost 5,000 feet in length on the vein and from 2,000 to 4,000 feet in width. With depth copper is coming in very strongly without affecting the gold values. For instance, one car of ore reaching the smelter last week showed 20 per cent of copper and at the same time carried $23 in gold. The electric pole line, which the company is building twenty-two miles to get electric power into the mine, is almost in place. The electric machinery ordered is expected within the next four weeks and within two months the mine expects to be operating by electricity instead of steam. The mine now is shipping fifty tons per day from one shaft and doing all the development and prospective work besides. With the second shaft in operation, as it will be in three months, and with the development work at the mine pushed ahead as it will be, the property can easily produce 250 tons per day, even on the basis of using teams for the eleven miles to the railroad.

"Mining costs are now running at about $6 per ton. With electric machinery and increased output they should be below $5 per ton. With the appearance of copper with depth, as now appears to be the tendency of the mine, the average value of the ore will probably increase."

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Patriotic Program By Ladies' Auxiliary of Spanish War Veterans.

A large audience, representative of the many patriotic societies of the city, gathered at Memorial hall last evening for the installation of officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary No. 3 of the Spanish War Veterans. Following the installation, there was a program of music and speeches. Miss Maude Matteson sang patriotic songs and the address of the evening was given by Hugo B. Koch, who spoke most glowingly of the work that has been and may be accomplished by the auxiliary.

Commander Koch told of the work the United Spanish War Veterans are doing in Minnesota and throughout the country, and the necessity for the Spanish War Veterans taking up the work. He said:

"The thinning ranks of our aged comrades speak for themselves and it behooves us as the successor of that grand body to be fitted to take up their work where they have left off, so that when the last valorous soul will have responded to the final roll call, they may feel that the lesson of loyalty and patriotism they have taught to the rising generation has been heeded."

Commander Koch urged co-operation between the G. A. R. and the Spanish War Veterans. The spirit with which the young soldiers "remembered the Maine" was the same displayed at Gettysburg, when the First Minnesota turned defeat into victory by its gallant charge.

"We desire to get together in a common cause," he said, in addressing the members of the G. A. R. "Our boys desire me to express to my comrades their desire to co-operate with you and strengthen the bond of fraternity between them."

Other addresses were given during the evening by Mrs. Lucy M. Ule, president of John G. McEwen auxiliary; past Deputy Commander Bates of Culver post, G. A. R.; Mrs. J. Williams, past deputy commander of Women's Relief corps; Asa Bailey of Gorman post, G. A. R.; Mrs. R. Smith of Garfield circle. Thomas Robinson of the Sons of Veterans, Mrs. A. Kilgore of the Lakes Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans, and L. A. Larson, commander of John G. McEwen camp, Spanish War Veterans. Miss Maud Matteson, Miss Smith, Miss Edith Rickard and Miss Jessie French assisted in the musical program.

During the evening Mrs. Mary M. Gibson, past president of John G. McEwen auxiliary, was presented with a past president's badge.

The officers installed last evening were: Mrs. Lucy M. Ule, president; Mrs. Mabel French, senior vice president; Mrs. Anna Wetterlund, junior vice president; Mrs. Grace Murray, secretary; Mrs. Anna Larson, treasurer; Miss Carrie Rude, conductor; Mrs. Marie Broadbridge, assistant conductor; Mrs. Belle Bergeson, chaplain; Mrs. Sylvia Rude, guard; Mrs. Anna Hanson, assistant guard.

ANTI-MEAT CRUSADE STARTED WITH A WAGER, SAYS CLEVELAND MAN, AS HE PUTS STEAK AWAY

"Is there any man registered from Cleveland?"

The question was asked of Clerk Shannon of the Spalding hotel. He scanned the register. Finally his finger stopped opposite the name of J. A. Ketchem, room 329, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The clerk was asked to produce the man or show the newspaper man to the room of the Buckeye state citizen. Mr. Ketchem was paged. He was discovered to be in the cafe. He invited the reporter to come in.

"Sit right down," said the cordial Mr. Ketchem, "and help me dispose of this steak. Rather early in the day for a large one, you know."

There was a hesitancy upon the part of the recipient of the near-dinner invitation. Eating meat is a very serious question these days. It was this very question that led to the introduction to the Cleveland man, for in Cleveland there is a large and growing aversion to juicy steaks and succulent roasts.

The man from Cleveland was asked to tell something about the boycott. He gave a chuckle, which developed into a laugh, and then partook of a big bite of the subject of the conversation.

"It really started in a joke," said the man from Cleveland, after he had masticated the generous piece of steak.

"It started with a dare. There is a man in Cleveland well-known around the town. Every city has such a character. He is the sponser for the idea. He is called "Peacock" Kelly, for the reason that he has a fondness for pea-green clothes and brilliantly dotted ties.

"Now, Kelly is always talking. He is the kind of a chap that has some ideas, but in this case he started something better than he ever realized. Kelly and a friend were talking in the lobby of the Hollanden, when the friend complained of the high price of meat and the cost of keeping a family.

"It was here, at this pyschological moment, that Kelly asked his friend why he did not refrain from the habit of eating meat, at least until the price receded somewhat.

"Kelly's friend said he would if he would. In fact, they dared each other to stop eating meat. It was really a bet, to see which could resist the temptation of the well-cooked steak the longer.

"The reporters got hold of the story and it spread. There is where the idea originated. 'Peacock' Kelly is the man you must give the credit to. It all happened in a bantering spirit. I will even wager that 'Peacock' Kelly has eaten meat since the wager.

"The laboring organizations got hold of the idea and it appealed to them. In a very short time the petitions were out and being signed. I left Cleveland when the first agitation was on, but I know how the whole thing started. It may make 'Peacock' Kelly famous.

"I was surprised in reading of the manner in which the idea has grown by leaps and bounds. Cleveland is not the kind of a city, as a rule, where the citizens grasp such a peculiar and radical idea with such widespread enthusiasm. Cleveland is what might be termed a conservative city. If the idea of not eating meat gets such a foothold, or it would perhaps be better to say, mouthhold, in Cleveland, what will it do in other cities?

"That is the question I have been asking myself.

"No, I have not become a member of the anti-meat club. I will tell you why. I am on the road for a month in every year. During that time the firm pays my expenses. Now, you see, I may not eat meat after my return to Cleveland. Who knows? The sentiment may be so strong that it will be ruinous to a citizen's popularity to be seen seated in front of a steak. Therefore I am eating steak while the eating is good.

"When I return to my home I would not be in the least surprised if I became a leading member of the anti-meat-eaters' club.

"I have a wife and three children. Two of them are boys. You ought to see them eat meat. I wonder if it is good for them. Maybe they shouldn't eat so much meat, eh? Perhaps it would be best if I were to become an anti-meat agitator. I will seriously consider the matter—when I begin hating the butcher again."

And as the newspaper man trailed out of the cafe, he saw the Cleveland man attack the steak with determined knife.

MAYOR HAVEN'S MOTHER ILL

Candidate Is Compelled to Almost Entirely Neglect His Campaign.

Mayor Haven's mother, who has been making her home with him at 2821 West Third street, has been seriously ill for several weeks, making it almost impossible for the mayor to attend to his campaign.

Several nights a week he has been compelled to stay up all night, and has been coming to his office in the morning without a wink of sleep. The strain is beginning to tell on him, and his friends are advising him to take a rest, fearing that he may have a breakdown.

His campaign manager said this morning that because of his mother's illness the mayor has been unable to call on many men whom he would otherwise have seen. The situation is unfortunate, but the mayor and his assistants are making the best of it.

FILIPINO CHIEF IS CAPTURED

Murder of Americans Is Said to Have Been Part of Religious Practice.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Ayhao, leader of the band of Filipinos who murdered Tilden R. Wakeley of Chicago and H. D. Everett in May, 1908, and three of their companions, have been captured by the constabulary, according to information received today by Ebenezer Wakeley, father of one of the murdered men, from the bureau of insular affairs. Two of the band had been captured previously, making a total of six now in custody.

Mr. Everett, who was a government forester, and Mr. Wakeley, a teacher, were killed by Ayhao and his relatives while making a forest map of the southern part of the island of Negros. Three Filipinos who accompanied them also were killed.

In a report made by Lieut. Charles Schreiner, who was in charge of the constabularly when the first two members of the band were captured, the statement was made that the primary cause of the murder probably was fanaticism and not robbery. It appears that one of Ayhao's wives died a few days before Wakeley and Everett reached the scene of their deaths. It is said to be a custom that the natives in that section believe they must kill someone else before they can bury the body of a dead relative. It is believed that the Americans were killed for that reason.

TALK OF RATES ALONG WATERWAYS

Commissioners Split on Question of Minimum Tariffs ou Roads.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Recommendations as to a general federal policy toward the improvement of rivers, harbors and canals, based upon investigations that have been conducted in this and foreign countries for a couple of years, will be made to congress by the United States national waterways commission in a report to be submitted Monday.

The one important question upon which the commission split, it is understood, was as to whether there should be federal control over rates on railroads competing with transportation lines on inland waterways. Some members of the commission contended that the interstate commerce commission should be given power to fix a minimum rate to be charged by the parallel railroads in cases where it was evident that the rail rates were reduced to draw business away from the water routes. Others opposed such legislation.

Upon the final vote, it is understood, the large majority of the members favored laws to give added power to the interstate commerce commission.

CHEER TROOPS FROM MELILLA

People of Madrid Give Hearty Welcome to Returning Soldiers.

Madrid, Jan. 22.—The Spanish troops returning from Melilla were given a cordial welcome when they entered the city today. Madrid was gaily decked with the national colors, and along the line of march thousands gave expression to their satisfaction that the Moroccan war had been brought to an end. Passing the palace the troops were reviewed by King Alfonso and others of the royal family.

Came Near Choking to Death.

A little boy, the son of Chris D. Peterson, a well-known resident of the village of Jacksonville, Iowa, had a sudden and violent attack of croup. MINERS PROTEST LEWIS' ELECTION

Charges of Railroading Tellers' Report Are Made in Convention.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—Questions of the regularity of the election of international officers of the United Mine Workers of North America were agitated in the convention today by the anti-Lewis party. The "insurgents" charged that the administration "railroaded" confirmation of the tellers' report.

Thomas Haggerty of Hazelton, Pa., Frances Feehan, president of the Pittsburg district, and other supporters of the defeated candidate for the presidency, William Green of Ohio, protested that the new officers had been declared elected without opportunity having been given to present the contention that the votes of numerous local unions were of questionable validity.

John H. Walker, president-elect of the Illinois district, declared that the convention had no opportunity to act on the report of the tellers, and that the administration, despite all precedent, had interpreted the constitution to confer supreme authority on the tellers.

AMERICA GETS FOURTH OF LOAN

Hankow Scze Cluen Railway Affair Is Adjusted Among the Powers.

New York, Jan. 22.—A settlement has finally been reached regarding the Hankow Sczé Chien railway loan of $30,000,000, it was reported in banking circles today, and the allotment of bonds will be announced in the near future.

England, France, Germany and the United States are each to share a one-quarter interest, or $7,500,000 of the loan.

J. P. Morgan & Co., who are representing the American syndicate in the negotiations, have, it is said, agreed to reimburse the Macy-Hawley syndicate, which held the original concession from the Chinese government, for all actual outlays heretofore made in cash, and give the Macy-Hawley syndicate a substantial interest in the new loan.

NEW SEWER EXPENSIVE

Line From Hunter's Park to Lake Will Cost $138,-352.50.

Sewer Was First Platted By City Engineer in April, 1894.

Estimates for the most expensive sewer ever planned in Duluth were compiled today in the office of the city engineer, when figures of the estimated cost of the Woodland sewer were finished. Probably no other improvement has been hanging fire for the same length of time, records in the office showing that the matter was started and the plat approved by the city council in April, 1894.

The cost will be approximately $138,-352.50. The sewer will be over two miles in length, covering a vast territory, starting at the northern end of Hunter's Park and winding its way to the lake at the foot of Thirty-eighth avenue east. It is estimated that it will take $40,800 to remove the rock alone, and $24,400 to excavate the dirt. The sewer will be entirely of concrete and will be four feet six inches in diameter. Tischer's creek will be crossed in the first concrete frost box used in Duluth, which will cost about $5,000.

Thus far the most expensive sewer in the city is in Michigan street from Second avenue east to Eighth avenue west. It was built in 1887 at a cost of over $70,000.

STRANGE COMET IS PLAINLY SEEN

Sky Wanderer Excites the Interest of Many Duluthians.

Many Duluthians have been interested in the comet which has been visible at sundown for a few evenings and there has been much conjecture concerning it. The comet which was visible last evening and the night before is not the noted Halley's comet as has been thought by many. The comet appeared in the west just after the setting of the sun and was visible for nearly three-quarters of an hour. From the head to the end of the tail was about 5 deg. with the star about the size of Venus. Halley's comet is not due until April and one of the strange features of the one now visible is its unannounced appearance. The supposition has been advanced that the orbit is of such immense proportions that it was 2,000 or 3,000 years ago since it last appeared, and so no record of its former appearance exist.

WOULD PREVENT CHICAGO MERGER

Stockholder in Street Railway Sues Morgan and Other Capitalists.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Clarence H. Venner of New York brought suit in the circuit court today to enjoin the proposed merger of several South side street railways under the title of the Chicago City and connecting railways. J. Pierpont Morgan and other New York and Chicago capitalists are made the defendants.

Venner brought the suit as a stockholder of the Chicago City Railway company. He avers that J. P. Morgan & Co. have been attempting to effect with $62,000,000, a merger of all public utility corporations in Chicago, contrary to the law and in violation of his rights as stockholder.

CAN BORROW FUND OF $100,000,000

Manchurian Railroad Loan Is Authorized By the Mikado.

Tokio, Jan. 22.—Almost simultaneously with the delivery of Japan's negative reply to the United States proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways, the emperor issued a significant rescript authorizing the South Manchurian Railway company to borrow a sum of money equal to double its paid-in capital, but not exceeding the total capital.

This means that the South Manchurian road, whose total capital is $100,000,000, of which $62,000,000 has been paid in, can borrow $100,000,000.

It is understood that $20,000,000 will be borrowed immediately and devoted to the rapid development of the Antung-Mukden line and the improvement of Port Arthur as a great commercial port.

DEBT IS REDUCED.

Bazar Helps Finances of the St. Josephat Polish Catholic Church.

The St. Josephat Polish Catholic church, corner Third avenue east and Fifth street has reduced its church debt $2,560 through the proceeds of the church bazar held last fall, and contributions from local business men and others. The campaign to wipe out the debt has been very energetically managed by Father Ryczek, who is confident that all the indebtedness will be paid within the next few years. Much headway has already been made during the two years that Father Ryczek has been with the church, the past year being an especially prosperous one for the church. Both Father Ryczek and the congregation are deeply grateful to all who have assisted in raising the church debt. On Feb. 6, the church will hold a festival.

BAD ROADS KEEP PEOPLE IN CITIES

Secretary Knox Advances That Theory Before the House Committee.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Secretary Knox believes that the congestion of population in great cities is caused in large part by the lack of good roads in this country. He told the house committee on foreign affairs that the reason France was the best agricultural country in the world was because she had had good roads so long. Said he:

"The agricultural population of France does not have to spend its money in repairing vehicles and harness every winter. I think it has improved the attractiveness of rural life. I think it has caused the population to remain on the soil more than any other country. You do not find that tendency to urban population in France and England that you do in this country."

For International Work.

The subject came up in connection with the consideration for an appropriation for the participation of the United States in the "permanent association of road congresses," an international affair, and the secretary seized the opportunity to declare his interest in good roads. He also made the interesting statement that automobiles were working havoc with roads generally.

"All of you who have traveled in France in the last year or two know that their roads are wearing out," Mr. Knox said. "The automobiles have destroyed the surfaces of the French roads and the French government is anxious to co-operate with the other powers to see if some new methods cannot be devised for the protection of roads that will meet the demands upon them."

The secretary succeeded in getting the appropriation.

CANDIDATES RUSH TO FILE CERTIFICATES.

The office of the city clerk was besieged the first two hours this morning by candidates for office at the election Feb. 1 who want to get their names on the ballot. They had neglected to file their certificates of nomination with the auditor and to bring the auditor's receipt to the city clerk. Had they not done so before 4 o'clock, their names would have been left off the official ballot. Under the law there is no way in which they could do so after that time.

Each road will take up the question with its own men.

The meetings of the last few days were arranged with no expectation on either side that conclusive results would be attained.

Senator Clark of Wyoming, chairman of the committee on judiclary and head of the subcommittee to which all of the nominations were referred, has agreed that action should be delayed until evidence could be filed. Judge Hunt, now on the federal bench in Montana, was governor of Porto Rico.

WAR SPIRIT IS IN FULL SWING

No Pretense of Conciliation Is Being Made in Nicaragua.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 22.—All pretense of conciliating the various political factions has been abandoned since the rejuvenescence of the Conservative party, the recognized opposition to the administration of President Madriz. The party in power, now designated the Liberal party, appears to be dominated by the representatives from Leon.

Minister General Baca today sent a message to congress requesting the adoption of a measure legalizing the paper money issued by the unsuccessful revolutionary party of 1896, of which Baca was the provisional president and Madriz his chief lieutenant. Baca also asks that persons be granted to the revolutionists who were involved and to the families of the revolutionists killed in that uprising.

It is said the chief Masonic lodge of Nicaragua has asked for the punishment of Gen. Medina in retaliation for the shooting of the American, Groce, who was a member of the order.

BIG RAILROAD CONTRACT.

Awarded By Northwestern Road to Build Milwaukee Belt Line.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—The Thomas Marsh Construction company of Wisconsin has been awarded the $8,000,000 grading contract for construction of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad's belt line around Milwaukee on the main line between Chicago and the Twin Cities. The work is to be completed within two years.

The Cleary & White Construction company, also of Wisconsin, got the $2,000,000 contract for cement construction. Both concerns will make their headquarters in Milwaukee, and so far as possible draw upon Milwaukee for laborers and materials. The new line will be double tracked.

It will do much to relieve both passenger and freight congestion, and thus aid in the industrial development of the city.

LOGGER IS KILLED.

Ray McDonald Loses Life Near Northome, Unloading Logs.

Northome, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A stranger by the name of Ray McDonald met his death Wednesday morning while unloading logs for E. O. Moore & Co. at Wilcox Bros.' spur. He was struck on the head and instantly killed. He is said to have come from Michigan, and was about 26 years of age. The body was removed to Collar's undertaking rooms to await information as to his friends, and if no one is reached he will be buried by the county officers.

ST. CLOUD SHOPS IN NEED OF MORE MEN.

St. Cloud Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Lindt of the Great Northern car shops is kept busy these days hunting up men to meet the demands of the general office. Since the shops started up after a two days' layoff on account of the strike, the force has been increased nearly every week, and Thursday night orders were sent up from St. Paul to put thirty more men at work at once. Among the rush orders was one to fit up 100 big furniture cars with extra wide doors to be used in shipping automobiles. There are 100 more of the "dinky" cabooses to lengthen out to meet the requirements of the law, and a number of work trains are being put in condition.

DULUTH HUSÅ FACTS

The Husa Copper Mines of Jentland, Sweden, are Owned By the Duluth-Husa Copper Mines Co., of 218 West Superior Street, Duluth, Minn.

These mines are nineteen in number and they comprise an area of over 5,000 acres, 3,000 of which are heavily wooded. The company owns sufficient water power for all purposes, making it entirely independent of mineral fuel, and mining operations can be carried on in Sweden by this company for less than a third of what it would cost it to do the same kind of work in the western part of the United States. Prominent mining engineers of Sweden, Norway, Germany, Austria, England and the United States are agreed in their reports on the famous Husa mines. Two of them are here quoted:

DR. GUSTAF BESCOW, an eminent Swedish authority on mines, writes of the Husa group:

"A knowledge founded on long experience has not only strengthened the conviction entertained from the first that there are great deposits of ore in this locality, but even demonstrated that these deposits are such that they might be called inexhaustible." The same authority again writes of the Husa mines:

"It seems that the conclusion is justified that there is no danger of exhausting this stock of ore under any circumstances."

ENGINEER DWIGHT E. WOODBRIDGE visited the Husa mines last summer, and from his report thereon the following is taken:

"You are not far from a deep sea port on the Atlantic, and once there your ore is in direct connection at a very low freight rate with the great copper reduction centers of Belgium, Germany and England. Those who are not conversant with these ocean freight matters can have no conception of how low they are. I could give you example after example. Doubtless you will not smelt Husa ore yourself, at least not at first. You will ship to some smelting center. You will ship the concentrated ore, running high in copper, so the freight rate per pound of copper will be almost infinitesimal, and you will be entirely independent of imported fuel for mining operations with your abundant water power close at hand. I am periectly safe in saying that freight from Trondjem, your port, to those countries mentioned will not be more than three or four shillings per ton, probably the former is ample.

"In reference to those works in Europe, in a position to buy and treat copper concentrates and raw ores, I will state that there are many such concerns, notable among them being the Vivians of Wales. There are others in Wales, and a number in Antwerp, Ghent and Brussels; also in Germany, where the Mansfield Copper company is not only smelting its own ores, but is in the market for additional supplies. You may rest assured that, the ore once mined and sent to these ports, there will be no difficulty in getting it sold or reduced to metallic form at a reasonable charge."

The Duluth-Husa Copper Mines company is now offering 20,000 shares of its treasury stock for the purpose of equipping with modern machinery. If you are interested, call or write for further information.

NECK BROKEN BY THE FALL

Duluth Man Is Found Dead in the Cellar of His Home.

Peter N. Johnson of 319 South Sixteenth avenue east, was found by his wife at the foot of the cellar stairs last evening, with a broken neck. Death had evidently been instantaneous.

Mrs. Johnson had been entertaining some friends and not wishing to disturb them, it appears that Johnson had remained in the kitchen. For some reason he went to the cellar. It is believed that he stumbled at the top of the stairs and pitched head foremost to the bottom. A physician was summoned, but he was unable to do anything for him.

Johnson was a stone mason by trade and had lived in Duluth for a number of years. He has done considerable contracting work.

VOTERS GETTING NAMES ON BOOKS

Indications Are That Registration for Last Day Will Be Heavy.

Voters are coming out in fair numbers to register, according to several candidates this morning. There has been no rush, but they state that from the indications the total will be swelled higher tonight than had been looked for several days ago. Interest in political matters is being renewed. The candidates have been doing much work the last week and the importance of the amendments which are to be voted upon at the general election, Feb. 1, has induced many to register who would not otherwise do so. By many the amendments are placed above the candidates.

Those who can do so are urged to get to the polls during the day to avoid possible congestion tonight. The booths opened at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 9 o'clock tonight. The two registration days have brought out 6,242 voters, while the normal registration is about 11,000.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

THE WEST END IS ENJOYING A PERIOD OF GREAT BUILDING ACTIVITY

THE NEW NORDSTROM FLATS, NINETEENTH AVENUE WEST AND FIRST STREET, JUST COMPLETED AT A COST OF $12,000.

That 1910 will be a record-breaking year in home-building at the West end is the prediction of realty men, contractors, and others who are in touch with the situation. Already many new buildings have been started and some are now nearing completion. Many business blocks are expected to go up during the next twelve months.

A new type of the flat buildings that are being erected in the western end of the city, is the six-flat building, which has just been completed at Nineteenth avenue west and First street. The owner is Victor Nordstrom. The new building is a three-story structure and was built of pressed brick at at cost of $12,000 by Contractor J. Jacobson.

The new flat building will be ready for occupancy in about two weeks. Such buildings have always been in demand with people who rent homes and it is understood that Mr. Nordstrom already has had many applications for flats in the building.

Dr. L. Q. Greeley is having plans drawn for a four-flat building, which he will erect this winter on Twenty-third avenue west between Third and Fourth, streets. The new structure will be a two-story brick flat and will cost about $8,500. The contract will be let about Feb. 1. It is expected that the flats will be ready for occupancy about May 1.

In residence building, it is expected that the most activity will be along West Third street, although Second street will claim a large share of the new homes during the coming year. On Third street the prices of property have advanced and frontage on the street is in demand.

It is intimated that there will be considerable building along West Superior street this year. The Nelson Bros. Knitting company will erect a $25,000 fireproof brick office and factory building on the site now holding their present location at Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street. It will be a two-story building and with a thirty-foot frontage, running 140 feet back to the alley. It will be completed in the early summer.

The J. J. Moe & Sons company, which conducts the large department store in the western end of the city, is planning on the erection of a new building at the West end this year. J. J. Moe has stated that while the company is entertaining plans to this effect, that nothing of a definite nature has yet formulated. The firm is negotiating for a frontage of 100 feet along Superior street.

It is also rumored that the West End Automobile company may erect a new garage on the lower side of Superior street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues west. The building will be of brick and concrete, the floors of which will be supported by steel. The contract has not yet been let. It is understood that the new building will cost about $10,000.

If the plans of the congregations of the West end churches do not fail to materialize, the coming year will see more new churches erected in the western end of the city than ever before during one year. No less than four are to be built this year.

The congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, which now occupies an old wooden structure at Nineteenth avenue west and First street, has completed the basement of a new church on the southwest corner of Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The contract for the superstructure will be let this month. It will cost $20,000 and will be completed some time during the summer.

The Seventh Day Adventists have purchased a lot and have made arrangements to build at Twenty-second avenue west and Fourth street. The new church will be of a modern type and will cost close to $10,000. Work will begin before spring. The officials of the Grace M. E. and Second Presbyterian churches have also announced that new buildings would be started this year.

There is also a possibility of a new hospital being erected at the West end this year by the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran churches of the Lake Superior district. Plans for an institution of this kind, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, are being considered, although the matter of choosing a site still rests in the hands of a special committee.

It is understood that the Scandinavian Help and Aid society of the West end is planning on the erection of a new hall on Twenty-first avenue west, between Superior and First streets, in the near future. The West end order of Good Templars, it is understood, will build this year on West Second street.

E. A. Smith, who has purchased a lot on the upper side of West Third street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west, will build a modern residence on the property this spring. It will cost in the neighborhood of $4,500. Mr. Smith expects to have it completed about May 1. Excavations for the new building will commence next week.

Officers Installed.

Rice's Point Lodge, No. 80, A. O. U. W., held its annual installation of officers, Thursday evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. A large class of candidates was also taken into the order.

Luther J. Bush, the retiring president, was presented with a beautiful watch charm. J. W. Cummings made the presentation speech. After the ceremonies a smoker followed. The officers who were installed during the evening were: L. J. Bush, past master workman; Nick Borgenson, master workman; Joseph Miller, foreman; A. A. Weyman, recorder; W. H. Leonard, financier; Max Gottschald, receiver; Edmund La Jay, guide; J. W. Cummings, night watchman.

Clyde Iron Works Gets Contract for Steel Plant Machinery.

The contract for four large electric hoisting engines and derricks, to be used in the construction work on the steel plant site at Spirit Lake, has been let to the Clyde Iron Works, Twenty-ninth avenue west and Michigan street.

The hoisting engines will be constructed of steel and will be operated by electricity. The contract also calls for four large derricks. It is understood that the work will be completed by the foundry men about March 1.

The awarding of this contract is taken as evidence of the fact that there will be early activity in the actual construction of the plant.

CHILD'S HAND IS CUT BY AN AX.

While playing with his older sister, the 18-months'-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Nelson of 2411 West Seventh street had the fingers of his left hand nearly severed by an ax yesterday.

A West end physician, who is attending the case says that he thinks that he can save the three fingers that were badly cut. The little boy accidently got his hands in the way, when his sister dropped an ax.

French Club Meets.

Clark the $20,000 the latter claimed for services in acting as "publicity agent" and calling attention in the press columns to Mr. Chanler's claims for consideration as a Democratic presidential candidate in 1907. BANDITS RUN AWAY WITH PART OF MISSOURI TRAIN all the efforts of the robbers to open it with jimmies and crowbars and they did not attempt to use an explosive.

Two of the bandits boarded the train at Pacific, nine miles west of Eureka at 10:15 o'clock. The other two flagged the train a mile East of Eureka in a lonely spot, with red lanterns.

As the train slowed down, the two on board climbed over the tender and covered the engineer and fireman. The engine, mail coach and combination baggage and express cars were cut off, after the express messengers and mail clerks had been ordered from their cars. F. E. Beeton, the baggage clerk, hesitated about leaving his car and a bullet carried away his hat and a lock of his hair.

Ran Off With Cars.

With one of the robbers at the throttle, the engine and two cars ran to Castlewood, six miles distant, where the four took their time about rifling the mail.

The water was let out of the boiler and the engineer and fireman were ordered to walk East for fifteen minutes under threat of instant death. The quartette then disappeared into the woods.

The stranded passenger coaches, three in number, lay on the main line until 2 o'clock this morning, when they, together with the engine and baggage and express cars, were brought into St. Louis by a freight train. The engine and the two cars with it were not located until the engineer and fireman ran the six miles back to it, after getting their orders from the highwaymen.

Intimidated by Shots.

E. J. Karn of Toledo, Ohio, one of the passengers on the train, said when he arrived in St. Louis this morning:

"We heard shots and then the engine stopped. The conductor came running into the car and said: 'It's a holdup! Sure!'

"Some of us stuck our heads out of the windows, but several bullets went whizzing by. We found it convenient to stay inside."

ONE.

Section 362a. The cost of grading, paving and otherwise improving the intersection of streets, avenues and alleys with other streets, avenues and alleys shall be paid by general taxation, and no assessments for benefits for any such improvements shall ever be made. AMEND THE CHARTER BY ADDING AT THE END OF SECTION 64 THE FOLLOWING SECTION:

Section 64a. In addition to the other powers granted it by this charter, the Common Council shall have the power, by a two-thirds vote of all its members, whenever funds are available for the purpose, to cause to be constructed in any of the streets, avenues, alleys and public places of the city, storm sewers for the purpose of carrying off the surplus water upon and draining such streets, avenues, alleys and public places and the territory adjacent thereto, and preventing damage to persons and property by floods and washouts. Before causing any such storm sewer to be constructed and before deciding upon the location, size or character thereof, the common council shall cause a careful survey of the territory proposed to be drained to be made by the engineering department of the city, and shall secure the approval in writing of the city engineer or the officer in charge of the engineering department, to the location and plans of the sewer so proposed to be constructed.

The work of constructing any such storm sewer may be done in connection with the work of improving the street in which the same is located or independent thereof. The cost of constructing and maintaining all such storm sewers shall be paid out of the Street Intersection and Storm Sewer Fund established at the time of the adoption of this amendment, and no assessment for benefits for any such improvement shall ever be made.

That Section 284 of the Charter be amended by adding to the end thereof the following:

Eighteenth: There shall also be a Street Intersection and Storm Sewer Fund out of which shall be paid the cost of improving the intersections of streets, avenues and alleys with other streets, avenues and alleys and out of which shall also be paid the cost of constructing and maintaining all such storm sewers as shall be constructed pursuant to the provisions of Section 362a, adopted with this amendment. The common council shall annually levy for the support of this fund a tax of not to exceed two (2) mills on the taxable property of the city. No money shall be paid out of this fund for any purpose, except for the improvement of street intersections and the construction and maintenance of storm sewers as herein provided.

"Eighty-seventh.—To regulate the use of streets, avenues and alleys by vehicles, and to impose upon vehicles a tax or fee for the privilege of using the streets, avenues and alleys of the city, the proceeds of which tax or fee shall be used solely for the maintenance and repair of streets, avenues and alleys."

THREE.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CAPT. BLISS HAS BEEN RELIEVED

Virginia School Board's Purchasing Agent Is Blamed for Friction.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Levi R. James, who some months ago was engaged as purchasing agent by the Independent school district, resigned at a meeting of the board last night. Since the appointment of Capt. James the board has been considerably criticised, and as a result the attorney general was appealed to. He decided that there was no legal authority for the board employing such agent outside the membership of the board. The discharge of Capt. James will undoubtedly end the long drawn out controversy between the board, the school faculty and the captain himself. After his appointment, and also previously, Capt. James installed himself in the library room of the Roosevelt high school, where, it is said, upon pretext of examining the books of the district, he used the room as an office, receiving visitors, talking loud and smoking and spitting upon the floor, driving out teacher and students who wished to come there to study. This caused Supt. Bliss to write an open letter to W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, in which he scored Capt. James and his tactics in no uncertain terms. Capt. James posed as a representative of the Steel corporation and is reported to have said that he was here to protect their interests. For a number of months he had attended meetings of the school board and endeavored to block every project for improvement and progressiveness. When the building of the new technical high school was proposed by the board, Capt. James sought to block the project, and even went so far as to accuse Supt. Bliss and certain members of the board with graft in the affairs of the school. The question of building the technical school was submitted to the officials of the Steel corporation, who visited Virginia, looked over the situation, went back home and later wrote the board that it was their opinion that such a school was needed in Virginia. Since his defeat in this Capt. James is alleged to have continued to work against the proposition.

Capt. James is said to have gone to the homes of members of the school board and parents of pupils and made statements against Supt. Bliss that cannot be proven at any stage.

GILBERT SPENDS A LARGE AMOUNT

Total Water Improvements Will Be About $100,000.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company has resumed work on the water works for the Sparta addition.

The New Jersey avenue line has been surveyed and the trench is being opened this week and a 10-inch main will be laid down this avenue from Summitt avenue. The company will also construct a 12-inch water main down New Jersey avenue to Summitt avenue, from the water tower now nearing completion. The main on New Jersey avenue will extend below Broadway street. Another line is being run from Summitt avenue down Ohio avenue to First court.

In addition to these expenditures the Oliver Iron Mining company will do some additional work next spring in the way of grading streets and constructing sewers in this end of the village. The company will spend about $25,000 in addition to what has already been spent in bringing the water from the Genoa mine two miles distant, at a cost of over $25,000.

The H. L. Bartlett company have almost completed their first contract with the village for the construction of water mains on Minnesota and Summitt avenues. The contract price was $25,000. The total amount for water improvements will reach $100,000.

A special election will be held on Feb. 4 to determine whether Gilbert shall be bonded for $15,000 for a further extension of the water system, and for the purpose of constructing an electric lighting system. The village will no doubt return a heavy majority in favor of the project.

LOW LAND PRICES WILL DRAW MANY

Itasca County Looking for Large Settlement This Year.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Schumacher of the manual training department of the public schools, has returned from a visit with relatives in Wisconsin and at Sioux Falls, S. D., more convinced than ever that this section will be settled up with a family on every quarter section of land. Mr. Schumacher says that the lands where he was are selling for as high as $250 per acre, where only ten or twelve years ago $25 per acre was considered a big price. The low price of lands in this section is bound to attract the attention of the homeseekers, with a resulting land boom.

CHISHOLM HERALD HAS VERY DISASTROUS FIRE.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An over-heated chimney in the building occupied by the Chisholm Herald, caused a fire resulting in a loss estimated at about $1,000 on the building, owned by W. A. Master, and about the same amount on the newspaper plant, owned by J. A. O'Leary early yesterday.

The building was erected for temporary occupancy just after the 1908 fire and during the cold weather the Herald had been printed in the Chisholm Tribune building, so that building was not as largely supplied with machinery and supplies as would ordinarily have been the case. The fire will not interfere with getting out the Herald, owing to the accommodation afforded by the Tribune.

CHISHOLM MOURNS.

Unexpected Death of Former Resident in Duluth Is Shock.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is general regret here over the announcement of the death in St. Luke's hospital of C. A. Nyquist, formerly proprietor of the Chisholm Plumbing & Heating company, who left here only a few days ago to make his home in Duluth. Mr. Nyquist leaves a widow and one son, a child of 11 years. When in Chisholm the family lived in the Dandrea house, near the corner of First avenue and Pine street.

Mr. Nyquist was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

DANIEL ROSS' FUNERAL.

Large Outpouring to Pay the Final Tribute at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Daniel E. Ross was held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, with many friends of the deceased from Eveleth and nearby towns in attendance. The funeral services were read by Rev. P. A. Shwarz, pastor of the church. Special music was sung by the Knights of Pythias' quartet, recently formed for the occasion.

The entire body of the local Knights of Pythias and the Eveleth Curling club were in attendance. Many Elks, which body Mr. Ross contemplated joining shortly before his fatal illness, were present.

Immediately after the services the body was escorted to the depot and shipped on the noon train for Somerside, Can., accompanied by William Ross of Roxbury, Mass., a brother of the deceased. Daniel Ross of Duluth, a cousin of the deceased, was also present.

The pallbearers were Burton Kingston, William Phillips, James Crane, J. McInnis Paul Kurtsman and Ed O'Connor, all close mining friends of the deceased. The honorary pallbearers were George Dorman, F. J. Webb, Capt. William White, Capt. R. R. Trezona, T. F. Flannigan and Ralph Knight.

GILBERT LIKED SULLIVAN.

Pleased That Popular Mining Official Has Been Returned.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. Sullivan, who was promoted to the Chisholm territory by the Oliver Iron Mining company when T. J. Godfrey was advanced to the superintendency of the Coleraine district upon the resignation of John C. Greenway, has been reappointed superintendent of the Gilbert and Genoa mines, on account of a change of the companies' plans whereby Mr. Greenway resumes his former position. The people of this community are highly elated over the return of Mr. Sullivan, as he is one of the old residents of Sparta and is one of the most popular mining men of the Minnesota ranges.

SAVED BY CHEMICAL.

Quickness of Gilbert Fire Chief Prevents Disastrous Blaze.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general store building of Gust Rain was threatened with destruction by fire the first of the week as the result of the overturning of a kerosene lamp. The room was wrapped in flames when Fire Chief Cosgrove arrived with his chemical engine and succeeded in checking the flames without the use of water. But for the use of chemicals, the entire street might have been destroyed by fire, as there is no water service at the present time, although the work is being rushed by the water and sewer contractors. The damage was about $200.

They came here several days ago from Duluth and were stopping at the Chicago restaurant when arrested. Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An action has been started in district court by A. L. La Freniere, publisher of the Independent, to compel the county commissioners to accept the bid of the Independent for doing the county publishing for the coming year on the grounds that the Independent's bid is the lowest offered.

Arguments were heard and affidavits submitted in the matter before Judge Stanton. James A. Wharton, an attorney of Duluth, is representing the Independent.

the Duluth branch of the Women's International Union Label league, believe that the high prices of foods, especially meats, are artificial and are not based on trade conditions and economic facts; that the laws of trade are ignored or stifled; and that prices are arbitrarily fixed by a combination of packers who control the supply of meats.

"We believe that an intolerable situation should be remedied and we are of the opinion that an adequate and efficacious remedy can be applied only by the ultimate consumer. It has come to our attention that thousands of men and woman in other cities have agreed to abstain from eating meat for a period of from two weeks to sixty days, believing that by so doing the prices of meats will be forced downward.

For Two Weeks.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That we, the members of the Women's International Union Label league, in Duluth, agree not to purchase meats of any description for two weeks, beginning Monday, Jan. 31, and ending Monday, Feb. 14."

These measures have been taken by organizations and citizens in many towns throughout the country, with the result that in less than three days meat prices have slumped in Ohio and other states. In Milwaukee porterhouse steaks sold today at 10 cents a pound. In Duluth porterhouse is retailing at between 30 and 35 cents.

Will Call on Legislature.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The revolt against the high prices of food took tangible form here today. T. Apmadoc, a state senator, announced he would move for a legislative inquiry into the subject.

"At the reopening of the session Tuesday," said Mr. Apmadoc, "I will introduce a resolution providing that a commission be appointed to investigate the cause of the high prices of food."

Cleveland Has 100,000 Pledged.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—From an idle jest in the lunch room of a big manufactory here last week, the Cleveland strike against the eating of meat has grown to huge proportions. One hundred thousand people in Cleveland have now pledged themselves to abstain from meat-eating for thirty days.

The Ohio legislature is the only state body, so far to take on the question. A committee to investigate the cost of meats will open its session next week.

Practically every minor city in Ohio has taken up the movement. Lorain, New Philadelphia and Bellefontaine being added to the list. In Canton, F. E. Board, a retail meat dealer, declares that the representatives of four great packing houses have served notice that if the price is cut in Ohio as a result of agitation, the packers will deal in other states. No similar threat is reported in Cleveland.

Prices Are Falling.

Since the inception of the strike, beef, lamb and pork have dropped in price, but further reduction is modified by the fact that farmers have stopped their shipments into town. Beef declined 15 cents wholesale yesterday, and lamb 10 cents today.

Ten thousand householders are reported to have signed petitions against the eating of eggs until the price has dropped from 48 cents a dozen, retail, to 25 cents.

Retail butchers have been compelled to cut down their working force from one-third to one-half, and several have now retired from business.

Porterhouse 10 Cents.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 22.—Porterhouse steak 10 cents a pound.
Sirloin steak 10 cents a pound.
Pork steak 14 cents a pound.
Veal steak 7 cents a pound.

These are some of the astounding prices quoted in advertisements in a Milwaukee newspaper by two retail butchers who have responded to the agitation of a meat strike in Milwaukee. One advertisement is headed: "Meat is coming down," and the prices are far below those quoted for months past.

A resolution will be introduced in the common council at its next meeting to investigate meat prices, and a mass meeting has been called by the federal trades council for Feb. 15 to consider and take action against high prices of food products.

Report Less Demand.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 22.—While there has thus far been no concerted movement in Rhode Island looking toward a boycott of meat, dealers state that the demand has fallen off considerably.

Sell More Vegetables.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 22.—Farmers and dealers today reported an increased sale of vegetables in consequence of the meat boycott inaugurated by working men. The determination to eat less meat is spreading throughout this section of Pennsylvania.

Wholesale Men Ridicule It.

New York, Jan. 22.—Wholesale meat dealers are inclined to ridicule the meat boycott movement. Representatives of Swift & Co., Morris & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company declined to be quoted, but took the attitude of laughing the whole matter down. Retail dealers, on the contrary, said that as far as they are concerned, the boycott seemed already on. Their sales have fallen off 50 per cent in the past fortnight.

Joseph Conron, president of a large firm of wholesale dealers said: "All the food products are high, but the whole thing is natural. When the supply increases our prices will go down. Prices are not artificial and cannot be in this business. Of course, this boycott idea, if it goes into effect, will mean a drop in prices; but we don't believe it is going into effect."

Highest in Years.

On the other hand, representative dealers spoke as follows:

"The price of beef has never been so high for many years. Years ago when beef was high the people bought eggs or poultry. They can't do that now, when roasting chickens bring 20 cents, friessee chickens 17 and 18 cents and soup fowls 12 to 14 cents.

"Buying has fallen off just one-half. It will fall further if prices don't go down. Pork is phenomenally high, and it looks as if it would go higher. Pork tenderloins are 30 cents wholesale and 35 cents retail. If this situation continues, many dealers will be forced out of business and the trust will run its open shops. We are simply clerks for the trust now."

Seine continues to rise rapidly. It is expected that the river will reach its maxium flood tomorrow.

There is sixty-one feet of water in the new subway between Place de La Concorde and Passage de la Trinite. A portion of the Boulevard of St. Germain above the subway has caved in. Hundreds of factories have been inundated.

Twelve Killed in Belgium.

Charlerol, Belgium, Jan. 22.—A large building in the course of construction near the viaduct, the foundations of which had been weakened by the rain, fell today, burying the workmen in the ruins. Twelve men were killed and a score of others injured.

appears pronounced enough. Turnovers of 3,000 to 4,000 votes from the Liberals to the Unionists are common.

Tariff Reform Man Wins.

Henry Chaplin, who was regarded as the arch-priest of tariff reform before Chamberlain took the field, was reelected for the Wimbledon division of Surrey by more than 5,200 majority. This is not so great as his previous majority, but Chaplin's opponent in 1907 was a woman's suffragist, who was unable to poll a great part of the Liberal vote.

The Unionists stoutly claim that the result is a victory for tariff reform. The Liberals deny it stubbornly. They declare that the feudal status of the counties is responsible for the Conservative gains and charge the triumvirate—the landlords, the church and the publicans—with overawing their dependants and followers by practicing widespread intimidation and threatening them with less work.

With the opposition point of view, the Conservatism of the counties is due to the loyalty of the people to the house of lords, their fear of socialism and a desire for protection.

The home rule question, with the Nationalists the dominant party in the alliance in the new parliament, will become invested with an importance it has not held during the campaign, when it was kept in the background.

HORROR OF CANADIAN PACIFIC CATASTROPHE

swath in the twelve inches thickness of ice which covered the river. Even if any persons succeeded in breaking through a window they were almost surely trapped under the ice, and never had a chance for their lives. This is true of half of the second-class car, the colonist car and the first-class car, from which only two are known to have escaped.

Coach Split in Two.

From reasons not yet ascertained, the trucks of the second-class coach jumped the track. The coach struck the bridge abutment and was split in two as clean as though with a huge cleaver.

The momentum of the train carried the half of the second-class coach with passengers, the colonist car, first-class car and dining car on their trucks, down the bank and into the river. The Pullman fell over on its side, near the tracks.

Caught like rats in a trap, every passenger on the half of the second-class coach, colonist car and first-class coach, was drowned, and only the most heroic efforts saved eight persons from the diner.

Conductor Is Hero.

In the dining car occurred one of the greatest struggles. The first call for dinner had just been made and Conductor Tommy Reynolds of North Bay was one of the diners. With him was W. J. Bell, a lumberman of Sudbury, David Brodie, police magistrate of the district of Sudbury, and several others. In an instant, all were submerged above their heads.

Reynolds exhorted his passengers to hang onto the hat racks, chandeliers and other projections, and diving down in the ice-chilled waters, broke through the windows and emerged on the outside of the car.

By the merest chance the car had listed sufficiently to allow him to get up between the ice and the car. Mounting the roof, he reached in and pulled out little Alfonso Rousel, 6 years old, of the Canadian Soo, and Police Magistrate Brodie of Sudbury, a small man, through the ventilators. The others were too big.

No ax was available, and, with desperate strength, Reynolds, aided by those inside, tore a hole in the roof, through which eight passengers made their escape—all that came alive out of the water, with the exception of Brakeman Morrison, who was on the rear of the first-class coach, and an unknown man who also managed to reach the surface.

Thirty Stitches in Wounds.

The first to come out of the roof of the dining car was W. J. Bell of Sudbury. He is resting in his home, but thirty stitches were required to close up his gaping wounds.

Police Magistrate Brodie has three ribs broken and his face and scalp are terribly cut. He is confined to the general hospital.

Conductor Reynolds was bruised and cut, but after being fixed up he was able to return to his family in North Bay last night.

The chef and waiters of the diner were trapped in a small compartment of the car, but all were rescued. They were badly scalded and cut. They are in Sudbury hospital.

At Least Forty-five Dead.

Estimates by railroad men and survivors place the loss of life at forty-five, although it is hardly possible to arrive at anything like an accurate conclusion.

The known dead are:

WILL LAVERY, fireman.
JOHN KEASBECK, fireman, North Bay.
GEORGE McILHENY, fireman, North Bay.
UNIDENTIFIED PRIEST.

Twenty-two injured are in the Sudbury general hospital. Several of them cannot survive. Ten more are being cared for at hotels.

Following is a list of those at the hospital, with injuries of almost every conceivable nature:

Cowles Drops Out.

Washington, Jan. 22.—After four years' service as chief of the bureau of equipment, Rear Admiral William Cowles, retired, yesterday surrendered that office, which will be occupied by Chief Clerk E. C. Wrenn, for the expected period to intervene before the equipment bureau is abolished by an act of congress. Admiral Cowles is a brother-in-law of Former President Roosevelt and a native of Connecticut, with an excellent naval record.

INTERESTING FACTS OF NEW YORK CITY

ONE baby born every three and one-half minutes every day in the year is the way New York city did her share in 1907 toward the propagation of the human species. Deaths occurred only at the rate of one in five and one-third minutes, and from that it will be seen that the big city would be able to grow with considerable rapidity, even if immigration ceased. Accidents last year resulted in 3,919 deaths; there were 284 murders and 711 suicides. There was a marriage every eight and one-third minutes. The largest singe cause of death was consumption, which had 8,309 victims. Organic heart disease caused 7,237 deaths.—Human Life.

So it seems that organic heart trouble is next to "consumption" in the cause of deaths—and yet people will continue to drink coffee when the ablest men in the medical profession have time and again stated that "caffeine in coffee is frequently the direct cause of organic heart trouble."

Well informed physicians will tell you that

POSTUM

Is a food beverage—when boiled for 15 minutes. Builds up coffee-worn nerves and tissues—strengthens the heart, clears the brain and makes the red, red blood of good health.

The real proof of anything is in the testing, so why not quit coffee for ten days or two weeks and drink Postum—you can prove the facts for yourself.

SOME HARD KNOCKS.

Woman Gets Rid of "Coffee Heart."

The injurious action of coffee on the heart of many persons is well known by physicians to be caused by caffeine. This is the drug found by chemists in coffee and tea.

A woman suffered a long time with severe heart trouble and finally her doctor told her she must give up coffee, as that was the principal cause of the trouble. She writes:

"My heart was so w...k it could not do its work properly. My husband would some times have to carry me from the table, and it would seem that I would never breathe again.

"The doctor told me that coffee was causing the weakness of my heart. He said I must stop it, but it seemed I could not give it up until I was down in bed with nervous prostration.

"For eleven weeks I lay there and suffered. Finally husband brought home some Postum and I quit coffee and started new and right. Slowly I got well. Now I do not have any headaches, nor those spells with weak heart. We know it is Postum that helped me. The Dr. said the other day, 'I never thought you would be what you are.' I used to weigh 92 pounds and now I weigh 158.

"Postum has done much for me and I would not go back to coffee again for any money, for I believe it would kill me if I kept at it. Postum must be well-boiled like directions on pkg. say, then it has a rich flavour and with cream is fine."

Sure Remedy For Coughs and Colds

What to Do In Quickly Curing Even the Werst Cases Without Doctor's Aid.

It isn't necessary to run to the doctor every time you get a cough or a cold, neither do you need to dose and dope yourself with poisonous, brain-dulling opiates and dangerous drugs, such as so many of the so-called "cough cures" contain. Just do as the doctors do. Use the same sort of treatment they prescribe. Take a little gentle laxative and send or go to the drug store for a bottle of Salubrin, which the best doctors say should be used in all affections of the throat, lungs and air passages, because it's safe and cures a cold up right quick, and to stay cured. Salubrin is a standard preparation, originated by great doctors in Sweden and now listed in official hand books of drugs authorized for use by physicians.

Salubrin is sold everywhere by druggists for 50 cents per bottle. Just get a bottle today and use it as directed, and see your cold just simply vanish.

OLD FRIEND IN TEXAS

We Get a Letter From an Old Friend Which Makes Us Feel Good.

Alba, Tex.—"I was born in Tennessee," writes Mrs. Mary E. Watson, from Alba, Tex., "and I can praise Cardui, for we have used it ever since 1881, twenty-eight years ago. I wish I knew how many dollars I have spent for it.

"My daughter-in-law is now taking it, and all my neighbors think it is fine."

Cardui may be taken year after year, at times when its benefit is needed, and as a general tonic, without any bad after-effects whatever.

Many drugs, like quinine, acetanilid, iodide of potassium, etc., cannot be so taken, without doing you more harm than they do you good.

Be careful what you put into your stomach, as lasting injury frequently results from the regular use of powerful drugs and medicines.

Cardui cannot possibly do you anything but good, as it is a mild, gentle tonic, of purely vegetable ingredients, non-mineral, non-intoxicating, non-poisoous—harmless to young and old.

Thousands of ladies have testified to the beneficial results that come from the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering.

We urge you to try it.

WILL ATTACK "BEEF TRUST"

Federal Government Will Sue Alleged Illegal Combination of Packers.

Both Civil and Criminal Actions May Be Instituted.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The "beef trust" is to be prosecuted by the national government. The department of justice evidently believes its existence is a leading factor in maintaining the present high prices of fresh meats.

The contemplated action of the department follows an investigation which has been conducted by its special agents for some months. Initial proceedings will be begun before the grand jury at Chicago, probably next week, and may contemplate both civil and criminal actions.

The firms mentioned in connection with the matter include Swift & Co., Morris & Co. and Armour & Co., all big packing house concerns, and all of whom, it is said, are interested in the National backing company. The three first named concerns are commonly represented to control the National corporation for their common benefit.

fice of secretary of state. Simpson will be allowed a second term as attorney general, according to the dope sheet. The present Republican supreme court judges will be renominated and Judge Simpson of the Minneapolis district court will be given Judge O'Brien's place, if the slate goes through. C. F. Staples will be nominated for railroad commissioner.

Fight Over Supreme Court Clerk.

The contest that will have to be fought out in the convention is that for clerk of the supreme court. I. A. Caswell of Anoka and George F. Dix of St. Paul are the two leading candidates for the place, but there are rumors that Peter Gish, postmaster of Le Sueur, will become a candidate and will have the solid backing of the Third, which otherwise will not have a place on the ticket except that filled by Staples. Gish is said to be popular at home. He was for many years clerk of courts of his county and has been postmaster for the last few years. He is an insurgent in national politics, like his congressman, C. R. Davis. Gish was a candidate for clerk of the supreme court eight years ago and was defeated by C. A. Pidgeon by a narrow margin.

The slate, which has been agreed upon, according to the testimony of the well-informed, will recognize the Swedes in the nomination for governor, the Norwegians in Iverson's renomination, the Germans in Kayser's selection, and again the Germans will score when Schmahl is renominated. Geographically the ticket looks all right. The ticket is about what the politicians may look for when the nominating convention shall have been held, and two or three men now candidates have about concluded that it will go through and they are planning to abandon their contests for places on the Republican state ticket.

Lindbergh's Letters.

Charles A. Lindbergh, congressman for the Sixth district, has begun a series of weekly newspaper letters to his constituents. Lindbergh proposes to neutralize the effects of his failure to have anything to say about the district's patronage by taking the people into his confidence and showing them that it is impossible for an insurgent congressman to get any consideration from the national administration at Washington. Politicians agree that it is a pretty good plan and may offset any loss of prestige that the congressman may suffer at home from the disciplinary measures now being invoked at Washington. Lindbergh frankly tells the people of the Sixth that it is the penalty of independence in legislative matters, and he is prepared to accept such punishment as the Taft-Aldrich-Cannon organization sees fit to impose. His letters have appeared in the Alexandria Post-News, its editor is his census investigator—named before the administration had decided to refuse further patronage to the insurgent congressmen.

County Option.

In a number of up-state papers friendly to the cause of county option are appearing copies of the call for the March conference arranged for St. Paul by the state organization of the Anti-Saloon league. The basis of representation includes delegates from the county organizations, local societies, churches as well as their pastors, temperance societies of whatever character and civic organizations generally. The freedom with which representation in the conference is extended bids fair to bring about a big conference, and some of those interestcd predict a gathering of perhaps 1,000 to 1,500 persons. J. F. Jacobson, E. T. Young, Elias Itschle and prominent members of the last legislature who favored county option bills will be the speakers, outside those who are actively engaged in the state-wide movement. The officers of the league are understood to be negotiating with the Commercial clubs of the two cities in an effort to secure concessions as to a hall for the meeting and also hotel rates. Upon the result of these negotiations will depend the selection of the city in which the convention will be held. It is expected that the meeting will be held at St. Paul, March 3.

A markedly significant editorial in a recent issue of the Fergus Falls Journal has caused some discussion. Editor Adams, who is Elmer E. Adams, a member of the legislature for Otter Tail county, declares it is time for the Republican party in Minnesota to throw off the yoke of liquor control. The fact that Mr. Adams is popularly supposed to be a strong supporter of R. C. Dunn for the Republican nomination for governor, coupled with the drastic utterances in his paper, causes the comment. Many profess that it is a part of a big scheme to put Governor Eberhart in a deep, dark hole with the temperance people of the state. The governor is probably mitigating this sentiment in a degree at least by his pulpit appearances. Scarcely a Sunday is allowed to escape when the governor does not talk civic righteousness from a St. Paul or Minneapolis pulpit. It does not appear that the governor has been invited to appear at the county option meeting, which would seem to mark almost a studied effort to ignore him by the leaders of the movement. The support of the movement by some of Mr. Dunn's friends is taken to mean that possibly the Princeton man will try to put a county option plank in the platform on which, if renominated, Governor Eberhart will stand.

The Taft Club.

There is a Republican club, of comparatively recent origin, in St. Paul, which has honored President Taft by choosing him as its namesake. The Taft club is a semi-secret society, it being necessary to produce the password and to make sundry high signs at the men at the various doors through which one must pass to gain admission to the inner circle. A prominent St. Paul Republican, who was invited to attend a recent meeting of the Taft club, found Secretary of State Schmahl making an impassioned speech defending the president for signing the tariff bill. The secretary insisted that since the farmers were getting protection on their butter, eggs, potatoes, etc., they should be willing to give the Eastern manufacturer and workingmen some modicum of their prosperity in the way of protection on their product. It went well enough until a Republican newspaper named White, who has never held a public office, took the floor. He took issue with Mr. Schmahl and for a half hour severely arraigned the Republican majority and the administration at Washington for what he termed is the most criminal tariff bill ever enacted. The Taft club, under the fire of White's eloquence and his array of facts, went over bodily to his way of thinking and it is said that there is a movement on foot looking to a change of name of the organization. St. Paul has a Roosevelt club, and a Lincoln club, but there is no Sherman club, and one of the officers of the Taft club has made the proposal to jump from the president to the vice president in making the change.

Cause of Furlong's Defeat.

Now that the annual meeting of the state agricultural society is out of the way and J. M. Underwood of Lake City has defeated J. M. Furlong of Austin, the latter's supporters are looking about for a satisfactory reason for the defeat of their favorite. The partisans of the Mower county man left the close of the meeting were so confident of victory that they are swallowing their defeat with poor grace indeed. Naturally they are turning to the Democrats on whom to lay the blame. The "kitchen cabinet," which since the death of Governor Johnson has been a somewhat despised organization and one so poor as to have no one to do it honor, has suddenly awakened to a sense of its own importance, for it is to no less an institution that the Furlong men ascribe their defeat. The poor Kitchen cabinet has been made the scapegoat for a good many failures and there is no mistakes politically during the past four or five years that it has not been charged with, a slgn either of omission or commission. It is therefore somewhat refreshing to that part of the public taking an interest in politics to find that the cabinet has for once been of some useful purpose.

Possibly Democrats did in some measure contribute to the defeat of Mr. Furlong and the selection of Mr. Underwood. It is explained and excused on the ground that Mr. Furlong has long used his office as a member of the board of managers for partisan purposes. It is claimed that more than just share of the patronage of the fair has gone into the First congressional district. Furlong is one of congressman Tawney's closest political friends and every part of this patronage has, it is alleged, gone to the upbuilding of the Tawney machine in the First. Annual passes and fair jobs have been distributed in the First with an abandon approaching the reckless, and it is only natural that the Democratic state organization should have voiced its objection to this practice if able to do so. Certain it is that, without the votes of a good many Democratic delegates to the annual meeting of the state society, Mr. Underwood would have been far from the presidency. It is not understood that the Democratic organization expects to profit by the election of Underwood, but Democrats expect that the assignment of employes for the next fair will not be made the consideration of how much good will accrue to the political interests of Mr. Tawney.

That the contest was close is shown by the final vote. The Furlong men were staggered by their defeat, and they admit that they were outgeneralled. They secured the naming of the credentials committee by an appeal from the chair, and when the committee made its report found they had been goldicked by one of their own number. Bailey of Dakota county, had gone on the committee as a Furlong man, but his report was in the interest of Underwood. He was selected for the committee by Representative John Zelch of Washington county, one of the Furlong managers, and following the meeting some pretty harsh things were said of Zelch's judgment and knowledge of men. It is not believed that Zelch was guilty of anything worse than an error of judgment.

State Arbitration Board.

Governor Eberhart has revived the state board of arbitration and has appointed an entirely new board. For some years the board has not existed, as it was not believed by Governor Johnson that the law elected the board with powers that would prove equal to the demands, should a labor trouble arise. His successor in office has evidently felt otherwise and has named as the new board, W. L. Goettinger, St. Paul, representing organized labor; H. M. Leighton, Minneapolis, representing the employers of labor, and J. W. Mason, a Fergus Falls attorney, as umpire. The fact that Mason is attorney for the Great Northern railroad in Northwestern Minnesota, has called forth rather pertinent inquiries as to what his attitude would be in the event that a railroad-labor difficulty should come before the board for adjustment—the present switchmen's strike, for example. It can scarcely be believed that the governor's advisers would knowingly permit him to walk into the open pit dug for him in the shape of this unfortunate appointment, and charity will prefer to think that the appointment of Mason was made without full knowledge of Mr. Mason's professional engagements. Of him personally nothing objectionable can be said. He is considered one of the strong lawyers of the state and one who always puts the interests of his clients above other considerations.

Heatwole and Eberhart.

The political situation of the past week has been Joel P. Heatwole's brickyard cast bodily at Governor Eberhart's candidacy for nomination as governor. Joel in effect says that he and his paper, the Northfield News, will not support the governor either before or after the state nominating convention. He presents five separate counts against the governor, chief of which are included in the claims that he has not been a party man, that he is controlled by the steel and liquor interests, and that the chief executive's conservative declarations were the property of no less a personage than the senior Mr. Hill. Heatwole's charges furnished, however, less interest to the politicians than did the governor's quoted interview from Washington, in which he denied in detail the Northfield man's charges. The wise politicians say that the governor has made a tactical blunder in thus taking up the Heatwole charges for denial, as it will give the editor the chance which he was probably looking for to go into the questions in detail taking the governor's legislative record as his text. To the Heatwole charge that Governor Eberhart did not support Candidate Jacobson in the last state campaign, Mr. Jacobson is expected by the governor's friends to make instant and sweeping denial. The Lac Qui Parle county man should know and should be prepared to give testimony. It is said his personal choice for governorn irrespective of other things, is R. B. Brower of St. Cloud, but the former senator is said to be suffering from chilblains, superinduced by a protracted season of cold feet.

Dunn Not For Congress.

Considerable interest has been aroused by R. C. Dunn's declaration in his Princeton Union this week that he has no thought of becoming a candidate for congress in the Eighth district. Mr. Dunn says that he knows enough of the game to realize the extent of the influence and importance of the average congressman at Washington, and that he wants none of it. Rumors that Mr. Dunn had thought of going to congress were never taken seriously by his friends at the state capital.

Room For Lind.

There is said to be a nice little contest on among Democrats in the Mill City to determine just what faction of the party will be responsible for bringing out Former Governor John Lind as a candidate for governor in the next campaign. Several meetings have been held in Minneapolis among the Democrats, and plans are said to be under way to force Mr. Lind into the field. This movement is said to be entirely independent of the Democratic state central organization and its leaders, but doubtless will not be unwelcome by these veterans in the political field who realize Mr. Lind's great personal strength and his devotion to the cause of Democracy. They say it means nothing by whom the right candidate for governor is proposed. Richard Tattersfield, secretary of the Hennepin county Democratic organization, is said to be one of those actively engaged in proposing a state-wide movement to enlist Mr. Lind as the Democratic candidate for governor.

"NOODLES" SHOWS BOYS HOW PAPERS ARE SOLD BY NEW YORK HUSTLERS

The Bijou theater was filled again last night to hear and see "Noodles" Fagan, the king of newshoys, who is appearing there in vaudeville. In all, "Noodles" has made quite a record, and Manager Maitland announced he was the biggest drawing card of the season.

Last evening, between the first and second performances at the Bijou, "Noodles" addressed the working boys of the city, who were given a reception at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. His stories and advice were much appreciated, and on his departure he was given a hearty round of cheers.

The streets were crowded during the lunch hour today to see "Noodles" sell The Herald noon edition. It seemed as if every one in town was downtown.

It was one of the most remarkable crowds that congregated on Superior street. The rich and poor alike jammed together to get a glimpse of the chap who is making such a big stir in Duluth.

With a bundle of papers under his arm, one kid yelled: "Here comes 'Noodles' with The Herald."

Windows flew up and doors flew open. The first paper was snatched up quickly, after which "Noodles" showed the local newsboys how to dispose of hundreds of Heralds in less than thirty minutes. He gave them an excellent object lesson in selling papers. One kid yelled: "Throw up some pennies, 'Noodles!'"

"NOODLES" SELLING HERALDS.

And he did. Taking a handful of coins from his pocket he tossed them in the air, and scrambled eggs was beaten to a frazzle with that pile of newsies.

Early this morning children congregated in front of the Bijou theater waiting for the doors to open for The Herald's big entertainment.

"Noodles" Fagan delivered an address on "Life in the Slums of New York." The doors were open promptly at 9:30 o'clock, and Manager Maitland, assisted by a corps of ushers, handled the immense crowd of children, mothers and fathers, the number easily reaching 5,000 people. After the children were seated comfortably a musical program was rendered by Mr. Morse. Then "Noodles" was introduced. The ovation he received showed the love the Duluth children had for him, for his good advice and kind words given them in the schools. He told of how the children live in Chinatown, the Ghetto district and the great East side of New York. He brought out many pathetic pictures, which brought tears to many eyes. His humorous stories kept them laughing all through the talk. The address was full of the kind of advice if followed Duluth will have a better generation of young men and women years hence. At the finish three cheers were given for Manager Maitland, The Herald and "Noodles."

Railway Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Northern Railway club will be held this evening at the Commercial club. A discussion of the paper on steel cars compared with wooden cars, will be resumed this evening.

The Knudson-Gilbert-King trio will furnish the entertainment of the evening. Special cars will be run from Proctor and Two Harbors, and it is expected that a large attendance will be present. The club embraces a membership of over 600 and it is hoped this present year to materially increase the list of members.

NORMAL NOTES

The Thalian Literary society presented an extremely interesting program on Friday afternoon.

An invitation had been extended to all the students interested in the welfare and work of the society, so many besides the members were present. Miss Mary Langford told some interesting episodes from the life of Ruth McEnery Stuart. Miss Long read a selection of Miss Stuart's in a condensed form, entitled "A Golden Wedding." Miss Ruth Hamblin gave a reading, "Uncle Eph's Advice." Piano solos were rendered by Miss Helen Coburn and Miss Elsie Overman. The program was given first and was followed by a business meeting after a short intermission.

An election of officers was held. The officers are: President, Miss Florence Ryan; secretary, Miss Maude Matteson; treasurer, Miss Marie Driscoll. Arrangements were made to have the program for the following meeting posted by the beginning of next week. Ways and means for increasing the interest in the society were suggested and all the members were urged by both the president, Miss Ryan, and the critic, Miss Long, to take an active part in the society's work.

During the chorus period on Wednesday Miss Ely gave another of her interesting and instructive lectures in library science. This lecture dealt with the methods of marking books and magazines in libraries according to the Dewey decimal system.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Duluth Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back, they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in, they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to us is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Duluth people testify to permanent cures.

William Bain, 1402 East Fourth street, Duluth, Minn., says: "About three years ago I was in poor health as the result of disordered kidneys. My back also ached considerably. As I had heard and read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills, I made up my mind to try them and I procured a supply. After I had used two or three boxes, I was relieved and I have not had to take any medicine for my kidneys since. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

LYCEUM—"The Soul Kiss."

A NASTY PLAY.

"The Soul Kiss" Has Little to Excuse Its Vulgarity.

Mittenthal Brothers may be awarded the prize for bringing to Duluth the worst show of the theatrical season.

"The Parisian Model," was a disgusting pandering to all the lowest there is in human nature. It disbanded shortly after leaving Duluth, and there were no mourners. "The Soul Kiss" opened an engagement last evening at the Lyceum. Even in the palmy days of the production, when Mlle. Genee and her dancing relieved its vulgarity somewhat, it was mercilessly criticised by New York writers. With a second-rate company the spice descends into common vulgarity.

Mlle. Pertina, who replaces Mlle. Genee in the leading role is one of the few bright spots in the production. Her dancing has genuine merit, differing from the rest of the performance, which apparently depends largely on its suggestiveness for its success or lack of it. Ben Grinell, as Mephisto, has a specialty which is also commendable.

The costumes of the chorus would be excusable on a burlesque circuit. Some of them consist chiefly of a hair ribbon and a smile.

There are one or two catchy songs, but the general tone of the production is disagreeable and suggestive, and it lacks the snap, ginger and novelty to condone this suggestiveness.

ANTELOPE RAID FEED.

Wyoming Stock and Flock Men Are Much Alarmed.

Sheridan, Wyo., Jan. 22.—Stockmen in this section are still alarmed over the shortage of feed, due to the prolonged unfavorable weather. Heavy losses are reported in some districts, many sheep having died because the owners could not get feed to them, eight firms reporting losses aggregating 20,000 head.

An additional cause for apprehension is felt among the flock masters of the Powder river country, about ninety miles southeast of Sheridan, where 200 head of antelope suddenly appeared and took possession of the ranch of John Cooper, on the middle fork of Powder river, between Kaycee and Sussex. The antelope appeared nearly starved and ate ravenously the food that had been sparingly provided for sheep. Cooper and a number of men sought to drive the antelope away, but the hungry animals refused to leave. Fearing their stacks of hay might be badly depleted before additional feed could be obtained for the sheep, the stockmen are building wire fences around haystacks. Meantime the antelope are eagerly devouring all feed within reach.

BUSINESS ACTIVE AND HEALTHY

New York, Jan. 22.—R. G. Dun & Co's. Weekly Review of Trade today says:

The disturbance in Wall street is apparently without effect on the industrial and trade situation, which, measured by the best tests, continues in a healthy and active condition.

A further perceptible broadening of demand for pig iron is noted at many leading centers and the situation generally is more satisfactory to producing interests. In some districts, new business is still light, but on the whole, there is marked improvement, with basic and Bessemer grades attracting much attention. Irregularity is still apparent in finished lines, and there is evidence that the railroads are holding back considerable new business, although car orders at the West are quite liberal and several large contracts are pending. Recent sales of rails aggregated 40,000 tons while about 18,000 tons of structural material were booked last week.

In the primary dry goods market, sales are in progress and the break in cotton, although an unsettling feature, made no change in jobbing prices, which had not yet reached the parity of 15-cent raw material. Buyers of cotton blankets and other napped goods of a staple character are operating freely at an advance over a year ago, and stock in all parts of the country are reported to be well cleaned up. Export demand continues very light, with little inquiry from the Far East.

Hosiery and underwear are in better demand and new fall lines in cotton dress fabrics are being bought freely. Trade in prints is light in ginghams, somewhat better in bleached goods. The woolen goods division had a sharp reduction on heavy serge, while the demand for fancy overcoatings is satisfactory.

Many large lines of staple and fancy worsted dress goods were opened at moderate advances. Cotton yarns are dull, worsted yarns steady, and woolen yarns steady, but quiet.

Supplementary spring orders for footwear in the boston market are fair in volume and manufacturers regard the outlook as promising. Present prices are well sustained in all lines.

The leather trade continues dull, buyers holding off for lower prices, although supplies are generally quite moderate.

SCHREIBER GETS A STAY

Will Remain in the St. Louis County Jail Until Appeal Is Made.

Purpose of Stay Is to Use the Original Transcript.

This morning at a special term of the district court, Judge Dibell granted a stay in the case of William Schreiber, who was some time ago sentenced to a life sentence at Stillwater.

G. W. C. Ross of the law firm of Ross & McKnight made the motion for a stay and Warren E. Green assistant county attorney objected very briefly, claiming that the keeping of Schreiber in the local jail was but a needless expense to St. Louis county.

The object of the stay at this time was for the purpose of using the original transcript of the testimony in making an appeal to the supreme court. If Schreiber had been sent to prison, the original data would have gone with him and copies of the testimony would be the only means of taking the case higher.

Subscriptions are said to be coming in rapidly in Schreiber's behalf. Rev. J. T. Moody and A. B. Stewert say they are having good success in raising the necessary funds. One Superior street barber, who has become interested in the case, has donated 5 per cent of his earnings to the cause, and those who are interested drop in regularly for hair cuts and shaves that they may not only help the 5 per cent, but also talk over the case.

The stay granted is pending the appeal.

It is expected that within a few weeks the appeal will be made by Schrieber's attorneys and whether or not this is the last chapter in the backwoods murder case remains to be seen.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by all druggists.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Police Raid Little Party On East Superior Street—Amateur Detective Gets Heavy Fine.

Bernice Andrews was the attraction of the police court this morning. Swathed in a flashy military coat, with pretty brass buttons and numerous splashes of red, she made things rustle as she walked to her seat accompanied by the police matron.

She was arrested last night on a statutory charge early this morning in a hotel conducted by M. Pabst at 9 East Superior street, being snared in the dragnet spread by the police upon receiving reports that the place was not being properly conducted. When her name was called she emphasized her innocence by decided shakes of the bly "Merry Widow" hat which almost concealed her from view of the spectators. Bail was fixed at $25, which was furnished, and her trial set for next Tuesday.

Pabst was brought in later in the forenoon charged with selling liquor without a license. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Wednesday. It appears that several women have been rooming at the place and have been in the habit of having informal parties several nights a week. Last night they and some other friends started a row, the outcome of which was that some of the disgruntled merry makers told the police the whole story, which brought on the raid. The warrant for Pabst was sworn to by John Farmer. The complaint states that Pabst sold him and William J. Ruth beer without having a license.

Edward Walsh, the one-armed man arrested Thursday afternoon on the charge of impersonating an officer, was handed a heavy package by Judge Cutting in police court today. He was given $100 and costs or sixty days, after a trial in which Walsh was the star performer.

The convicted pseudo-detective turned attorney. The way he fired questions at the witness for the state, and at Mosher, whom he "arrested," would have made a Philadelphia lawyer sit up and take notice. He hurled them out like shot from a rapid fire gun.

Mosher said that Walsh walked him from First avenue west and Fourth street to Michigan street and back again to Second street and Third avenue, where they boarded a street car. They rode two blocks to Superior street, where Walsh got transfers. But he didn't use them, liking instead, to the station at Second avenue east and Superior street.

Walsh claimed that he had been requested by Mosher's wife to look for him, as he had not been home for three weeks and had received no word from him. He stated that his only reason for taking Mosher to the station was that he might tell Chief Troyer that he was alive.

But the court couldn't see it that way and the "one-armed detective" was given about the limit, which aroused his ire, judging by his actions after he heard sentence pronounced. He didn't have the cash and will likely board with Sheriff Bates until the days begin to get warm again.

Two men were arraigned on charges of stealing watches. Joe Doyle claimed that Joe Dishaw swiped a timepiece worth $10 from him and Jacob Johnson made the same charge against Fred S. Clark, except that his ticker was worth only $5. Both entered pleas of not guilty and will be tried Tuesday.

John J. O'Brien admitted that he begged on the streets yesterday although he had money in his jeans. The court thought that sixty days in the county jail might cure him of the habit.

• • •

The others in the grist were plain drunks, and as all professed a desire to go to work again they received suspended sentences.

Insure Having a President.

To meet the possible contingency in event of the death of a president-elect or vice president-elect before their installation in office, Representative Henry of Texas has introduced a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment, clothing congress with complete power to deal with the succession problem. The bill provides for the change in the date of the presidential inauguration from March 4, to the last Thursday in April, as in the former Henry bill, which the house recently sent back to the judiciary committee, but it adds a clause designed to meet one of the points of attack that resulted in the temporary defeat of the former measure. The clause directs the congress either can provide for the recovering the electoral colleges to fill such vacant places, or it may provide some other statutory method as to the successor shall be, as in the 1886 law of succession, under which the secretary of state comes first and then the other cabinet officers in certain succession.

Carter Has Water Power Scheme.

Senator Carter, after a conference with several Western governors, who were in Washington this week attending the governors' conference, has prepared a bill authorizing the issuance of patents to states for public lands chiefly valuable for the development of water power. He announces that he would present the bill to congress on Monday.

In effect the Carter measure would turn over to the states the whole question of developing water power. It would remove the entire problem of regulating the use of lands and streams, chiefly valuable for the development of power, from the control of the federal government. It is expected that the passing of such a measure would provoke a storm of opposition from supporters of the Taft conservation program. Senator Carter, however, takes the position that when his plan is understood, it will command the support of the conservationists.

Graham on Committee.

The Democratic caucus last night selected Representative James Graham of Illinois to succeed Mr. Rainey on the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee. Graham was nominated by Clayton of Alabama, and the selection was unanimous.

Attacks Tipping Again.

Waiters, porters, bell boys, bar keepers and others who have the itching palm for tips will now lie in eager wait for Representative Murphy of Missouri, who has introduced a bill to make the great American weakness an offense in the District of Columbia, punishable by fines varying according to the gravity of the misdeed from $5 to $500. He introduced a similar bill last year, but no action was taken on it.

Dies Pending Libel Suit.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The suits for $150,000 damages for alleged libel, filed Jan. 8, 1904, by Michael W. Louis against Joseph P. Bristow, now senator from Kansas, then fourth assistant postmaster general, Henry C. Paine, former postmaster general, and three Washington newspapers, were dismissed yesterday by Chief Justice Claybaugh of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, owing to the recent death of Mr. Louis.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

DEATHS DUE TO NEGLECT

Twenty Needless Deaths From Diphtheria in Duluth Last Year.

Failure to Call Doctor in Time Was the Cause.

Twenty children died of diphtheria in Duluth last year through the neglect of the parents in failing to call a physician in the early stages of the disease.

During the year the total number of deaths from diphtheria was twenty-nine. Figures compiled at the health department this morning show that twenty of them died within a few hours after they were reported and a physician called in.

The diphtheria mortality the last two years is approximately five per cent, being slightly less in 1908 and a little more in 1909. "It seems a pity in these days," said an official of the department this morning, "when there is a specific cure for the disease, that there should be so many deaths. Every sore throat should be examined by the family physician and where there is the slightest suspicion a culture should be taken.

"Many people are opposed to the use of antitoxin, claiming that the results following are bad. Such is not the case. Throat paralysis and other similar troubles are the result of not giving enough antitoxin to offset the poison of the disease. Parents should not be afraid to have this life-saving cure used in the early stages in large doses."

SAYS MONEY WAS MISUSED

Fred H. Merritt Asks Receiver for Lake Superior & Sonora Company.

Alleging that the president and directors of the Lake Superior & Sonora Development company misappropriated the funds of the concern, Fred H. Merritt, a local stockbroker, has brought suit in district court for an accounting of the money handled and the appointment of a receiver for the company.

C. S. Carpenter is president of the company and the directors are E. C. Alstead, Gust Anderson, A. Hamfield and J. H. Moran.

Merritt claims that the officers unlawfully and fraudulently used the money and refused to account for it. This misconduct, he alleges, damaged the stockholders to the extent of $45,000. He wishes the return of this amount as well as the appointment of a receiver.

Merritt says the company started with 50,000 shares at a par value of $10 a share. Merritt now owns 5,735 shares.

One of the specific charges made by Merritt is that on Nov. 1, 1909, Mr. Carpenter as president of the Lake Superior & Sonora Development company loaned to the Duluth-Sonora Land company $5,500 without any security and with the knowledge that the land company was on the verge of bankruptcy. Merritt claims that during the same year Carpenter paid out $29,000, for which no accounting has been made. It is also alleged that in the same year the defendants obligated the company to the amount of $75,000 in a land deal. It is also alleged that although the land purchased was sold at a profit of $25,000, the officers of the company have failed to turn it into the treasury and still refuse to do so.

ROOSEVELT HELPS FIGHT GRASS FIRE

Colonel Has Shot Five Good Specimens of the White Rhinoceros.

Wadelai, Belgian Congo, thirty miles north of Lake Albert, Jan. 22.—A special native runner has arrived here from Rhino camp, the hunting headquarters of the Smithsonian African Scientific expedition. He brings the news that Col. Roosevelt has killed three good bulls and two cows of the white rhinoceros family, and considerable lesser game. The naturalists have collected many species of birds and mammals. Quentin Grogan, who was reported ill earlier, has recovered and the others of the party are in excellent health.

Kermit Roosevelt hopes to photograph a living white rhinoceros before the departure of the expedition for Nimule on Feb. 3. Nimule is to the north in the province of the Nile, and will be reached by boats up the river Bar-el-Jebel. The trip should occupy not more than two days.

The party had an interesting experience, that had not been counted on, during their second day at Rhino camp. A grass fire, accidentally started, threatened to burn up the whole outfit, which was saved only by the energetic work of all hands in clearing the grass immediately surrounding the camp.

DOGS, CATTLE AND BUILDINGS GO

Big Ice Gorge Has Wrought Havoc Along Kentucky Stream.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 22.—The big ice gorge from Wolf creek, carrying dogs, cattle, ties, timber, barges and occasionally a barn, reached Paducah yesterday on the way to the Mississippi. Damage wrought at Caseyville, Ky., to the property of the West Kentucky Coal company, by the gorge is estimated at $75,000. The new steel coal loading device, tipple and several barges, a number of which were loaded and ready for shipment, were swept away with the heavy flow. When the property was torn away the crash was heard for miles.

TELLS SENATE TO "GET BUSY"

President Calls Some Leaders and Urges Them to Advance His Measures.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The president read in the papers yesterday that the senate was marking time while the house is struggling with the various appropriation bills. So he sent for Senators Penrose of Pennsylvania, Crane of Massachusetts and Carter of Montana, and asked why it would not be a good thing for the senate to "get busy" on some of the measures he has recommended. Senator Aldrich, being absent from the city, was not included in the summons.

The president broached the subject of the postal savings bank bill, and also reminded his visitors of the conservation measures he had recommended. He also spoke of the proposed changes in the interstate commerce law. Most of all, aside from the postal bank proposition, he urged legislation validating the withdrawals from entry of lands containing water power sites, coal and phosphates.

MASONIC HOME FOR DULUTH

Effort Made to Secure Proposed Structure for This City.

Duluth Masons will endeavor to secure the proposed state home, which will cost $100,000, for the Zenith City. The sum of $29,000 has been raised and as soon as the remaining $80,000 is collected, work will be started on the structure. The grand lodge which recently ended its session in St. Paul was attended by several Duluth men who returned home enthusiastic over the plan to secure the home for Duluth.

SHELDON, N. D., MAN INJURED AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—John T. Hickey, a liveryman of Sheldon, this state, was probably injured Thursday evening while attending the grain growers' convention here.

He had just stepped from the Grand Family theater when he was jostled by the immense crowd into the cellerway of the new North Dakota Improvement company building.

One arm and several ribs were broken and it is believed that his skull was fractured, for shortly after the accident he lapsed into unconsciousness and at a late hour the doctors stated that he might not recover.

SIX CONFIDENTIAL ADDRESSES TO MEN

LYMAN B. SPERRY.

At the regular Sunday afternoon men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon, Lyman B. Sperry will begin a series of six confidential talks to men. New York, Jan. 22.—Clarence M. He also stated that the Postal company was the only company that ever had succeeded in competing with the Western Union, and that if the Postal company should combine with the Bell Telephone company and the Western Union there never would be any competition. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

JOINT WORK IS PLANNED

Northern Minnesota Communities Will Outline Campaign at Bemidji Meet.

Gathering Next Month to Work for Advancement of This Section.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A get-together meeting for all communities of Northern Minnesota will be held here, Feb. 17 and 18, to consider matters of benefit to all sections, such as a better apportionment, more railroads, better highways, more drainage, improved farming and other matters.

The meeting promises to be epoch-making in Northern Minnesota. It results from a movement started here this week, at which a committee consisting of W. R. Mackenzie, F. S. Lyon, G. W. Campbell, J. O. Harris and A. P. Ritchie was selected to draft a call for the meeting.

Letters are being sent out to all commercial clubs, heads of cities and villages, boards of county commissioners and similar bodies, calling attention to the need for such a meeting and urging the appointment of delegates. The official call for the meeting, signed by Chairman MacKenzie, follows:

Matters to Be Considered.

"It seems to be conceded that in the counties lying adjacent to or north of the Northern Pacific railway from Duluth to Moorhead, lie the greatest opportunities for the development of natural resources and advantages and that the development and profitable use of these resources require railroads, highways, drainage, advanced farming, good local markets and just and wise federal and state legislation, a liberal investment of state moneys for highways, proper manner of selling state lands and taxation of state lands for school and road purposes, legislative reapportionment of the state, and to secure these helpful agencies, concerted action on the part of this territory would be exceedingly beneficial and important, if not necessary.

"To secure this, and after conference with leading citizens of all parts of the state, some citizens of Northern Minnesota issued a call for a meeting, which was held at the city of Bemidji, on the 18th day of this month. At that meeting it was decided to call a convention, to be held at the city of Bemidji, on the 17th and 18th days of February, 1910, to be composed of delegates from said counties, chosen as follows:

Selecting Delegates.

"Two delegates from each county, to be apointed by the chairman of the board of county commissioners.

"Two delegates to represent each Commercial club, to be chosen by the club.

"Two delegates for each county, to be appointed by the senator of the senatorial district.

"Two delegates for each county, to be chosen by the member of the house of representatives for his district.

"The Commercial club of the city of Duluth to have ten delegates.

"The purpose of this convention will be to consider and take action in reference to these matters, which, in its opinion, are most needful for the full and proper advancement and development of the natural resources, advantages and conditions of the territory embraced in the counties named, to the end that there may be built up in Northern Minnesota, a condition that will insure to the benefit of the entire state of Minnesota and be a source of pride to every citizen of our fair state.

"You are therefore requested to appoint delegates who will be able to attend the convention, and advise the undersigned of such appointment.

BENEFITED BY DULUTH MEETING

Sandstone Commercial Club Pleased With Open Market Gathering Here.

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sandstone Commercial club held a very interesting meeting this week and many matters of public interest were discussed. Besides the creamery proposition, plans for warehouses to store produce were talked over, as a proper way to advertise Northern Pine county for new settlers to come and locate on the unoccupied land.

The members were greatly pleased over the outcome of the recent convention by the delegates sent to Duluth to arrange for an open market of produce, as it will greatly and materially benefit the farmers of this community in disposing of their produce to a better advantage than heretofore. The farmers of this section have proven to the Duluth commission men that they can raise choice cabbage and potatoes, and if they would select a committee to attend the local fairs or market days held at harvest time they would soon be convinced that they can also raise the best of almost everything in the line of vegetables or edibles in the state, especially ferries, tomatoes, corn, pumpkins, rutabagas, carrots, beans, peas, cauliflower, Celery and also apples. With a central market, Duluth will be the favorite shipping point here of everything ready for the consumer.

A special meeting will be held next Tuesday, as it is expected that by that time the secretary of the club will have the desired information of private parties who were willing to erect the creamery which the farmers proposed to build, but who abandoned the idea at their last meeting, and which was since taken up by the Commercial club. The club is in good working order and expects to do things that will bring results.

SUI SAID YOU IS TO BE DEPORTED

Smooth Chinamen, Arrested in Duluth, Must Return to Flowery Kingdom.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is definitely settled that two of the Chinamen confined in the county jail must return to China. The twain are Lee Roy and Sui Said You, both former Calumet men, whose deportation was ordered two weeks and eleven days ago, respectively, by United States Commissioner Olivier, and who have failed to file appeals within the prescribed limit of ten days.

Commissioner Olivier notified United States Marshal Frank E. Waite of Grand Rapids, and the official is expected to arrive today to take the men in charge. They probably will be deported through Seattle to that country which one of them at least claims never to have seen.

Lee Roy is the man who was discovered by the immigration officials nestling in a tub at a Chinese laundry and covered over with unwashed laundry. When arraigned before Judge Olivier he stoutly refused to answer questions. He could not produce his choc chees, and his deportation was ordered.

Sui Said Is Smooth One.

Sui Said You is the very spick and span little Chinaman who was arrested at Duluth, and who was spirited away from his attorney by Commissioners Edsell and Jewell and brought to Hancock. He is said to be one of three suspects whom the officials had under investigation at Calumet, and who escaped their surveillance and made his way to the Zenith City.

When Sui was arraigned before the United States commissioner he told a very smooth story of having been born in San Francisco, of being taken to Chicago at the age of 5 by an uncle, of residing there for thirteen years and having conducted a chop suey house in Minneapolis, and a washee washee in Hibbing, Minn. The immigration inspectors declare that he was smuggled across the Canadian border within the past three years.

HARD FOUGHT HOCKEY GAME

Fairmonts Defeated By Score of 3 to 2 in West End Contest.

Game Tied at End and Teams Compelled to Play Extra Periods.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

Northern Juniors	1	1	0	1,000
Hunter's Park	2	0	2	.000
Fairmonts	3	0	3	.000

Probably the most exciting game of hockey played in the Amateur Hockey league was won last evening by the Adams seven by the score of 3 to 2, after it had been found necessary to call for the second extra-time session, the score remaining at tie, 2 to 2, at the end of the regular time limit.

A second ten minutes was called, and the play was the fastest of the evening. The Adams showed the first team work of the evening and several times had the disc dangerously near the Fairmonts' net. But clever individual defensive work on the part of the Fairmont players prevented a net being registered and no score was made during the first extra session of play.

The second extra time was called and in less than a minute after play started, E. Olson scored the deciding goal by a clever piece of individual playing.

Many penalties were called last evening and at times there were more players perched on the rail than there were on the ice. The majority of the penalties were exacted for minor violations of the rules.

Both teams showed but little team work. The Fairmonts put up an aggressive and clever individual game, but the members of the team failed to get together.

The first score of the game came after four minutes of play, Rover Johnson of the Fairmonts shooting the net. Andy Grenner shot a goal for the Adams a short minute after the Fairmonts had scored. H. Grenner gave the Adams the lead by shooting the third net of the game about twelve minutes after his brother had distinguished himself. Crosby made the fourth goal, the score that tied the game up, by a clever piece of playing, carrying the punk down the rink by fast and clever nursing.

ALROTH WILL DEFEND TITLE

Duluth Champion Ice Skater Will Compete at Milwaukee Tonight.

Carl Alroth, the Duluth boy who ranks with the fastest ice skaters in the country, will compete this evening in the events of the Northwestern Skating association in the baseball park at Milwaukee.

Skaters from various parts of the country will compete in the events. Chicago will send a large number of speedy skaters, and there will be a number of entries from St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Alroth at the present time holds the title of Northwestern champion. At Milwaukee he will be forced to defend his title against some of the speediest skaters of the West. He will be compelled to win from an unusually large field to retain his title.

Alroth will go East after the Milwaukee events to meet some of the crack speed merchants of New York and the New England section of the skating belt. Alroth has had little opportunity to work out this season, but expects to reach his true form later in the season.

"CY" SEYMOUR MAY BE SLATED FOR THE MINORS—THE PASSING OF ONE OF THE GREAT PLAYERS

Shevlin on Football Conditions in the East and West--Other Sport Gossip.

(BY BRUCE)

Maybe "Cy" Seymour will go to the minors.

Two years ago who would have predicted the probable passing of the great outfielder? He was a great player on a great team that fought to the last ditch with the Cubs for the National league bunting.

McGraw never forgives a bonehead play. Stupidity is a thing that McGraw can never condone. There were two boneheads plays in the season of 1908 that nearly made the little Napoleon of baseball crazy.

One is historical. It was the failure of Merkle to touch second base. That play robbed New York of the pennant. The other bonehead play was made by Center Fielder Seymour and perhaps it was this play that was the beginning of the end of the Seymour person as a big league celebrity.

The error of omission on the part of Seymour is not as famous, or perhaps we might say, infamous, as the bungling play made by the inexperienced Merkle. Nevertheless it was costly and rolled McGraw to the raving point.

If you all will recall the final sensational game in one of the most spectacular fights for the pennant ever waged in any league, you will call to mind some of the particulars of the famous battle of the Cubs and Giants at the polo grounds, at the very end of the 1908 fight in the National league.

If you remember some of the details of the game, and no doubt some of you do, you will recall the fact that it was Joe Tinker's slashing three-base drive over Seymour's head that started the Cub's rally—the rally that drove Christy Mathewson out of the box.

Tinker was one of the Cubs who has ever shown a fondness for the pitching of the peerless Mathewson. So when the Cub shortstop came to bat, the signal was given to Seymour to play deep for a possible long drive. The stubborn Seymour thought he had the possible play doped out: instead of walking back into deep center, he actually walked further in. Seymour had it figured out that Tinker would hit a sharp, low drive, one that he would have to come tearing in after.

Well, Tinker did just as McGraw believed he might do—he smashed one of Mathewson's fad-aways on the nose and the ball went sailing like a rocket out into center field. Seymour made a noble effort to get the ball but it went just over his head, out of reach of his outstretched hands.

When Seymour retrieved the ball the panting Tinker was nestling on third. The next batters coming up got to Mathewson and before the inning was over four runs had been registered and the game lost to the Giants.

You can bet that McGraw never forgot that bum guess on the part of the Seymour party. To add insult to injury, Seymour had a fight with Arlie Latham, the comedy coach of the Giants on the spring training trip of the Giants, the early part of last season. McGraw lost all patience and tied the tinware to the neck of the player.

But "Cy" refused to be fired. He paid his own expenses and trailed along with the Giants. Finally desperate need of a hard-hitting outfielder led McGraw to put "Cy" into the game. "Cy" was doing fine, but ill luck grabbed him and he was forced to leave the game because of injuries.

He did not get into many games last season. He also had a falling out with the club over the clause in his contract which stated that in the event of "Cy" keeping away from the flowing bowl he would receive a bonus. Seymour set up the claim that he never so much as took a whiff at a drink. "Cy" protested earnestly, not to say dramatically, that he had earned every cent of the promised bonus; yet the bonus was not forthcoming.

This winter McGraw announced that he would ask waivers on the once great center fielder. It is very doubtful if seven clubs in the National will consent to see Seymour go out of big league baseball. There are many followers of the game of the opinion that there is a lot of good baseball left in the veteran. Some of the other clubs will probably ask for a price on the player.

McGraw, it is commonly believed, has it in for Seymour, and if he persists in holding out for the passing of "Cy" it is very likely that one of the other clubs will have the former Giant on their pay rolls.

Seymour broke into big league baseball as a pitcher. He could always hit the ball and when his arm gave out he took to the outer gardens. He has been considered a great baseball player these many years. Last season he showed some of the best playing of his career. It hardly seems probable that "Cy" is ticketed for the second-class passage in the good old ship of baseball.

Tommy Shevlin, famous as one of the greatest end rushes ever developed at Yale, not forgetting the daring deeds of Frank Hinkey and John C. Greenway and the more recent Kilpatrick, was in a football mood yesterday. The four-year all-American player and Yale captain has always some interesting facts to give out on football.

Shevlin was called to New Haven last fall to give the members of the Yale machine some pointers on the game. He responded to the call. He not only went down to New Haven, he he also took his football togs with him and actually got into the game and began tearing holes in the interference of the regular team.

He stated yesterday that the past season team of the Blues was one of the very greatest teams developed at Yale. He also stated that the team was greater than the great Harvard machine. According to Shevlin, the reason for the greater number of yards gained by the Crimson bunch, was simply the old trick of letting a team defeat itself. In other words the Harvard team wore itself out attempting to get the ball into the Yale territory.

Yale invariably kicked the ball when the team secured possession of it. Harvard would rush and play desperately for lost ground, and then Yale would secure possession of the ball again and kick it far into the enemy's territory. In the opinion of the former Yale leader, Yale has much the better all-round team, had the best kicker and also had the most resourceful leader.

And coming down to Western football, Shevlin is of the opinion that Minnesota possessed more football knowledge than Michigan, and that Michigan only won because its team possessed more great players than the Minnesota team.

He pointed out that Minnesota defeated every team in its class. He ventured the opinion that the Wolverines were slightly above the class showed by the Gophers. He stated that Chicago and Wisconsin were both teams in the Minnesota class and both of those teams were soundly beaten by the Gophers.

Like many Eastern players Tommy would not admit that there were many great players in the West. He stated that McGovern and Benbrook were great players, both in knowledge of the game and ability to execute plays. Outside of these two sterling players, Shevlin would not say that there were any players in the West during the past season of the caliber of Coy, Minot, Cooney, Kilpatrick or Hobbs.

Shevlin was one of the greatest players produced during a great period of football. Aside from his strenuous and amazing speed for a big man, and his dash and brilliancy of play, he was known as a player who used judgment and brains.

He has had ample opportunity to study the teams of both sections of the country. He is a Minnesota man by birth, though an Eastern man by education and football experience. Therefore he should take a neutral view of the situation. If his judgment is fair and unbiased, we have not as yet the great players in the West that are turned out in the East.

However, the West is making rapid strides and it is to be hoped that it will not be very long before we may be sending teams into the East to compete upon even terms with the great teams there.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien is going down the lane that leads to the wide doors of the down and out club. When a man like Al Kaufmann can have decidedly the better of the shifty Philadelphian in a six-round session, it is time that the fake confessor gave up the game, or took on some of the easy ones, as Abe Attell is doing. O'Brien is not an athletic spring chicken. He has been following the game for these past many years. He never beat a good man in his life, but his cleverness and shifty footwork has enabled him to stand off many of the best in the game for six rounds. It is very doubtful if he will ever fight in a championship fight again. It is a shame that he could not be inveigled into a match with stubby Sam Langford, so that the fight career of the wily Philadelphian could be ended in a sudden and truly spectacular manner.

HARRIS AND SAILOR MATCHED

Navy Champion Agrees to Throw Mauritz Three Times in an Hour.

Mauritz Harris, the well-known wrestler of this city, and Sailor Jack, who claims the welterweight championship of the navy, met yesterday afternoon and agreed on terms for a handicap match, the stipulations of which are that the Sailor agrees to toss the Superior grappler three times in an hour.

Articles of agreement binding the match were signed.

There is considerable feeling between the two wrestlers. The sentiment started when the man who claims the welterweight title in the navy circles started in making loud-voiced assertions of the Person-Gordon match. Harris, quiet and unobtrusive, listened with attentive ear and then came quietly forward and accepted the offer of the Sailor to toss him three times within sixty minutes of wrestling.

There will be about fifteen pounds difference in the weight of the two men, but the handicap offered by the Sailor is a liberal one. There are scores of fans at the Head of the Lakes who have seen Harris wrestle who are of the opinion that the Sailor will have his hands full in throwing the little man once in the allotted time.

Back of the high-sea champion is a number of men who have from time to time expressed a desire to wager a goodly amount of the coin of the realm on their man. There are a number of friends of Harris who are so positive that no welterweight in this part of the country can toss the Superior man three times in an hour, that the backers of the Sailor man will probably have some cause to use their money.

FEW AUTOS LAID AWAY

Winter Trips Popular With Many Duluth Owners of Cars.

Many New Machines Are Ordered for Spring Delivery.

The weather during the present winter demonstrates more than ever that Duluth is a year around automobile town.

Many people who had intended to canvas-top their machines and lay them away for the winter months, have become tired waiting for spring and have put them back in service. Trips around the country to summer homes are popular just now and those who have traveled the roads about Duluth report them in good shape. W. S. Jones took a trip to Sandstone lately and he reports that road in first class condition. Some are still in the habit of making the Sunday run to the Kendall farm at Pike Lake for the weekly dinner and this road is said to be in first class shape. Several automobile parties have lately visited the branch boat club at Spirit lake.

There will be many new cars on the streets of Duluth when the sun finally shines warm, and real summer approaches. Local dealers say that the orders are larger than in other years and the cars range from small runabouts to the largest of the high-powered cars.

E. E. Baker has a new Stearns as has Phil Thomas. Many new cars will be shipped for spring delivery. Many are coming in each week. The big lot will come, however, with the opening of navigation in the spring.

The Petrel, a car manufactured in Milwaukee, is one of the new ones in Duluth. J. Mark Smith has the agency for these cars which are made in several types, a runabout, a toy tonneau and a five-passenger car. They are a classy looking car and are rated at 30-35 horsepower. Although the car has been on the market for several years and has proved one of the most popular in Wisconsin, and Indiana, it is its first appearance in Duluth. It has rare hill-climbing abilities.

JOHNNY KLING MAY RETURN

Premier Catcher May Be Seen in Game This Season.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 22.—John Kling, one of the few baseball holdouts who really held out, is in a receptive mood. John will talk baseball on the slightest provocation and, if said provocation isn't forthcoming, John will start the talk himself before the confab has reached the first lap.

Kling wants to play ball this year. He hasn't said as much in as many words, but he has said he will play if he can get the money.

It isn't the money that is worrying Kling. John has a paying business in his billiard hall here, and it is true that John doesn't have to pastime for a living if he doesn't want to. But Kling likes the game of baseball. There's the secret, and that's the reason John is in a receptive mood. He fears that if he lingers beyond the pale of organized baseball another season he'll never be able to "come back."

Last year Kling ran a team of young city leaguers—ran them into fourth place in a six club league. It was a poor team and Kling fell into the way of the team. Kling played poor ball. Treason? Maybe, but nevertheless it is the truth. Kling knew it. He admits it now. He couldn't play in that class and keep keyed up. He gave up trying, although he did pick up the cream of the league here and win a series from the Chicago City leaguers.

Kling is afraid that if he remains out of the game another year he'll have too hard a time getting back into the old ways. Hence John G. is ready to talk business with any one who makes an offer and has a right to make that offer. And if Kling can square up with baseball and the terms are suitable he'll play ball in big leaguedom this summer.

That's straight. John doesn't figure that he is in bad with the national commission. He has a paper, signed by Charles Webb Murphy, granting him a leave of absence last summer for the entire season. With this document tucked safely away in his strong box Kling doesn't see how he can be under the ban of baseball's highest tribunal.

"Where would you like to play ball this year?" was asked Kling after it became certain that John was willing to be approached in a baseball way.

"Oh, any old place, just so the money's there," he said.

"Would you play for Murphy?"

"Well, now I don't—Oh, yes, I would, of course, if he'd pay me everything he owes me." But John refused to mention just how much Charles W. is indebted to him and for what.

"How would you like to play in New York, for McGraw?"

"Oh, fine. McGraw's all right. I'd play there. Wouldn't mind playing in Boston either. There's a great town for you. Fine baseball crowd there, too. I believe they're going after a better team. I wouldn't mind playing in Boston."

"How about Philadelphia, John?"

"All right," replied Kling. "I'd play in Philadelphia. Good ball club there, good town, too."

"How about Cincinnati?"

'Oh, Cincinnati's all right, too," he said, "I wouldn't mind playing ball in Cincinnati. I'd go there all right."

"Would you play ball under Griffith?" Kling was asked. "Would it take more than that $9,000 offer of Herrmann's that you turned down?"

Kling hesitated. Evidently that $9,000 bid looks good to Kling now. "Sure, I'd play for Griffith," he said. "I'd play for $9,000 now. What do you think will come of all this talk."

FAVORS THE RUGBY GAME

Princeton Graduate at Oxford Compares American and English Football.

Played With Tigers and Also on Victorious Oxford Team.

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 22.—Saying that he never pretended even to the coaches that he enjoyed playing the American game of football and that he enjoys very much playing English Rugby, Donald Grant Herring, a graduate of Princeton university in the class of 1907, the first Rhodes scholar to make the Oxford university Rugby team, has written a letter, published in the daily Princetonian, the college newspaper, which gives an explanation of the main points of Rugby and likewise compares the injuries of the past season in England at Rugby with the record of fatalities at the American game in the season recently closed.

Herring was a forward on the Oxford Rugby team which beat Cambridge last fall by the record score of 35 to 3, and he has attracted considerable attention by his athletic as well as social attainments. The Tatler, a leading English journal of society and sports, not long ago cartooned Herring as Sandow, because of his powerful physique, and likewise commented on the fact that he is the first Rhodes scholar to be elected to the Myrmidon club, evincing his popularity at Oxford. The Oxford publication—The Varsity—contained recently an article by Herring reviewing his career at Princeton, where he won the intercollegiate heavyweight wrestling championship as well as a position on the varsity football teams of 1905 and 1906, and complimenting him on his success at Oxford at hammer throwing, cricket, hockey, football, as well as scholastic work.

Prefers Rugby.

In his letter to the Princetonian, Herring says of the question of danger in football:

"There can be no doubt whatsoever that Rugby is not nearly so dangerous as the American game. I make due allowance for the softer playing fields in England and for the fact that games are generally cancelled if the ground is frost-bound or too slippery. But, in a season more than twice as long, with a much larger playing body, the serious injuries at Rugby are not more than 4 per cent of those at the American game. This is a conservative statement of opinion from which I will not recede. I remember of hearing of one death this season. At Oxford the biggest forward on the varsity team broke his leg. An Oxford and international three-quarter (our halfback) left the Cambridge match after twelve minutes' play with a broken collar bone. The leader of the Oxford forwards left the game with a cartilage of his knee slipped, but returned and played out the game.

"Of teams playing against Oxford, one man has had a leg broken, two have had broken or dislocated collar bones. The Oxford captain in the Cambridge match went 'down to a forward rush' and was dazed for the rest of the game. And this is looked upon as marvelously bad luck, and is certainly an exceptionally unfortunate season's record of injuries. I leave the obvious comparison with this or any other more fortunate season's record of American football.

"My opinion of the Rugby game was definitely requested. My answer is that I enjoy playing it extremely. I never pretended to anyone, even to the coaches, that I enjoyed playing the American game.

"In the vernacular of the American game, 'interference' is called 'protection to the runner.' One has also heard of protection in the shape of headgears, pads, etc. Latterly, there has been a gentle protest against the danger to those who play the American game founded on some facts of the past season and other seasons.

"In Rugby, there are no pads and there is no interference. Yet I have described as above a season of great misfortune as regards injuries, one exceptionally so. Now no interference necessitates a very open passing game. And such a game seems to be at once spectacular to the watcher, which is not of the least importance, pleasant for the player, which is of more importance, and lastly, a guarantee that the race will not be imparied through strained hearts, wrenched and torn ligaments, brain concussions, spinal injuries, and the like, to men who are fit to be and should form an increasingly important section of the community. It is the bruising, battering, smashing, gruelling masses on tackle, and plunges through center, seven men against one that do the damage. I've played tackle, and guard, and center, and halfback, and I know."

Herring here mentions the fact that "soccer" or association football and English Rugby are not the same games, as is believed by many, that the former is the kicking, dribbling game that is being widely played in America, but is not one-tenth as popular in England as Rugby. At Oxford recently, about twenty persons turned out to see a varsity soccer game, whereas about 5,000 were present at a "rugger" match. Speaking of the essentials of Rugby, Herring says in part:

"As to Rugby, be it known that the American game is its offspring, somewhat buffeted by time, but still the legitimate child of a great mother. The Rugby field and goals are the same as in America. The players are fifteen on a side, as in the American game previous to the late 90's. They are eight forwards, called collectively the 'pack,' the 'scrum,' or the 'maul' (the 'line' of the American game), four three-quarters, spoken of collectively as the 'three-quarter line' or simply 'line' (the American halves and fullback), two halves, 'scrum half' and 'stand-off half' (the American quarterback), one fullback who at all times fulfills the functions of the American punt catcher, the safety man of the side.

"Possession of the ball is not definitely the right of one side or the other except when a run is actually in progress.

"All nine 'tries' (the American touchdown) were gained by the two wing three-quarters. In one case the ball went clear out to the right wing and came all the way back across to the left wing who scored by dodging two would-be-tacklers. The tries were almost all of the nature of the two fine touchdowns against Princeton in 1902, clean bursts through the line and dodging of the back while at top speed. Nearly all English tries are of this sort. They must be, because there is no interference.

"Briefly, I can maintain that in Rugby drop kicks are made, not from a formation, but while in the act of running, and with either foot. That all 'outsides' must be able to kick with either foot while running at full speed. They must be able to kick across the field, dropping the ball into the arms or at the feet of one of their own side, who can touch it only if the kicker has run ahead and put him onside. That all 'outsides' must be able to pick up a ball from the ground while running, even though the field be wet and the ball greasy. The Oxford XV, this year played more than half their games on wet, more or less muddy fields. Finally, that all men play with bare knees and no padding and that substitutes are not allowed.

"Americans boast that as 'individuals' and that as a nation they seize on another's good thing, make the idea their own, and improve it. Also that they never neglect an opportunity. Here is the thing and now is the time. The rules committee, after prodigious labor, have brought forth many mole hill 'changes' in the rules. Let them now after twenty years, rectify their greatest and most stupid blunder and give us back the game we used to have before the runner was granted his protection.

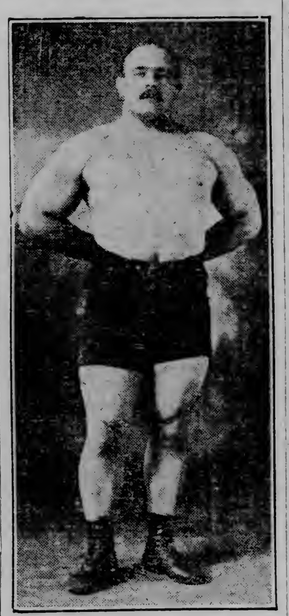

"I sincerely hope that American football will be born again."

OFFICIALS WILL WITNESS MATCH

Mayor and City Fathers Invited to Zybszko-Person Contest.

Mayor Haven and the city officials will be invited to the Person-Zybszko match as the guests of the Duluth Athletic club. Ringside seats will be reserved for the city family.

Word from J. H. Herman, manager of the champion Polish wrestler yesterday, stated that Zybszko would be in Duluth probably the morning of Tuesday, Feb. 4. Herman also stated that personally he had no fear of the outcome of the finish match with Yousiff Mahmout, and that when Zybszko defeated the Bulgarian, articles would be signed for a finish match between Gotch and the Pole.

ZYBSZKO.

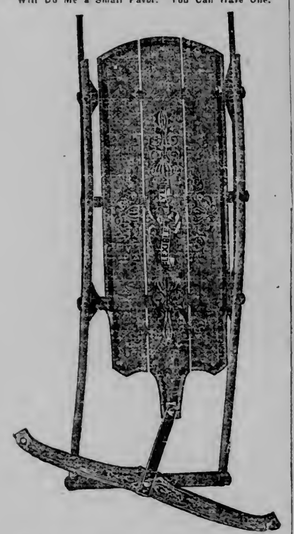

Arrangements will be completed for a public reception here of the great Polish wrestler by some of his countrymen. Just where the receptions will be held, has not been decided upon as yet. In every large city in this country in which he has wrestled, Zybszko has been received by people of his own nationality.

Person began training today for the match. He will train as he never trained before for any contest. He was exceedingly stiff after the Gordon match and yesterday was the first day he took any exercise.

Sled That Steers Will Be Given to Every Boy Who Will Do Me a Small Favor. You Can Have One.

This is the greatest sled for boys and girls ever manufactured. Known all over the country as "the sled that steers." Runners are spring steel, and when you coast down hill a slight pressure of the foot curves them and steers the sled to one side. No digging in the snow with your heels or plowing the snow with your feet. Not one boy in a hundred has one of these sleds. You can have one for a little easy work. Write me today and I will tell you all about it.

HOCKEY, GREAT CANADIAN WINTER GAME, POPULAR WITH DULUTH BOYS

A SCENE ON THE TWELFTH AVENUE RINK.

Free skating rinks are proving very popular with the youngsters of the city. The free rink in the East end is crowded daily with a crowd of young skaters, who are showing by their presence that the city authorities have struck a popular chord by installing the free rinks.

Children of all ages, both boys and girls can be seen on the ice. Parents bring their children to the rink, and mornings, afternoons and evenings the rink is the scene of gayety.

During the mornings and afternoons many impromptu hockey games are played, and the Canadian game is becoming almost as popular as baseball with Duluth boys.

GREAT BALL PLAYERS NOT AFRAID TO TAKE CHANCES

(By Umpire Billy Evans.)

The successful ball team is the one that takes desperate chances in any and all departments of the game.

No team ever won a pennant by depending on pitching or batting alone to down the opposition. Of course, these factors play a prominent part, bu the ability to grasp opportunities and take chances is just as essential, if not more so.

Pittsburg won the pennant in the National League because it had a high-class catcher, a good pitching staff, an excellent defense and, best of all, players who were willing to take chances, alert to every opportunity and always desirous of accomplishing the seemingly impossible.

Detroit won the championship in the American League under just about the same conditions. The club boasted of better than the average talent in all departments and had several players who took the long chances, and generally got away with them. The Pirates defeated the Tigers in the world's series, not because they took any more chances than the Detroit team, but simply because they got much better results from the chances they took.

It has been the case in the history of baseball that the team that looked the best on paper before the season opened, failed miserably in the regular campaign. In many cases the club in question appeared to have the pitching talent that would hold the opposition to very few runs, a defense that compared favorably with the swirling staff and batting ability to drive in enough runs to win a big percentage of the games played.

Nine times out of ten, the failure of such a club may be directly traced to the inability of the players to take advantage of the opportunities offered and the refusal to take desperate chances at the risk of life and limb on the bases. It's the pulling off of the unexpected that wins more victories than air-tight pitching, hard hitting or brilliant fielding. Invariably, the accomplishing of the unexpected play sends the opposition ballooning, and before a landing is made, the game is usually beyond recall.

Quite a few of the champion Pittsburg team were ever alert to any chance that might be offered, and they were always willing to go through with the play at any cost. Perhaps no player on the Pittsburg team ever did so many difficult feats as Hans Wagner. His great success in whatever he tried to do spelled more victories for Pittsburg than the individual efforts of any one player.

Any time Wagner reached first in the series with the Tigers he generally kept on running until he had crossed the plate. The Detroit catchers knew any time he reached first they had trouble on their hands, but despite this knowledge they failed to stop the "Flying Dutchman." He stole bases almost at will, and his work in this department of the game alone was just about the undoing of the Tigers.

Cobb Steals Home.

The far-famed star of the Tigers, Tyrus Cobb, took just as many chances as Wagner, but didn't get away with them like the Pittsburg wonder. Although just as fleet of foot, Cobb failed to meet with the same success, yet the most thrilling feature of the entire series was his wonderful steal of home in the second game. He performed the extraordinary feat in a cleancut style, and there was never a question as to the decision.

Just as Willis started to wind up Cobb made his dash for the plate. The elongated Pirate twirler divined his intentions in an instant, cut short his motion and hurled the ball to Catcher Gibson. Some distance from the plate Cobb hit the dust and made his famous fade-away slide. The ball came to Catcher Gibson at a rather mean angle to handle, and before he could get the sphere on Cobb he had scraped the toe of his foot over the corner of the plate and was safe. Although the Tigers had a small lead before Cobb pulled off the entirely unexpected, that play was the turning point in the game, it made victory easy for the Tigers.

In the sixth game of the series at Detroit the Pittsburg team pulled off a play that brought censure from many of the fans, but it was really good baseball when considered from the standpoint of Pittsburg and Manager Clarke.

As I recall the play, Abstein led off with a single in the ninth, and Wilson followed with a bunt. The throw to get Wilson at first was a trifle wide, and in order to get the ball Tom Jones was forced to take a step toward the fast-advancing runner. Jones accepted the ball just as Wilson crashed into him. The force of the collision was so great that Jones was unable to hold the ball, falling to the ground unconscious. Abstein went to third and Wilson to second on the play before Delehanty, who backed up, could recover the ball.

With no one down, men on second and third, one run to tie and two to win, things certainly looked good for the Pirates. Jones, because of his injuries, left the game, and Sam Crawford came in from center to play the bag. Gibson hit a fast one to him on the ground and Abstein was spotted at the plate. Things began to look a bit better for the Tigers. Abbaticchio was sent to bat for the pitcher by Clarke.

Pirates Miss a Double Steal.

Things had been breaking rather badly for Schmidt that day, and with the call three and two on him, Manager Clarke decided to try the unexpected. If successful it meant the world's championship, otherwise a seventh and deciding game would be made necessary. The signal was passed for the double steal, with added instructions to Abbaticchio that if the ball looked at all good, to take a healthy swing at it. Mullin sent up a beauty, and as he let the ball go, Wilson dashed for third and Gibson second. There were two possibilities, a hit by Abbaticchio, a mighty good man in a pinch, meant that at least one and probably two runs would go over the plate. A bad throw to third by Schmidt, who had been pegging none too well, would be just as good as a hit, so Clarke figured the percentage was all in his favor.

Unfortunately for Clarke, his plans went wrong. Abbaticchio failed to hit the ball and was out on strikes. Then Catcher Charley Schmidt put the finishing touches on the grand finale by making a beautiful throw to third. Wilson slid into the bag with terrific force. Moriarity was waiting, put the ball on him, and Umpire Klem called him out. The game was over, the quick double play had killed the Pirates' rosy chances.

Clarke's plans had been frustrated and naturally he came in for much criticism, but had Abbaticchio singled or Schmidt made a wild throw, the contest would have been won, and with it the world's championship.

Of course there were a number of other plays pulled off in the series, prominent among them being Tommy Leach's superhuman effort to catch Sam Crawford's line drive in the fifth game of the series that went for a home run. A false low fence was built in the Pittsburg outfield, and Leach went into this fence at full speed trying to pull down the drive. The fence was made of one-inch boards, and two of these were broken by the force of the impact. It was feared Leach was badly hurt, but after a few minutes he resumed play.

The world's series of 1909 was a battle between two teams composed of players willing to take chances and the Pirates won because they got the best results from their efforts.

WHEN "MINER" BROWN WENT SHARK FISHING IN CUBA

(By Mordecai Brown.)

Talk about your polo grounds tea parties—it's the soft pedal for that stuff when you try to picture it in the same class with a shark hunt. I have been both places and all my pin money goes on the sea food. Muggsy McGraw's raving is a stage whisper alongside the battle we had with one of those man-eating sharks in the shadows of Morro Castle. It's bully fun to hook black bass in an open boat, but I'm here to state that the next time any Spaniards invite me out to angle for sharks doing 500 pounds ringside weight they'll first have to chloroform me. Too much of the shark stunt is plenty for your Uncle Mordecai.

The catch that got my goat happened on the day before I started home from Havana. While sightseeing around the island on the trip with McAllister's squad I chanced to observe a bunch of natives engaged in the gentle task of landing a shark. It was one of those boys you read about but seldom see. Weighing fully 700 pounds, twelve feet long, and as hungry a looking brute as you ever popped your eyes on. Naturally the shark-hunting business scored a three-bagger with me, inasmuch as we never saw anything but pool sharks, land sharks or P. G. sharks down at Rosedale, Ind., my home town.

While sitting around the Plaza hotel after one of the games I asked Tommy McMillian, the Brooklyn shortstop, to accompany me on a fishing trip the next morning. The "Rabbit" never dreamed I wanted him to assist me in a shark hunt. In fact, it was Tommy who told me how a sailor had tumbled off one of those battle ships and right into the teeth of a particularly vicious man-eater.

So the next morning Tommy, an American named Kent and a Spanish sportsman went with me to the harbor bank. We got into a rowboat sixteen feet long and pulled out to the mouth of the harbor, a distance of about a half-mile. There's where we got another surprise. According to the articles of agreement, the packing plants each day must have all the refuse hauled out of the city and dumped into the harbor. A big boat patterned on the order of a dredge is utilized for this work. Now, it happens that this dumping craft has been steaming out into the harbor every morning for years and years.

About the second day after the "dump" was put into commission every shark in the South Atlantic and surrounding waters "wised up" to the coming of the feast. You know sharks aren't particular about what they eat. Just as we got within hailing distance of Morro Castle the dumping boat proceeded to do its deadly work. As the remnants of carcasses tumbled and slid out into the harbor the sharks, a million of them, seemed to pop up from all parts of the water, snapping and sputtering to beat the cars.

The Spaniard in our boat muttered "Viva La Espanlola," or something else that sounded like the name of a stogy, but which in reality meant "Stick to the ship." I know I could have stuck there for a month, for only a bug would have jumped overboard. There wasn't enough refuse to satisfy the hunger of all those sharks, so the eighteen-inch fish we brought as bait had a chance to do something heroic. First we fastened the bait to a powerful gaff hook and after picking out a nice quiet part of the harbor tossed the fish overboard, at the same time paying out on the rope which served as line. That string must have been a quarter of a mile long and later we found we needed every inch of it.

After holding our breath for ten minutes, as all good fishermen do, we felt something tugging at the line. It wasn't a gentle tug either. "Hokee Pokos Broncbusts," chirped the Spaniard, meaning "we got a bite." Then the fun started. In about a jiffy the line stiffened out, indicating that Mr. Shark was trying to pull off some fancy work. All four of us grabbed the bait and a merry tug-of-war followed.

It didn't take long to drag the man-eater within striking distance of the boat, and once there I managed to do some execution with a keen-edged knife. I jabbed that blade into the shark's neck two or three times before he could turn and fight away. Then we had to repeat the tussle, again pulling him back to the boat. I repeated the knife thrusts, but on a third trial as head executioner I lost the weapon.

By that time Mr. Shark was ready for the count and a few healthy wallops on the brow from a billiard cue turned the trick. On the strike of ten the big fish cashed in. He wasn't dead even after all the batting practice, but in that stunned condition he was easy to handle. So we made a long rope wrapped it around his head and tail and with one man to watch the shark and three to row we hiked back to the shore.

Some Cuban soldiers on land spied us as we pulled in and hollered for the rope. A few husky pulls and the catch was shoved up on dry land. One of those expert barbers shaved all the skin off the shark and sliced out the backbone, which measured six feet in length. The bone is down there yet in the hands of a polisher who agreed to make a cane for me. The teeth will be used for emblems when the cubs win the next world's championship. At any rate, those masticators will make swell watch fobs.

Shark fishing isn't the only sport on the island, however. I never met such a sporty lot of people. Some of them would bet their gold teeth on the weather. Chicken fights and jai alie rule, however, as the national pastime. I had one whirl at the jai alli stunt and that's plenty. This game is a cross between handball and tennis, with a lot of right-handed batting in the bargain. It's a swell game to keep away from.

SERIOUS WAR BETWEEN EASTERN AND WESTERN GOLF CLUBS AVERTED

New York, Jan. 22.—Complete harmony between the East and West prevailed tonight at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association. The old constitution was repealed and in its place a revised constitution drawn up by Leighton Calkins of New York, was adopted. The most significant in the change is the reduction of the annual dues for active members from $50 to $30. The $10 fee for the allied clubs, which have no voting privilege, was retained.

Through the whole instrument runs a democratic spirit aimed at making the organization more truly national. Clubs which have only nine-hole courses are now specifically mentioned as being eligible to active membership and no geographical interpretation can be put on any article, as in the old constitution.

TOMMY RYAN TAUGHT JEFF

Boilermaker Owes Most of Ring Knowledge to Trainer.

Ring Craft Literally Beaten Into Jeffries---Refuses to Recognize Instructor.

BY PAUL ARMSTRONG.

It is a long time since I wrote of fights and fighters. Ten years have slipped by since the days I signed myself "Right Cross" for the New York Journal. The stage, which always called me, has finally claimed me and it is doubtful if I will ever again write of the good old game.

In the last five years since my name has meant something, I have frequently been offered foolish amounts of money to "just once more" write of fights.

But the money never tempted me, and I write now only in defense of the things I stood for as "Right Cross" and will forever stand for—fair play.

Ryan Recalls Story.

I am induced to do this by a remark dropped by Tommy Ryan one time welter and middleweight champion of the world. I met Ryan the other day in the Annex. We had not met before for some eight years. Ryan had retired and became a respected and useful citizen. I had become a dramatist and was in Chicago to see my latest play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

We sat over some chysmic to talk over old times. It was a great hour. And this is the remark dropped by Ryan, which calls forth this article.

Talking of Jim Jeffries.

We were talking of Jeffries, when Ryan said:

"Paul, will you tell me what I ever did to Jeff that should have him out with a hammer for me?"

"I laughed, and, as a joke, said: "Why Tom, you never did anything to Jeff. I was there and saw it happen. You didn't do a thing to Jeff."

And Ryan grinned and said: "A thousand times I have said I wished you were still writing, just so the public could know just what I did do for Jeff. You are the only one who knows."

While Ryan made a slight mistake in saying I was the only one who knew, he spoke truly in saying I knew.

Four Men Who Know.

As a matter of fact there are four men who know—Delaney, Jack (Jeffries' brother), Ryan and myself.

Ryan likely meant I am the only man who writes who knows, and for the sake of fair play I am going to tell.

Greatest Fighter of His Inches.

First, as to Ryan, who has been accused of everything on the crooked fighters' calendar, but was nevertheless the greatest fighter, pound for pound, that America ever produced. He was campion of two classes, the best betting proposition in the ring and as interesting a man in action as ever lived. The first exponent of fighting cleverness, he could feint you into blindness, jolt you into idiocy or knock you dead with a wallop. He had a cool head, blinding speed and every known punch. He fought more than twenty years, everything from six-round exhibitions to bare knuckle finishes in private. And he was once beaten decisively. He offered to fight Fitzsimmons for the middleweight championship and had Fitz kept his word and made the middleweight Ryan would have been there.

And he fought with a crouch all his life—remember that.

When Jeff Was a Cub.

And as to Jeffries.

In the Right Cross days there came under my observation a much touted coast wonder, who had seen a sparring partner of Corbett's at Carson City. Delaney had picked him up because he was big and strong and was getting tempting to make something of him.

He came to New York and was to fight two men in the same ring—Steve O'Donnell and Bob Armstrong. Both were yellow heavyweights, one an Australian, the other a negro.

Fails to Stop Negro.

Jeffries drew Armstrong first. There was the usual delay, but finally the bell clanged and we saw the big wonder in action.

He proved to be a big lumbering sucker. He had a lot of useless footwork and a feint or two he had picked up off Corbett, but he stood on his heels, started his hooks from behind him and didn't know what his right hand was for.

Armstrong stayed his ten rounds, and on the excuse that Jeff had hurt his hand he refused to go on with O'Donnell.

Then Jeffries faded from view.

Brady Becomes Interested.

Some months later Bill Brady came to me one night at a 6-day bicycle race and called me aside to ask my opinion of Jeffries, saying that Delaney still believed in him and wanted to bring him back East. It developed in the talk that Brady thought of managing Jeffries and he was evidently feeling me out as to what the attitude of Right Cross would be toward a man he intended to play up for a champion.

I was perfectly candid and told Brady I believed if Jeff knew how to box he would be a great heavyweight. And in that talk I mentioned that if Jeff had some one like Ryan to teach him might be a champion.

The talk ended by Brady saying he hadn't yet decided what he would do, and the matter rested a week or so. Then one night Brady announced to me that he had Jeff and was dealing with Ryan to train with him. The combination looked promising and Right Cross took Jeffries and his future seriously.

This was in the winter, at a time when Fitz was trying to make Sharkey fight, with O'Rourke stalling out of each corner. They finally met, the meeting broke up in a row and Martin Julian, Fitz's manager, was lamenting the fact that Fitz could find no opponents. Brady had gone West, but I took it upon myself to tell Julian that Jefferies would fight Fitz. Both Julian and Fitzsimmons jumped at it, and the next morning I drew the articles for the fight and Kid Eagan signed for Brady and Jeffries. The date of the fight was made June 9, and the articles drawn in February. Both fighters then went with burlesque shows and Right Cross kept the match before the public by frequent stories.

Finally when the spring came Jeffries went to Asbhurst, N. J., next door to Asbury Park, to train.

The weak end of the fight was Jeffries, so Right Cross, for the Morning and Evening Journal, went to Asbury Park to live.

I was within a short walk of the training quarters, on very friendly terms with Delaney, Ryan and Jeffries, so went there every day.

Saw Jeff Take Lessons.

I was the only man, save Delaney and Jack Jeffries, who even saw Jeffries get his from Ryan.

At that time Jeffries seemed to understand that I was a pretty good friend and when he went to the barn to box with Ryan he used to ask me along.

And now as to what Ryan did to and for Jeffries:

First, Jeffries was without style, a knowledge of hitting or blocking. All he had was the chance of the big game man who can take a beating and keep swinging. Ryan knew that as Jeff fought the night he met Armstrong he was built to order for Fitzsimmons, hence he started in to beat Jeffries into smothering up instead of coming as if to embrace.

Saw the Transformation.

Delaney, Jack Jeffries and I, and we alone, saw the transformation. Ryan did not box or explain. He jabbed and he jolted and he hooked and he swung, and Jeff with a sharpish smile took it.

And that was the best he had. If he reached back to get one of his left hooks Ryan's right shot to the side of his head with a thud. If he tried to swing the right Ryan crossed inside with a left hook, then back with a straight right, and the big fellow staggered back.

Ryan would feint Jeff's hands up to his head, then bing, bang would go left and right to the body. He hit him wherever he liked, whenever he liked and Jeff's attempts to lead or counter were so pathetic that frequently both Delaney and brother Jack would leave the barn in disgust.

Jeff Always Trying.

And be not deceived with the idea that there was any agreement that Jeff was not to do his best. He was always trying, and Ryan saying, "Come on, come on."

They swore and fought and scarcely spoke at times, but Ryan was not a common hired sparring partner. He wanted Fitzsimmons beaten, and before him was a big strong youth matched with his enemy. He knew Fitz, his every trick, his weakness and his strength. He could imitate him perfectly, and he made Jeff fight Fitz in that barn. He would jolt Jeff and stop and explain and then do it again harder. At times Jeff was discouraged. A hundred times he asked me if I thought he had a chance with Fitzsimmons. I would tell Ryan and he would say, "If he's going to quit I'll make him do it in this barn, not in the ring," and the session would be one of blinding speed, blood and taunts.

No Quit in Jeff.

But there was no quite in Jeff. There is none. He was and is, game, and his courage is as rock-ribbed as the everlasting hills. (And lay your bet on that in the coming fight, for that is the ace.)

Ryan says I know more of those tutor days than any one. I guess that's true. Delaney didn't like to see it and quit coming. Jack used to try to advise Jeff, and Jeff didn't want him around. I used to stand by and "sic" Ryan on, and some way the big bear liked me for that.

Jeff was not taken in hand like a young millionaire and gently taught. He was turned into a barn with the cleverest fighter alive, who was trying to break his nose, cave in his ribs, could.

And he learned first to protect himself and next to hit while protected.

Ryan Taught Him Crouch.

Ryan's wallops at the body taught him Ryan's crouch, and the old straight left that Ryan used, a left that traveled six inches and set your head back. In the hands of Jeffries lowered to travel four inches and set you down.

Ryan's little left hook to the floating rib that slowly stopped his men, in Jeff's hands brought a temporary but complete paralysis.

Ryan's short right, straight as a wagon tongue, that stopped many a rushing sucker, in Jeff's hands later stove Sharkey in like a ship pounding on a rock-strewn lea shore.

It was Ryan's rapid fire battery of six inch guns turned into twelve inch, in Jeffries' hands.

At the ringside it was Ryan's mind that won. Only one sound ever reached Jeffries' ear that night of June 9. It was not the howl of the multitude, nor the shrieks of the hysterical Brady, nor the encouragement of his best friend, Delaney. It was the voice of the master, Tommy Ryan, sharp as pistol shots in an arctic silence, that steered him through the reef of tricks that Fitzsimmons forever led him toward.

I heard Ryan as a last injunction, on the day Jeff stopped training, lay out the fight. I heard one thing reiterated until it became a chant:

"Don't ever lift your right hand to Fitz's head, Jeff. Stick to the left to the end."

And will any one who ever saw that fight forget how religiously that injunction was obeyed?

Even when Fitz, with both arms hanging limp, stood swaying, blear eyed and beaten, Jeff hesitated until he heard Ryan' voice.

It came, a scream above the throaty roar of thousands: "Let it go." And a moment later Jeff was champion.

Does any one imagine that Jeffries, in the condition of that night before, fought Sharkey at Coney Island, would have won had it not been for Ryan? He stove Sharkey in like a barrel, oh? All right, but that did not develop till afterwards. Sharkey, rugged as a bear, kept coming like a surf. He carried Jeff backward for fifteen rounds, and it was only when Ryan figured one punch, a right hand uppercut, would beat the sailor, and begged and cursed and finally drove Jeff into using it, that Sharkey began to hesitate.

And the battle with Corbett at Coney Island. Does any one dream Jeff would have got Corbett that night but for Ryan? It was Ryan who saw that Corbett had figured out a way to "ride" on Jeffries' left to the body and who kept Jeff's short hook for the jaw coming. It missed a thousand times, but the persistent "Hit with him" that Ryan yelled a million times finally brought Corbett in a heap. Jeff was discouraged that night, ashamed and humiliated and Ryan was his salvation.

Ryan took Jeffries in hand a lumbering sucker. He left him the champion of the world. All Jeffries has was Ryan's and Tommy gave it all. And the champion should at least be graceful enough to admit the truth.

WANTS UNCLE SAM TO BUILD ARGENTINE SHIPS.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Testimony given by Secretary Knox before the house committee on appropriations reveals the fact that the United States is endeavoring to induce the Argentine republic to have two "dreadnoughts" built in shipyards in this country. The visit of Mr. Knox to the capitol was for the purpose of explaining the estimates for his department for the next fiscal year, with special reference to a request for $100,000 for promoting foreign trade relations. He declared it was to secure to the United States just such opportunities as the one offered by Argentine that he urged the appropriation.

BASEBALL MICROBE SHOWS ACTIVITY

Ripon, Wis., Jan. 22.—Despite three feet of snow, the baseball microbe has begun to show signs of life among local fans. Letters have been received suggesting the formation of a league of clubs, probably including Ripon, Berlin, Markesan, Waupun, Green Lake, Princeton and Horicon. The project seems to find favor here and a meeting will be held in the near future to consider the matter. Claude Westover, who caught for Ripon the last two seasons, has signed with the Winonn league team, and there will be other vacancies to fill this year.

News of the Theater

AT THE LYCEUM

Fritzi Scheff Will Appear for Two Nights in "The Prima Donna"---"Polly of the Circus" Will Fill Out the Week : : : : : :

Fritzi Scheff, she of the velvet voice and piquant personality, will appear at the Lyceum Monday and Tuesday nights in her latest success "The Prima Donna," written for her by Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert, who were also responsible for "Mlle. Modiste," and "The Red Mill."

"The Prima Donna" is described as being that rarest of all rarities—a comic opera with a real plot. Henry Blossom's wit is said to be as sparkling as ever and Victor Herbert is said to have outdone himself with the music. Madame Scheff enacts the role of Mlle. Athenee, the reigning prima donna of the Opera Comique, Paris. An accident to her automobile causes her to take temporary shelter in a little cafe chantant on the outskirts of Paris, where she hears the musical conductor upbraiding a singer for not being able to appear, and she impulsively offers to sing in place of the unfortunate. She takes a false name and sings before the soldiers of the neighboring barracks. A young lieutenant falls in love with her and she is insulted by his captain. This forms the basis for the plot. Instead of the finals of the first act being a big ensemble, as is usual, it is dramatic, being worked up to a legitimate climax. The piece gives Madame Scheff an opportunity to demonstrate that she has rare emotional powers as an actress.

Charles Dillingham's production is of the usual lavish Dillingham type, the two acts being very massive, while it is said that the atmosphere of the cafe chantant is reproduced wonderfully in the first act. The company with which Mr. Dillingham has surrounded Madame Scheff is one of the most notable that has been seen in light opera in this country in some years. It includes such well-known people as John E. Hazzard, Vernon Davidson, William K. Harcourt, Martin Hayden, Anna Pelham, Tillie Salinger, Grace Delmar, Maxine Verande, La Noveta, Katherine Stewart and many others. The orchestra will be largely augmented for the engagement here.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS."

Drama With Novel Plot Coming to Lyceum for Four Nights.

"Entreat me not to leave thee, Whither thou goest, I will go."

They are the immortal words of Ruth, put into the mouth of little Polly, the circus rider, spoken at first in unconcern or wonder, as being something new and strange and different from the tanbark jargon that was the speech of her people, but later breathed in an agony of spirit as a plea against separation from the man she loved. Like a refrain they run through the pretty story of Polly's romance, alternating with echoes of the "barkers'" cry "The greatest show on earth," and between these two utterances, so opposed to one another, there is found the basis of a charming play, "Polly and the Circus," which will be seen at the Lyceum, next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

The play makes a profound emotional appeal. As a dramatic work, it is a thing of much substance; its story is simple and its plot along novel lines. It is profoundly touching, and without overwrought emotional stress, lays a certain hold upon the heart. First of all, it has the deft touch of feminine authorship—coming from the pen of Miss Margaret Mayo—and with womanly sympathy, it does not wander from sentiment into sentimentality.

"Polly of the Circus" is a dramatic study in tender sentiment, not a spectacle. The circus atmosphere is reserved for scenic effects until the last act, when in three different scenes, it is tinted into the general picture without violence to the action itself. In the first act, Polly is brought into the home of a rural minister, after having been injured in one of her bareback exploits under canvas; in the second act, she is seen, about a year afterward the protege of the man who has befriended her, who has become her idol, and of whose heart she has taken quiet possession; and in the third act she is back with the show again, sacrificing her own yearnings in order to save the minister from scandal-hearing deacons and deaconesses. This last episode is in three scenes; first in the lot behind the main tent, where the story is worked out to its conclusion; then in the arena itself, for a whirling forty-five seconds' glimpse of a circus in action.

The Thomsonesque finale is highly effective from the pictorial point of view, though the episode nature of the two last tableaux lets the dramatic action leak away between them, and a few more touches of dialogue or pantomime are apparently necessary to round out the story. Be that as it may, the general impression is delightful. The clowns are bouncing about, the tumblers are tumbling, and the substitute equestrienne is performing genuine circus tricks on the back of a revolving steed, when Polly's frantic distressed, distracted, bursts into the arena, bent upon sacrificing her love, and also professionally determined to prove that she can do as well as in the days of her tanbark glory. But she only faints in a heap and breaks up the show. Then comes the last picture; the village by moonlight with the little church steeple towering above the houses, and, winding their way over the distant hills, the departing lanterns of the circus caravan. And there stands Polly, remaining behind with the man of her fluttering little heart, and upon the words of Ruth again the play closes.

"THE GYPSY GIRL."

Two Performances of Drama By Yankee Doodle Stock Compaany.

"The Gypsy Girl," by the Yankee Doodle Stock company, the attraction billed for the Lyceum for two performances on Sunday, is an intensely interesting and powerful comedy drama in four acts.

Its scenes are laid in a little North Atlantic coast town and the story is that of a girl who secretly marries a man who deserts her when he has become tired of her and who comes back to her native village with her child to find that its people, her old friends and neighbors, do not believe that she is married and she is ostracized.

The deserting husband, falling in love with a young heiress, follows her, as a suitor for her hand, to the town where his wife has taken refuge, and finding it necessary to get her and her child out of the way, kills the child and cleverly fastens the crime upon the mother, who is charged by the narrow-minded townspeople with the murder and brought to the bar of justice to answer for the crime.

Upon this theme the author has built a plot that teems with dramatic incident and beautiful lines and at last brings the piece to a plausible and happy ending.

There will be but two performances of "The Gypsy Girl," those of Sunday afternoon and evening.

Lyceum Notes.

Recently a San Francisco theatre audience was on the verge of a panic. David Warfield and his company started it, innocently enough. Belasco's famous star recently appeared in his native city, acting there for the first time in "The Music Master." In the first act of this popular play, Belasco introduces a bit of color by showing the result of practicing acrobats whose tumbling on the floor above, which shakes the chandeliers, is heard but not seen—excepting the effect on the chandeliers. San Francisco had seen this effect before. Chandeliers were shaken just that way during the earthquake. The majority of the audience was breathless and many had half-consciously risen in their seats; but the actor, himself a San Franciscan, seemed to feel the situation and broke the tenseness by speaking his lines more quickly than usual, revealing the cause of the disturbance, which was confined only to the ceiling of the stage picture.

An early booking at the Lyceum is George Broadhurst's immense success, "The Man of the Hour." Managers William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer's special company will be seen during this engagement.

The patrons of the Lyceum will welcome the announcement that Manager Marshall has again secured "The Great Divide" for presentation here shortly. "The Great Divide" has gone on record as playing to a larger number of people in a given time than any other of New York's great dramatic successes. Since Henry Miller produced the play three years ago, it has played over 500 performances in New York alone, to capacity business at every performance during the run at the Princess and Daly's theaters, and later at the Academy of Music, and it has broken all records at the Adelphi theater, London, with Mr. Miller as "Stephen Ghent." "The Great Divide" is under the direction of Henry Miller, America's foremost producing actor-manager.

That popular favorite and singing comedian, Al. H. Wilson, is coming to the Lyceum soon in his new romantic drama "Neiz in Ireland." The new drama, which has scored a very great hit in other cities will be presented here with a splendid cast, a large chorus of singers and dancers, and an elaborate display of handsome scenery, costumes and electric effects. Mr. Wilson has composed several new songs for the play.

An attraction that has met with success throughout the country is the dramatization of Mrs. Mary J. Holmes' widely read novel, "Lena Rivers." From reports a good play was made out of the book, and hence it is being heralded as the greatest comedy success of modern times. "Lena Rivers" will be presented at the Lyceum on Feb. 3, 4, and 5. The company is under the direction of the Yankee Doodle Stock company.

AT THE BIJOU

The Phantastic Phantoms, a Powerful Labor Playlet, and Other Feature Attractions on the Vaudeville Program for Next Week. : : :

The vaudeville acts that will appear at the Bijou, commencing Monday matinee and continuing all week, should prove one of the best drawing cards of the season, as each act is first class.

Heading the bill will be the Phantastic Phantoms, which will be presented by Hilarion and Rosalie Ceballes. The act is one of the best scenic and most elaborately costumed acts in vaudeville. The act is a girl act with seven pretty young women. It is a study in black and white, with some exceptionally clever acrobatic dances, bright songs and enough humor to blend the offering. The act is staged by Ned Wayburn, and the music is by George Byrd Dougherty. The Chicago Daily News writes of the act as follows: "The Phantastic Phantoms is a girlish novelty in black and white; and is the newest and brightest vaudeville attraction that has been seen in Chicago for some years in the local theaters playing vaudeville."

All who fancy athletics will enjoy seeing Louis Guertin, who claims to be the world's champion high and broad jumper. Mr. Guertin will be one of the week's strong attractions. His act includes fence jumping in hurdle fashion, long jumping, jumping with weights and vaulting. Each feat is executed brilliantly and gracefully. Mr. Guertin's record running broad jump is 22 feet 9 inches.

Helen Carmen, "The Girl With the Contagious Smile," will be a delightful feature of the program. Miss Carmen attributes the characterization, "The Girl With the Contagious Smile" to the fact that she wins her audience right from the start and they are ever smiling all the time she is on the stage. Miss Carmen presents a repertoire of melodies that are unequaled for art and effectiveness.

A good comedy act will be Edwin Winchester, the musical monologist, who is presenting in vaudeville an original offering that has been a big hit so far on the circuit. He renders selections upon various instruments, besides his entertaining monologue.

As an added feature and one that every labor union man and his family should see, will be Miss May Nannery in the powerful labor play entitled: "The Hand That Rules." This is the most powerful labor play that has ever appeared in vaudeville, and one that is worthy of serious consideration, particularly by the wives and daughters of working men. A complete equipment of special scenery is carried for the production of the act.

Earl Morse will sing the now popular Irish song, entitled "Nora Malone, Call Me On the 'Phone," illustrated.

The moving pictures will be up to the usual high standard, showing only exclusive subjects. Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and night performances 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. Performances are given Sunday afternoon and night, and a special school children's matinee Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All scholars under 11 years of age, are admitted for 5 cents.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

New Globe Theatre and "The Old Town"—"The King of Cadonia" a Success"—Somber Story Told in "Olive Latimer's Husband."

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Adelina Genee has left us, and Rex Beach's "The Barrier," dramatized by Eugene Presbrey, has taken her place at the New Amsterdam. Frank Daniels has moved out of Daly's, and "The King of Cadonia," with William Norris and Margaret Clark, is reigning there. At the Broadway, "The Midnight Sons" having gone on tour; their next of kin. "The Jolly Bachelors," have taken possession. But the event of the week was the opening, Monday night, of the new Globe theater by Charles Dillingham, with Montgomery and Stone, in "The Old Town," one of George Ade's pieces, set to music by Gustav Luders. At the Hackett a new play, "Olive Latimer's Husband," was given a trial one afternoon. These, with a number of minor changes, constitute the movements on the theatrical checkerboard for the past week.

The opening of a new theater in New York creates no more disturbance than a pebble cast into a millrace, but the fact that the opening of the Globe meant a home for the productions of one of the most enterprising American managers, Charles Dillingham, to-wit, after all invested the event with more than passing interest. Fortune seems to smile on the enterprise from the start. For the two comedians, Montgomery and Stone, scored even more emphatically than they did in "The Red Mill."

"The Barrier," too, was received with considerable favor, and Theodore Roberts created a degree of enthusiasm by his realistic acting in the virile melodrama that almost swamped the interest created by the play itself. Likewise, "The King of Cadonia" is to be credited with a favorable reception.

The new Globe is a handsome little playhouse, with a small, compact auditorium and a large stage. Although the entrance is on Broadway, just above Forty-sixth street, the facade is on the latter thoroughfare.

Neither the productive Ade nor the musically fecund Luders has been especially happy in "The Old Town." The workmanship is perfunctory in both instances. That nevertheless the piece scored an unequivocal hit and proved one of the best musical entertainments of that character seen on Broadway for several seasons is a feather in the cap of the two comedians, as well as the producer. The exceedingly clever specialties and the fine scenic features account for this. Stone has never been so funny since he played the scarecrow in "The Wizard of Oz." He is about the only song-and-dance comedian who expands with his opportunities.

He introduced at least two novelties that put him in a class by himself. One of these is a remarkably clever wire-walking act, in which, in addition to his laughable burlesque stunts, he performs some amazing feats of equilibrism, while in the last act he gives a marvelous performance with a lariat in the guise of a cowboy. His roping and dancing through the circling loops furnished the jaded first-nighters with a new sensation, and when he slid across the stage from one side to the other on his ear in a comedy fall the house went frantic. Montgomery also performs some clever specialties, and it is when the two are together doing their Swedish specialty that they are at their best. They responded to the recalls until they were exhausted.

Within the orchestra rail, baton in hand, directing the music, sat Arthur Pryor. There were those in the house who remembered Pryor, then a little boy in knickerbockers, playing a trombone bigger than himself as the soloist of his father's band at Streckenbein's Garden, St. Joseph, Mo., the same place where twenty-two years ago, Dave Montgomery made his first bow to the public as a performer. On this night the two, with Fred Stone, Montgomery's partner, were the center of attraction in one of the most fashionable Broadway theaters. Thus the whirligig of time, etc.

"The King of Cadonia" has undergone some remarkable polishing since it started the season, and the addition of Margaret Clark and several other clever players has materially improved matters. The piece now is characterized by dash and fun, as well as the sort of music that is usually popular on Broadway. Miss Clark scored in a number entitled "Coo-oo," in which she appears with several doves on her arms. Clara Palmer has several dances that led her to be recalled half a dozen times. The piece was well received and forms one of at least three musical shows on the Great White Way that have suddenly pushed their way to the front in popular interest.

"Olive Latimer's Husband," a three-act play by Rudolf Besier, was given at a special matinee at the Hackett theater. Besier is the young Englishman who wrote "Don," which was given at the New Theater a short time ago, but it differs as widely from that engaging comedy as night from day. "Olive Latimer's Husband" is a domestic tragedy with hardly a touch of the quaint humor to be found in "Don." In the play at the Hackett, Mary Lawton appeared in the leading feminine part, that of Olive Latimer, unhappily married to the man who gives the title to the play, and dying from typhoid as the curtain rises.

The complication is most interesting and the suspense is capital, but, if anything, overworked. For the better part of the three acts we are left under the impression that Olive is a heartless, designing woman, hardly better than her husband's murderess, for she has purposely failed to arouse Nurse O'Connor from a two hours' nap, arousing her only when she was sick and wrote a mysterious letter to his one-time best friend, Sir Charles Weyburn. The fatal consequence of this exertion is forgiven by the old physician, Dr. Morpeth, and in a fit of despondency, Mrs. O'Connor openly accuses Olive of being guilty of her husband's murder.

The great interest in the play consists of the mystery which the last letter contains. Between Latimer and Sir Charles there has been bad blood, of Margaret Clark and the addition of Margaret Clark and several other clever players has materially improved matters. The piece now is characterized by dash and fun, as well as the sort of music that is usually popular on Broadway. Miss Clark scored in platonic when Sir Charles arrives at Latimer's house in response to a telegram dictated to the doctor by Latimer, requesting his attendance at his sick bed. Charles comes too late. Latimer has already lost consciousness, but there is an ardent meeting between him and Olive, and we are forced to conclude that Olive was actuated in neglecting to wake the sleeping nurse, by her desire for his death—in order that she might ultimately become the wife of Sir Charles.

Full of remorse, Olive at last openly avows her responsibility for the death of her husband, and insists that Sir Charles shall read the fateful letter, firmly believing that it contains a violent arraignment of her and a warning to his one-time friend to shun the guilty woman. A surprise is created when the letter is opened and it turns out that it is not a warning but a last request of the dying man, assured of his inability to recover, that Charles and Olive should be united in marriage and be happy.

This denouement is unexpected, and it puts a new face on the situation. But it comes too late—just a few minutes before the last curtain fall—to enable Olive to overcome the loss of sympathy which she has sustained in what has gone before. She has been a hard-used woman. Her parents are social parasites. They drove her into this loveless marriage, and she has been miserably happy. But she has made no defense of her desire for Latimer's death; she has hailed Charles with undisguised joy while her husband lay dying, and her parental vindication has been too long deferred. The playwright has overworked his suspense and the play is gloomy, though interesting, to the last.

It is a big part for an actress, that of Olive Latimer, and Miss Lawton has the power and sustaining qualities to lend it the dignity of tragedy, but she overaccentuated the gloom of Olive's unhappiness and threw very little contrast into her acting. The cast was excellent, and included Grant Stewart, Amelia Mayborn, Verner Clarges, Katherine Kappell, Harry Scarborough, Sheldon Lewis, who played Sir Charles, and Hattie Russell, as Mrs. O'Connor, the nurse.

Laurence Irving and his wife, Mabel Hackney, who are appearing in Eugene Brieux's comedy, "The Affinity," translated from "Les Hannetons," have made a favorable impression. The Irving visit is made doubly interesting by the curtain speeches which the son of the famous English artist, Sir Henry, has been delivering nightly. In one of these he retorted in kind to one of the most virulent critics we have in town, who had been animadverting upon him in no overindulgent language, in which the actor's "torso" as well as his wife's art was drawn into dispute. The actor referred to the critic as "a blob of scum" and "a blatant parodist," to which the critic replied mildly enough, but maliciously charging by innuendo that Mr. Irving was trading on his father's reputation. Perhaps neither side observed the moderation that the situation demanded. Most of us richly enjoyed Mr. Irving's art and that of his wife, and did not observe his "torso" as a disturbing factor in the question.

"The Jolly Bachelors," a musical comedy by Glen MacDonough, music by Raymond Hubbell, is one of the hits of the season at the Broadway, where it began an indefinite engagement January 6, following "The Midnight Sons." The production is by Lew Fields, and keeps up the pace set by its predecessor. It is a confusion of color, alternating with dances and punctuated with excellent variety acts. The hit of the piece is made by Norah Bayes, who represents a society girl, Astarita Vandergould, and takes a position incognito as a cash girl in a large city drugstore, but the plot isn't worth the ink and paper to write it. It's the trimmings that make the show go. Miss Bates (she is Mrs. Jack Northworth in private life, and her husband is also in the cast) brings down the house nightly with a song, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" Everybody will be whistling it out your way ere long, as will as "Come Along, Mandy," by Northworth and Bayes. Stella Mayhew gives her inimitable colored sketches in the person of a black chorus lady, and Al Leech and Nellie Lynch do some convulsingly funny acrobatic stunts. Josie Sadler is there with her German dialect and a host of other clever ones. One of the novelties is the flight through space of an airship against a moving panorama of river scenes. Another scene represents the passenger deck of an ocean steamer.

I regret to record that "Cameo Kirby" was not made to survive the inciency of the season, as the friends of Dustin Farnum expected, and the piece has gone on tour. Its place at the Hackett has been taken by Andrew Mack in "The Prince of Bohemia," with Christie McDonald in the principal feminine role.

"The Barrier" is pure melodrama, but dignified by the splendid manner in which it is produced and notable for the capital acting of Theodore Roberts in the role of John Gale. The play follows the book closely, and deals with the love of Captain Burrell, of the army, for Necie, the supposed half-breed daughter of Gale. The scene is laid at Flambeau, Alaska, during the gold strike. The best scene occurs when Gale tells Burrell the story of his love for Necie's mother, and pictures her suffering as Stark's wife, her return to him, and her death at Stark's hands; how he, with the baby, Necie, were lost in the desert and found the Indian woman, Alluna, who nursed her and went along with them to the North. Then comes Gale's meeting with Stark and the fight in the dark in which Stark is mortally wounded and acquits Gale of the death of Necie's mother. Roberts' method of telling the story of his love and disappointment and the history of Necie made a powerful impression on the audience, an impression quite unusual along Broadway. The play is well presented, and in the cast are Florence Rockwell, who is Necie; W. S. Hart, who plays Stark, and James B. Durkin, excellent in the role of Captain Burrell.

The Columbia theater opened its doors last week at the corner of Forty-seventh, Seventh avenue and Broadway. It is a handsome building, but is devoted to cheap burlesque. But it adds one more playhouse to the immediate environments of Times square, where at least three others are now under construction or provided for by contracts. Among the new ones is a project for a German theater and concert hall, to cost $650,000, including the ground. The site is immediately in the rear of and directly adjacent to the Lyric theater on Forty-third street. When this and the new George Cohan and Shubert theaters are completed there will be eight theaters along Times Square.

Fannie Ward is appearing in a condensed version of Lee Arthur and Forrest Halsey's play, "Van Allen's Wife," in one of the variety theaters in town. The play made a failure in the regular theaters. She uses chiefly the third act, supported by John Dean and several other members of her late company.

It was a case of off-again, on-again between Flo Ziegfeld and Charles Bigelow. The comedian left the Anna Held show in a huff after a quarrel with Ziegfeld, and all efforts to pacify him proved unavailing. Then John C. Slavin, whose recent starring venture in "The Hot-Air King" went amiss, and who was scheduled for vaudeville, was engaged to take his place, while Bigelow was to go with the Shuberts. The vaudeville agents, however, refused to release Slavin. In the meantime Bigelow and Ziegfeld patched up their differences, and all is once more serene.

It may interest those who are looking foward with considerable interest to the production of "The Scarecrow," Percy Mackaye's ludicrous tragedy, which Henry B. Harris will produce this coming season, with Edgar Selwyn as the star, that had it not been for the fantasy of Nathaniel Hawthorne's, namely, the moralized legend concerning Feathertop, from "Mosses From an Old Manse," this play would never have been written. Mr. Mackaye, in his preface to his play, published recently, among other things said: "Without particularizing the other substances of Hawthorne's consummate sketch, which is available to every reader, the divergence I have made may be summed up briefly. 'The Scarecrow' Feathertop of Hawthorne's is the imaginative epitome or symbol of human charlatanism, with special emphasis on the coxcombry of fashionable society. In his essential superficiality he is in no sense deep, but strongly self-satisfied, with nobby little nose thrust into the air. 'And many a fine gentleman,' says Mother Rigby, 'has a pumpkin-head as well as my scarecrow.' His hollow semblance is the shallowness of a well-digested conventionalism' which had incorporated itself with his substance and transformed him into a work of art. 'But the clothes in this case were to be the making of the man,' and so Mother Rigby, after fitting him out in a suit of embroidered finery, endows him, as a finishing touch, 'with a great deal of brass, which she had applied to his forehead, making it yellower than before.' 'With that brass alone,' quoth she, 'thou canst pay thy way all over the world.'"

Feathertop in Hawthorne's tale is ludicrous as the symbol of a superficial fop. The Scarecrow" Ravenshance in Mr. Mackaye's play, "The Scarecrow," is beautiful as the symbol of bathos.

New York may be thanked for one thing: It has taken the ban off of wholesale laughter. The cankered-drama lasted for a little while, and now, rollicking farce has been given an inning. "The Lottery Man" has a "drawing" every night at the Bijou, New York, and there are no blanks. Everybody gets a prize,—a bulging package of side splitting laughter.

The loyalty of E. H. Sothern to his players is proverbial. With Mr. Sothern, it is a case of "old love," rather than a "new broom." When he and Miss Marlowe were selected to play at the New theater, Lee Shubert undertook to place over 100 members of Mr. Sothern's company. This rule even applied to the business and stage staffs.

With the issuing of the "call" for the tour of Sother and Marlowe over the Shubert circuit came the startling news of the players from the thirty or more companies with which they had been temporarily placed. Some of these actors and actresses were on the road in San Francisco, but without exception, each was recalled to New York, so that when Sothern and Marlowe began their tour this week they were accompanied by practically every member of their former organization. The ability to switch players, thus keeping them at work, is a tribute to the magnificent system of Lee Shubert.

Tully Marshall is not a star, thank you. Nor is he likely to become one, at least for the present. His playing of the part of Frederick Hannock in "The City" has won for him the highest praise and, were the matter left to the public, Mr. Marshall doubtless would be a star. As in the case of George Arliss in "The Devil," who, during the run of that piece at the Belasco, was surprised to find his name glaring in red electric lights where before only the title of the play had been seen, Mr. Marshall was denied stellar honors. He asked, preferring, as a friend has explained, to allow his work to stand upon its own merits and proving, moreover, that there is at least one actor who is human.

It is seldom that an actress playing such tragic roles as those included in the classic repertoire of Marie Booth Russell has such a keen sense of humor as has the talented and beautiful leading woman of the Robert Mantell company. She has a fund of original funny stories and has such a charming way of telling them that her friends are likely to remember them. Here is her latest:

Twe men who had not met in years were riding in the same train with the actress and this is the conversation she overheard.

"I've been lucky, Sam," said the fat, healthy one in the fur coat and big diamonds, "I have a good business, a fine house in the city, another one in the country, my own horses and carriages and—"

"Stop! Stop!" cried the thin, sickly one in the shiny clothes and three days' growth of whiskers, "I am not so fortunate. All I can boast of is that I have locomotor ataxia and—"

"Ah, that's nothing," interrupted the other, "I've got an eighty horse-power limousine."

At the suggestion of John Emerson, who staged "The City" for the Shuberts, the Playgoers' Club of New York at its next gathering will discuss the personnel side of the late Clyde Fitch. The idea has met with hearty approval, not only on the part of the club members (all of whom are non-professionals), but many players who, during the lifetime of Mr. Fitch, had the good fortune of being thrown in contact with him.

Therefore it is expected that at least a dozen well-known professionals will attend the meeting. Members of "The City" company, now playing in New York, have been invited, and it is expected that Tully Marshall and Walter Hampden will speak. Marie Tempest, Ethel Barrymore, Zelda Sears and Annie Russell are also expected to be present.

It looks now as if the plans of Liebler & Co. for "The Fourth Estate," which had embraced a tour of the country for this newspaper drama by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford, are not going to be carried out. "The Fourth Estate" played Wallack's theater, New York, the first half of the season, and then was sent to Chicago, which was to be the first stopping place along the line. It was the first stopping place—and the permanent abiding place. Liebler & Co. say modesty forbids a repetition of what the Chicago papers have said about "The Fourth Estate." Anyway, there is a line in front of the box office of the Grand opera house, and there is no further booking for "The Fourth Estate" for this year of grace. The play is as successful in its way as "The Man From Home" has been.

"Missouri Pete," a derelict of Trampdom, found his way into the dressing room of Hilda Spong the other evening, while the Muriel Evers or "A Little Brother of the Rich" was on the stage. He stretched out on a couch and drew a screen around him. When Miss Spong came in from the stage, she heard the snores and was disturbed at the unmannerliness of her pet Pomeranian. When she investigated, the P. P. was vindicated, but Miss Hilda was hysterical. The watchman called a gendarme and Missouri Pete was led shrieking through the streets to the nearest police station. In court next day he was given six months in the workhouse. He said on the stand that it was not a desire for closer communion with the little brothers and sisters of the rich that induced his visit, but rather an impulse to sleep where the sleeping was good. Miss Spong said a few things to the back-door man who had strayed from his post and let the stranger enter, and the incident was declared closed.

At last the theatrical producing managers in New York are realizing that although the Rialto is thronged with actors of all sorts and descriptions, there is a dearth of leading women. This fact was brought home forcibly to Henry B. Harris only recently. It came about through the extreme difficulty encountered by him in trying to secure a leading woman for Robert Edeson, who is touring in "A Man's a Man," and for Frank Keenan, who began his tour in "The Heights" on Jan. 12. Seven young women were given trial rehearsals before a satisfactory leading woman could be procured for Mr. Edeson and had it not been for an accident which permitted Mr. Harris to secure the services of Miss Josephine Lovett, Mr. Edeson's tour might have been postponed until he had been able to procure the right woman.

In the case of Mr. Keenan, fully twenty young women were given an opportunity to try out for the part, until finally Miss Willette Kershaw satisfied Mr. Harris and Mr. Keenan of her ability to play the role of Georgia Warren.

While seated in his office at the Hudson theater, in course of conversation with Mr. Edeson just before the latter left for his starring tour, in "A Man's a Man," Mr. Harris spoke of his condition, and he and Mr. Edeson both agreed that no doubt the lack of such leading women as we had on the American stage during the days when the famous Empire, Lyceum and Daly stock companies were in their zenith, is due entirely to our present star system. In this system the plays are written around a star, and no effort is made to provide strong parts for the other members of the company, unless it is some unusual play. In order to secure leading women for next season, Mr. Harris has engaged a man on whose judgment he absolutely relies, and sent him out to vis ticities in which stock companies are now playing, to roster leading women of a character worth while for him to employ. In consequence of the large number of productions he will make next season, it is necessary for him to procure the services of young women talented and experienced, having the advantage of lessons taught in stock companies, where versatility is absolutely essential, as much so as their ability to read and memorize lines.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Orders are being taken this week for the new pin adopted by the school. Each class has several of its members securing the names of all those who wish one of the pins, and a large number of orders have already been taken.

Miss Taylor called a special meeting of the senior girls yesterday afternoon to learn how many of them wished a pin, and a large number handed in their names. A similar meeting of the girls of the other classes will be held next week.

The pin will consist of the seal of Minnesota with D. C. H. S. and any year the pupil wishes engraved upon it. The price of each pin is $1.50.

Everybody is still talking of the speech of "Noodles" Fagan, "king of the newsboys," given at the school auditorium, Wednesday morning. All the pupils declare that it was the most interesting speech they ever heard in the high school.

Not only did "Noodles" give the pupils good wholesome advice on the "Advantages of An Education," but kept them at times nearly convulsed with laughter at the comedy he included in his talk.

It was reported that he would speak again at yesterday morning's chapel exercises and the pupils were much disappointed when they learned that he could not entertain them a second time.

Much surprise was expressed when it was learned the debating team held a debate with the Irving high school, Friday morning, as nothing was said beforehand about it. The surprise was a pleasant one, however, for the Central boys were the victors. Those who represented the school were: Rupert O'Brien, Harry Zlatkovsky and Charles Evans.

Mr. Brackett, who is coaching the boys, was much pleased with the opportunity for a practice debate and appreciates the efforts of Mr. Foster, principal of the West Duluth school, who made it possible for the two teams to meet. The Irving school picked its own judges.

Albert Johnson, a member of the senior class, underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Luke's hospital, Thursday night, and his schoolmates were glad to hear that the operation proved successful and hope he will be among them again in a few days.

Although "Noodles" Fagan failed to appear Friday morning, the pupils heard a talk anyway. Mr. Wallace, coach of the basket ball team, spoke fifteen minutes in order to create enthusiasm for the Central-Normal game tonight. Mr. Wallace boosted the team and a large crowd of Duluth rooters is expected at the Superior Normal gymnasium tonight.

The senior class basket ball team is certainly having hard luck. The defeat by the freshmen Tuesday afternoon was very discouraging, but the seniors will fight for every point in their next game.

The junior hop was held last night and every one who attended had a good time. At the spread, Stanley Lamb, president of the class of 1911, called upon the other class presidents, Mr. Buck, and Miss Taylor to respond to toasts.

Dancing began at 8 o'clock, and a large number of the other class members attended.

Some of the copies of "Esmeralda," which will be presented by the seniors have arrived, and Mr. Custance will begin picking the cast in a few days.

The physics laboratory has been a scene of intense activity the last few days. The physics notebooks are about due and all the juniors are putting on the finishing touches.

The junior class is not worrying very much about the final examination in physics, as the most of the members claim it is the most interesting study in their course, although it requires much time. Many say it is due to Mr. Phillips, who has made himself very popular with all the members of the class, and takes great interest in the laboratory work.

WINTERING ON THE RIVIERA AT ONE DOLLAR A DAY

By ESTELLE KLAUDER in The Buffalo Express.

I sit writing, this January morning, under a palm in a sun-drenched garden. The garden fronts the blue Mediterranean. It glitters with red and white roses, here lie snowy beds of carnations, there lie purple beds of pansies, and across a carpet of glowing flowers the eye travels onward, through green vistas of velvet lawns, of palms, of olives, and of lemon trees and orange trees, to a low marble balustrade through which shimmers the blue sea.

It is a January morning. At home, ten to one, a snow storm rages. But here—here on the Riviera—the weather is like June; a girl in white is plucking roses: beyond the marble balustrade, across a sea of blue grass, Howard Gould's great yacht Niagara glides.

I am wintering in this paradise for $1 a day. I have often wintered for $1 a day on the Riviera. One can live more economically here than in Altoona or Duluth. Let me tell you how it is done.

But first I will explain where and what the Riviera is. The Riviera is that narrow tract of favored land in Southern France which lies between the Mediterranean and the Maritime Alps. The Maritime Alps shelter it from the cold winds of winter, so that its only winds are those soft airs that breathe across the sea from Africa. It faces full south, therefore, it basks all day long in sunshine—and there is always sunshine on the Riviera—often a month goes by without one rain. It is reached from Paris in fourteen hours, from London in twenty hours, and from New York in six or in twelve days, according to the boat and route.

There, then, it lies, this favored, sheltered tract, the Riviera. The sea is before it, the pale blue Maritime Alps are behind it. Gilded with an eternal sunshine, its fruits and flowers grow in unexampled profusion. In its lovely gardens stand great white hotels, sumptuous white villas. Monte Carlo is only an incident among its attractions. Horse races, motor boat races, opera, the theater, golf, aviation meetings, carnivals, a society led by princes, duchesses, grand dukes—that is the Riviera.

Route to the Riviera.

The direct route to the Riviera is by steamer from New York to Genoa. Thence a train in a few hours sets the tourist down in Monte Cristo, Nice, Cannes, or (if the Italian Riviera is preferred) San Remo or Bordighera. Though the passage from New York to Genoa occupies from twelve to fourteen days, the fare is the same as that from New York to Liverpool and Southampton. It is a delightful voyage, the southern one, as it is called. Once in the South Atlantic, January changes to June. There is a day's stop at Gibraltar, with its wild apes scampering over the crags. Then, after a divine cruise in the Mediterranean, there is another stop at Naples, a stop long enough for a visit to Pompeii, to Vesuvius, to the Aquarium with its great octopus, and to the Arcade with its marvels of coral and shell.

Now for my Riviera experiences—three experiences of cheap living, the last and pleasantest of which cost me but five francs, or $1 a day, in Nice.

These experiences should persuade many persons of moderate means that they can, if they will, escape in the gay and beautiful South from the snows, the wind, the cold rains and the dullness of an American winter. There is a popular fallacy to the effect that only millionaires can afford the Riviera—that it is impossible to live in Monte Carlo under $10 or $12 a day. Nothing could be more absurd.

At 7 francs a day I spent three months in a San Remo hotel. That is as cheap as a Brooklyn boarding house. The tone, then, must have been impossible? Well, as for the tone, we had at that hotel an aristocratic Englishwoman who continually entertained at luncheon and dinner—the ordinary table d'hote luncheon and dinner, garnished with no extra dishes—a British nobleman and his wife and a South African millionaire. These people always ate and drank heartily, and at the end, over their coffee and tobacco on the sunny terrace, they always seemed quite gay and cheerful and contented.

The hotel had an elevator. Its bedrooms looked southward to the sea. Its lovely gardens, with their hundreds of rose trees, their great white beds of carnations, their tall palms, faced the sea, and there in the sunlit and windless silence one could sit in summer attire at tea time.

Modest Luxury.

My breakfast: Fragrant coffee, fresh, sweet butter, and those rich rolls called croissants—meat breakfasts are never eaten in France—was brought to me in my room on a silver tray. Luncheon, served at small tables, consisted of hors d'oeuvre, eggs or fish, an entree, chops, cheese, fruit. For dinner there would perhaps be soup, fish, sweetbreads, pheasant with chicory salad, a souffle, dessert.

In a word, for 7 francs a day, at this hotel, I obtained modest luxury in the most delightful climate to be found on the Mediterranean coast. I hasten to add that my landlord charged brief sojourners much more than 7 francs; some paid during the season 14 and even 15 francs; it was, of course, on account of my long stay that I got the very low rate I did.

I passed a winter at Nice with two friends in a furnished apartment. It was delightful, and in an apartment, unlike in a hotel, one's expenses can run high or low, as one pleases. Ours usually came to under 40 francs a week per person, though when hard up we often reduced them to 25 francs. The average was 35 francs—a dollar a day.

The apartment was on the eastern extension of the Promenade des Anglais. It had gas and water laid on, a bath and gas cooking stove. The three largest of its six rooms faced the south and their windows stood open all day long to sun and sea. The fire of gnarled olive wood that made our sitting room so cosy in the evening cost, by actual calculation, but 3 cents a night. The apartment itself, in every respect a charming one, cost 1,000 francs for the season. Our stay began in November and lasted to the end of April, so this rental worked out to about 40 francs a week—13 francs, or $2.60 for each person.

Housekeeping Easy.

We were more than comfortable. Housekeeping in a small way is easy at Nice, where all the winter long fresh peas, new potatoes, tomatoes, beans, in the way of vegetables, to say nothing of delicious fruit, are to be obtained at the low prices that prevail at home only in the summer time. And then there are the charcuteries for the sale of ready cooked dishes, such as chicken, ham, beef, veal, pork, partridges, quail, etc. The quality of the wares at the most modest of these shops is amazingly good, and the prices are reasonable, save for English ham, Jambon de York, which is one of the national delicacies of France.

We had a good maid, who went home every night to sleep. We paid her by the hour—25 cents an hour or 30 centtimes — the customary rate among the Nicois. And our average weekly expenditure of 35 francs per person itemized itself thus:

Rent	13
Food	16
Laundry	2.50
Light and heat	1.25
Total (francs)	35.25

Nice is emphatically the Riviera town in which to practice economy without discomfort. For Nice is so large that one's economical exercises are not on parade there, as they would be in a smaller Riviera town. The amusements of Nice, again, may be enjoyed on the same cheap scale as its apartments. The three theaters, for instance, producing admirably such operas as "Thais," "La Tosca," "La Vie de Bohemie," etc., have orchestra seats at 5 francs, while in the comfortable galleries numbered seats as low as one franc each may be reserved.

The Glittering Cafes.

What could be pleasanter, too, than a visit now and then to one of the large and glittering cafes of Nice, with their good orchestras, their long lists of American and London newspapers, their playing cards, chessboards, backgammon, or draughts boards, so readily produced on demand? And all this for the price of a modest consummation or two—a mug of the best German beer, a glass of the finest Mocha! Yes, at this price, all around you sit the wise French folk, writing their letters, playing their games, reading the news.

Nice offers a singularly good open-air concert in the Jardin Public daily. The band is quite wonderful. It is more like a string orchestra than a band, and its repertory embraces Beethoven, Berlioz, Wagner, Massenet, Puccini. How delightful it is to sit through one of these concerts in the Jardin Public on a January afternoon.

But suppose one is a very quiet person, a lover of nature, a worshipper of sunshine and snow peaks rather than of the busy town? Then one can retire to some beautiful, old, quiet town like Grasse, and there one can live well in a pension for 5 francs a day. I did it, so I know. I had a little table all my own by a window in the dining room, the food was both good and plentiful, and in the evening before the fire in the salon, I improved my German by talking to a German great aunt and my Italian by singing duets with a contessa from Napoli.

Go to the Riviera Americans of moderate means! Bask, in your flannels and straw hats, in the incomparable sunshine. Read delightedly every morning in your paper that the snow has turned to rain in Chicago, the thermometer is still falling, and there is promise of thick fog ere night.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

TO MERGE ELY PROPERTIES

Cole-Ryan and Guggenheim Mines to be Included—Bid Made for Nevada Consolidated—To Take in Giroux and Ely Central.

One of the most important publications on one phase of the proposed copper merger is an article in the Mining Financial News of New York, Jan. 13, by Merrill A. Teague dealing with the combination of the Ely companies, in part the article follows:

Definite progress was made yesterday in the proposition to form a merger of the Nevada Consolidated, Giroux Consolidated, Ely Central and Coppermines companies of the Ely district, so that the big properties of that district which have ore, or strong possibilities of opening ore at an early date, may be operated as a unit. The plan had advanced so far last evening that some of the biggest interests in the copper world were seated around a table with pencils and pads of paper, figuring out details of how such a merger could be put together with Nevada Consolidated as the parent corporation.

A decision to effect this merger was reached yesterday. It is predicted on the knowledge by those interested that a majority of Nevada Consolidated stockholders will decline to turn their shares over to Utah Copper in exchange for one share of Utah Copper for each two and one-quarter shares of Nevada Consolidated.

The decision to go ahead with the formation of the Ely merger, which will practically result in the creation of a single mining and operating unit in the Ely, Nev., district, followed the return to New York yesterday morning of John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, and one of the heads of the Cole-Ryan syndicate, which holds the control of the Giroux Consolidated company. It was cemented as the result of a series of conferences held by Mr. Ryan and President James Phillips, jr., of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company, who has been steadfast in his opposition to the plan to form a merger with Utah Copper, with certain all-important copper mining, banking and trust company interests in New York. These conferences occupied the greater part

GIROUX TO MAKE BIG REPORT

At Annual Meeting in Duluth on Feb. 1—Will Show Present Condition of Property and Outline Plans—Deep Sinking.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 22.—It is announced by the local management of the Giroux Consolidated that the annual meeting of that company will be held in Duluth, Minn., on Feb. 1, at which time there will be made public a series of reports which have been in course of preparation, setting forth the present condition of the Giroux property, the amount of its ore reserves and their value, and outlining the company's plans with respect to future development and the installation of reduction equipment.

It is understood here, among local officials of the Giroux Consolidated company, that this report will be highly favorable, and will justify a much higher value on Giroux stock than it now commands in the markets.

That the Cole-Ryan syndicate, which with the Giroux family holds the control of the Giroux Consolidated, has refused to consider less than $25 a share for Giroux stock for merger purposes is positively known here, and while there is more or less speculation as to the future of Giroux Consolidated in any plans which contemplate the operation of the Ely district as a unit, the opinion prevails that the plans to form a big Ely merger will necessitate the payment of a very substantial price for Giroux.

On the Giroux property the work that was forecast by the completion of the Giroux five-compartment shaft has been started. They are retimbering the shaft to the 1,000-foot level, from which the upraise was started, and they have also begun to sink from the 1,000-foot mark to the 1,200-foot point, where the pumping plant is to be installed.

In sinking from the 1,00-foot level they are using only one compartment, and they will carry this down to the 1,200-foot level, and there begin an upraise for the width of the five-compartment shaft. This, it is estimated, will be more economical, both as to money and time, than sinking the entire five compartments. From the 1,000-foot level the exploration of the rich ore body in the old Alpha shaft will be begun, and the ore will be handled through the Giroux shaft.

It was thought that the completion of the upraise and the spur track would mean the laying off of a considerable number of the big force of workmen which has been employed through the summer and the fall; but the entire force will be on during the winter, and the work of development which has been planned for the spring will necessitate the hiring of more men, rather than laying of any off. As a matter of fact more men have already been taken on, most of them being miners for the big shaft.

One thing that is in contemplation for immediate consideration is the sinking of a deep shaft on the Rickard Ely, which property was acquired by the Giroux Consolidated a few months since. This is designed for the further exploration of the limestone; but whether in view of the conditions in the Boston-Ely, the work will be carried on is a matter that will have to be determined by Mr. Cole.

Then there is the proposed steam shovel pit on Bunker hill which is already to start. They have demonstrated the ore there by means of shafts and drills. In the shafts they have the ore at the 300-foot level, and with the drills they have developed the ore at a point very near the surface. The Giroux Consolidated is undoubtedly a big mine, and is ready to become a producer at the stroke of the bell.

AMAZON-MONTANA'S WORK

Strong Company Is Developing Promising Property Near Amazon, Mont.---Electric Power Plant to Sink 500 Feet Is Almost Ready.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 22.—All of the material for the building of a power transmission line from the main line of the United Missouri River Power company to the property of the Amazon-Montana Development company, at Amazon, on the Great Northern line, one station east of Boulder, is on the ground, and construction of the line has begun. In order to make connection the line will be carried a distance of about one and two-thirds miles. It is expected that the line will be in readiness for use within the next ten days.

A force of workmen is now being employed by the Amazon-Montana company setting up an electric hoist with capacity for sinking at least 500 feet, and in the erection of a large gallows frame. A new air compressor has been shipped from Butte and will at once be placed in position on the foundation which is ready for it.

With the new electric plant completed and in operation, which will be before the first of February, the company will resume sinking in the two-compartment shaft which already has attained a depth of nearly 100 feet. It will be carried to a depth of 250 feet before any underground work is commenced. At the latter depth, however, a crosscut will be run north and south to intersect all of the three veins which has been developed at a depth of about 130 feet by a tunnel which was run some years ago by the original owner.

At the same time that the crosscut is being run on the 250-foot level the work of sinking the shaft to a depth of 500 feet will go on. The crosscut north will intersect the vein about eighty feet from the shaft, and the south crosscut will intersect both of the south veins within a distance of about 200 feet.

From the surface outcroppings and the location of the property, the Amazon-Montana company has one of the most promising prospects in that section of the state. The property consists of eight full claims, patented, giving a length of 200 feet on the course of the veins.

At a depth of about 130 feet one of the veins has been opened up by means of a tunnel about 900 feet in length. The ore body in this vein has an average width of about six feet and considerable stoping has proved the ore deposit to be permanent, and the vein between well-defined granite walls identical in character to the Butte formation. Considerable ore has been taken from the stopes and the company now has several carloads of ore, averaging 31.4 ounces of silver, $2.20 in gold and 33.4 per cent lead, on the stockpile. A carload of this ore will be sent to the smelter within the next day or two. The ore carries considerable steel galena in places, and in some portions the ore body is shot with chalcocite and chalcopyrite. There is a fair amount of iron, but no zinc.

CHURN DRILLS ON WARRIOR

Are at Work on Long View Claim and Hole is in Oxidized Copping---Eight Miles of Workings on the Miami.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 22.—The first of the two Star churn drills which are to be used in prospecting the property of the Warrior Development company is now at work on the Long View claim, which adjoins the Black Copper group of the Inspiration Copper company. The present depth of the first drill hole is 168 feet, and at this point sinking is still in the oxidized capping, common to the Miami mining district. The drill began work in altered schist, and subsequently encountered the present material.

The advance work underground in the Warrior mine is being confined chiefly to the 300-foot level, where the main drift is being driven further west. Raises are being put up in several places from the 300-foot level to explore the ore body vertically. In the course of the general development work, enough 10 per cent ore is being mined to make up the shipment amounting to seventy-five tons daily. This ore is being sent to the El Paso smelter.

The Warrior Development company is at present employing about sixty men in underground and surface work.

Over eight miles of underground workings have already been driven at the Miami Copper company's prop-

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Sensational Developments on the Indiana Without Equal in Recent Years—Situation at North Lake Unchanged—Lake to Ship About 1,000 Tons Weekly to Stamp Mill.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 22—(Special to The Herald) The sensational developments on the Indiana property, where diamond drilling discloses a feldsitic bed of extraordinary width and of a richness outrivaling the famous Calumet conglomerate has intensified more than ever before the interest in that and other Ontonagon properties. The striking of this lode in the Indiana fact is probably without equal in recent years and so far as may be judged from a single drill boring gives this district another such lode as the famous Lake lode, so-called, now in the course of development on the property of the Lake Copper company, the two lodes very probably not being identical. The Indiana lode has been drilled into for a distance of nearly 90 feet and according to latest reports the drill was still in copper ground. Forty feet of this lode carries copper in rather exceptional quantities, the balance of the ground being only of ordinary richness. The cross-section of the property begun before the discovery of this lode, will be taken without interruption by the four diamond drills already in service and a fifth outfit will be added to further test this lode for value.

North Lake.

The situation on the property of the North Lake Mining company, next adjoining Indiana on the southwest, is unchanged. Two diamond drill outfits are in service engaged in taking the cross-section of the property and incidentally pick up the extension of the several copper bearing lodes, cut on the properties of the Lake Copper company and Indiana Mining company. Operations there to date have resulted in the disclosure of two copper bearing lodes of ordinary width and richness, neither of which is thought to be identical with the so-called Indiana and the lake lodes.

Lake.

On the Lake property drifting and crosscutting is in rogress on several levels from the second to the sixth, inclusive. The third level continues to show much the best average ground yet opened in the Lake mine, that in the north drift for a distance of nearly 700 feet carrying copper in exceptional quantities. The last few feet in the end of this drift opens ground of sensational character. The good showing in the south drift on this level is encouraging chiefly for the reason that in this direction the showings on the several levels have not been quite the equal of those had to the northward. This drift is in 500 feet from the shaft. At the fourth level the distance from breast to breast in the drifts is now nearly 600 feet and the showing there is very good. At the fifth level drifting has only just begun. The condition of the lode at the sixth level has been in a measure determined by diamond drilling from the end of the crosscut, and appears to be of much the same character as that noted on the fifth level. In the new lode opened in the bottom of the shaft and lying approximately 150 feet under the Lake lode, drifting to northward continues without interruption and reveals a mixed amygdaloid and epidote, carrying considerable copper in the epidotic portions. This lode is by no means the equal of the Lake lode, but is nevertheless promising, and in it the Lake Copper company apparently has the making of a second mine and without additional cost. The shaft has attained a depth of 850 feet and preparations are being made to sink deeper. The temporary wooden shaft rockhouse has been completed and is now in service. For the immediate future the company will ship to the stamp mill at the rate of about 1,000 tons weekly from openings made in the course of development underground, no attempt being made to force production.

South Lake.

The operations of the South Lake company continues centered in diamond drilling in an effort to pick up the underlay of the Lake lode. In this attempt a drill outfit has been rigged up in the extreme Southeast corner of its property and it is calculated that the effort should bring the disclosure of the Lake bed at a depth of anywhere from 1,800 to 2,600 feet though these calculations are based on data that is not of the best, yet as reliable as any that can be obtained. It will probably be three months or more before this work will bring the results expected, though there is every probability that other unknown lodes may be cut before the Lake lode is reached.

Adventure.

The Adventure company next West of South Lake and operating in what is presumed to be the same horizon in which South Lake, Lake, North Lake and Indiana are operating, is confining all work to shaft sinking upon the so-called three Adventure lodes disclosed in the diamond drill operations of more than a year ago. The shaft has been equipped with a temporary hoist and has attained a depth of about 400 feet. It is calculated that the uppermost, or No. 1 Adventure lode, will be cut at a depth of around 900 feet some five or six months hence. These lodes, though of ordinary width, yielded good copper cores, though it might be added that not all the cores taken from these lodes were of equal richness nor with exceptions promising. It is more than likely, however, that one of the three lodes will prove commercially profitable, and despite the fact that all the cores yielded by these lodes were not rich, the character of the rock is such that all are reasonably sure to prove profitable.

AT THE BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA

Installation of New Electric Hoisting Engine Will Enable Mine to Ship 500 Tons Daily—No Change in Underground Developments at North Butte—The Butte & Superior.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been some delay in the shipment of the new electric hoisting engine for the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company, due to the inability of the makers to fill orders on time, but it was expected that the engine would be shipped this week. In the meantime the Butte-Ballaklava will continue operations with the smaller hoist now in use, with which the mine has been developed to a depth of 1,400 feet, which is about the working capacity of the engine. The new hoist will be able to work to a depth of 2,000 feet. The new steel gallows frame, 100 feet high, has also been completed, and the concrete foundation for the new engine has been laid. The shaft, which was two compartments to a depth of 500 feet, and standard three compartments from the 500 to the 1,400 has been raised the additional compartment to the surface and the shaft is now one of the largest and best in the Butte district. None of the smaller independently operated companies are so well equipped as the Butte-Ballaklava, and with the installation of the new electric hoist the company will be in shape for a production of fully 500 tons of ore per day. The new hoist will be one of the most modern in use anywhere and will be provided with automatic controlling devices for safety. The old steam hoist will be kept as an auxiliary plant. While the shaft was being enlarged a great deal of development work was done on the lower levels, and large bodies of ore blocked out.

The Copper Merger.

If there is anything in the renewed reports that as a preliminary to the big copper merger the Cole-Ryan and Amalgamated companies of Butte will be combined, nothing of an authentic nature is known in Butte. John E. Ryan, on his recent visit to Butte, disappointed the public by failure to fulfill the promise made by some of his friends that he would have an important announcement to make. If it was in reference to the proposed merger, it was not given out. There was a pretty well-believed report out some time ago that there would be such a preliminary combine, and that Amalgamated would go in at a par value, North Butte at 70 or 75 and Coalition at 40 or 45, and a very strong pool was organized in New York for the purpose of advancing the market prices to these points, starting with Amalgamated. This stock was well on the way to par when the Standard Oil decision badly off the engine. The new hoist will broke loose, and all efforts to advance the stock or even hold it at the price it had attained were fruitless.

Strangely enough, there are many mining men in Butte and the West who now believe that a great deal of the copper merger talk that found its way into print was in aid of an Amalgamated pool, and that with the practical failure of the pool the merger talk gradually subsided. If this view of the matter has any foundation in fact it is probable that a completion of the big merger is a long way off.

North Butte.

So far as can be learned there is practically no change in the underground developments of the North Butte, and that the Edith May and Jessie veins on the 2,200-foot level continue disappointing, if conditions are not really getting worse. There appears no longer any doubt that the North Butte will have to go much deeper to demonstrate whether or not the mine has any more rich ore left, and that will mean several years of uncertainty. There is current a report that a deal is likely to be made with the Anaconda company by which a crosscut may be run to the North Butte from the 2,800-foot level of the Diamond mine. The Diamond is but a short distance from the North Butte and a crosscut of about 600 feet would probably reach the North Butte veins, and would give an added depth of about 600 feet, sufficient for all purposes of development and exploration.

Butte & Superior.

Good progress is being made in running the crosscut from the 1,600-foot level of the Butte & Superior mine to the shaft of the Butte-Milwaukee company, of which latter the Butte & New York company owns control. The Butte-Milwaukee owns a fine group of copper claims, and the crosscut being run from the Blackrock mine of the Butte & Superior will open its ground at a depth of 1,700 feet, which it is believed, will be sufficient to demonstrate its value.

Robert Emmet.

The Robert Emmet Copper company, which is operating a group of claims in the Corbin district, is making rapid progress and is opening a fine looking vein which gives every indication of developing into a large ore producer. The Emmet company has been pushing work for two years and has one of the best looking properties in the new district.

North Butte.

The Montana labor situation, in its relation to the mining industry in Butte, seems to be slowly righting itself, and the mines that had been closed for six or seven weeks are gradually being reopened. In fact a normal condition would already prevail but for the shortage of coal and electric power at the mines. Extremely cold weather has prevailed throughout the state and the Northwest for nearly two months; railroads have been tied up by snow blockades, and the coal shortage at the mines and for domestic use in Butte has been a serious problem; the continuous cold weather, constantly below zero for weeks, caused a fall in the water power in the rivers and consequently electric power at

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Menominee Range Operators Expect to Send Out Record-Breaking Tonnage of Ore This Year—Fifteen Companies Now Operating in the Iron River and Stambaugh Districts.

As is the case in the Lake Superior iron region generally, the Menominee range operators expect to send out a record-breaking tonnage of ore this year. It will occasion no particular surprise if the shipments approximate 6,000,000 tons. That production, in fact, could have been attained the past year, had operations been pushed to the limit. As it was, the shipments approximated 5,000,000 tons. The output was almost double that of 1908, when the iron trade was depressed the country over, and it was about equal that of each of the years 1905, 1906 and 1907, when operations were conducted practically at a maximum rate of activity. Development work has been carried on vigorously the past year or more and there is now a larger number of mines than ever before. More properties, too, are being brought to the producing stage, and a number of them will enter the shipping list the coming season.

The ores of the Menominee are deep-rooted. Apparently there is no limit to the possibilities of the range. Mines that have already been on the shipping list a long time will be active for many years yet, and new deposits of merchantable ore are continually being found. Besides, there are tremendous bodies of low-grade material that will not be exploited until that time in the far distant future when the cream has been taken and their use has become necessary. Most of the recent exploratory work on the Menominee has been in Iron county, Mich., at the western end of the range, and it has been there that the most important finds have been made. Particularly has this been the case in the vicinity of Iron River and its twin village of Stambaugh and in the country to the north of Crystal Falls. It will be that portion of the range that will show the greatest increase in production the next few years.

Fifteen Companies Operating.

No less than fifteen companies are now operating in the Iron river and Stambaugh district. Newcomers the past year have been the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, the Jones & Laughlin interests and the New York State Steel company. The latter concern, which heretofore had confined itself to the Mesaba range, has the Goodman and Gleason properties, in section 14 and 23, 43-35, and is proceeding with their exploitation. The tracts had previously been tested by the Gleason Exploring company, and ore had been found. The Interstate Mining company of the Jones & Laughlin interests is testing the Johnson and Olson properties in the Iron Lake country. Diamond drilling is being done. The Cleveland Cliffs company is exploring a number of tracts in township 43-35. It also controls properties elsewhere in Iron county and is engaged in much diamond drilling. There is not much question that eventually this company will be shipping from the Menominee, as well as from mines on other of the Lake Superior ranges.

The Michigan Iron Mining company, controlled by Iron river Capital, is exploring lands directly east of Ogishay. Norton & Co., Berkshire mine. A new shipper the past year was Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Baker property, in section 31- 43-34. The mine sent out 40,000 tons. Corrigan, McKinney & Co. also are developing the Tully or Houlihan tract at Stambaugh. This property was drilled some two years ago, and a large body of ore was found. There was litigation among the fee owners, however, and the exploitation of the tract has been delayed. Shaft-sinking is now in progress and it is expected that shipments will be made the latter part of the year. The Huron Iron Mining company, in which Ohion furnacemen are interested, also has important holdings in the Iron River-Stambaugh region. Its Younge mine, is a fine proposition and it has been given an excellent equipment. The shipments the past year were 155,000 tons. The company is exploring lands in township 43-35.

The Hiawatha Mine.

The Hiawatha mine, in section 35, 43-35, has developed into one of the largest properties in the Stambaugh field. It is a property of the Munro Iron Mining company, controlled by the Buffalo & Susquehanna interests. Much improvement work has been carried on the past year, aside from which shipments of 140,000 tons have been made. The company is exploring the one Schiebler tract, in section 29, 43-34, and it has ore there also. The Niagara Mining company, which is under the same control, is believed to have a mine in the Donohue property, the indications being of decided promise. This tract is in section 23, 43-35. The Niagara also has the McGovern property, in section 22, 43-34, and the Purcell, in section 14, 43-35, both of which are being tested. To the east of the Donohue, and in the same section, is the Mineral Mining company's James property. This is a very fine mine, with a large deposit and ore of excellent grade. The property is being developed for larger production. Adjoining the James on the south is the Mineral company's Konwinski tract. This property is still being explored, but there is scarcely a doubt that it possesses a deposit rivalling that of its neighbor.

The Spies lands, in section 24, 43-34, and the Barrass property, in section 35, 43-35, are being explored by Pickands, Mather & Co. This concern has very large interests on three Lake Superior ranges, and with the exception of the Steel corporation it has a greater number of mines than any of the operators. It has three fine properties in the Iron River-Stambaugh country, these the Caspian, Baltic and Fogarty, all of which are capable of

DRIFTING IN EUREKA CLAIM

Prospecting With Churn Drills on the Cordova Property Will Be Watched With Inferest---More Equipment Added to the Inspiration.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 22.—The drift which is being driven from the Sullivan shaft of the Cordova property on the 475-foot level is 407 feet long. This drift is exploring the northern part of the Eureka claim.

The road work which has been under way to connect the Sullivan and the Jennie shafts is practically completed. The position for the Star churn drill, which is to prospect the Cordova property, has been located in the vicinity of the Jennie shaft, and the drill is now on the ground, ready to begin work.

The prospecting of the Eureka group, by means of Star churn drills, will be watched with great interest by people of the Globe district, many of whom are confident that a large sulphide ore body underlies the Cordova property.

The general location of the Cordova group indicates the presence of ore deposits as valuable as any already developed in the Miami district, and the drill work in the course of the next few months may be expected to verify the belief for which the location of the property gives ground.

The Inspiration Copper company is continually adding to its surface equipment. Buildings for the accommodation of the employes are being erected as rapidly as the material for the construction arrives. The tenth family residence is being built at present, and in the opposite direction from the main office building, accommodations for about thirty men are well under way. These are in the shape of three-room cabins and are conveniently near the company boarding house.

A good-sized warehouse is nearing completion. This is located just east of the office building. Other buildings, such as change-houses, have also been put up recently at the various parts of the company's property. The line for the tunnel from Keystone Gulch has been surveyed and work is in progress. The direction from the portal is northeast, which, by 2,500 feet of tunnel driving, will bring the work into the west workings of the Joe Bush shaft.

AT HUBBARD-ELLIOTT MINES

Examination of Property on Which Cole and Ryan Have Option Delayed by Accident—Richest Strike on Little Colorado Creek.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 22.—Advices from Alaska state that the first big mining party to leave for the interior this winter boarded the train of the Copper River & Northwestern railway at Cordova, Dec. 20 and left for Tiekel, which at present is the end of the railroad construction. From there they mushed to the Hubbard-Elliott copper mines at Kotsina. The party included Harry Elliott of New York city, one of the owners of the property; A. H. Berry of Chicago, who is superintendent; E. J. Collins of Duluth, and Martin Schurin of New York, both expert mining engineers, and H. H. Greer. The object of the expedition was to examine the property of Hubbard and Elliott, upon which an option has been taken by Thomas F. Cole, a capitalist and mining man of Duluth, and John D. Ryan of New York. An accident, however, has delayed the examination, as Greer and Elliott, the leading spirits of the party, were killed in a snowslide, Dec. 30.

A dispatch from Fairbanks says: "What is believed to be the richest strike yet made on Little Eldorado creek is reported from the Idaho association claim, on the lay of William McNamara and Pat Fitzgerald. At a depth of about 160 feet eleven pans produced $12. One ore bucket produced $4. The laymen have not hereabouts struck what they call pay. They are now working 250 feet away from the shaft, and expect to tunnel 75 feet more before sinking a working shaft. If it develops that there is body to the pay yielding almost $1 to the pan the strike will be the best made in this section in years. McNamara and Fitzgerald are now taking out their third thaw since striking the pay. They are working just below Larson brothers, who are also on the Idaho group."

Peter Rost, the big Dominion operator, has been acquiring many interests on Dominion creek. One record just filed transfers about twenty claims to Mr. Rost. The claims extend from above upper discovery down stream, and are not all contiguous. They were from George R. Clazy and Joseph Greenhow.

According to the statements of W. T. Lopp, superintendent of the government's reindeer industry in Alaska, who has lived in the northern territory for the past twenty years, and who reached Seattle a few days ago, Iditarod stampeders are somewhat discouraged at the result of their work since last fall. Lopp states that he met a number of men on the Yukon who had been to the new strike, and they were not at all enthusiastic about it. Lopp's statements are borne out by a letter from Al Y. Thorne, written at Richmond, the main settlement of the new diggings, in which he says that the formation is very similar to that of Cleary creek, near Fairbanks. It is also like Stewart river in the Klondike. He is discouraged, however, because the ground is low grade.

Work is being prosecuted on a number of the best quartz properties in the vicinity of Dawson. On the Dome two men are engaged in drifting on veins which were cut last summer by the big power drill. On the Lone Star, Limited, at the head of Victoria gulch, three men are running a tunnel and are in 175 feet. They have a contract o go in a total of 240 feet, which is expected to bring them to the intersection of two leads shown on the surface. The tunnel is on the 90-foot level.

AT THE ARIZONA-MICHIGAN

Better Formation Reached and New Ground Thought to Be in Contact With the Dewett Vein---Shaft at National in Pure Limestone.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 22.—A favorable change of ground has been encountered by the work at the property of the Arizona-Michigan Copper company. The common occurrence of valuable copper deposits in contact with quartzite throughout the Globe and Copper Hill mining districts gives an encouraging aspect to the developments on the north crosscut from the Telfair shaft, where, at the distance of 364 feet from this shaft, this crosscut has passed out of the quartz conglomerate into the quartzite formation.

It is not at all improbable that this formation will prove to be in contact with the Dewett vein, as the surface indications point to the continuation of this vein near the present face of the north crosscut. At the distance of 130 feet from the shaft, this crosscut intersected a two and on-half foot quartz vein highly mineralized with iron and manganese and assaying low in silver. This has been drifted on for seventy-five feet eastward and thirty-one feet westward. The dip of this vein is to the northward. The vein occupies a well-defined fissure in the diorite formation. South of the shaft the crosscutting has continued in diorite for the full distance of 384 feet from the shaft. The usual force of about twenty-five men are being employed at the property under the direction of Supt. N. A. Nelson.

The bottom of the Williams shaft of the National Mining Exploration company is now in a very pure limestone. The distance through which the limebearing rock has prevailed in the shaft is 100 feet. The diabase contact with the limestone was cut through at the depth of 384 feet and the present depth is 484 feet. The depth at which the vein is estimated to intersect the country rock is 150 feet below the present depth, it being estimated from the dip of the outcrop that the shaft should encounter this vein at a depth of 620 feet below the collar of the shaft. At the average rate of sinking in this shaft, this depth should be reached by the work in about six weeks. Supt. H. W. Woodward is employing about twenty-five men.

GOOD ORES ON THE LIVE OAK

Work of Blocking Out the Rock Continues in Satisfactory Manner---The Proven Ore Body is Assuming Great Proportions.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 22.—At the mine of the Live Oak Development company, located in the Miami mining district, the work of blocking out ore and exploring, laterally and vertically, is progressing in six different faces. In the story of progress at the Live Oak mine these days the theme is one of general prosperity. The advance work from week to week continues to add to the proven ore tonnages and the amount of ore blocked out has already assumed a figure which assures the Live Oak of being one of Globe district's most profitable producers.

The raise which is being put up from the 300-foot level at the junction of drifts Nos. 306 and 309 measures sixty-nine feet, and the face of it is in chalcocite of a good commercial grade. Raise No. 308, running west, is 207 feet long and has been in good sulphide ore all the way. Drift No. 309, which is being driven north, measures seventy-eight feet and is in commercial chalcocite. Drift No. 310, running west, is 158 feet in length and has been continuously in ore averaging 2½ per cent or better. Drift No. 311 has been driven sixty-three feet through low grade ore of excellent commercial value. Drift No. 312, which leaves drift No. 306 directly opposite from drift No. 308, is seventeen feet long and has been in chalcocite of commercial grade for its entire length. The advance work during the past week has been in ore averaging about 3 per cent.

From the above measurements it can be readily seen that the proven ore body at the Live Oak mine is assuming great proportions. The management is pushing forward the work of development with all possible speed, and is naturally very much gratified with the results obtained during the past year. The work of the churn drills which are expected to arrive on the ground about February 1, should greatly facilitate the underground developments by indicating the general position of the sulphide ore body.

General Manager M. E. McCarthy of the Live Oak Development company, has about thirty men employed at the mine, under the direction of Supt. Ball and Mr. Maybush, the mine foreman.

NEW SERGEANT TAKES CHARGE

Vacancy at West Duluth Has Been Filled By Mayor Haven.

J. L. Bradley, who was appointed by Mayor Haven as the sergeant in charge of the night force at the West Duluth police station, assumed his duties last evening.

The new sargeant took the examination for the position with a number of the other officers and stood high. He was tied in points with one other applicant, but in view of the fact that he had been in the service longer, he was appointed.

Mr. Bradley has been in the police service in Duluth for six years. Most of that time he has been on a Bowery beat.

The West Duluth station has been without a sergeant since the removal of Patrick J. Walsh, about two months ago. Walsh, since he was taken back on the force, is a patrolman on a down-town beat.

PETER PETERSON DIES.

West Duluth Man Passes Away After a Long Illness.

Peter Peterson, 30 years old, died last evening at his home, 8 North Sixty-third avenue west of Tuberculosis. Death followed an illness of several months.

Mr. Peterson is survived by a wife and three children, aged 4, 3 and 1 years, respectively. He also leaves a brother, John, and sister, Mrs. John Mattson, both of West Duluth. He came to West Duluth seven years ago and since that time has been in the employ of J. C. Johnson, as a painter.

The funeral will be held Monday or Tuesday. Definite arrangements have not yet been made. The body is at the undertaking rooms of W. H. Richter, 925 North Central avenue.

STEPS ON OLD RAKE; MAY LOSE HIS SIGHT.

While picking up a piece of wood from the ground, Otto Ellers of West Duluth stepped on an old rake which flew up striking him in the eye. His sight may be impaired.

The accident happened Thursday where he is employed as a filer in one of the Cloquet lumber mills. Mr. Ellers came to West Duluth yesterday afternoon to have the injured eye treated. The attending physician has hope of saving the eye.

OLD TRAPPER LEAVES FOR ANNUAL HUNT.

John Davidson, formerly night clerk at the Phillips hotel and one of Duluth's oldest trappers, has left for the woods of Western Canada on his yearly hunting trip.

Mr. Davidson told his friends before he left that he would try hard to bring back a silver fox to West Duluth this year.

Mr. Davidson has hunted and trapped twenty years.

Last spring when Mr. Davidson returned to West Duluth he brought back over $1,200 worth of hides.

SMITHVILLE SCHOLARS GET PIANO AT LAST.

The school children of the Smithville school have a piano at last. The instrument was delivered yesterday at the school house and was used for the first time this morning.

The agitation for a piano at the Smithville school started among the children about two years ago and the matter was taken up with the school board.

The board of education about six weeks ago authorized the purchase of the instrument.

Henry Gulbranson of South Sixty-third avenue west who was injured in a runaway accident Thursday night is reported today to be much improved.

Mr. Gulbranson was in a cutter driving along Grand avenue early in the evening when the horse became frightened at a street car.

The animal bolted ahead and the cutter was upturned and when Mr. Gulbranson clung to it, he was dragged almost two blocks in the snow before the horse was stopped. His face was badly bruised and he was badly shaken up.

All Responsible Charges Will Be Considered, He Says.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Senator Nelson of Minnesota and Representative McCall of Massachusetts today were elected chairman and vice chairman respectively of the joint congressional committee charged with the investigation of all of the facts underlying the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Authority was given to Mr. Nelson to confer with all of the principals thus far involved in the charges as to the scope they desired the inquiry to take, and as to arrangements to be made for their representation by counsel.

The chairman announced also that all charges from a responsible source would be given careful consideration.

Will Meet Tuesday.

Another meeting of the committee has been called for next Tuesday, at which time Mr. Nelson will report the result of the conference he expects to hold with Mr. Ballinger, Mr. Pinchot, Former Assistant Forester Price, Former Law Officer Shaw of the forestry bureau and Former Field Agent Glavis of the general land office. It is expected that some of the dismissed government officials will combine in the selection of legal representatives, and that the number of attorneys attending the investigation, therefore, will not be large.

COPPER MARKET WAS NERVOUS

Liquidation in Leading Issues Caused Decline Before the Close.

The copper market opened nervous, with a fairly confident undertone, but heavy profit taking in Steel common, liquidation in leading coppers, cleaning up of the trades over Sunday and the hesitation of longs to take on new committments in the face of a holiday, caused the market to sag and prices closed generally lower than at the opening.

The public is not in the market to a noticeable extent, appearing to be in an apathetic attitude. The wise ones seem to think prices will go lower, when many bargains can be picked up, and the rest seldom buy on a declining market anyway, but generally wait until the professionals have sized up at bargain prices and are able to force an upward trend when they buy on the upturn. This lamb-like tendency of following the leader is the cause of most of the little shearing parties which the professionals hold at rapidly recurring intervals.

The local market was quiet today, Calumet & Sonora being the feature. This stock hit $19.50 and then sold at $20. There was considerable talk on the exchange today concerning the unfortunate announcement that Duluth-Sonora is involved in legal difficulties. As a matter of fact, Duluth-Sonora is not the company concerned in an action brought by F. H. Merritt to force an accounting. The company involved is Lake Superior & Sonora, C. S. Carpenter president. This concern's stock has been inactive for some time and has no market valuation.

Shattuck sold at $19.37½, Warrior at $13.62½, Zenith at $1.62½, Calumet & Corbin at $1. 98 cents and 95 cents, Keating at $1.81½ and Trethewey-Toronto at 90 cents. The action of the local market was restricted, less than 3,000 shares being traded in. The undertone was weak.

Amalgamated sold at $84 off to $83.37½ and up to $83.87½, Butte-Ballaklava at $12.12½, Calumet & Arizona at $85, up ½ point and down to $83.50, Superior at $4.75, Lake $91.50 up to $94.50 and down to $92 on profit taking, North Butte at $46.25 down to $45. Giroux at $11 and Ojibway at the same quotation.

A message was received here late yesterday from James W. Norton, general manager of Calumet & Sonora, that at Cananea, Mex., saying that the output for four shifts of eight hours each, the last two days when the message was filed, was 123 tons of lead and ninety-six tons of zinc. The net returns on the lead amount to $44 a ton at Cananea and the gross price of the zinc is $62.40 a ton, or about $44 net to the company after duty and freight is paid. The operations for the two days indicated a gross return to the company of $4,626 a day.

The Duluth-Vermilion Iron company has issued a multi-colored map of the Vermilion range. It is said to be accurate and is attractively printed. Lee W. Farmer, broker, fiscal agent for the company, is distributing the maps. Interest in the Vermilion, he says, is rapidly awakening here and elsewhere.

MEAT SALES CUT IN TWO

The Movement Against High Prices Is Stronger in New York City.

Great Demonstration Is Being Planned for Next Tuesday.

New York, Jan. 22.—The fight for cheaper meat waxed hotter in New York today. Pledges to abstain from meat during thirty days or more were extensively circulated and signed, and the indications were that the movement, although slower in getting a foothold here than in many cities, will reach impressive proportions in metropolitan territories.

Formal action by many organized bodies is expected to follow the general trend among families to cut down their meat consumption—a movement said already to have reduced sales at the retail shops 50 per cent.

Women are taking the lead in the local agitation. Today arrangements were being made for a great mass meeting of women in Union square at noon next Tuesday to protest against the high prices of foodstuffs. The National Progressive Women's Suffrage union is arranging for the demonstration which is expected to be one of the most impressive in the city's history.

Over 100,000 In One County.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 22.—The employes of seven of Greater Pittsburg's largest industries today enrolled themselves as anti-meat crusaders. One hundred and twenty-five thousand men in Allegheny county have now pledged themselves to abstain from meat. Five per cent of this number are said to be unmarried. This represents, roughly estimated, 600,000 people who have entered the fight against high priced foodstuffs.

As yet meat or vegetable prices have not been affected.

SUPERIOR BEATEN INTO INSENSIBILITY

Superior Non-Union Man Attacked in the Railroad Yards.

While returning from work last evening, Walter A. Andrews, a strikebreaker, was beaten into insensibility by thugs in the Soo railroad yards near Hughitt avenue. Although his assailants have not been apprehended by the police, it is believed by the authorities that they were strikers or strike sympathizers.

Andrews has a home in the South end and was preparing to take a car for his home when he was attacked. He was passing along the tracks when two or three men jumped upon him and before he could make a sound, he was throttled and beaten into unconsciousness.

It was some time before he regained consciousness and could pick himself up and get to a physician's office. He was taken to his home in the South end where today his injuries are considered serious, though not fatal. Andrews can give the police but little to work on in the case.

Andrews had had words with some of the strike sympathizers. He claims that the men called him "scab" when they attacked him.

WILL JOIN MOVEMENT TO LOWER MEAT PRICES.

Superior labor unions may join the army of industrail workers, professional men and women, who are enlisting in a boycott against the meat trust. The campaign against exorbitant meat prices is now taking form all over the country.

According to William O'Carroll, president of the Superior Trades and Labor assembly, there is every probability that the Superior labor unions will join the movement seeking to lessen the price of meat by abstaining from flesh for a period of thirty days.

The matter will be taken up for consideration at the meeting of the trades and labor assembly, Tuesday evening.

Normal vs. Duluth.

Tonight at the gymnasium of the Superior normal school, the first and second teams of the Duluth Central high school will be matched against the first and second Normal school teams for basket ball honors. Both of the aggregations are in good trim and two fast games are looked for.

Hayward Defeated.

Blaine walloped Hayward, 59 to 7, last evening in a basket ball game played at the Blaine high school gymnasium. The downstate team was bested at all stages of the contest. Tonight the Hayward bunch will take on the Nelson-Dewey aggregation at the East end, at which time they will attempt to redeem themselves.

Judson G. Clarke died this morning at the residence of his father, F. W. Clarke 1407 East Third street.

Mr. Clarke was 25 years of age at the time of his death, and was well known in Duluth, his father being the proprietor of the Troy laundry. He is survived by his wife and one child.

Death was due to spinal meningitis. The funeral will probably be held Monday, but the arrangements have not yet been completed.

EVANGELIST TOO WELL INFORMED

Preacher Tells What Grand Jury Will Do and Spoils It All.

Bartlesville, Okla., Jan. 22.—Rev. E. J. Bulgin, an evangelist, told his congregation yesterday that the county grand jury now in session was about to return 300 indictments. As a result of his statement the inquisitorial body will be dismissed.

The evangelist was cited last night to appear before Judge Shea of the district court and divulge the source of the alleged information. Later the judge announced that he would adjourn the grand jury over to next Monday, and then probably dismiss the body. He stated that there had been too much comment on the grand jury's probable action.

Rev. Dr. Bulgin has openly charged local officials with fostering crime and with accepting hush money from gamblers and bootleggers. Last summer someone fired a shot at the evangelist, without effect.

OBITUARY

Capt. Victor Wolf, who cared for the famous eagle, "Old Abe," throughout the Civil war, as the mascot of the Wisconsin Eagle company, died at Eau Claire, Wis., at the age of 80 years. Capt. Wolf was one of the few survivors of the Eagle company. He purchased the eagle that was later made famous, named it "Old Abe," in honor of President Abraham Lincoln, and cared for it during the strenuous days from 1861 to 1865. The eagle is now a relic in the national capitol at Washington.

Lafayette G. M. Fletcher, one of the earliest and best-known residents of Mankato, Minn., is dead, of pneumonia, contracted from a severe cold last week. He located in Mankato in 1854, without means, and died one of its wealthiest citizens. He began his Mankato career by teaching school and later engaged in farming, the real estate business and banking. He founded and was president of the Mankato Savings bank until his death. He served thirty years on the school board, most of the time as its president, and was known as the founder of the Mankato public schools. He was the last survivor of five men who organized the Republican party in Mankato in 1856. He served one term in the state senate, beginning in 1883.

Mr. Fletcher came from Colonial stock, and his family furnished Revolutionary fighters. He was born in Stockholm, N. Y., Feb. 13, 1830, secured an academic education and taught school before coming West. His second wife and seven children survive, nearly all prominent in their respective fields.

Daniel McLeod, a pioneer logger of Wisconsin, is dead at Luther hospital, Eau Claire, Wis., after a long illness. A widow and one daughter survive.

GREAT YEAR FOR CHEESE.

Wisconsin's 1909 Production Valued at $2,122,615.

Sheboygan Falls, Wis., Jan. 22.—The season of 1909 will go on record as the most remarkable in the history of the cheese business in Wisconsin or the entire country, being particularly notable for the continued activity and firmness of the market under prevailing high prices, throughout the year, hardly a dull sale day being noted on any of the dairy boards according to W. O. Thomas, expert statistician of the cheese trade of the country.

The average price paid for cheese on Wisconsin dairy boards for the last nine years is as follows: 1901, 10¼c; 1902, 11⅝c; 1903, 11c; 1904, 9⅝c; 1905, 11c; 1906,12c; 1907, 13½c; 1908, 12½c; 1909, 15c.

Summary of sales on the ten dairy boards of Wisconsin in 1909 is as follows: Appleton, 1,671,765; Brillion, 531,345; Fond du Lac, 111,832; Highland, 526,322; Mineral Point, 318,565; Muscoda, 859,802; Plymouth, 3,374,122; Richland Center, 885,651; Seymour, 850,2588; Sheboygan, 4,990,800. Total, 14,150,772.

At 15 cents a pound, the estimated average price for the year, the total value of cheese sold on Wisconsin call boards for 1909 is $2,122,615.80.

Looking for Her Boy.

Mrs. Margaret Herzheim of Chicago writes to The Herald asking that an effort be made to find her 18-year-old boy, William, who ran away from his home November last. It is believed that he is in or about Duluth working in a lumber camp. He is said to be with Charles Downey, a lad about his own age.

JAPANESE MUSHROOM GROWING.

London Globe: The Japanese have an interesting method of growing a kind of musiroom known as the wood mushroom, agaricus shitake.

This species, which is much prized as a food in Japan, is related to the so-called honey fungus, a species very destructive to the roots of trees and woody plants. This latter species, it may be noted, is one of the causes of phosphorescence in decaying wood.

The Japanese method of growing their mushroom seems to consist entirely in preparing the ground for it. A coppice of red oak, beech or chestnut of some twenty years' growth is cut down just after the fall of the leaf. The wood is then left lying for 100 days. It is then cut into lengths of three or four feet and the logs are lacerated with large pruning knives. Spores settle on the wounded parts and the mycelium of the fungus spreads through the tissues of the wood.

Next year a crop of mushrooms springs up. The production of mushrooms may go on for six years, but the main crop is gathered the second year. The attempt is now being made to cultivate the wood musaroom in Germany in the Japanese manner.

THE SPREADING MEAT BOYCOTT.

It is reported that some of the wholesale meat dealers smile at the stories of the meat boycott. Judging from the accumulating reports that the movement is sweeping the country like wildfire, their smiles must be somewhat forced. It doesn't look like a thing to smile at.

And the real significance of the movement is not in the immediate and temporary effect. It does not lie in the fact that 100,000 people in Cleveland have agreed to eat no meat for thirty days, nor in the fact that 80,000 people in Kansas City have pledged themselves to the same sacrifice. Neither does it lie in the fact that community after community, all over the country, is taking it up.

Though 100,000 people in Cleveland, and many thousands in many other cities, agree to eat no meat for a specified period, they will return to eating meat at the end of the period, and many of them before that. If the crusade has its intended effect—to lower meat prices—the return to meat eating will come the quicker.

The real point is that hardly anybody who carries out this pledge in good faith will, for a long time to come, if ever, eat as much meat as he used to. People will find out that if they can live for thirty days without meat, they can live indefinitely on much less meat than they have been using. They will find, indeed, that they are the better for it, financially, physically and mentally. Most people have been eating too much meat anyway. The chief food element in meat is protein, which is also furnished in many vegetables, such as peas and beans. The body needs proteids, but too much is harmful. People who eat meat two or three times a day, besides vegetables that provide proteids, tax their system unduly, and suffer in consequence. Extensive experiments have shown that better health and greater endurance are secured from a low proteid diet than from a diet high in proteids.

So those who abandon meat eating for an economic purpose will find a physical as well as financial benefit in it. They should not make the mistake of becoming vegetarians, but beyond question a great many of them will find themselves so benefited by a reduction of their meat allowance that they will hereafter eat less meat. Meat once a day, or even four times a week, is enough for anybody.

In the meantime, the rapid spread of the anti-meat crusade is very significant. It proves the deep-seated discontent that exists, the sullen resentment of the people because of the high cost of living. They can't cease wearing clothes or living in houses; they can't quit eating altogether: but they can quit meat for a time, and they are doing it. The result of the crusade will be striking and interesting in many ways.

Nor will the crusade be without its harm, either; most crusades involve harm to some, no matter how much good they do to the many. The retail meat dealer and the stock raisers are alarmed, and rightly so. The meat trust, at which the attack is aimed, is longer-winded financially than either the butcher or the stock raiser; so the latter will feel the pressure most painfully. However, the anti-meat crusade is one of those movements that catch the popular attention and sweep over the country like a prairie fire in dry grass before a high wind. The effect, in the end, will be largely beneficial.

GETTING THE BOY A PLACE.

"I see," said the teacher, "that The Herald last Saturday made use of my offhand remarks about the boys who take jobs for the immediate pay involved and without reference to future prospects. I am glad it did, because I believe it to be important not only to individuals but to the community that the future be not overlooked in the search for the highest present wages.

"There is another point, however, that is fully as important. Too many boys pick jobs because they will allow them to dress neatly and wear immaculate collars and cuffs rather than because there is a future ahead in them, and too many parents let them do it."

That is indeed a point worth remembering by boys leaving school and seeking opportunities to earn their own living, and by parents of such boys. Part of the error rises from the wish for places in which boys can be well-dressed, and part in the enormously mistaken idea that there is something about manual labor that is degrading.

That is why there are so many people seeking positions that pay comparatively little, partly from their very nature and partly because the visible supply of workers is so great. That is why there is so little competition in the manual trades where good workmen always command good wages, and where those who develop the utmost that is in them and keep an eye out for the main chance have almost unlimited opportunities for advancement.

That is why there is such an army of clerks, bookkeepers, and the like, and that is why their average pay is so small, comparatively, and why that pay has risen so little while the cost of living has been marching ahead with formidable and alarming strides.

Not enough boys learn trades, and too many seek positions in which they can be "gentlemen" and wear good clothes. That is why there is always such a scarcity of really skilled labor, and that is why there are so many trying to wear good clothes and be "gentlemen" on salaries half as much as those paid skilled workers who are not afraid to soil their hands and wear working clothes during working hours.

There are opportunities for advancement for clerks, bookkeepers and the like; but the competition is so fierce because of the enormous supply that there are good places only for a few. Given two boys of equal ability, one chosing a job where he can keep "dressed up" and one starting in to learn a trade, unafraid of soiled hands and working clothes during working hours, the chances for the future are ten to one in favor of the boy that learns a trade.

Everybody must work in this country, with the almost negligible exception of those unfortunate ones who are born without the need to work and who therefore never have need of developing the worth that is in them. The dainty places that pay well are very few, and the grimy places that pay well and have good prospects are many. When a large proportion of the boys seek the dainty places, manifestly most of them are going to be condemned to careers upon small pay, involving a bitter struggle to keep up appearances. Notwithstanding all the fine things that are said about the brotherhood of capital and labor, capital pays no more than it has to for its labor. When the supply of applicants for the dainty places is very large, it need not pay much, and it doesn't pay much. When the supply of applicants for the grimy places is so small, comparatively, and the supply of those who achieve skill and ingenuity is so very much smaller, capital has to pay well for such labor, and it does pay well.

The boy who lets the horror of soiled hands influence his choice of his life work is making a big sacrifice for appearances. He is losing the substance of life for its shadow.

THE REAL PROBLEM.

In his discussion of the vast areas of fertile lands still lying idle in Northern Minnesota, to which The Herald has referred before, State Immigration Commissioner Welsh said that the problem is to get the various counties in Northern Minnesota pulling together, instead of each working for itself alone.

The only way the counties of a state can work together in a matter of this sort is through the organization for common protection and benefit that already exists—the state government.

The development of Northern Minnesota is not a matter that concerns the counties of Northern Minnesota alone; it concerns the entire state. The state already has an effective organization through which to do public work, and it would be absurd to go to the trouble of forming a new organization when the state government exists for such purposes.

Nobody need fear that the communities and counties of Northern Minnesota will fail to do their share. They have been doing their share, and more than their share, for many years. They have been struggling desperately against heavy handicaps, and the heaviest handicaps have been imposed by the state itself. Only a quarter of the vacant lands in Northern Minnesota belong to the public; three quarters belong to individual and corporate landlords. Yet the only landlords against whom any complaint has been made is the state.

Duluth, as the commercial and industrial capital of Northern Minnesota, has been and is doing great work toward the settlement of idle acres. It is doing this work because it is vitally necessary to its future prosperity that these idle lands shall become busy producing the food it needs, and supporting the people upon whose patronage its industries must in large measure depend for support. Duluth will continue to do this work, and the other communities of Northern Minnesota will continue to do their share; but every effort will be handicapped until the state awakens to its duty and adopts a sound business policy as to its idle acres.

As we have said, this does not concern Northern Minnesota alone. Idle public lands pay no taxes, contribute nothing to the support of government and public works, and add nothing to the wealth of the state. Every tiller of the soil added to the population of Northern Minnesota is a payer of taxes and a producer of wealth added to the resources of the entire state. Full development of Northern Minnesota would directly profit the northern part of the state enormously; but indirectly it would profit the entire state quite as much. The farmer in the extreme southern end of the state should welcome the coming of a farmer to the extreme northern end who will help to pay state taxes and add to the wealth of the state.

Too long has Northern Minesota been regarded as a sort of foreign dependency of the state, a colony to be taxed and neglected. It demands admission to the state, and treatment as a part of the state.

A TEST OF REPUBLICANISM.

President Taft, it is learned from authoritative sources, is disposed to make the test of Republicanism a simple one. It is to be the attitude of senators and congressmen toward legislation promised by the Republican party in its platform.

That seems fair enough, and we hope he insists upon the application of that test vigorously. The people have already applied it, and it is President Taft's greatest misfortune that they have been compelled to apply it to him, and that the application has not been to his advantage.

As we understand it, the test of Republicanism this winter is to be the attitude of senators and congressmen toward the postal savings bank, railroad legislation and conservation. The president has nothing to fear from insurgents, or from Democrats, on these issues. Most of the Democrats in congress will be able to qualify as good Republicans on those measures.

But how will Aldrich and Cannon and Tawney and Dalzell and the rest of the members of the organization qualify?

And if they fail to qualify, Mr. President, will you exclude them from your councils and refuse to let them participate in the distribution of patronage? Will you treat them as you have treated the insurgents?

Another matter, too, Mr. President, before we leave this pregnant subject. There is the issue of tariff revision. The people wanted a tariff revision that would relieve them from the oppressions of the Dingley bill. The Republican party promised such a revision, and so did you as its candidate for president. It is true that some of the members of your party who bask in the sunshine of your favor denied after election that the promise of the party necessarily meant revision downward, but your interpretation of that promise was open to no such quibbling.

And the outcome of it all was the infamous Aldrich-Payne-Taft tariff law, which yielded relief on almost nothing, which added oppression in many ways, and which left untouched the commodities regarding which there was the most complaint, and as to which complaint was most justified.

Your idea of a test of Republicanism, Mr. President, surely should include action upon the chief item in your party's program, and the item on which your country built the greatest hopes of concrete relief. The senators and congressmen who worked to carry out the party's promise—and yours—are, by your test, good Republicans. The senators and congressmen who worked to prevent those promises from being carried out are, by your test, bad Republicans. By our test they are, too, bad citizens and unfaithful public servants.

Yet the only Republicans who fought to carry out the promises of your party and yourself, Mr. President, are men like Senators Dolliver, Beveridge, Cummins, Clapp and Bristow, and congressmen like Murdock, Davis, Lindbergh and others who are classed as insurgents, and looked upon by you and the organization of your party as party rebels, if not traitors.

And how would that test work out with yourself, Mr. President? You kept aloof while the promises of your party and yourself were being betrayed, and you signed an infamously treacherous tariff bill and pronounced it good. You refuse to let the tariff be further considered, though every day it is squeezing unfair taxes out of suffering millions. What kind of a Republican are you, Mr. President, by your own test of Republicanism? And if this be real Republicanism, what is the country to think of your party and your administration?

RETURNING TO DR. COOK.

Upon mature reflection, we find our feeling toward Dr. Cook rather kindly than otherwise; and that is taking into consideration the worst that anybody may charge against him.

He may, you know, have been to the pole after all. We are not saying that he was; but it is hard to escape the embarrassment of this question: if Cook lied about it, why didn't he lie better, when it was so easy for him to do it? If his report of polar conditions is exactly the same as Peary's simply because he is a good guesser, why didn't he guess better than he did about the points that put Copenhagen against him?

But what The Herald started to say is altogether aside from any question of Cook's veracity. It even ignores the fact that the world is indebted to him for many acceptable thrills of interest, and adopts, for purposes of argument, the very worst that can be said about him. Even if he never was at the pole, and pretended that he was merely to make money, still we feel kindly toward him.

You see his fraud—if it was a fraud—didn't harm anybody in the world except Peary; and we are not so pure that it is disagreeable to have Peary hurt a little. He is such a self-complacent bundle of egotism that there is some satisfaction in seeing him rapped a bit. Dr. Cook's fraud—if it was a fraud—netted him $100,000 at the outside; his former secretary says $50,000, and that probably is nearer the truth. That's all he got out of it; and be sure, if he lied, his punishment will fit his crime.

Take an American senator, for instance, who represents himself as a public servant and patriot, and getting office on that pretense betrays the people and the republic. If he is any good at all he gets more out of his fraud than Cook ever dreamed of getting—and he does infinitely more harm than Cook could do if he deliberately set out to wreak his worst upon the world. We feel kindly toward Dr. Cook at his potential worst because of the comparison between him and such a senator; it is all in Cook's favor.

Take a dealer in adulterated food, who palms his product of sawdust and cocoanut shells and other waste and perhaps poisonous substances off on the people as wholesome and nourishing food. He gets out of it many times more than Cook ever dreamed of getting; and he does more harm than Cook could do if he tried. We feel kindly toward Dr. Cook at his potential worst because of the comparison between him and such a business man; it is all in Cook's favor.

Take the manipulator of watered stocks, who buys up two concerns worth $100,000 apiece, capitalizes them at $10,000,000, issues $10,600,000 in bonds, and represents his consolidation to be worth its capitalized value. He makes the people pay dividends on his $20,000,000, when they should pay dividends only on $200,000. He gets out of it many times more than Cook ever deamed of getting; and he does more harm than Cook could do if he tried. We feel kindly toward Dr. Cook at his potential worst because of the comparison between him and such a financier; it is all in Cook's favor.

Take Speaker Cannon, for another instance. He was elected speaker of the branch of congress which represents the people, turned the speakership into an absolute and arrogant autocracy, prostituted a representative body of the greatest republic on earth to the service of those who prey upon the people's necessities, and made government of the people, by the people and for the people a hideous joke. We don't know what he gets out of it, but he does more harm every day than Cook could do in a lifetime. We feel kindly toward Dr. Cook at his potential worst because of the comparison between him and such a "statesman;" it is all in Cook's favor.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

RUNNING THE GAUNTLET.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I think that I voice the sentiment of hundreds of Duluth people when I say that Superior street, along about 8 o'clock in the morning, is a very disagreeable place. I belong to the "common herd" and each morning walk down to my office. It is just about the time that the clothing stores, hardware establishments, peanut stands, saloons and other retail establishments are getting ready for the day. Usually it is a boy—some times a man—who does the sweeping out act. The men seem to be little better than the boys and both are careless in the extreme. Now, I don't wear the classiest clothes that decorate our best street on Sunday afternoon, but I have enough respect for what I do wear that it is mighty annoying to be caught in between the man who is sweeping and the curb. Sometimes it is dirty slush and at other times only harmless dust. But when this happens from second avenue east to Fifth avenue west a fellow not only feels uncomfortable, but by the time his office is reached he looks as though he had been out on a tear.

Don't you think, Mr. Editor, that this sweeping could be done just a little earlier in the morning so that we who walk to our offices and places of business could better enjoy the beautiful Duluth-made mornings. I am sure I am not the only one who has noticed this matter. In fact, I have heard a number of people remark upon it. Hoping that this may come to the notice of some of our Superior street merchants,

I am yours truly, A. WALKER.

SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Can you tell me why theatrical managers will wilfully and with no apparent excuse, introduce disagreeable features in their productions, when the great majority of theater-goers dislike these features, and attend the play in spite of them, and not because of them. Take for instance "The Merry Widow," which played in Duluth for three nights. It was a splendid production, to my mind, and the music is delightful. But why does a man of the stamp of Mr. Savage allow a number of little disgusting details to creep into the performance? It is probably not his fault that one scene is placed in a noted Parisian cafe. He had to take the opera as he found it, and its music is excuse enough for the unwelcome and wholesome foreign atmosphere about it. But this atmosphere could be toned down greatly, and in the hands of a manager of Mr. Savage's ability, could be made harmless. But this has not been done, and some of the details of that scene in Maxim's are made disgusting. I don't believe the theater-going public wants that sort of thing on the stage. I believe they just stomach those features and try to overlook them. Why is it that managers allow risque situations to creep into a play, or questionable jokes to be used? I believe that nine people out of every ten in the average audience feel about as I do on this point.

A THEATER-GOER.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Newark Evening News: "Can I get the silver service for the fire department," inquired the young man at the free library.

"The what?" asked the girl at the desk.

"The silver service for the fire department—the questions they ask you when you take the silver service examinations, you know."

St. Louis Star: "I am going to embark in some sort of business, and want to know whether you think there is much money in moving pictures?"

"There was for a fellow who moved a half dozen of ours," said the flat dweller. "He charged us $10."

Boston Transcript: Sapleigh—The doctor says there's something the matter with my head.

Sharp—You surely didn't pay a doctor to tell you that!

Newark News: "Here's a picture that my aunt painted," said Mrs. Keephouse, showing a visitor through the flat.

"It's a pretty frame, though."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Would you marry a woman who had been divorced?"

"Well, I don't know. A good deal would depend on what she had been doing with her alimony."

Sketch: The Conversationalist (to well-known authoress)—I am so delighted to meet you—it was only the other day—I saw something of yours—about something or other—in some paper!

Washington Star: "Did you have any assistance when you made your appearance as a singer?"

"Yes," answered the amateur soloist. "There was a policeman keeping order in the gallery."

Meggendorfer Blaetter: Her Father—Yesterday I won the prize in the lottery and today you come and ask me for my daughter's hand.

Suitor—Yes, you know, one bit of good luck always brings another.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Author! Author!" yelled the people. "Listen," said the young playwright. "Raise the curtain. I'll go out and make a speech."

"Don't do it," replied a stage hand who had a kind face. "The fellows that are yelling 'Author' are sittin' in the front row and have heavy canes."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I have here a poem," explained the proud author, "which I should like to have you publish at your usual terms."

"All right," said the editor of the Plunkville Palladium. "Ten dollars a line for one insertion, or we will run it thirty times for $6."

Smart Set: She—What do they make in a chafing dish?
He—Indigestion.

London Tit-Bits: Joynes—I tell you, Singleton, you don't know the joys and felicities of a contented, married life, the happy flight of years, the long, restful calm of—

Singleton—How long have you been married?

Joynes—Just a month

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Charity appeals to most men as strongly as taxes.

People are awful bold liars to tell those they have been visiting what a good time they had.

The real thing to a woman about a romantic novel is she knows it never could happen in life.

What makes a man want to take a day off is having a lot of work that somebody else wants him to do.

A man grows to hate another for making more money than he does; a woman grows to hate another for dressing better than she does.

On Keeping One's Temper.

Epictetus: If you wish not to be of an angry temper, do not feed the habit; throw nothing on it which will increase it; at first keep quiet and count the days on which you have not been angry. I used to be in a passion every day; now ever second day; then ever third; then ever fourth. But if you have intermitted thirty days, make a sacrifice to God. For the habit at first begins to be weakened and then is completely destroyed when you can say, "I have not been vexed today, nor the day before, nor yet on any succeeding day before, nor yet on any succeeding day during two or three months; but I took care when some exciting things happened."

THE WEATHER.

The weather man didn't treat Duluth very unkindly last night and today is fine, though the clear sky promised didn't materialize. Snow flurries are promised for tonight, but the temperature will be moderate. A cold and breezy Sunday is predicted.

A year ago today, the January thaw was still working and there had been a light rain.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:55, giving nine hours and eleven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Disturbances of considerable intensity are centered over Manitoba and Lake Erie. The latter caused rain or snow in most districts to the eastward of the Mississippi valley during the past twenty-four hours, while the principal result of the former has been a marked increase in temperature throughout the Northwest. The barometer is high over the far West and South. Somewhat colder weather prevails in the Lake region, the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, South Atlantic and Eastern Gulf states due largely to the influence of the southern and western high pressures. Freezing temperatures prevail southward to the Rio Grande and the northern portions of Gulf states.

"Indications favor colder weather at the Head of the Lakes during Sunday afternoon and Sunday night."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the past twenty-four hours and the minimum for the past twelve ending at 7 a. m.:

BILL NYE ON COMETS.

Edgar Wilson ("Bill") Nye in San Francisco Argonaut, June, 1885: The comet is a kind of astronomical parody on the planets, but they are thinner and do not hurt so hard when they hit anybody as a planet does. The comet was so called because it had hair on it, I believe, but of late years the baldheaded comet is giving just as good satisfaction everywhere.

The characteristic features of the comet are: A nucleus, a nebulous light or coma, and usually a luminous train or tail worn high. Sometimes several tails are observed on one comet, but this only in flush times.

When I was young I used to think I would like to be a comet in the sky, up above the world so high, with nothing to do but loaf around and play with the new-laid planets and have a good time, but now I can see where I was wrong. Comets also have their troubles, their perihelions, their hyperbolas and the parabolas. A little over 300 years ago Tyco Brahe discovered that comets were extraneous to our atmosphere and since then times have improved. I can see that trade is steadier, and potatoes run less to tops than they did before.

Soon after that they discovered that comets all had more or less periodicity. Nobody knows how they get it. All the astronomers had been watching them day and night and didn't know when they were exposed, but there was no time to talk and argue over the question. There were 200 or 300 comets all down with it at once. It was an exciting time.

Comets sometimes live to a great age. This shows that the right air is not so injurious to the health as many people would have us believe. The great comet of 1680 is supposed to have been the one that was noticed about the time of Caesar's death, 44 B. C.; and still, when it appeared in Newton's time, 1,700 years after its first grand farewell tour, Ike said that it was very well preserved indeed, and seemed to have retained all its faculties in good shape.

A late writer on astronomy said that the substance of the nebulosity and the tail is of almost inconceivable tenuity. He said this, and then death came to his relief.

Another writer says of the comet and it stall that "the curvature of the latter and the acceleration of the periodic time in the case of Encke's comet indicate their being affected by a resisting medium which has never been observed to have the slightest influence on the planetary periods."

I do not fully agree with the eminent authority, though he may be right. Much fear has been the result of the comet's appearance ever since the world began, and it is as good a thing to worry about as anything I know of. If we could get close to a comet without frightening it away we would find that we could walk through it anywhere as we could through the glare of a torchlight procession. We should so live that we will not be ashamed to look a comet in the eye, however. Let us pay up our newspaper subscription and lead such lives that when the comet strikes we will be ready.

Some worry a good deal about the chances for a big comet to plow into the sun some dark, rainy night and thus bust up the whole universe. I wish that was all I had to worry about. If any responsible man will agree to pay my taxes and funeral expenses I will agree to do his worrying about the comet's crashing into the bosom of the sun and knocking its daylights out.

There is much in the great field of astronomy that is discouraging to the savant who hasn't the time or means to rummage around through the heavens. At times I am almost hopeless and feel like saying to the great, yearnful, hungry world: "Grope on forever. Do not ask me another scientific fact. Find it out yourself. Hunt up your own new-laid planets and let me have a rest. Never ask me again to sit up all night and take care of the new-born world, while you lie in bed and think not."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Biggest Thing in the World.

Put the question to a group of average men, "What is the biggest work being done in the world today?" and very likely one would say, "the digging of the Panama canal," and another, "the construction of a railway through Africa from Cairo to the Cape," and perhaps a third would instance the reclamation of great deserts through irrigation. Wrong, every one of you. The greatest work, gentlemen, that is going on today is that under the banners of what is known as foreign missions.

A totally new and a much fairer estimate of the enterprise is gradually taking possession of the public mind. A generation ago the popular conception of a missionary was of a solemn, white-bearded individual in a frock coat, with a Bagster Bible in his hand, standing under a palm tree preaching to a group of naked heathen. Today preaching is but one of the many phases of modern missionary work, which includes all sorts of ministrations to human need.

These later developments have been forced upon the missionary. First, he looks about him and sees a multitude of diseased folk, and he reasons, "What's the use of trying to save their souls and ignoring the pitiable condition of their bodies?" So he writes back word to his board, "Send us out some good doctors." And thus medical missions were born, and they are now blessing the Orient, through hospitals, dispensaries and house-to-house ministration.

Then the missionary looks farther and sees a vast amount of ignorance and exclaims, "Why, we can't let these children grow up unable to read and write!" So back again he sends, this time for Christian teachers, and soon schools, colleges and theological seminaries are irradiating the darkness of Asia and Africa. In due time Christian literature becomes necessary, and so printing plants have to be established, and often, too, trained agriculturists and manual teachers are demanded, in order to help the natives to self-support and to a mastery of some trade.

The outcome of these varied approaches to far-off nations is such a ferment as we are now witnessing in China or such an upheaval as that through which Turkey has recently passed. Foreign missions do not directly produce revolutions, but they inculcate the principles of democracy and constitutional government, and in due time sultan, czar and every other embodiment of mediævalism and tyranny must go down before the onward sweep of knowledge and virtue.

So this business of carrying to other nations the best that we know of God and the ideals of human life presented in the gospel looms up as a vital and virile undertaking. No wonder that some of the brightest young men and women in the land are investing their lives in the foreign work. They see a rare chance to mold these far-off nations which are throwing off the fetters of old customs and beliefs and reaching after the light and hope that are found only in Christianity. A splendid host of such young people came together at Rochester, N. Y., recently, 3,000 strong, from over 700 institutions to consider the various fields of Orient, and many of them volunteer for the service there. They are not "goody-goody" fellows, either, who go out to China, India and Japan as missionaries. Many of them could command large salaries at home, but the glitter of gold is no attraction compared with the chance to help build a new national life.

And look at the way in which laymen in this country and Canada are arousing to carry their share of the financial load. Such meetings as are being held in fifty cities of the country, in which many laymen pledge themselves to double and treble their gifts, tell the story of the way in which hard-headed business men view the proposition. Then, too, we have such statesmen as President Taft and Ambassador Bryce committed heart and soul to the foreign missionary proposition.

This is a good time, brother, to wake up, if you never have before, to the joy and privilege of sharing in the "biggest work in the world."

Tolstoi on Women's Clothes.

Life: Why is gambling prohibited, and why are women not prohibited from wearing dresses that provoke sensuality? They are a thousand times more dangerous.—Tolstoi.

It is to wonder what is the good of Tolstoi's idea of dresses that provoke sensuality. Won't somebody show him the picture of Lydia Maria Child in a low-neck gown in the December American Magazine, and learn whether he would put that excellent and heroic lady's costume under the ban? He must know that clothes are a thing of habit, and are decent or indecent largely as custom has made them so.

Tolstoi's intelligence has the longest range that exists. It extends all the way from the high peaks of human vision down to a point of view that would fit comfortably on Mrs. Carrie Nation. Now he sees like a great and saintly sage and again as a Russian peasant. It is curious.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

R. J. Hayes of Ashland has sold a half interest in valuable iron land options to Hugh Steele, the Duluth contractor, who put in the government breakwater there. The consideration named is $8,250. They already have a shaft down seventy feet on the land, which is located east of the Tylers Forks, and are now in mixed hemitite with good indications.

The Lake Superor Land company has been organized with a capital of $50,000. The incorporators are: E. W. Matter, F. Bennett, Fred Koors, Anton Gronseth, John Olson, D. K. Pearson, J. A. Brayton, C. A. Phelps, J. B. Cotton, all of Duluth, and C. A. Wright of Humboldt, Iowa. The officers are: President, F. Bennett; vice president, J. B. Cotton; treasurer, E. W. Matter; secretary, J. A. Brayton; directors, A. Gronseth, D. K. Pearson and C. A. Phelps.

The contractors who are doing the interior work on the Palladio and Chamber of Commerce buildings have discharged all the Duluth laborers and artisans, and have imported a number of Minneapolis men to fill their places. The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners has prepared a petition to the chamber of commerce of to see if a change cannot be made, but the chamber does not own the building named after it.

The present cold weather is bringing in applicants for poor relief, but Supt. Paul says the number is fully 25 per cent lower than last year at this time when the weather was not as severe as now.

Negotiations are pending between Duluth capitalists and a prominent Eastern business man for the establishment in this city of a wholesale drygoods house.

THE OHIO RIVER

By SAVOYARD.

The Panama canal will cost $500,000,000 before it is finished, and as an artery of commerce it will be worth to the American people less than one-tenth the benefit they would derive from the expenditure of $63,000,000 to improve the Ohio river upon the plan laid down by the board of engineers of the army. But the isthmian canal will be invaluable in that it will afford a means to reinforce our fleets in the Pacific with war craft drafted from the Atlantic fleets. If war should come with Japan after the canal is finished it may pay for itself in a few weeks.

I never dreamed of the stupendous industrial and commercial possibilities of the great valley drained by the Ohio river and its tributaries until I read a speech of A. O. Stanley, member of congress from the Second Kentucky district, delivered before the Ohio Valley improvement association at Cincinnati last autumn. The remarks of Mr. Stanley are a little more ornate than John G. Carlisle or Nelson W. Aldrich would have made them; but that is excusable in a successor in congress of John Young Brown and James A. McKenzie. Yet everybody understood what he said, and that is the main thing in a speech, and he talked sparingly, as well as his readers, by the extent and thoroughness of his knowledge of the subject. As I read and read I could but marvel at the gift the man has for research, the patient industry, the zest for pursuit, the long possession of a single train of thought. What a lawyer he would make if he should lose his love for politics, which he won't!

The Ohio river has numerous navigable tributaries, the Allegheny, the Monongahela, the Kanawhas, the Sandy, the Muskingum, the Kentucky, the Green, the Cumberland, the Tennessee and the Wabash representing navigable waters 3,500 miles in extent, bearing freights aggregating 7,500,000 tons per annum. It is proposed to canalize the Ohio which would give a nine-foot channel every day in the year, and cheapen freights to 13,000,000 of our population. At present the Ohio has an eight and one-half foot channel but seventy-nine days of the 365. And thus when the tributaries empty their 7,500,000 tons of freight upon her bosom it must remain there to await a rise in the waters. And thus again the millions spent in the improvement of the lesser streams are practically useless some ten months of the year.

Speaking of freight rates on the Ohio, Mr. Stanley says:

"When you propose transporting your finished product, do you know that the freight rates upon the Ohio river—when you have a river—are cheaper than anywhere else in the world? Why, the water rates upon the Oder are about 3.33 mills per ton-mile; on the Elbe, 2.5 mills, and on the Rhine, 1.8 mills. On the great Lakes and through the Sault Ste Marie canal the rate is $1 of one mill per mile. Coal is carried from Pittsburg to Cairo for less than half a mill per ton-mile, or, according to the official figures, 0.047 cents per ton-mile; that is, a ton of coal is carried from Pittsburg to Cairo for 42.25 cents."

And he supplemented that statement with the declaration that more commerce is borne upon the bosom of the Ohio than upon any other unimproved river on earth.

When the Ohio river is properly improved and a nine-foot channel secured the year round from Pittsburg to Cairo, it will create another Pittsburg at Evansville and vicinity and Owensboro and Henderson on the south side of the river will be the "vicinity." Pittsburg depends on iron, steel, glass and coal. The new Pittsburg, already the first hardwood manufacturing center in America, if not in the world, will have cotton mills, flour mills, tobacco factories, livestock yards, whisky distilleries, and in addition steel, iron, coal and glass. For commercial and financial purposes, the three cities, Evansville, Owensboro and Henderson will be one, and if Evansville shall be the largest of the three, it will be due to the fact that it is directly opposite the confluence of the Ohio and Green rivers on the south bank of the Ohio.

And that brings me to say something of Green river that I have known from childhood. For the volume of water it discharges it is the deepest river in the world, and it drains the region of the "Pennyrile" of Kentucky, unsurpassed in fertility and unrivaled in versatility of products in all the world. The climate is as admirable as the temperate zone can furnish, and it is scarce to be wondered at that one-tenth of the entire commerce of the Ohio river comes down Green river.

The products that come out of Green river are as varied as they are abundant—coal, lumber, including walnut, oak, hickory, ash, gum, beech, elm and poplar; tobacco, corn, wheat, oats, potatoes, all the vegetables; cattle, mules, hogs, sheep; staves, hubs, rims, and spokes; poultry, eggs and fruit, amounting in all to 1,000,000 tons per annum.

As soon as this merchandise emerges from Green river it runs up against a sandbar about 300 days of the year, and that is why it amounts to only one-tenth of the entire commerce of the Ohio. If there were a dam at Henderson there is no question that the traffic on the Green river would soon be doubled. There are folk who look coolly upon river and harbor improvements because they hold it tends to cripple our railroads. There never was yet a more mistaken notion. Cheap rates makes business, and it is impossible for the river to be swarming with craft laden with merchandise without its making additional trains on the railroads laden with freights. James J. Hill, as good authority on the subject as any man now living, declares some of the improvements specially directed and his opinion is that the more commerce floated on our rivers and lakes the more cars the railroads will need to carry the additional freights the water traffic will compel to make for them. It is a fact that an additional expenditure of $1,000,000,000 on our rivers, lakes and harbors to facilitate transportation would not give to our waterways half the efficiency of those of France, and yet at this very moment France is expending large sums to widen and deepen her rivers and canals.

Of course when congress embraced the policy of canalizing the Ohio, the work had to begin at Pittsburg and make its way down, though that was a mistaken notion. It would have been worth many times the cost of the whole thing had bonds been sold and all the fifty-four dams constructed at once. By this time the whole thing would have been completed and hundreds of millions saved to the commerce of the Ohio and its tributaries; but they would not have it so and it will be many years before the work is completed.

The most important dam of the whole lot is that at Henderson, to conserve the commerce of Green river and lend immense advantages to the triple cities of Henderson, Owensboro and Evansville. Congressman Stanley has worked for this and without ceasing ever since he has been in congress and just before the recent holiday recess of congress he prevailed on the river and harbor committee of the house to give him a day in court, and they granted him a hearing Jan. 5, 1910.

He scampered home and aroused his constituents. At Owensboro it was after night and the night of the blizzard at that. But six men composed his audience, later swollen to some sixteen. In the biting cold he spoke to them and raised $125 to help defray the expenses of a delegation to Washington to appear before the committee. At his home town of Henderson he raised $800, and at Evansville they put up $900. Then Owensboro reinforced her contribution, and Jan. 8 there was a large delegation of business men from the three cities. They chaperoned the cause as only business men could, and the committee was simply astounded at the resources and possibilities of that region.

I hope the Henderson dam will be ordered and appropriated for. Such zeal and energy as Stanley's deserves success, and the delegations he headed from Evansville, Owensboro and Henderson were as fine specimens of splendid citizenship as the Union can show.

MODERN PHILANTHROPY

A Fifty Years' Survey of Charitable Work Shows That Increased Population Followed by Scientific Methods Have Made Reasonable the Charity of Today.

By ZEBULON R. BROCKWAY.

(Mr. Brockway is best known as former superintendent of the Elmira reformatory, where he took charge in 1876, moulding that institution into the model that it is today. He remained superintendent until 1900. He has been in prison work since 1848, when he was a clerk in the Connecticut state prison, and his interest in penology has put him in close touch with the whole field of charities and corrections. He is 82 years of age and active in all good works in his home city, Elmira, N. Y.)

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

The present increased general interest and activity in charitable and correctional work should, more fairly, be attributed to increase and density of population, conspicuous wealth and poverty, and remarkable facilities of communicating, than to any difference in the ratio and quality of prevalent moral and philanthropic enthusiasm.

Modern charity, both in its spirit and method, is a more reasonable thing than it was fifty years ago. It is characterized with that wisdom which sees the essential unity and mutuality of all human interests, knows that individual misfortune is also a public injury, an economic loss the public must ultimately pay. Tentative partial poor relief is now seen to be poor economy; so that the personal and churchly dole of earlier times are giving way to more systematic and thorough methods.

The totality of current charitable endeavor now gratifyingly organized, and advantageously somewhat secularized, lacks as yet complete unity of the voluntary and governmental grand divisions. But, although charity organization has enabled and instituted profound research for causes, bringing to light the intimate relation that exists between dependency and crime; and, by means of trained charity workers the ministrations are much improved. Social ills are not now so generally attributed to a neglectful or punitive Providence, nor are defective and delinquent individuals so severely blamed, as they were, for their own faultiness. Research has disclosed antecedents and environments quite beyond the individual control which reasonably account for much; and, at the same time, emphasize the importance of proper regulation of present conditions with a view to the future. Thus, the charitable activities of today are somewhat scientized. This is also evident in the changed tone of the charity conventions—the sentimentalism of the earlier conventions is, happily, latterly replaced with the spirit of scientific inquiry.

Since about 1860, the independent voluntary charity associations have been gradually gathered within state control by means of the state charity commissions, so many of which have since been created. Both the voluntary and authoritative charity organizations still exist with some consequent, not antagonistic, but infelicitous exercise of function. Apparently there is a strong present tendency toward blending the two into one harmonious governing agency, which shall be completely controlled and the charities mainly supported by the state. There is a measure of appropriateness in this proposition for, in truth, there is actual identity of wise philanthropy and the public economy which is a department of political science and so peculiarly an executive function of the state federation of voluntary charity organizations is a favorable preliminary to such a merger. The movement is active in a number of cities and in Cleveland, Ohio, and Elmira, N. Y., already it is accomplished and with good results.

It is claimed and believed that the very best contribution voluntaryism can make to charity, whether it be of money or service, is that which finds its object through the orderly, intelligent instrumentality of the organized state government. Voluntaryism, under guidance of official experts, will be mainly devoted to relief and remedy of existing ills; but the state governmental agency will drive directly at the negotiable sources of the evils. The indications are now more clear that as we advance into the Twentieth century the predominant aim of public charity will be to stifle causes and prevent any occasion for charity.

Philanthropists of the present time are less confident that the present status of affairs can, by any human agency, be essentially changed. We have learned or are learning that the limit of possible present benefits of charity lies within the passing ministration of help to the needy; strong repression of open evils; exercise of a steadying influence on conflicting interests; that the reasonable hope of permanent social benefits depends on wise measures and wise use of them directed, for effect, upon the future generations.

Marked change and hopeful signs are seen in the greater importance attached and attention given, in the modern philanthropy, to material in distinction from incorporeal conditions and interventions, particularly as relates to the children and youth. But for this it must be said that the family and church have lost caste as useful centers for accomplishing such a permanent social benefit.

Early and desirable formative type of family life is rarely, now, found among that large division of the population which mostly supplies occasion for charities and correction. Immigration, urban housing conditions and industrial changes have well nigh obliterated that kind of family which justified the saying that the family unit and bulwark of society." As to the church, when considered as an institution, there is little hazard in affirming, without offering explanation, that, long since, it has ceased to be regarded as the important source of scientific charity or as the chief well-spring of social morality.

When we look to the schools and other institutions that embrace most of the young of the generation, it seems amazing. The ever-sad apathy of educators, managers of charities, and of the general public is astounding. That they should remain satisfied with antiquated routinism for imagining spiritual and moral progression and with the medievalism of our pedagogy. In this connection it is significant that of 10,000 young men felons admitted to Elmira reformatory during fully 60 per cent had previously had experience in reform schools for delinquents or in institutions for dependents, or in jails and short-term prisons intended for first offenders, and 30 per cent of them had served in the state prison for high crime. Also white most of the 10,000 claimed to have attended the common schools, 62 per cent were practically, if not technically, illiterate, and 89 per cent had no suitable industrial ability.

Boise, in his great work "The Science of Penology," has given official figures showing that of the many millions of registered school pupils in the United States 31.6 per cent were always absent, and 68.39 per cent irregular attendants. Then we recall that more than 25 per cent of the school pupils suffer from needless impeding morbidities; that the same ratio of the inmates at the Elmira reformatory have contracted without straining. His estimate that 75 per cent of dependency and crime could be prevented by proper care devoted to the young in the charities and schools does not seem extravagant.

It is encouraging to note that not so much as formerly, in this youthful pliant field, nor indeed anywhere else, is now sought the virtues of recitude and encyclopedic knowledge, but precept and memory of moral maxims; but more effectively by means of individual education with all that term, in its wide significance, implies. As an illustration of this kind, when and where the church contribution was devoted, not as has sometimes been, to the purchase of testaments, tracts and mottoes for the children of the local orphanage, but to buy them a drop from the fountain for the boys of the orphanage in manual training. Everywhere, too, is observed, as related to secondary educational interests, an awakening from the long time slumber in which the leaders regard for self-preserving culture—regard for bodily health and development, manual and technical dexterity, and a comfortable self-control. It is the new bird of philological psychological and economic science directed to the social welfare particularly by way of the schools and charities. It is a change of opinion, as to principles, too subtle to be formulated, but nowadays applied to practical problems.

The modern spirit of charity somewhat effects penology, alleviating rigors, minimising the motive of profit; and the hope and methods of reformations are considerably rationalized. Within fifty years the current theory and the treatment of criminals have materially changed; and some accordant changes of prison management have also occurred. But, this article wants space for any proper statement of such advancement, nor even to indicate the change of theory by the briefest possible mention of the underlying principles of the American reformatory prison system, first advocated at Cincinnati in 1870; inaugurated at Elmira in 1876, generally opposed at first but now almost universally approved. Under this system:

The traditional punishment theory is substituted with the object of the public protection.

The punitive (time) sentence system is changed to the reformative (indeterminate) sentence.

The notion of soul-saving by means of miraculous conversions is now held subservient to rehabilitation by a rational reformation.

The state no more assumes to trespass upon the mystic field of the soul's relation but instead aims to change the character so as to promote the public security. The state, while in all things endeavoring to deal fairly, does not essay to "administer justice" but leaves that consideration to nature. Little regard is had to deterrency to be affected by observing or experiencing the pains of imprisonment. Nor, on the other hand, is the collective welfare ever subordinated to individual indulgence. The doctrine of the reciprocal interaction of body and mind is accepted and therefore the dogma—freedom—is discarded. Stringent disciplinary requirements with use of coercion, when it is needed to incite initial advancement, is held to be necessary and justifiable. The harmonious development of the whole being for his self-perservation and proper social adjustment is never abandoned. That such education is comprised in creation of healthy economic ambition and capacity coupled with a strong and tested instructive desire for correct habits.

The outlook for charity and correction—the twentieth century—is most enticing. The writer regrets that the limit of alloted space forbids any remarks upon the change in prison methods and also excludes mention of the forecast of twentieth century progress in respect both to charity and correction.

LORD LOVELAND DISCOVERS AMERICA. By C. N. and A. M. Williamson, authors of "Set in Silver," "Lady Betty Over the Water," "The Car of Destiny," etc. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.20 net.

The Williamsons write lively, entertaining stories, but they never have produced a livelier or more entertaining one than this. Percival George Victor Edward Gordon, thirteenth marquis of Loveland, after the humiliating experience of being rejected by a rich Jewess with prominent teeth and still more prominent nose, went to America to seek his fortune through the matrimonial route. His mother said he was the handsomest man in the kingdom, and he believed her. He was about the spoiledest peer left hanging on the tree, and clearly he went to the right place to get unspoiled. For as it developed in the crucible of hard luck, there was something good in Loveland besides his looks. He was first cousin, it appears, to the "Lady Betty" who came "over the water," and she and her American husband armed him with a bundle of letters to people likely to have heiresses in stock, though the American husband put up a job on him that is worth reading about. Loveland's mother confidently expected him to be mobbed by American heiresses immediately upon his arrival, and Loveland himself wasn't so sure that it wouldn't happen, though he was rather skeptical about his mother's theory that he might nail one on shipboard and marry immediately upon landing, getting the first boat back that was large enough to carry the money. In short, snobbery and conceit had been laid on so thickly that you had to go pretty deep to find anything likable in his lordship.

Well, they went pretty deep. On shipboard Loveland was attracted by a very sweet girl, Lesley Dearmer, but unfortunately it turned out that she was a nobody. A great pity, because Loveland loved her, and she—Well, the story tells all about that. By a cruel trick, partly the result of design and partly the outcome of unhappy accident, Loveland was received not as a handsome young lord, but as his own dishonest valet masquerading as Lord Loveland. His anticipated triumph ended in a most melancholy downfall; clear down, too, to the "bread line" and a Bowery lodging house. Put out of the Waldorf-Astoria as an imposter, he landed in the street, practically penniless and in his evening clothes and a cap, no overcoat, no friends. The situation was most amazing to a marquis who had already thought extraordinary well of himself and extraordinarily little of others. But that is how he discovered America; and that is how he discovered humanity and himself. A wanderer in the streets, humble rancher in the bread line, a waiter in a Bowery restaurant, the subject of "yellow journal" sensations, a hero, actor in a barnstorming company, a hero again—and so to the pleasant finish. Only it would be pleasanter if it was made clearer that the girl he won wasn't going to support him with her earnings as an author and dramatist. Anyway, it is a sparkling story, one that will keep interest alive from cover to cover.

PASSERS-BY. By Anthony Partridge, author of "The Distributors" and "Kingdom of Earth." Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

This comparatively new author shows a striking faculty of achieving the unusual without straining. His plots are novel, and the treatment is fresh and original. This is distinctly true of his latest novel, in which he shows progressive grasp of the technique of novel-making. His previous novels both have been great successes, and "Passers-by" is a better story than either of them. We have, to begin with, a dark-haired girl, a hunchback and a boy-scout. Gilbert Hannaway is adept and memory of moral maxims; but more effectively by means of individual education with all that term, in its wide significance, implies. As an illustration of this kind, when and where the church contribution was devoted, not as has sometimes been, to the purchase of testaments, tracts and mottoes for the children of the local orphanage, but to buy them a drop from the fountain for the boys of the orphanage in manual training. The anonymity of that popular story, "Margarita's Soul," has just been dispelled. For their first fiction of the new year, Messrs. Harper & Bros. are announcing a new book by Josephine Daskam Bacon. Those who remember Binks and the Wilbour family in the author's book of a few years back, "The Memoirs of a Baby," will be glad of the news that the forthcoming story is its sequel, which will bear the title, "The Biography of a Boy." It takes the "Boy," once the "Baby," at the age of 6 or 7, and follows him through the vicissitudes of a small boy's life, home, school and Sunday school experiences included. Mrs. Bacon, writing her narrative from the grown-up point of view, indulges in a good bit of amiable satire on some of the modern theories about the proper bringing up of children. Rose O'Neill, the author-artist who illustrated the "Baby," has provided some fifty of her humorous and sympathetic sketches for the "Boy."

The London Spectator has itself to thank if H. G. Wells' novel, "Ann Veronica," which it characterized so intemperately, has since been read by enough people, not only to exhaust the most recent edition on the Harper press, but to rally some of the most enthusiastic supporters of the book, including the Westminster Gazette, to an equally sincere outburst of praise. It has also led Mr. Wells to say a few illuminating words regarding the story.

"My book was written," he wrote recently, "primarily to express the resentment and distress which many women feel nowadays at their unavoidable practical dependence upon some individual man not of their deliberate choice, and full sympathy with the natural, but perhaps anarchistic and anti-social idea, that it is intolerable for a woman to have sexual relations with a man with whom she is not in love and naturally and desirable and admirable for her to want them, and still more so to want children by a man of her own selection. Now, these may be very shocking ideas indeed," says Mr. Wells further, "but it is not the first time that they have crept into literature, and I submit that a case can be made out for tolerating their discussion.

The recent death of King Leopold of Belgium has called further attention to the situation in the Congo Free State, which was lately brought forcefully before the public by Sir A. Conan Doyle in "The Crime of the Congo," published by Doubleday, Page & Co. Sir Arthur, writing shortly prior to the late king's illness, attributed the barbarities practised upon the natives in this dark spot solely to Leopold and the system of government therefor. The conclusive testimony of travelers, missionaries and traders is presented, and the author appeals to humanity the world over to wipe off "the greatest crime in the annals of human history." Profits on the book, both of author and publisher, are to aid in the erasure of this stain.

When "The Bride of the Mistletoe," the first book from James Lane Allen in six years, appeared last spring, another work by him was promised for the near future. This promise is now fulfilled by the announcement, for spring publication by the Macmillans of "A Brood of the Eagle." As in the others of Mr. Allen's stories, the scene is rural Kentucky. The direct personal theme of the novel is the noble but pathetic struggle of a country doctor. Carried to its conclusion, this love settles the future of the doctor's life and involves that of one of his children. Interwoven with this are other distinct themes, their interest being manipulated with the wonderful skill which places Mr. Allen so apart from the ordinary writers of fiction. Incidentally in this story, he has interpreted for us the new spirit of American childhood in its relation to the miracles and legends and lore of older lands and older ages, that have slowly gathered about the Christmas festival. It will be remembered that in "The Bride of the Mistletoe," the ancient and almost terrible significance of the Christmas tree is traced back into the dim ages of the Druids. In his forthcoming work, Mr. Allen deals again with Christmas, but this time it is with the festival that we know—with Santa Claus, the beloved intermediary between the human and the divine.

No one acquainted with Mr. Allen's other works will need to be told how rich such a theme will become in his hands and with what poetry the more ideal aspects of human life will be brought out.

Readers of Jacob A. Riis' recent book, "The Old Town" (Macmillan), will recall his vivid description of the danger and loss that follow the periodical inroads of the North sea. Now it seems that Mr. Riis was only too true a prophet when he wrote: "The old town stands still in its undiked plain, heedless alike of warning and experience. One may see all I have written here by evil chance this very winter if he cares to go and risk it." We heard little of it in this country, but in a letter to Mr. Riis, an old friend who is in Copenhagen writes that when he arose on the morning of the 5th of December, after reading the book the night before, the paragraph quoted above was running in his head, and when he opened his morning paper, in his own words, "The first item my eyes met was one recounting the damage done by the storm flood in the Old Town the day before. The sea fairly overwhelmed the town, rose three feet in the houses along the wharf and ran into the main street. Not in the memory of any now living has Ribe passed through so dread an experience. The angry sea encompassed it on every side and threatened to utterly swallow it up. The barometer fell lower than ever before and mighty shots of thunder shook the town. Many sheep and much cattle were drowned in the flood."

The exclusive articles on "The Discovery of the North Pole," by Commander Robert E. Peary, have given Hampton's a tremendous impetus and are doing much toward making that publication live up to its claim of being "the best magazine in America." In the February number Commander Peary tells how he recruited Eskimos for his campaign against the ice of the arctic region and of the sport and hardships in hunting for food supplies to be used during the perilous voyage north from Etah. His article gives a wonderful insight into the customs of the Eskimos, whom Commander Peary knows better than any white man who ever visited the North. Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans throws new light on his sensational advocacy of making the Panama canal free to American commerce. For seventeen years the American public worked to get a pure food bill through congress, and yet three years after their hard-earned success, it is a notorious fact that this law has sunk into uselessness. If you are interested in this vital subject you should read Samuel Hopkins Adam's contribution, "What Has Become of Our Pure Food Law?"

Each month the development of the movement will receive dignified treatment at the hands of a woman who has made a life study of it. "An Experiment in Scientific Motherhood," by Mrs. Frances Maule Bjorkman, is the life study of a child who was raised by his college-bred mother upon scientific principles. The progress the youngster made under his novel training is entertainingly set down, and the conclusions reached are sure to prove of benefit to all mothers. Other articles which women will read with interest are "Blights on Women's Clubs," by Mrs. Gabrielle S. Mulliner, and "Snapshots," a series of letters from Europe written by an observant woman traveler with a keen sense of humor.

A well known novelist who withholds his name tells a most interesting and valuable story in the February McClure's of his experiences as a moderate drinker. Prof. Hugo Munsterberg who recently told the readers of McClure's how psychology could be applied to commerce with beneficial results, tells how it could and should be utilized by young America in the choosing of a career; Xavier Paoli, "the guardian of the queen," writes delightfully of the courtship of King Alphonso and Princess Ena; W. H. Rideing contributes another chapter of his reminiscences of noted writers; L. S. Brownell tells of what Canada is doing and offers for her farmers and Perceval Gibbon describes Louis Brennan's latest experiments with his mono-rail car. There are stories by Alice Perrin, Helen Green, George Kibbe Turner, E. H. Waterworth and Mabel Wood Martin. The number also contains another installment of Arnold Bennett's amusing satire, "What the Public Wants."

The mystery of "The Great Conspirator" is about to be solved. Howard Fielding's wonderful detective story draws to a close. The installment in the February number of Smith's brings to almost the end, the story concluding in the next number. And again the ingenuity of the author merits all admiration, for, hanging on the very edge of the secret as the readers are, the final outcome will unset all previous calculations, although you will admit, when you really do know the truth, that just that was all that could have happened.

The story of "The Preservation of Mount Vernon," a record of a half century of untiring patriotic work by the 'Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union," has been set down for readers of the February Century by Abby Gunn Baker, who makes it a story of much fascinating detail. It adds much to the interest of this sketch and of the score of pictures accompanying it, to know that the first step toward the preservation of Mount Vernon was taken fifty years ago this month.

A frank story of divorce is "Circe," in February Young's Magazine, blazing like a ruthless searchlight into the monstrous, grim shadow that hovers ominously over our social being nowadays. Lady Diana, radiant, lovely, brilliant, is a huntress of man, type of a class that grows apace with the divorce evil—she is a cringing, sordid, lying soul, careless of what she destroys in her own pleasuring, calmly amusing her self by entangling "interesting" men. Naturally it deals with the idle rich—the divorce mowers most luxuriantly, and against a background of Italian gardens and liveried flunkeys, the grim shame of women and men is laid bare. Most of us shrink from threshing out openly the vital problems of life; but here is a story that handles the great social sore strongly, daringly, cleanly, despite relentlessly its ugliness, with no sweetness of life. There is a strong, sweet, sane woman of the old-fashioned kind, and a repentant man who has escaped the enchantress' net and comes back to destroy her with her own weapons. It's a glittering tale of "smart society," a grim portrayal of meaner impulses, but altogether a tense emotional story of the kind one likes to read.

In the February Wide World the editor presents a contents which is remarkable. Beatrice Grimshaw describes her experiences in "Unknown Papua." Cyril Panting discusses the "Servant Problem" in East Africa, William Juraschka, U. S. N., tells of his terrible experiences while in the captivity of Filipino insurgents, and D. W. Fagan describes a "Maori Wedding." Besides these articles there are a number of others, notably an account of "A Battle With Ice Floes," by Capt. C. Brouard, and a thrilling description by De Moss Bowers of the capture of the "Biggest Bear." Charles Clarke writes of "The Wild Ponies of Exmoor," and H. J. Shepstone describes "The Dog Derby of the Far North." To add romance to the contents, W. H. Harris explains how he won his "Turkish Wife." Many other stories and articles of universal interest are to be found in the February issue of this really unique magazine.

The Strand Magazine for February contains two serial stories, five short stories and six striking articles, besides several pages of those "Curiosities" with which Strand readers have become so familiar during the last few years. A. E. W. Mason's exciting story, "The Murder at the Villa Rose," is continued and increases in interest as the complications grow. M. Hanaud is a detective well able to cross swords with the immortal Holmes. Among the short stories is one by H. G. Wells entitled "My First Aeroplane." It is supposedly written by an ancient "flyer" who is recalling an incident of his early youth—"far back in the spring of 1912." It is a humorous story, ably illustrated by the well-known Punch artist, Tom Browne. Other good fiction is supplied by Aubrey Hopwood, Frank Savile, C. H. Bovill, C. C. Andrews and E. Nesbit. The articles are unique as usual. They include "My Reminiscences," by Leslie Ward, who

COUNTESS SZECHENYI IS POPULAR IN NEW HOME

COUNTESS SZECHENYI.

The Countess Szechenyi, who was Gladys Vanderbilt, has settled down on her husband's estate at Ormezo and is taking the liveliest interest in local affairs with the result that the Hungarian people praise her for her patriotism and loyalty to her new country. During the holiday season the parish priest at Ormezo, with her co-operation, taught the children of the village to act a Christmas play, "The Innocents," and the Szechenyi family all attended the performance.

Although the week was a quiet one socially it was marked by one of the most beautiful home weddings of several years when, on Wednesday evening, Miss Mabel Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Duncan became the bride of Jesse Bradley of this city. Pink was the color chosen to mark the appointments and in the gowns of the bridal party. In the living room, where the ceremony was held, hundreds of delicate pink cherry blossoms were used in the decorations, combined with pink azelias and southern smilax. The wedding music was played at 8:30 o'clock by La Brosse's orchestra, and the wedding party came down the broad stair and across the hall to the living room. An aisle was marked by two young ribbon carriers, Misses Louise Frick and Virginia Moore, who were gowned in frocks of rose pink. They were followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Mae Browne of Rhinelander, Wis., and Miss Lillian Gowan of this city, who wore gowns of pink chiffon over soft pink satin. They carried Killarney roses. The maid of honor, Miss Grace Duncan, preceded the bride with her father. Miss Duncan's gown was an imported satin, and she carried Killarney roses. The bride's gown was an imported robe of white satin with garniture of rose point lace. She wore a long tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The wedding service was read by the Rev. Alexander Milne of the Pilgrim Congregational church.

Mr. Bradley and his bride left for a wedding trip. The bride's going away gown was a blue suit with hat to match. After March 1 Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will be at home at 1122 East Second street.

THE EVENING STORY

A WRECK AND A MASQUERADE

By M. A. Collins.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Bertrand was distinctly annoyed. There was a wreck ahead and his train was delayed—probably for five or six hours, the phlegmatic train officials said. He was so infernally tired of traveling, too. For weeks and months he had been on the go by mule, camel, stage, train, ship and now by train again. It did not seem so bad while he was moving but stagnation seemed more than he could bear.

"Where the deuce am I anyway?" he soliloquized.

"Maybury, sir," whispered the porter who spent most of his time within easy distance of the liberal young gentleman who tipped him so frequently.

"Maybury," ejaculated Bertrand. "Why, that's where Morrison lives. "By jove, dear old Morry. He has invited me to visit him a hundred times. Why not look him up while this bloody old train finds a way to wake itself up? I will, by Jove."

That is how it happened that Templeton Bertrand—oh, most misguided of men—presently mounted the steps of the Morrison home, clad immaculately. As the door opened he was confronted with the most astounding vision it had been given him to behold. A petite, dainty dream of feminine loveliness with such rare golden hair, such swimming blue eyes, such a peachy pink complexion and such carmine lips—and the form—but the form may be spoken of only in a suggestive way, as the dainty gown was arranged so deeply and yet so artistically that the most ravishing of figures should be veiled most modestly and yet suggested most clearly to one with any imagination whatever.

For once in his life Bertrand was stunned—taken clean off his feet, and he stood and stared.

"Do you desire to see my father?" asked the vision a trifle sternly after a moment of endurance of Bertrand's wrapt scrutiny.

"Yes, yes—that is—really I beg your pardon—no," replied Bertrand trying to recover himself. "The fact is I am looking for a friend of mine, Mr. Morrison. I was directed here. I supposed it was his house."

"It is," replied the Vision demurely. "That is, usually. Only you see he and his family are away for the summer and papa and I have taken the house for the season."

"Oh," replied Bertrand with a look of genuine disappointment on his handsome face. "I am very sorry. Morrison and I were chums in college and I have not seen him for years."

Then he told the story of the wreck and his long and tiresome journey. In fact, he did not shorten the story, but rather padded it most scandalously just for the privilege of standing there with her and watching the play of expression in her wonderful eyes.

"It's too bad," she said sympathetically after he could think of nothing more that he could decently say. "Won't you come in and have dinner anyway. I know its dreadful unconventional but it seems a pity to send you away from the home of your friend without any mark of hospitality—and especially back to that dreadful, gloomy train."

A great light spang into Bertrand's eyes. "If the intrusion would not be unpardonable—really, may I?" Then he added mendaciously: "I would so like to break bread once in dear old Morry's house."

The telephone rang as he seated himself in the pretty drawing room and his charming hostess rushed to the telephone with that indefatigable curiosity which characterizes womankind.

"Oh, dear," she remarked in deep distress when she returned, "that provoking dad of mine is tied up in a business deal and can't come home until very late—now isn't this a mess?"

"Gracious, I'll go away if there's anything compromising or distressing to you about the situation," replied Bertrand, rising with the well-bred air which always had made him the delight and despair of women.

"Now, you shall not," she replied decisively. "I've started this supper plan now and I will put it through unless you think it improper."

"Me—not at all. I think it both proper and delightful," he replied, his pleasure showing so plainly both in the sparkle in his eyes and the flush in his tanned face that her own cheeks grew rosy and her eyes sought the floor.

Bertrand had dined at many sumptuous tables where the board was surrounded with the wit and beauty of an empire, but that little dinner with the table set for two and one lone maid to do the waiting was the most appetizing and delightful affair in his memory. He found that his charming little hostess was as gifted in mind and character as in beauty of person.

As they returned to the drawing room the girl gave a little gasp of dismay.

"Just to think of it," she said, "of all nights for papa to desert me when the Mystic Shrine masquerade—the swellest dance of all the season, is on—and he promised to take me—and I have my costume all ready—and oh, its a dream. Now isn't it a shame?"

"Why not let me take you?" responded Bertrand unblushingly. "I'll present indubitable proofs that I'm of irreproachable family—here, look into Morry's album; I'll bet you find a half dozen photographs of me. And I assure you that I will not abuse the privilege an iota."

The girl was flushed—whether with anger or with the novelty of the proposition, Bertrand waited anxiously to hear.

"It would be a great lark," she said, looking searchingly into his clear gray eyes, "but, oh my, how very bold and unconventional. Why, papa does not even want me to go out with young men who we know well—besides you have not time before your train leaves

THE SNOW FORT PRISONER.

BY MAUD WALKER.

ETHEL Anderson had been spending the afternoon with her cousins, Jack and Myrtle Bacon, and was hurrying homeward as fast as she could, for the weather was very severe, a heavy snow having fallen during the previous night, and a freezing wind had crusted it. The lights of the town were beginning to glitter from the hundreds of windows, and as Ethel hurried along she felt very thankful that she had such a good home to go to. And in her heart was a feeling of deep sympathy for anyone who was without shelter and plenty of good, wholesome food on a day like this, and she shuddered to think of the suffering of the homeless on the night just setting in.

Just as Ethel was passing a big, vacant lot—a place used by the boys in the neighborhood as a playground, and on which they had built a snow fort—she heard a low whine. Surely that was the wail of some dog, thought Ethel, and she paused and looked around. Then she saw a small, dark form, quivering beside the wall of the snow fort, the form of a half-frozen dog. Her first impulse was to take the dog in her arms and carry him home, but on going to the shivering fellow she saw that he was too large and heavy for her little arms to bear. Then she began to figure out some plan by which she might get the poor creature to her warm home. She patted him on the head and he looked up into her eyes so gratefully, wagged his tail feebly and tried to stand on his feet. But weakness, cold and hunger had almost done their work with the suffering animal, and he fell to the cold ground again.

"Oh, oh, poor doggie!" cried Ethel, tears springing to her eyes. "How can I go away and leave you? And you are too big for me to carry. I wonder if I could get you into this snow fort—and leave you there till I should return with Bob and his sled!" (Bob was Ethel's brother, two years her senior). Then, coaxingly, Ethel led the dog to the door of the fort. There was one section of the fort called "the prison," and into it Ethel half-carried, half-dragged the starving animal. When she had made him as comfortable as she could—she took off the top cape of her cloak and spread it on the ground for the dog to lie on—she hurried homeward as fast as she could run. It was only two blocks from the snow fort to Ethel's home, and she covered the distance in quick time. Rushing into the house she called to her brother, who was sitting beside the big glowing heating stove in the living room: "Oh, Bob, get your sled and come with me. I have a job of work for you."

Bob threw down the book he was reading and looked up at his sister. "What sort of a job, Sis?" he asked. "If it's not important, I won't do it, for this weather is too bad to go out into unless one feels it is quite necessary. But—"

"Don't waste time, Bob," said Ethel. "It's a very urgent matter, I can 'tell you. A poor dog lies freezing and starving in the prison of the snow fort. I want you to drag him here on your sled. Come, while I get some blankets to wrap him in, you get your sled."

Bob was not long in running to the carriage shed where he kept his fine coasting sled. And when Ethel opened the hall door she saw him at the gate waiting for her. "Come on, Sis," he called out.

Ethel put a warm blanket on the sled and away the two children went towards the snow fort. As they hurried along Ethel asked: "Hasn't mamma come home from shopping yet, Bob?"

"No, she 'phoned a few minutes ago that she had gone to papa's office and would come home with him. Won't they be surprised when they reach home to find a dog in the house?"

"Yes, but it will not be a pleasant surprise, for he is in such distress. But maybe we can build him up again."

Then together the children drew the sled to their own home.

"Oh, dogs are hardy creatures," explained Bob, "and they live through all sorts of privations. We'll bring him through all right, if he has any strength left to build on."

By this time the children had reached the snow fort and found the dog just where Ethel had left him. Bob soon had the thin, shivering creature on the sled, and Ethel wrapped him in the blanket. Then together the children drew the sled to their own house.

They carried the dog into the living-room and placed him on a rug near the heating stove. He got up and took a few feeble steps about the room, but gladly returned to the rug where he lay down.

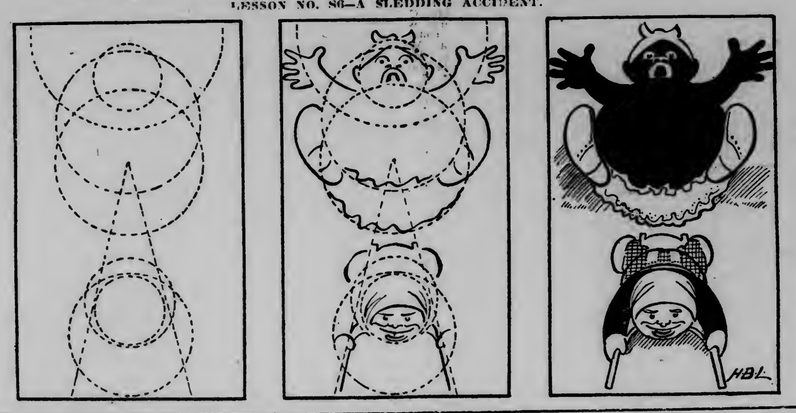

Ethel ran to the kitchen and got a bowl of warm milk. This she fed to the dog, and he lapped it as only a half-starved dog could. Then a bit of bread dipped in meat gravey was given to him. But Bob said he must not be fed too much at once, for it might cause bad results.

Just as the children had made the poor stray dog comfortable and had removed their own wraps and were seated beside him, the door opened and in came their parents. Of course, they were surprised to see a dog lying stretched out on the best fur rug; but as soon as Ethel and Bob had told the story of how the former had found the poor creature starving and freezing and had run home for assistance to fetch him to the house, and how the latter, with sled and masculine strength (Bob dwelt rather emphatically on the last) had hurried to the ice-bound "prison" and took from it the almost-dying prisoner, both parents lauded the action. And Mrs. Anderson stooped down and patted the dog's head, saying: "We'll make you strong and well again, old doggie, and you'll never have to wander about in the snow again—not while Bob and Ethel Anderson have a shelter and a crust to share with you."

And now I must finish this story by telling you that the dog did get well and strong again and became one of the Anderson household.

Helpful Hints for Our Young Artists.

LESSON NO. 86—A SLEDDING ACCIDENT.

Remember the Wild Creatures of the Wood.

WHEN snow lies cold and frozen over everything, we should remember the little wild creatures that dwell in the woods. There are the birds, so often doomed to suffer from long and severe winters, and when food is scarce and hard to get. If the boys and girls would gather up the scraps of food from their own tables and put them in a box and carry them to the parks or the nearby woods and place them where the hungry creatures could get them, I am sure they would be doing an act of mercy. It is a real pleasure to watch our little feathered friends raid a box or basket of bits of bread and cake and other food that may be thrown to them. Bread should be soft, so that they can eat it. Grain, ground up—wheat or corn—makes excellent food for the wild birds. And there is scarcely a scrap of food that falls from the family table that will not be joyously received by the Bird family.

Then there are the dear little squirrels that we love to watch running about on the tree limbs, or in the green grass during the summer time, but little do we realize how many of them die of starvation during the long, severe winter. If the boys and girls will take food to them they will be fully repaid for the trouble when they see how eagerly the fuzzy-tailed little creatures seize upon it. Of course, the squirrels must have nuts, but peanuts are so cheap, and a bag of them will feed dozens of squirrels. If you see the dear little creatures seize the nuts in their mouths and run to some hole in a tree, you may understand that Mr. or Mrs. Squirrel is laying aside a meal for tomorrow. Mr. Squirrel is not forgetful of another day, and if food is to be found, he will store up a part of it in his winter quarters.

TOYS OF ROYAL CHILDREN

IN Buckingham Palace, London, is a large storeroom in which are kept the favorite toys which once amused the children of Queen Victoria. Here is to be seen an old, battered wooden rocking-horse, known by the name of Jupiter, which was a present from the Prince Consort to his eldest son on the latter's fifth birthday. On poor Jupiter's neck the little Prince of Wales (now King Edward VII.) carved his name, "Edward," in a very childish way in crooked, uneven letters. The work was doubtless done with a new pocket-knife.

Near the horse is a model gun which was given to King Edward on his seventh birthday by the late Duke of Cambridge, but the small Prince (as His Majesty was then) was not allowed to use his toy for a long time. When he grew older, however, he was permitted to have a gun range, which was fitted up for him at Windsor, and there, under the care of an artilleryman, he practiced shooting to his heart's content. The gun, an exact model of one of the earliest forms of breechloader, would send a bullet through an inch board at a distance of 150 yards.

In the same room is also stored a model schooner designed and made by William IV., the sailor king, with his own hands. The present King often sailed it when a boy, and sometime ago it was taken to Virginia Water for the benefit of one of His Majesty's grandchildren, but since that young gentleman has joined the navy in good earnest the model ship has been returned to the room in Buckingham Palace. All the royal children seem to have been very clever with their hands, for in the collection are a really excellent wheelbarrow made by the late Duke of Edinburgh, and a wooden model of a fire engine made by the King.

There are nearly 500 toys stored in this room, and among them is a doll which belonged to Queen Alexandra in her childhood. It is dressed in white, and every garment on it was fashioned and made by its royal little owner, who probably took greater delight in playing mamma to her dollie than she enjoyed later in life being a princess and a queen, for form and ceremony did not enter into the playroom of her girlhood. When Alexandra went to England to be married she carried among her treasures this simple little doll, not half so grand as are many dolls played with by children in the less pretentious households. And there in that toyroom, in Buckingham Palace, the little doll that held such a place in Her Majesty's affection many, many years ago, rests among the toys of her husband, her children and grandchildren.

WHY TREES GROW LARGE.

WASHINGTON and Oregon have some of the largest trees in the world and the climatic conditions of that section can be blamed for this fact. In the Puget Sound country the rainfall is about 53 inches, while up in the higher Cascades, near Seattle, it is 100 inches, and sometimes reaches the 150 inch point. Under such climatic conditions the seeds of the trees germinate readily and all the trees continue to make a vigorous growth.

AT NIGHT

WHEN Night comes a-nodding,
To bed the Wee Ones creep;
And cover to their very ears,
Prepared to go to sleep.

As to Slumberland they go,
And as they wink and blink she sings
A lullaby, soft and low:

"Angels watch my Wee Ones
Throughout the long, dark night,
And ope their eyes to greet me
With the morrow's early light."

Honest Jack and a Watch.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

JACK PERKINS and Fred Cook had been visiting a friend in the country over Saturday, and were homeward bound on the evening train. When the train pulled into the station of their home town the boys decided to remain in their seats till the crowd should have left the car, for they both hated getting into a crush, such as one always experiences on a suburban evening train.

When the crowd of hurrying passengers had left the coach that the boys were in they gathered up their luggage—skates, extra wraps, etc.—and made their way towards the platform. Just as they were about to pass out of the car Jack saw a small leather case, with a broken strap, lying in the aisle under the end of a seat. He quickly picked it up and remarked to his companion: "That tall, fine-looking man with the iron-gray beard sat in this seat, and this must belong to him. Let's hurry into the waiting-room and we'll probably overtake him. See, the strap that was intended to hang about one's shoulder has come apart at the buckle."

"Ah, so it has," replied Fred, looking at the leather case in Jack's hand. "Yes, we'll doubtless overtake the owner of it if we hurry."

Then both boys jumped from the car steps to the platform, being the very last passengers to leave the train. They ran to the waiting-room, expecting to find there the tall man with the iron-gray beard. But in vain they looked everywhere; went into all the waiting-rooms, looked into the restaurant and barber shop, but the man they sought was nowhere to be seen.

"Well, he must have gone round to the carriage stall," said Jack. "And I suppose he did not miss this case. Well, what shall I do about it?" he asked of Fred.

"I guess the only way out of it is to advertise the case in the lost and found column of the morning paper," advised Fred. "But what do you suppose it contains? Shall we take a peep into it and see? It might be a dynamite bomb, you know. In that case we'd not want to be carting it round on our persons." And Fred laughed at the ridiculous idea which had come to his mind.

"All right, I'll open it and let you be a witness to the contents," said Jack. Then the two boys went to a bench in one corner of the main waiting-room and opened the leather case, for they found it was unlocked. First, they drew forth some folded handkerchiefs, then a small kodak, and lastly a square jewel box covered with red velvet. When the spring of the box was touched the lid flew open, and there before the boys' eyes lay a magnificent gold watch and fob. On examination the boys saw the initials "J. P." engraved on both watch case and fob charm. "Why, isn't it a coincidence that these initial letters should be the same as my own?" asked Jack, his eyes sparkling with admiration for the lovely timepiece. "My—oh! it's a beauty, isn't it?"

Fred looked longingly at the watch; then said: "Do you know, Jack, that it may fall into your hands yet. It may be that the owner will not see the advertisement in the morning paper. And if it is never claimed it will belong to you."

But Jack had been looking at a name on the bottom of the box. "Ah, here's the name of the jeweler who sold it," he exclaimed. "See, it comes from a firm in Buffalo, N. Y. Why, if I can't find the owner any other way I can write to the firm, describe the watch, give the number of it, ask if they know the person who purchased it, and if they can get in touch with him. If so, I'll send the watch to them."

"Rather a risky business that would be," said Fred. "I say, why bother about writing to the jeweler? Ten to one some stranger to the firm bought it. Merchants don't know one person in ten thousand that patronize them. If the advertisement you insert in the paper is not answered by the owner—who must, of course, prove the property—why, then, the watch belongs to you. And as I was a party to the finding of it, I should come in for my share of it—say the fob. I have a very good watch, you know, and I've been wanting a nice fob for a long time.

Jack closed the watch case and placed it back into the leather case, shutting and clasping it. Then he turned a stern face on Fred. "Say, Fred, I'm surprised at you. Would you think of keeping this jewel if there is any way we can get at the owner of it? Why, that would be one form of—of—I hate to say it, Fred, but that would be nothing short of theft. No, we'll find the owner somehow, if I have to go to all the hotels in town and ask if a gentleman wearing a long black overcoat and brown derby hat and having an iron-gray beard is stopping there. Oh, there'll be some way to locate him, for the town is so small—only four hotels, you know. And he doesn't live here, I'm sure, for he is such a distinguished looking gentleman that we could not have failed to see him sometime or other. He is a stranger here, sure. And either he is visiting someone in town or is on business. But I'll undertake to find him, all right."

Then Jack arose and said they'd better hurry homewards, as their parents would be looking for them. "I say, Jack," said Fred, as they stood on the corner waiting for a street car, "if you should find the gentleman, and he should give you a reward, wouldn't I come in for a part of it?"

"There would be no reward, for I couldn't think of taking anything for being honest. If I advertise, why I'll allow the owner of the watch to repay me for my little outlay. Otherwise it will cost him nothing to recover his property."

So spoke Jack, his voice full of indignation at Fred's suggestions. Never before had Fred's honesty been tried in Jack's presence, and to find him inclined to keep property belonging to another was shocking to Jack, and his manner cooled perceptibly toward his companion. Fred's face flushed and he became confused. He began to understand how mean he must appear in Jack's eyes. Then he regretted what he had said—regretted still more that he had allowed any such dishonest thoughts to take possession of his mind. "Say, old pal," he confessed, after they had boarded their car, "don't be too hard on me. I didn't realize that keeping the watch would be so dishonest—if you couldn't find the owner. I'm sorry I suggested it. You're more noble than I am and I feel heartily ashamed. I've been made to see things in another light than what they appeared to me a little while ago."

"That's all right," said Jack. But his tone was not as cordial as Fred would have liked. "I'm glad you see the matter in its true light. Otherwise I fear—we might never have been such good friends—again."

But just at this point Jack had to jump off the car, for his own home was just around the corner. So he waved good-by to Fred and was on the ground in a jiffy, running to his own house, where his mother met him at the door. Before she could say hardly a word to him, Jack was holding up the leather case and explaining how it came into his possession. Then, the story finished, he replied to her question:

"Did you have a fine day, sonny? Your cheeks are as bright as roses."

"Oh, a glorious day, mommy. But where's Dad?" And Jack put his hat, coat and luggage on the hall rack.

"Go right into the library, son, and you'll find dad and somebody else there," explained Jack's mother.

Jack ran into the library, and the first person he set eyes on was the tall gentleman with the iron-gray beard. "Ah, sir, I've been trying to find you. Isn't this yours?" and Jack held out the leather case.

"Why, yes indeed, so it is." Then turning to Jack's father, who was smiling, he said: "And is this Jack—Your boy and my namesake?"

"That's our Jack," said Mr. Perkins. Then he introduced Jack to the stranger. "This is my brother John, son, whom you have not seen since you were three years old. And he has come unexpectedly—wanted to surprise us, which he certainly has done. But—where did you get that case, son?"

Then Jack told the story of finding the case, and his Uncle John said: "I did not miss the case till I reached brother's house. Immediately I phoned to the train officials, asking if I had left it in the car. They searched the coach I rode in, to no purpose. I had made up my mind that it was lost. And my regret was only on account of something I have there for you." And Uncle John took out the gold watch and handed it to Jack. "I bought this en route—stopped at Buffalo—for you. See, your initials are on watch and fob."

Then it was Jack's turn to be surprised, and he was so overcome with joy that he could hardly express his gratitude. But he did say: "How stupid of me not to turn the leather case over to the trainmen. Then they would have kept it till you called for it. But I never thought of that, uncle. Well, I've learned a lesson."

"But I'm glad the whole transaction has occurred just in this way," laughed Uncle John. "For, you see, you have the pleasure of bringing your own gift home with you and at the same time restoring lost property. Well, you're a fine boy, anyway. And I am proud of you."

"My—oh! It's a beauty, isn't it?"

The Snow Drift.

THE earth was covered with snow one day,
When three little children went out to play.
They climbed to the top of a drift of snow,
When all of a sudden the crust fell through,

And down they went with a dreadful crash,
To have climbed that drift was very rash!
But one of the three—his name was Ned—
Turned to the others and calmly said:

"Well, kids, we came down easy enough,
But going up will be rather tough,
For climbing is slower than falling, you know,
If it happens to be a soft drift of snow."

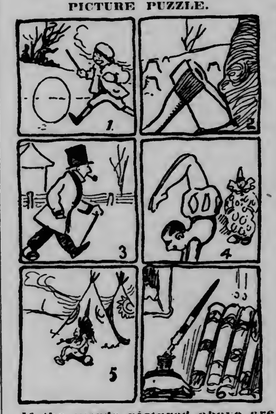

Then out of their prison of cold snow walls,
Which Ned declared was full of pitfalls,
They slowly, laboriously dug themselves free,
And I feel quite sure you will believe me

When I tell you that not again that day
Did those three little children go out to play
In the snow so cold, but home did run,
Where in their playroom they had such great fun.

WILL THESE MEN GIVE UNCLE SAM HIS FIRST TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY?

They Are Charles S. Mellen, Lucius Tuttle, James McCrea, Frederick D. Underwood, and Edward P. Ripley, Each a Great Railroad President—The Signs and Wonders That Are Read to Mean That They May Create the Country's First Through Line From Coast to Coast—Self Made Men, Every One of Them, and Each Began His Life's Work While a Boy in Years.

Written for the Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland")

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

UNCLE SAM is yet to have his first true transcontinental railway system.

When E. H. Harriman was alive there were those of high railway authority who declared that he probably would give to Uncle Sam his first transportation system of the sort—and Mr. Harriman himself confessed to an ambition to do this.

Following Mr. Harriman's death when he was at the zenith of his power—when he was on the eve of putting through greater railway plans than he had yet consummated—there were those high in railway circles who made the statement that now Edwin Hawley probably would be the first man to create a true transcontinental system in this country. And about the same time there also cropped up those of recognized authority who declared that Benjamin F. Yoakum would most likely do it first. Today each of these railway giants, whose activities are popularly associated with the railway Southwest, is said to be working persistently, doggedly towards the establishment of a transcontinental system in which his will be the dominant voice, his the powerful, moving hand.

But of late there has come this thought to not a few men who are in close touch with the railway situation in this country—will the distinction of giving the country its first transcontinental all-rail route fall from the knees of the gods upon the brow of either of these men from the dynamic West; or will it be distributed with more or less impartiality among Chas. S. Mellen, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford; Lucius Tuttle, of the Boston & Maine; James McCrea, of the Pennsylvania; Frederick D. Underwood, of the Erie, and Edward P. Ripley, of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, all presidents of the respective railroads with which their names are coupled.

Here they are—four Easterners and one Westerner, so far as their railroad activities are concerned; yet who among us have ever looked to the East to give the country its first transcontinental railway system? It is a dream of united steel ribbons, stretching from ocean to ocean, that came first out of the West, that has been dreamed by almost every famous railway man of the West, with himself as the central figure of his vision; that has come to be looked upon by the public generally as a dream to be made real by some force, some work, starting in the West and spreading gradually but surely eastward to the goal of the Atlantic. So, for the idea to be placed before you that this dream may be made a reality by work begun on the Atlantic seaboard, instead of on the Pacific slope, does it not set your preconceived notions on the subject all awry?

Signs of the Coming Transcontinental.

Yet here are the signs—and wonders of transportation—that are causing some of the railway wise ones today to look to the East for the beginnings and the ultimate consummation of Uncle Sam's initial transcontinental line:

The New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Maine, the great systems which cover New England like the dew, have recently become as one to all practical intents and purposes, their presidents, Charles S. Mellen and Lucius Tuttle, respectively, playing an important part in bringing about the coalition.

Before the present year is out, in all probability the Pennsylvania will be running trains into the heart of New York city via its four Hudson river tunnels into Long Island, and from there into New England, over the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford (which now controls the Boston & Maine) via a connecting railway over Long Island sound. One hundred million dollars is the total cost of this wonder work—one that has staggered the imagination of the entire transportation world. Has this amount of money been spent simply with the purpose of having a railway station in New York city—or with the greater, ultimate purpose of actually, physically linking the Pennsylvania and the New England railway monopoly for definite transcontinental purposes?

Now the Pennsylvania's mileage stretches from the Atlantic seaboard, at New York city, to Chicago and St. Louis in the Middle West, with the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Maine taking care of almost every important seaboard and inland city and town in all New England. And north of the Mason and Dixon line and the Ohio river the Pennsylvania does the same by practically all of the big cities that lie between the metropolis, the Mississippi and the lakes.

But what of the great stretch of country beyond the Mississippi, the 2,000 miles to the Pacific?

At Chicago the Pennsylvania and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe meet. Henry Clay Frick, the largest individual stockholder in the Pennsylvania, is a director of the Atchison, and so are several other influential Pennsylvania directors and stockholders. It is common knowledge in the railroad world that for quite a number of years now the Pennsylvania and the Atchison have been on most friendly terms; incidentally, Edward P. Ripley, the Atchison's president, is an old Pennsylvania man, and more than one well-posted railway man understands that Mr. Ripley, largely through Pennsylvania support, either official or unofficial, was able to take his road from poverty to a state of affluence and, several years ago, triumphantly to extend it to the Pacific coast.

Two Routes East of the Mississippi.

These are the principal signs—and transportation wonders—that some of the men wise in railway affairs of today are reading ultimately to mean a true transcontinental line, beginning way down East, which will take passengers and freight through without change of car from seaboard to seaboard—from Bangor, Me., to San Francisco. And in addition, they also read two routes to this transcontinental line between the Hudson river and Chicago. The Pennsylvania is one; the other is the Erie, which has close traffic arrangements with roads controlled by the New York, New Haven & Hartford in New York state, and which touches the New York, New Haven & Hartford (controlling the Boston & Maine) at Poughkeepsie, on the Hudson, where there is that famous railroad bridge, and also at Newburgh. Thus, east of the Mississippi, south of the Great Lakes and north of the Ohio river, this transcontinental line would cover most of the country—would touch practically every great traffic center.

Truly a great—a wonderful—transcontinental system if eventually it is formed. And what will it be called—what will be its name? Time will tell. But at present, say the men wise in railroad matters who implicitly believe that this line will come sooner or later, it looks as if it will be one in effect in every practical way, both from the standpoint of the railways concerned and the public, though not in name, which the law may not permit. But whether there will be one continuous name from coast to coast, or several, representing the component parts, a true transcontinental system it will be—an ambitious dream at last turned into a stupendous and wonder-working reality, both for the owners and operators of the transcontinental and the traveling and shipping public.

A Quintet From the Ranks.

If, then, Mellen and Tuttle, McCrea, Ripley and Underwood, as heads of the five great roads now under their executive control, give the country its first transcontinental line in effect, if not in actual name, theirs will be an accomplishment of a quintet of railroad presidents every one of whom has literally worked his way up to his present high position from the very bottom of the transportation ladder. Mr. McCrea's first railroad job was as a rodman with the road of which he is now president. Mr. Underwood is a graduate brakeman, and still carries his old labor card as a precious souvenir of the days when he knew of the existence of a railroad president's chair only by hearsay. Mr. Ripley was given his first lessons in railroading as a minor clerk in the Boston office of the Pennsylvania. Mr. Mellen also began as a clerk, and Mr. Tuttle was once a humble station agent and then a clerk.

All these men, too, received at least their early railroad training in that portion of the country which lies east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio. McCrea has never worked elsewhere, having constantly been associated with the road with which he began. Mr. Tuttle, too, is distinctly an Eastern railroad man—in fact, all his railroad activities have been displayed down East. Born in Wisconsin, Mr. Underwood got his first job on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Except for the seven years that he was president of the Northern Pacific and the three he spent as the Union Pacific's general traffic manager in the days when the Federal Government ran that road, Mr. Mellen's field or activity has been in his beloved New England, and for seventeen years following his initial job as clerk in Boston, Mr. Ripley labored in the Eastern field—a marked coincidence, and one which will be extremely interesting in case time brings forth these five men as the creators of the country's first transcontinental line.

In the fact that three of these men—Mellen, Tuttle and Ripley—were born and reared in New England lies still another coincidence, and one which may possibly give a true Yankee tinge to the executive makeup of the first transcontinental. Then, too, all of these men, except Ripley, began their life's work as boys in years; every one of them started in the world with what amounted to no more than a public school education, and each is today the eminent railroad authority he is by reason of the fact that he learned railroading thoroughly by coming up slowly but surely through many years and many positions. There has been none of your rich men's sons' mushroom growth to authority among the possible creators of a great transcontinental system.

A Man Who Always Knew.

Again, Mr. Tuttle is the only one of the quintet who has known any other line of endeavor than railroading from the very start of his business days, and his brief experience of a year as a judge's clerk should scarcely be allowed to make him an exception. In any event, as a subordinate, no matter what his position, Mr. Tuttle invariably attracted attention to himself because he never bothered his superiors by asking questions, but, on the other hand, if the management asked him for any information, he either had it at his tongue's end or else knew instantly where to get it. No one ever had for Lucius Tuttle the sort of reproach that Commodore Vanderbilt once handed out to James H. Rutter, his general freight traffic manager.

Not long after Mr. Rutter was given that position he went to the commodore and asked how he should decide an important matter.

"Jim," countered the founder of the Vanderbilt fortunes, "what does the New York Central pay you $15,000 a year for?"

"Managing the freight traffic."

"Well, you don't expect that I am going to earn your salary for you, do you?"

So, through always knowing what to do and how and when to do it; how to make friends for the road through his genial, though quiet manner; how to make the men under him work enthusiastically, and the importance of always having thorough mastery of himself and the task in hand, Mr. Tuttle, after he had been a railroad man for a quarter of a century, became general manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford under the late Charles Peter Clark, then the newly elected president of the road, who grew to be fond of declaring that he had the best man in the country for general manager.

Mr. Tuttle took this position in 1890; two years later a boy who had been born not a 100 miles from Mr. Tuttle's birthplace was brought to the New Haven as its second vice-president, and since then the careers of Mr. Tuttle and Charles S. Mellen have been more or less closely interwoven, and today they stand out as the two men who have brought under one control practically all the railroad mileage of New England.

Mellen a Morgan Man.

Mr. Tuttle, who also became a New Haven vice-president, took hold of the Boston & Maine, as president, in the panic year of 1893; Mr. Mellen became the executive head of the New Haven just a decade later through J. Pierpont Morgan's life-long habit of having things in which he is interested pretty much his own way. With the New Haven looking about for a new president, Mr. Morgan favored Mr. Mellen. Asked why, he replied, "Mellen gets results." That was all; and by this slogan he stuck characteristically, though William Rockefeller put forth as his candidate Percy Todd, who had a record as a brilliant railroad man.

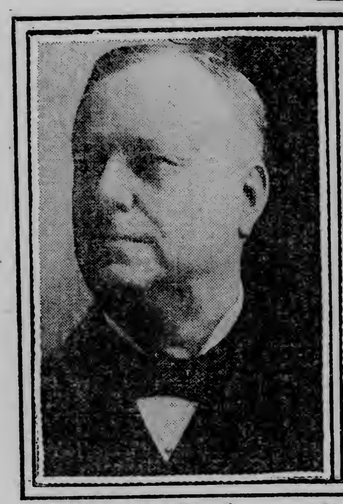

But his present is not Mr. Mellen's first railroad presidency. Three years after Mr. Tuttle became head of the various roads wielded into the Boston & Maine system. Mr. Mellen became head of the Northern Pacific, and in that post he remained until he was selected to head the New Haven. It is said that those seven years were not altogether happy ones for Mr. Mellen. He is most "set" in his opinions, and mutual friends declare that when he and his overload, James J. Hill, met it was like the meeting between an immovable body and an irresistible force. But though the experience was not a particularly happy one for Mr. Mellen, who did not hesitate, when necessity arose, to tell Mr. Hill that he was president of the road and would conduct that office as he saw fit, it was, nevertheless, an experience that taught the man from the East the stupendous opportunities which lay in close union between the great railways of the Far West and those of the East, and probably gave him the first hint of what may ultimately become a true transcontinental system.

Mr. Mellen's characteristic of doggedly doing things his own way developed early in his railroad career—in fact, practically at its very beginning.

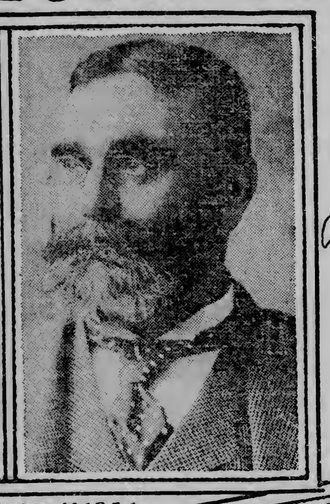

His first position was as clerk in the cashier's office of a little New Hampshire railroad. As a schoolboy he had displayed a noticeable talent for mathematics, and he had not been long in his position before there occurred to him a new and simpler way of keeping some of the accounts, which he straightway adopted.

His superior protested. "When this office wants you to tell it how to keep

IS NEARING GREAT ORE BODY

Tunnel in North Franklin is Now in Mineralized Ground—Prof. Damours Expresses the Opinion That Immense Property Will Result.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 22.—From the latest information available from the Coeur d'Alene district, the North Franklin Mining company is rapidly developing a property which promises to become one of the important producers of the district within a reasonable time.

The property consists of six claims, all patented, adjoining the Star Mining company's properties, two miles north of Mullan, and in close proximity to the mines of the Federal Mining & Smelting company.

The North Franklin property has been developed by means of a tunnel 1,550 feet in length, the first 150 feet of which is due east and west, running parallel to the great Morning vein. At the latter distance, the face of the tunnel is about 600 feet from the surface and directly opposite the large ore shoot of the Morning mine. Here the course of the tunnel has been diverted to run north and south and has been driven north about 430 feet.

Within the last few feet the character of the formation has become changed and the country rock is showing increased mineralization. Considerable iron occurs in the country rock in the face of the tunnel, and it is estimated that the main vein, which outcrops on the surface for an immense width, will be intersected within the next few rounds of holes. A report that the vein has been reached may be expected at any time, and could be accurately predicted if the dip of the vein were known. At the point where the vein will be cut, the vertical depth will be about 800 feet.

During the driving of the present tunnel, a number of scenerous stringers have been cut and quite a number of small veins, many of them carrying high grade ore. All of the values have been encouraging.

It is the opinion of Prof. C. E. Damours, who made an examination of the North Franklin property quite recently, that the ore zone already has been entered, and he considers the formation at the present time as a strong indication of permanent ore deposition and immense ore bodies.

In the immediate vicinity of the North Franklin property are the Tiger-Poorman, the Hercules, the Hecla, the Standard-Mammoth, the Morning and a number of smaller producers, which have produced an aggregate of more than $7,000,000 in mineral wealth during the past year, the product being principally silver-lead. The North Franklin ground is on the course of these producing veins. The surface characteristics are the same that have resulted in the development of the great mines of the Coeur d'Alene district.

Besides having sufficient capital in its treasury to complete the driving of the tunnel to prove the extent of the ore deposits, the North Franklin company has 150,000 shares of the capital stock of the Star Silver-Lead Mining company.

DIVIDENDS BY UTAH MINES

In 1909 Exceeded Those of Previous Years by More Than $1,565,000—Seven More Companies Appear in the Dividend List.

Salt Lake, Utah, Jan. 22.—Utah mine dividends in 1909 exceeded those of 1908 by more than $1,500,000, according to figures printed here. The record is as follows:

United States Smelting, Refining & Mining company	$2,183,600
Utah Copper	1,937,200
Colorado Mining	960,000
Silver King Coalition	937,500
Utah Consolidated	600,000
Shoe Consolidated	573,442
Iron Blossom	480,000
Daly-West	162,000
Uncle Sam Consolidated	50,000
Grand Central	20,000
Little Bell	15,000
Boston Sunshine	12,500
Victoria	5,000
West Mountain Placer	2,500
Utah Mine	2,000
Lower Mammoth Extension	2,000
Total	$7,102,642
Dividends paid in 1908	5,537,716
Increase in 1909	1,565,926

Seven companies appear which were not on the dividend list a year ago. They are: Iron Blossom, Daly-West, Grand Central, Little Bell, Boston Sunshine, Victoria and Lower Mammoth Extension. Four of last year's payers are missing, Bully Boys, Mammoth, May Day and Puritan. Lower metal prices during the year detracted materially from the profits in mining.

The new strike in the Provo mine in East Tintic is even better than at first reported. On the 300-foot level there is six feet of ore carrying 50 per cent lead and six to seven ounces of silver to the ton. The winze which is being sunk from the 150-foot level to prove the ore body is in material of about the same grade. In the Wicklow mine, which adjoins the Provo, a drift which is being driven for one of the big Eastsures is in highly mineralized ground.

The new ore body encountered some time ago in the winze from the 1,400-foot level of the Daly-Judge mine is now producing ore at the rate of about thirty tons a day. The greater part is shipped as it is broken down, and the shoot promises to become one of the most important found in the mine. A drift is being pushed on the 1,500-foot level to get under the shoot. Its average width is about twenty feet and it may be anywhere from 200 to 700 feet in length. The new concentrator for the Daly-Judge, which will more than double its working capacity, is being hauled from the railroad.

A new shoot of ore has been discovered in the east drift on the 700-foot level of the Silver Carbonate mine. It is the third shoot cut by that drift, which is out 640 feet east of the shaft, and it promises to develop into a shipping product. The drift is all in ore, the face averages fifteen ounces in silver to the ton and 12 per cent lead. The two shoots through which the drift has passed are massive bodies of milling ore.

What is believed to be the ore body which was lost in the earlier working of the Hub mine in Beaver county has been found in a drift from the old shaft, sent out from the 1,100-foot level. A vein of crystallized lead four feet wide has been cut.

In the Star district, Beaver county, the Red Warrior and Star have been developed till the properties, the Star Hill is preparing to begin shipments, which it is said can be maintained regularly. The Jim Barrett, adjoining the Mascow, has more than two feet of high-grade lead-silver ore in sight in the St. Mary a strike of $75 ore was recently made. The shaft of the Progressive has been sent down 150 feet, and more than 600 feet of work has been done, opening a large body of high-grade lead-silver-copper ore.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work Temporarily at Standstill Owing to Frequent Snowstorms---Consolidation of Hidden Fortune and Columbus Consolidated Companies is Completed.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 20.—Frequent and heavy snowstorms in this section have placed the mining industry temporarily at a standstill. Nearly every one of the mines has been forced to suspend operations for a short period owing to the railroads becoming so blocked that ore trains cannot get through. Only with the Homestake lockout has this worked extra hardship. The Golden Reward and Imperial companies will be unable to resume until much of the present snow is got out of the way. The Mogul, which shut down for four days, has resumed and will continue unless another severe snowstorm sets in. The Portland and Clinton property is working and shipping some ore to Omaha. The Landberg, Iron & Silver and Wilson custom mill at Terry will remain closed until weather conditions improve.

The consolidation of the Hidden Fortune and Columbus Consolidated Gold Mining companies has been completed at Denver through the efforts of Henry J. Mayham of New York. The Hidden Fortune, which has had a checkered career, loses its individuality, all the warring factions having been pacified. The new company is known as the Columbus Consolidated Mining Company. Its officers are: President, Henry Frawley, Deadwood; vice president, Roswell A. Breed, Chicago; secretary, J. G. Thomas, Deadwood; N. E. Frankin, Deadwood, directors, Otto M. P. Grant, Deadwood; Frederick Rossiter, Deadwood, F. J. Spencer, Denver; H. M. Orahood, Denver; A. J. Kirkwood, Chicago. The debts have all been paid, there is a small surplus in the treasury, and arrangements have been completed for a working capital. The property lies near Lead and contains several million tons of low grade ore.

It is announced that James T. Gilmore, owner of the Montezuma and Whizzers property up Deadwood Gulch, has purchased the Wilson custom mill at Terry and will remain closed until weather conditions improve.

The new ore body encountered some time ago in the winze from the 1,400-foot level of the Daly-Judge mine is now producing ore at the rate of about thirty tons a day. The greater part is shipped as it is broken down, and the shoot promises to become one of the most important found in the mine. A drift is being pushed on the 1,500-foot level to get under the shoot. IS MAKING RAPID PROGRESS

Pump Station Sump Now Being Made for New Prescott Pump at the Superior & Boston—Shipments to Start Soon.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 22.—Rapid progress is being made at the Superior & Boston mine, in preparation for the extension of development work and production of ore. Sinking in the McGaw shaft has been started at the 600-foot level and this will be continued to the eighth level with the least possible delay in operations. The work is now down thirty-five feet below the station at the sixth level and a pump station is being made for the new Prescott pump. This pump will have a capacity of over one million gallons a day. The crosscutting between the McGaw shaft and Great Eastern shaft is rapidly nearly completion, less than eight feet of this work still remaining to be done to form the connection between the workings from these shafts. Shortly after this has been done the installation of the new pump will begin.

At the surface, the 200-ton ore bin construction has been begun. The piers for this have already been completed and the timbers for the structure have been framed. The only remaining work to be accomplished is that of securing the timbers in place, which is the smallest part of the work required to be done in such an undertaking.

Although no definite arrangement has yet been made regarding the shipment of ore, it is a safe assumption to make that ore from this mine will be shipped before long. The most logical plan would seem to be to ship this ore to the Arizona-Commercial smelter for reduction, but whether this be the plan or not can only be conjectured, as definite arrangements to this effect have not yet been completed.

The two winzes being sunk from the 600-foot level of the Arizona-Commercial mine are opening ore of a good grade. One of these, situated 500 feet Southeast from the Eureka shaft, is down sixty feet in the ore and the other one is being sunk near the Black Hawk shaft. The work being done on the seventh level will develop the ore body from this level. At the present time, on the seventh level, crosscutting is in progress from the station toward the Black Hawk vein. It appears likely that a better grade of ore will be developed at this depth, as has been the case heretofore with each succeeding level established.

Most of the ore for the smelter is being supplied by the ore body lying between the fifth and sixth levels. The ore between these levels has supplied the smelter with the larger part of that which has been treated since the blowing in of the furnace last October. It is likely that, in the near future, the seventh level will produce a good portion of the smelting ore.

VAST INCREASE IN OUTPUT

Precious Metal Production of Colorado in 1909 Yielded $42,575,878, Being $9,292,000 Greater Than in 1908 Dividends Reach $9,390,000.

Colorado Springs, Col., Jan. 22.—Colorado's precious metal production for 1909 reached $42,575,878, as follows:

Metal.	Value.
Gold, 1,303,713 ounces at $20.67	$26,949,803
Silver, 11,611,500 ounces at 51.5 cents	5,981,461
Lead, 24,022 tons at $85.60	2,912,289
Copper, 12,829,561 pounds at 13 cents	1,667,843
Spelter, 24,262 tons at $107.20	2,600,920
Chemicals from Colorado ores	1,701,562
Tungsten, 1,100 tons at $360	396,900
Vanadium, 120,000 pounds at $2.50	300,000
Uranium, Gilpin county	35,000
Manganiferous iron-silver ores	15,000
Pyritic iron-silver ores	16,000
Total	$42,575,878

The 1908 report of the state bureau of mines and the geological survey gave totals as follows: Gold, 1,097,996 ounces, $20.67 each, $22,695,576; silver, 9,416,026 ounces, 53 cents each, $4,975,428; lead, 28,856 tons, $84.20 each, $2,429,671; copper, 10,644,000 pounds, 13 cents each, $1,383,733; spelter, 19,603 tons, $91.60 each, $1,798,603; total, $33,283,011. This year's total increase is $9,292,867, distributed as follows: Gold, $4,254,227; silver, $1,006,032; lead, $482,618; spelter, $302,317; copper, $284,110.

Twenty-two Colorado counties contribute to the gold supply, Teller, (Cripple Creek), leading with $15,070,507, followed by Lake (Leadville), with $2,437,424; Ouray, with $2,544,908; San Miguel, with $2,256,622; Gilpin, with $1,153,838; Rio Grande closing with $1,500. Each of these twenty-two counties produced silver except Teller, Lake leading with $2,464,514. Rio Grande, Routt and Teller produced no lead, copper or spelter. Lake county again leads in lead, with $875,314; also in copper with $992,028, and in spelter with $1,714,800, making a total for the five metals of $8,499,140. San Miguel is second with a total of $3,761,322 and Ouray third with $3,167,640 total. San Miguel's silver production was $2,276,622. This county is credited with $300,000 in ferro-vanadium.

Boulder county, with $220,319 gold, $20,621 silver, $21,250 lead and $2,164 copper, leads the United States in the production of tungsten with a total of $296,000, against a total of $135,000 in 1908. The 1907 production was $550,000. The 1908 market was against production. Since July 1, 1909, an improvement in quotations started output at a rate that may make the 1910 product $1,000,000 in view of the $7 per unit price. The average price last year was $6 a unit for the 60 per cent fine material, or $360 a ton. The Primos mill of the Primos Mining & Milling company received $200,000 of the total paid for tungsten. This mill will have a competitor in 1910 buying and shipping concentrates.

Colorado dividends in 1909 show totals as follows: Gold mines and placers, $6,403,852; gold-silver mines, $1,946,500; silver-lead mines, $740,000; gold-lead mines, $75,000; silver mines, $100,000; gold-tungsten mines, $125,000; total, $9,390,353.

erty, and the exploratory work is adding daily to these lengths. The work of blocking out the ore already developed has occupied most of the past six months, but as this work nears completion, new territory is being explored, both by churn and by underground drifts. If other ore bodies are developed by this prospect work, as the management expects will be the case, the main underground levels will be extended to the western boundary of the property, where the Inspiration Copper company's richest ore was developed.

At the No. 4 shaft, sinking has been resumed from a depth of 450 feet. A double-drum hoist is being used for the hoisting of the material to the surface.

The concrete foundation for the 2,000-ton concentrator is now over two-thirds completed and the steel work should be commenced within a short time. Of the six units constituting the concentrator as designed, four have their foundations practically completed.

Several additions are now being made to the camp of the Miami Copper company. Ten buildings of five tenements for families of employes has been almost completed. These cottages are the first of twenty-nine similar structures for which the company has secured materials. Provided that suitable sites can be obtained, fully forty of these dwellings will be erected.

The construction of a large warehouse near the concentrator site has been recently finished.

The finishing touches are now being given to the last four of eight new bunkhouses which are situated near the foot of the hill, east of the concentrator. These houses with the one completed by some of the men employed in the concentrator construction work. Each house contains eight rooms, each of which is large enough to accommodate two or more men.

The work on the new general office building being erected just east of the officials' mess on the Miami property is so far advanced that clapboarding and shingling can soon be begun.

The Miami Copper company is employing about 600 men in underground, surface and construction work.

of the day from the time Mr. Ryan arrived in New York on his return from Butte.

As one result of these conferences a positive bid was made for the purchase of the Guggenheim interest in Nevada Consolidated and, under the information obtainable that bid was rejected by the Guggenheims, who, no matter what the fate of the Nevada Consolidated-Utah merger proposition, are not in a humor to part with their Nevada Consolidated holdings.

According to a statement made last night it is more than probable that at the meeting of the Utah Copper stockholders next month called to ratify the absorption of Boston Consolidated and the proffer of a bid in stock of the Utah Copper company for a controlling interest in Nevada Consolidated, the latter proposition will be passed by without action, and the meeting of the stockholders limited to ratification of the absorption of Boston Consolidated. Immediately thereafter the plan for a big merger in the Ely district will be hastened, with every indication that it will be successfully consummated.

While there has, of course, been no definite agreement as to terms for this Ely merger, tentative calculations have accorded a valuation of $40 a share to Nevada Consolidated, of around $25 a share for Giroux Consolidated, of $5 a share for Ely Central, the control of which is being actively sought for merger purposes, while Coppermines will be taken in on a basis of valuation yet to be determined.

the mines was greatly reduced. The fear that the miners' union of Butte would become involved in a controversy with the smeltermen's union of Great Falls because the latter decided that the strike of railroad switchmen was a failure and that they would work at the smelter with strike-breaking switchmen on the Great Northern railroad, has not materialized and it is now believed that the strike situation on the railroads will be ignored by the miners, which seems to be the easiest way out of a critical situation.

An unusual and tense situation was created when John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, announced that all the Amalgamated mines and smelters would be closed unless the miners' union receded from its position of sympathy for the striking switchmen and if the union did not support the union of smeltermen in an effort to end the strike and resume work with the aid of non-union switchmen, if necessary. With a complete suspension of mining operations held before them as a threat, idleness without credit in the midst of the coldest winter ever known in Montana, the miners reiterated their sympathy for the striking switchmen and refused to support the attitude of the Great Falls smeltermen. However, it was later understood, from the leaders of the miners' union, that while the union declined to stultify itself by bowing to a threat, the miners would not actively oppose a resumption of railroad switching under strike-breaking crews. The railroads therefore put strike-breakers to work and the transportation of ore to the smelters was resumed. Since then the mines and smelters have been gradually resuming operations.

Butte Central.

Official information is given out that the Butte Central Copper company, owner of the Ophir mine in the southeastern portion of the Butte district, has been heavily financed and will resume operations with $200,000 available for the treasury, as a result of the recent underwriting. Eminent capitalists of Montreal and strong Boston interests are in the company. The Ophir mine has been a good producer for a number of years, but has been mined only for its high-grade silver ore, no attention having been paid to a large copper bearing vein which has been cut on one of the upper levels but has never been drifted on, although assays of 7 to 12 per cent copper have been taken from it. The mine has been opened to a depth of 500 feet, and on the latter level the old silver vein has also shown some good copper assays, indicating that the rule prevailing in all mines of the Butte district is evident in the Ophir and that with increasing depth the copper values will also increase.

There is an immense tonnage of low-grade silver ore in sight in the mine, and it has always been the contention of Supt. O'Connell that with a small concentrator on the ground at the mine the property could be made to earn a profit while extensive developments are prosecuted. That is also the opinion of W. L. Creden, the company's consulting engineer, although he places the cost of the concentrator and preliminary work at about $100,000, while Mr. O'Connell says he can put the mine on a paying basis with $25,000 to $30,000. The Ophir mine has an interesting situation and a likely theory prevails regarding it. The mine is situated at what is considered the southern extremity of the series of known veins of the Butte district. It has several east and west veins and carries the largest of the famous copper solutions from the district. One of the smaller cross-fissures also passes through or near the Ophir. The theory is that the veins in the Ophir will be found to unite at a depth of 1,500 to 2,000 feet, and because of the fact that the cross-fissures have for ages served as a drain and waterway for the copper solutions from the enormous veins of the Anaconda hill, it will be found that where the veins unite and where there has been a redeposit of the copper in solution the greatest copper deposit of the world will be found. Many mining men hold to that interesting theory and belief.

Davis-Daly.

It seems likely now that the Davis-Daly Copper company will be granted a franchise by the city of Butte to build a tramway from the Colorado mine to the old Hesperus shaft in the southern part of the city, in order to connect with the Great Northern railway and ship ore to the concentrator owned by F. A. Heinze at Basin. The petition for a franchise has been fought for months by property owners along the proposed trackage, but the committee of the city council, which had the matter under investigation, reported favorably on the petition and sentiment in general is in favor of it, chiefly for the reason that similar franchises have been given to W. A. Clark, who runs his enormous and unsightly ore trains through the most prominent business and residence streets of the city. Franchises being granted to him over vigorous protests from the people.

The management of the Davis-Daly says that as soon as the tramway and ore bins are built, the Colorado mine will resume ore shipments, which were suspended some time ago. The Davis-Daly had shipped a considerable quantity of ore to the Washoe smelter, most of it mined from the 1,500-foot level of the Colorado, but shipments were stopped, for some unknown reason, more than a month ago. Since then the work has been confined to developing the main vein on the 1,500-foot level, sinking the shaft deeper—bottoming it at 1,850 feet—and opening a new level at the 1,800 feet. On the latter level the main vein has not yet been reached, but a small vein, having a width of probably a foot and a half, has been cut and drifting is being done on it in order to determine its extent. The report is again current, and coming from more authoritative sources than usual, that the Davis-Daly company will soon be in need of additional funds and that some scheme for borrowing money, or another assessment on the stock, will have to be resorted to. In Butte it has been a very firm conviction, ever since the last assessment was levied, that further assessments would have to be made before the company could hope to make a producing mine of the Colorado, but President Heinze and other officers of the company were very emphatic in their declaration that no assessment would be made and that the company had abundant funds to place the Colorado on a paying basis. Similarly, in Butte there prevails a very different opinion from that expressed by Mr. Heinze and other officers of the company as to the value and prospects of the Colorado.

very large production. The Florence Iron company, controlled by Ladenbach, Thalmann & Co. of New York, has a number of diamond drills engaged in testing a presumably large deposit in the Hall-Yackel tract, in section 19, 43-34. It is expected to open a large and valuable mine, but on account of the heavy overburden this will be a difficult undertaking.

The Steel corporation's Dober mine at Stambaugh is proving one of the biggest properties of the district. It was provided with a steel shafthouse the past year. This is at the No. 1 shaft, through which ore from the Isabella mine also is being taken. The Isabella was reopened the past season after having been idle a number of years. Promising tracts under option to the Steel corporation are the McGillis and the Greenhoot. The Spring Valley Iron company expects to produce fully 100,000 tons from its Zimmerman mine the coming season. The product runs about 54 per cent Fe metallic iron. The first shipments were made last year. The Florence shipped 226,000 tons the past season, or only a few thousand tons less than its record production in 1905. The mine was opened a quarter of a century ago, yet it was never in better physical condition than now. It has large reserves and will be active a great many years yet. Oglebay, Norton & Co. and other interests have been conducting exploratory work in the Spread Eagle district, but with what results is not known. This field is on the Wisconsin side of the Menominee river, midway between Commonwealth and Iron Mountain.

Stripping at Traders Mine.

Stripping is in progress at the Antoine Ore company's Traders mine, near Iron Mountain. A steam shovel is employed and some 50,000 cubic yards of overburden will be removed. The overburden averages about thirty feet. The stripping will uncover a large body of excellent ore and will put the company in position to make a record shipment the coming season. The Steel corporation's Chapin mine at Iron Mountain, the giant of the Menominee range, shipped 585,000 tons the past year. This mine is much less than its capable of producing, it often having sent out upwards of 900,000 tons annually. The Chapin has already produced 17,000,000 tons since it was first opened, and it has tremendous reserves yet. The mine is a very wet proposition, no less than ten tons of water being brought to the surface for every ton of ore hoisted. Every minute of the day and night there are taken out of the workings 2,700 gallons of water, or something like 1,413,124,000 gallons every year. From its Aragon mine at Norway, the Steel corporation shipped about a quarter of a million tons last season. This production is only about half of what the property is capable of sending out.

While a number of flattering propositions have been made by large mining companies, it is authoritatively denied that the fee of the Millie mine at Iron Mountain has been sold within recent weeks. It had been stated that either the United States Steel corporation or the Lake Superior corporation had acquired title to the property. The major interest in the fee is owned by John Marsch, the well-known railroad contractor of Iron Mountain and Chicago, who purchased his holdings from Charles H. Jones and Henry Hewitt of Tacoma some months ago, and the remainder is in the hands of Richard C. Flannigan of Norway, it having been acquired by the Hyde estate a number of years ago. The Lake Superior corporation is interested in the property to the extent that by the purchase of the Dessad Mining company's interest in 1907 it gained possession of the lease under which the mine is operated and which still has ten years yet to run. The Millie is a very desirable property. It contains an immense tonnage of ore, a veritable mountain of it, in fact, and if rightly developed and given the necessary equipment it could easily ship 1,000,000 tons a year. It has been thought as an open pit proposition the past few years, and its product has been taken out very cheaply. The ore, such as has been mined and shipped during latter seasons, is of low grade, but the hill contains much high-grade material also.

WILL THESE MEN GIVE UNCLE SAM HIS FIRST TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY?

the accounts. I'll let you know," he said, adding, "You do as I say."

But in the face of this rebuke, and probably implied threat of discharge, the young clerk kept on keeping the accounts his way, and in time his was recognized as the best way and adopted officially by the office.

For eleven years Mr. Mellen figured accounts, kept books, checked off payrolls and performed various and sundry duties on the financial side of railroading, eventually becoming assistant treasurer of the road with which he had made his start. But all the time he kept his eye on the operating side of the business, and so, when the opportunity was presented to him to become assistant to the manager of the old Boston & Lowell railroad, he was all ready for it. And since the day he got on the operating side his career has been one of steady growth, until today he is one of the universally recognized big railroad presidents and authorities of the country, his fiery energy and aggressive determination being largely responsible for this result.

The Miracle That Ripley Performed.

Edward P. Ripley, who, like Mr. Mellen, is a son of Massachusetts, having first seen the light of day in Dorchester, about twenty-five miles from Lowell, the birthplace of Mr. Mellen, enjoys the distinction in the railway world of having taken hold of the Atchison when its stocks was practically worthless and in four years making it into a paying proposition. His specialty is traffic, a most important phase of railroading which he learned thoroughly during the more than a quarter of a century that he was with the Pennsylvania, the Burlington, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; and when he became head of the poor old down-and-out Atchison on the first day of 1896 he immediately began to turn his knowledge of his specialty to good account for his road's stockholders, with the result that he has been in their good graces ever since.

Unlike many well-known railway men, Mr. Ripley is a fine speaker and an excellent debater by word of mouth as well as on paper, and so he frequently acts as spokesman for the railroads of the West at important conferences with shippers, commercial bodies and legislators.

With sixty-four years to his credit, he is the dean of the quintet of presidents who may give us our first transcontinental line. Mr. Tuttle is a year younger, and Mr. McCrea is three years Mr. Ripley's junior, Mr. Mellen being 58 and Mr. Underwood the youngest, with one year less than Mr. Mellen scored up against him in Father Time's book of ages.

Like Mr. Ripley, who is an enthusiast on the subject, Mr. McCrea delights to swat the golf ball for exercise when railway matters will let him. Should the two men ever play against each other, however, it is more than likely that Mr. Ripley would invariably be victorious. To keep in form he carries his golf outfit with him in his private car, and he has been known to take advantage of unexpected stops, while traveling over his road, to drive golf balls over the prairies and the deserts through which the Atchison runs, using his ebony-hued porters as caddies.

The Man Who Planned to Become President.

When he was chosen as A. J. Cassatt's successor, Mr. McCrea realized his lifelong ambition to become president of the Pennsylvania. With this especial object in view, he sought and was given employment as a rodman with the road when he was 17; right up to the day that he was chosen president he continued with the road, and always was he inspired to harder effort with the thought that one day he would be its chief executive officer. In the meantime he was going from one important position to another until at last he was made first vice president. That was in 1891, twenty-six years after he started as a rodman. He has now been president for less than a month more than three years, and he it is who has carried to completion the Pennsylvania's stupendous plans to tunnel into New York city, and out again into Long Island and escape thence by connecting railway into New England.

Like Mr. Tuttle and Mr. McCrea, Mr. Underwood, the fifth and last member of this interesting group, is a big man physically, and like them, also, he is well nigh universally liked by all who come in contact with him personally, whether capitalist or workingman. Exceedingly democratic in manner, nothing will give him offense more quickly than for some man who knew and worked with him in his brakeman days to address him as Mr. Underwood. In those days he was invariably known as Fred, and Fred he still insists on being to his old fellow workers and acquaintances. Incidentally, in those days, Mr. Underwood's remuneration was a dollar a day for quite an appreciable stretch of time.

Mr. Underwood has been president of the Erie since May of 1901, going to it from the Baltimore & Ohio, whose second vice president and general manager he had been for two and a half years, prior to which time he had held numerous important executive positions with railroads of the Northwest which have St. Paul as one of their great objective traffic points. There he came within vision of James J. Hill, and it has been said that Mr. Hill's stamp of approval of Mr. Underwood's way of doing business had something to do with his being chosen president of the historic railway property he now heads.

FIFTEEN MEN ARE BLOWN TO PIECES

Three Americans Among Victims of Accident in New York Aqueduct.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Fifteen men, three of them Americans, were killed late yesterday afternoon by a premature explosion of nitroglycerine in a tunnel which is to form part of the great aqueduct which will carry water from the Ashokan dam in the Catskills to New York city.

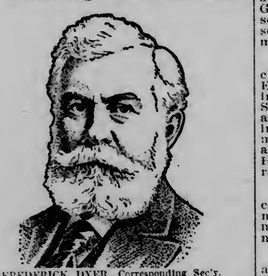

Five men were terribly mutilated, but were so near the mouth of the tunnel that they were rescued alive. The other fifteen were found beneath a mass of rock and debris, literally hammered to pieces, the force of the explosion scattering heads, limbs and torsos.

The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained, but it is believed that one of the workmen, carrying a torch, tripped and fell, igniting a fuse and setting off a series of charges of nitro-glycerine.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Incident of the Inception of Great Catholic Body—Preparing for Pilgrimage to Rome and Genoa, the Birthplace of Columbus.

A recent census of the great Catholic organization known as the Knights of Columbus shows a membership of 230,922 in the United States and Canada. At the present moment every council of that body, in every city, town, village and hamlet, has one live topic that interests all of its members, the forthcoming pilgrimage to Rome and Genoa, under the auspices of the original incorporators. The pilgrimage is being organized from the main offices in the Metropolitan building, New York. Daniel P. Toomey is the general manager and Bishop Keane of Cheyenne, Wyo., will be the spiritual director. The pilgrims will remain several days in Genoa, where arrangements are now being made to receive them. One of the features includes a celebration and visitation to the tomb of the discoverer of America, Christopher Columbus. At Rome they will be received by Pope Pius X, to whom will be related the growth of the Knights. Daniel Colwell, historian of the order, tells the story of the beginning of the Knights. "In order," he says, "to explain the semi-military character of the organization, it will be necessary to hearken back to the year of 1856 to an unfortunate political transaction, the result of which was the election in that year of a governor of the state of Connecticut by what was termed the Know-Nothing party. Governor Minor, the official referred to (remembered principally

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING NEWS

FEW OWNERS OF DULUTH REALTY WILLING TO SELL

Buyers Outnumber the Sellers in the Real Estate Market.

More Districts May Put Ban on the Apartment Houses.

Most of the activity in the real estate market at present is confined to preliminaries. Earnest money is being secured, deals are being advanced and during the next few weeks, some important transfers will be made public, but the deals coming out now are mostly small residence sales.

The people are just getting into action after the diverting holiday season. The deals in which negotiations were begun after the first of the year have not yet come to the closing stage, for it takes some time and much conversation to close a realty deal. The dealers are not letting up a bit in their optimistic song, and one may usually tell the direction of the wind by getting the opinion of the dealers. The realty market at present is queer. There are not a very large number of buyers in the market, but they outnumber the sellers greatly and dealers find that the difficulty in supplying the wants of their clients is the greatest obstacle existing to an active market.

Owners are not loosening their holds on desirable business property. The owners have just as much opportunity to develop optimism in regard to the future of Duluth as prospective purchasers, and most of them are content to take the profits for the next few years instead of turning them over to somebody else. They know Duluth is going ahead and they want to be in on the progress and the profits that will come with it. There is considerable residence property in the market, but the man looking for business property must make a long, hard search and then he may not find what he wants.

"The owners who are willing to sell want to anticipate the profits on the property for three, four or five years to come," said one real estate man yesterday. "Buyers will not submit to the prices those people set upon their property and many deals are blocked on this account. If people don't want to sell their property, they should keep out of the market. They are putting Duluth real estate in a false position by going into the market with prices so fixed that if anybody pays them they will have cash in hand for profits that will not come for several years. People do not want to buy under such conditions."

On the whole, the outlook for the next few months is bright. Though prices on business property are away up to prospective buyers, the man who wants to buy residence property, either for investment or for use, may find what he wants at comparatively modest prices and on easy terms. The movement in that class of property is brisk. Many people are buying now who do not expect to use their property for several years to come, but if they were to attempt to buy the same property in three or four years they would find that they would have to pay nearly twice the prices the same property will sell for today.

Applications for small loans are numerous in the market at present, although there is said to be little demand for large loans for building purposes. Homebuilders are making loans of $500 to $2,000, and are being accommodated on good security. There is plenty of money in the market for loaning, but little call for it in large sums.

People have taken more to loaning in Duluth during the past year than they have for some time previously. The prospects are so bright for real estate that people are extending their operations by the loan process. By mortgaging the property already owned outright by them they are able to put money into other desirable property, thus extending their holdings by the payment of comparatively low rates of interest.

Agents of office buildings in the downtown district are beginning to arrange their leases to replace those which run out May 1. There will be no dearth of of office room about moving time, it is said. The Alworth building will be ready for occupancy May 1 and it will take a large number of tenants from other buildings, leaving considerable vacant office room. Rental agents say that they expect little difficulty in renting their rooms. Professional men are constantly coming into the city and the demand for office room continues good, so none of the agents are worrying over the inroads any new buildings may make on their tenants. There is no activity in house rentals yet, but in a month or so people will begin to scurry around to arrange for their abodes for next year.

The apartment house has always been under the ban in the normal school district, and it is said the restriction will be extended to other districts of the city, for it has been found that apartment houses depress the value of adjoining property for residence purposes.

"The modern apartment house takes up all the space of the lot, or is built right on the street line, and in that way the building cuts off the view from adjoining lots, which may have nice residences upon them," said one dealer. "There is nothing objectionable about the apartment house itself, if it were built in a manner to beautify the landscape, but the owner of an apartment house cannot afford space for a lawn, as all of the property must be used up for the building in order that a good rate of interest may be returned on the cost."

The apartment house has, however, raised the value of residence lots near the center of the city. The apartment house projector will usually pay double what a lot would be worth for residence purposes. As soon as the apartment house is built, however, the adjoining lots depreciate in value and they are worth little for residence purposes. Nobody wants to build a fine residence against the blind wall of an apartment house and some of the other districts in the city will probably taboo them soon.

ACRES

5-acre tracts close in near Kenwood School. They are going rapidly, but we have some choice ones at $100 per acre on very easy terms.

10-acre tracts a little farther on at $50 per acre. Equally easy terms.

To buy them is like buying gold dollars at a discount.

Richardson, Day & Harrison, Exchange Building.

One familiar with the growth of Duluth will tell you that the increase in the value of lots during the past ten years has been phenomenal. The investment of a few hundred dollars then, would have made the investor a rich man today. How many men say: "Why, I could have bought lots in Duluth for a few hundred dollars at that time that are now selling for thousands."

REAL STATE AND BUILDING NEWS

BIG TRACT OF LAND NEAR LESTER PARK IS SOLD

Outside Parties Purchase Extensive Cole Holdings for $200,000.

Tract Will Be Platted as "Edgewater" and Put on Market.

Through the office of Little & Nolte the extensive Thomas F. Cole holdings near Lester Park have been sold for approximately $200,000. The tract comprises land in sections 1 and 5, 50-13, and a large part of Lester Park, Fourth division. The deal is the largest made in Duluth acres in some time.

The tract is a fine, level plateau, with a frontage of three-quarters of a mile on Lake Superior from Lester river east, and it runs nearly a mile back from the lake. The purchasers will plat and improve the property and put it on the market. The plat of Lester Park, Fourth division, will be vacated and the entire tract included in the deal will be platted as "Edgewater."

The tract of land is almost ideal for home building and is very accessible. It is traversed by both branches of Lester river and lots will face all the different park roads. Some of the choicest lots will be those fronting London avenue, which skirts along the edge of Lake Superior east of Lester river. The city already owns all the territory south of London avenue, which has been dedicated to park purposes and called North Shore park. The title to the tract has been registered under the Torrens system.

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE

Building Operations Continue Throughout City During the Winter.

Rosendahl Building on First Avenue West to Be Remodeled.

Beautiful weather continues to favor building operation and all over the city winter work is going on without cessation. Fine progress is being made on the big buildings in the down-town district and scores of residences are in course of construction throughout the city.

The architects are still dealing in futures. There is some work on their tables, but it is not far enough advanced for announcements to be made or for construction to be a certainty. They say the demand for sketches is good and there is a good deal of work in prospect, but the people who contemplate building are slow in ordering actual work on the plans to begin. There are also said to be at least two office buildings in prospect, but the owners and location have not been made public.

Plans are being made for the remodeling of the property owned by Martin Rosendahl at 17-19-21 First avenue west. The building will be entirely remodeled, and a small addition will be constructed. The first floor will be divided into three stores and the upper floor will be arranged for offices. The improvement will cost about $7,500. The property is being handled by F. I. Salter & Co.

The following permits for work to cost $1,000 or more have been issued by Building Inspector S. M. Kielley during the past week:

T. J. Donnefield, frame dwelling on the north side of Third street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues west, $1,000.

O. J. Johnson, frame dwelling on the north side of First street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west, $2,000.

Jack Egerdal, frame cottage on the north side of Twelfth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues east, $1,000.

J. J. Eklund barn in East end, $2,000.

Charles Mattason, frame dwelling on the west side of Forty-eighth avenue west between Fifth and Sixth streets, $1,000.

F. B Spellman, brick and frame dwelling on the south side of Second street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues east, $10,000.

Elizabeth Kreidler, brick store building on the west side of Central avenue, between Ramsey street and Northern Pacific railway, $12,000.

AMERICAN CAPITAL IN CHINESE RAILWAY.

Pekin, Jan 22.—An imperial rescript is issued approving the preliminary agreement signed at Mukden on Oct. 2, by Willard D. Straight, the American consul-general, the British representative and the viceroy of Manchuria, for the construction of the Chin-Chow-Aigun railway in Manchuria, with capital provided by a group of American financiers. It was also agreed that the road should be built by the Pauling company, British constructors.

The ultimate cost of the road is estimated at $40,000,000 to $50,000,000.

WILLING TO GIVE JOBS TO TEDDY

Cocks and Bradley Both Ready to Surrender Seats in Congress.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Representative Cocks of New York has confirmed reports of his readiness to retire from congress in favor of Former President Roosevelt. Mr. Cocks, who represents the Oyster Bay district, where the Roosevelt home is located, added that he had informally talked over the subject with Mr. Roosevelt. Representative Bradley, a colleague from New York, according to Mr. Cocks, is likewise willing to give way in the house to Mr. Roosevelt should the ex-president desire to enter congress.

The conversation between Mr. Cocks and Mr. Roosevelt took place one night last February.

"The talk was entirely informal," said Mr. Cocks, "and the president's expressions were given in a tentative way. Incidentally, the fact that John Quincy Adams had occupied a seat in congress subsequent to his presidential term, was brought up. Mr. Roosevelt believed that the holding of a presidential office did not bar any man from later taking up other public duties. There was a reference to the possibility of his again re-entering a presidential contest, but it was just passing chat.

"I want to say to you," added Mr. Cocks, "that the Roosevelt friends are loyal supporters of President Taft. I do not think Mr. Roosevelt has made up his mind yet what to do."

PATRICK MOVES AGAIN.

Wants to Fight Against Disbarment Movement.

New York, Jan. 22.—Albert T. Patrick, who is serving a life term for the murder of William Marsh Rice, made application yesterday to the appellate division of the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus, allowing him to appear and resist the action for his disbarment which the bar association has brought. In this way Patrick, it is said, expects to get his case again before the courts and secure another chance for freedom. Decision was reserved.

BIG POULTRY SHOW.

Annual Copper Country Event at Houghton Next Week.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary McNamara of the Copper Country Poultry show, which opens at the Amphidrome next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, is beginning to turn on the enthusiasm. He says the show will be bigger and better than ever, which is what he says annually, and with truth, because the association has prospered and has promoted the business of chicken growing in the Copper country. Mr. McNamara is particularly pleased with the fact that a number of outside fanciers have expressed their intention to enter birds.

Mackay Insists Postal Is Not in Wire Merger.

New York, Jan. 22.—"The Postal Telegraph company's competition with the Western Union will continue," declared Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal, testifying yesterday before the Davis legislative commission. Mr. Mackay added that his company had no part in the recent Western Union-American Telephone & Telegraph merger and that the Postal would now compete with both those corporations instead of with the Western Union alone, as before.

ARE YOU PLANNING TO BUILD? HERE IS AN ARTISTIC HOME COSTING $10,000

The above illustration suggests a design and plan well adapted to a low lying lot facing north. Such locations are common in Duluth on the lower side of its streets. The plans here shown are arranged to take every advantage of sunlight and view on such a location, and the design and proportions of its exterior would be in harmony with such a site.

In arrangement of rooms the plans are unique. All are of good size, light and airy. Every foot of space is well utilized. An uncommon feature of the plans is the enclosed staircase separated from the entrance hall and second story corridor by glass doors. Such an arrangement makes a house more secure against fire, checks the travel of sound and in every way makes a more livable and comfortable house. It also eliminates the necessity of a separate servants' staircase. In this arrangement the service portion of the house is directly accessible from the staircase, thus effectively shutting it off from the balance of the house. The entry is tiled and separated from the reception room by glass doors which check cold drafts from the entrance and present an attractive appearance.

The living room is a large, sunny apartment of good proportions and conveniently accessible. The dining room, though accessible from both staircase and living room, still retains that privacy of location that is so often desired.

The stairway is broad and easy of ascent. The second-story plans contain three large family sleeping rooms, a servant's room, large bathroom and a generous allotment of closet space. The convenience of its arrangement is easily apparent in the plan. The attic being low and unlighted, is not used. Fireplaces are located in the living room and center bedroom. One large chimney serves the entire building.

A home as above planned and designed would be simple to construct of fireproof material, using tile and concrete for its walls, partitions and floors. Of frame construction, the exterior stucco would be applied on metal lath. If fireproof, the exterior stucco would be applied directly on the tile.

The estimated cost to construct such a dwelling, fireproof except roof and finish, and including heating and plumbing, is $10,000.

WHEAT WAS STRONGER

Fractional Advances in May Option, Following Light Receipts.

Flax Closes Five Cents Over Last Quotations on Friday.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 22.—The market was nervous and trading was mixed today, although prices were higher at the opening and closed over yesterday's closing prices due to higher cables, professional buying and lighter receipts in the Northwest, the attitude of the farmers injecting itself as a determinate factor.

May wheat opened at $1.12, advanced to $1.12⅜@⅝, declined to $1.12⅝, gained ⅛c and then sold at $1.13⅛ and declined toward the close to $1.12⅜ and closed at that quotation bid. May flax opened at $2.18 bid and sold at $2.20½, lost ½c and regained it, sold at $2.20¼, and then at $2.23, lost ½c and gained it, selling at the high price of the day, $2.23½, and down to $2.23, closing at that quotation.

All markets were higher, Southwestern markets being especially strong on account of reports of damage to winter wheat by ice and sleet. Winnipeg was firmer and reported a fair export trade. Ames-Brooks said that the export. In Americans and Manitobas in the local market was moderately good and the outlook favorable although not as much stuff was worked out as yesterday.

The wheat market was an active trading proposition and offerings were quickly absorbed.

It opened strong on higher foreign cables which were firmer on account of unexpected strength in American markets yesterday, the firm position of cash, lighter offerings, and the fact that Argentina offers diminished in the face of a strong and increasing demand. Manitoba offerings scored a strong advance. The market closed firm. Liverpool closing prices being, wheat 1¾c higher and corn, 1½c higher.

The cash markets occupied a firm position, the demand being good. Increased buying activity by the millers put cash in Minneapolis at 2½@2¾c over May. No. 1 Northern to arrive sold at 2¼c over. Cash here was on a parity with the leading option. The millers report a good business, the total flour shipments from Minneapolis this week including Friday, being 310,000.

Wheat receipts in the Northwest were lighter, although the disparity between last year's receipts and this year's arrivals is still in evidence. Primary wheat receipts today were 582,000 bu compared with 396,000 bu, making the total week's receipts about 4,500,000 bu against 2,400,000 bu last year. The big mills have ample supplies and have purchased large quantities of stuff to arrive. They are heavy holders of May futures which they probably will take for delivery. Country mills are doing an excellent business and have only moderate stocks.

A new factor was forced into the market today by the agitation throughout the country to stop buying meat in order to force prices downward. Pork lost about 50 cents a barrel and corn declined in sympathy. Action of these commodities was not communicated to wheat. The movement should increase the demand for flour, but whether the situation will become strong enough to have a pronounced market effect remains to be seen.

The market was fairly well liquidated by the long side on the recent break and the short interest has been considerably reduced in the advance of the last two days. The weak holders have sold out and some of the bears have taken profits. The speculative tone has changed and the market has assumed, perhaps temporarily, a scalping position. The trend will depend on factors which become prominent suddenly as trades are somewhat mystified and the action rests on near events rather than on factors governing what traders term a "long pull."

Local bulls say that this market will need about 16,000,000 bu to supply the Eastern demand at the beginning of navigation. Stocks now amount to 3,008,000 bu and the leading bull interests believe that the stocks in the hands of the farmers have been overestimated. They maintain their attitude and think that prices eventually will work higher with occasional declines.

Grain reserves in the West, as compiled by the Western Grain Dealer, published at Des Moines, Iowa, shows that 95 per cent of the wheat in the northeastern portion of Kansas, 90 per cent in the southeastern, 78 per cent in the north central and northwestern, and 71 per cent in the south central and southwestern parts of the state, has already been marketed by farmers. Acreage 100 to 106 per cent of last year, and condition 100 to 123 as compared to a year ago. In Nebraska 85 per cent in North Platte, 60 per cent in South Platte and 70 per cent in the central and west has been sold by farmers. Average is 100 to 107 per cent of last year and condition 98 to 105.

The world's visible supply of wheat is 26,068,000 bu, compared with 48,704,000 bu last year. This week's decrease is 1,000,000 bu, last week 661,000 bu, and a year ago, 1,775,000 bu. Russian and Danubian shipments this week are estimated at 3,920,000 bu.

The flax market today was subject to a few offerings from this country, the selling being done chiefly by one a commission firm. Some flax was taken by a few crushers which did not get loaded up last fall. Slight short covering helped to strengthen the market. The bulls fed out holdings on the bulge. Flax stocks at the Head of the Lakes amount to 227,000 bu. An increase for the week of 16,000 bu.

Durum closed ⅞c up, oats ⅝c off at 46⅜c, and rye was unchanged. Barley was 1c up at the close at 67@76c, and cash wheat equaled May. The high quotation on durum was $1.60.

Wheat stocks at the Head of the Lakes increased 436,000 bu in the last week and at Minneapolis 15,000 bu in one day. Local flax stocks increased 16,000 bu in the last week. Car receipts at Duluth were 55 against 27 last year; at Minneapolis 225; Winnipeg 156, last year, 82. Chicago received 17 cars, last year 10; Kansas City received 121 cars, last year 105, and shipped 63 compared with 60 last year; St. Louis received 41,000 bu, last year 329,000, and shipped 38,000 bu against 57,000 bu last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary markets, 552,000 bu; last year, 396,000 bu; shipments, 222,000 bu, last year, 201,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn, 595,000 bu; last year, 650,000 bu; shipments, 350,000 bu; last year, 453,000 bu.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool:

"There was a firm opening in wheat with values ⅞d to a penny higher, and during the morning further advanced ⅝@½d with offerings very light and shorts excited. Support was the result of the unexpected firmness in America yesterday, and the light American exports, according to Bradstreets. Spot markets were firm with American a penny higher, other grades ½d higher and cargoes were in good demand at an advance of 3d. Private advice from Argentina continue to report very light country offerings with the demand urgent and stocks decreasing, and the quality poor. There was a sharp advance in Manitoba offerings. At the close the market was strong with prices 1⅜@1½d higher than yesterday."

Corn was firm at the opening, values were ⅛c higher and during the morning further advanced ¼d. Offerings were light, due to the firmness in America yesterday and the scarcity and dearer La Plata offerings. Spot markets are firm. Spot wheat is firm, with American a penny higher and Manitoba and La Plata ½d higher. Spot corn is firm, American mixed unchanged and La Plata ¼d higher. All other grades of Manitoba spot are ¾d higher."

Bartlett-Patten wired—"Cables on wheat 1⅛@1⅜d higher, and on corn ½d higher. The bullish sentiment appears to be increasing again and it seems not be surprising to see wheat weather still higher. Northwestern advices are that farmers have refused to sell at the decline. Farmers are in a position to dictate prices for some weeks to come."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

News From Abroad Causes Upward Trend in Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Advanced prices for wheat in Liverpool induced by bullish Argentine conditions were a factor today in producing an upward trend to . Opening figures were ⅞@⅞c higher. The market here was further strengthened by a firm demand for cash wheat and by light offerings from the country. Commission houses were gener lly buyers. The trade in the first hour kept practically within the opening range. May which opened at 1 11½@1.11⅝, traveled up to $1.11⅞ in the first hour.

The market, continued generally firm throughout the session. May advancing to $1.11⅞ and later receding to $1.11 on selling pressure. The close was steady at $1.11⅜@1.11½ for May. ⅝@¾c higher than yesterday's final figures.

In corn, initial trades were at an advance of a shade to ⅛c. A reaction based on expectations of large receipts through the apparent willingness of farmers to dispose of their crops and improved transportation facilities followed and in the first hour prices fell off ⅛@⅜c. May opening from 69¼@69⅜c. At the opening May at 69⅜@69¼ was ⅛@⅜c to ⅝@¾c higher than yesterday's closing price.

The downward trend of the market continued throughout the day with an occasional slight rally. The close was weak at nearly the low point of the day. May fell off from 69¼c to 68⅝c and closed at 68⅝@68¾c, a loss of ⅝c. compared with last prices yesterday.

Oats exhibited much the same course as corn under similar influences.

After a start ranging from ⅛c lower to ⅜c higher, the oats market dropped below the opening figures. May touching 48¼c after a start at 48⅞@48⅝c, which was ⅛c higher than the previous close.

Provisions ranged generally lower at the start, futures running 2½ higher to 15c lower, and the current month products ranging 15c to 25c lower. Opening prices for May were: Pork, $21.65; lard, $12.02½ to $12.00, and ribs $11.55.

STEEL HAS SHARP RISE

Rumors of Extra Dividend Cause Sharp Advance and Heavy Trading.

Rest of List Is Weak and the Close Is Unsettled.

New York, Jan. 22.—The stock market today showed great animation in the opening dealings but the changes were generally small and on the side of the gains with a few exceptions. United States Steel was a feature with simultaneous sales of 18,000 shares at $7@87⅝, compared with 86¾ last night. Missouri Pacific, American Car, American Beet Sugar and American Hide & Leather preferred rose large fractions.

Stocks were offered freely around the opening figures, and after a feeble rally, the list sold off sharply. United States Steel receded to yesterday's closing figures. Western railroad stocks and a few specialties were the chief points of weakness. Amalgamated Copper declined 1⅜, and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Consolidated Gas, American Sugar and Pullman 1. Chicago & Alton went down 3 points on light selling.

The market closed irregular and unsettled. United States Steel took up an aggressive advance on reiterated rumors of an extra dividend to be declared next Tuesday. The price touched 89 on enormous transactions. The crest of the list was pulled up in sympathy but did not much more than retrieve early losses. Profit-taking sales made some impression on final prices. United States Steel reacted 2¼.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The sell centers on good work horses that have small defects that do not weaken their efficiency and are serviceable for all farm work. Consignments continue to arrive. Buyers from Montana, Dakota and Canada were looking through the stalls and sizing up the offerings—and a number of good sales were reported. HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED — IF YOU DON'T LIKE your job; if your future isn't bright; if you have a burning ambition to win increased pay, promotion and success, read this advertisement clear through. A bluejacket of United States battleship Missouri has this to say of his experience in the navy: "I have been in the navy about a year and a half and I have seen more sights and foreign ports than many rich people who have traveled a good many more years and spent a great deal of money. We have just completed a cruise around the Horn of 14,000 miles, and we are now on the eve of another cruise of 28,000 miles, completing the trip around the world. Our work in the navy is comparatively light; we only have to work about four hours a day. We have splendid things to eat and lots of it. The treatment in the navy is as near like home as it can be made to be. We have many entertainments on board, such as moving pictures, minstrel shows, up-to-date boxing and many other interesting things. We also have baseball teams, football teams, basket teams and track teams. The athletic sports are greatly encouraged by the officials. I think the navy is the place for a young fellow. The navy is healthy in every way, morally, mentally and physically. One keeps good habits and sees some very educational things. There is also an opportunity for a young man to make a start in life. You have no expenses to speak of and it is not long before a bright and energetic fellow can increase his pay to $40 or $50 a month. He can easily put away $25 a month in our ship's bank, which pays 4 per cent interest. When my enlistment is up I shall do four more years. I do not want anything better than this." Nearly every man in the navy will write a letter like this. Ask some of them how they like their jobs. The navy department wants men, but doesn't urge any young man to join the navy. It only urges you to find out what the navy can do for you. Then you must decide as to joining. Will you refuse to investigate or will you talk it over with a recruiting officer today? You'll find him obliging and glad to tell you everything. Should you decide not to enlist, you will have done no harm. Nearest recruiting office to you is Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn. If you prefer to know more about the navy before going to recruiting office, send for an interesting illustrated booklet. Tells you everything you want to know about navy work, pay, play, promotion and a bluejacket's life; also how to join the navy. Get your pen or pencil and post card and send for this book before you forget it. You'll be glad you did. Bureau of Navigation, Box 204, Navy department, Washington, D. C.

Grand Jurors Are Chosen From List in Judge Landis' Court.

Boycott on Meat Is Having Effect on Prices in Chicago Market.

Hard Fight on Cost of Living Is Being Made in New York City.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The action of the federal grand jury in the investigation of the methods employed by four big local meat packing companies was temporarily halted today. It was announced that some routine subjects will be disposed of first. It was explained that the changes had been made because the cases against the packers are of such grave importance it was deemed best that the members should familiarize themselves with the grand jury procedure before considering the evidence.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The work of preparing the case of the government against the four big meat packing concerns of this city to ascertain whether they have operated to control the prices of fresh meats was begun

GRAND FORKS CAR STRUCK BY TRAIN

Front End of Car Demolished, But None of Occupants Injured.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A street car crowded with people crashed into a Great Northern train in this city Sunday evening at 9:15 o'clock, fortunately without mishap to any of the passengers.

The front end of the street car was completely demolished. The train, which was just pulling out for Duluth, was not moving very rapidly. Motorman Hotk says that as he approached the track he put on the brakes, but that they slipped, the brake handle striking him in the stomach and hurling him backward and causing him to loose control of the car.

DEATH LIST IS CUT DOWN

Thirty-One Known to Have Perished in Wreck in Ontario.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 24.—Thirty-one dead, two missing and forty-six injured is the total toll of the Spanish River wreck. Both coaches have been raised and the dead removed. There may be a few bodies in the river, but this the officials are not inclined to admit.

It was at first believed that more than two-score had perished and some maintain that the list may yet be brought up to that figure. A revised list of the known dead follows:

Waterways Commissioners Make Report---Want Competition Under Control.

Would Make Traffic Basis of All Improvements---Cities to Share Cost.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Almost every section of the country will find subjects of local as well as of general interest in the preliminary report of the national waterways commission, submitted to congress today. The report is based upon a comprehensive investigation in this country and abroad, and will be followed by a subsequent report with recommendations.

This preliminary report recommends, among other things, a general plan of conservation of water power, with the shaping of projects in the light of future needs of streams; resort to federal and state legislation rather than to unnecessary channel improvement merely to enforce reduction of railroad freight rates to freeze out water competitions; a uniform system of distribution of cost of waterway improvement between federal, state and local governments; avoidance of multiplication of ports; restriction of dam construction permits; inauguration of such waterway projects only as can be completed within a reasonable time; federal tax on power furnished to con-

EVIDENCE FROM TWO CONTINENTS

Much Testimony Expected in Big Libel Suit Over Panama Articles.

New York, Jan. 24.—Two continents have been scoured for evidence and witnesses from far and near have been called by subpoenas to attend the trial of the government libel suit against the Press Publishing company, set for today in the United States circuit court here.

The defendant company, publishers of the World, is charged with libel in connection with stories printed during the last presidential campaign regarding the government's Panama purchase. Paris and Panama have been visited by commissions to investigate and secure evidence, and the defense is credited with the intention to summon various well-known men to give testimony, among them William Nelson Cromwell, Senator Root, Charles P. Taft and Henry W. Taft.

The government is insistent that the case be tried at once, but the defense was expected to ask for a further postponement.

THIRD GRAFT TRIAL BEGINS

Architect Huston Faces the Charge of Conspiracy to Defraud the State.

Fraud of $25,571 Is Alleged in Bill Rendered for $61,948.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 24.—The trial of Joseph H. M. Huston of Philadelphia, architect of the state capitol, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the commonwealth, began before Judge Kunkel in the Dauphin county court here today.

Huston is accused of conspiracy to defraud the state in certifying to the correctness of a bill for 292 desks supplied to the state capitol by John M. Sanderson, furniture contractor of Philadelphia. The indictment sets forth that a bill for $61,948 contained a fraud of $25,571.

Huston was the architect for the construction of the capitol and also was retained to design the furniture. Millions of dollars' worth of furniture, decorations and equipment were supplied and alleged frauds were discovered. The trial is the third to be held as a result of the expose.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.—More than 100 persons have been killed and many wounded as the result of religious conflicts which for two days have been waging in old Bokhara between the Sunnites and the Shiah. The Sunnites demand the replacement of the Shiah by Sunnites. At the request of the Bokhara authorities, Russian troops and machine guns have been sent from Samarkand to the scene of the fighting.

The officials of the Canadian Northern are en route from Winnipeg to the Toronto offices of the company, and according to the statement of President Mackenzie, simply dropped off at Duluth to look into some of the details of the negotiations that are being carried on here at the present time between the city and the representatives of Mackenzie and Mann.

Va., Jan. 24.—Ben Tate, a locomotive engineer, and Wade Gillespie, another railroad man, are dead as a result of a shooting affray which occurred at Keystone, McDowell county, last night. WILL BE SENT BACK TO SWEDEN

London, Jan. 24.—Prof. Martin Ekenburg, the Swedish scientist, who, on being arrested in London last fall charged with complicity in several bomb outrages in Sweden became temporarily insane, was committed today for extradition to Sweden.

Prof. Ekenburg is a resident of London, but was in Sweden last October when Ion Hammer, director of the Swedish Export association at Stockholm, was injured by a bomb received in his mail and when a similar attempt was made upon the life of a manufacturer of Gothenburg who was reputed to be unfriendly to the Society of the Young Socialists.

Upon his return to London, Ekenburg became the object of suspicion, and knowledge of the fact so distressed him that he broke down mentally and was removed to an asylum. Later the professor appeared to have recovered possession of his mental faculties, and he was removed to Brixton jail.

BILL AGAINST SYSTEM OF INDIAN BUYING PRESENTED

Miller Introduces Measure That Favors Jobbers of Duluth.

Abolition of Warehouse Scheme Seems Assured---Department Favors Move.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Representative Miller of Duluth today introduced a bill repealing the original statute establishing the warehouses used in connection with the purchase of supplies for the Indian service. The commissioner of Indian affairs is in hearty sympathy with this change of policy, and is arranging to purchase supplies as largely as possible in the localities in or near where the Indians live. He also has agreed to go over the specifications and modify them so as to relieve them as far as possible of certain objections which have been pointed out.

Duluth jobbers have a right to be pleased over the result of the agitation they started some six months ago. They were among the first to complain last summer against the method of obtaining supplies by the Indian department. For forty years warehouses have been maintained in various cities in the United States and all supplies sold had to be delivered to these warehouses. They were then shipped from the warehouses to the Indian territory.

Handicap for Duluth Men.

Thus, if a jobber wanted to bid on supplies for Indians in Minnesota, he had to figure on shipping the supplies to the warehouses at Chicago, whence they would come back through Duluth on their way to the Indians. The resulting handicap to the Duluth jobbers was severe, as it proved practically impossible for them to overcome these extra freight charges. The condition was the same for St. Paul and Minneapolis jobbers.

During many years the Indian department has been perfecting specifications to be used in bidding for Indian supplies. By a natural course, or some other cause, these specifica-

LIBERALS COMING UP

Government Now Has 302 Members As Against 219 for Opposition.

Lloyd-George Is Returned With Loss of 146 in His Majority.

London, Jan. 24.—The Liberals materially increased their score, according to today's returns from Saturday's elections for members of parliament. They retain fifteen seats previously held out of a total of seventeen contests. Of the other two seats, one went to a Unionist and the other to a Nationalist.

The position of the parties at this time is as follows: Government coalition: Liberals, 200; Laborites, 33; Nationalists, 69.

Opposition: Unionists, 219.

David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer and author of the budget which led to the general elections, was re-elected, but his majority was 146 less than in the last general elections.

In the Romford division of Essex, where the Liberals in the last election received a majority of 8,885, Sir J. H. Bethell, the Liberal candidate, secured re-election by only 1,957 in a total vote of 44,405.

Thirty Are Voting.

Thirty constituencies are electing members to the new house today. The same constituencies were represented in the last parliament by 16 Liberals, 8 Unionists, 2 Laborites and 4 Nationalists.

The gains of the respective parties in Saturday's elections complete remain as announced Sunday morning. They are: Unionists, 100; Liberals, 14; Laborites, 1.

FLOODS IN FRANCE COVER QUARTER OF THE COUNTRY

WOULD HAVE TAX HELD UP

Decision in Test Case May Not Be Made By March 1.

Corporation Levy Suit May Be Advanced and Oral Arguments Made.

Washington, Jan. 24.—In case of failure of the attempt to obtain a decision from the supreme court of the United States before March 1 as to the constitutionality of the corporation tax provisions of the Payne tariff act, congress may be asked to extend the date for the law becoming operative. March 1 is the date by which the return on the income of incorporations must be filed.

The suit in which the point arises, that of Stella P. Flint, as general guardian of the property of Samuel M. Stone, Jr., a minor, against the Stone-Tracy Company of Windsor, Vt., was decided in the lower court last Thursday. Much time probably will be required by attorneys to prepare briefs and arguments, and if the supreme court takes the usual recess of three weeks in February, a decision before March 1 is regarded as improbable.

Solicitor General Bowers today asked the supreme court for permission to submit oral arguments and briefs in the Vermont case. At the same time, Mr. Bowers asked that the case be advanced for an early hearing.

Seine Is Highest Since 1802 and Rain Still Is Falling.

Water Famine Threatening Paris---Many Cities Left in Darkness.

Chalons-Sur-Saons, Jan. 24.—The dyke at Saone Au Doubs broke this afternoon, inundating ten villages. The streets are under water and two persons have been drowned. Hundreds of persons are on the roofs of their nearly submerged homes, crying for help. Bonts are being used by the rescuers.

Paris, Jan. 24.—The flood situation in Paris reached a more critical stage this morning. The Seine registered 7.53 meters at Pont Royal. This is the highest the river has been since 1802, when it reached 8.8 meters, the highest point recorded in the history of France except in the year 1615.

The lower portion of Bois de Boulogne is a blanket of water reaching to Bagatelle, and judging from reports received today from the provinces, a quarter of France is under water.

A terrible tempest of wind and rain which broke over the city at daylight only adds to the horror of the situation and to the suffering of the poor and homeless.

Rain Drenching the People.

The river presents an awe-inspiring spectacle. A quarter of a million people in a drenching rain throng the stone parapets and quays, watching the yellow tide, which is crowded with driftwood, wine casks and other

The Law's Delay.

Carrington, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although he has been held in the Foster county jail already for over a month, Joe Slycord, charged with murder, is no nearer a hearing than before, so far as he knows. Delays have been occasioned from time to time for various reasons and it is now apparent that nothing can be done with his case until about Feb. 7 or 15. Should he be bound over at that time his trial will take place in March.

Has Singing Mania.

Foley, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he sets to music and sings all words he hears; also beating time with anything he is able to swing for that purpose, Charles Hadden Bisett, a Dakota homesteader, said to have considerable property, was adjudged insane before the judge of probate of Benton county and was sent to the state hospital here, on probation.

ACCIDENTS NUMEROUS

Coasting on West Duluth Is a Dangerous Sport.

Collisions Are Frequent on the Fifty-Ninth Avenue Hill.

Coasting and "bob-sliding" accidents, some of which are of a serious nature, are being reported daily at West Duluth. Many of them, it is claimed, could be prevented if there were some regulations placed as to where the coasters could slide.

A dangerous intersection is where the Fifty-ninth avenue west crosses the thoroughfare to Bayview Heights. At the present time most of the coasters use the Fifty-ninth avenue west hill but many slide down the other hill.

Last evening two sleds collided at the intersection of the streets and in the mixup that followed, a boy was knocked unconscious and a girl badly hurt. The names of the injured coasters were not learned.

A few days ago, Oscar Erickson, a West Duluth school boy, had three fingers smashed while coasting down one of the hills at West Duluth. Many people believe that some restrictions should be placed upon what hills should be used for coasting so as to prevent bad collisions.

Yesterday evening Isadore Abrahamson, 13 years old, the son of M. B. Abrahamson, of 606 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, sustained a fracture of the left leg while coasting down the Fifty-seventh avenue west hill. The accident happened when the boy was thrown from the sled as it collided with the curb.

GREAT WORK FOR NEWSBOYS

"Noodles" Left a Lasting Impression for Good, Says Pastor.

"'Noodles' Fagan is doing splendid work among the newsies. The Herald, through him, has given the little fellows of Duluth some pearls of thought that will increase in value and leave an indelible impression upon the child brain. And it will bear the marks, when it has developed into the mind of a man."

This is the way the Rev. D. G. Cole, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street characterized the work that is being done by "Noodles," the king of the newsboys, who, while in Duluth last week, told the local newsboys something about selling papers.

Rev. Mr. Cole preached his initial sermon last evening as the new pastor of the church. His topic was "Precious Pearls" and his text was taken from Matt. 13, 4-456. He said in part:

Pearls are a deep sea product and the search for them involves danger and calls for skill. The pearls of truth demand dilligent search before we find them.

"Many find it easy to find Christ, while still others are hindered in their search for Him through pride. But like a beautiful pearl. He is worth our possession.

"A truth seeking soul is a pearl seeker. A sincere search will reveal Christ, the pearl of great price." Speaking of the value of pearls, Rev. Mr. Cole said: "It is reported that the Emperor of Persia has some worth $550,000. Cleopatra's pearls were valued at $400,000. Phillip II of Spain owned a collection that in our money would amount to $720,000.

"Once I sat on the broad piazza of an Atlantic City hotel with a bishop worth $5,000,000 and who owned some valuable pearls. He took life with delicious ease, not fretting himself over the woes of mankind.

"About him, were hundreds of people seeking the pearls of truth, but he gave them not the slightest assistance. His wife owned fine diamonds, while he held the pearls. One day I asked him, why he never went to a chapel; not very far away. He replied that the mosquitos bothered him too much.

"Such men are a clog to the church and the pearl truth seekers stumble over them. Look to Christ.

"Pearls are rich, modest and beautiful ornaments for those who can own them. And yet true religion is an ornament that surpasses them all."

THE BRANCH IS POPULAR

Boat Club Members Are Enjoying Good Rabbit Hunting.

Yesterday a number of West Duluth people were at the clubhouse. In the party were a number of hunters, who were out for rabbits, which are plentiful.

Tigers Defeated.

FOR MUNICIPAL COLLECTION

Health Commissioner Sends Letter to Council on Garbage Question.

Dr. F. J. Patton, health commissioner, will send a letter to the council tonight on the garbage question. The letter will likely refer to the success of the experiment that was conducted last summer and fall and recommend that the city be divided into garbage districts. About thirty tons of garbage is taken from the commission houses weekly and eight or nine tons daily from the grocery stores in the central district. A great deal is also collected from hotels and quite an amount from residences. The municipal collection of garbage is declared to be a financial success and of vast benefit to the health of any community. The service is claimed to be regular and systematic. Proper wagons are also used. Under the old system it is stated that a thin stream of garbage continually leaked onto the streets, being offensive and unsightly.

SAYS FATAL FALL WAS ACCIDENTAL

Barney Cinnamon Tells Story of Miss Gaare's Death.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—"It was an accident, pure and simple, when Miss Gaare and I fell from the North bridge across the Red river," was the statement made this afternoon by Barney Cinnamon, pugilist, who has recovered sufficiently to talk of the tragedy of a week ago Sunday, when Miss Gaare was killed by a fall and he was so badly injured.

Cinnamon's statement was made this afternoon to Coroner Vincent and some newspaper men. Today was the first time that Cinnamon had been sufficiently lucid to talk.

Cinnamon stated that when he and Miss Gaare and the other young man and lady went over to Moorhead from Fargo, he told her a story about two people having fallen from the bridge. On their way back to Fargo after supper they resumed the conversation, and Miss Gaare said she wondered if she would be hurt if she fell. They commenced to tussle in fun, and became overbalanced. The ice on the bridge was slippery and both fell to the ice below. Cinnamon's recovery is now assured.

HEIKE PLEADS IMMUNITY BATH

Sugar Trust Official Seeks to Avoid Prosecution in Fraud Cases.

New York, Jan. 24.—Charles H. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, sought today to avoid prosecution for alleged underweight frauds on the claim of having taken an "immunity bath."

Heike was arraigned before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court with Ernest Gerbracht, former superintendent of the American Sugar Refining company, and the other sugar company officials indicted for conspiracy in connection with the extensive frauds on the company's Williamsburg docks. Heike's counsel presented a plea in abatement on the ground that his client had appeared on several occasions before the grand jury which was investigating the sugar frauds and therefore was entitled to immunity. The court took the plea under advisement.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by all the other defendants with the usual permission to change the plea or enter demurrers, the privilege to expire on Friday of this week.

TELLS MORE OF COST OF LIVING

Secretary Wilson Says Producers Get Little More Than Formerly.

Washington, Jan. 24.—"I am gathering proof which will show that American farm products are being sold cheaper abroad than they are in this country," declared Secretary of Agriculture Wilson today at the "high cost of living" hearing being conducted by a sub-committee of the house committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. Wilson gave strong evidence to show that the producer at the present time was getting little more than formerly for his food products, and that the ultimate consumer was paying an excessive price.

"Until comparatively recently the American people enjoyed the cheapest food in the world," continued Mr. Wilson, "but nowadays not enough people know how to farm profitably, know how to get enough out of a day's work, know how to make an acre respond. The lure of the factory has called the farmer from the plow."

SUICIDE CLAIMED HE HAD COMMITTED CRIME.

Negaunee, Mich., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Self destruction, while temporarily insane was the verdict of the coroner's jury that looked into the suicide of Swen Carlson, brother of a Duluth man who killed himself last week. In one of three letters found on his body, Carlson said he had committed a sin that could not be wiped out on earth and he took his life that the Almighty might pass judgment. He did not indicate the nature of the sin.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The fortifications appropriation bill was reported to the senate today. It carries $5,817,200, a net increase of $200,000 over the bill as passed by the house. The increase is for ammunition for sea coast cannon used in the insular possessions, making a total of $500,000 to be expended for that purpose. As reported the bill appropriates $2,332,911 less than is carried by the law for the current fiscal year.

SUIT AGAINST CITY OF DULUTH

David Cole Wants $1,000 for His Badly Barked Shins.

Claiming that through the negligence of the city he stepped into a coal hole on East Second street and badly bruised his legs, David Cole this morning began proceedings against the city for $1,000. The complaint in the action was filed with the clerk of the district court.

The accident, according to the complaint, happened on Feb. 24 last year, in front of the property known as 102 East Second street.

He alleges that the walk was constructed of wooden plank, and that the hole in question was constructed to serve as a coal chute. Cole claims to have stepped on the cover, which opened, allowing him to fall. He claims that as a result of the accident he was disabled for a period of two months.

ATTEMPTS TO RUSH TRUST CASE MAY SPOIL IT ALL

Suit Against St. Louis Terminal Association May Prove Futile.

Congressional Action May Have Destroyed Work It Sought to Help.

Washington, Jan 24.—Unable to get a decision from the courts as to whether it is right or wrong, the government now stands a good chance of witnessing one of its trust prosecutions die a natural death.

This unique case is the suit of the government against the Terminal Association of St. Louis and fourteen railroads, brought in the circuit court in St. Louis in 1905. The defendants were charged with combining for the purpose of controlling and restraining interstate commerce between the states of Missouri and Illinois and other states and foreign countries. A special examiner was appointed and much testimony taken by him.

Hurried Too Much.

Then, in an endeavor to expedite the suit, it is feared an anesthetic was administered from which the case may never recover entirely.

Under the act of congress of Feb. 11, 1903, entitled "An act to expedite the hearing and determination" of suits under the Sherman anti-trust act, the attorney general certified that the case was important. But that move failed in its purpose.

As required by that act, the suit was advanced and the four judges of the circuit court presided over the final hearing. There were so many judges they could not agree. Two were in favor of granting some relief to the government and two in favor of dismissing the bill.

On May 21, 1909, they handed down an order certifying the case to the supreme court of the United States for review, in accordance with the so-called "expediting act."

Circuit Court Yet to Act.

Today Solicitor General Bowers suggested to the court that it dismiss the certificate. He pointed out that in a recent opinion the court had held that any certification of an entire case without final judgment or decree or order determinative of the merits was an attempt to confer upon the court original jurisdiction.

What further action will be taken in the circuit court remains to be seen.

DEATH GIVES NO WARNING

Charles F. Langevin Falls Dead on Street Near His Home.

Charles F. Langevin, 42 years old, of 128 Sixth avenue west, dropped dead at Sixth avenue west and Second street yesterday morning on his way to church. He had scarcely gone 100 feet from his home when death overtook him. He left the house in apparently good health.

Mr. Langevin was a traveling salesman of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company and was highly thought of by his employers, with whom he has been for the last eight years. He expected to start for his territory in Montana and the West this week. During the Spanish-American war he was a member of Company I of Superior, and upon their return was elected captain. He saw active service in Cuba.

The funeral will take place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Sacred Heart Catholic church in Superior, under auspices of the Hector Swift camp, Spanish War Veterans. He is survived by a wife and two children, a brother, Joseph, living in St. Louis, Mo., and a sister in Superior. His parents live in North Dakota.

The body has been taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. George E. Dietrich of Superior, who resides at 2206 John avenue.

McAULEY HELD IN COAST CITY

Man Wanted in Duluth Is Arrested By Seattle Police.

Angus D. McAuley, indicted by the grand jury last fall for deserting his children, is being detained by the authorities in Seattle awaiting the arrival of the Duluth police with a warrant.

It was believed he would return without extradition, as the tone of letters received in this city indicated that he had repented of his act and wanted to come back to face the charges against him. It is now said he will fight extradition and Deputy Sheriff Frank Magle will take papers to the coast for him. McAuley was well known in West Duluth, where he was superintendent in one of the large manufacturing plants.

He was arrested last summer with a Mrs. Cane in Superior hotel on a serious charge, but as the families of neither would prosecute them, they were released. McAuley left for the coast shortly after and sent a ticket to Mrs. Cane, who followed him, it is claimed.

HEINZE TRIAL IS SET FOR MARCH

Copper King Loses One Point and Wins Another in Pending Cases.

New York, Jan. 24.—F. A. Heinze lost one point and gained another today in connection with the pending charges against him for alleged misapplication of bank funds.

Judge Hough in the United States circuit court denied the application of the former "copper king" for an order enjoining the government from obtaining further indictments on the charge, following the recent quashing of one of the indictments previously found. District Attorney Wise announced he would make further presentments to the grand jury in the case.

The court then decided that Heinze must be brought to trial on the two indictments still pending. The date for the trial was set for March 3.

Acid Dyspepsia

Nervous People Are Frequent Sufferers From Too Much Hydrochloric Acid in the Stomach.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

"Sour stomach," or acid dyspepsia is a form of indigestion in which entirely too much hydrochloric acid is secreted by the stomach. A sour taste in the mouth is the most common symptom of acid dyspepsia; and the saliva, which is normally alkaline, is found, when tested, to be changed to acid, or just the opposite to what it should be, and is a state of the secretion which causes rapid and extensive destruction of the teeth.

Everything eaten turns more or less sour in the stomach, but sweets and acid fruits are far worse in this respect than other foods. If the eructations of liquids from the stomach occurs, they have such an extremely sour taste as to set the teeth on edge.

Hydrochloric acid is an important constituent in the gastric juice, but when too much of it is secreted, it does positive harm to the mucous lining of the stomach; and when acid dyspepsia is long continued it often sets up chronic gastritis, gastric ulcer, and other serious diseases. The process mature loss of all the teeth has been caused by acid saliva, which was dependent upon the excessively acid condition of the stomach.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS, besides furnishing pure, aseptic pepsin to the stomach to dilute the excess of hydrochloric acid, and to digest proteids and albuminous foods very thoroughly, also contain bismuth subnitrate and calcium carbonate, which are antagonistic to the acid, and therefore neutralize the effect of the excessive amount of acid in the stomach, and the continued use of these tablets will change the perverted condition of the secretions to a normal state.

If you are suffering from "hyperchlor-hydria," as physicians term it, or in other words, acid dyspepsia, and experience a sour taste in the mouth, with acid eructations or heartburn, begin at once the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, using one or two after each meal, or as may be required and the same quantity at retiring time, for if this trouble is allowed to run on, it may cause serious organic changes in the stomach. There are cases on record where the lining of the stomach has been completely eaten away through perverted action of the secretions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been tried in all forms of indigestion and dyspepsia, with unfailing success, so that no matter which form you may be suffering from, the quickest way to bring about a cure is through the use of these powerful stomach tablets.

Secure from your druggist a fifty-cent box, and get cured of acid dyspepsia, or whatever form of indigestion you may be suffering. Also send us your name and address for free sample. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

RUN DOWN BY AN ORE TRAIN

Minard Bennett Asks $25,000 Damages Against the Great Northern.

Claims That the Railroad Yards Were Very Poorly Lighted.

The trial of the case of Minard Bennett against the Great Northern Railway company for $25,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained while working in the company's yards at Superior during September of last year, was begun before Judge Cant of the district court this morning.

Bennett claims that on the evening of Sept. 5 he was crossing the tracks of the company when he was run down by an ore train which was being backed up through the yards. He claims that the yards were not properly lighted, and that although he stopped to listen, there was so much noise that it was impossible to tell where the trains were running, and so dark that they could not be seen approaching. He alleges also that there was no visible light on the train which ran him down.

As a result of the accident his right foot had to be amputated. He now claims to be totally unfit for work. Previous to the accident he was in the employ of the company as a fireman.

Bennett says that he had a right to be on the property of the company, as he was at the time of the accident employed there. He asks $25,000 damages.

WEPT AND KEPT THE MEN AWAKE

Information of Insanity Filed Against Charles Autilla of Virginia.

A petition of insanity was this morning filed with the judge of the probate court against Charles Autilla of Virginia, who is said to weep nearly almost constantly and display other signs of insanity. Autilla is of Finnish descent and is 36 years old. He shows no disposition to harm people, but his crying kept the men awake in the lumber camp north of Virginia where he worked. During the few minutes in the day that he is not sobbing aloud, he cries out in a jubilant manner as though very happy over the sudden turn of circumstances—circumstances which he never attempts to explain.

William Walton, who lives in Duluth, has had information field against him by his wife, Lena Walton. Walton is also of Finnish descent and is supposed to have lost his mind from constant reading.

tions have become so extremely specialized that the required goods can be furnished by only a very limited number of firms.

Will be Discontinued.

Mr. Miller is a member of the committee on Indian affairs of the house, and the chairman of the committee requested Mr. Miller to make a thorough investigation, that appropriate legislation might follow. As a result the warehouses are to be discontinued. These warehouses are not provided for in the appropriation bill reported from the Indian committee this morning, and they will therefore be closed up.

Skill Not Strength.

The carving knife must be very sharp, not heavy, and should be held firmly in the hand. The dish should not be too far from the carver, who should always accustom himself to the work when sitting.

Remember that the middle part of a fish is generally the best and in helping it avoid breaking the flakes, for that will give a mangled appearance. In carving, never send anybody the outside piece unless you know he prefers it. Remember that all carving, even of poultry and birds, depends more on skill than on strength. By observing quietly you can easily acquire a knowledge of joints and of the process of carving, which a little daily practice will speedily convert into dexterity at first arranging a plate never put one piece of meat on another, but side by side.

HAUSFRAU A MYTH

Is Opinion of Observing American Woman.

"I believe that the typical German hausfrau is a myth," said a New York woman, who returned the other day from a year's residence in Germany, relates the New York Sun. "I don't see how the average German woman finds any time to be a hausfrau. I sometimes wondered when the German woman found time to do anything at home.

"I spent eight months in Berlin, with my daughter, who was studying music. From 1 to 12 in the morning the cafes were packed with German women, who go out to take their second breakfast in the public restaurants, a thing unknown in America.

"They take along their sewing or embroidery and sit an hour or two over their cup of coffee or glass of beer. At the concerts, too, they take their work and spend hours day after day listening to the music. You can spend an afternoon listening to beautiful music, a magnificent orchestra with fine vocal artists for 16 cents. That is an illustration of the things that help to exile Americans.

"At 3 in the afternoon again you will see the cafes crowded with German women taking their afternoon tea. I think American women are more domestic than German, because I never heard of American women who left their homes in the evening to pass the time at the club. A German friend took me one evening to the German Women's club. The club has a magnificent suite of apartments, including auditorium, reading room, parlor, cafe and smoking room.

"When she took me into the last apartment it almost fazed me for a minute. It was blue with smoke. I had never before seen a room filled with elegantly gowned, cultivated women all smoking. These were the wealthy society women of Berlin, titled some of them.

"They were cosmopolitan in their dress and manners and did not present any striking points of difference from the American woman, except in the smoking. It made the occurrence of last summer, when our immigration officials detained a second-class passenger, a woman art dealer, for inquiry into her sanity because she smoked cigarettes, appear very funny in retrospect.

"The German women's clubs, like those of the English women, are based on the same principle as men's clubs; these are places for social enjoyment and for the convenience of members in taking meals, entertaining friends and so on. They do not take up work in study, philanthrophy, reform and so on, like the women's clubs in America.

"But along some lines the German women have done more than the American. There is a working girls' club in Berlin with 13,000 members. Its object is to maintain sick benefits and an employment bureau to secure better pay and shorter hours and otherwise to better the conditions of the members. It is, in fact, nothing but a labor union, but it was organzed and befriended by women of the highest social standing, some of them women of the nobility."

THE EVENING STORY

A BUNCH OF CATNIP

By Emma Bennett Mahon.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

There was to be a circus in town, the first circus of the season. Bob had seen the posters on the billboards, and came home brimming with excitement and never left off talking about the coming show all through dinner. I said I thought it would be nice to go, too, and finally Aunt Jennie looked across the table at us and said:

"Well, I'll take you to it, children. It will be all right, will it, Henry?" she added, turning to papa. Papa had been looking over the letters that had come during the day and hadn't heard a word, and had to have the whole thing explained to him. Then he astonished us by answering promptly:

"I should think it rather awkward for you to go alone with them, Jane, but if they have set their hearts upon it, why, I'll go along."

Aunt Jennie murmured something about it being quite unnecessary, and too bad to take him away from his business, and then dinner was over and Bob and I could hardly wait for the next afternoon, when the show was to come off.

Aunt Jennie, you know, is mamma's sister. She has always lived with us. She is not pretty and gay like dear mamma was. Dear, beautiful mamma! It is almost three years since she went away from us. Oh, it was dreadful at first. Aunt Jennie had always taken care of us, but how proud we were when mamma would come in in her beautiful ball gown and kiss us good night. It was something to dream about. I remember one night papa asked Aunt Jennie if she didn't wish she was going along, and she said: "Mercy, no, Henry. What would I do at a ball?"

Well, after mamma died papa grew grave and cross and rarely spoke. Only Aunt Jennie seemed the same, and it did seem as if she played more games with us and made little picnics and took us out more even than she did when mamma was alive. Papa would sit through dinner and not say a word, and at night when we would go into the library to say good night, he would murmur: "Poor motherless children!" till Bob said one night, trying to cheer him up: "But we've got Aunt Jennie, you know," and papa never said it after that. But we were surprised when, all of a sudden, he up and said he would go to the circus.

Well, the day got there at last, and just as we were ready to start, sure enough, papa got home from the office, and away we all went together. You know how a circus is most always in some out of the way place, particularly in a city where vacant lots aren't very plenty. We had to walk quite a way after leaving the car, and as we were crossing the end of a big field, in the corner of an old stone wall, Aunt Jennie discovered a bunch of green catnip. "Oh, I must take it home to Silvertoes," she exclaimed. Silvertoes is our big Maltese cat, you know.

"Oh, Aunt Jennie, are you going to carry that old stuff all around with us?" I asked.

"It's so hard to get it nice and fresh, dear," she said, "and I don't mind carrying it a bit." And papa actually smiled and said:

"Always thinking of someone besides yourself, Jane."

And Aunt Jennie just buried her nose in the catnip and didn't look up.

We finally got to the circus ground, and, after we had been all around and looked at the animals, we came into the tent where the performance was to be given, and papa got reserved seats for us all. They were pretty close down to the ground, for we were a little late and all of the really best seats were taken.

Well, it was a grand show! Bob and I always say that, no matter what happened after. Oh, there was such splendid riding, and a beautiful lady, all in white and gold, who jumped through hoops, and an Indian juggler who swallowed swords and pulled yards and yards of ribbon out of his mouth, and a man who "looped the loop" on a bicycle and made you just hold your breath. Oh, I couldn't begin to tell you all the wonderful things there were.

Finally, a keeper brought a big lion out into the ring and made it jump over the horses' backs and through hoops and do all sorts of tricks, when all of a sudden—I guess nobody ever knew what happened—the lion got sulky and wouldn't jump any more, and the keeper raised his whip to strike it, and it gave the most frightful roar and sprang at his throat. The man jumped aside, but the lion kept straight on, out of the ring and over the little strip of ground between us and it.

Oh, it was awful! For a moment you could hear a pin drop. Everyboy sat straight and rigid in his seat, and then the air was suddenly filled with the most dreadful shrieks and groans, and people were rushing in every direction, climbing over the seats and one another, knocking one another down and trampling on each other, and the lion came right on, its white belly crouching close to the ground and its eyes blazing. It seemed headed straight to our seats. I heard papa say, in a low, set tone, that sounded ever and ever so far away:

"My God!"

And then Aunt Jennie got hold of my hand and pulled me up onto my feet and turned to him and said, just as she tells Bob and me to do things:

"Henry, you must save the children."

Papa seemed to wake up then, and grabbed hold of us both and began dragging us along over seats and people. Oh, it was awful, and I never want to go to another circus as long as I live!

I was crying: "Aunt Jennie! Aunt Jennie!" for I never knew until that moment how much I loved her, and for a moment I tried to hang back and glance over the crowd to see where she was standing.

What I saw made me almost faint. I held my breath and waited. She was standing quite alone, for the people all about her had run away, and the lion was close at her feet.

Then, before I could even cry out, something wonderful happened. The lion suddenly lay right down on the ground in front of her and began rolling over and over, pawing the air like a kitten or a little puppy, only it was so big and clumsy.

It was all as still now as it had been noisy before. Everyone waited and held his breath, while several of the keepers crept slowly up from behind with spikes and bars, and, almost before we knew it, they had driven the lion back across the ring and had him safe behind the bars of his cage.

When it was all over the people crowded about Aunt Jennie, so that papa and Bob and I had to squeeze through the crowd to get to her, and then we hugged and kissed her as if we never would leave off; yes, and papa kissed her, too, and then papa said in a choked kind of voice:

"I thank God, but I can't understand it yet, dear. Is it another case of Daniel in the lion's den?"

And Aunt Jennie laughed with her eyes full of tears.

"No, Henry, it was the bunch of catnip. The lion got it instead of Silvertoes."

Papa explained it all to us afterward, how the lions and the tigers and cats are all of one family, and the old lion was just as crazy over catnip as our pussy cat is. Then papa hemmed and hawed a little, and got very red in the face, and said:

"And, children, I trust, after all she has done for us, it will please you to know that Aunt Jennie has promised to make me very happy by filling your own, dear mamma's place."

And wasn't it dreadful, Bob set up a shout:

"Hurrah for the lion tamer."

THOMAS RILEY HOLDS OFFICE

Judge Cant Decides Itasca Sheriff's Case in His Favor.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most long drawn-out contest over a public office in the history of Itasca county has passed the first and most important stage. Judge Cant of Duluth, who heard the mass of testimony offered in the contest of George Riddell against Thomas Riley for the office of sheriff has decided in favor of Riley, who has been holding the office since he was declared elected by the canvassing board at the last election in 1908.

It is expected that Riddell will appeal and the term will probably have been served by Mr. Riley before the supreme court rules upon the subject.

The precincts of Sand Lake, Crooked Lake and Marble Creek No 2 were thrown out on account of irregularity in voting and the precincts of Deer Lake, Frazer, Girard, Pokegama and Shingaba were rejected in the counting because they were unorganized. The total vote with the precincts named stands: Riley, 1,511; Riddell, 1,462.

EVELETH DUMMY ROBBED.

Sneak Thief Takes Coat Standing in Front of Clothing Store.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A daring theft occurred Saturday afternoon in broad daylight when an unknown culprit hastily snatched an overcoat from a dummy in front of Wilk's clothing store, and running down Grant avenue, the main thoroughfare of the town, easily made his escape. The police were immediately notified of the theft, but no trace of the robber had been secured. It is thought the culprit was a stranger in this city.

HIBBING'S NEW THEATER.

Another Range Playhouse to Be Opened About Feb. 1

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that Hibbing's new playhouse erected by John A. Healy of Hibbing and J. A. Burrichter of St. Paul and local subscribers at a cost of about $60,000 will be opened about Feb. 1.

It will be one of the handsomest small theaters in the state. All that now remains to be done is the decorating, seating and installing of the marbles and finishing woods. The decorators have promised to be out of the building not later than next Wednesday. The seats are here and will be installed at once when the decorators are through. The marble and finishing woods are also on the ground. If the theater can be finished by Jan. 31, Eddy Foy may open it, but the opening date will probably be a few days later, possibly Feb. 3.

Hibbing has long been without adequate theater accommodations and the completion of the beautiful new building is much looked forward to by theater-goers here.

Tried on Cruelty Charge.

Eveleth Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. Siegel, recently arrested for cruelty to his animals, and who is at present out on bail will be tried today before Judge Prince. Many strong witnesses against the defendant have been secured.

BIG STEEL SKI SLIDE IN PLACE

Coleraine and Bovey Ready for National Ski Tournament Feb. 19-20.

Coleraine, Minn. Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the supervision of Supt. Wesner the big steel ski slide purchased in the East has been hauled to the ski grounds over the hill and all week men employed by the American Bridge company were busy placing it in position so that it is practically in readiness for the big national ski tournament next month.

The steel as received was found to be designed to be erected on level ground and as there is a hollow on top of the hill where the foundation had been erected, it was found necessary, in order to have the slide proper height, to build an extension of twelve feet to each of the rear piers. This work was done by a number of employes of the machine shops who volunteered to assist in getting the work started.

The price paid for the steel was $1,400, all of which was donated by business people of Coleraine and Bovey and other parties who have taken interest in making the national ski tournament on Trout Lake on Feb. 19 and 20, a success. Among the several donations made, that have not as yet been mentioned, are those of G. S. Bolton of the Coleraine Lumber company and King Lumber company, who donated cement for the foundation of the slide. Hans Nelson and Ed. Chamberlain built the foundation free of charge, which also helped to defray the expense of construction.

CHIEF ENGINEER TO LEAVE FAYAL

Merton Kingston Accepts Position With the University of Minnesota.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Merton H. Kingston, chief engineer of the Fayal district mines, has accepted a position offered by the University of Michigan, to assist in the instruction of mining pupils in the school of mines, who are to pursue the vocations on the range. Mr. Kingston and wife will leave for Minneapolis the latter part of this week to commence his new duties about Feb. 1.

Mr. Kingston is a native of Tower, and first visited the local mines about seven years ago, at which time he was attending the school of mines at the Minnesota university. It was during his vacation that he first received any actual mining experience, he working as a common miner underground. He completed his university course in 1904, and then came upon the Mesaba range, where he has been employed by the Oliver Mining company since. For two seasons he was connected with the Wallace Contracting company as superintendent of stripping operations. Last April he became chief engineer of the Fayal district.

He will be succeeded here as chief engineer of the Fayal district mines by E. S. O'Connor, present engineer at the Gilbert mine. Mr. O'Connor is also a graduate of the Minnesota university school of mines, having completed his course in 1906.

VIRGINIA'S CITY HALL NEAR BLAZE

Prompt Action Prevents Destruction of a Fine Building.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's city hall building escaped what might have proved a disastrous fire Sunday morning, had it not been for the timely appearance of Louis Masson, superintendent of construction of the new court quarters' addition and Deputy Sheriff W. H. Oppel and Owen Gately, who put out the incipient blaze.

The fire started from a cloth which had been wound around one of the electric light chandeliers, having been placed there by one of the painters to keep the chandeliers free from paint. Saturday night the painter forgot to remove the cloth and during the early hours of Sunday morning, someone switched on the lights. The heat from the electric light ignited the cloth, particles of which dropped to the floor beneath where there was a considerable amount of shavings and refuse.

The electric light hung above the unfinished portion of the stairway, which will eventually lead from the jail quarters to the court room above and had the fire gotten started there, it would have been a difficult matter to manage it. The three men discovered the fire at about the same time, having entered the new apartmnts for the purpose of inspecting the work in progress when smoke was discovered coming from the open stairway, and they very quickly extinguished the blaze.

SUICIDE HAS NOT BEEN IDENTIFIED

No Developments in Case of Man Found Hanging Near Hibbing Friday.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police and Deputy Coroner Butchart are still without knowledge as to the identity of the unknown man found hanging Friday to the root of an uptumed tree, about one mile north of Hibbing and 300 feet east of the Winnifred mine, with every indication of suicide. The body is being held at a local morgue in the hope that something may be learned as to its identity, as there was nothing about it to aid in identification.

The man, evidently a foreigner, had hanged himself with one of his suspenders. He had apparently climbed onto the trunk of the prostrate tree, walked to the end where the root stuck up in the air, fastened his suspender around the root and his neck and jumped to his death.

WASTE CAUSES FIRE.

Bovey Lighting Plant Out of Commission for Short Time.

Bovey, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A small bunch of waste put Bovey in darkness Thursday evening. This bunch of waste, no larger than a lady's thimble, blew on to an oil ring which fed to the fly wheel on the engine which runs the dynamo. This was not dangerous of itself, but in time the contents of the oil well were scattered on the floor and the engine then ran hot. It was necessary to shut down the lights to remove the waste.

The interior of the city water plant has been recently decorated with a steel ceiling and sides laid in pleasing patterns, which adds greatly to the appearance of the place. Some changes in the wiring have been made and a great deal of work has been done, looking toward a better plant.

Men and teams have been busy in filling the Betts & Mitchell icehouse on Third avenue. The ice is from two feet to twenty-six inches in thickness and the cakes they are storing weigh nearly 500 pounds each. The ice comes from Buckeye lake and is hauled on sleds, the sleighing being fine.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hearing of William La Branch, charged with soliciting in connection with his wife, was held before Judge Carey in municipal court Saturday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty and was placed under $500 bonds to appear for hearing today. Mrs. La Branch being discharged. La Branch being unable to furnish bonds, he was remanded to the city jail. At the hearing La Branch stated that if he did any soliciting for his wife he did not remember it.

Aurora Rummage Sale.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Espiscopal church is contemplating giving a rummage sale in the near future. It is expected that the sale will be given about Feb. 15. The ladies each year contract to raise the sum of $200 towards paying off the church debt, which amounts to $800. The aid has paid its $200 for last year and at the next meeting of the church trustees will go on record for another $200. The sum is realized by giving suppers every two weeks and by sales, etc., and has been very successful in its efforts so far.

LIKE OUTDOOR SPORTS.

Young Women of Aurora Find Skiing Very Popular.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school teachers and other young women of Aurora have become greatly interested in skiing and almost every evening they can be seen going to the neighboring locations on their skiis. They have also organized two bowling teams and on ladies' day at the local bowling alley are busily practicing, some of them making good scores. In the near future a bowling contest will take place between the teachers of the downstairs rooms and those of the upstairs rooms. Sunday a number of the teachers drove to Mesaba and spent the day with Miss Friedham, teacher of that school.

Friends of Man Arrested at Coleraine Get Themselves Into Trouble.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two friends of Joe Petrovich, an Austrian arrested last Tuesday for disturbing the peace are facing a serious charge—that of filing handcuffs from Petrovich's hands after he had been manacled and left at a camp near here by officers sent out to arrest Petrovich and another Austrian named Mele Dredrovitch, wanted for disturbing the peace. Instead of staying in the camp where the officers left him, Petrovich went to a boarding house at Taconite, where his two friends filed off the handcuffs. The three were placed under arrest and held in $250 bonds pending a hearing.

BACKUS IN RACE.

Prominent Young Business Man to Contest With Mayor Hawkinson.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Hawkinson will not have the field to himself in his campaign for re-election. Joseph Backus, a prominent young business man has filed for the nomination.

Mr. Backus' entry into the race has stirred up interest in the campaign. Nine aldermen are to be elected as well as municipal judge. There are plenty of candidates for the various offices outside of mayor and it is expected the campaign will be lively from now on.

IRWIN WILL LEAVE EVELETH ON FEB. 1.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard W. Irwin, general manager of the Home Heating & Electric company, returned recently from Proctor, where he accepted the position as general superintendent of instruction over the motormen concity offices of the National Packing company and Armour & Co. it was said that no subpoenas had been served.

Will Stay With Them.

Every possible effort to avoid the spectacular in serving the subpoenas throughout the case will be made by United States District Attorney Sims, according to announcement made today. In many cases the subpoenas will be served by a secret service operative, it is said, and he will remain with the witness from the time of the serving of the subpoena until the witness has completed testifying before the federal grand jury.

The packers are ready for the fight. "We've got to say," said J. Ogden Armour, "is that such co-operation as may exist among the packers is a benefit to the public rather than the reverse."

Three lines of action have been outlined. These are: Criminal prosecution for alleged violation of the anti-trust law; civil action for the dissolution of the National Packing company, and contempt proceedings for alleged violation of Judge Grosscup's injunction restraining packers from fixing prices in restraint of trade.

Practically all of the evidence gathered by the government in a previous investigation, it is said, has been abandoned and entirely new data will be utilized.

Prices Are Affected.

The widespread agitation against the high prices of meat made itself felt here today when pork declined 67½ to 77½ from Saturday's closing figures. Other products also declined but to a lesser degree. For January delivery, pork broke from $20.90—the closing quotations of Saturday—to $20.12½. within the first hour of trading. The May option sold off from $21.25 to $20.50 and the July delivery from $21.25 to $20.57½.

Big Fight in New York.

New York, Jan. 24.—New York today is in the thick of the fray for a reduction in the cost of living.

A grand jury investigation into the meat question is pending, a prosecutor's inquiry into the cold storage situation has been begun, meetings in protest against high prices for food products have been called and pledges of abstention from meat are being numerously signed. The city thus gives ample evidences of deep-seated interest in helping find some solution of a problem which has aroused practically the entire country to action.

Milk Inquiry Is On.

Inquiry to determine whether New Yorkers are paying 9 cents a quart for milk because the price was arbitrarily fixed at that figure by a combine greedy for bigger profits, was begun by the grand jury today.

In addition there have been recent complaints that a quart milk bottle is that in name only and not in fact, in many instances. This is expected to play a considerable part in the inquiry now beginning.

Merchants May Take It Up.

Washington, Jan. 24.—While the principal matters to occupy the attention of the country's representative merchants at the two days' session of the fortieth annual meeting of the National Board of Trade, which will begin its conference here tomorrow, are the discussion of the needs of legislative measures in the interest of the commercial portion of the country, there is little doubt that a live topic during the meeting will be the high cost of living.

Boycott in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24.—The first organized stand in Minneapolis against the high price of meat was taken when more than 500 men employed in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul car shops in South Minneapolis, met and resolved that they would eat no meat until the price of the commodity is put within the reach of the average workingmen.

P. L. Rhine, foreman in the repair shops, met with the men and assured them that he was with them in the effort to force the price of meat down.

FAYAL COUPLE WEDDED.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Vranicer and Josephine Pater were married Saturday by Father Bilban in the Holy Family church with relatives and friends in attendance. Anton Slovonich acted as best man while Miss Angela Grobtan assisted the bride.

After the ceremonies the couple and friends repaired to the groom's residence, where dancing and feasting occurred. The groom is employed in the Fayal location, while the bride is well known.

EVELETH NOTES.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 24.—Special to The Herald.)—Father Bilban of Holy Family church was in Duluth yesterday afternoon, where he baptised the young child of Supt. A. J. Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan. Many friends of the Sullivans were present at the ceremonies.

The official opening of the Elks' hall, which was to have occurred Saturday evening, was indefinitely postponed because of the inability of Northern District Deputy McPhee of Crookston, Minn., to be present.

AURORA ELECTION WILL BE LIVE ONE.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village election to be held in March already is awakening interest and there is no doubt but that it will be a hot one. There will be two tickets in the field, although the candidates have not announced themselves yet. Of the present officers Trustee Darrow and President Olson have announced that they will not be in the race again. President Olson is now serving his third term and Trustee Darrow his first.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — The young people's dancing club recently organized gave a very successful dancing party Friday night in the old K. P. hall. The club gives a dance every two weeks and they are well attended. Enough money has been subscribed by the members to give dances until early spring.

wreckage rushing seaward. The water is almost flush with the arches of the bridges.

Firemen, police and troops are working like mad at all the bridges, disentangling blockades, resulting from the floating debris, and it is hoped that all the bridges will be saved. Traffic on several of the trailer bridges, however, has been stopped.

The streets around the chamber of deputies are considered unsafe and all traffic in these thoroughfares has been forbidden.

The tunnel between the Quai d'Orsay and the Quai d'Austerlitz stations is a rushing stream. The basement of the Palais de Justice is full of water, and the first floor of the Central police station is untenable.

Water Famine Threatened.

The partial crippling of the water supply threatens the capital with a water famine. The police are making a house to house canvass, notifying the inhabitants to boil all water used for drinking purposes and thereby avoid the danger of a typhoid epidemic.

The surface and underground railways, which barely are sufficient under normal conditions to cope with the traffic, remain partially suspended, although no worse today than yesterday. Railroad traffic, however, is utterly demoralized and is completely suspended to the southward of Paris.

The situation at suburban places, up and down the river, is deplorable. The lower quarters of all the towns on the river below Paris are under water, the streets of Auteuil resembling those of Venice.

A dyke near St. Germain broke today, flooding the valley as far as Malmaison.

Cities Are in Darkness.

The Eastern, Central and Southern districts of France are terribly afflicted. The valleys and plains are inundated, and the cities and towns are in darkness. Troops everywhere have been ordered to the work of rescue, but often they encounter the greatest difficulty in driving the peasants to places of safety.

The water in many of the villages along the Saone and the Marne reaches to the roofs of the dwellings.

At Verdun-sur-le-Doubs, a small town, eleven miles from Chalons-sur-Saone, the protecting dyke is breaking, and the town is threatened with destruction.

Factories and mills have stopped work in the Mooure valley. Great damage has been done to the beautiful French places. The Garonne and Dordogne rivers are rising rapidly. The village of Carnac is surrounded by a lake.

The rivers Rhone and Loire are falling in the lower reaches. The situation is greatly improved at Lyons, Limerges, Troyes, Annecy and Auxerre.

It is impossible to estimate the property loss as a result of the floods, but it will run into millions of francs. Fortunately the loss of life has been small.

Switzerland Is Suffering.

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 24.—Immense damage has been caused by floods in Switzerland. A dozen avalanches have occurred in which several chalets were engulfed.

in earnest in the United States district court today before Judge K. M. Landis.

A special venire of jurors appeared before Judge Landis, from which twenty-three men were to be chosen to compose the grand jury to hear the evidence against the packers. The firms against which the government will proceed are:

Swift & Co., Armour & Co., and Morris & Co., who it is alleged control the National Packing company, for their common benefits.

Early today deputy United States marshals were started out with more than a score of subpoenaes and writs to bring before the grand jury employes and books of the concerns involved.

Witnesses' Names Guarded.

Every precaution was taken to keep the identity of witnesses secret. A large number of secret service operatives apparently have been brought here from other cities, and it is believed that they will be used in serving subpoenas as well as supplying evidence gathered during the investigation. Only two subpoenas were turned over to United States Marshal T. Hoy today. Mr. Hoy refused to give any information concerning the identity of the persons to whom the subpoenas were to be served. "CANADIAN NORTHERN MAY NOT COME AT ALL," SAYS PRESIDENT MACKENZIE ON ARRIVAL HERE zie might be classed as a veiled threat. It was a hit at the conditions the city is endeavoring to secure in the franchise of the Canadian Northern.

Right after this veiled statement of the head of the Canadian Northern, he was informed that the people of Duluth were exceedingly anxious to see the Canadian Northern build into Duluth.

"Is that the reason so many objections are placed in our way?" came the instant rejoinder.

Want Fair Conditions.

"We want to secure conditions that are fair and just," said Mr. Mackenzie. "We have not determined our course as yet. I am but little acquainted with the local details of the negotiations. We are disposed to be fair and also want to secure fair conditions from the city. When will we come here? It is very indefinite. We may not come at all. I would rather not make any definite statement at the present time."

Though President Mackenzie did not say in direct words that he was dissatisfied with the demands being made by the city from the Canadian Northern, his manner nearly indicated that he was. His statement, also, that "the Canadian Northern might not come at all," was a half threat of what might be expected.

"We are going to construct about 600 miles of railroad in Canada this year," said President Mackenzie, in answer to the question as the plans of the Canadian Northern on the other side of the boundary line.

"Plans have just been completed for the construction on the extension clear through to Vancouver. This is a most important work. It will be a big feat of engineering, as some of the road will lie direct through the mountains."

A most important question, and one that holds a great deal of interest to local shippers, as well as to the officials of the Missabe railway is whether the Canadian Northern is simply going to have a lumber and ore terminal at Forty-seventh avenue west, and use the Missabe for passenger and merchandise business, or whether the Canadian Northern will run right into the city over some other rails, coming into the union depot.

This question was put to President Mackenzie.

His answer was very simple: "I don't know; have not the least idea." Mr. Mackenzie professed to be but little informed of the details of the local situation, or as to what policy the officials of the company were ready to adopt in the case. He simply let it be understood that he was not entirely satisfied with some of the terms demanded by the city.

President Mackenzie and Mr. Hanna will leave for Chicago at 5:15 this afternoon over the Northwestern. A conference may be arranged this afternoon with some of the city officials.

This morning the Canadian Northern officials went to West Duluth in Col. Davidson's automobile and looked over the prospective site of the Canadian Northern terminals. Later a conference was held in the law office of Washburn, Bailey & Itchell, local representatives of the Canadian Northern company, in the present negotiations.

TELL RESULT OF JUCKET

sumers; reservation by the government of power to alter or repeal such rights.

No Right to Water Tolls.

The commission holds that the Federal government has no proprietary right or interest in navigable waters which would authorize the collection of tolls. It believes that each consent to construct a dam should provide that the grantee, whenever necessary to subserve navigation interests, must construct and furnish power for a lock suited to the locality and to probable traffic development. Such requirements are claimed to be free from legal objections which might be maintained against a system of tolls.

Power development at government dams for navigation or irrigation purposes should be utilized and adequately charged for. The commission recommends that before the granting of rights to construct dams in any navigable stream, the whole stream, or at least such part as will be affected by the construction, should be carefully surveyed, that if constitutional authority therefor exists, these grants should authorize the secretary of war or other officials to regulate the charge for the power furnished consumers, and should expressly reserve to congress the right to alter, amend or repeal.

Paying Basis the Criterion.

While not denying the tendency of river improvements to lower railroad rates, the commission holds it undesirable to expend money upon river channels solely for this effect. The fundamental criterion, it says, should be whether a railway or waterway, when constructed or improved, will be a profitable investment.

Pointing out that the railways have temporarily reduced rates and continued them on a lower basis until competing water lines have been driven out of business, the commission recommends that when a rate is once thus reduced by a railroad, it should not be permitted to raise it again unless, after hearing by the interstate commerce commission or other competent body, it should be found that such proposed increases rest upon strong conditions other than elimination or decrease of water competition.

The most essential requirement for the rehabilitation of water traffic is asserted to be the establishment of harmonious relations between railways and water lines. In practically every case of water routes, the boats are operated, the report says, in connection and in harmony with railway lines.

Work With Railroads.

The commission believes transportation facilities will be still further promoted by compelling joint rates and pro-rating agreements, through bills of lading and physical connection between railroads and water agencies, separate warehouses and terminal systems for railroads and waterways being often a waste of capital. Terminal and wharfage charges should be reasonable, regardless of the ownership of these facilities.

The commission cannot see its way clear to recommend a general power to fix minimum rates, but a majority of the commission would recommend empowering the interstate commerce commission to prescribe minimum rates whenever in its opinion the object of a railroad in reducing rates is to decrease waterway competition. The general tendency, the commission points out, has been to lower rates, and any general legislation which would directly or indirectly interfere with this tendency, would probably be injurious rather than otherwise.

The subject of the driving out of water competition appears to be the only question on which the commission is divided.

Communities Must Join In.

Referring to criticisms upon the delay of congress in the development of water routes, the commission points to the fact that the use of the improved channels in many instances has not been commensurate with the expense incurred, and to a lack of progressiveness in providing suitable freight-carrying facilities and to refuse to provide modern terminal equipment. No federal improvement will suffice, the commission insists, without co-operation of communities and business interests and between rail and water routes.

A uniform system is recommended, applicable to all waterways, under which statistics may be collected showing the volume and different kinds of tradic carried on the rivers and inland channels. This country is declared to be far behind several European countries in the accuracy of inland navigation statistics, and the commission wants to see more extensive information regarding high and low water and average discharge of the streams in order to frame and execute plans for improvements.

Praises Army Engineers.

The commission is unwilling to recommend such a change as the creation of a board to decide upon the feasibility and desirability of propositions for expenditures on rivers and harbors, and pays high tribute to the work of the army engineers corps. It advises that "without a careful and unbiased examination of improvements of the natural waterways, no project should be adopted by congress," and recommends "that hereafter the general policy be adopted of providing for the early completion of any and all projects which are undertaken, and that only such a number of projects should be commenced as will be appropriated for and completed within a reasonable limit."

In this way, it says, definite results can be relied upon, plans can be made for utilizing the streams improved, and expenses very largely saved. Careful provisions should be made for maintaining exisiting work, otherwise improvements already made will deteriorate.

Main Stream First.

In the general policy of improving streams in waterway systems, the commission advises that the main stream be improved first and raised to an adequate stage of efficiency before its tributaries; that preference be given the lower portion of a stream, and that improvement proceed as a rule from the mouth up.

The most striking instance cited of decrease in water-borne traffic is that of the Erie canal though the commission regards as "quite as striking" the decrease in traffic on the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

"In 1880 this canal (Erie), carried between Buffalo and New York," the report says, "4,689,651 tons or 18 per cent of the total traffic, while in 1906 (the latest year for which statistics are available), the canal carried only 2,385,491 tons, or 3 per cent of the total traffic, as against 18,702,215 tons transported by the New York Central and Erie railways. Not only has the actual traffic on the canal decreased nearly 50 per cent since 1880, but the relative amount carried by the canal, as compared with the two railroads, has fallen off from 18 per cent to 3 per cent.

Hudson Traffic Declined.

"Likewise, on as important a river as the Hudson, the local river commerce, exclusive of what comes through the Erie canal, has shown a considerable decline. The commercial statistics of the army engineers for the section of the river between Coxackie and the state dam at Troy show a falling off from 4,045,895 tons in 1898 to 2,915,921 tons in 1908.

"On a number of Southern rivers also, such as the Tombigbee and Pearl, there has been a marked decline in river traffic."

The report says, on the other hand, that the traffic on the Great Lakes has increased enormously.

Among what are called the artificial or temporary advantages of the railroads over the waterways there are those which come from power to acquire steamboat lines or to agree for stifling water-borne traffic, refusal to pro-rate with water lines and better freight handling facilities.

Construction of artificial canals adapted to the passage of seagoing ships, according to the commission, would be profitable only where, first, they would connect navigable waters near each other between which large traffic would naturally exist but for rapids or comparatively narrow strips of land, as in the case of Sault Ste. Marie, Welland and Lachine canals; or, second, where comparatively short canals would save a very great sailing distance, as in the cases of the Suez, Panama and Kaiser Wilhelm canals; or, third, where canals from the sea or, third, where canals from the sea would extend to large cities near the coast where large communities have become great freight consumers, as in the cases of the Manchester canal and the Belgium system.

The commission cites many obvious disadvantages of these canals, and says it is conceivable the disadvantages might be lessened somewhat, but makes no recommendation.

Limited to Navigation.

Improvements not essential to navigation should not be undertaken by the Federal government, the commission thinks, and improvements in rivers and harbors should not be made until sufficient assurance is given that proper wharves and terminals can be furnished, on reasonable charges, by municipal or private enterprise.

The commission recommends avoiding undue multiplication of ports, making harbor improvements useful to the largest number, a proper dividing line between work under federal and under city private appropriations, and measures for the greatest possible protection of property abutting on navigable and non-navigable streams, with due regard to the probable quantity and value of land benefited.

"The commission is unwilling to recommend the construction of wharves and docks by the government. The tendency today in Europe, it says, tends toward retaining the lock type, unless the conditions of dam location and of boat traffic are exceptional. "While the growth of traffic may eventually demand with propriety, the thorough regularization of canalization of all navigable waterways," the commission holds, "there are always in every country, and especially in the United States, many streams whose water stops, waterflow, character of banks, will render thorough improvement by either method too expensive."

Conditions in Europe.

Summarizing conditions abroad, the commission says that the average European freight rates on railways paralleling water routes, especially for short distances, are higher than in the United States; the European rates for water-borne carriage are as high or higher than railways in the United States, where the traffic is likewise large. Engineering difficulties are as a rule less serious in Europe, where also sedulous care is taken to protect water-borne traffic from railroad competition.

Avoid Taking Cold

If people would only use ordinary precautions, the toll of disease and death directly traceable to neglected colds would not be nearly so heavy. Learn to breathe properly—don't expose the person needlessly to sudden changes of temperature—dampness and draughts. Get busy with the first sneeze and check a cold before it reaches the lungs. A simple remedy, and one that is highly recommended, is made by mixing two ounces of Glycerine, a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky. You can buy these in any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle. It is claimed by the Leach Chemical Co., of Cincinnati, who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, that a teaspoonful of this mixture four times a day, will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

WEST END

NEW HOSPITAL FOR WEST END?

Swedish Lutherans Will Erect a New Building This Year.

When the annual mission meeting of the Lake Superior district of the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran churches convenes tomorrow morning at the Pilgrim Swedish Lutheran church at Superior the matter of building a $100,000 hospital in Duluth will be taken up for consideration. It will then be decided whether the West end or some other part of the city will secure the new institution.

The proposed Swedish hospital will probably be built this year and it is said that there are three different locations proposed for it. One is in the neighborhood of Twenty-third avenue west near the Bethany church in the West end. The other two are at Oneota near Forty-sixth avenue west and at the site of the old courthouse on East Second street. It is the intention to build only one wing at first at a cost of about $35,000.

The committee which has the matter in charge will report at the first business meeting of a two-days' conference tomorrow morning. Those who are on the committee are as follows: Rev. Carl Solomonson, pastor of the First Swedish Lutheran church of this city; Rev. J. A. Krantz, pastor of Elim Swedish Lutheran church of West Duluth and president of the Minnesota conference of Swedish Lutheran churches; Rev. J. Magney and Henry Iverson of Carlton, Minn.

SOCIALISTS AND REPUBLICANS

Two Political Meetings Are Scheduled for the West End.

A mass meeting of the Scandinavian Socialist club of the West end will be held this evening at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. There will be several speakers present and a musical program will also be presented. The political situation will be discussed.

At Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, a rousing political meeting of the members of the Svea Republican club of the West end is also scheduled for this evening. It is expected that Mayor Haven will be present and will make a short address.

Before the speaking the club will hear a report from the banquet committee. The annual dinner will be given immediately after election.

FRIENDS COME TO HER ASSISTANCE.

Friends of Mrs. Jonas Peterson in the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church are helping the unfortunate woman out with a subscription list. They recently subscribed $211.10 toward her support.

Mrs. Peterson, who resides at 3809 West Fifth street has met with many misfortunes during the past few years. Three years ago, her husband was killed at the ore docks. A child has been ill with infantile paralysis for several months and the mother is having a hard time to make both ends meet.

SUPERIOR PEOPLE ARE MARRIED AT WEST END.

"Where Prices Speak for Themselves"

FIRST VISIT FROM COMET

"Comet A, 1910" Is Believed to Be a Celestial Tramp.

Astronomers in All Parts of Country Watching It Closely.

The unknown comet, which has suddenly appeared in the heavens without herald or warning from astronomical authorities, has caused a sensation among scientists throughout the country and astronomers—experts and novices—are busy training their instruments on it, attempting to determine its course and endeavoring to identify it as one of the numerous comets, which have been discovered from time to time and whose orbits have been calculated and set down for the enlightenment of future generations.

The opinion is growing among scientists that the visitor is a celestial tramp, which has come into view of the earth from space where it has floated around since the beginning of the universe without ever having come close enough to the earth to be seen since scientists began to observe the heavens. At least nobody has identified it as a known comet and if it has ever been observed previously in the history of the world and its characteristics chronicled, the observations have been written in some obscure place where they have not been discovered by modern scientists.

No astronomical instruments are necessary to observe the comet. One may climb up on the hill any evening a half hour or so after the sun has set and see the strange visitor, which glows like a pale torch of fire in the heavens, a little above the point at which the sun goes down. It remains bright for a half or three-quarters of an hour and then floats off into space beyond the range of vision. If the new comet were to remain above the horizon for less than an hour longer than it does, it would be an object so conspicuous that anybody happening to look in its direction would be attracted by its brilliancy. The conditions have been very favorable in Duluth for observing the comet and many people have taken the opportunity of seeing it.

In the course of a week or so, the comet may move eastward sufficiently away from the sun and above the horizon to be still more conspicuous, but it may on the other hand move in the other direction and be lost to view entirely. Its course cannot yet be determined. Bishop McGolrick, who is a close student of astronomy, says that he expects that with a few more observations, he will be able to tell what its course is, and from what direction it has come, and when those facts are determined, it will be easier to determine whether it has ever been observed before.

Never Seen Before.

The theory of astronomers at present is that the orbit of the new comet is of such great dimensions that it has heretofore never in the history of man approached near enough to the sun and the earth to be observed, or, if it did approach the earth heretofore, it was before man learned to study the heavens, and their wonders.

One fact over which there was some controversy among those now versed in astronomy is that the newly observed comet is not Halley's famous comet which will approach near enough to the earth to be observed about the middle of May this year. Many astronomers have determined the orbit of Halley's comet and they agree so closely as to be practically the same in their results. According to the observations, Halley's comet is now in right ascension 1 hour and 21 minutes and in declination 9 deg. north of the equinoxial circle, which position is in the zodiacal constellation Pisces, near the boundary between that and the constellation Aries, which it has only recently left, and therefore that it now crosses the meridian directly to the south of us at 5:30 p. m. at an altitude of more than one-half the distance between the southern horizon and the zenith. It is still far distant from the sun and the earth (although steadily approaching them) and is quite small.

On the other hand, the new comet, now conspicuous even in daylight, with a tail several degrees in length, is in the zodiacal constellation Capricornus, 80 deg., nearly one-half the open space of the heavens, to the westward of the position of Halley's comet and nearly twice as far to the south of the equinoctial circle as Halley's is to the north of it. Moreover, when Halley's comet is on the meridian, or highest in the heavens, toward the south at 5:30 p. m., and is slowly moving westward. The new comet is low down toward the horizon in the southwest and appears to be moving eastward.

It is believed by some astronomers that the new comet has come up out of space from below the sun around which it is moving in a very elongated orbit, having a small "perihelion distance," or near approach to the sun, which would account for its sudden appearance and brilliance, and that it may not appear much farther away from the sun and become more conspicuous, and that it has quite recently passed its "perihelion" or point of nearest approach to the sun and, therefore, that its prominence may be short lived.

The new comet will give people a good idea of how Halley's famous celestial body will appear when it comes near enough to be observed, about May 20. Halley's comet will have a tail at least ten times as long as the tail of the tramp.

Harvard college observatory has received a cable dispatch from Kiel giving calculations of the orbit of the comet, which is known as "Comet A, 1910." The observations show that the comet was nearest the sun Jan. 17, the distance from it being 3,500,000 miles. It is now receding and diminishing in brightness, but it is expected to be an interesting object in the heavens for several days yet.

THE LAST THREE AMENDMENTS.

T. T. Hudson, chairman of the city charter commission, contributes to The Herald tonight another article on the proposed charter amendments, and it is the most important of all. It deals with amendments 7, 8 and 9,—the so-called Chan Smith amendments,—and so important is it that these amendments be defeated that it is hoped that every voter will read Mr. Hudson's paper.

It is as important that the last three amendments on the list be defeated as it is that any of the first six be adopted; more important, in fact, for as Mr. Hudson says, "if the other six amendments are lost, the city will be no worse off than it is today. If these last three amendments are carried, a backward, not forward, step will have been taken."

While it would be a misfortune if the first six amendments should fail of adoption, it would be a calamity if the last three should be adopted.

Everbody should read Mr. Hudson's discussion of these amendments, and heed his appeal to public interest in these important matters.

The only merit in the three Chan Smith amendments is in the first one, No. 7, providing that the cost of paving street intersections shall be paid by the city instead of by the property-owners. That merit, in amendment No. 7, is offset by the failure to provide means of carrying it out. However, amendment No. 1, prepared by the charter commission, covers the point in a practicable manner by providing a means of carrying it out. Amendment No. 1 should by all means be adopted, and those who have favored the Chan Smith amendments because they believe the city should pay for paving street intersections should vote "yes" on No. 1 and "no" on Nos. 7, 8 and 9.

Amendments 8 and 9 are closely allied, and in practice they would mean that the city would be called upon to pay the full cost of most future improvements. That would mean that the improvements would not be made at all, in most cases, so in that respect the city would be brought to a standstill. Besides that, the proposal is the rankest kind of injustice to those who have already paid for improving the streets in front of their own property, and who would be called upon in addition to pay for the improvements in front of property owned by those who have waited until now to make improvements. Amendment No. 8 provides that after a pavement has once been laid, no matter what its character, repaving must be paid for by the city. Thus if a street were laid with worn-out cedar blocks or cheap macadam, and an up-to-date pavement were proposed, it could be provided only by the city out of funds raised by general taxation. Amendment No. 9 provides that within any five-year period, assessments for improvements shall not exceed 25 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property benefited, unless 50 per cent of the property-owners petition for it. As the average assessed value of property on unimproved streets is very low, 25 per cent wouldn't amount to enough to lay plank sidewalks; and as most of this property is owned by non-residents, petitions of 50 per cent of the owners is practically impossible.

To show how the Chan Smith plan would work out, suppose you own a home on a lot originally worth $500; your house cost $5,000, and you have paid $500 for improvements in front of your property. All three items enter into the value of your property, and are reckoned in fixing its value for purposes of taxation. The effect of amendments 8 and 9 would be to make you pay for future improvements benefiting other property than your own, and in paying that cost your share would be increased by the amount you have paid for your own improvements. They have added to your assessed valuation, and they will add to your taxes. You paid for improvements that increased the assessed value of your property, and because of that increase you will have to pay a larger share of the cost of improving the property of others.

You wouldn't do it willingly, and the result would be that improvements would be stopped until those disastrous amendments could be repealed. Vote "yes" on the first six amendments, and "no" on the last three.

MAKING MOLLYCODDLES.

"A race of mollycoddles would probably be produced by an abstinence from the use of meat," declared Dr. W. W. Wiley Saturday. Dr. Wiley is chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, and an eminent food specialist. Also, you will remember, he is so ardent an advocate of meat that he actually eats large quantities of it himself, even at the present high prices and upon a government salary. Indeed, so certain is he of the virtues of meat that not long ago he said people ought to bolt their meat like the dog does, without chewing it, presumably in order to have time to eat more meat.

Assuming Dr. Wiley's statement to be true, this nation is in a pretty pickle indeed. If people keep on eating meat and meat prices continue to rise, presently a great majority will be utterly unable to afford any meat at all, and thereupon they will all become mollycoddles. If they stop eating meat in order to force the price down, as they seem to be doing all over the country, they will become mollycoddles anyway.

So if Wiley is right, there seems to be no escape. Americans are to become mollycoddles either by deprivation caused by high prices, or by voluntary deprivation in the interest of lower meat prices. And when the American people become a race of mollycoddles, won't Aldrich and Cannon have an easy thing in their task of binding that race to the chariot wheel of Special Privilege?

But then, maybe after all Dr. Wiley is mistaken.

GET TOGETHER.

As The Herald frequently has pointed out, there is but one way to get reapportionment, and reapportionment must come before Northern Minnesota can expect to get its just dues from the state. That way is to elect to the legislature none but men who pledge themselves to make reapportionment the leading issue in the next session, and who will join together and announce that no legislation whatever shall be enacted until a fair, honest reapportionment bill becomes a law.

The proposed meeting at Bemidji next month, if proper co-operation is secured, will point a way to perfect the organization needed to advance the interests of Northern Minnesota in this and other matters. The organization is needed, and if formed and given proper public backing, it can induce the representatives of Northern Minnesota in the legislature to act as they should. Without such an organization, it is extremely doubtful if an effective organization of the senators and representatives can be brought about.

As stated in The Herald Saturday evening, a call has been issued, as a result of a mass meeting held at Bemidji last week, for a convention to be held at Bemidji Feb. 17 and 18. The call provides for two delegates from each county, to be appointed by the chairman of the county board; two delegates from each commercial club, to be chosen by the club; two delegates from each county, to be appointed by the state senators; two delegates from each county, to be appointed by the state representatives; and ten delegates from the Duluth Commercial club.

Without consulting with the Duluth Commercial club officers, it can be stated that Duluth will be represented at the proposed convention, because it has been foremost in the work of developing Northern Minnesota and proposes to keep in the van. It is to be hoped that every county in Northern Minnesota will be represented by as many delegates as possible, for it is important that the convention should be as large as it can be made, and as fully representative.

The Herald would suggest that at this convention the matter of legislative reapportionment be given first place, because without a just representation of Northern Minnesota in the legislature according to population, as the Constitution requires, it is not to be expected that the northern half of the state will secure proper consideration from the legislature. There will be no reapportionment so long as Northern Minnesota remains divided, but reapportionment will come just as soon as Northern Minnesota sends to St. Paul a legislative representation organized and determined to secure justice. It is not enough that senators and representatives be pledged to favor reapportionment; they should be pledged to favor reapportionment before everything else, and even, in the case of the senators, at the cost to themselves of cutting their four-year terms to two years.

Such an organization of senators and representatives can be brought about by the Bemidji meeting if it goes about it in the right way, and if the various communities of Northern Minnesota co-operate as they should.

The meeting is a splendid idea, and it is to be hoped that it will be supported warmly all along the line.

LABOR SAVING BOSSES.

The rank and file of the Republican party in Minnesota doubtless will hail with relief the news in Saturday's St. Paul correspondence of The Herald. They have been dreading the labor and responsibilities of going through the prescribed functions of gathering at primaries, electing delegates to the county conventions, which send delegates to a state convention which is supposed to nominate candidates. They need dread it no longer. Now the work will be purely perfunctory, and nobody need worry about it; for the real work is done. The candidates are nominated, the slate is nearly complete, and delegates to the state convention will simply have a little pleasure trip with nothing to do but ratify the self-sacrificing work done in their behalf by an obliging few, who mostly live in the Twin Cities where they can get together easily.

According to The Herald's correspondent, it has been decided that A. O. Eberhart shall be nominated for governor, Dr. A. B. Cole of Fergus Falls for lieutenant-governor, S. G. Iverson for state auditor, Julius A. Schmahl of Redwood for secretary of state, Al Kaiser of Bagley for state treasurer, C. F. Staples for railroad commissioner, and Judge Simpson of Minneapolis for judge of the supreme court. The slate-makers seem to be in doubt about the position of clerk of supreme court, but doubtless they will have that also arranged in the four or five months that remain before the convention is held.

THE MYSTERIOUS STRANGER.

After getting along for many years without any comet at all, this year the world is embarrassed with a surplus of riches, for there are two comets, instead of the one that had been expected. Halley's justly celebrated comet is still on the way, and while it is faintly visible through powerful glasses it is not yet visible to the naked eye. While the world was waiting for this comet with mild interest which will be immensely quickened in a few months when its glories span the sky, suddenly a new and unexpected comet swept into view. It was sighted first in South Africa, and now it is visible in Duluth every evening for half an hour or so, beginning about 5:30 and lasting until after 6 o'clock. A few degrees north and a little lower than the brilliant evening star, it slowly emerges from the twilight as the sun's departing rays lose their force, and then slowly sinks to join the sun beneath the horizon.

Astronomers all over the world are watching it with keenest interest, and presently they will have measured its orbit and compared it with those of known comets of the past. Then they will know whether it is an old acquaintance. If it is not, they will have a chance to speculate on whether it is making its first visit, or has an orbit so large that its last previous visit was long before records of such things began to be kept.

The latest news from the astronomers about the mysterious stranger is that it is moving eastward, growing dimmer, and that presently it will pass away into the limitless void from whence it came.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

REPLIES TO SHIP SUBSIDY LETTER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your Thursday paper I saw an article on the "ship subsidy" written by a man from Aitkin, and things he said about this grand country of ours made me sit down and write this article, to put him right.

In the first place he accuses the government of bribing the sultan of the Jolo archipelago to wave the American flag. This is a great mistake. The United States government paid the sultan for swearing allegiance to the American flag and to help us in time of war and to protect American ships from his subjects.

He then asks the question, "How will a ship subsidy bill help our navy?" Well, in the first place the government is not paying money to ship owners merely for honoring the flag, but it is paying them money to fly the American flag, not only to show the flag but in case of war these ships that carry the American flag must carry supplies to American ships that are far from home ports. Supposing a war was going on today. What would our navy do to get supplies when all American ships are under foreign orders?

He applies Pickney's motto, "Not a penny for tribute, but millions for defense." Now what is more plain, than that the ship subsidy is for defense?

And, furthermore, I think that any man who would accuse his country of giving a bribe ought to be tried for treason.

So I advise A. G. Catlin of Aitkin, Minn., to wake up and find out the facts before he writes an article on so great a subject as the "ship subsidy."

E. HAMMOND.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 21, 1910.

A DEATH TRAP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Since so many people do not have sense enough to protect themselves the authorities should take steps to protect them against themselves. I refer particularly to carelessness in coasting in West Duluth. I suppose the same might apply to other parts of the city, but I know that on Fifty-ninth avenue west and on the road that leads to Bay View Heights something should be done. These highways are steep and intersect at right angles in the center of the hill. Crowds of coasters have been using both of them. Last night two "bobs" collided. I understand one young man was knocked senseless and a girl hurt. The remarkable thing is that some one was not killed. The "bobs" come down like shots from a gun. They are generally heavily loaded, and with icy streets it is suicidal to use both roads. The police ought to station a man at the intersection to regulate the matter. The Fifty-ninth avenue road is the longer and the less dangerous, and I would suggest that they be compelled to use it alone.

Charles Dickens' Only Hymn.

The Scraphook: In many of his novels, Charles Dickens held religious hypocrisy and cant up to ridicule so thoroughly that many good people believed the great novelist to be an irreligious man. Those who know him best, however, were well aware that he had a profound reverence for true religion and especially for the teachings of Christ. Among his acquaintances was Lord Byron's daughter, Ada, who, as Lady Lovelace, was a conspicuous figure in the social world of London. Finally, she was striken with a mental illness, accompanied by intense pain. From time to time she would send for Dickens, whose superb vitality and buoyant hope made his very presence a comfort to her. She would lie stretched out upon her couch a hopeless invalid, crushing pieces of ice between her teeth so as not to cry out in the spasms of excruciating agony that tormented her. On one of these occasions, she suddenly turned and asked, in a piercing voice: "Do you ever say your prayers?" The answer came promptly: "Every night and every morning."

The poem which is given here is the one that Dickens is known to have written. It appeared anonymously in the Christmas number of Household Words for 1856. A clergyman wrote to Dickens, who was then the editor of the publication, thanking him for having conveyed to many readers such sincere and true religious sentiments. Dickens, in answering the note, confessed that he himself was the author of the hymn, and declared that, although the words were supposed to be spoken by a child, they expressed his own personal feeling and belief.

Hear my prayer, O heavenly Father,
Ere I lay me down to sleep;
Bid Thy angels, pure and holy,
Round my bed their vigil keep.

My sins are heavy, but Thy mercy
Far outweighs them, every one;
Down before Thy cross I cast them,
Trusting in Thy help alone.

Keep me through this night of peril
Underneath its boundless shade;
Take me to Thy rest, I pray Thee,
When my pilgrimage is made.

None shall measure out Thy patience
By the span of human thought;
None shall bound the tender mercies
Which Thy Holy Son has bought.

Pardon all my past transgressions,
Give me strength for days to come;
Guide and guard me with Thy blessing
Till Thy angels bid me home.

Timely Interruption.

Youth's Companion: Mrs. Benham had just seated herself to work at a bit of embroidery that required particular care and attention, when there came a ring at the telephone. "I just know that's Mrs. Gummy," she said, as she laid down her work and went to answer the call. "Whenever I am unusually busy and haven't any time to spare, she rings me up and talks to me by the hour."

She was right. It was Mrs. Gummy, who was fully as talkative as ever. She began with a long story, and when fairly in the middle of it the clock on the wall of the room began to strike.

"Wait a moment," interposed Mrs. Benham. "I can't hear you until this noise stops."

"What made that noise?" asked Mrs. Gummy, after it had ceased.

"It was only the clock," answered the patient Mrs. Benham. "You know it always strikes once or twice when we get to talking."

The conversation did not last long after that.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday and today were ideal winter days, clear, dry and just cold enough to be bracing. The weather man looks for mild weather with light snow flurries tonight and tomorrow.

The weather conditions a year ago were almost the same as those today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:42 and will set at 4:58 tomorrow, making nine hours and sixteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much colder weather prevails this morning over western Lake Superior and the Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, as a result of a high pressure area that has moved its center to those districts from the Rocky mountains. Zero temperatures occurred this morning in Northwestern Iowa. During the past twenty-four hours low pressure areas that passed over the lake region to the St. Lawrence valley and from British Columbia to Alberta caused scattered falls of snow in the lake region, and rain in Tennessee, Western Gulf and Pacific states. The Alberta low pressure condition is also causing warmer weather in the extreme Northwest.

"Indications favor milder temperature at the Head of the Lakes tonight and possibly snow flurries by Tuesday morning."

Following were the maximum temperatures for the last twenty-four hours and the minimum for the last twelve ending at 7 a. m:

An Uncertain Congress.

Mark Sullivan in Collier's: Though a single day might see a change of front, the signs, so far, point to a do-nothing congress. In his formal messages, and through informal addresses on his trip and elsewhere, President Taft has made, among others, these recommendations:

Postal savings banks.

Subsidies to build up the American merchant marine.

The admission of New Mexico and Arizona as states.

A law limiting future railroad capitalization.

A modification and enlargement of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A commission to investigate the law's delays.

Publicity for congressional campaign funds.

A law modifying court practise as to injunctions.

These are merely the most important among many recommendations. Up to date, the proceedings of the present session of congress fill more than 300 pages of the record; but they include no serious starting of the legislative machinery in the direction of putting any of the recommendations on the statue books. Indeed, the one subject which congress has taken up in earnest, the Ballinger investigation, is not among the president's recommendations, and was long opposed by him. Aldrich and Cannon are understood to favor a do-nothing policy, on the theory that this to be a prosperous year, and that prosperity will save the Republican party again, as it often has before. Many congressmen are anxious for the session to end early. Every member, if he desires to return, must go before his people for renomination and re-election this summer. For some, the party primaries come as early as April. If the leaders should change front, if Presidents Taft's more important recommendations should be before the house during April and May, just when the primaries are coming on, congress will at that moment be more responsive to public opinion than it usually is.

In the indifference of congress to Taft's recommendations, there is one exception. Taft urged economy; congress, in considering appropriations, has used the pruning-knife with rigid adherence to this recommendation. The various executive departments of the government have been compelled to cut the estimates they turn in to congress. Within congress, these have in turn been pared, and energetic committees are at work to reduce expenses in various departments.

Freedom from Its Mountainous Price Height.

Life: The cost of building the Panama canal will be something less than $400,000,000. That is, according to present estimates. According to one paper, this will amount to $4 or $5 apiece for every man, woman and child in the country, or a family of five will put from $20 to $25 into the canal.

This is a fact. Yet it will be news to some people.

No man, woman or child can get away from it. Each of us, without our own consent, is putting up the money. We are doing it unconsciously, without realizing it, indirectly, if you will, but we are doing it.

There are a few other things that we are all paying for in the same way. We paid for all the money stolen by the sugar thieves. Those of us who live in New York and vicinity paid for the Thaw trial out of our own pockets. We pay for the European trips of most of our millionaires. We pay for all the unnecessary expenses of the government. We have no choice.

We do it, of course, in the name of Liberty—one holdup, united in graft, one and inseparable, now and forever.

He is about 40 years of age.

The Duluth Imperial mill is grinding and selling about 1,400 barrels of flour a day and shipping its product to the East and for export as fast as turned out.

Cuyler Adams now has six cottages to build on the shores of Serpent and Reno lakes at Deerwood, all for Duluth people who will put in their summers, or a portion of the season, at that most beautiful retreat.

The elegant office building, the Palladio, which has been under construction since last May is about ready for tenants. There are exactly ninety-nine offices. The rental rolls will aggregate $40,000 a year, and of this considerably more than half is now assured.

Duluth is entertaining a party of Philadelphia men who have been attending the convention of the National Builders' association at St. Paul. The party comprises Charels G. Hancock, a contractor on Philadelphia's $20,000,000 city hall; Henry Reeves, builder of the $1,000,000 Drexel office building; W. H. Roy and James C. Taylor, two well known contractors.

F. K. Long, A. Hirsch and C. O. Baldwin were admitted to membership at the chamber of commerce meeting today, and the executive committee reported a favorable outlook for large increases this year in the membership.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Truth: Mark It.

Le Sueur News: It is a well-established fact that many who graduate from the state university are looking for jobs while graduates of the farm school are in demand all the time. It is possible that the tide has turned and the run is no longer for the town.

It Is Not.

Albert Lea Standard: Carlos Avery was admitted by all to be the ablest, most efficient executive agent of the game and fish commission that has ever served the state. Governor Eberhart declined to reappoint him and has put a political striker in his place. Is this carrying out the policies of Governor Johnson? Is it giving first consideration to the best service of the state?

Who Can He Mean?

Anoka Union: The meddlesome man most always gets himself and others into trouble. Respectfully referred to several holding prominent positions.

Ah There!

Thief River Falls Press: Not long since a young man of splendid muscular development was seen in our city with two heads on his shoulders. Both were fully developed heads, with rather handsome features, one with blond hair, the other with black. The young man is not a museum freak as might be supposed. The other head was the property of his sweetheart, and would not have appeared in such a deformed position had it not been for the young lady's neglect to "drop the curtain."

But Cannon Sticks Out His Tongue at Them.

Milaca Times: The majority of Minnesota's delegation in congress are insurents and real insurgents are a pleasure our people point to with pride.

Jake's Belated Fervor.

St. Peter Free Press: One of the things in our present local political maneuvering attracting attention is the attitude of J. F. Jacobson, who was beaten by the late Governor Johnson at the last election. Mr. Jacobson was always known to favor restriction of the liquor traffic, but somehow after he had been nominated for governor and was asked for a definite statement concerning this question he seemed to have undergone a radical change. He absolutely refused to commit himself, and when too hard pressed, merely referred to his record. Now he comes out squarely in favor of county option and serves notice that he will oppose any gubernatorial candidate not doing likewise. Upon what particular right he assumes this attitude is not very clear. It is true county option has strong support throughout the state, but Mr. Jacobson is hardly in a position to assume the role of a leader and if county option is carried at the next election, as it may be, it will not be done because of his belated declaration.

Not Hard to Take.

Menahga Journal: Judge Stanton of Bemidji is being prominently mentioned as the Democratic nominee for governor. Well, if it is necessary for us to have a Democrat governor, the judge is our choice.

Why Doesn't He Then?

Fertile Journal: No fight the president could make would be more popular than one waged against the Aldrich-Cannon crowd, and in making that fight he would take away much of the ammunition of the Democrats.

Self-Dependence.

Weary of myself and sick of asking
What I am, and what I ought to be,
At the vessel's prow I stand, which bears me
Forward, forward, o'er the starlit sea.

And a look of passionate desire
O'er the sea and to the stars I send:
"Ye, who from my childhood up have calmed me,
Calm me, ah, compose me to the end!

"Ah, once more," I cried, "ye stars, ye waters,
On my heart your mighty charm renew!
Still, still let me, as I gaze upon you,
Feel my soul becoming vast like you!"

From the intense, clear, star-sown vault of heaven,
Over the lit sea's unquiet way,
In the rustling night air came the answer:
"Wouldst thou be as these are? Live as they.

"Unaffrighted by the silence round them,
Undistracted by the sights they see,
These demand not that the things without them
Yield them love, amusement, sympathy.

"And with joy the stars perform their shining,
And the sea its long moon-silver'd roll;
For, self-poised, they live, nor pine with noting
All the fever of some differing soul.

"Bounded by themselves and unregarded
In what state God's other works may be,
In their own tasks all their powers pouring,
These attain the mighty life you see."

O air-born voice! long since severely clear,
A cry like thine in mine own heart I hear:
"Resolve to be thyself; and know that he Who finds himself loses his misery."

The Mystery of Crane.

Life: Why did it happen as it did to Mr. Crane? Why was he sacked? For whom and for whose interests did Secretary Knox compel his resignation, and why did Mr. Taft consent to it?

That whole incident is entirely unexplained. It belongs to diplomacy, and diplomacy is excused from explaining anything that it doesn't want to explain.

But some time we shall know, and meanwhile people will continue to wonder from time to time to what particular bunch of lions it was that Mr. Crane was thrown.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CITY CHARTER

First Six Would Remove Chief Imperfections Now Existing in Charter.

Adoption of the Last Three Would Mean Taking a Step Backward.

Continuing the series of articles on the proposed amendments to the city charter, to be voted upon at the coming election, T. T. Hudson, chairman of the charter commission, briefly reviews the first six amendments, the adoption of which he favors, and then presents a strong argument against the adoption of the last three amendments. Mr. Hudson says:

FIRST SIX AMENDMENTS.

Special attention should be called to the matter of voting upon the charter amendments at the coming city election, because it requires three-fifths of the votes cast at the election in favor of an amendment to secure its adoption. We so often hear it stated: "I did not understand the amendment, so did not vote upon it." While this is a good rule to follow, it is infinitely a better rule for each voter to take sufficient time to examine for himself each amendment and the effect of its adoption and then vote intelligently for or against it. The Duluth city charter was created by the voters of Duluth and they can have it just as good as they want it. When they fail to take interest enough to vote upon amendments, the legislature of Minnesota will begin to pass laws for the government of the city of Duluth; an alternative which I am sure would not be pleasing or beneficial to the people of Duluth.

There are nine amendments presented to the voter for his approval or disapproval at the city election, Feb. 1. The first six amendments, which will appear upon the ballot were proposed by the charter commission of Duluth and cover the following subjects, viz:

One:—Provides that the cost of street intersections and storm sewers shall be paid by general taxation.

Two:—Gives the city council power to impose a tax upon vehicles using the streets, such tax to be used solely for the repair and maintenance of streets.

Three:—Provides for a "street maintenance and repair fund" and authorizes the common council to levy a tax of not to exceed one mill on the dollar annually on the assessed valuation of all the taxable property for this fund.

Four:—Provides for free band concerts in the public parks.

Five:—Provides a substitute for the public works and engineering departments.

Six:—Provides for an increase in the salary of the city assessor from $1,800 per year to $2,400 per year.

I believe that the changes which would be made in the city charter by the adoption of the foregoing six amendments would be a material improvement and would remove the chief imperfections which now exist in the charter. I therefore favor their adoption.

THE LAST THREE AMENDMENTS.

The last three amendments, which will appear on the ballot, are submitted to the voters for their approval or rejection because petitions were filed with the charter commission, signed by 5 per cent of the voters of Duluth, requesting that they be so submitted.

> Many of the voters who signed the petitions did so because they were in favor of the first one of the three amendments contained in the petitions, which provided that no assessment for benefits shall be made for any part of the cost of street intersections, and they will now vote against it, because Amendment No. 1 proposed by the charter commission provides that the cost of both street intersections and storm sewers shall be paid by general taxation, and also provides for levying taxes to pay such cost. The amendment petitioned for made no such provision.

Others who will vote against these three amendments, signed the petitions in order to give the people a chance to pass upon them. While the members of the charter commission were, and are, opposed to these three amendments, it was the duty of the commission to submit them to the voters.

If the adoption of any one of these amendments would so operate that substantial justice would be done to our citizens, and our city administration would be able to administer the affairs of the city in a progressive manner with due regard for the welfare of our citizens, then it should be adopted. If on the other hand any one of them would work hardship or injustice to any considerable portion of our citizens, or would retard the growth of our city, or hinder a wise administration of its affairs, then it should be rejected by the voters.

EFFECT OF THESE AMENDMENTS.

Let us consider what the effect of the adoption of each of these last three amendments would be.

Amendment No. 7, which relates to the cost of street intersections would be useless until an election is held to carry an amendment to raise a fund to pay the cost of street intersections. Amendment No. 1 covers the same subject, and does it in a practicable way.

Amendment No. 8 on the ballot, which is the second of the last three amendments herein referred to, would be so indefinite and uncertain in its application to the conditions existing in Duluth that it would require the construction of the court in each particular case to determine what it means.

This amendment reads as follows:

"When property has once been assessed for the cost of an improvement in any street or highway it shall never again, after payment of such cost, be subject to assessment for cost of renewing or maintaining the same improvement."

To what character of improvement does it apply? Our streets have been graded and paved, some with asphalt, some with vitrified brick, some with sandstone blocks, some with creosoted blocks, some with granitoid, some with tar macadam, some with rock macadam, and some with cedar blocks, some on concrete foundations and others on mud foundations, all differing in cost of construction and in durability. If a street has once been paved with cedar blocks or some other inferior pavement, does this amendment mean that the property abutting upon it shall not pay any part of the cost as special benefits for repaving the same with asphalt or sandstone or some equally durable pavement, and that the same shall be paid by general taxation? Or, does it mean that whenever the character of the pavement is changed in replacing an old pavement, that the property along such improvement shall pay the cost as special benefits? If it means the former, then the cost of repaving a number of streets and avenues in the city, which were once paved with cedar blocks or other inferior pavement, will have to be paid by general taxation. Would it be right to require those citizens, who have paid the entire cost of repaving the streets in front of their own property, to now pay, through general taxation, the greater part of the cost of repaving other streets, which it is imperatively necessary to repave in the near future, with sandstone or asphalt or tar macadam or other substantial pavement, and let the property along such pavement be exempted from paying any part of the cost thereof as special benefits? Yet this is probably what this amendment was intended to mean, although it is uncertain. Every citizen who believes in a square deal will answer, "No, it would not be right."

EFFECT WOULD BE UNJUST.

Amendment No. 9, as it will appear on the ballot, if it should by any possibility be adopted, would, in its application to the conditions which have heretofore existed and now exist in the city of Duluth, operate as unjustly against the greater part of the residents and home-builders of this city as any tax that was ever conceived.

Amendment No. 9 reads as follows:

"The sum which may be assessed against any lot or parcel of land within any five-year period shall not exceed 25 per cent of the assessed value of such lot or parcel of land, except on petition of a majority of owners, who also own more than 50 per cent of the frontage to be affected by such assessment."

It is not enough to say "that many other cities have been paying for their street improvements by general taxation." They perhaps have always paid for them in that way. It would be a very difficult proposition if the City of Duluth had during the past twenty or thirty years been paying for its street improvements by general taxation. Then it would be proper that it should continue to do so. It must be borne in mind that a large part of the lot owners in the city of Duluth, (which includes the largest part of the home owners of this city), have been assessed something like $8,000,000 for street improvements during the past twenty-five years, and that another large percentage of property owners who are not home-owners, have not paid a dollar as special benefits for street improvements. Probably $8,000,000 more will not be expended in the next quarter of a century.

> Would it not be an outrage to now change the method of payment for street improvements so that the people who have paid for all the street improvements in the past would in the future have to pay the chief part of the cost of improvements of streets in front of property of other owners who have never paid for any street improvements? Yet this is what the adoption of the last three amendments herein mentioned would accomplish as to the street improvements along the unimproved cheaper property in the city of Duluth, which comprises a very large part of the outlying additions.

An examination of the assessor's books will show that most of the unimproved lots in the outlying additions are assessed for taxation all the way from $5 to $50 each, and that those lots in such additions which have houses upon them are assessed for taxation all the way from $200 to $1,000 each.

It is very evident therefore that 25 per cent of the assessed value of these lots, except those with houses upon them, would not within a five-year period pay for the cheapest kind of street improvements. Therefore, if streets in front of them are improved, they must be improved by general taxation, unless a majority of the property owners, owning 50 per cent of the frontage to be affected by assessment, shall petition for the improvement. When it is considered how difficult it is to get 25 per cent of the property owners, owning 25 per cent of the property in the thickly settled portions of the city, to petition to have streets improved in front of their property, it will appear to be practically impossible to get 50 per cent of the property owners in those sections of the city where there are but few residents to petition for the improvements of streets in front of their property; so that it is practically certain if any streets are improved in these sections the cost thereof must be paid by general taxation.

EFFECT ON THE HOME OWNER.

Let us see how this will affect the home owner and those citizens who have paid the entire cost of street improvements in front of their own lots. A lot with a $500 house upon it, in front of which the street is improved, will pay ten times as much toward the cost of such improvement as a vacant lot next to said house which is assessed at $50. A lot with a house upon it and other improvements around it which is one, two or five miles away, and which on account of its improved condition is assessed at $5,000, will pay one hundred times as much of the cost of the improvement in front of said lot assessed at $50, as such vacant lot will pay.

Is this in the interest of the home owner in the city of Duluth?

What are some of the elements of value which requires the one lot to be assessed for $5,000? The chief element is the house; the cost of the street and other improvements which the owner has paid for is another element. The bare lot would probably not be assessed for more than $600. What are the elements of value which requires the other lot to be assessed for $500? The chief element is the little house upon it.

Which property is benefited most by the improvement of the street in front of it? The vacant lot assessed at $50, the house and lot assessed at $500, or the house and lot assessed at $5,000, two miles away from such improvement? Every man knows that it is the vacant lot and the house and lot fronting upon the improvement which are benefited many times more than the $5,000 house and lot two miles away.

> Who owns these vacant lots situated in the outlying additions of the city for whom such a strenuous effort is being made to change the method of raising the money to pay the cost of street improvements? Are they home owners? Are they even residents of our city? If you will look up the records of St. Louis county, you will find that they are chiefly owned by land companies and non-residents who are holding them as a matter of speculation.

I believe now, as I have always believed, that the cost of street improvements should be paid by lot owners according to the actual benefits received by each lot, and that the chief benefits from street improvements accrue to the bare land and not to the houses and improvements on the land. The $50 vacant lot is benefited substantially as much as the $500 improved lot adjoining it. Why should the vacant lot owner not pay for what he gets?

But how will the adoption of these last two amendments affect the men who have already paid this $8,000,000 to improve streets in front of their own lots? They will have to pay the chief part of the cost of the improvements to streets along all such vacant property, because the assessed value of the vacant property is so small that the cost of the improvement will have to be paid by general taxation. How will the adoption of the last amendment affect the owners of property in the city, the assessed value of which is sufficiently high that it can be successfully assessed for special benefits, but which has not yet paid the cost of paving streets in front of it? They will still have to pay the cost of improving their street in special benefits to lots abutting thereon, and will also have to contribute according to the assessed value of their property to pay the cost of the improvement of streets along which the vacant property is located. Is this a square deal?

The foregoing is a statement of the chief reasons which impel me and many others to oppose the last named three amendments.

> If the other six amendments are lost, the city will be no worse off than it is today. If these last three amendments are carried, a backward, not a forward, step will have been taken.

T. T. HUDSON.

MORALITY IS NEGLECTED

It Should Be Taught in the Schools, Says Pastor.

Reason for Barring Religious Instruction, But Not Moral.

"The Education of the Soul," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east, yesterday.

"All education that fails to train man's heart is insufficient and one-sided," said the speaker. "We need more than knowledge to be properly educated and prepared for life. This is often overlooked in our modern systems of education. We are carried away by the achievements of intellect, and we make knowledge the symbol of salvation. The school is supposed to eliminate all evil: man falls heir to, and to bring the kingdom of heaven down to earth by the way of the psychological kindergarten and the scientific laboratory.

"No one should doubt that there are most helpful influences in our magnificent school system. I would yield to no one in my admiration for our schools; if I were not a preacher, I should want to be a teacher. Especially morally helpful is of course always the noble personality of the teacher, and we are blessed with such. Yet all this is to no small extent, counterbalanced by influences which are not helpful. I do not refer here to the indiscriminate companionship with its dangers that school life leads to. I am thinking of what is inherent in our paedagogical methods, and necessarily so. Often in the best of schools, the boy receives false ambitions; the necessary discipline and strictness of the school will induce him to deceive and simulate; he will get the notion that he is somebody, because he can translate Virgil better than anyone else. The main thing before the teacher must needs be intellectual, scholarly achievement in her pupils. She or he has not the time to develop the moral side of the young. This can only be done incidentally, though often with good effect. But it lacks the very thing we prize in intellectual education, viz, "system." Hence, it comes that while we are progressing in culture and civilization, we are not advancing very rapidly in moral life.

"Certainly the knowledge of grammar does not help a boy speak the truth; a lie is a word spelled morally incorrectly. I have heard many a falsehood in the queen's best English. Do you think that the study of algebra will make a young man an honest cashier? Many of our absconding treasurers have been veritable wonders in calculation. Will the teaching of manners make a gentleman of a rogue, or simply make him a well-mannered rogue? Yes, will even the objective, scientific study of ethics pursued in our colleges, foster genuine manhood? I personally know a professor in one of our famous universities, whose pupils in ethics stole the books from his shelves, the very books on ethics. A man might indeed know the highest theories of conduct and yet remain a selfish scoundrel; just as a man might be a great theologian without being religious, or a great apostle of temperance, and yet spend his money in riotous living. Thus intellectual education need not bear the fruits of life. And the statistics will bear out this contention. Some of the most atrocious crimes in history were committed by men and women of superior mental training. Think of the bloody galaxy of Roman emperors. Think of the Cenci, the Borgia, Henry VIII, Catharine de Medici, Catharine of Russia, Phillip II, etc. If comparatively few educated and cultured persons are in prison, it is for two very obvious reasons. In the first place, the less educated will always be in the majority. In the second place, intellectual education, while it may fail to make a man better, will make him more prudent. The educated rascal will find out how to rob and steal within the bounds, and often with the assistance of law. If he breaks the law, it is generally that only his underlings are caught, while he makes a triumphant retreat, as the sugar-trust scandals in New York have proven. It is the little foolish, stupid fly, which is caught in the spider's net. The big blue bottle will break through it, and the wasp will carry away net and spider. Let it stand then that intellectual education gives merely to a man power to become a powerful factor in life. He may use that power for good or ill. Again I would repeat, that all this is not criticism of intellectual education. I only wish to show that it is not sufficient in itself, and needs to be complemented by the education of the soul.

"Everybody speaks about improving our schools by adding classes in music and art and manual training, and it is a wise and good thing. But I shall yet hear a man say, 'we can not have religious sectarian teaching in our schools, but why can we not have a man who will educate the hearts of our boys, so that when they step out into life, they find the weapons to combat the temptations of the world.' The heart of man, his sentiments, have been treated much like Cinderella in the fairy story, though after all, she is the queenliest of her sisters. If we want true men and women, we may address ourselves with knowledge to the head, but we must not forget to fill the heart with the divine wisdom of love and purity and righteousness. Yes the higher the tree of knowledge grows, so much more deeply must penetrate the roots into the soil of life: the higher the education of the intellect, the deeper must be the cultivation of the soul, we fail to build up highest manhood."

CULLUM RESENTS STATEMENTS MADE

Declares "Mud Batteries" of Opposition Will Be Fought to Limit.

To the Citizens of Duluth:

The office of mayor is an honorable one. I am trying to secure it in an honorable way. I shall depend entirely on the verdict of the voters after they have looked into the records, the motives, the character and the general fitness of the candidates. But certain statements, discreditable to me and to my friends, have been made by the opposition which I purpose to resent at every opportunity, and now that the enemy has opened its mud batteries on me, I shall fight to the limit of my means and ability.

The gentleman in charge of the mayor's campaign has stated that the money to be used in my campaign is to be contributed by denizens of the underworld and the disreputable elements of the community, and in return for such money I am to appoint a man to some position in the legal department of the city where their interests would be taken care of, and this report has been peddled about by officers of the Civic League. This is all a cowardly and brutal lie. This is the sort of blackguardism I will probably have to contend with in this campaign. I shall appoint to the positions in the legal department men who are the peers morally and intellectually of any member of the Civic League or of the "good citizens" committee.

With all their money and power, one would think they could afford to play a fairer game. Why not demonstrate to the public their candidate's ability, his firm and resolute backbone, his progressive ideas, his consistent inconsistency, how religiously he has kept his promises. If he has lived up to his platform of special issues of two years ago, then he is entitled to another term. These moral sponsors of his ought to be able to prove that he has. If they cannot, they are neither honest with themselves nor with the public. The God's truth is that they know, and they admit, that he has not kept his solemn pledges of his last campaign. How can anyone know he will live up to his present promises?

In Sunday morning's papers these poppeople in a shame-faced and apologetic way attempt to make out a peculiar kind of a case for him. They damn him with faint praise. I suppose it is because they promised the public so much in his behalf two years ago that they are now ashamed to admit that he has not delivered the goods, and try to rely on what the council has done for him in order to save their own self respect. Do I not present the situation correctly? The trustful public expects something better than this from men who pose as conservators of the public morals. He is welcome to all such support. I will look for mine among men who have quite as lofty motives, who are quite as loyal citizens, who have their loyalties quite as well as those more fortunately situated.

The real serious phase of such a situation is this: Men who set themselves up publicly as the good citizenship of the community—who are supposed to be representative of the average church membership of the city—who are supposed to stand for all that is good and uplifting and exemplary in life, how serious is it, you men who stand for these things, to "have the other half" believe that the things that have been going on in our home city during the past year have your endorsement and political support?

I want the support of men who will demand of me the clean, the fair, the manly, and the decent thing, and who will have the moral courage to condemn me when I fail. There may not be enough such men to bring success to me, but I believe there are.

I was urged to run for mayor by men whose motives would not be challenged by any man on earth. They were good men, earnest men, men whose profession it is to save souls, men whose profession it is to minister to physical ills, men who love their neighbors and their own children, and men who are not posing. They were, many of them, men whose duty and calling it is to go down among the lowly, the unfortunate, the miserable, and those "who have missed it" in life. These men represented to me that there have been for months past, and now more than ever before in our city, pitfalls for the unwary, dens of vice and debauchery, herding places for the vile and indecent, scattered through the business and resident districts of our city. These have been breeding places for disease and drunkenness among young boys and girls which it is not proper publicly to discuss. The moral issue is a practical issue, beyond the comprehension of those whose business does not bring them in contact with the facts. And that is the reason there is a difference of opinion between those gentlemen who have endorsed the candidacy of my opponent and those gentlemen who have asked me to enter this campaign. The one group of honest men does not know the facts; the other does.

LYCEUM—Fritzi Scheff in "The Prima Donna."

BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

Fritzi Scheff.

Fritzi Scheff's new comic opera, "The Prima Donna," in which she comes to the Lyceum tonight, requires a cast of very accomplished actors as well as singers, and several of the actors are not called upon to sing a note, this being left to those especially trained for it. When one sees in a light opera cast such names as John E. Hassard, Vernon Davidson, William K. Harcourt, Donald Hall, Martin Haydon, Anna Phelham, Tillie Salinger, Grace Dolmar, Maxine Verando, La Navetta, Marie Barry, Katherine Stewart and Virginia Reid, it is assured that the play must have worth as well as musical value. And that is the case with "The Prima Donna," for, strange to say, it has an interest in it that at times is really gripping, and the music is sometimes almost forgotten in the skilful development of the story.

Fritzi Scheff has a waltz song that is marvelously tuneful and dainty, and an aria that enables her to show that she is easily the greatest soprano who has ever sung in light opera in this country.

VIOLIN SOLOS AT FREE CONCERT

Variation of Usual Organ Program Pleases Big Audience.

From every standpoint the free concert given at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon was one of the most successful yet presented. The attendance, program and execution were all that could be desired and the appreciation manifested by Colbenson's violin selections were a distinct addition and innovation which met with instant approval. The "Adagio" from Schubert's Octette, slow in measure and beautiful in sentiment; Ries' "Perpetuum Mobile," which gave the violinist a great opportunity to demonstrate his mastery of technic, and the encore piece, the dainty "Salut d'Amour," by Elgar, artistically developed, rounded out a very satisfactory and pleasing trio of selections. Very artistic also was the accompaniment of Horace Reynolds subdued, suited to the piece, an accompaniment not a lead, but still giving strength and vitality to the whole. They were fine examples of musical taste.

The vocal solos of A. R. Bjorkquist were varied in selection and splendidly sung. The tenor voice with baritone quality was pleasing throughout and fully met all the requirements. The phrasing was artistic, as were the contrasts in tone, while the distinct enunciation was a great pleasure to the audience, which insisted on an encore after each number.

The organ numbers were a collection of "Old English melodies," arranged by Godfrey, the celebrated English bandmaster, embracing the best samples of the sailor songs, "Bay of Biscay, O;" "Poor Tom Bowling;" sentimental, such as "Barbara Allen;" humorous songs and dances, such as "Sir Roger de Coverly, and aristocratic as "Rule Brittania." Then, en suite, were presented three parts of Batiste's famous "Offertoire de Ste. Cecilie," seldom heard together. They are fine examples of modern organ composition, bright and dignified. As popular selections they suit the most critical and please those who merely like music. The program was completed by a splendid selection of music from Wallace's opera of "Maritana," generally considered one of the most tuneful of the good operas.

For next Sunday the overture to Wagner's "Rienzi" will represent the heavy operatic portion and Beethoven's beautiful "Sonata Pathetique" the classic with, probably, a collection of Scotch airs and some lighter pieces. The continued patronage, taxing the seating capacity of the auditorium, notwithstanding the high class of the music played, demonstrates that the people will like that kind of music.

GEORGE ST. CLAIR SECURES THE OLD MACOMBER MINE

Storm Center of Vermilion Range Work Transferred to 62-14.

Expects to Ship 100,000 Tons From Section 30 This Year.

George A. St. Clair has secured the old Macomber mine and already started exploration work. This not only is another victory for Mr. St. Clair in getting what he goes after, but transfers the storm center of Vermilion range exploration to the peerless township of 62-14.

The Macomber mine embraces the northwest quarter of section 13, 62-14. It belongs to the Steward Mineral company. The controlling interest is held by Rollin Stewart of Minneapolis, but William C. Sherwood has a minority interest.

Twenty years ago or so, a shaft was sunk on this property by Charles E. Shannon and associates. Some wonderfully high grade ore was found and mined, but the ore body was lost and never has been found since. It is believed that a deeper shaft, with intelligent crosscutting, will stand an excellent show to find the missing ore.

Mr. St. Clair has shown himself a master hand in exploration work, and his many friends and admirers fully expect him to duplicate at the Macomber mine his several brilliant successes on the Mesaba, Eastern Mesaba and the Eastern Vermilion at Section 30.

For many weeks there has been a hard hustle under way to secure this property. Mr. Stewart, although a very, very old man, is a past master in the art of trading. This deal, in fact, has had all the features of a spirited horse race. Much of the time, the seekers for the option have raced along, neck and neck, with Mr. Stewart up in the grand stand, playing the role of judge.

Despite the fact that the United States Steel corporation has many of the choice properties in 62-14, exploration work is bound to increase there steadily, and splendid history certainly will be written there during the year. Some of the very choicest formation on the entire Vermilion iron range is found in 62-14, and some strong interests have taken hold there. Mr. St. Clair's advent is hailed with joy by all.

On the western border of the township, almost entirely surrounded by United States Steel corporation lands, the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company has started exploration work on the southwest quarter of section 19. Some splendid surface showings have been discovered recently and the test pit crew was increased last week. Moe Brothers of Virginia, have secured the drilling contract and will have a heavy Sullivan drill at work there by Feb. 1.

The Central Vermilion Iron company has up camps, and is test pitting on the Alois Ebner land in section 15. William Besson has charge of the work and he is sanguine of success.

E. C. Kennedy has secured the McCue property in section 10, 62-14, and, although he does not have to start work until May 1, next, Mrs. McCue receives $150 a month in cash.

In section 13, John Helmer is drilling on lands belonging to Sang & Levy, but no information is being given out as to the results.

In sections 4 and 5 two drills are at work for companies headed by Thomas J. Walsh. He announces that splendid results attend this exploration work and heavy machinery plants are being installed for shaft sinking and other developments.

The Ely region is flourishing like a green bay tree. The steady producers there are working full force and work is under way for reopening the old Chandler mine in which Capt. Kent declares 4,000,000 tons of ore will be recovered has been sold.

Out at Section 30 everything looks rosy and is booming along in fine style. The officials of the Duluth & Iron Range road confirm the report that an extension will be built to Section 30, so as to permit ore shipments this year. George A. St. Clair freely states that he will ship 100,000 tons of ore from Section 30 in 1910. The construction of this extension bears out Mr. St. Clair's statement. It is further stated by Mr. St. Clair that he has sold 100,000 tons of Section 30 ore. This fact was reported some time ago but, at that time, was not verified by Mr. St. Clair. It is unofficially stated that this ore has been sold on a basis of $4.75 a ton for 55 per cent in iron, with an additional price of 5 cents for each unit or per cent of iron over that. This would make 65 per cent ore worth $6.25 in Cleveland. Ore averaging 67 per cent in metallic iron, with proper minimums of other elements, would be worth $6.55 per ton. From this sum would be deducted railroad and boat freight to Cleveland, insurance and commissions, as well as cost of mining and loading the ore. Combined rail and vessel freight last season was $1.50 per ton. Insurance and commissions are about 10 cents a ton. With cheap mining, due to slight depth and broken ore in the mine, the cost of mining and loading possibly can be done for 30 cents a ton—certainly within 50 cents a ton. So far, no stoping has been done, all the ore on the dump having come from work done in sinking, drifting and crosscutting. By May 1, from 35,000 to 50,000 tons should be on the dump from this development work.

Mr. St. Clair has a payroll at Section 30 exceeding $10,000 a month. It has been stated that 300 men will be employed there before next winter if all goes well.

Mr. St. Clair also has a lease on the eastern half of Section 30, 160 acres, and conditions compel him to get work under way. It is reported that, already, he has a shaft started there which bottoms in ore. The outlook for ore on that end of the property is excellent, therefore.

All these statements are facts that cannot be disputed and will go a long way to convince doubters that Section 30 has the ore and will become a valuable mine. The Duluth & Iron Range officials must be convinced, otherwise $20,000 would be expended in building an extension to and across the property to Garden Lake.

Thomas J. Walsh went up to Tower last Thursday and got back Saturday noon. He was busy around Tower Junction during his stay, and says that so far as the other end of the range is concerned, he heard more news in Duluth than at Tower. Concerning matters tributary to Tower, Mr. Walsh says:

"On the North American, Hole No. 8, close to the railroad track, was in good ore when I was there. The temporary machinery plant is being used in shaft sinking. The shaft was down about thirty feet when I left. The water is easily handled with a bucket to date. The stone foundations for the engine and boiler houses have been finished and the superstructures will go up rapidly. We are working twenty-five men at the North American and that force will be increased from time to time.

"In section 4 and 5, the Vermilion Steel & Iron extension of Vermilion Steel & Iron companies are operating a drill each. On the first-named property the last hole started is down 20 feet and the other 100 feet, both in ore.

"Camp building is in progress at these properties and a portion of the machinery is on the ground. All of it will be there within ten days. It is being freighted in via Lake Vermilion, and, when installed, will be a duplicate of the big plant on the North American. Within the past ten days we have received nine carloads of machinery at Tower for our different enterprises.

"I am pleased and able to say that development work at the Roy mine is showing up most favorably. When I was there the shaft was down about eighty feet and Capt. Kitto reported that the soaprock was about out of the shaft and the bottom was just about all clean ore.

"Drilling is going along smoothly on the La Chance and a crew of men is test-pitting on the Nordstrom property, recently purchased by the Cannon Mining company. Drilling is in progress on the Murray homestead under the auspices of the Vermilion Iron Exploration company, which company also is sinking a shaft on Pine Island.

"Some of our men at the Vermilion Steel & Iron company's property recently were up to section 36, 63-15, where County Treasurer Holgate and associates are exploring a state lease. I was informed that a shaft is being sunk there which is showing up some elegant ore. I was unable to get over there for a personal inspection."

So many appreciative remarks have been made because of the publication of snatches of early history of the Vermilion range and mines, that The Herald herewith adds a few facts concerning the mines at Ely other than the Chandler and Pioneer.

One of the pioneers at Ely was Capt Harvey, an Englishman who came to this country for a British syndicate but finally went into business for himself and, in time, came to the Vermilion. He was a good miner and understood iron and iron formations.

Along back in 1882 or 1883, Mr. Harvey scripped the north one-half of the southeast one-quarter of section 27, 63-12, now known as the Zenith mine. He started test pits and uncovered jasper ledges containing small streaks of iron ore. He always maintained that a big body of iron ore would be found below. Mr. Harvey sold a third interest in the property to John Rice, president of the First National Bank of Tower, and another third to Robert B. Whiteside. Mr. Harvey died in 1888, or thereabout, and his interest passed to Mrs. Harvey. Somewhere about 1889, the Bradleys, of Duluth, took a lease from Mrs. Harvey, Mr. Whiteside and Banker Rice. They worked there several years and shipped some ore. In time, for some reason, the Bradleys fell into arrears on royalties in the sum of $15,000. The fee owners sued and the case came to trial in the district court. The Bradleys offered evidence to the effect that there was no more ore in the mine, therefore maintained that they should not be held for delinquent royalties and the court sustained their position.

When Dr. N. B. Hulst put ginger into the Vermilion range mining as head of the Oliver Iron company and about the time he leased the Pioneer mine, he recommended that the Oliver Iron company buy two-thirds of the fee to the Zenith mine. His advice was rejected. The Harvey and Rice interests then were acquired by Dr. Hulst and T. F. Cole, personally. The Herald's informant is uncertain as to the price but it was $150,000, anyway, perhaps $300,000. Later, Robert B. Whiteside refused $300,000 for his one-third interest.

The fee owners then leased the property to the Oliver Iron company on a royalty basis. A shaft was sunk and a monster ore body was found. Some consider it the largest in the Ely trough, but others believe that it never will produce as much ore as the Pioneer mine. It bears the very best ore of any mine at Ely and, perhaps, its ore cannot be excelled in the world.

The Savoy mine embraces the east half of the northwest quarter of section 26, 63-12. It was selected by the state of Minnesota as school land. John Meginis, now a prominent capitalist of Duluth, discovered that the state's selection was invalid, and he filed a pre-emption on it in 1887. At the same time John Flynn, afterwards postmaster of Duluth, filed a homestead claim on the same land.

In due course, Mr. Meginis relinquished to Jimmy James for a consideration of $5,000. Mr. Flynn also relinquished to James. The latter scripped the land and gave Flynn a quarter interest in return for the relinquishment. John G. Brown helped James financially and received a quarter interest. R. N. Marble, who acted as land attorney in the matter was given a quarter interest for his services.

John G. Brown was not a wealthy man in those days, but he lined up Andreas M. Miller, who had more money than some people have hay. Mr. Miller furnished Brown cash to buy up the interests of his associates. Mr. Flynn let go for $15,000 and Mr. Marble contented himself with about the same sum. Jimmy James got more than the others.

Messrs. Miller and Brown then started development work. A shaft was put down ninety feet and diamond drilling included a hole that cut ninety feet of ore, on an angle. D. H. Bacon, in behalf of the Minnesota Iron company, then took an option on a royalty basis of 25 cents a ton. Mr. Bacon declared that he never could find over seven feet of ore, and dropped the option.

Messrs. Brown and Miller decided to do more exploration themselves. Brown, to secure cash to meet his share of the work, sold Miller a small interest, cutting his holding down to a fifth of the fee. Sinking of a shaft started in greenstone 400 feet south of the drill hole that cut the ninety feet of ore, the intention being to sink 500 feet and then drift north towards the ore body. At a depth of 385 feet the shaft broke into the ore body.

About that time Dr. N. B. Hulst came along and commenced to dicker for the property. Brown was well cleaned out financially and was very anxious to close a deal with Dr. Hulst. Mr. Miller, however, stiffened up like a ramrod and would not listen to Mr. Brown's ideas of what they ought to accept.

"Write Dr. Hulst and ask him a royalty of 30 cents a ton and a cash bonus of $200,000," said Mr. Miller.

"That would be useless," said Brown. "He never would accept it, and we will lose this chance to make a deal."

"If you do not wish to write the letter, I will do it myself," replied Mr. Miller, and he kept his word.

John G. Brown nearly fainted when a letter was received from Dr. Hulst cheerfully and quickly accepting the offer.

Today the Savoy mine is one of the noted properties of the Vermilion range and the royalties from the ores four times a year fatten the pockets of A. M. Miller and John G. Brown.

The Sibley & Bearinger iron mine is located on the west half of the northwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 26, 63-12. It was bought by Sibley & Bearinger along back in 1884 or 1885 for the pine it bore. Afterwards Donald H. Bacon took an option for a lease under a royalty of 25 cents a ton. He drilled and then surrendered his option, as seemed a very common custom for him in those days.

Dr. Hulst came along with the Oliver Iron company, when that corporation absorbed the old Minnesota Iron company and he exercised an option for a lease in due course. The property was explored with diamond drills and then a steeel shaft was put down. The remainder of the story is commonplace and embraces nothing but ore production and payment of royalties.

Then there's the Lazarus Silverman mine that pays a royalty to the Silverman estate from the United States Steel corporation each year, but which is not a producer yet. It is located on the northeast quarter of section 26, 63-12. Dr. Hulst, in behalf of the Oliver Iron company, took an option on this property under a royalty of 25 cents a ton. He drilled 1,250 feet in greenstone and not only issued orders to stop drilling, but wrote the late Lazarus Silverman that his company would surrender the option.

There was a delay, for some reason, in getting word to the drill crew to shut down work, and by the time the word did reach the men the drill had gone down five feet deeper, 1,255 feet, and cut the ore body. Dr. Hulst lost no time in writing a diplomatic letter to Lazarus Silverman, the erstwhile cunning Chicago capitalist and banker, saying that he would withdraw the previous letter, if Mr. Silverman was agreeable, and that exploration would continue. The option afterwards was exercised.

All the romance of mining is not confined to gold and copper in remote regions of the Far West.

It is believed that the United States Steel corporation intends to take out the ore of the Silverman mine through the shaft on the Savoy mine, as the dip of the ore body of the Ely trough is to the southward from its center, the turn taking place either in the Zenith or Pioneer. The best posted men believe that the Savoy and Silverman bodies connect.

While the storm center of Vermilion range exploration has shifted towards township 62-14, it has not forsaken township 62-13 by any means. E. C. Kennedy and John Helmer are rushing their respective interests with most flattering success. Mr. Kennedy is drilling on the Sauntry property and, as previously announced, has a pit in clean ore. He found a likely looking outcrop and started to dig. At a depth of twelve feet clean ore was the result. It paid him to dig where no man had dug before.

Where half a dozen Duluth men are associated together a townsite is apt to be the result. The Duluth-Vermilion Iron company, which acquired the John B. Bisbee property some time ago in section 7, 62-13, is being financed through Lee Farmer, a Duluth broker. It recently was announced that a townsite will be laid out on this property and the public given a chance to invest in town lots. The midway position of the Robinson Lake region between Tower and Ely leads to the belief that a town will fill a long-felt want.

Mr. Bisbee states that a hotel will be erected and an automobile road constructed from the new town to Burntside Lake. The plans embrace a second hotel on Burntside Lake where landlocked salmon will be a feature of the menu. Another plan embraces the development of a famous spring on the Bisbee property, making the future city a watering place as well as a center of trade in the iron mines that are being opened up.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Jan. 24.—Contracts for 60,000 tons of pig iron were placed in the eastern territory last week, a little more than half of which was for steel making iron, including 15,000 tons of basic at $18.75 delivered for shipment over the third quarter of the year. The sales were made at prices indicating a decline of about 25c per ton.

The foundry contracts aggregated about 25,000 tons, including 10,000 tons for an electrical company for shipment over the second half of the year. Pipe works took about 4,000 tons for early shipment. The balance of the foundry contracts were for scattered deliveries over the four quarters of the year; the orders were divided among Virginia, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania makers, little business going to Alabama or Tennessee furnaces.

Southern furnaces, however, took additional orders in the central west and southwest. Agricultural implement manufacturers and malleable founders in the West placed contracts for about 15,000 tons for various deliveries.

It is estimated that contracts placed last week in all districts aggregated about 125,000 tons.

Railroads placed orders for 8,500 [illegible] and about 45,000 tons of rails.

[illegible] bridge orders were light. Contracts are still pending for about 10,000 cars. Railroad equipment shops have put out inquiries for round lots of plain structural material, but some of those in the East, anticipating lower prices are holding off.

Numerous small contracts have been placed for fabricated structural steel calling for about 30,000 tons, making total contracts since the first of January, about 90,000 tons. Many other contracts are pending for buildings and bridges in all parts of the country.

McKNIGHT FOR STATE SENATOR

Alderman From the First Ward May Enter the Race.

Alexander G. McKnight, who is not a candidate this year for re-election as alderman from the First ward, may be a candidate against George R. Laybourn for the Republican nomination for state senator in the Fifty-first district at the primaries next fall.

Mr. McKnight has not finally decided to enter the race, but strong pressure is being brought to bear on him and he may decide to enter before the primaries. He says that six months from now will be time enough to make an announcement. Mr. McKnight has a strong following in the First ward and his friends think he would make a good run against the present senator.

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is in reality an internal inflammation; a diseased condition of the blood cells which supply the nourishment and strength necessary to sustain our bodies. The disease is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which comes from indigestion, weak kidneys, constipation, and other irregularities of the system. This uric acid produces an inflamed and acrid condition of the blood, and the circulation, instead of nourishing the different portions of the body, continually deposits into the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, the irritating and pain-producing acid with which it is filled. Then follow the painful and torturing symptoms of Rheumatism. We do not claim for S. S. S. that it is anything more than a first class blood purifier, and that is just what is needed to cure Rheumatism. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and by neutralizing the uric acid and driving it from the blood, effectually and surely removes the cause of Rheumatism. S.S.S. strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, causing pain and agony throughout the system, it becomes an invigorating, nourishing maid, furnishing health and vigor to every portion of the body, and permanently relieving the suffering caused by Rheumatism. S.S.S. is purely vegetable and will not injure the most delicate system. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

CEREMONIAL TO BE HELD HERE

D. O. K. K. Members From Three States Are Coming to Duluth.

The fourth ceremonial of Al Sirat temple, No. 135, D. O. K. K., to be given at the old Masonic temple tomorrow evening, promises to be a grand and glorious affair. Knights are coming from Superior and Minnesota cities and from the Copper country of Michigan. Royal Vizier F. L. Young and Secretary A. M. Fenton have been assured that Calumet knights will be on hand fifty strong, to assist in feeding the tyros to the tiger.

The D. O. K. K. ceremonial is a beautiful one, and it always attracts every knight within traveling distance of the place where it is to be held. It is an occasion for good fellowship and solemn pledges of fraternity, as well as an occasion for much amusement for the initiated. The tyros, who are led over the burning sands and through the jungles to the tiger's lair, furnish the amusement, as well as the subjects for the instructive ceremonies, and after they make the journey they are willing to swear by the order and assist in furnishing material for the next ceremonial.

The Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan is a Pythian body, yet distinct from the Knights of Pythias. It has its own supreme officers, but nobody not a member of the Knights of Pythias in good standing may become a knight.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

THE MARATHON GAME OFFERS RICH "PICKINGS" TO SOME OF THE PROMOTERS ON THE COAST

Californians Have Been Stung By the "Bug"—Bill Lang Is Growing Chesty.

(BY BRUCE)

California, a romantic state, where romance is kept alive by tradition, a part of our country where the very air and the old landmarks of the Spanish settlers stir the imagination, has at last been attacked by the Marathon bug, which is natural since the Marathon race is of the ancient and classical and come comes down from the romantic age of Greece.

In California the natives are wild over the long run. They have received the game with the wildest enthusiasm. They have read up the history of the sport—how the messenger established the first record by making a very swift run of some twenty-six miles or thereabouts, and how the sport developed until now the records of the modern day runners are far ahead of the records established by the runners of ancient Greece.

The native son of California is an enthusiastic citizen. When once they become enthusiastic over anything they enter into the spirit of it with all their being. That is one of the reasons why the Marathon game is booming so upon the Pacific coast.

Henri St. Yves, who first learned the running game after hours of waiting on a table, in the gay and festive capital of France, and our own Johnny Hayes, who added stings to the hope that he can defeat the best long-distance runners in the world, are both on the Pacific coast preparing for a race.

The Frenchman came to this country without much reputation. True, he was called the French champion, but we never knew that in France they had any runners that were capable of giving any of even our second-class performers, a hard race at the tape.

St. Yves has short and stocky legs, and at first glance you would think he is the last person in the world who could cover the long-distance grind. You might possibly pick him for a hundred-yard man, for many of the short-distance sprinters have short legs and cover the century mark with amazing speed. But for a long-distance man to possess the physique of St. Yves—lala—it was to laugh.

He entered the Marathon derby at the polo grounds, New York, and there was much speculation as to what the Gaul would do. He won the race, defeating Shrubb, Longboat, Hayes, Marsh and others. He surprised the followers of running, for with his short and thick legs, and his short, choppy stride, one you would think would tire a man out before he had traveled three or four miles.

Some one who probably escaped being called a nature faker by Theodore Roosevelt said that you can never tell by the personal appearance of a frog how far the eccentric animal could jump. This is undoubtedly true. You can apply the versions of the frog's deceiving appearance to the St. Yves person.

It has long been the ambition of Little Johnny Hayes to defeat Dorando. He will have the opportunity of showing his class by defeating St. Yves. Hayes will have to show far different form than he has shown since he returned from the Olean triumph, if he expects to show a clean pair of heels to the Frenchman. If he defeats St. Yves, he will have a very excellent chance of lowering the colors of his old rival, Dorando.

San Francisco is the home of Marathon racing. The natives are taking to the game with even a greater degree of enthusiasm than the citizens of Gotham greeted the foreign stars. Over 10,000 people saw Hayes defeat some of the local men. The match between St. Yves and the little American will be witnessed by a great crowd of cheering Californians, believe the promoters of the game. It does look as if the running game is coming West.

After whipping poor, old Bib Fitzsimmons and knocking out for the 'steenth time lemon Bill Squires, the chest of Bill Lang is swelled so that the dorsal muscles are in grave danger of being stretched to the bursting point.

The other lemon, the man whom Tommy Burns kidded along until he believed he had given the Australians a run for their money, and then knocked out, threatens to come to the United States.

Lang has stated that he is looking for larger worlds to conquer. He is being interviewed, which is also the sad part of a fighter's career. According to the words of loquacious Bill, he will come to this country and meet and beat Al Kaufman. Then he will be in line to challenge the winner of the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

Now Kaufman is not much of a fighter, to be sure, but he can just naturally beat the noodle off the Australian Lang will be very foolish to wander from the shores of his own country. He should stay right at home where the picking is good.

It will be a very great surprise to some if Tommy Burns allows the Lang person to go along much further without challenging him. Tommy beat the Lang person some time ago, but has probably still stings to the hope that he can defeat the best long-distance runners in the world, are both on the Pacific coast preparing for a race.

There is a growing query as to whether the Jeffries-Johnson fight is coming off. If Gleason and Richard Harding Davis get together in the near future San Francisco and Salt Lake City will look upon the efforts of the two promoters with suspicion, not to say disgust. This fighting between the two promoters may be the only fighting that will be done.

It is currently rumored that Jeffries is disgusted with the efforts of the two promoters. Suppose that Jeff should decide to throw up the whole matter. Gee, what a thought! He would have accumulated a fortune and would have never come near fighting.

If it is to be hoped that Gleason and Rickard will get together in loving sympathy and agree to agree in the near future. We all want to see the fight. It will, or should be, the biggest pugilistic event of the century.

POTTS IS ON THE TRAIL OF THE "OIL OF MUSTARD KID"

In a letter to the sporting editor of The Herald, Jimmie Potts, "champion lightweight fighter and wrestler of the Northwest and Canada," replies to the numerous statements made by the rather loquacious Curley Ulrich.

Not only does Potts say he will be willing to fight the Ulrich person in a well-equipped club or on the top of a mountain—he also says the engagement will afford him much pleasure, and it is with keen anticipation that he looks forward to the clash with the "Oil of Mustard Kid."

The letter from the man who once beat Ulrich and who says he is willing to repeat the feat at a very short notice is as follows:

"Friend Bruce—Just say for me that I'll box Curley Ulrich any old time he finds a battle ground and the articles don't call for a frame-up for Mr. Ulrich to win, as the Glendive, Mont., articles did. First, the club was to appoint the referee. The referee was to be a Mr. Donahue. He acted as referee in the Ulrich-Thompson fight and he had money on Ulrich to win. He has also $500 to say Ulrich can beat me—with him refereeing.

"Second, fighters only allowed one second for a 20-round go. Did you ever hear the like? Third, in case that any man in either corner coached, the referee was to stop the fight and give the fight to the man whose corner did not offend. Will you bet that they wouldn't have had a low-brow in my corner hollering his head off, any time I looked like a winner? Curley is a great believer in Ulrich. Any fight he can frame he can win. Willets beat him. English beat him. I did the trick twice.

"In these cases he wasn't sending 'Kelly' in ahead, and then trimming him. 'Kelly' is on Ulrich's record a dozen times. However, it isn't always an Irish name that 'Kelly' uses.

"Curley talks about what weight he will let me box him at. Gee; I must be a big fellow. Is the pride of Superior a welterweight or a middleweight? Please get him to declare himself. One hundred and forty-two pounds ringside is the welterweight limit, and a pound over that means the Curley boy is a middleweight. He stated in a Duluth newspaper that I was dodging $1,000 purses. Show me! I will give you full power, as sporting editor of The Herald, to close a match with me.

"If he is a welterweight, 142 pounds ringside, I'll box him twenty rounds, his rules to govern and split the purse 65 and 35 per cent. If he is a middleweight I will box him at catch weight, his rules to govern. He can have all over $200 and two round-trip tickets that the promoters will give. If he is a little fellow I'll post $500 to box him in private, at 135 pounds, 3 o'clock, forfeit to go as side bet. You can pick five fellows to see the fun. Yours as ever,

"JIMMIE POTTS."

FORWARD PASS VERY DANGEROUS

"Tad" Jones Thinks Football Is Now Much Like Basket Ball.

New York, Jan. 24.—"The forward pass is the most dangerous play in football and should be abolished," said "Tad" Jones, the famous Yale quarterback in a statement given out here today. He says:

"In the West this play has been developed until the game resembles basket ball to a great extent. It is pretty but dangerous. A man receiving a forward pass uncovers and leaves himself unprotected. The onside kick is a better play, just as brilliant, not dangerous and more in accord with the spirit of football."

Would Abolish Forward Pass.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 24.—Ted Coy, captain of Yale's championship eleven last fall, believes that two important changes should be made in the football rules this year. "I would advise," he said, "the abolition of the forward pass and the reduction of the number of yards to be gained on four downs to seven, instead of ten as at present."

St. Yves vs. Marsh.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 24.—Arrangements have been completed for a marathon race between Henri St. Yves and John D. Marsh, Canadian runner, to be run either on Feb. 6 or Feb. 13.

EXCITING GAME PROMISED.

Big Duluths and Northern Juniors Will Meet on Ice.

Hockey enthusiasts throughout the city are awaiting with interest the game of tomorrow evening between the Big Duluth and the Northern Juniors, believed to be the two strongest teams in the City Amateur Hockey league.

The game tomorrow evening will be the first meeting of the present season. Both teams have won all their league games. Both teams have also shown speed and individual ability.

The winner of the contest of tomorrow evening will be looked upon as the strongest team in the league to date. The members of both teams keenly realize the advantage that will lie in victory in the first meeting and the game therefore should be exciting and sharply contested from the opening whistle to the close of play.

HAS ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT

Jack Johnson Has a Date With New York Grand Jury.

Trouble Began When Friend Referred to the Old "Growler" Days.

New York, Jan. 24.—Besides his pressing engagement with James J. Jeffries on July 4, Jack Johnson, the big negro pugilist, yesterday entered another date in his notebook—this time with the grand jury of New York county. And, as an earnest that he will keep it, Johnson was required to furnish a bail bond of $1,000. When this formality was concluded, Johnson left for Montreal.

Felonious assault is charged against the champion, who, the complaint recites last week swung his rigat to the jaw of an under-sized friend of his own race and then stepped ungently on his fallen friend's face.

The hearing of the case came up Saturday in a magistrate's court. Norman Pinder, the complainant, testified that when Johnson entered an uptown saloon last week, he (Pinder) expressed a desire to buy, specifying, however, that the champion's tastes must revert to those of years ago, when he and Pinder were glad to drink beer from a "rusty growler." Johnson drinks only champagne nowadays. Whether he considered a qualified invitation to drink as an insult or whether diplomacy was lacking in the mention of the "can," Pinder said he didn't know. What he did know was that there was a flash in the eye of the big Texas negro, his right arm described an arc and his fist landed on Pinder's jaw. Then the lights went out. The clang of the ambulance bell awakened him.

Johnson's lawyer argued against his client being held and endeavored to show that what marks Pinder bore had been received in falling downstairs on the night of the alleged assault. When the court refused against him, he protested that the case was a "frame up" to prevent Johnson fighting Jeffries. Johnson said nothing but grinned throughout.

Prior to going to court, Johnson delivered a lecture on manliness at the colored men's branch of the Y. M. C. A.

Sobriety, application and again sobriety, he said, are cardinal requisites for success in life, with devotion to one's aged mother a close second.

Johnson told of his early struggles and obscurity—those days referred to by Mr. Pinder when they both drank beer out of a rusty can. Then he launched into the pith of his discourse.

What Happened That Eve.

"To approach intelligently the psychology of pugilism," he said, "it is essential to grasp the distinction between the venal side and that side which makes for the upbuilding of manliness. Depth of lung, although of assistance is not essential. But energy, application, sobriety—write those down in your notebook. Sullivan subsists by vaudeville. Corbett is no longer a serious factor in pugilism. Sharkey has passed from the domain and Jeffries will pass. I do not ammadvert, but sobriety is the touchstone of success.

"Learn to use your hands and not to fall over your feet and your social success will follow."

Clarence Brashaw in a Wholesale Pin Spill at Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 24.—Clarence Brashaw, a former rival of Dave Woodbury for national bowling honors yesterday in a match tournament of ten games rolled a total of 2,274. His high game for the series was 231 and low was 196. A summary of the score shows seventy-four strikes and eight splits with no errors.

No Records Smashed.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 24.—No records were smashed in the five-men events Saturday night in the Middle West bowling tournament and it looks as if the 2,909 score of the Brunswick-Balke five of Kansas City will take first money.

YOUNG CORBETT WILL RETIRE

Former Featherweight Champion Wants to Try the Simple Life.

New York, Jan. 24.—Mister Young Corbett is about to kiss the white lights good-bye. He wants to keep some chickens and a cow and be a farmer—one of those commuting farmers, who are never more than fifty-five minutes from the Grand Central.

It is because Mister Young Corbett wants this cow and these chickens and perhaps a few pigs that he is about to be tendered one of those things known as a benefit. Mention a prominent lightweight fighter, now down and out, who has not been the cause or other tendered some sort of a testimonial by his loving friends. Oh, yes, there may be one or two but you'll have some trouble in recalling their names. It is quite the correct thing to give a fighter a benefit, and Mister Young Corbett never had one before, though he needed one badly just after Jimmy Britt was given a decision over him.

What Happened That Eve.

Breaking into the even tenor of this yarn, listen a few seconds to what happened to Mister Young Corbett on the night of that cleebrated battle which gave "native son" a new significance throughout the East.

Young Corbett thought it would be a cinch to beat Britt. On the night of the fight Willie Britt slipped into Young Corbett's dressing room and suggested that they cut the money 75 and 25 per cent. The cut previously agreed upon gave a longer end to the loser, Young Corbett, being a gambler of attainments and much nerve, immediately agreed. He had it all fixed up with himself how he was going to nail James Edward, and the new cut was so much gravy. Granny gave the fight to Britt and Mister Young Corbett was left flatter than a flounder.

His Merry Antonmy.

Mister Young Corbett with his merry little ways and his merry little round stomach and his merry little chickens and pigs, should make the ideal farmer. Everybody would be much obliged to meet a farmer like that.

Young Corbett was never a burglar. He was always trying. He never tried harder in his life than when he thought there was a chance for him to come back. It was the dream of his life that he might be able to stop Bat Nelson and regain his place as a top-notcher. Somebody else stepped in and stopped Young Corbett before he had his chance at Nelson, and now he feels that he must say good-by to the gloves and the gymnasiums and settle down to face middle age.

Always Been Square.

Because he has always been square—in the ring at least—and because he was always out to do the best that was in him for the entertainment of those who followed fisticuffs for recreation, Young Corbett's benefit will be a success.

So here's to Young Corbett and the cow and the chickens and the pigs and the little farm somewhere on a well-traveled road—just as far away from Broadway as it is possible to get him. Broadway never did Mister Young Corbett any good.

Confidence Displayed.

New York, Jan. 24.—The increased confidence in the future of racing in the East is shown by the large number of race horses now in training at the three big race tracks in or near New York city. Twelve months ago the number was less than 100. Now there are more than 400 at the tracks and at least another 100 at private establishments within two hours of the city.

Bryant Defeats Sharkey.

Frank Bryant, champion roller skater of the Head of the Lakes, defeated Paul Sharkey of Superior by a quarter of a lap in a mile race that was skated last evening at the Lincoln park pavilion.

CONFERENCE ON SCHEDULE BEGINS.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 24.—Men prominent in the baseball world are gathered here today, the occasion being the annual joint session of the schedule and rules committee of the American and National leagues.

Whether the National league teams shall play 168 games or 154, as in past years, was to be one of today's earliest conference topics.

Chairman Charles H. Ebbetts of the National league schedule committee said today:

"The league has instructed me to frame a 168-game schedule, and this I propose to do. If it doesn't work, we will go back to the 154-game season."

It was reported if Ebbetts' schedule would dovetail into the 154-game schedule of the American league, opposition to it will be dropped.

Incidental to the schedule question will arise the revision of the rules.

No official announcements are expected at the close of today's session.

WILL ATTEND MATCH.

Mayor and City Officials Will Witness Person-Zybszko Struggle.

Saturday Mayor Haven for himself and on behalf of the city officials, accepted the invitation of the Duluth Athletic club to attend the Zybszko-Person match at the Armory, as the guests of the club.

Reserved seats will be set aside for the mayor and the city officers.

Interest all over the city and from towns around Duluth, is being shown in the match between the great Pole and Person.

Three hundred ringside seats will be placed on sale Tuesday of the present week.

The match of Feb. 4 will not be a handicap affair, but a finish match, best two-out-of-three falls. Person has confided to his friends that he will go right after the giant Pole and attempt to get behind him. He will not be content with defensive work.

Good preliminaries will precede the big card of the evening. All the details of the preliminaries have not been arranged to date.

Person has made hundreds of friends here by his wonderful contest with John Gorion. He is expected to give the Pole a hard fight.

NORTHLAND IN NATIONAL.

Local Golf Club Will Become Member of United States Association.

Because of the revision of the charter of the United States Golf association, so as to admit clubs with less than an 18-hole course, and also clubs in the Western part of the country, the Northland Country club of this city will become a member of the national association with full voting powers.

Previous to the meeting last week of the United States Golf association, it was exclusively an Eastern organization having members only the clubs in the Eastern section of the country.

Concessions asked for by the Western Golf association were granted, throwing open the membership to any representative golf club in the country. Thus Duluth will be represented in what will become a national association with all the rights enjoyed by any of the Eastern clubs.

The fact that the Minikahda club of Minneapolis landed the Western tournament for this season, is a source of gratification to the members of the Northland club, as this will enable the local club to send a full representation to the tournament.

Ole Boy Wins.

Ole Boy won two straight heats yesterday in the race with Geography and Essex, Jr. The owner of each nag has posted a $50 side bet on the outcome of the race, which was for the best two-out-of-three heats at the distance of a quarter of a mile. All the heats were very close. The time was 31¼ and 31½.

FIRST OF SERIES OF ADDRESSES

Dr. Lyman B. Sperry Talks to Audience of Men at Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Lyman Beecher Sperry gave the first of a series of addresses at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. He spoke in the gymnasium to a large audience of men. His subject tonight will be "The Seven Big Devils to Be Cast Out." His lectures are of interest to men, and only men are admitted to them. Tonight's address will be started at 9:30 o'clock for the convenience of the gymnasium classes which will be at work earlier in the evening.

Dr. Sperry has many friends in this city. He was professor of science for ten years at Carleton college, Northfield, and for twenty years was a non-resident lecturer of that institution.

The men's meeting next Sunday will be addressed by Clifford Roe of Chicago, leading authority in the United States on the so-called "white slave" traffic. He recently resigned as assistant state's attorney for Cook county, Illinois, to help in the suppression of the "white slave" traffic. His address will be on a phase of that question.

RAILWAY CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Transportation Men Mix Business and Pleasure at Regular Meeting.

The Northern Railway club met at the Commercial club Saturday night and twenty members were received. About 150 were present. President J. H. Hicken said business would be mixed with pleasure hereafter, and Saturday night was a sample of the future, as there were songs and entertainment features besides the speeches and papers.

W. F. D. Long read a paper on steel freight cars, written by W. S. Atwood, chief engineer of the Dominion Car & Foundry company, and read originally before the Canadian Railway club. Mr. Atwood said that before many years all freight cars will be of steel and of a standard construction.

Mr. Phillips, Mr. Shone and Mr. Ballou sang and the Magnolia quartet gave several selections. E. L. Millar spoke briefly and "Noodles" Fagan, the New York newsboy, gave a breezy speech.

RED CROSS STAMPS BRING $567.08 IN DULUTH.

The national Red Cross organization gets 20 per cent of the total and the local organizations in the state hold the remainder.

Freight Liquor Into Indian Territory Then Turn It Over to Railroad.

Novel Method Alleged to Take Contraband Goods Into Detroit, Minn.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—An impeding liquor famine in Detroit is making the four saloon keepers, whom Government Agent W. E. Johnson allows to run there, resort to heroic measures to supply their thirsty patrons.

The railroads learned that they were equally liable with the saloon keepers for introduction of liquor into the Indian reservation, consequently they refused to carry liquor across the reservation lines.

As the stock of drinkables in the four Detroit saloons was not large, quick action was demanded. Arrangements were made to have the liquor put off the trains at Vegas, just outside the reservation. From this little town liquor is transported by sleighs to points within the reservation. This makes the drivers of the sleighs liable, but they are taking a long chance.

Reports of Drunken Indians.

Once across the line the liquor is again put aboard the train and is carried on to Detroit. W. C. Calderwood, secretary of the state prohibition committee, said that he had not heard how the other towns in the reservation were getting their liquor, but that he felt sure if the railroad companies were warned they would not take liquor into any of the reservations. "We are getting reports of drunken Indians in Detroit every day," said Calderwood, "and when Mr. Johnson returns it is possible these four saloons will be closed."

CORNET PLAYER SLUGGED.

Set Upon By Four Men and Badly Beaten Near Odanah, Wis.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Undersheriff Dormady arrested four men at Odanah, brought them to Ashland and locked them up in the county jail. Friday night there was a dance at Odanah. After the dance Louis Miller, who officiated with the cornet, started on his way home and was pounced upon by several men, who beat, bruised, kicked, slugged and otherwise mistreated him, leaving him stretched out with a collar bone broken and other injuries too numerous to mention. The four men arrested are John Jankie, Duffie Cadotte, George Vavensi and Ed. Parquette. Cadotte is an Indian and the others are whites. Their examination may be delayed for several weeks until Miller is able to appear against them. One or two others may be implicated in the assault.

FIND LITTLE TRAFFIC

In "White Slaves" in State of Minnesota, Says Investigator.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—No evidence of white slave traffic can be found in Minnesota, after a thorough investigation, covering the last two months. The work has been carried on as a part of the general government investigation, with Joseph Freimuth, formerly of the New York detective force, at its head. He has had assistance from railroad employes and from the police of the Twin Cities and Duluth. An independent investigation is being made by a committee from the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs, which also has failed to find evidence of such traffic. The women's department of the state labor bureau has come to a similar conclusion.

BLINDPIGGER IS GIVEN STIFF ONE

Six Months in the County Jail and Fined to Tune of $1,000.

Stanley, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge E. B. Goss has adjourned the first term of the district court of Mountrail county, at which a great many cases were disposed of. Robert Hetrick of White Earth drew the prize package of the term, being sentenced to six months in jail and fined $1,000 and costs, amounting to $200, for blind pigging, and in default of payment he must serve 500 additional days in jail. An interesting part of the proceedings was the fact that Hetrick has managed to get away from the authorities, forfeiting his bond. The sentence hangs over him and when arrested he will be obliged to serve it.

Valentine Jasmanka, the man who attempted to kill his son, was given a sentence of one year in state's prison. Ten prohibition law violation cases were considered, five of the men being found guilty and given county jail sentences.

Norway, Mich., Attorney Named By Both Parties for Judgeship.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-Mayor Richard C. Flannigan of Norway, Mich., one of the well-known members of the bar of the Twenty-fifth judicial district, has been unanimously nominated by both the Republicans and the Democrats of the district for judge, to succeed Judge J. W. Stone on the circuit bench, to be voted for in April. In the meantime it is expected he will be appointed by Governor Warner.

The new judge was born in Ontonagon, Dec. 15, 1859, is a son of the late James Flannigan, studied in the common schools of Marquette, graduated from the University of Michigan and was admitted to the bar in 1880.

He was but 21 years of age when he was elected prosecuting attorney of Menominee county, and his progress since that time has been steady and substantial. He was the first mayor of Norway, and was re-elected to the office of prosecuting attorney, defeating the late W. H. Phillips. He has established a reputation as one of the ablest criminal lawyers in Michigan and has been identified with many cases of state-wide importance. He has for several years been attorney for the Northwestern railroad and has exerted a wide influence in state affairs.

Interest at the meeting was intense and despite a fierce blizzard, a fair representation of the voters was present.

Free If It Fails

Your Money Back If You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief, you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store, E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

COUGHING BURST BLOOD VESSEL

Says Danger Avoided and Cures Coughs in 5 Hours.

A writer for the medical press states that coughing is responsible for the bursting of blood vessels quite frequently. A cough or cold means inflammation (fever) and congestion, and these in turn indicate that the body is full of poisons and waste matter. Simple relief, as found in patent cough medicines, and whiskey, often result in more harm than good; as they cause more congestion. A tonic-laxative cough syrup will work marvels and here follows a prescription which is becoming famous for its prompt relief and thorough cures. It rids the system of the cause, except it be consumption. Don't wait for consumption to grasp its victim, but begin this treatment, which cures some in five hours. Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age.

MORE THAN 9,000 VOTERS REGISTERED FOR ELECTION

Campaign Is Beginning to Show Signs of Real Activity.

Civic League Takes Hand---Mayor Asks Comparison of Administrations.

Duluth voters know that there is an election on in the city, despite the quiet campaign.

Registration Saturday was over 3,000 bringing the total up to 9,284, as closely as could be ascertained at the city clerk's office up till 2 o'clock this afternoon. Three precincts had not come in, but fairly close estimates of them were made. The previous registration was 6,226.

The figures demonstrate that there is considerable interest in the election of Feb. 1. The political pot is over the warming stage and is bubbling quite merrily.

The coming week is expected to be a lively one. Mayor Haven and Dr. Cullum will probably make several public speeches, and indications are that they will ask each other some pertinent questions from the platforms. Already the muzzles of their batteries have been unmasked so that they are sufficiently visible to enable the spectators to get an idea of the kind of shot they will deliver. The talk around the streets is spicy, and if the public utterances are up to those which are made from hand to hand as being credited to the candidates, they will attract attention.

Invites Comparison.

Asked to reply to a public statement issued yesterday by the voters, Mayor Haven declared today that his administration speaks for itself. "I invite a comparison of my two years' administration with the four years of my Democratic predecessor," he declared. "The comparison will bring out the true facts.

"As to the assertions relative to the moral condition of the city, I believe that it is cleaner today than it was two years ago, when I entered the office. I do not state that there is no blemish, but there is an improvement. There is no prostitution today than there was two years ago. As to 'dens of vice and herding places for the vile and indecent,' how many of them were in existence and practically unmolested two and four years ago?"

Dr. Cullum charges in his statement that he is credited with accepting money for his campaign purposes from denizens of the underworld. In return for which he is to appoint a man to the legal department who will see that their interests are protected. He says that this report has been peddled about by members of the Civic league, who have issued a circular indorsing the candidacy of Mayor Haven.

"This is all a cowardly and brutal lie," he exclaims. "This is the sort of blackguardism I will probably have to contend with in this campaign. I shall appoint to positions in the legal department men who are the peers morally and intellectually of any member of the Civic league, or of the 'good citizens' committee."

The democratic leader criticises the men who signed the letter to the First ward voters, saying that he should think they could play a fairer game. He takes the position that they are neither honest with themselves or with the public. To emphasize it, he states that "I want the support of men who will demand of me the clean, the fair, the manly, and the decent thing, and who will have the moral courage to condemn me when I fail. There may not be enough of such men to bring success to me, but I believe there are."

Another extract says that the men who asked him to run, "represented to me that there has been for months past, and now more than ever before in the city, pitfalls for the unwary, dens of vice and debauchery, nerding places for the vile and indecent, scattered through the business and the resident districts of our city. These have been breeding places for disease and drunkenness among young boys and girls, which it is not proper publicly to discuss."

A Step Backward.

The Civic league letter, over the signatures of Bert N. Wheeler and C. C. Bartholomew, president and secretary, declares that the election of Dr. Cullum would be a step backward with a tendency towards anarchism. The conduct of the city attorney's office is praised highly. The only criticism offered is against the hotels, where it is claimed Haven has not strictly enforced the liquor laws. It is also stated that the statements of Dr. Cullum indicate that he will reopen the red light district.

Aldermanic candidates named as favoring law enforcement are: J. A. Wharton, B. F. Nau, J. E. Bergstrom, P. O. Erickson and L. A. Barnes. An ax is out for John Hogan of the Fifth ward, the league declaring that he ought to be defeated. Alderman Hogan is the only candidate among the aldermen whom the league does not want to see in the council. The others are not commented upon, the notation, "no public career" appearing after their names.

The ward candidates are not going to pass up any voters. Several of them were at the city hall this morning checking over the polling list of their various wards, and others have had representatives doing this work for some time.

The detailed report of the registration, with the three unreturned precincts approximated, follows:

	Previous Registration.	Registration Saturday.	Total

IN CONFERENCE WITH CANADIAN ROAD OFFICIALS

City Officers Meeting With President Mackenzie to Discuss Franchise.

Points on Which Two Parties Differ Will Be Taken Up.

City Attorney C. S. Wilson and city authorities are meeting with officials of the Canadian Northern, at Mr. Wilson's office this afternoon, to discuss the franchise under which the railroad wishes to enter the city. The road is represented by William Mackenzie, president; D. B. Hanna, third vice president; A. D. Davidson, and the local attorneys, Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell.

Both sides are meeting without any demonstration of ill-feeling, but both are standing out for points which they deem just. The road will not come in over any other route than the one surveyed through West Duluth, the claim being reiterated that it is the only feasible one which can be followed. It has been the policy of the Canadian Northern, under the direction of Mr. Mackenzie, to accomplish traffic expenses and to do this the grade of the road has been kept to the minimum.

Another difference is over the material which shall be used in building the trestle from Fifty-ninth avenue to Grand avenue. Steel and concrete are asked by the city, but the company declares that this is asking too much. They are willing to put in steel and concrete over the crossings, but not over the right-of-way which has been acquired by purchase and condemnation. Another objection is registered against the amendment making the bridge on Oneota street and Fifty-ninth avenue a viaduct. The road under this amendment will have to pay all the expenses of rebuilding it and keeping it in shape in the future, under decisions of other railroad cases of a similar nature which have been carried to the highest courts. The bridge will have to be railed considerably, which will practically necessitate rebuilding. The clause compelling the use of the Zenith telephone, while not so important, is felt to be arbitrary. The officials are also said to object to being compelled to inclose the right-of-way with solid masonry.

That the situation here is considered critical is evidenced by the fact that the officials of the company are here to take it up personally. They are determined to know exactly where they stand. They want to come into Duluth, but they do not want to become embroiled in a drawn-out fight. They want prompt action from the council and feel that they are conceding a great deal in paying assessments and agreeing to other parts of the franchise. They also want to avoid a long fight in the courts, which would undoubtedly follow if they tried to come in by condemnation proceedings. The loss of time is serious to them, and they want to have as little delay as possible.

The city has taken the position that it wants the road to come in, being a strictly Duluth road and opening big possibilities. The aldermen are favorably disposed to it, and it is generally conceded that the only thing in the way of granting the franchise is that they are not fully satisfied that the route upon which the company insists, is the only feasible and practicable route. There is no disposition to ask more than is reasonable, and it is thought that the city will go as far as the company in reaching a compromise which will expedite matters.

Fuel Dealers Catching Up.
Fuel dealers are taking advantage of the mild weather to catch up with their orders. There has always been a plentiful supply of coal on hand, but the cold weather created such a heavy demand that the dealers fell behind in getting coal from the docks to the yards and from the yards to their customers. At the close of last week orders were taken by the coal companies for deliveries two days after the date of the order. By the close of this week it is expected that this disparity will be wiped out.

SUPERIOR SHOOTING ACCIDENTAL

Paul Boich, Perhaps Fatally Wounded, Exonerates Missing Man.

Paul Boich, who was perhaps fatally wounded by an accidental discharge of a gun in a saloon at 204 Ogden avenue late Saturday night, today, through an interpreter at St. Mary's hospital, told the police that the shooting was purely accidental and that Mike Beyse, for whom the police have been searching, is innocent of crime.

According to the story which comes from Boich and which has been corroborated today by witnesses of the affair, the bartender in Adolph Johnson's saloon was showing the two men a gun which he had in his possession. Beyse picked up the gun and in examining it, it was discharged.

The bullet pierced Boich in the abdomen, striking the stomach and liver and coming out directly at the left side of the spinal column. It is thought that had it passed a fraction of an inch to the right, death would have probably been instantaneous as it would have severed the spinal cord.

Although the injured man passed a bad day yesterday, this afternoon he was reported as being slightly improved. He is still very weak, for several internal hemorrhages during the night lessened his vitality. When the police visited him today at the hospital, he was able to talk through an interpreter.

Johnson, the proprietor of the saloon, who was held by the police in connection with the affair, told substantially the same story of the shooting that was told by Boich this morning. Other eye witnesses were located, today, and they had a similar account of the affair.

The police will make no further attempt to find Bayse, who escaped shortly after the shooting. The police were not notified until two hours after Boich was wounded. During this time, it is thought that Beyse could have made his getaway. Both of the principals in the affair are Montenegrins.

MAYOR ISSUES EDICT TO CLOSE POOLROOMS.

Mayor Crumpton of Superior yesterday closed all of the pool and billiard rooms of the city. Most of the places were open for the sale of cigars and tobacco, but there was no attempt made to lift the lid on the pool tables.

The poolroom men of Superior are indignant over the edict of the mayor and it is said that they will employ legal aid to fight the closing of the amusement places or attempt to secure the enforcement of the blue laws in respect to cigar stores and street cars.

BIG DRIVE ON C. & A.

Stock Slumps From $85 to $69, Rallying at Close.

Nervousness and uncertainty characterized the copper market today. The feature was the drive on Calumet & Arizona which sent the stock tumbling from $85 at the opening, to $69 at the end of the first hour and a half and to a closing figure of $72. The decline to the low point of the day was steady and unchecked. The stock marched steadily down hill and was utterly without support. Around the lower levels there was some absorption and the issue displayed slight rallying power which sent it up to $76. The stock was unable to sustain the advance, shorts who turned buyers around low levels selling at a profit and attacking the issue again, putting it down to $73. The next rally to $75 was temporary and the stock slumped to $72 where it closed.

It has been known for some time that Calumet & Arizona had not been entirely successful in developing some of its outside properties, especially in the Cortez district. The decrease in the grade of ore has also been steady for some time, according to the gossip. Calumet & Arizona is a small property, consisting of only 160 acres and considering the character of the deposits, the amount of ore in a property of this size necessarily is limited. The company has distributed more than $10,000,000 in dividends, which means $10,000,000 less in net values in the mine than before operations were begun.

Calumet & Arizona has made a splendid record and early investors made fortunes.

There was some liquidation in coppers today and the support was not of the best character. Trading was heavy, however. The public came into the market moderately to pick up scattered cheap issues. It is a strange feature of the market that the heaviest buying is not in dividend-paying issues but in speculative stocks. This indicates the presence of the professional element as well as the disinclination of the public to buy dividend payers at high prices with a consequent small return.

The local market was broad with slight trading.

Butte-Ballaklava sold at $12.50 here and at $12 down to $11.50 in the East. Copper Queen sold at 75 cents, Live Oak at $20.50, Red Warrior at $3.50, Shattuck at $20.50, down to $20.37½, and then to $20, Warren at $2, Warrior at $1.62½, Black Mountain at 36 cents, Calumet & Corbin at $1, 96 cents and back to the opening, Carman at $1.37½, Calumet & Sonora, the feature of the local market, at $20 up to $22, Chief at $2.18¾, Duluth-Sonora at $4.25, Elenita at $9.25, Keating at $2, $1.93¾ and back to $2, St. Mary's at 32 cents, San Antonio at $8, and Sierra at $4.34¾, North American at $2.37½, and Montana-Clinton at 40 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $83 down to $81.12½ and back to $83.75, Butte Coalition at $26.87½ down to $26.50, Ojibway at $10.50, off ¼ point; North Butte at $44.62½ down to $43.50, Greene at $10.25, off ¼ point; Giroux at $11.12½ down to $10.25, Superior & Pittsburg at $15 down to $14.25.

A communication from the superintendent of the Red Warrior mine received today, said that the winze which is being sunk from the 400 to the 500-foot level is in good ore. The shaft is being put down to the 500-foot level, where extensive developments will be made and when the mine, it is expected, will become a large producer.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is a shade easier. Lake is 14 to 14¼ cents and electrolytic 13¾ to 14 cents per pound. The heavy liquidation in the New York stock market and a renewal of the reports that the plan for a general consolidation of the large producing mining companies has been held up temporarily are responsible for the quieter tone of the metal market. On the other hand, the result of the election in Great Britain this week has apparently gone a long way to restore business confidence there and stimulated an increased foreign buying demand. The announcement that it will be unnecessary to close down any more of the Butte mines because of the switchmen's strike and that those which were idle are resuming operations is another factor which has checked semi-speculative buying by large consumers.

"There is no change in basic conditions. General business is steadily improving, especially in this country, and consumption of copper is rapidly increasing. The prospect is exceedingly favorable that every available pound of surplus metal will go into consumption in the coming six months and that the price of copper will soon be higher. A considerable number of the large producers are showing a disposition to hold back a portion of their output, believing firmly that they will be able to sell a little later at 15 cents. When that prices is reached, however, all producers will be found ready to sell as long as they can supply the demand. It is quite possible, however, that copper will sell above 15 cents the last half of the present year."

The amount involved has been carried against the account of the assistant treasurer.

COLLINS IS HOME AGAIN

Duluth Man Was in Snow Slide in Which Two Men Were Killed.

Was Carried 300 Feet Down the Mountain and Uninjured.

To be carried 300 feet down the side of a precipitous mountain, in a snow slide that swept all before it, carrying rocks and trees in its wake, and killing two of his companions, was the thrilling experience of Edwin J. Collins, a mining engineer of this city, who returned today from the Copper river country of Alaska.

In the snow slide in which Mr. Collins came so near losing his life, H. Curtiss Elliot of Chicago, a man very well known in mining circles, was killed, as well as H. H. Greer of Seattle.

These men were swept down the mountain in the slide with Mr. Collins. The fact that the Duluth man was fortunate enough to land on the upper part of the huge drift of snow, was the only thing that saved his life. His two companions were buried under the huge impact of snow and it was five days before their bodies were dug from the slide.

The snow slide occurred on December 30. It was a most unusual event at that time of the year, as the thermometer registered 12 degrees below zero. Snow slides are not uncommon in Alaska in the spring of the year when the snow is melting. But to have one occur in the dead of winter, is most uncommon, according to the statement of Mr. Collins.

Mr. Collins left Duluth last Thanksgiving. He was in the Southwestern part of Alaska, in what is known as the Copper river country. Eight companions were walking along the mountain trail when the slide occured. The other five men escaped uninjured. Mr. Collins was more frightened than injured by the thrilling experience, but the loss of life of his two companions was a great shock.

He says he was carried down the mountain at a terrific speed, and that the only thing he could realized was that he must be killed or hurled aloft. Except for the shock, he was uninjured.

Hall says he committed assault upon after the murder he hid body in the rabbit warren where the corpse was found the next day. Word came today from Washington that the navy department had ordered the commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard to give Hall over to the civil authorities.

Hall enlisted in the navy at Columbus, Ohio. He has lived the life of a tramp, and had served several prison sentences for minor crimes.

MAKES LARGE PURCHASES

Fred Bayha Returns From Buying Trip to Furniture Markets.

Fred Bayha returned this morning from the Eastern furniture centers, where he has been for the past two weeks buying house furnishing goods for the spring and summer trade of Bayha & Co.'s store.

Mr. Bayha found many buyers and a lively buying movement at the furniture market this year and, on the strength of increased business during the past year, and anticipation of a good spring trade, he made heavier purchases than heretofore of the well-known lines that are a feature of the Bayha store. In buying, Mr. Bayha added many new and popular things shown this year for the first time at the markets.

When the spring opening is announced this year, it is expected that the store will be filled with the market's latest and best productions, and will form an exhibition of house furnishings that will prove interesting and instructive to anybody that visits the store.

IS OUT AFTER TRUST SCALPS

President Proposes to Push Probe as Promised in Party Pledges.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Callers at the White House who have sounded the president recently as to his attitude toward the prosecution of the so-called trusts, report that regardless of whether the proposed voluntary federal incorporation law is passed, the administration is preparing to put into effect a vigorous policy of dealing with the big combinations so as to bring them within the provisions of the anti-trust laws.

The president has let it be known that he is merely awaiting the decision of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases before directing the attorney general to take up an inquiry into the more notorious of the other trusts.

Remembers Party Pledge.

The president is further reported as having said that both he and the party of which he is the titular head are pledged to a vigorous enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust act, and that he intends to keep the pledge, but does not consider it necessary to climb upon the housetop every morning and shout about it.

The president is said to be particularly well pleased with the activity and earnestness of Attorney General Wickersham in the cases already on hand. He proposes to strengthen the trust bureau of the department of justice from time to time by the addition of the best talent available, and probably will ask congress at some time in the near future for an increased appropriation to carry forward this work.

SAYS TILLMAN, JR., IS CRUEL TO HER

Senator's Daughter-in-Law Wants Possession of Her Two Children.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 24.—When attorneys for Mrs. B. R. Tillman, Jr., made application before the supreme court today to be heard on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain possession of her two children, Douschka and Sarah, now held by United States Senator Benjamin R. Tillman, Chief Justice Jones halted proceedings by citing a rule of the court requiring such cases to be presented in the circuit court. On a plea that the lawyers were not familiar with the rule, he consented to hear their arguments later.

The plaintiff charges that her husband is addicted to the use of intoxicants and that his treatment of her has been cruel and inhuman.

STRONGEST IN AMERICA

Duluth Wheat Market Held Firmer Than Other Trading Centers.

Light Receipts Here the Cause of the Strength Shown.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 24.—The wheat market here was the strongest in America today due to the absence of sellers and the comparative lack of receipts, although all markets were relatively weak and closed lower than on Saturday.

Within the last eight or ten days Eastern millers have bought up the floating supply of wheat here, amounting to about 200,000 bu, and it will take several days to accumulate sufficient supplies to make up the deficit. There was considerable outside buying of futures here today and it was reported that the commission firm acting for most of the buyers had intimated that the millers acquiring the Duluth future would hold for delivery.

May wheat opened at $1.12½ advanced to $1.12¾ and declined to $1.12⅜, rallied to $1.12½ and declined, closing at $1.11¾-⅞ bid. Trading was active in the early hours, lessening as the session advanced. The flax market was dead, offers being made at the opening at $2.23½ and down to $2.22¾ and then to $2.16¾.

Some interests appear to believe that Duluth stocks at the opening of navigation will not be sufficient to supply the demand of Eastern millers whose stocks are being rapidly depleted. A well-known speculator here bought heavily today. It was said that much of his accumulation was futures for outside buyers. There being practically no unsold wheat here there were few offerings. The dealing was principally in the leading future option, the cash market being dull.

A good buying movement at Minneapolis prevented that market from sagging as much as Chicago. It was about 1c under Duluth most of the day and Chicago was about 2c under this market. Chicago's position is most speculative, anyway, and some traders think the time is near at hand, when Chicago will cease to occupy its commanding position and that the American grain markets will be dominated by those centers where the actual grain is. Chicago's position as a market has been seriously impaired by Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis, and it is not likely that it will retain its position in the wheat market world while other centers are assuming a commanding position so far as the receipts and the handling of the actual stuff is concerned.

The cash market in Chicago was weaker and the demand was slow. The cash demand was easier in Minneapolis. Winnipeg was soft and depressed. Outside of Duluth the market was a scalping proposition.

Cables were lower, and this, combined with large receipts in the Northwest, principally at Minneapolis, caused the softness in the other American markets. The prevailing higher prices in this market, if sustained, should deflect shipments here, causing a decrease in receipts at Minneapolis and a corresponding increase here. Stocks here are about half the supply on hand last year. Some traders think there should be 10,000,000 bu at the Head of the Lakes to meet the demands when navigation opens. They think higher prices are inevitable if this supply is to be accumulated.

The export trade, said Ames-Brooks, was moderately good.

The receipts in the Northwest continue heavy. The railroad congestion is almost over and some traders think when it reaches normal and freight shipments are not on track that receipts will show a decrease. Other traders hold to the opinion that receipts will continue heavy and that prices will be forced downward.

The Commercial West says: "During the last week the market situation in this country has developed largely as it was suggested several weeks ago it might because of the probable increased movement in the Northwest as a result of the high prices. That is, a free movement of spring wheat is one of the bear influences. The high range has also brought out a liberal winter wheat movement, which, like other bearish factors, was ignored until this week. During the last three days the situation has been made to appear as bearish as it was bullish a short time ago. On the decline, however, farmers throughout the Northwest have largely curtailed their marketing of wheat, though as roads are fair they continue hauling to market, but are taking storage receipts instead of selling their grain outright."

Consul John H. Grout of Odessa, reviews the flax harvest of Russia as follows:

The spring and summer prospects for the flax crop were not promising, due to unfavorable weather, but with milder weather in June and July, and abundant rains, the nearly perishing fields of flax revived and grew strong. On the whole, the wetting and drying took place under favorable circumstances, so that the crop may be considered satisfactory. There was a further reduction in acreage planted, as many agriculturists feel that flax so much exhausts the soil that only much higher prices than those prevailing make it a profitable crop, while the steady advance in prices of grain causes the latter to be grown more largely. Furthermore, the great amount of labor required preparing flax fiber for the market, becomes a still greater problem, as labor engaged by the time has become less productive, and piecework is said to be performed less carefully. This season the reduction in the area of the flax fields was partly arrested by the fact that a good many of the fields sown with winter grain in the autumn of 1908, proved in the spring of 1909, to be in such unsatisfactory condition that they were broken up and resown with spring grain and also with flax.

Car receipts at Duluth were 67 against 29 last year; at Minneapolis, 660; last year, 366; Winnipeg, 139; last year, 96; a total of 866 for the Northwest against 491 last year. Chicago received 223 cars; last year, 213, and shipped 47, compared with 57 last year. St. Louis received 119,000 bu.; 76,000 bu. last year, and shipped 121,000 bu. against 111,000 bu. last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary markets, 1,243,000 bu; last year, 766,000 bu; shipments, 502,000 bu; last year, 291,000 bu. Clearances, wheat, 83,000 bu; oats, 2,000 bu; wheat and flour, equalled 209,600 bu.

Primary receipts of corn, 1,048,000 bu; last year, 1,018,000 bu; shipments, 609,000 bu, last year, 581,000 bu; clearances, 50,000 bu.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool—"The market displayed a firm undertone at the start with values unchanged to ½d higher, being influenced by the strength in American on Saturday and dearer La Plata offerings which caused some nervousness among shorts. Following the opening the market further advanced ¼@⅝d, but during the morning there was some reaction and values lost the advance on profit-taking due to larger shipments in the United Kingdom than expected, easier offerings of parcels and general lack of demand. At mid-day the market was easier and unchanged to ⅛d lower than Saturday. Corn quiet and unchanged. Later there was some decline on easier American cables and poor inquiry for parcels. Total shipments of breadstuffs up to Saturday, 8,992,000 bu, against 8,428,000 a week ago, and 9,408,000 last year. Corn, 2,653,600 bu against 2,353,000 a week ago, and 2,218,000 last year."

Bartlett-Patten said: "cables on wheat unchanged to ½d lower and corn unchanged. We can see nothing but a scalping market. Demand for cash wheat rather slow and unless the demand improves think prices are high enough. Receipts of corn about as estimated, with an improvement in railroad facilities, we ought to see an increase in receipts."

Durum closed ⅞c off, oats, ⅞c off, and rye and barley were unchanged. Cash equalled May. Durum's high quotation was 99⅝c.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼@⅜d lower; corn, ⅛d lower. Opening—Wheat, ¼d higher; corn, quiet, unchanged. Paris wheat closed 1¼c higher; flour, 2¼@45c higher. Antwerp wheat, ⅝c higher. Berlin wheat closed ⅞c higher. Budapest wheat ½c higher.

A lot of winter wheat was worked at Minneapolis to come there today.

Pork took a big slump today over Saturday, due partly to the agitation against meat prices.

Winnipeg wired:—"Cash demand fairly good. Small offerings make the cash situation look strong, but it looks as if free offerings would be difficult of sale."

The millers have taken all the floating wheat off the market at Minneapolis, a condition which obtains here.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Fall, But Get Support Near $1.11 Mark.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Prices fell off in the early trading here today, under the influence of general commission house selling. The decline at the opening was from ⅛@⅜c. Prices shifted only a little from the opening range in the first hour, support manifesting itself when May threatened to sag below the immediate vicinity of $1.11. Early foreign cables told of slight advances in grain prices at Liverpool, but were of little effect, as later advices showed that market declining in sympathy with American quotations. Opening prices for May were $1.11¼@1.10⅝, a decline of ⅛@⅜c lower than Saturday's closing.

In sympathy with weakness all along the line in grain and provisions, the market continued to fall off, May declining to $1.09⅝ from a high mark of $1.11¼. The close was weak, all the futures being at the low point of the day, with May at $1.09¾, a price 1⅝@1¾c lower than Saturday's final figures.

The prospect of increased arrivals through better transportation facilities and the more favorable weather caused an initial decline of ⅛@½c in corn prices. Trading in the first hour was practically within the opening range, with bearish sentiment predominating the pit. Some influential buying tended to steady the market. At the opening May sold at 68@67¾c, which was ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower than the last trades Saturday.

Selling pressure was manifested in the pit throughout the day and prices steadily declined, May sagging from 68@67c. The close was weak on the low point for the futures with May at 67c, a loss of 1⅛@1¼c compared with the last quotations of Saturday.

Oats also felt the downward influence of free weather and expected free movement of the crop. May opened at 48@47¾c, a shade to ⅛@⅜c lower.

Provisions started weak, futures falling off 5@25c with pork showing the greatest decline. Only January ribs for which a demand was shown at the outset, escaped the influence of the widespread agitation against high food prices, and showed a gain of 7½c. Opening prices in the May products were: Pork, $21.10@21.00; lard, $11.80@11.75, and ribs at $11.30@11.25.

Heavy selling of provisions, centering on pork, caused a slump of 90 cents in the January delivery and 75 cents in the May delivery. Other products fell off in a less measure. The close was weak with January and May pork at the low point of the day. January pork closed 95 cents off at $20.00; May closed at $20.50, a loss of 75 cents compared with Saturday's final figures.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24.—Weakness in stocks and provisions caused the wheat market to sell lower and lower than the high quotation of Saturday. May opened ⅛@⅜c lower than the previous close and after fluctuating in a range of 1⅛c, closed ¾c lower than the opening. The primary movement continued heavy but stocks at all points are light. Local elevator stocks increased 140,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 649 cars of wheat as compared with 366 cars a year ago; Duluth, 67 cars against 29, and Winnipeg, 139 cars against 96 cars.

May opened, $1.12¾; high, $1.12⅞; low, $1.11½; close, $1.11½. July opened, $1.11⅝; high, $1.11¾; low, $1.10½@1.10⅝; close, $1.10½@1.0⅝.

Cash wheat was steady with Saturday. Demand for the heavy offerings was strong. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@2½c above the May option, the bulk going at 2@2½c over. No. 2 northern sold for ½c under to ½c above. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern $1.13@1.13¼, to arrive $1.12¾@1.13¾; No. 2 northern, $1.11¾1.11¾. Barley—Receipts, 114 cars; year ago, 95; shipments, 55. The market was steady again today. Receipts were liberal. Demand was strong for all grades, especially the choice malting barley. Prices held firm. Closing range, 60@69c.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Large Selling Orders Caused Prices to Yield All Around.

Rally on Short Covering, But Close Was Easy and Dull.

New York, Jan. 24.—The trend of the opening price movement in stocks today was downward, but on a moderate volume of transactions. First sales of United States Steel were of 15,000 shares at 87 and 86⅜, compared with 86⅞ on Saturday. Southern Pacific and Utah Copper declined 1¼, Reading, the second preferred and Chesapeake & Ohio, 1; St. Paul, Atchison, Union Pacific, Erie, Interborough Metropolitan preferred, St. Louis Southwestern, Republic Steel and Amalgamated Copper large fractions.

Temporary support was extended to the market resulting in United States Steel rallying to 87 and the railroad list generally making up part of its loss. Large selling orders then made their appearance in the standard stocks and the whole market went off anywhere from 1 to 2 points. United States Steel, the Pacific railroads and Chesapeake & Ohio were especially vulnerable. American Beet Sugar dropped 4 points, Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2½, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio 2, Union Pacific and St. Paul 1⅝, Colorado Fuel, Great Northern Ore certificates and Westinghouse Electric 1½ and United States Steel 1⅜.

Stocks continued to be pressed for sale with apparent urgency and at rapidly receding prices. The fall in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific reached 3, Louisville & Nashville and Colorado Fuel 2¾, Chesapeake & Ohio, 2½, United States Steel and Inter-Metropolitan 2⅜, Great Northern preferred and St. Louis Southwestern 2¼, and Reading, Northern Pacific, Kansas & Texas, Atlantic Coast line, American Car and several others of the active issues as much as 2. Bears induced a professional rally by buying to cover shorts before noon, but the higher prices diminished the demand at once, and the market yielded. Bonds were weak.

The market closed easy and dull. A reaction carried United States Steel to within ⅛ of the lowest. A demand from uncovered shorts left unfilled was so considerable that another rally occurred, running to between 1 and 2 points in some active stocks. Delaware & Hudson fell 3 and United Railways & Investment 2¾. The demand died down again as prices recovered.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

FLOOD CONDITIONS IN PARIS GROW WORSE; TROOPS PUT TO WORK

Caving in of Streets and Buildings Is Feared By Authorities.

Failure of Supply of Drinking Water Is Imminent in the Capital.

Epidemic Is Said to Be Likely to Follow Disastrous Freshets.

Paris, Jan. 25.—Fifty thousand soldiers, comprising the garrison of Paris, were placed at the disposition of the municipal authorities this morning to fight the flood whose ravages are spreading ruin and consternaton throughout the city.

At 8 o'clock this morning the water at Pont Royal had touched 26 feet above low tide and was rising at the rate of nearly half an inch an hour, with the prospect of the rise continuing until midnight.

The damage already done is incalculable. The industrial life of the city is rapidly becoming paralyzed. Only two sections of the subway are in operation, while three-fourths of the surface lines are tied up. Factories are shutting down because of lack of electricity. Half of the telephones in the city are out of commission and telegraph and railroad communication is demoralized.

The disaster locally is due chiefly to the fact that the whole marvelous underground architecture of the city, which is honeycombed with labyrinths, is filling up with water, causing the sewers to burst and the streets to cave in and threatening the foundations of buildings.

Paris Streets Under Water.

The scene on the river front is majestic, but appalling. The stream has broken its barriers at several points and is pouring its yellow torrents into the surrounding streets, converting them into veritable lakes. At any moment it may be necessary to blow up the Alma bridge, where water is but a few inches from the keystone of the arch, as a dam there might turn the course of the Seine in such a way as to flood several of the most fashionable sections of the city.

During the night the subway stations at the Orleans terminus and at

AFTER KEENE FOR HOCKING AFFAIR

Members of Pool Claim They Have Right to an Accounting.

New York, Jan. 25.—Efforts to smoke out James R. Keene, the reported manager of the recently collapsed pool in Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron stock, were under way today on the part of members in the pool and others affected by the big rise and disastrous slump last week.

The purported text of the pool agreement included a specific stipulation that holders of 60 per cent of the certificates subscribed for by the pool had the right to call for an accounting. Today it was reported that lawyers representing holders of the requisite number of shares had the necessary signatures and would at once serve the request upon Mr. Keene.

Mr. Keene refuses to discuss the subject except to reiterate that he knows nothing about the pool.

PUSHING SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

Administration Hopes to Get Measure Through This Session.

Democrats Will Make Minority Report and Fight the Proposal.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The administration ship subsidy bill introduced by Representative Humphrey of Washington and now in the committee on merchant marine and fisheries will be finally considered there probably next Thursday. If Mr. Humphrey presses for a vote on his bill at this time, it will undoubtedly be reported by a majority vote of the committee.

Representative Spight of Mississippi, ranking Democratic members of that committee and who has twice led the anti-ship subsidy forces to victory, will again present a minority report and carry the fight to the floor of the house. In the Sixtieth congress ship subsidy was defeated by but three votes, and the majority against it has been growing smaller and smaller with each year.

This year no doubt is expressed that if the measure passes the house it will easily be put through the senate. President Taft is strongly urging the legislation.

HELPED HER HUSBAND WIN AVIATION PRIZES

MME. PAULHAN.

The most interested spectator at the aeronautic carnival at Los Angeles was Mme. Paulhan, the wife of the principal French aviator, in attendance. She was always on the field when her husband made his flights, and she wafted him a good-bye kiss from the tips of her fingers as he soared into the air and watched him every minute of the time that he was flying. She knows the dangers of his work as well as he, and one day prevented him from taking too great a risk by attempting a high flight in a strong wind. Later she was his companion on a trip in the aeroplane which established a new world's record for flight with a passenger.

UNIONISTS GAIN AGAIN

Parliamentary Elections Are Held in Twenty-Five More Constituencies.

Sir Charles Rose and F. H. Newnes Both Are Defeated.

London, Jan. 25.—Twenty-five results announced today complete the returns from yesterday's balloting for members of parliament. Of the seats decided, the Unionists take 16, the Liberals 5, the Nationalists 3 and the Laborites 1.

The standing of the parties as known this afternoon is:

Government coalition—Liberals, 207; Irish Nationalists, 72; Laborites, 35.

Opposition—Unionists, 237.

The Unionists have a monopoly of today's gains, placing to their credit eight out of the twenty-five returns yesterday.

Austin Chamberlain for Worcestershire East and Sir A. F. Acland-Hood for the west division of Somersetshire, the chief Unionist whip, are among the more prominent tariff reformers whose elections were announced today.

YELLOW PINE MEN IN NEW ORLEANS

Conservation and Complete Utilization Are Themes at Meeting.

New Orleans, Jan. 25.—Conservation of timber lands and complete utilization of material will be fully thrashed out at the annual meeting of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association, which met here today for a two-days' session.

"In the meat industry it has been said that everything is used except the squeal of the pig. In the lumber industry we propose to include even the bark of the tree," said a leading member of the association today.

Lumbermen in Session.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—D. Austin Latchaw, a member of the Missouri forestry commission appointed by Governor Hadley, devilered the principal address today at the opening of the annual convention of the Southwestern Lumbermen's association. Mr. Latchaw spoke on "Forestry and Lumberman." Among the 1,500 delegates in attendance is Miss Elizabeth Stone, manager of a lumber yard at Oronogo, Mo.

TROLLEY FROM LOUISVILLE THROUGH TO MILWAUKEE.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—By the laying of the last rail of the Winona Interurban company's line, at a point near Akron, Ind., yesterday, an uninterrupted trolley connection from Lexington, Ky., to Milwaukee, Wis., was completed. The lines connect with and run through Louisville, Indianapolis, South Bend and Chicago.

BAD BUMP IN WALL STREET

Prices Go Smash at Opening on Stories From Washington.

Fear of Federal Action and Forecast of Trust Rulings the Cause.

New York, Jan. 25.—Promptly with the opening of the stock market today there came a flood of liquidating sales which broke prices severely in all directions, and caused great disorder in the trading.

There was no premonition of the violence of the decline in the London market before the opening here. Changes in quotations for Americans there varied from small fractional losses to small fractional advances.

Reports of the government's anti-trust program and the belief that the government would win the expected decision in the American Tobacco and Standard Oil cases, before the supreme court, were the accepted explanation of the selling.

The active speculative stocks such as the Pacific railroads, Reading, Chesapeake & Ohio, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper were the severest sufferers.

Sales Smother Records.

Opening sales of 100 shares of United States Steel at 84¼ and of 200 shares at 84 were not recorded until some time afterwards, being lost in the rush of simultaneous sales of 12,000 shares at 83¾@82⅝. This compared with 84¾ for the last price yesterday. The extreme decline of the stock reached 2½.

GET LAUGH ON "UNCLE JOE"

Representatives Tickled When He Almost Puts Insurgent in the Chair.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Speaker Cannon and Representative Murdock of Kansas, one of the insurgent leaders figured in a little incident yesterday that convulsed the house. The house was resolving itself into a committee of the whole to consider the agricultural bill, and the speaker cast his eye about to find some one to preside.

"The chair will ask that the gentleman from Vermont take the chair," Mr. Foster, however, was absent. "Is the gentleman from New York in the chamber?" No answer, for Mr. Malby was also away.

Away up in front, right under the gaze of the speaker in one of the most prominent seats in the chamber was Murdock, who has fought the speaker and his rules hammer and tongs.

"The chair will ask the gentleman from Kansas," and from the members all along the front tier of seats came the cry, "Murdock Murdock!"

But the speaker calmly, amid a roar of laughter, added, "The gentleman from Kansas, Mr. Campbell, to take the chair."

ALL FALSE, SAYS TAFT

President Issues Statement on Hearing News From Wall Street.

Denial of Rumors as to Trust Program Follows Interview With Hill.

Washington, Jan. 25.—President Taft today made public the following statement as to his reported crusade against corporations:

"No statement was issued either from the attorney-general's office or the White House, indicating that the purpose of the administration with reference to prosecutions under the anti-trust law is other than as set forth in the message of the president of Jan. 7, 1910. Sensational statements as if there were to be a new departure and an indiscriminate prosecution of the important industries have no foundation. The purpose of the administration is exactly as already stated in the president's message."

Had Talk With Hill.

The statement was issued after the president had talked with James J. Hill, the railway magnate, and had received information that prices were crumbling in New York under the various reports printed yesterday and this morning. There was no further statement from the White House, except the foregoing.

Mr. Hill, on leaving the White House, said he did not pretend to represent or speak for the president in anything, but was sure that the president would not attack corporations of themselves, but the sins of the corporations. If corporations were violating the laws of the country, Mr. Hill said, he supposed they would be brought to book.

In his special message on interstate commerce and anti-trust laws, President Taft, in connection with a recom-

WRIGHTS QUIZ PEARY ON NORTH

Commander Tells Them It Is Good Region for Flying in Aeroplanes.

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 25.—Aeroplaning to the North Pole was pronounced a reasonable feat by Commander Robert E. Peary, in a discussion here last night with Wilbur and Orville Wright, who exhibited a significant interest in the problem.

Mr. Peary met the Wright brothers after delivering a lecture here. Orville asked the explorer about polar possibilities. The necessities as seen from the Wright point of view, he explained, were surfaces that would permit a machine to start in a flight, alight and start again.

"From what I've seen, I should feel safe in venturing the speculation that an aeroplane would have no trouble getting started," replied Mr. Peary. "Once in flight, it could find enough open space to alight and start again at any stage of its journey, until the Pole had been reached."

The Wrights then quizzed him about the weight and volume of necessary supplies.

SEES CRISIS IN COMMERCE

La Lanne of Philadelphia Addresses National Board of Trade.

Tariff, Ship Subsidies, Postal and Banking Laws to Be Talked of.

Washington, Jan. 25.—"The tariff relations between the United States and Germany have reached almost an acute stage, and it occurs to me that the commerce of our country is likely to suffer severely if Germany's present attitude is maintained," said President Frank J. La Lanne of Philadelphia in his address at the opening of the fortieth annual convention of the National Board of Trade today.

"It is possible," continued Mr. La Lanne, "for the National Board of Trade to get into friendly touch with the leading trade bodies of Germany, and accomplish results which perhaps might aid the state department and the department of commerce and labor.

"Another very important subject is immigration. We need more laborers, more house servants. The American people live better than other people on earth. Their homes are more comfortable and they have the means to employ more servants than did their fathers, and for that reason the supply of laborers is short.

Good Immigrants Needed.

"Our country still is largely undeveloped, and we need immigrants of the best quality. I am in favor of be-

CONFERENCE IN PHILADELPHIA

Street Car Men's Officers Talk Over Situation in That City.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 25.—Leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employes were in conference here today discussing the local street car situation. Those in the conference were William D. Mahon, national president, and William B. Fitzgerald, Resin Orr and C. O. Pratt, members of the national executive committee of the association. Before the meeting Mr. Mahon refused to say whether the question of calling a strike of the dissatisfied employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company would be discussed, but he said the situation was reaching a point where discussion must end and definite action begin.

Gompers Promises Help.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is in touch with the labor leaders in this city and he has promised to come here to aid them whenever his presence is required.

It is a week ago today since the members of the union voted to strike "at the most opportune time after complying with the by-laws" of the union. Since then the national officers of the union have been devoting their energies to have the grievances of the men arbitrated.

GETTING FRIGHTENED.

DULUTH WOMEN VOTE TO DO WITHOUT MEAT FOR NEXT TWO WEEKS

International Women's Union Label League Adopts Resolutions.

Members of Other Bodies Say Their Organizations Will Join Movement.

Prices in New York Are Coming Down---Butter and Eggs Affected Too.

The fight against the high price of meat is on in Duluth.

The International Women's Union Label league at its meeting last night adopted the resolutions published in The Herald on Saturday condemning the high prices, and also accepted that portion of the resolution pledging the members to desist from meat eating for two weeks. The fortnight will begin Monday next.

The resolution was introduced by Mrs. R. H. Dempsey, secretary of the label league, and it was unanimously adopted.

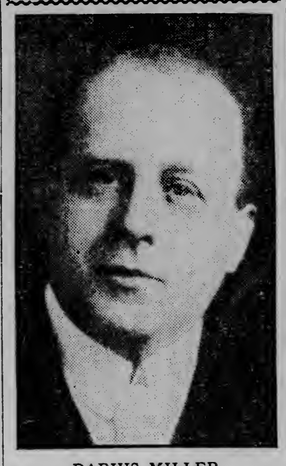

That many women's organizations are interested in the fight and intend taking it up, was proved at last night's meeting, for there were representatives of a number of clubs present, who concurred in the sentiments expressed by the members of the label league. There were a number of women on hand who wished to become members of the order, and others who were but onlookers, who stated that their respective organizations are about to take the matter up.

May Extend Time Limit.

"We set the time at two weeks," said one woman in a speech commending the action of the league, "but we will keep it up twice or three times that long if there is any hope of our bettering the conditions. Down in Kansas City they put the price of pork chops down to 9 cents in one day. Let us put the prices down on all meats and

SPOILED TRADITIONS OF RAILROAD CIRCLES

DARIUS MILLER.

It is reported that there will be a change in the management of the Burlington road and that Darius Miller, now vice president, will become president in the near future. Miller's experience in railroading contradicts tradition. Usually a man who enters the clerical work of a railroad gets no further than general passenger agent or general freight agent. It is the man begins as a track-walker or a brakeman who gains that practical knowledge of the workings of the road which qualifies him for the highest administrative position. Mr. Miller, however, began as a stenographer in the office of the Michigan Central and worked his way up to high administrative positions on several of the greatest railroads in the West. He is a native of Illinois and has been connected with Western railroads all his life.

Sudbury Coroner, Crown Attorney and Railway Commissioners Take Up Case.

Verdict on Canadian Pacific Wreck Thrown Out---Dead Number Thirty-Nine.

Sudbury, Ont., Jan. 25.—Coroner Howie of Sudbury began an inquest today into the Canadian Pacific passenger train wreck at Spanish river. His action was taken despite the fact that a jury impanelled by Coroner Jones of Webbwood already had returned a perfunctory verdict stating that the cause of the accident was unknown. Jones is employed by the railroad company, and it is therefore alleged that he was not qualified to act.

The crown attorney of the Sudbury district also will take a hand in the investigation. Another line of inquiry has been started by the board of railway commissioners.

That the railroad officials expect to find more bodies in the river is indi-

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 25.—A message was received here today from Harvard College observatory, that Prof. Kobold of Kiel, Germany, has completed the computation of the orbit of the new comet. According to Prof. Kobold the comet was nearest the sun Jan. 17, being 4,000,000 miles away. The orbit is inclined 62 deg. to the plane of the earth's orbit. On Feb. 3, the comet will be about one-tenth of the brilliancy shown on Jan. 22. The comet is traveling toward the East and North.

NEW INSURGENT TICKET RUMORED

Helgeson and Lauder May Run for United States Senate.

Wahpeton, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a rumor that an entirely new ticket will be put in the field by Insurgent Republicans, who have practically been denied recognition in the ticket being prepared by the so-called conciliation committee.

It is said that E. T. Helgeson of Milton and Judge W. J. Lauder of Wahpeton will be candidates for the United States senate, opposing Gronna and Marshall, the regular insurgent candidates, and McCumber and Engerud, the admitted Stalwart candidates. E. G. Skulason of Grand Forks and some man from the western part of the state are expected to be the congressional candidates on the new ticket.

LOCOMOTIVE TURNS OVER

Twentieth Century Limited Has Wreck Fatal to Two Men.

Coaches Are Derailed, But Passengers Escape Serious Injuries.

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 25.—The engine on the New York Twentieth Century Limited, eastbound, turned completely over about a quarter of a mile east of St. Johnsville today. It slid 200 feet before it stopped.

Under the engine pit, Fireman Melvin J. Handville of Syracuse was crushed beyond recognition. The engineer, John Scanlon of Fort Hunter, attempted to leap when the engine left the rails, but he was caught between the engine and tender and cut and crushed in a terrible manner that caused his death.

None of the coaches left the track, though several of them were derailed. Most of the passengers were thrown from their berths, and some were slightly injured.

There is a signal tower about a quarter of a mile east of the St. Johnsville Station and from this the switches and cross-overs are con-

TO THE MAYOR, COMMON COUNCIL AND CITIZENS OF DULUTH

The agitation over the high cost of living has spread over the country from Maine to California, Minnesota to Texas. The cost of living is one of the national topics of the day. Here in Duluth, the matter has been thrashed out by commercial organizations, by the wholesalers and retailers, real estate men, professional men and the press. In fact it has become a common topic of conversation when two citizens meet or their wives chat at the sewing circle or the card club. Various causes have been assigned for the so-called high cost of living. Some lay it to the tariff, some to the law of supply and demand, some the tendency of monopolies to hold up prices, some to the producers, some to the manufacturers, some to the packing houses and some to the merchants. Whatever the cause, the feeling seems to be widespread that household and personal expenses are out of proportion to the earning capacity of the bread winners. In Duluth, the matter of the cost of produce has been gone into more or less thoroughly and, already, a movement is under way that will, it is believed, do much to lessen the cost of farm and garden produce in this locality. Just now the matter of meats is occupying the boards, and the big packing houses are under fire. In Duluth, the retail meat dealers claim that prices are no higher than the public demand has made them, that people nowadays insist on having the more expensive cuts of meat, etc. The meat dealers claim that the real estate men have raised the hub-bub to cover the sharp advances in rent, that it is high rents and not high prices of eatables that is responsible for conditions. The real estate men deny it—and there you are.

In spite of all this talk of the high cost of living, Duluth is surely forging ahead. The past year has witnessed a remarkable movement for civic improvement. Big undertakings have been completed or are under way. Building improvements have been made on a large scale all over the city, especially in the business district, where a number of fine store and office buildings have been erected or are in process of construction. Buildings of this class are the best indication of the commercial and business growth of a city. Among this latter class of improvements is the Alworth "sky scraper," fifteen stories high and the tallest building in Minnesota. Another important improvement is the big store building that is being erected at the corner of Second avenue west and Superior street for the Oak Hall Clothing company. When completed, that building will be one of the most modern of its kind in the Northwest, with immense floor space, well lighted and with every facility and convenience required by an up-to-date and progressive business house. It is the construction of buildings of this class that is fast placing Duluth in the class of the big metropolitan cities of the country. We believe that the improvements of this class cause a justifiable feeling of pride among the citizens of Duluth in the busines growth of this city.

The coming year promises much for the city of Duluth and its citizens. Never before were the prospects so bright for a material industrial and business growth. We believe that the people of Duluth realize this and that there is being developed a stronger feeling of civic pride and a tendency toward more co-operation for the upbuilding of the city. We all know that in the prosperity of Duluth and development of the surrounding country depends the prosperity of every business firm and individual in the city and we are all going to pull together—"Do It For Duluth"—for Duluth's benefit and our own.

Now is the time for us to get together and boost for our city. Let's forget the mistakes of the past, or profit by them, put our shoulders to the wheel of progress and build up a city that will be second to none in the country. Everybody should be willing to do their part, whether a corporation, a business firm or an individual. Let us patronize our home industries and merchants, encourage our own business growth, be fair among ourselves and observe that good old rule, "Live and Let Live." The Oak Hall Clothing company believes in this policy and is conducting a removal sale of its entire stock at prices that have made it impossible for anybody to complain of the high cost of clothing and men's and boys' furnishings in Duluth. The Oak Hall Clothing company expects to dispose of its entire stock before moving into the splendid new store building and to do this it is giving the people of Duluth the greatest values in high-grade suits, overcoats, caps, hats, shoes, underwear, etc., that have ever been heard of before in the Northwest.

If you have not yet taken advantage of the Oak Hall Removal Sale, we would caution you against delay, for with the tremendous selling, sizes and assortments are likely to be broken within a short time.

MICHIGAN, N. D., STARTS GOOD ROADS CAMPAIGN.

Michigan, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Michigan Commercial club has adopted a new plan of assuring itself of having good roads running into the city from the surrounding section. This evening the club will entertain at a banquet the members of the boards of supervisors of Melrose, Williams, Garnia, Rubin and Michigan City townships, at which time plans for work next year will be discussed.

The bringing about of active work upon the part of the five townships through organization with each other is the plan sought to be put into effect by the club, and which it is believed could be pushed with general good effect.

Seek Release of Murderer.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before the state board of pardons meets again steps will be taken by friends of Miran Kent to effect his release from the state penitentiary. The case was one that attracted state-wide interest at the time of the trial of Kent and another man, the husband being found guilty as an accessory to the affair.

WANTS DEED SET ASIDE

Effort Made to Recover Property for Mrs. George R. Stuntz.

Claimed Husband Signed the Deed While on His Deathbed.

A civil suit of more than usual interest to the people of West Duluth and to many of the early pioneers of Duluth, came to trial today, in the Washington county district court at Stillwater, Minn., when the case of John Brown vs. H. C. Spengler was called. Mr. Brown is a Duluth attorney and was appointed some time ago as the guardian for Mrs. Mary J. Stuntz of West Duluth. Mr. Spengler resides at White Bear Lake

The case involves a fight over the title of a quarter section of land adjoining White Bear lake and which was formerly owned by Mrs. Stuntz. The woman, a few months ago, was taken to the hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls, Minn., and a guardian was appointed for her. She is the widow of George R. Stuntz, who died about six years ago. He was one of the early pioneers of St. Louis county, settling in Duluth when it was a mere frontier village.

Prior to his death, Mr. Stuntz, who for a number of years made his home at No. 7 Munger row, Ramsey street in West Duluth, had accumulated considerable property. In his last illness he closed a real estate deal with Spengler, whereby the latter became the owner of a valuable tract of land in the vicinity of White Bear lake at a consideration which was much below the prices which were being paid for property of this kind at that time.

H. W. Lanners of West Duluth, who has been retained by Mr. Brown as an attorney, will attempt to have the title restored to the Stuntz estate, on the grounds that the conveyance was made at a time when Mr. Stuntz was on his death bed and his wife, who also signed the deed, was insane.

Mrs. Stuntz, it is claimed by the plaintiff, for many years prior to the conveyance, had been suffering from insanity. Nearly fifteen years ago she was an inmate of the Fergus Falls institution, but she returned apparently cured for the time being. A number of witnesses will be placed on the stand to show that between the time when she first left the institution and when she was again taken there, she was not of sound mind.

Another point upon which the plaintiff will lay much stress is that $5 an acre, the price paid for the land by Mr. Spangler, was much too small. Mr. Lanners will introduce testimony to show that at the time of the sale holdings in that vicinity were selling for $20 and $25 an acre. The value of the property at the present time is estimated at $300 an acre.

It is thought that the case will take the remainder of the week. A number of West Duluth people have been summoned as witnesses, among them being Mrs. Robert Hayden, Mrs. W. H. Wells and K. A. McDonald.

FIREMAN INJURED.

Is Thrown From Wagon and Run Over While Exercising Horses.

While exercising the horses of No. 8 fire hall about 8 o'clock this morning, William Cruse, a driver from No. 8 department was thrown under the wheels of the wagon. He sustained a long scalp wound, and a bruised chest and arm, but his injuries were not of a serious nature.

The accident happened where Elinor street crosses Central avenue. At the street intersection, he attempted to turn the team around when for some reason which has not been explained, they gave a sudden lurch ahead, throwing him off on to the pavement.

Striking on the curb, he was knocked senseless and the wheels of the wagon passed over his right arm causing severe bruises. About the chest there were a number of severe bruises and Dr. Seashore who attended him, stated today that he sustained a scalp wound of nearly two inches in length.

Cruse is a young man in the service. He was taken to his boarding place, the Northland hotel, 5101 Roosevelt street.

WEST DULUTH RINKS TO WINNIPEG 'SPIEL.

In this connection it became known that information which has come to Judge Landis was in the form of a letter making detailed charges. These charges were of such a nature that Judge Landis immediately reported them to United States District Attorney Edwin Sims, and the calling of the grand jury followed.

HAS BILLS ON POSTAL BANK

Washington, Jan. 25.—Postal savings bank bills were taken up today by the senate committee on postoffices and postroads. Responding to the wish of President Taft expressed recently to Senators Penrose, Crane and Carter, all members of the postoffice commission, the subject has been undertaken with a determination to report a bill at an early date.

There are three bills on the subject before the committee. They were introduced by Snators Carter, Burkett and Borah. The bills differ in a number of material points, but it is admitted that all the bills have features of merit. It is likely, therefore, that the measure reported will bear the committee's indorsment rather than the name of an individual senator, although Mr. Carter, it is said, will have the honor of fathering the bill.

Murder Colony in County Jail as Large as Ever.

Schreiber Has Renewed Hope --Rossi Waits for Money From Italy.

The murder colony at the St. Louis county jail does not seem to decrease in spite of the fact that during the past few months several have been taken away to serve their sentences pronounced by the court.

At the present time there are six men in confinement at the county institution either convicted of murder or awaiting trial on this charge.

William Scarlieber, who killed Frank Massapust, and was lately sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Dibell, is the dean of the colony. A stay was granted in his case only last week, and "Bill" is still cheerful and optimistic over the final outcome of his case. The stay greatly pleased Schrieber and he is now more confident than ever.

Frank Sadler, who killed Lawrence Ropre, Aug. 9 last, at Ely, was sentenced recently to life imprisonment by Judge Martin Hughes. Sadler is still at the county jail although it is expected that he will take his last ride some time during the next two weeks.

Mike Rossi, who killed Antonia De Meo, in the Omaha railroad yards last fall, is awaiting the date of his death to be fixed by Governor Eberhart. Rossi spends his time reading the Bible and in prayer. He is now extremely penitent for his act and is awaiting the arrival of a countryman from Italy with funds that an appeal may be taken. He seems to think that money is the only thing necessary.

Ralph Jones, the negro who killed Walter Whitehead, the negro pugilist, was indicted at the last session of the grand jury on the charge of assault with intent to kill. He is now being held for the next sitting of this body, which will probably return an indictment charging him with murder.

Jackson McPherson is awaiting trial on the charge of murdering Otto Frey on the steamer North Lake some time during September of last year. It is expected that this trial will be taken up immediately on the return of Judge Martin Hughes from Yriginia, where he is now holding court.

Adolph Matel, who was charged with the murder of Adolph Mattis, is still an inmate of the jail. When his case was tried, the jury disagreed. Whether or not he will be brought to trial again is a question that is not yet settled.

TELLS MEN TO BE TEMPERATE

Man May Be Glutton in Many Ways, Says Dr. Sperry.

A big audience attended the second of the series of confidential talks to men by Lyman B. Sperry at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The talk was given at 9:30, after the evening gymnasium class and the members of the class and those who had previously gathered filled the auditorium so that all of the seats were occupied and many were forced to stand.

"Four-Fourths of a Man" was Dr. Sperry's subject. He said man is divided into four parts, the digestive, muscular, mental and sexual. A man might be a glutton in any one of those four respects, he said, and he pointed out the evil effects of gluttony in any one of them. He urged his audience to avoid gluttony in all its forms, to be temperate in whatever they did and to respect the laws of nature and human limitations.

Dr. Sperry's talk was straightforward, instructive and interesting, and it was greatly enjoyed by the large audience. Every evening until Friday night, Dr. Sperry will speak at 8:15. Friday night, the talk will be given again at 9:30, to accommodate the members of the gymnasium class.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Fritzi Scheff in "The Prima Donna." (See notice below.)
BIJOU—New vaudeville bill. (See notice below.)

DELIGHTS BIG LYCEUM AUDIENCE

Fritzi Scheff and "The Prima Donna" Well Received in Duluth.

"The Prima Donna," with Fritzi Scheff featured in it, a corking good male chorus, a splendid Dillingham production, John E. Hazzard, one of the old time favorites among the German comedians, and several minor soloists of a standard far above that of the ordinary musical comedy, delighted an audience that packed the Lyceum to the doors last evening. It was the largest audience the Lyceum has held this year, and Miss Scheff was given an ovation at the fall of the final curtain.

If there is any fault to be found with "The Prima Donna," it is the lack of a pacemaker. Miss Scheff, or Mrs. Fox now, can sing. There was never any doubt about that point, and if any one in last night's audience entertained such a doubt it was effectively dispelled. In her glittering, shimmering costumes, she also makes a very pleasing picture under the spot light, but she lacks that mysterious quality of "personal magnetism," or "personality," or whatever one chooses to call it. This fact alone seemed to hold the production back to the level of being merely good, where it might have been much more than that. All the other requisites of a first-class comic opera are there. A better male chorus was never heard in Duluth. There are several male soloists who are far above the average of light opera, and two or three sopranos in addition to Miss Scheff herself, who are close to the prima donna rank. John Hazzard of Burgomaster fame, is in the cast and gets far more fun out of the role of the German sandmaster than Henry Blosson ever put into it. The music is Victor Herbert's and while he has done better things than "The Prima Donna," it is far above the average of the machine-made jingles of musical comedy. Critics in other cities have accused Miss Scheff of "soldiering" in the role, owing to the fact that it is her last year under Mr. Dillingham's management, and in some cities she has not been any too gracious in responding to encores. There was no fault to find on this score last night, however. She appeared to be in excellent humor, and exerted herself to please.

There are several minor parts which deserve more than passing mention. Phil Branson as Signor Giuseppi Cinchini, has a little bit that is very cleverly handled. A young woman who goes under the stage name of La Iovetta, and appears simply as "The Dancer" is as light as a bit of thistle down, and one of the most graceful dancers ever seen here. Two other minor roles most artistically handled are those of Baron De Pompa by James Sloan and the Duchess De Montrose by Kate Wingfield.

Miss Scheff's leading man this year is Vernon Davidson, a tall, slender, good looking young chap, with a more than passably good voice. His work as Armand, Count De Fontonne is pleasing.

"The Prima Donna" will be repeated at the Lyceum tonight.

CLEVER BILL AT THE BIJOU

"Phantastic Phantoms" Contribute Head Line to Very Pleasing Entertainment.

The "Phantastic Phantoms," described on the program as "a girlish novelty in black and white," are the big head-line at the Bijou theater this week. There are five girls and two men in the act and besides doing some of the cleverest dancing stunts seen at the local playhouse in some time, many of the features are novel. A whirlwind waltz, was probably the most enjoyable number contributed by this troupe and they were last night forced to repeat it many times for the enthusiastic audience. The costumes used by this company are above the ordinary and they present a pretty spectacle in white with a background of black.

Louis Guertin, who is said to be the world's champion high and broad jumper, appeared in an act that was as remarkable as it was entertaining. Some of the jumps he made were seemingly impossible.

Helen Carmen, "the girl with the contagious smile," appeared in a repertoire of pleasing songs. Miss Carmen can never be accused of having a parlor voice for it pierces the most remote corner of the vaudeville house. She knows how to use her eyes and renders her selections in a way that pleases.

May Nannary and company present "The Hand That Rules." This is a labor drama in one act, telling the story of a man who is really a thief, but considers himself above the working class. Miss Nannary does her best to prove that he is not and she finally gets the better of a heated discussion.

Earl Morse this week sings "Nora Malone, Call Me by 'Phone," in his usual pleasing manner.

Edwin Wincheste styles himself a musical monologist, but he talks quite as much as he draws good music out of impossible instruments. Besides an engaging smile and a Tom Sawyer attitude, he has some real jokes and he tells them well. He was a winner when it comes to getting laughs and the big audience in attendance last night allowed him to go with reluctance.

The moving pictures this week tell a story of a tramp that is both pathetic and humerous.

The bill presented this week offers a wide range of entertainment and is one of the best presented at the Bijou in some time.

"Polly of the Circus."

"Polly of the Circus," Frederic Thompson's massive production, which comes to the Lyceum tomorrow for four nights and Saturday matinee, has the record of the Liberty theater, New York city, having played there one solid year. It was the biggest success seen in New York last season. Mr. Thompson has made this attraction one of the most talked of plays in the land, and it is the largest scenic equipment that will be seen here in years to come. Mr. Thompson built the Hippodrome and the most gigantic amusement enterprise that this or any other country has seen, Luna park, Coney Island, in New York, and his "Polly" is as realistic as human ingenuity can make it.

Northern Pacific Refuses Grain.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local offices of the Northern Pacific railroad company have received notice not to accept further shipments of grain until notified. The order is general and affects the entire Northern Pacific system. As a reason for this condition of affairs is given the heavy movement of coal at the Head of the Lakes, and a resultant shortage of cars.

TWO BOUND OVER IN KOOCHICHING

One Alleged to Have Violated Insurance Law---Other in Cutting Scrape.

International Falls, Minn. Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles C. Hanson of Walker was arraigned in the municipal court on charge of having written fire insurance in a company not authorized to do business in the state of Minnesota and without authority from the state superindentend of insurance. The evidence against the accused was sufficiently strong to warrant his being held for the grand jury action, and bond was placed at $500, which he was able to procure after spending several days in the village holdover. The complainants in the action have parties living in the county along the line of the Minnesota & International.

John Norland, a resident of the southeastern corner of this county, in the neighborhood of Gheen, was placed under $500 bonds to give the grand jury an opportunity to investigate a cutting affair which occurred on Jan. 2 in the neighborhood where Norland lives. It was brought out in the preliminary hearing in the municipal court that on that date Norland mixed it with two neighbors named Wasli and Larson using a knife, and that he did a bad surgical job was shown by the scars the victims wore when they reached town this week. The complainants were coming up to make application for citizenship and deferred bringing the matter to the attention of the county attorney until such time as they were able to come and attend to both matters.

WEST END

THREE MEETINGS FOR VOTERS

Interest Is Growing in Politics in the West End of City.

Three political meetings were held last evening at the West end and many more are scheduled for this week, showing that the interest in politics is keen in the Sixth and Seventh wards during this campaign.

At Columbia hall the largest crowd was attracted by the Socialists. Speeches were given by Morris Kaplan, president of the National Cooperative Mercantile company, J. A. Keyes, candidate for alderman in the First ward, and Rudolph Ronge, the Socialist candidate for mayor.

Republican meetings were held at Sloan's hall and at the voting booth at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Mayor Haven spoke to the Swedish voters at the hall. Fred W. Ericson, the Seventh ward candidate, also gave an address. He spoke also at the meeting at the booth.

Both of the teams are in fine form and much interest is taken in the outcome of the contest. As a curtain raiser, the Blaine high school second team will meet the second sodality team. The West end men predict that they will run up a good score against the five from across the bay

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Jan. 25.—Refusing to appropriate any money for the expenses of the immigration commission, the house of representatives passed the urgent deficiency bill carrying a total appropriation of nearly $5,000,000, which is a reduction of more than $1,000,000 under the estimates submitted by the treasury department. Hostile criticism of the work of the immigration commission, formed a leading feature of the debate, which was concluded by an elimination of the entire paragraph for the continuation of the work of that commission, which desired $125,000 to print its reports and to conclude its business.

Representative Macon of Arkansas declared that the commission had made its recent foreign trip a junket, and he said he would do all in his power to "strangle" the commission. He asserted that the commission's report was made up of information that could have been obtained at any time from police court reports.

Land Grants Up Again.

The land grants of the Northwest, which at the instance of Senator Tillman received so much attention from congress two years ago and which figured conspicuously in a sharp controversy between Mr. Tillman and President Roosevelt, were the subject of discussion again in the senate. A resolution calling on the attorney general to state whether he had instituted the suit which two years ago his department was directed to begin to determine the rights of the government in connection with the grants, was adopted. The resolution was introduced by Senator Chamberlain. The lands involved about 3,000,000 acres, included in grants to the California and Oregon Railway company, and to the Old Military wagon road from Coos bay to Roseburg, Ore., and are said to be extremely valuable on account of timber.

Law for Motor Boats.

Without material comment the senate today passed the bill requiring all motor boats to carry life preservers. The bill provided a penalty of $100 for each omission.

Customs Judges' Salaries.

The salaries of the judges of the court of customs appeals, which was created by the new tariff law, were practically fixed by the house today at $7,000 each. The tariff law named $10,000. This figure, which is $3,000 in excess of the salaries received by circuit court judges, provoked in congress a controversy which has been kept alive ever since. It is likely the senate will concur in the lower figure.

For Irrigation Work.

As finally reported by the senate committee on irrigation, the administration bill providing for a reclamation fund authorizes the issuance of $20,000,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness to carry on existing irrigation projects. The certificates are to run for five years, when half of the proceeds derived from the sale of reclaimed lands is to be set aside for their redemption.

As to Hereditary Orders.

That there is objection to the creation by congress of hereditary orders developed in the senate when Mr. Bulkeley attempted to have passed a bill incorporating the "Descendants of Signers," to which descendants of signers of the Declaration of Independence would be eligible. Mr. Lodge said undoubtedly the raising of the hereditary principle would lead to debate, and therefore it could not be taken up under the unanimous consent rule.

More Lands Withdrawn.

In aid of proposed legislation affecting the disposition of public lands thought to be valuable for power purposes, the interior department has withdrawn the following: Territory aggregating 17,332 acres along the Clearwater river and its tributaries in Idaho; 2,649 acres along the Walla Walla river in Oregon, and 24,152 acres along the Sevier river in Utah. As probably containing oil, 147,887 acres in California also have been withdrawn. Along the Green river in Utah, 11,487 acres withdrawn for the power purposes have been shown to have no value as such, and are restored to the public domain.

INSTITUTES ARE HELD AT BAUDETTE

First Meetings of Farmers of Northern Beltrami County Ever Held.

Baudette, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first farmers' institute in the northern part of Beltrami county was held here on Friday and Saturday. The institute was ably conducted by F. B. McLeran of Wrenshall, Minn., assisted by E. W. Smith of Long Prairie, and H. G. Larson of Berner.

These men discussed these matters from a scientific point of view, and from their own experience, demonstrating how the very best results can be obtained with the least expenditure of labor and capital.

The several sessions of the institute were fairly well attended by the farmers. The business men of the village showed their appreciation of the importance of the meetings, and nearly all attended.

A copy of the Minnesota Farmers' Institute annual for 1909, was furnished free to every one who attended the meetings. This is a book containing nearly 400 pages, edited by A. D. Wilson, superintendent of the University farm, near St. Paul, and of especial importance to every farmer.

The state pays the entire expenses of the institutes, and of these books of instruction.

The Commercial club of Baudette has elected a new set of officers as follows: President, C. R. Middleton; vice president, Bert Tomberg; secretary, S. M. Korford; treasurer, T. J. McGuire.

COPPER MERGER AIRED IN COURT

Whole Day Is Spent on Case Started By Restraining Order.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 25.—The entire day was taken up in the United States court hearing the arguments of Col. Enos A. Wall and Charles W. Graham, why the rule recently secured by them temporarily restraining the Utah Copper company from merging with the Boston-Nevada Copper company, should not be stricken from the files.

The merger, it is said, if consummated, would involve millions of dollars and would control about one-ninth of the world's output of copper.

Messrs. Wall and Graham, who are stockholders of the Utah company, contend that the merger would be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and further contend that the proposed consolidation is a move on the part of the copper magnates, headed by the Guggenheim companies, to gain control of the copper market.

Counsel for the Utah company claim that Mr. Graham is not a bona-fide stockholder. Testimony in the shape of affidavits presented by the Utah company just before the close of the hearing showed that the Guggenheim companies own about 20 per cent of the stock of the proposed merger.

SAYS HE WILL DIE PENNILESS

Dr. Pearsons Will Spend Next Ten Years in Giving His Money Away.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—After having given more than $4,000,000 to various struggling colleges in many parts of the country, Dr. D. K. Pearsons, on the eve of his ninetieth birthday anniversary, announces that he intends to give away every cent he possesses before he dies. Dr. Pearsons is reputed to be worth many millions.

"I am having more fun than any other millionaires alive," he said. "Let other rich men go in for automobiles and steam yachts. I have discovered, after endowing forty-seven colleges located in twenty-four states, that giving is the most exquisite of all mundane delights. On my 90th birthday, on April 14, next, I am going to have a squaring up with all the small colleges I have promised money to, and I serve notice that beginning then I am going on a new rampage of giving. I expect to die penniless. If there are any other millionaires who want to have a lot of fun let them follow my example. I am going to live ten years longer and during that time I expect to do nothing but give away money.

"I don't say these things in a boastful spirit, but merely to suggest to some other millionaires an easy way of having a good time."

GERMANY GETTING THE WORST SNOW IN YEARS.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—Germany is experiencing the most violent snow storm in years. Railroad and street traffic is greatly impeded and telegraphic and telephonic communication has been interrupted.

A dispatch from Hamburg says that vessels are unable to leave the Elbe on account of the heavy seas and snow storms. At Kiel two fisher boats were capsized in the bay, the crews being rescued by lifesavers with the greatest difficulty.

At Flensburg the hurricane is driving the sea over the dams. A destructive fire occurred at Duisburg, in consequence of a quantity of carbide stored in a factory becoming wet.

HAWAII MUST PAY MISSIONARY BOARD.

Washington, Jan. 25.—For the second time, the supreme court of the United States has decided there has been a failure on the part of the territory of Hawaii to live up to the agreement whereby the American board of commissioners for foreign missions transferred in 1849 its seminary located in Hawaii to the kingdom of Hawaii.

The failure found was the neglect to teach certain religious doctrine as required in the contract. As a result of this failure, the court ordered a judgment to be entered against the territory for $15,000.

Moroccan Claims Reduced.

Tangier, Morocco, Jan. 25.—The claims of the various nationalities against Morocco on account of the Casablanca massacres have been reduced by the Casablanca commission to $2,612,928 from $5,294,672. The United States claimed $75,799, and was awarded $28,115.

The Post Tavern

At Battle Creek, Mich.

Is justly famous for its Grape-Nuts griddle cakes.

Recipe

Two cups sour milk; eight teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, half a teaspoonful salt, two scant teaspoonfuls soda, flour enough to make a thin batter. Add the Grape-Nuts to batter just before frying. Fry a trial cake and if the batter is too thin, add more flour.

Above recipe makes 2 doz. cakes.

The Grape-Nuts in the cakes makes them as light and porous as buckwheat cakes, with the advantage of being much more easily digested.

BRIEF PANIC AT THE BIJOU

Smell of Smoke Causes Audience to Rush for the Doors.

Man Shouted "Fire" and Serious Panic Was Averted With Difficulty.

Only the presence of mind of a few persons in the audience and some of the actors at the Bijou theater last night averted a genuine fire panic. As it was, the situation was serious in the extreme for about a moment's time.

The near-panic occurred about the middle of the program, when May Nannary and company were presenting a labor playlet, "The Hand that Rules." Toward the last of this scene factory doors are thrown open, showing a huge engine in motion, and a burst of flame. The principals in the act were about in the middle of their dialogue, and the men behind the scenes were getting the fire ready. This created some little smoke, which, while unseen, could be smelled by the audience.

The spectators began to sniff the air suspiciously, and to nudge their neighbors and ask if they noticed it.

The play was forgotten, and people began to squirm in their seats and look about the building for signs of the fire. Several women with babies in their arms left their seats and ran up the main aisle toward the Superior street entrance. Several men grabbed their hats and quickly followed the women. Then with one accord the spectators rose in their seats, and soon both aisles were a seething mass of people fighting their way toward the Superior street entrances. At this point some person yelled "fire." This didn't help matters any, and the people struggled harder than ever. Women were trampled upon, a few screams were heard, several women fainted, and the ushers fought like mad against the angry mob headed for the doors.

In a shorter time than it takes to tell it, all the actors, actresses and stage hands were at the front of the stage yelling for the people to keep their seats, and the doors of the stage furnace were thrown open to show the frightened people the flames. A few in the audience took up the cry, and about half of the audience, those who were in the middle of the rows and could not get out, halted to hear what was about to be said, while the mob at the back of the theater fought harder than ever. Half-clad performers informed the audience that there was no fire, and that if they would take their seats the show would be resumed. Each waited to see what the other fellow would do, and the center heads sat down, with the more timid ones following. Order was soon restored.

One of the actors announced that they had made some splendid hits with "The Hand that Rules," and that they had hoped to take Duluth by storm, but added that a riot was never dreamed of. The audience grinned in a sheepish manner and took to discussing the uproar while the play went on.

It took some time for the people to settle back in their seats to enjoy the rest of the show, but finally the incident was forgotten and the performers got their laughs regularly.

Manager Maitland of the Bijou has offered a reward of $25 for the name of the person who started the fire cry.

Beet Sugar slumped 4½, Reading and International Harvester 4, Amalgamated Copper 3¼, Union Pacific 3, General Electric 2, Southern Pacific 2¼, and the list generally from 1 to 2 points.

The fluctuations during the first hour were feverish and unsettled, substantial rallies being mixed with fresh and violent declines at new points. Transactions were on a large scale throughout.

It was well along towards noon before there were any signs of restraint on the unbridled liquidation. Stocks regarding which there has been any suspicion of operation by market pools were notably weak.

Some Credits Withdrawn.

Lenders of money were said to have taken cognizance of recent events pointing to pool manipulation such as the Hocking Coal episode, and to be withdrawing credits which such stocks figured as collateral. The liquidation this forced caused a precipitate tumble in quotations.

There were such declines over night as 6⅜ in Consolidated Gas, 6½ in American Beet Sugar, 5¼ in Union Pacific, 4¼ in American Smelting, National Lead and Brooklyn Union Gas, 4⅜ in Amalgamated Copper, 4 in American Linseed preferred, 3¾ in United States Steel and 3 to 3½ in Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Atlantic Coast Line, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Pittsburg Coal preferred, Utah Copper and Pullman.

Just before noon there came a pause in the flood of selling and covering by shorts caused a brisk rally in prices. The rate of activity immediately decreased.

FLOOD CONDITIONS IN PARIS GROW WORSE

Quai d'Orsay were flooded and closed, and the sinking of the Rue de Potiers let the water through a foot and a half deep into the Rue de Lille and the Rue de L'Universite, streets in which live many of the old aristocracy. The Vaugirad district, near the Boucicault hospital, also is under water.

Rain and Sleet Failing.

The situation is worse rather than better, and at noon Paris was the center of an area of low pressure and bitter cold and rain and sleet were falling throughout the flooded regions, adding to the suffering of the poor and homeless ones. The price of bread and other food has increased, owing to the fact that communication with the provinces is crippled. No trains from the south are coming beyond Choisy-le-Roi.

The depleted supply of drinking water has caused the greatest alarm. With the rise of the flood but a few inches higher, the pumping stations still in operation must stop, and Paris, in the midst of a miniature ocean, will be without water fit to drink.

The situation at between twenty and thirty suburban towns above this city is worse than in the capital itself. At Charenton, where the swollen river Marne enters the Seine, an area of 200 square miles has been flooded. The submerged district includes Alfortville and Ivry-aur-Seine, with a total population of 50,000. At this point the soldiers and firemen are doing heroic work in rescuing families in boats and pontoons. At Alfortville the cemetery has been washed out and caskets lifted from their resting places are floating down stream.

Red Cross at Work.

Relief is being organized on a large scale. Appeals for funds issued by the Red Cross and other societies are meeting with the most generous responses.

Edmond Rostand has offered to give the receipts, which are expected to be enormous, from the first night's presentation of his play, "Chanticleer."

Physicians fear an epidemic when the flood subsides, as the overflowing sewers are likely to contaminate the drinking supply of water. Furthermore, swarms of rats, driven out of their underground homes, are invading residences.

The report that the Eiffel tower should be perpendicular when undisturbed is erroneous. It is explained that the tower was built with a water base and this support is supplied with a hydraulic lifting apparatus which works automatically.

Before noon the police compelled the evacuation of the Hotel Palais d'Orsay near the Qual d'Orsay and the surrounding houses. The palace of the Legion of Honor is menaced, and an accumulation of driftwood above the Isle of St. Louis threatens to sweep away the barrier of piles and the Pont des Arts.

News from the provinces shows that there is a general improvement in the flood situation this afternoon except in the east and at the affluents of the Seine and Meause.

JUDGE O'GORMAN BURIED.

Former Judge of Probate in Ramsey County and Brother of Bishop.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Henry O'Gorman, former judge of probate in Ramsey county, and a brother of Bishop O'Gorman of Sioux Falls, S. D., who died at Sioux Falls Saturday, was held from the cathedral here this morning, Bishop O'Gorman officiating.

Judge O'Gorman besides being probate judge here served two terms as sheriff of Ramsey county. He resided in Butte, Mont., for a number of years after leaving here, being a personal friend of Marcus Daly, and the copper king employed him as an expert accountant in the offices of the Anaconda Copper Mining company. He was also employed by F. Augustus Heinze during the zenith of the latter's career in Butte. His health failing, Mr. O'Gorman left Butte for Sioux Falls, where he spent his last days. He was 62, and a native of Missouri. Five children, Harry O'Gorman, who runs the Finlen hotel in Butte; James O'Gorman, a merchant of the same city; Thomas O'Gorman, a civil engineer living in Idaho; Frank O'Gorman, living at White Bear, Minn., and a daughter, Miss May O'Gorman, who is keeping house for her uncle, the bishop, survive. Miss O'Gorman is a friend of President Taft's family and recently while in Washington was a guest of Mrs. Taft.

mendation for a federal corporation act, said:

Statement in Message.

"It is the duty and purpose of the executive to direct an investigation by the department of justice, through the grand jury or otherwise, into the history, organization and purposes of all the industrial companies with respect to which there is any reasonable ground for suspicion that they have been organized for a purpose and are conducting business on a plan which is in violation of the anti-trust law. The work is a heavy one, but it is not beyond the power of the department of justice, if sufficient funds are furnished to carry on the investigations and pay the counsel engaged in the work.

"But such an investigation and possible prosecution of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders, but of millions of wage earners, employes and associated tradesmen, must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its place of hoarding, and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and strained circumstances among the innocent many for the faults of the guilty few.

Would Avoid Disturbance.

"The question which I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and discussion of congress is whether, in order to avoid such a possible business danger, something cannot be done by which the business combinations may be offered a means, without great financial disturbance, of changing the character, organization and extent of their business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statutes."

The former increases his majority by more than 1,300. Acland-Hood returns to parliament by a majority larger by 1,000 than he had previously.

Sir Charles D. Rose, who is a former partner of the American bank of Morton & Rose and is a prominent sportsman, was defeated in the Newmarket division of Canibridgeshire by the Unionist candidate, G. H. Verrall.

Newnes Is Defeated.

F. H. Newnes, the hotel proprietor and director of the Westminster Gazette, was defeated in the Bassetlaw division of Nottinghamshire by Barrister Hume Williams, a Unionist.

The Unionists also succeeded in making inroads upon the Nationalist phalanx by capturing Mid-Tyrone, where a Healyite and Redmondite divided the Nationalist vote.

The balloting today is in forty-nine constituencies, including those of Premier Asquith in Fife East, and War Secretary Richard Burdon-Haldane in Haddingtonshire.

cated by the fact that a fresh supply of rough boxes went from here today to Spanish river.

Bodies Are Missing.

The record of deaths now stands at 39, including O. S. Gaffin of Waterloo, Ont., and Dr. Allen McLellan of Sudbury, whose bodies have not been recovered. Their effects were found in the wreckage at the bottom of the river.

Statements by railroad officials early yesterday placed the list of known dead at 31, but last night this figure was raised to 37 and this morning to 39. Apparently no consideration is taken of the immigrants who were traveling in the colonist car. This coach was cut in two, one end dropping into the river and the other end being destroyed by fire.

The loss of life in the colonist car can only be estimated, as the officials refuse to make any statement in regard to it. Ten is considered a conservative estimate. The number of injured in the wreck totals 24, of which three are in a serious condition.

Conductor Reynolds had taken up 79 tickets on the trip, and 72 holders of these, according to these figures, were killed or injured.

ing very strict about those permitted to come to this country, keeping out all who are physically unfit from extreme age, weakness or disease, or mentally unfit; but I do not believe in the educational test, for there are many lines of industry in which book knowledge is not required and in which strength and skill can be utilized.

"I think there should be wise laws passed for the better distribution of immigrants who come here. Not enough immigrants are rushed off to the West."

Will Voice Business Demands.

Sixty chambers of commerce and boards of trade, voicing the business needs of the nation from as many cities, were represented in the fortieth annual meeting of the National Board of Trade, which began its sessions here today.

Concerted action on the live issues of the day will be taken and expressions of the national body indicative of the sentiment of business interests will be given in the form of resolutions proposing legislation, favoring some now proposed and asking for the repeal of some now in force.

Twelve of the largest bodies come with strong resolutions calling unequivocally for a ship subsidy to promote an American merchant marine. Twelve others call for a forward march on harbor and river improvements. Others, while divided somewhat in opinion as to method, stand for conservation of the national resources of forests, water power and minerals.

Want Postal Reform.

Postal reform is strongly urged, some opposing a parcels post, others in favor of one with limited extent, some organizations call for a readjustment of the rates of postage, and postal savings banks are indorsed with some conditions. Resolutions favoring the creation of a central bank will be offered and currency reform will be urged.

There promises to be a fight on what shall be the indorsement of the national body regarding currency legislation. One element represented opposes a central bank with power to issue currency, on the ground that such a plan would be too experimental and tend to destroy confidences. Another element is in favor of the creation of a central bank system to conform with the conditions of the present financial system, and urges that the system should be gradually made to conform to the central idea.

Cite European Affairs.

The supporters of this plan cite that the financial system of Europe has demonstrated the superiority of a central bank system in providing a stable currency, always responsive to the requirements of legitimate business interests.

The question of permitting railroads to make arrangements among themselves for interstate traffic under the supervision and approval of the interstate commerce commission will be discussed.

There is a considerable division of opinion on the question of parcels post. Some of the bodies represented oppose it in its entirety on the basis that it would be a loss to the government and operate to the advantage of a few against the many, others favor it for the rural free delivery system and would confine its use to that branch of the postal service.

Favor Postal Bank Plan.

There appears to be no opposition to postal savings banks.

The deficit in the postoffice, however, reveals some differences of opinion for a remedy. Several organizations demand 1 cent letter postage to be applied to letters for delivery in the towns and cities where they originate; others modify it to 1 cent per ounce and declare the postoffice can make a profit of 150 per cent at such a rate. That plan entails revision of the entire scale of postal charges, suggesting that newspapers be placed in one class and magazines and miscellaneous periodicals in another, on which the postal rate would be increased. The sentiment is to force every class of postage to pay its own transportation.

Repeal of the federal corporation tax passed at the last session of congress will be urged; amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law which will preserve its intent and define its limitations, and the creation of a permanent non-partisan tariff commission will be suggested.

Discuss Grain Inspection.

A great many other national questions will be brought before the body for action, among them the encouragement of desirable immigration, recommendations for uniformity of business laws in the states where a contrarety exists, the federal inspection of grain, commercial education and preservation of the public health.

Resolutions urging the government to initiate steps to bring about the organization of the proposed international court of arbitral justice will also be proposed.

The sessions will continue until Friday. On Wednesday evening President Taft will speak at a dinner.

trolled. For some reason, not yet explained, it was necessary for the operator to shift the train from Track No. 1 to Track No. 2, and he had thrown the switch for the cross-over and set the signal.

Failed to See Signal.

The supposition is that the signal, cautioning Engineer Scanlon to slow down, was not seen by him in time to bring his train under full control, and when the locomotive struck the cross-over the ponderous machine bounded into the air, turned upon its side in a twinkling, and then, as it struck one of the rails, rolled upon its back and plowed ahead through the rails, ties and ballast at least 200 feet.

The sudden twist wrenched loose the coupling between the engine and baggage and mail car and this saved the train from the ditch. The heavy coaches bounded from the track in front, but they fell back right side up and remained in an upright position. The passengers were mostly all asleep and some of them were scarcely disturbed.

Towerman Not Blamed.

No blame appears to be attached to the towerman, Joseph Battie, for the accident, as he had set the signals in proper time. The engineer, who apparently misjudged the speed of his train, is dead.

All the coaches left the rails and they stand at an angle, reaching from Track No. 1 to Track No. 4. The passengers have been sent forward on other trains.

For Catarrh

Medicine Free in Every Case Where It Fails to Relieve.

Neglect or pessimism, we believe, is the greatest enemy the public has to contend with when applied to the loss or recovery of health. Practically every case of consumption might have been cured if hope had been maintained and proper treatment had been resorted to at the first symptom of the disease. Until the advanced stage is reached consumption is curable. Catarrh is responsible, we believe, for many cases of consumption. It is about catarrh we want to talk to you today, incidentally consumption, since the two are so closely allied.

We have a medicine made from a prescription of one of the most successful catarrh specialists known. We believe it is positively without an equal. We are satisfied that we are right, that we will supply the medicine free in every instance where it is used according to directions for a reasonable length of time, should it fail to give satisfaction in every particular. We want every one to try this medicine at our risk. There are no conditions attached to our offer. We put the user under no obligation to us whatever.

The medicine we want you to try is Rexall Mucu-Tone. It is a catarrh remedy that goes direct to the seat of trouble. It is carried by the blood to every part of the system. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones up the mucous cells, and brings about a condition of health and strength that tends to prevent the germs of consumption from getting a start. Besides this, Rexall Mucu-Tone is a wonderful appetizer, digestive aid and flesh builder. Its good effects are often felt from the very first dose. It is one of the largest and most satisfactory selling medicines that we have ever had anything to do with.

We know so much of the great good that it has done that we personally back it up with our reputation and money, which fact should be ample guarantee to satisfy anybody. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try it. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store, The Rexall Store, E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

ON THE IRON RANGES

OFFICER COWES HILARIOUS ONE

Wedding Celebrator Too Free With Pistol Is Promptly Tamed.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A young Austrian by the name of Zimmerman will have to answer to the grand jury for firing a pistol too freely on the street last night and incidentally taking some shots at Officer Danclovich, following a celebration after an Austrian wedding.

A well-known Austrian couple were married yesterday, and last evening, as is usual, there was a dance indulged in by friends of the couple. The dance was held in a hall behind Arko's saloon. The dance broke up about 11:30, and the merrymakers were in a very hilarious mood as the result of liberal patronage of the bar. Zimmerman and several others started for the Mohawk location, singing and yelling, and some shots were fired. Officer Danclovich gave chase and tried to quell the disturbers. Young Zimmerman, not brooking interference, drew a pistol and fired five times at the officer, one bullet grazing the latter's ear. The officer promptly drew his pistol and fired a couple of shots over the hilarious youth's head. The latter dropped as though shot and begged for mercy. He was not touched by the bullet but was scared to death. His companions fled. Officers went out to the Mohawk to arrest the men who fled, and all will have a hearing today, with the probability of Zimmerman being bound over.

He was about 45 years of age and had been in the employ of the company only a short time.

A sixteen-inch pipe line connecting the tank and the pumping station at St. Mary's lake, was recently completed by the Pastoret-Lawrence company.

The tank has a capacity of 300,000 gallons and is the third largest in the state. The tank is 110 feet high and is situated on a large hill, which adds to the volume of water pressure obtainable. DULUTH WOMEN VOTE TO DO WITHOUT MEAT FOR NEXT TWO WEEKS stick to it for some time to come. It is a movement that has spread the country over and we can help a whole lot."

The women promise to do individual work and to induce all the women they know to join in the fight that the price may be brought down to a point where all can afford to buy. Other clubs about the city will be visited and talks will be given asking the other clubs to adopt the resolutions. This is the reason the beginning of the boycott was set nearly a week ahead. On Monday the general boycott will begin. By that time the leaders hope to have the fight organized and a host of women enlisted in the work.

At the meeting last night Dr. Mary McCoy presided. She read the resolution and a general discussion followed. Mrs. Ingebo, Mrs. McNichol, James Walsh and J. H. Baker were enthusiastic in their remarks and by the time the final speech was made the audience was at a high pitch of enthusiasm. The resolution, which was adopted without an opposing voice, follows:

"We, the Duluth branch of the Women's International Union Label league, believe that the high prices of foods, especially meats, are artificial and are not based on trade conditions and economic facts; that the laws of trade are ignored or stifled; and that prices are arbitrarily fixed by a combination of packers who control the supply of meats.

"We believe that an intolerable situation should be remedied and we are of the opinon that an adequate and efficacious remedy can be applied only by the ultimate consumer. It has come to our attention that thousands of men and women in other cities have agreed to abstain from eating meat for a period of from two weeks to sixty days, believing that by so doing the prices of meats will be forced downward.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That we, the members of th Women's International Union Label league, in Duluth, agree not to purchase meats of any description for two weeks, beginning Monday, Jan. 31, and ending Monday, Feb. 14."

New York Prices Drop.

New York, Jan. 25.—Milk, eggs and butter led the procession of receding prices in food products here today. Nation-wide agitation, aided by potent local influences, have brought about the drop. Meat, too, is on the decline, following a greatly reduced consumption.

State anti-monopoly laws are to be invoked in the movement to combat the trusts that have advanced food prices. Today a special grand jury whose particular office it will be to consider the effect of combinations among dealers in food stuffs was sworn in. While it is expected first to deal with the alleged milk combine, the meat question is likely to be put to it strongly and possibly the whole scope of the food situation will be taken in during its probing.

Milk, Eggs, Butter.

Milk is down 1 cent a quart already on at least two big dealers' routes; butter in the best qualities has been cut 5 cents a pound and eggs are off 5 cents a dozen in local markets. Storage eggs that have been selling as "strictly fresh" at high prices, are no longer put out as such, the big wholesalers say.

Weather conditions were none too propitious for the Union Square mass meeting in protest against high food prices, but a great outpouring, nevertheless was expected.

Further Drop at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 25.—The beginning of the second week of Cleveland's boycott of meat was marked by a further drop yesterday in the wholesale meat market. Hogs were quoted at the Union Stock Yards at 20 and 25 cents lower on the 100 pounds and cattle dropped 10 to 15 cents. This is in addition to the decrease in cattle prices on Friday.

In the sections of the city where the boycott strikes hardest sirloin steak was sold by retailers at 15 cents a pound and round steak at 13 cents—a price lower than any quoted here in a year.

Fred W. Sebelin, the man who originated the strike, will meet with Mayor H. C. Baehr to arrange for a great public mass meeting to protest against the prices of meat. It is planned to send a delegation to Senator Burton and the city's congressmen to demand that congress originate legislation to alleviate the situation.

Down 20 Per Cent.

New York, Jan. 25.—In response to a lighter demand, the price of beef in the Brooklyn wholesale district declined 20 per cent yesterday and pork loins slumped sympathetically. As an offset there were signs that the Western supply would be shut off to hold up the price, although the representatives of the packers deny this. Fewer carloads were received.

Two young women who made a house to house canvass for the National Progressive Women's Suffrage union obtained nearly 1,000 pledges to abstain from meat for sixty days.

Butter Price Drops.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 25.—The price of extra fancy creamery butter dropped to 30 cents a pound on the Elgin board of trade yesterday. The sudden drop from 36 cents, coming in the midst of the agitation against the high prices of food, caused general comment as to the cause. It was admitted by the board members that the drop was due largely to the agitation and to the tendency in many localities to abstain temporarily from high-priced food stuffs. Word has reached Elgin that some localities had entered into a butter boycott. Before the board it was generally believed a drop would be necessary. When the quotation committee reported the 30-cent price it was greeted with appiause.

More Unions Enlist.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—Two more Boston labor unions last night voted resolutions in condemnation of the high prices of the necessities of life. They are the Lumber Teamsters and Freight Handlers' unions, and number 112 men. They voted to abstain from meat as far as possible for sixty days. Four unions are now on the no-meat list.

Peoria Unions Act.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 25.—At the meeting of the trades and labor assembly last night delegates from forty labor unions, representing 5,000 men, adopted a resolution to refrain from eating meat for thirty days.

Wants to Retaliate.

Dwight, Kan., Jan. 25.—W. J. Swain, a livestock raiser, has issued 10,000 circular letters to prominent farmers in Kansas, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, calling for delegates to hold a meeting in Kansas City to retaliate against the unions that have instigated a meat boycott in that city.

Co-operative Meat Market.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 25.—Nine business men of Des Moines, headed by Postmaster J. I. Myerly, Col. H. B. Hedge, vice president of the Central State bank, and County Treasurer George L. Doeschot, have made up a fund with which they will establish a co-operative meat market. They plan to sell meat at a profit of 6 per cent above the wholesale price, to the poor people of the city for one year.

Virginia Laboring Men.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 25.—Joan Herpberg, president of the state federation of labor, states that within a week 50,000 laboring families in Virginia will have abstained from eating meat in the boycott battle against high prices.

No Meat in Hotels.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—Cattle prices took a big tumble at the Union Stock yards here yesterday as a direct result of the meat boycott.

About 125,000 men, representing 600,000 persons, have joined the crusade for lower prices. The drop in the price of cattle was from 50 to 40 cents per 100 pounds; the price of hogs also took a drop, but there was no reduction in the price of dressed beef. Most of the hotels are serving meatless menus.

Vetoed in Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25.—"It is difficult to conceive greater public enemies than men who conspire to gain control of the necessities of life and put prices ho high that millions of industrious citizens cannot meet the burden of the cost of living even in times of great national prosperity such as the present," said Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York in the assembly last night, in favor of his resolution requesting the attorney generals of the United States and of New York to take such proceedings against the "beef trust" as may be necessary to bring about relief from the present high prices of meat.

"The people," he continued, "demand relief, and every governmental agency should be set in motion to obtain it at once."

Both Found Dead.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 25.—Capt. Charles O. Tucker, proprietor of a large furniture store here, and Miss Elvira M. Bunkelman, a young woman often seen in the company of Tucker, were found dead on the floor in the hotel apartment of Tucker here yesterday. They had been dead since last Friday. Tucker had been shot in the heart and the young woman had been shot in the brain. The woman was clothed in street attire. Her ungloved right hand still clutched a small pistol.

TOO MUCH MONEY IN RURAL BOXES

Postoffice Department Objects to That Way of Paying Postage.

Washington, Jan. 25—Estimates made by officials of the posoffice department indicate that approximately 300,000,000 one-cent pieces annually are taken by the rural letter carriers from letter boxes for the payment of postage on mail matter deposited.

Complaints against the practice have become so widesperad that today the department issued instructions to all postmasters at rural dellvery offices that after Feb. 15 the practice will be discontinued.

The department, it is explained, has been forced to adopt this measure on account of the delays in the collection and delivery of mail.

Chicago, Ill., Jan 25.—John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, returned Sunday from New York, where he went earlier in the week. He stated that the feeling among New York financiers was one of uncertainty and some anxiety over the political situation. They do not like the split in the Republican ranks.

ISHPEMING MAN FATALLY STABBED

Richard Varcoe, Old Resident, Is Foully Slain on the Streets.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Scopacsa, aged 25, a native of Italy, who came here nine months ago from Chicago, admits that he dealt the blows with a knife that caused the death of Richard Varcoe, an old citizen of Ishpeming, late Saturday night. James Donato, who was with Scopacsa when the stabbing was done, is also under arrest as an accessory, but Scopacsa assumes the responsibility for the crime. The tragedy took place about 120 yards south of the Oliver Iron Mining company's office. On his way to a hospital, where he was being taken in a street car, Varcoe died. The two accused were captured in an hour and a half at their boarding house.

Scopacsa and Donato on the night of the tragedy had been drinking beer in Bruno Nardi's saloon, according to Scopacsa. They left for their boarding houses before midnight, Saturday, taking several pint bottles of beer. While they were drinking some beer on the street, Varcoe came along and asked for a bottle. They gave him one. Then he demanded another and is said to have struck Scopacsa and several blows were exchanged before Scopacsa drew his knife. Scopacsa has but one eye and he said when Varcoe threatened to knock that out he defended himself. Varcoe was 55, and is survived by a widow and four children.

Coroner Prin has impaneled a jury and is probing the affair.

D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald)—With McClusky now holding county seat honors in Sheridan county, the county officers have just moved into the courthouse here, a hot fight for the possession of the coveted honor is brewing. FOUGHT TO RETAIN FORMULA WHICH HAS MADE A FORTUNE

L. T. Cooper, the man who believes that 90 per cent of all ill health of this generation is caused by stomach trouble, is fast winning a national faith in his theory. His claim is now admitted by a surprising number of people throughout the country, and he is gaining new adherents every day.

While speaking of his success in a recent interview, Mr. Cooper said: "I believed ten years ago that any one who could produce a formula that would thoroughly regulate the stomach would have a fortune. When I got hold of this formula I knew within six months that I was right, and that my fortune was made. I called the medicine, Cooper's New Discovery, although I did not get up the formula. I have owned it, however, for over five years. I have had one lawsuit over it, which I won in the courts. When it was settled The Cooper Medicine company became the only firm in the world that can prepare the medicine. The preparation has sold like wildfire wherever introduced. As I have said before, it is successful simply because it puts the stomach in perfect shape, then nature does the rest. There are any number of complaints never before associated with stomach trouble that the medicine has alleviated in thousands of cases."

Among statements obtained recently from users of this medicine that is arousing such universal discussion is one from Mrs. Emma Stanley, living in Chicago, at 713 Washington Boulevard, who said: "Perhaps I had the most complicated case that Mr. Cooper had to deal with. I was troubled for years with my stomach. I consulted with doctors and took many patent medicine preparations without result. My stomach was in such a wretched shape that I could not enjoy a meal that I ate.

"I was very nervous, and could hardly sleep; I had a roaring in my ears and dancing spots before my eyes. I felt very bad and weak. Then there was a very sore spot at the pit of my stomach that nearly set me wild.

"I heard about the Cooper medicine and decided to try it. I used four bottles, and the improvement in my case has been really wondertul. My nerves have been quieted, and I am so much improved that I feel like a new woman.

"I cannot say too much for these wonderful remedies, for they have made me well."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO EMPLOY MANY MEN

Contractor Mann to Have Large Force on Soo Grade at Cass Lake.

Two Immense Steam Shovels Are Being Placed for Use on the Work.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. H. Mann of Milwaukee, who has the contract for the new Soo railroad between Cass Lake and Leech Lake dam, is very busy making preparations to commence work.

He has built camps a few miles east of here and will work on his contract both east and west of these camps. Two steam shovels of a huge size have arrived and it is expected by the latter part of the week the dirt will begin to fly. Mr. Mann has already on hand over 100 head of horses, all of which will be put to work as soon as the steam shovels get to working. He also has a crew of men busy unloading several hundred dump carts, which will be used to carry the dirt away as fast as the steam shovels can fill them.

To Employ 300 Men.

Mr. Mann will have in his employ about 300 men when everything gets in working order. The contractor has engaged rooms here, adjoining the Endion hotel and will make this his headquarters until he has completed his entire contract, which will probably take until the latter part of July.

Robert Evans, who has the contract for grading between here and Bemidji, a distance of sixteen miles, has shut down operations until spring on account of the depth of the frost. He found that the expense incurred by the use of dynamite was too much. Mr. Evans will again resume operations in March.

George Lydick of Cass Lake, who has the contract for clearing between Bemidji and Leech Lake dam, a distance of about thirty miles, is getting along rapidly. He has a large crew of men working all along the route and will probably have the right of way cleared within a short time.

WRECK VICTIMS ARE ALL DOING NICELY

Northern Pacific Claim Agents Busy Settling With Injured Ones.

Jamestown, N. D., Jan. 25.—Another person injured in the wreck of No. 7 Wednesday not reported in the first accounts, was Irving Beeman of Jamestown, having been quite seriously hurt. He is now at his home, under a physician's care for concussion of the spine, and it is stated one of the segments of the vertebral column is slightly fractured. Beeman, who is a railway mail clerk on the run west from Jamestown, was standing in one end of the mail car when the train left the track; his end of the car rose high in the air, he said, and the other end went down and he with it. Gathering himself together he crawled out of the car, at first not feeling any hurt outside of the general shaking up and bruises, and tried to help some of the more unfortunate victims. Thursday, however, severe pains developed in his spine with numbness of the limbs and Friday he arrived home and was immediately put to bed by his physician.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 25.—All of the victims of the recent Northern Pacific wreck are reported as doing nicely and all but five of them have left the hospitals.

W. W. Lones, who is at the Bismarck hospital, is reported doing fine. Mr. Lathrop, who is also confined at the Bismarck hospital, was better yesterday than at any time since the wreck and it will be only a few days until he is able to leave the hospital. Mrs. Richmond of Chippewa Falls, Wis., who has a broken collar bone and some severe body bruises is still at St. Alexius and will probably be compelled to remain there for a couple of weeks. All the other injured people have either left for their homes or have so far recovered as to be able to be taken to hotels where they are being taken care of.

There were a large number of claim agents of the Northern Pacific in the city for the past few days and it is stated that they have already made settlements with a number of the people who were hurt and that more will be made in the near future and it is also a fact that there will be very few damage suits as almost everything will be settled out of court.

ST. CLOUD PIONEER.

Rudolph Huhn, Who Came There in 1862, Is Dead.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 25.—The funeral has just been held of Rudolph Huhn, one of the pioneers of St. Cloud, who came here forty-eight years ago.

Mr. Huhn was born at Fischbach, Prussia, Feb. 12, 1833. He came to America in 1852 and located in Kentucky. From there he went to Sedalia, Mo., where he was married to Miss Elizabeth Michenhaupt, Aug. 9 1859, just fifty years ago last summer. In 1860 he moved back to Kentucky, where he remained one year. He then came to St. Cloud and in 1862 went with Gen. Sibley in Company D, First Regiment of Mounted Volunteer rangers against the Indians. On his return he went to work as a cabinet maker for H. D. Spicer, with whom he remained for seventeen years. He then engaged in the furniture business in partnership with A. J. Daniels and after two years bought Mr. Daniels' share in the store. He retired from active business about two years ago on account of his failing health.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Andrew Kolb of Melrose, Mrs. Henry Thein of Fargo and Miss Clara Huhn of Bisbee, N. D., and three sons, Robert, Paulinus and Edward of this city.

Building Rainy Lake Spur.

International Falls, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The laying of the steel on the Rainy Lake railroad spur is progressing nicely and it is believed that two weeks will see the work completed. The switch engine takes up a supply of steel and ties each morning, and the people traveling along the county road still watch with interest the passing of the engine in and out of the timber to the east of the thoroughfare.

DRUG STORE RAIDED.

Government Agents Dump Liquor Into Street at Deer River.

Deer River, Minn., Jan. 25.—Deer River last week had its first experience with Uncle Sam's agents, who are waging warfare against the sale of liquor in the Indian country, when Blasing's drug store was invaded by three agents, and all spirits or liquor destroyed.

Special United States Agents C. T. Johnson, S. B. White and L. J. Sero, representing the Indian department, under Chief Special Officer W. E. Johnson, raided Blasing's drug store and dumped out in the street all of his alcohol, rum, brandy and whisky, amount to about $35.

Mr. Blasing was at a loss to account for the action, as he had not been selling any of the stuff, except in compounding prescriptions, and he had a letter from Chief Johnson permitting him to carry in stock sufficient quantity of the liquor for legitimate use. He so explained to the officers, and asked if they had any complaint against him, and they gave no answer. They left a jug of about three gallons of alcohol, and told Mr. Blasing to ship it back to the wholesaler. The officers remained here for three days, and searched a number of houses for any quantity of liquor maintained for private use, but found none.

Amidon of the United States court.

Jones is given the same privileges as the rest of the prisoners, but is locked in his cell at night by the turnkey, just as the others are. He does not appear to be fretting any over his enforced seclusion and still is of the opinion that he will shortly be liberated on the bonds that were offered. Nothing else offers itself in explaination for the dullness. Even bridge has been deserted in large part this season.

Lent will begin its forty days of quiet soon, but there will be little difference observable.

Among the affairs of this week will be the club reception tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Z. D. Scott in compliment to Mrs. H. C. Marshall.

Mrs. G. L. Douglas, Jr., will be hostess at luncheon Friday at her home on East Fifth street.

Mrs. A. M. Chisholm was hostess at bridge this afternoon at her home 1832 East Second street. She will entertain at bridge again tomorrow afternoon.

Fewer Duluth people have planned to spend the winter away thus far during the season than usual, but next month will probably witness a number of departures. Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., will leave next week for Nassau. There will be a little colony of former Duluth people there, as Mr. and Mrs. Ames will join Mr. and Mrs. William Dairymple of Minneapolis and Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McLennan of Chicago.

CLUB RECEPTION.

Duluth Women to Honor Mrs. H. C. Marshall.

The most important club meeting of the week will be the reception of the Twentieth Century club, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Z. D. Scott of 2125 East First street, and at which Mrs. H. C. Marshall will be the guest of honor. Mrs. Marshall is one of the charter members of the club and as she will leave during February to make her home in the East, the club members have decided upon tomorrow's reception to do honor to her. The reception will take the place of the February social. Not only the club members but Mrs. Marshall's friends throughout the city are invited to be present. An informal musical program has been arranged by Mrs. K. A. Ostergren.

The reception promises to be largely attended.

TOO EXPENSIVE

For Hetty Green—Is Meat Eating, She Says.

New York, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Hetty Green, who has many millions of dollars, declared today that at the present prices meat is too expensive for her and she would cut it out of her luncheon order. Mrs. Green entered a modest up-town restaurant and scanned the bill of fare. Steak she found at 50 cents a portion, and roast lamb and roast beef at 35 cents.

Mrs. Green took halibut, which was 15 cents a portion.

"Have you joined the boycott?" asked the waiter.

"No," said Mrs. Green, dubiously, "but meat is too high. You don't get your money's worth. People really can't afford to eat it. There are other things just as good and cheaper."

IS RECOVERING.

Mrs. McGonagle Is Convalescent at St. Paul.

Mrs. W. A. McGonagle of this city who was operated upon at St. Luke's hospital at St. Paul, is convalescent and it is expected that she will make a speedy recovery. Her many friends in Duluth were much interested in her condition. Mr. McGonagle, who was at St. Paul, returned to Duluth last evening with President Olcott of the Oliver Iron Mining company, in the latter's private car.

Church Social.

The members of the January committee of the Calendar circle of the Second Presbyterian church will entertain at a social tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church parlors. A program will be given, to be followed by a social hour. The members of the congregation and their friends are invited to be present.

Returns From St. Paul.

Miss Jean Poirier, the Duluth member of the state board of factory inspectors has returned from St. Paul, where she attended a meeting of the women's department of the state labor bureau of which Mrs. Perry Starkweather is secretary. Plans for the work throughout the state were discussed and the work which has been accomplished, reviewed.

Wed in Dakota.

Garfield Meyer left yesterday for Watertown, S. D., where his wedding will take place tomorrow evening to Miss Edith May McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. McIntyre of that place. Mr. Meyer and his bride will be at home in this city.

Church Meeting.

The Central Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. Daniel Campbell of 460 Mesaba avenue.

Women's Alliance.

The Women's Alliance of the Unitarian church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. A. Jaques of 1205 East Third street.

President's Day.

The regular president's day of the Saturday club will be observed Saturday of this week, when Mrs. A. H. Grocklehurst, the president of the club will be the guest of honor. The members of the club will be entertained by Mrs. Brocklehurst and Mrs. John Jenswold at the home of the latter, 5820 London road. The former members of the club as well as those now active, are invited to Saturday's affair.

TWO CITIES INTERESTED IN MISS GOULD'S ENGAGEMENT

MISS MARJORIE GOULD AND HER FATHER.

The liveliest interest will be felt in two cities in the announcement of the engagement of Marjorie Gould to Anthony Fiesel, jr., of Philadelphia. Miss Gould has been out for only a season, but it was inevitable that her engagement should follow her debut rather quickly. She is the heiress to many millions and has attracted the attention of many titled fortune hunters. She possesses besides, great personal charm, which has made her much admired among American men. It was rumored last summer that two men of title were seeking her hand. She very sensibly preferred an American. This picture of Miss Gould was made for the Bain News Service when she last returned from Europe.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morrow will go to Bellaire, Fla., to spend the month of February.

• • •

Mrs. George H. Crosby and daughter Margaret, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stultz and Miss Clark will leave tomorrow for Pasadena, Cal., to remain until June. Mr. Crosby will join them later.

Mrs. F. J. Pulford returned yesterday from a visit at St. Paul.

MEALS WITHOUT MEAT

May Be Easily Planned By Careful Housewife.

With the agitation against the meat man and the possibilities that a large part of the community may consider for a time a meatless menu, the following dishes that are strong in nutritive qualities will be of interest to housewives. If the households that can afford to buy winter squash and celery and sweet potatoes and quantities of milk, would adhere to the meatless diet, as can easily be done, the meats might soon be within reach of those families who perhaps by their heavier work are in need of hearty fare.

The following dishes will be found admirable as a meat substitute:

Quaker Cabbage—Take a medium-sized, fresh head of white cabbage, and cut into quarters, discarding the green outer leaves. Cut out the heart, wash and drain dry. Put into a kettle and cover with boiling water, to which a tablespoonful of salt and a scant teaspoonful of soda have been added. After it commences to boil remove the cover and cook rapidly about twenty-five minutes. When tender pour off the water and drain in a colander, pressing with a plate to get out every drop of water. Put back in the kettle with a tablespoonful of butter and a large teaspoonful of flour stirred together. Add a scant saltspoonful of salt, a little pepper, and a half cupful of milk. Let the milk boil up through the cabbage, cutting through several times with a knife, then remove from the fire and serve. Such a dish of cabbage goes well with a pot roast, furnishing a savory, hearty and digestible dinner.

Celery Patties—Wash the celery and cut in half inch pieces, boil until tender, and drain. Add two tablespoons of butter and season with salt and pepper, then fill baked patty shells and put in a brisk oven for five minutes. Serve with a sauce made of one-half cup of the celery water, one cup of milk, three tablespoons each of butter and flour, and salt to taste.

Celery Ramekins—Roll two slices of bread in a little sweet milk; when smooth, add four tablespoons of grated celery and two of butter. When well heated remove from the fire and add the beaten yolks of two eggs, salt and pepper. Stir in carefully the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and bake for fifteen minutes.

Celery Fritters—Mix a good fritter batter, add one cup of finely shopped celery, drop in spoonfuls into hot cooking oil, cook until brown, then remove and drain.

Sweet Potatoes au Gratin—Parboil the potatoes, peel and slice while hot. Butter a deep dish, put in a layer of potatoes, sprinkle with sugar, salt, pepper and dots of butter, then a stratum of fine crumbs. Season the same way, omitting the sugar. The last layer should be of the crumbs, and well buttered. Pour in four tablespoonfuls of warm water to generate steam, cover closely and bake half an hour. Uncover and brown. This is especially nice for a family dinner and approved by children.

Carrots a la Flamaude—This is a fashionable dish at many of the largest restaurants and hotels. Clean and scrape new carrots, cut into three inch pieces and trim into cone shapes so they will stand. Cook in soft water without salt, and cook until nearly tender, then drain. Make a sauce using a tablespoonful of butter, a cupful of white stock, salt, pepper and a little sugar and mace to season. Put the carrots in the sauce, cover closely and simmer ten or fifteen minutes until soft. Stir in the yolks of two eggs beaten with three-quarters cupful of cream, cook just a moment until the egg is thickened, stir in a few drops of lemon juice and turn into shallow heated dish. Stand the carrots upright, sprinkle with fine minced parsley and send to the table with a garnish of toast points.

Squash Fritters — To two cups of mashed dry winter squash add one cup of milk, two well beaten eggs, one teaspoon of salt, a little pepper, and one heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Beat well and drop by spoonfuls into hot butter or cooking oil, and dry.

Escalloped Cabbage—Chop a head of cabbage quite fine and scald. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan and smooth with two of flour, then gradually add one pint of milk and stir until it boils. Season with salt and pepper and add a few spoonfuls of grated cheese. Put the drained cabbage into a baking dish, pour the sauce over it, sprinkling the top with bread crumbs and bits of butter, and bake until slightly brown.

Potatoes with Cheese—Split Irish potatoes which have been baked, sprinkle with grated cheese, return to the oven long enough for the cheese to melt. Serve hot.

CARD ETIQUETTE.

Visiting Cards and How to Use Them.

Visiting cards on which "Mr. and Mrs." is engraved have come prominently into use this season. For several years they were rarely seen except when accompanying gifts, and even then separate cards from the man and woman were more often used. But now the double card has its place in every card case, though custom has not yet entirely decided the detail of its use, says an exchange.

In paying visits a married woman, calling upon another who is married, may leave one of the Mr. and Mrs. cards, and then a single one of the man's, the separate card being for the husband of the hostess. But many smart women are of the opinion that two cards of such extremely different size do not look well together, and so when more of the man's than of the wife's are to be left, they cling to those entirely separate, using their "Mrs." and two of the "Mr." Nevertheless, good form sanctions the other method.

When a married woman calls upon a single woman, be she spinster or widow, she is expected to leave just one of the double cards. This is far smarter than hers and the husband's separately.

In sending presents of any kind, even flowers, if they go from a married woman, the double card is used. It is correct to write a line of good wishes or condolence, if one desires, but it is not altogether elegant, the theory being that, should one wish to say anything, a note must be written, as a card is to bear the name only.

In size the double cards are appreciably larger than even the extreme varieties for a married woman. The same type is used, the preference being for the old English or block, the name to be written in full, initials being incorrect.

Rather heavier cardboard is used than was in vogue several years ago, but it could not by any chance be called thick.

LADY SURVEYORS

Can't Have Any Steel About Their Clothes.

Female students of engineering at the University of Texas will hereafter appear for practice in surveying uncorseted. A magnetic needle in the transit used in surveying is the reason, a recent experience of two fair co-eds having shown that the needle will unerringly point out the whalebones in the makeup of lady civil engineers. Prof. Bantell the other day was instructing two young ladies in the mysteries of the transit, when the compass needle attached to the apparatus began throwing fits upon the approach of one of the students. The professor was mystified. He approached the instrument, and the needle pointed straight to the territory disputed by Peary and Cook. But when one of the ladies again attempted to squint through the transit, and the needle defying precedent, turned southward to point at her, a light broke on the professor. "You ladies can't work this thing with steel in your clothes," he said politely, and the students retired for a change of costume.

THE EVENING STORY

HIS TIMELY AUTOMOBILE

By Frank H. Meloon.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Miss Helen Spalter sat alone in the great farm house, which was her childhood's and her girlhood's home. There Helen had blossomed from a pale, anaemic girl to a young lady of astonishing beauty. This was not only Robert Heulin's idea regarding her present state, but it was that of all others as well. It is really not often one sees a brunette with just the right degree of plumpness, and just the right ideas regarding clothes and hair dressing. The only thing not enviable about Helen at the time was her state of mind.

"What unlimited audacity Robert has!" she exclaimed to herself. "To think of his proposing to me while we were in the midst of a quarrel and then to walk away with his head up in the air and his feet stamping down hard on the gravel, telling me he would never come back unless I sent for him! Of course he tried to be nice about it—that is Robert's way—and said he didn't want to force his attentions on me if they were undesirable. And the worst of it is that they aren't! Oh, he was so good and didn't get angry in the least, though I had lost all control of my temper. I—I guess"—here she choked down a sob—"I guess Robert is better off without a girl like me. I'm not half good enough for him. But I can't ever, ever send for him!"

At this stage of her musings and self-recriminations, Helen was startled by a face at the window—the face of a man evidently of the lowest criminal type. His growth of bristly black beard was rough and uneven, and his eyes, small but piercing, were as ferocious as those of a treacherous swine. As the pane of glass next the window catch was shattered by a blow from a stick in the villain's hand, Helen, with a wild scream, ran from the room, closing and locking the door behind her.

With the readiness of the rural American lass to meet an emergency, she cast over in her mind the various expedients from driving the man away or securing help. The nearest house was that of Robert Heulin, a little over two miles away. The houses were connected by telephone through the central station at Rye, distant about four miles. Hastily she rang up central, giving the call: "Two-ought-four, ring two." She heard the girl at the office make the connection and while waiting with wildly beating heart for an answer, she heard sounds which indicated that the tramp was climbing in through the window. At last there came the welcome "Hello!" through the telephone. It was the voice of Robert Heulin himself. Helen had somehow been certain that he would answer. Robert, she told herself, was always on hand to help her in any emergency. The afternoon's quarrel was forgotten. "Oh, Robert!" she cried, "come quick—there's a tramp broken into the house and I am all alone!"

"Inside of three minutes, little girl!" he answered, and she knew that he had not even stopped to hang up the receiver, for she heard him run from the telephone and open a door which did not shut again.

Helen had extinguished the light, turning the wick down into the kerosene so that the tramp was unable to relight it. She heard him swearing frightful oaths at the fruitless endeavor, and then he was audible feeling his way about with the aid of an occasional match, and trying several doors, which he burst open with more or less difficulty, only to find that she was not within. Vainly the girl at that moment longer for the five-chambered weapon which puts the weak on equal footing with the strong; she even remembered that Robert had often besought her to indulge in target practice, but that, unlike some girls, she had no inherent fear of weapons, yet had neglected to act on his advice. Robert's advice, she now thought, was always for the best.

The girl believed the three minutes must be almost up, but she knew well that no horse could make the distance in the given time, though it was downgrade all the way. How was it then that Robert intended to come? Was it possible, she wondered, with a quick inspiration, that Robert's long expected touring car had been delivered? He had learned to chauffeur the previous summer while visiting his cousin in the city, so she thought it was not unlikely that the automobile had arrived and that Robert was on his way in it to render her aid. The thought lent her fresh courage.

The country girl is almost invariably a clever guesser, and Helen had hit upon the true solution of how Robert Heulin expected to reach the Spalter farm in three minutes. Even as she heard the intruder coming toward her door, cursing as he stumbled over a misplaced footstool, there was a grind of wheels on gravel, and he uttered an exclamation of dismay.

When the tramp had got downstairs, Helen's courage was still further revived and, fearful that her rescuer might be injured in an encounter with him, she ran to a front window in time to see Robert spring from the automobile.

"Where is he?" he cried.

"Around that way," she called out, pointing to the side of the house opposite to that which the tramp had entered. She reckoned on his going as he had come, and in that case Robert would be in no danger. And so it happened that the ruffianly intruder escaped into the nearby woods scot-free.

To Robert Heulin the ride to the girl's aid had seemed hours. Through the night the heavy car had torn its way, the mud splashing many feet to either side; the wayside elms and the quarter mile of Lombardy poplars had loomed up for a brief moment, then had dropped behind. The mill bridge with shaking timbers and the Four Forks had shot by, till ahead of him there had lain only the straight road, wavery and white in the glare of the head lamps, and at its end the Spalter farmhouse and the girl he loved—her life in danger.

Of course Helen opened the door and thanked Robert for his timely assistance.

"I sent for you!" she hinted.

He thought her remark ironical.

"Yes," he responded, "but I will go as soon as your folks return. You see, I would not take advantage of your sending for me in that way!"

"Why," she responded, with apparent innocence, and he never knew how much she then humbled her pride before the man she loved so well, "I was thinking of telephoning for you anyway!"

There are circumstances under which the only possible reply to such an explanation is a kiss.

COMPETITION IN CITY-MAKING.

In these days of high-pressure business competition the enterprise that advertises succeeds, providing it has something to sell that is worth buying, while the enterprise with something just as good but which does not advertise, meets failure.

It is exactly the same way with cities. There is the keenest rivalry between growing cities. Every city seeks to attract capital and new business enterprises, and the vigor and intelligence and persistence of its efforts to that end determine the character of its growth.

The trouble with too many ambitious cities is that their people, knowing the advantages of the home community full well, take it for granted that everybody else knows them, too; and so the city fails for lack of proper advertising.

The city that proclaims to the world its advantages and prospects, and that draws capital and new enterprises by advertising just as a business house draws new business by advertising, keeps forging ahead.

The city that sits back waiting for new capital and new enterprises to come in of their own accord has a long wait ahead when other cities, by aggressive methods and by up-to-date advertising, are attracting the country's attention. That city is just like the merchant who knows he has a good stock at fair prices, and who expects people to find these facts out for themselves. He sits idly in his store watching trade go by his door to the door of his advertising competitor. His expectation that business will fall, like the gentle dew from heaven, upon advertiser and non-advertiser alike is doomed to bitter disappointment.

Duluth has more advantages twice over than other cities that have passed it in the race; and the reason they have passed is that they have hustled for business while Duluth, knowing that its advantages were such as to make greatness certain, has sat back in indolent expectation. Meanwhile, investors have overlooked, to a considerable degree, the advantages of Duluth. Why? BECAUSE THEY HAVE NEVER HEARD OF THEM.

For instance, one of the live, hustling cities of the Middle West is Des Moines. Its advantages are not to be compared with Duluth's, yet it is growing faster than Duluth. Why? Because it advertises and hustles for business. It has a Greater Des Moines committee which represents a live public spirit crystalized into a tangible organization with a definite name and a definite purpose. It hustles for business, and it advertises. In the monthly publication which this committee issues and spreads all over the country, appears an article this month which begins as follows:

> If you were to stand face to face with one of our readers outside of our own bailiwick and tell him that Des Moines is the best city in the West, he would probably ask "Why?"
> The Greater Des Moines committee is planning to spend $10,000 a year for the coming three years to tell Mr. Outsider the "Reason Why."

Now Des Moines isn't "the best city in the West." Duluth is. Every Duluthian knows that. But Des Moines is spending $10,000 a year to impress its claims upon the attention of the country. How much is Duluth spending to make Mr. Outsider see Duluth as the Duluthian sees it?

THE DEFEAT OF DISEASE.

Some exceedingly interesting facts were brought out at the recent conference in Atlanta to consider means of eradicating the hookworm disease. The conference itself was of great interest, because of the way it typified the new attitude toward disease. Not long ago the hookworm disease was killing thousands, and rendering many thousands more incompetent to take up the burdens of life. Yet little attention was paid to it, and when it was discussed the discussion took the form of airy persiflage more often than any other. Today the hookworm disease is still killing many and ruining the lives of many more; but the public attitude—at least the scientific attitude—toward it has changed. Now all the resources of medical science, in conjunction with public and philanthropic aid, are brought to bear against the disease, and its conquest is only a question of time and labor.

But E. E. Rittenhouse, president of the Provident Savings Life Assurance company, in his address at the conference gave some figures that are even more significant.

Since 1880 the death rate from tuberculosis has decreased 49 per cent, and $8,000,000 is being spent each year to fight it. Victory is in sight, and it takes no great stretch of the imagination to picture a coming time when tuberculosis will be utterly destroyed. Its cause has been discovered, and its cure has been made possible. Better still, it is definitely known how to prevent its spread. If methods now well defined could be applied vigorously all over the country, in ten years there wouldn't be a case of consumption in the United States, except those that came from outside the country, and these would be watched and prevented from spreading. Yet even after this great gain, 130,000 Americans die every year from tuberculosis.

The death rate from typhoid fever has declined 44 per cent in the same period. This is because the cause of the disease is known, and because better sanitation, better water and better milk are being provided. Bad sanitation, bad water and bad milk being its causes, its extinction is a matter only of time and labor and vigilance. Yet typhoid fever still kills 22,000 people each year in this country.

The gain is encouraging, and it points the way to complete victory. Yet that victory is possible only at the price of the utmost vigilance, the utmost generosity and liberality toward preventive measures, and the widest spread of knowledge on these subjects.

Meantime, as an offset to these gains, the mortality from degenerative diseases of the heart, kidneys, arteries and brain has largely increased during the same period. Deaths from kidney diseases have increased 131 per cent, deaths from heart diseases 57 per cent, and from apoplexy 84 per cent. Here is a great field for science to work upon; but it can do little without the co-operation of those whom its researches will benefit. Errors in living are responsible for practically all of these diseases. Right living will prevent them. Liquor, over-eating, lack of fresh air and exercise, too close application to work with too little relaxation and change—these are the enemies to be fought. Scientists can't fight these enemies alone. The most they can do is to spread the knowledge of how to live rightly, and this they are doing. The rest must be done by the people themselves. Most of these diseases are incurable, so they are worse than the better known diseases of consumption and typhoid. Right living will prolong life, but even that seldom cures. Right living will, however, prevent; and that is vastly better than any cure.

If the average individual gave half as much attention to such things as proper diet, proper living habits and proper living conditions as a farmer gives to the diet and living conditions of his hogs, victory over diseases of kidneys, heart, nerves and brain would quickly come.

CITY GARBAGE COLLECTION.

Health Commissioner F. J. Patton continues his campaign for the creation of a complete system of city garbage collection, and backs it up with sound arguments. More power to him. The city should have such an institution just as soon as it possibly can arrange it. The experiment made the past summer has shown that the system can be made all that has been claimed for it. It is cheaper, cleaner, better. In place of the old system of collection by private contractors under practically no restriction or regulation whatever, who come when they please and stay away when they please, who tell you to lump it if you don't like it, and who carry garbage in open wagon boxes that leak noisome smells and horrid messes in the streets, Dr. Patton proposes a collection of garbage and ashes by the city itself, practically at cost, by city servants who are amenable to regulation and discipline, and with airtight, watertight and smelltight wagons.

The change will be enormously for the better, and every householder should welcome it.

PEOPLE IN A PANIC.

Duluth is fortunate indeed that the small panic that started at a local vaudeville theater last night isn't responsible today for many houses of mourning and many beds of pain. But that fortunate outcome seems to have come from the fact that it was easy to get out of the theater rather than because the audience showed any better sense than audiences turned mobs usually have. The spectacle of a crowd in a panic always makes the most ardent admirers of humanity a little ashamed. Last night, for instance, the occasion for the alarm was a burst of flame which was part of the performance, and which almost anybody should have been able to see was a part of the performance. Yet some hare-brained idiot yelled "Fire!", there was a rush for the doors, and the house was emptied in a few seconds. Had there been fewer exits, or had some of them been closed, a terrible calamity could hardly have been averted.

Nor is it always women who are the chief offenders in such cases. It was a man—so-called—who raised the silly alarm, and according to a reliable eye-witness it was men who scrambled most energetically for the exits. The incident should be a lesson in the value of coolheadedness. It is fortunate indeed that it cost so little.

WHAT GRINDS THE MOST.

The heart of the people's discontent with the burdensome cost of living does not consist entirely of the fact that it costs too much to live. Nor when it is added that a pitifully large proportion of the people are not getting proper food, clothing and shelter because prices are so egregiously high is the whole story told.

What rankles deeper still is that the oppressed millions who are paying two prices for everything they need to feed, clothe, warm and shelter themselves are paying one price for what the need—and usually getting for that one price less than they need—and another price on top of that for the sumptuous luxuries of those who have power over the feeding, clothing, warming and sheltering of the people.

That's what hurts. That's what makes the people boil with resentment. That's what makes them feel like hitting almost anything in sight that may have anything to do with creating and maintaining the outrageous conditions under which a powerful few of greedy, unscrupulous individuals are permitted to tax the people through the prices they pay for the absolute necessaries of life. The worker every day produces goods worth, say, $12, and he gets back out of his production enough in wages to buy a fifth or a sixth of his own product. The rest goes in stupid wastes and in exorbitant profits. That is why the cost of living is high, and that is why the people are discontented and restless and resentful.

If all were in the same boat, the people would suffer and make the best of it. But when they know that conditions are burdensome because a few with power are merciless in their demands from the many without power—or with power that they have not yet learned to use—it is hard to make the best of it. The pressure grows greater, and presently something must give way.

Paris is suffering from an over-supply of water, and the bourse shows natural declines.

This seems to be a poor season for the pound of flesh business.

A New York banker had his pocket picked of $28,000 by a Chicago woman. And yet New York pretends to be able to teach the West everything worth knowing!

When you are in a nervous theater crowd and feel an inclination to yell "fire," remember that you are in a fair way to outclass the rock-the-boat and didn't-know-it-was-loaded fools. And keep your mouth shut.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE TEACHING OF MORALITY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I want to publicaly give through the Open Court column my feeble word of indorsement to the thoughts expressed by Rev. George R. Gebauer of the Unitarian church in his Sunday sermon. When he says that the education of the mind without education of the heart avails little, and does not accomplish the primary end of teaching, he is right, for the educated scoundrel is usually the greatest scoundrel.

I believe with Mr. Gebauer that by education is not meant the training of a child to read and write and figure and even go farther and delve into the languages and the sciences. I believe that education means development of the character, not the development of the mind alone, and I believe that the system in use in our schools runs too strongly to the development of the mind alone.

I realize, of course, that the parents are responsible for the lack of systematic moral training in our public schools. If any attempt is made to teach morality, parents immediately arise in their wrath to say that the teacher is endeavoring to instill in the minds of the children a belief in the tenets of some sect.

Religion and morality go hand in hand, but the teaching of morality does not necessarily mean the teaching of some particular creed. Morality is above petty differences on doctrine and form of worship. Morality can come only from education of the heart and the heart should be educated when the child is young in order that the effect of the training may be well rooted and lasting.

I believe that some systematic effort should be made to teach morality in our schools, some effort made to educate the heart to long for the higher things of life. Honesty, truthfulness, clean living and ambition to attain the highest standard of Christian morality may be taught in our schools without the child being taught any creed or the doctrines of any sect. If parents could be turned from their foolish prejudice to honest desire for their children's training in the best things in life, such a system could be inaugurated and have great power for good. No man is so base as to want his child's life to be other than immaculate. Too often, the parents have not time for the proper home training of the child and if that training that should be given at home is given in the school by conscientious, right-living teachers, the results obtained will lead to a better manhood and a better womanhood.

THE AITKIN COUNTY FLOODS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"If you don't read The Herald you'll never know nuthin'." This is a home-grown epigram. Thus I quote from The Herald: "Prevention of floods in Aitkin county—Dredging of Mississippi river sought by Congressman Miller." This is an old, old, old story and has been used to confuse the issue for fifteen years, whenever the question of a relief canal has been up. Of course, the village of Aitkin, as represented by its Commercial club or its leading citizens, is the real "dog in the manger," and "dog in the manger" is the only way to explain it.

For many years, whenever there has been a gathering to discuss a relief canal, some ringboned, spavined, wind-broken old cornerib of a one-horse politician has been sure to bounce up, spring the chestnut, and move that a committee be appointed to go to Washington and ask an appropriation from congress to dredge out the river and cut off the short bends—not the great bend which includes some forty of these short ones. Of course, these committees never go anywhere except to bed while their shirts are being washed, but they serve to confuse and prevent any definite effort by the people who suffer.

Now they have Congressman Miller bowling along the old, old, old trail, and no doubt he will make the woods ring ring with the music until he is out of hearing; but if one takes the trouble to look fifteen minutes later, he will be found sound asleep in his kennel. Some of us feel rather proud of him.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

With some little interest I have been watching the almost uniformly bad suggestions offered for names of the two cities at the Head of the Lakes, in the contest the morning paper is conducting. I have a suggestion, which I fear they would not accept. Why not call the two cities "The Quick and The Dead?"

ONE OF THE QUICK.

Duluth, Jan. 24.

Remember the Maine!

Over the waste of ocean,
Borne on the winds that blow,
From the sunlit land of reef and palm,
To this land of northern snow,
I hear in the still night watches,
The moan of the restless dead,
Where the shattered Maine lies rusting,
In the ooze of her harbor bed.

The stars in their sudden splendor,
Shine down on her lonely there;
From the tropic shores about her,
Drifts her soft and slumbrous air;
While, low on the hush of midnight,
Like the wail of souls in pain,
Breaks that bitter cry, uprising,
From the forgotten Maine:

"Have you no thought, O brothers!—
No touch of grief or shame—
For your dead in alien waters,
Whose souls went up in flame;
Who fell for the proud flag flying,
Beyond those leagues of foam;
Who yielded youth and love and life,
For the land that you call 'Home'?

"Were we but pawns of fortune—
Mere clods whose work is done—
In the great game of Empire,
Beneath this Southern sun?
Have we no right to sleep in peace,
With kindred 'neath the sod,
Of that dear land where, through the years,
They wait the call of God?"

O, shame to the laggard nation!
And shame to the hardened heart,
Which in the press for power and place,
For wealth of mill and mart,
Forgets its dead!—whose whitening bones,
Deserted there, lie deep,
In that gaunt hull through whose wide wounds,
The sullen waters creep!

With booming gun, with martial dirge,
Flags drooping at half-mast,
To that blue sea whose deeps will give Safe harborage at last,
Bear the wrecked Maine—and lay her dead,
Low on Columbia's breast,
Where never alien wind or wave,
Shall break their quiet rest.

—William Ledyard Cathcart in New York Sun.

Safe and Sane.

Puck: Mediocrity, because democracy makes it the fountain of accepted belief, may be what it will, and it elects to be all that is good and beautiful. In the opinion of four cylinders, six cylinders are inevitably madness, and that disposes of Genius at once.

The world trusts Genius to crack its jokes and sing its songs, but not to marry its daughters or go on the road to sell its goods.

Genius has all along put truth above consistency, and now it is saying there's a category even higher than truth. Pragmatism, some call it. That shows where society would be landed, only for the saving sanity which is Mediocrity.

THE WEATHER.

Last night was sharp and clear with a full moon to aid in making an ideal winter evening. Today is cloudy and threatening and the weather man promises rain or snow for tonight with a cold wave coming tomorrow afternoon.

A year ago today the weather was fair and pleasant.

The sun rose this morning at 7:41 and it will set at 5 o'clock, giving nine hours and nineteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Northwestern disturbance has increased slightly in intensity, advancing its center from Alberta to Saskatchewan. During the past twenty-four hours this depression caused an increase in temperature over Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Western Ontario, the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Western Wisconsin, Iowa and the Southwestern states, together with more or less rain or snow in Alberta, Washington, Oregon, California, Utah, Nevada and Western Montana. The Mississippi valley high pressure has moved to the Ohio valley, its influence causing colder weather in most districts to the eastward of the Mississippi river. A rise in pressure in the Far West and Northwest is attended by a drop in temperature which will probably reach the Head of the Lakes Wednesday afternoon."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the past twenty-four hours and the minimum for the past twelve ending at 7 o'clock this morning:

The Three Political Parties of the Future.

"Is the Republican Party Breaking Up?" is the title of the leading feature in the February American Magazine. Its author is Ray Stannard Baker, and he claims that there are no longer two parties except in name. In reality there are three parties which he defines as follows:

"1. The 'stand-patters' or conservatives, represented by such men as Aldrich and Cannon, among the Republicans and McHenry of Louisiana among the Democrats. They stand essentially for the control of government by property and privileged interests. They have with them the considerable group of older and temperamentally conservative voters who still cling unthinkingly to party names.

"2. The insurgents or progressives, led by La Follette, Bristow, Cummins, and others among the Republicans, and Bryan, Champ Clark and others among the Democrats. Though they may vary in opinion as to how much the tariff should be reduced, or how far government control of corporations should go, or whether the states or the nation should be chief regulator, they all stand firmly together upon the platform that the power of property in governmental affairs must be limited, that the people must rule.

"3. The socialists or radicals, with a small following everywhere. In Wisconsin they have already elected five members of the legislature, and in Milwaukee they have ten of the aldermen, six county supervisors and four directors on the school board. They stand upon the platform, 'Let the nation own the trusts.' They argue that so long as private and personal ownership of the great sources of production and of public utilities is permitted, property corruption in government is sure to continue."

The Way of a President.

Chicago Daily News: A certain federal judge, in private conversation, made the remark that Mr. Taft, if he had been president at the time of the Civil war, would have saved the Constitution and lost the Union. The remark was apt.

Forms and procedure loom large in the mind of the present occupant of the White House. The effect of judicial experience is seen in many of the things which he does. The mental processes of Mr. Taft are very different from those of either Lincoln or Roosevelt. The Pinchot episode well illustrates this.

There can be no doubt that President Taft believes in the conservation policies of the Roosevelt administration and that he desired to retain the services of the chief of the bureau of forestry who held that position under Roosevelt. Yet Pinchot has been discharged by order of the president because a situation was allowed to develop under which the maintenance of presidential dignity was made to appear of more consequence than fundamental policies of great concern to all the people, not only of the present day, but of succeeding generations.

It is impossible to think of Lincoln's meeting such a situation in such a manner.

One cannot fail to be impressed by a contemplation of what might have happened had a man of the Taft temperament been president in the trying days when the wise hand of Lincoln was steering the course of the republic.

For Shame!

Harper's Weekly: Alas for the propensity of dynamite to get into religious discussion! Out of the parley over Dr. Eliot's religion of the future has come the definition—"Unitarian; a retired Christian."

Now, who did that!

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The Absurdity of Tawney.

Cannon Falls Beacon: Sometimes Mr. Tawney is funny and sometimes only ridiculous. The other day he gravely stated that high prices were attributable to the craze for automobiles, diamonds, seal coats, old laces, steam heated houses, boxes at the opera, etc. We do not see what this has to do with the prices of butter, eggs, pork, beef, potatoes, flour, calico and jeans; unless it is that the gentlemen who control, by hook and by crook, the prices of these things have to put up prices so they can buy the things Mr. Tawney mentions. They are are the same gentlemen who insisted on all the money voting for the tariff bill, and who insist, and often in vain, on his voting for every other iniquitous measure their monopoly interests dictate.

Bully Campaign Material.

Sauk Center Herald: "Whom the gods destroy they first make mad" applies to the Republican congressional committee in its announcement that it will not help any insurgent congressman to a re-election. If the committee had scoured the country with a fine-tooth comb in the search of campaign material for those same insurgents it could not have discovered a better one than their fool announcement. No wonder most of the members of the committee declined to father it.

Decidedly, Thus Far.

Brainerd Tribune: Is Frank Kellogg's campaign for a seat in the United state's senate of the "gum shoe" variety?

That Would Help Much.

Albert Lea Tribune: The heart of the cost of living problem is to persuade enough young men to go into farming to keep up with the country's consumption.

State's Full of 'Em.

Fairmont Sentinel: There are scores of men just as competent to represent Minnesota in the United States senate as either Moses E. Clapp or Frank B. Kellogg.—Princeton Union.

If not, have mercy upon us! There are fifty men in the Democratic party that are the superiors of either.

The Public Suffers Most.

Little Falls Herald: The switchmen's strike continues, and there is no doubt that great injury to business has been done, no matter what the railroads claim. The companies are not moving freight to any great extent, and the situation is becoming acute at many places. The people, who are the innocent third party, are bearing the brunt of this industrial conflict. It seems incredible, and to the historian of the future will appear ridiculous, that the trade relations of millions of people should suffer because of such warfare, and that there was not common sense in legislatures, or grit in officials, to seek a remedy and apply it.

He Doesn't Want To.

Morris Sun: If President Taft were to put Ballinger back where he found him he would save himself much unpleasant criticism and please the country at large mighty well.

Some Funny People.

Cannon Falls Beacon: They are still talking of "reading" men "out of the party" down in Washington. It is strange how amusing some folks can be without in the least realizing it.

Be Yourself.

Montevideo Leader: Don't keep time to another's ambition. Throw your shoulders back, step out from the hips and strike a gait of your own.

The Discouraged Brother.

Say, brother, what's your trouble?
Ain't the old world used you right?
Look as though you'd give up hopin'
's though you'd lost the heart to fight;
Have you found out that it's useless to expect to stand a show?
If so, tell me how you've done it—tell me how you really know.

Ain't you gettin' what you're earning?
Can't you find no work to do?
Have you got to thinkin' mebby God has got it in for you?
S'pose you've got a sort of notion you'd be way up in advance
With the winners if you'd only had some other feller's chance.

Come, now, brother, let's be honest—
let's git right down to bed rock;
Don't you, when you're workin' always keep a-lookin' at the clock?
Don't you just do what you have to, in a slip-shod sort of way—
Not because you like to do it, but because you want the pay?

Yes, I thought so! You've a notion you've been cheated, hain't you now?
Got a sort of dark suspicion everything is wrong, somehow;
Think the world owes you a livin' and has tried to shirk its debt—
When it rains you want dry weather, when it's dry you want it wet.

Have you ever stopped to wonder why
the world should ever care
Whether you are feelin' happy or are clingin' to despair?
Have you riz to such importance that it's likely anyone
Can be feelin' jealous of you or belittles
what you've done?

Guess the trouble with you, brother, is you just don't care to try,
And you think the sun quits shinin'
when a speck gits in your eye;
Mebby things would look some brighter
if you'd give up findin' fault
And git all your pores well opened while you try to earn your salt.

—S. E. KISER, in Chicago Record Herald.

College Idyl.

Where is my Sophomore son tonight—
The child of our tears and fuss?
Does he mathematize on the flight of light,
Or work at Theocritus?"

"Nay, lady, he's talkin' of next year's team;
Or watching 'em basket ball;
Or calling and chatting with Peaches and Cream;
Or smoking a pipe—that's all;

"Or hazing a Freshman to make him grow;
Or fighting some likely pups;
Or raising a row with a rotten show;
Or running for loving cups;

"And maybe he's writing the Sophomore play;
Or stealing the chapel chimes;
But, lady, you bank on it anyway
That he's having his Time of Times."

—Horatio Winslow in Puck.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Punch: Ethel (finding the sermon tedious, and thinking it high time for the collection)—Oh, mother, do pay the man and let's go home.

Washington Star: "There's no doubt about Charley's being a thorough optimist," said young Mrs. Torkins.

"How do you know?"

"I overheard him at a card party he gave to his friends. He said scarcely anything all evening except 'That's good.'"

Life: "Parker and his wife have separated."

"What are the terms?"

"They each get their cook for six months."

Pittsburg Post: "He has a theory that women are not to be trusted with money."

"Introduce me. It ought to be easy to stick him for the drinks."

Cleveland Leader: Philanthropist—What ruined you?

Convict—My wife.

Philanthropist—How?

Convict—She gave the snap away to my second one.

Kansas City Journal: "Who was the fellow Pepys, and what is his claim to fame?"

"His claim to fame is well founded, my friend. He's the man who kept a diary for more than a year."

Philadelphia Press: "Gee whiz! Here's the rain coming down again and somebody's stolen my umbrella."

"Somebody's stolen what?"

"Well, the umbrella I've been carrying for the past two weeks."

Boston Transcript: "I wonder what the ladies do at those afternoon teas?"

"Oh, they just sip and gos-sip."

New York Sun: Knicker—Does your watch keep railroad time?

Bocker—Yes; it is always being regulated.

Chicago News: Stella—I met Jack and his wife today and he introduced me as an old flame of his.

Maude—The idea! Why, I remember when he used to call on you and you couldn't have been a day over 30.

Houston Post: "He is very poor, is he not?"

"Yes, very poor."

"Does he drink?"

"Naw! Why, if Opportunity was to knock at his door and ask him to come out and take something he wouldn't do it."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I have here a poem," exclaimed the proud author, 'which I would like to have you publish at your usual terms."

"All right," said the editor of the Plunkville Palladium. "Ten dollars a line for one insertion, or we will run it thirty times for $6."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

NOTABLE ADDRESS TO BOARD OF TRADE MEMBERS

President S. H. Jones Reiterates the Warnings of J. J. Hill.

Deplores Extravagance of Americans at Home and Abroad.

Stephen H. Jones, president of the Duluth Board of Trade in a notable address before the members at their annual meeting yesterday afternoon, uttered many pertinent remarks of especial interest, at a time when efforts are being made to reduce the cost of living.

Mr. Jones said that the board of trade would soon be free from debt and would own a property which will increase in value as Duluth "takes her inevitable place among the larger cities of the country."

Mr. Jones discussed the higher cost of living, referring to the greater growth of American cities and a larger local consumption of American grown grain, a smaller amount available for export each year and a smaller amount to be handed through the port of Duluth "unless two warnings which have been emphasized so strongly during the past year are recognized and acted upon by the American farmer and the American citizen, generally."

"The first I refer to," said Mr. Jones, "is the warning of J. J. Hill to the American farmer against the further abuse of the soil and instead a resort to intensified farming. The action on advice of no matter how great merit—where the body advised is composed of a very large number of people—is slow, and the percentage of acceptance each year would probably not be in excess of the country's growth in population and consequent increase in consumption.

"The second warning I refer to is the warning from the consumer who has to pay so high a price for his living in all departments. In this connection I wish to refer for a moment only to the recent strike conditions which we have all deplored. Not in any unfriendly spirit towards union labor, but only in the way of suggestion, I would submit that the same government that restricts the earning power of the common carriers of the country should be urged to reduce the cost of the table rather than that the railroads should be asked to pay constantly increasing wages on the one hand while the government restricts their earning power on the other."

Mr. Jones said the board of trade should preach the gospel of intensified farming, extend its sphere of influence to the wheat growing country north of the United States and endeavor to deflect the tide of grain from Canada through this port. The speaker said he favored not only procuring of Canadian wheat for export, but, "under fair restrictions," for use as food in the United States.

"Our population," he declared, "has grown to such an extent that a partial failure of the wheat and corn crops in the same season would mean that prices in the United States would go to a famine basis within a very short time. As Cleveland once said: 'It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.'"

Mr. Jones called the attention of the board of trade to the formation of a company to market produce, operate an interurban railway and prepare land near Duluth for agrarian purposes. He said, "The question should receive your very serious consideration, for while it might appear to you that the direct returns would not exceed 4 per cent or 3 per cent or 2 per cent, the indirect dividends in the decreased cost of living would be your personal compensation and the movement would be of great benefit to the community and its citizens."

The speaker deplored increased extravagance on the part of Americans at home and abroad. Money is being spent abroad, he emphasized, which must be taken from the United States in gold as the exports of grain and produce decreases.

"At home our extravagance," he declares, "causes the exploiting of a great many enterprises which, at the first cry of retrenchment, are closed down, and add sharply to the financial embarrassment of the country. The success of the country depends on the conservative growth of her industries to fit an economical, a restrained demand, rather than on the sudden upbuilding of many industrial establishments based on general extravagance which must disappear before the first blast of a financial disturbance."

Mr. Jones reviewed conditions of interest peculiar to the grain trade, and referred to the death of D. A. Christy, who was one of the oldest members of the association.

The president's remarks are singularly apropos at this time, as there is a national movement in progress to decrease the cost of living.

The wheat market was weak yesterday and today, and practically all commodities declined. Mr. Jones said today that he thought the movement is already having its desired effect, and that it was one of the causes of the decline in commodity prices in the last two days.

URGES MILK RIVER CASE

Louis Hill Calls on Taft and Ballinger and Other Officials.

Value of Project to Duluth Is Pointed Out By Railroad President.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad is in Washington upon a variety of matters of interest to the Northwest. He has with him some Indians, a few white men and his own personality. With associates he has called upon President Taft, Secretary Ballinger, the commissioner of Indian affairs and officials of the reclamation service.

Among the numerous matters Mr. Hill wants the government to attend to immediately is the construction of irrigation works in the Milk river valley in Montana. The development of this project is said to be of great interest to the jobbing interests of Duluth.

The charge is made by Mr. Hill and his following that the reclamation service has been derelict in attending to the building of irrigation projects in the Milk river valley and that unless the government is willing to proceed, the settlers in that part of the country desire to reconvey their water rights, conveyed some years ago on the theory that the valley was to be developed by irrigation, under the terms of the irrigation act.

The settlers are willing to go ahead on their own account if the government does not intend to do so.

Talked with Taft.

The entire question was laid before President Taft yesterday by Mr. Hill, who pointed out that, properly irrigated, the land in the Milk river valley will prove the most fertile in the world; that an area of 600,000 acres is available for irrigation under the proposed project; that with the completion of the project an area much larger will develop, and that such development is of concern not alone to Montana, but to the great cities of the Northwest, notably Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis By Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On Oct. 18 last my little 3-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold, which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," says Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, Oct. 23, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly, as I have found it the surest, safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." RAILROADS SHIPMENTS ARE HEAVY

Railroads Are Handling More Coal Than They Did a Year Ago.

Duluth railroads are shipping more coal at the present time than they were at the same period a year ago, with orders showing a general increase, according to freight sheets shown by local freight agents this morning.

Not only are the three roads of this city, which do a heavy Western coal business—the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the Omaha—hauling a heavy amount of coal at the present time, but they are also sending a large amount of coal into Canada, which is being handled by the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific.

The Great Northern is averaging over 200 cars of coal a day, which is ahead of the record made by the road during the month of January, 1909. The Northern Pacific is also hauling a large amount of coal down into Iowa, Nebraska and the two Dakotas. The Omaha reports a very heavy January delivery of coal.

The Duluth roads are very much better prepared to handle coal at the present time than they were when the first heavy orders came rushing in at about the time the switchmen's strike was declared.

Freight men say the heavy coal business will bring the general freight receipts for the Head of the Lakes up to a very much higher total than during the dull season of last year.

W. F. Fitch, president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, is in the city today.

J. H. Brown, assistant general passenger agent of the Michigan Central, is here today. Mr. Brown says passenger business throughout the Eastern passenger districts promises to be unusually heavy, beginning with the spring tourist business. Mr. Brown looks for a heavy lake business, which means a heavy passenger travel out of Duluth, and is of the opinion that the present season will be fully as good as last season.

W. Mitch, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago Great Western railway, is here today on passenger business.

* * *

A. L. Johnson, traveling passenger agent of the Erie, is making the passenger rounds today, looking for through Eastern business. There is a very good passenger business at the present time, according to Mr. White.

Duluth officials of the Great Northern expect a heavy travel from this city, when more than 1,000,000 acres of land in Eastern Valley county, Montana, will be thrown open for settlement. The entry will be made at the land office at Glasgow, Mont. There will be no drawing in the settlement of the Eastern Valley county lands, as in previous government land openings. Settlers selecting and making their homes on the land will be entitled to entry.

One-way settlers' rates are also announced by the Northern Pacific. These fares apply from all points included in one-way colonists' rates, and are to destinations in the Canadian Northwest.

WIDESPREAD INTEREST IN FIGHT ON CORPORATION TAX

Duluth Case Differs Somewhat From Vermont Case Now Pending.

Congress May Extend the Time for Filing First Statement.

The first case brought to test the constitutionality of the corporation tax imposed by the Payne tariff law has been taken before the supreme court of the United States and the decision of that body will be awaited with deep interest by the millions of stockholders in corporations throughout the country. The decision of the supreme court will probably have a bearing on the one test case now before the United States court here and any others, which may be filed, although the reversing of the lower court in the case appealed would merely send the case back to be tried on its merits.

The case appealed is that of Stella P. Flint, as general guardian of the property of Samuel N. Stone, Jr., a minor, against the Stone-Tracy company of Windstor, Vt. Part of the property of the minor consists of shares in the company and the action was brought to restrain the officers of the company from filing a statement of its affairs as required by the law. A demurrer to the complaint was sustained by the lower court and the appeal is by the plaintiff from the order overruling the demurrer.

The action differs from the local case, in that it is by a stockholder to restrain the company, while the action brought here is by the Oneida Realty company against Fred Von Baumbach of Alexandria, collector of internal revenue, and Otto Gaffert of Duluth, deputy collector of internal revenue, to restrain them from demanding a statement of the companies' affairs or performing the duties imposed on them by the provisions of the act.

May Extend Time.

March 1 is set by the act as the date which statements must be filed and unless congress should extend the date or a decision should be made by the supreme court in the Vermont case before March 1, a temporary injunction will be asked in the local case to restrain the collector from performing his duties until the case is decided on its merits. Duluth attorneys believe that congress will extend the time for filing statements, for there is such a strong protest against the tax going up all over the country and so many test cases have been brought that an attempt to enforce the provisions of the act at this time would result in chaos.

The Oneida Realty company, which brought the first action filed here, is the company which is building the new Alworth building. M. H. Alworth is president and J. L. Washburn of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, is acting for his firm as attorney for the company. The company besides the new Alworth building, owns considerable property in the city and the rentals form its only source of revenue. The complaint states that the company's net income was more than $5,000 last year and it is therefore subject to the tax.

The contentions upon which the claim of unconstitutionality of the act is based in the local case, are:

1. It is obnoxious to the provisions of section 8, article 1, of the Constitution of the United States, which requires that "all duties, imposes and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States," because corporations which have not a net income of more than $5,000 must pay no tax while those having a net income of more than $5,000 must pay a tax, and it requires that citizens doing business as a corporation must pay the tax while citizens doing business in partnerships or as individuals must pay no tax.

2. It is obnoxious to section 2 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States which requires that "representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within the Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons including those bound to service for a term of years and excluding Indians not taxed, one-third of all other persons."

3. It is an infringement on state rights in that it is a tax on franchises granted by sovereign states, and as such, is obnoxious to article 10 of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that "the powers not delegated to the state by the United States, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people."

4. The penalties for the failure to make and file returns to the end, that an assessment of such tax may be made are excessive and enormous and unconstitutional.

The act provides that every corporation organized for profit and having capital stock represented by shares, organized under the laws of the United States, shall be subject to pay annually a special tax called an excise tax, with respect to the carrying on of business by such corporation, equivalent to 1 per cent upon the entire net income over and above $5,000 received by it from all sources during such year, exclusive of the amounts received by it as dividends upon the stock of other corporations subject to the tax imposed by said act, except certain corporations for religious, charitable educational and certain other purposes specified in the proviso in the section.

It provides that the net income shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross amount of the income of each corporation received within the year from all sources. 1. All the ordinary and necessary expenses actually paid within the year out of the income in the maintenance of the operation of its business and properties, including all charges, such as rentals and franchise payments required to be made as a condition to the continued use and possession of property; 2. All losses actually sustained during the year, and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation of property, if any; 3. Interest actually paid within the year on its bonded indebtedness to an amount of such bonded or other indebtedness not exceeding the paid up capital stock of such corporation; 4. All sums paid by it within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or any state or territory, or imposed by the government of any foreign country as a condition to carrying on business; 5. All amounts received by it within the year as dividends upon the stock of other corporations, joint stock companies or associations subject to the tax imposed by said section.

It provides that from the amount of the net income of the corporations thus ascertained the sum of $5,000 should be deducted, and that the tax should be computed upon the remainder of the net income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1909, and for each current year.

The Statement Required.

The act also provides that on or before March 1, 1910, and March 1 of each year thereafter a true and accurate return under oath or affirmation of its president, vice president, or other principal officer and its treasurer or assistant treasurer, should be made by each of the corporations subject to the tax imposed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the corporation has its principal place of business, which return, it is required by the act, shall set forth: 1. The total amount of the paid up capital stock of the corporation; 2. The total amount of the bonded or other indebtedness of the corporation; 3. The gross amount of the income of the corporation received during the year from all sources; 4. The total amount of all the ordinary an dnecessary expenses actually paid out of the earnings in the maintenance and operation of the business and properties of the corporation, with certain separate statements as provided for; 5. The total amount of all losses actually sustained during the year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise, stating separately any amounts allowed for depreciation of property; 6. The amount of interest actually paid within the year on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded or other indebtedness not exceeding the paid up capital stock of the corporation; 7. The amount paid by it during the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or any state or territory, stating separately the amounts so paid by it for taxes imposed by the government of any foreign country as a condition to carrying on business; 8. net income of the corporation, joint stock company or association, after making deductions authorized.

The returns are to go from the collector to the commissioner of internal revenue, who shall make assessments of the tax authorized by the act and when assessment shall be made, the returns given, with any corrections which may have been made by the commissioner, shall be filed in the office of the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington and shall constitute public records and be open to inspection as such.

All assessments to be made upon the returns shall be made on or before June 1 of each successive year and they shall be paid before June 30.

If any corporation refuses to make returns at the time specified in each year or shall render a false return, the corporation shall be liable to a fine of not less than $1,000 and not exceeding $10,000 and the commissioner of internal revenue in making the assessment of the taxes in case of refusal or neglect of the corporation to make a return shall add 50 per cent to the tax and if in case of failure to pay the tax within the time provided, a penalty of 5 per cent upon the amount of such tax shall be added and interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month from the time the tax became due until the collection.

AUTOS MUST TOOT HORNS

Ordinance Provides for Warning Before Vehicles Turn Corners.

Dr. Patton Asks for Extension of Municipal Garbage Collection System.

The council meeting last evening was the shortest that has been held this year, all business being of a routine nature. The coming election was given as the cause of the brief session.

An amendment was submitted to the traffic ordinance requiring automobiles to sound their horns or bells three times before turning a corner. It had its first reading and will be taken up again next Monday.

Dr F. J. Patton submitted a letter recommending the extension of the system of municipal collection of garbage. He suggested that the city be divided into districts and that wagons large enough to hold about two and one-half tons be substituted for the carts which the city bought last summer. Wagons of this nature, he said, have divided compartments for ashes and garbage.

The report of the municipal court clerk showed that 1,815 civil cases and 3,799 criminal cases were disposed of in 1906. The fees from the former amounted to $4,096.35, and from the latter to $14,534.59. The annual report of the city treasurer was also submitted.

The estimate of M. Fitzgerald on his contract for reducing the grade of Piedmont avenue was held up one week upon motion of Alderman Olson. The contract for painting the contagious disease hospital was awarded to Hugh Fawcett for $245. The aldermen were informed that the personal injury suit of Mrs. Angeline Jacobis against the city had been settled for $235. The publication of a statement from the board of water and light commissioners urging the passage of the $200,000 worth of bonds was authorized.

The Canadian Northern franchise was not brought up, as it was postponed for two weeks last Monday evening.

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed, the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeter. and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by the fathers and mothers.

If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines when medicines are not needed, and when nature requires assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. As you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed or the front of every package. To get its beneficial effects it is necessary to purchase the genuine only. Buy a bottle today to have in the house when needed. Put up in one size only. Regular price 50c a bottle and for sale by all leading druggists.

KELLOGG STILL SILENT

Regarding His Expected Candidacy for United States Senate.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—Frank B. Kellogg holds the center of the stage in news interest here. Mr. Kellogg's speech at the People's church here Sunday night is taken by astute politicians of both parties, including his admirers and opponents, as the preliminary skirmish, his announcement one way or the other regarding his candidacy for the United States senate being expected to materialize very soon.

Mr. Kellogg was busy all day dodging newspaper reporters, but gave out a statement during the afternoon to the effect that his speech at the People's church Sunday night had no political significance.

The statement said that he had nothing to say on his talked-of candidacy for the United States senatorship.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by all druggists.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

Ed La Rose Draws One Year for Stealing a Watch.

Ed La Rose, who a few days ago stole a valuable watch from a Third street saloon, was arraigned in municipal court yesterday, after having been arrested at Saxon, Minn., by Detective Meaden. He pleaded not guilty, but later changed it to guilty. He was taken before Judge Smith of the superior court where he was sentenced to one year at the Green Bay reformatory.

Mrs. Eva Goudie was assessed $10 and costs yesterday in municipal court as a result of a neighborhood quarrel which was aired before Judge Parker. The complainant in the case was Miss Nellie Quinn, who charges that the Goudie woman assaulted her.

George Blitz of Allouez was arraigned in court yesterday on a charge preferred by Agnes Laboy, who claims that the man threatened to shoot her. The prisoner admitted that he had made the threats and was compelled to furnish bonds of $300 to abstain from making any more threats for the next ninety days.

John Polinsky, charged with stealing a number of pairs of rubbers from a store on Third street, had a trial yesterday. He was sentenced to thirty days on the rock pile.

GETS TWO YEARS IN REFORMATORY.

Joseph Nolan, who was arrested a few days ago, charged with having immoral relations with a 13-year-old girl, was sentenced to two years at the Green Bay reformatory, today.

Nolan pleaded guilty to a lesser offense than the one which he was originally charged. If he had been found guilty of the original charge, he would have received a longer term.

Nolan, who is only 21 years of age, came to Superior about two months ago.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Davidson of Oshkosh today appeared before the committee on rules in advocacy of his concurrent resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of congress to make an exhaustive investigation into the cost of living.

This committee, under the Davidson resolution, shall consist of twelve members, six to be named by the president of the senate and six by the speaker of the house. The committee is to be instructed to ascertain whether the prices of the necessaries of life which enter into general use and consumption of the people have been increased since 1900, and if so, to ascertain the cause or causes which have influenced such increase.

In making such an investigation special attention shall be given by the committee to the subject of wages and incomes, and whether the increase in the same has kept pace with the increase in the cost of living.

BURIED UNDER OVERTURNED CAR

Paul Golik Wants $25,100 for the Injuries He Sustained.

For injuries alleged to have been sustained while working near Gilbert for the firm of Erickson & Long, Paul Golik wants $25,000. The case was begun this morning before Judge Ensign of the district court.

It was Golik's duty to load the cars in which the earth was hauled to the dump. Golik claims that the foreman ordered him on the morning of July 2, to brake a car which was ready to go on the dump. The car ran away, tipped over and Golik was buried beneath it. As a result he claims that his right arm was crushed, his right leg broken and he was otherwise badly hurt. He claims to have spent seventy-eight days in a hospital as a result of the accident and says that he is now a cripple and unable to earn his way. He claims that the brake was defective and that the track was poorly laid and unfit for use. He charges negligence in many ways on the part of the contractors.

The company in its answer, says that Golik was not ordered to brake the car, but that he was just taking a ride.

Besides the $25,000, Golik asks $1,000 additional as special damages.

RUN ON MEXICO BANK.

Depositors Withdraw Equivalent of $500,000 in Two Days.

City of Mexico, Jan. 25.—The run on the United States Banking company, which began an hour before the close yesterday, was resumed when the bank opened this morning. At noon it was estimated that 1,000,000 pesos had been withdrawn. This is equivalent to about $500,000 in United States money.

Two hundred depositors were in line and all were paid promptly. Paying Teller Forsythe said that every demand would be met.

Other banks were prepared to meet the emergency of sympathetic runs, but none occurred. It is reported that any loss sustained by the United States Banking company will fall upon the stockholders only.

It is not believed that the trouble will spread to the other financial institutions of the city.

Granulated Sugar Syrup..12½ oz.
Pinex ..... 2½ oz.

Put 2½ oz. of Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup made as follows: Take a pint of granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This recipe will not work with any of the weaker pine preparations. Use the real Pinex itself, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract. All druggists have it, or can get it easily on request.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

HE MISSED REVOLUTION

All Quiet in Guatemala While Mr. Baldwin Was There.

"Like Comic Opera Country," Says Duluthian, Back From Isthmus.

Mark Baldwin of the Bridgeman & Russell company returned today from the city of Guatemala, Guatemala, where he went for a pleasure trip. He was not in the revolutionary zone, though he stated that news of the doings of Zelaya's army were occasionally wafted over Guatemala way

"Though there wasn't any revolution going on at the particular time I was in the country, they are not in the least uncommon," said Mr. Baldwin. "One night the electric lights in the city went out, and some of the natives were of the opinion that some one was bent on starting a revolution. You see, they are continually on the lookout for an uprising.

"There is little enterprise in the country. It is like a country that is pictured in some comic opera. There is a ragged, barefooted army of 50,000 men, which the ruler maintains to keep himself in power. In those Central American countries the army is principally to keep in security the man who happens to be on top."

Mr. Baldwin stated that the natives of Guatemala were very much interested in the revolution in Nicaragua, and that all news of the fighting was read with interest. There are few Americans in Guatemala, according to Mr. Baldwin, and the few who are there seem to be making but little money. It requires eighteen paper dollars to equal one gold dollar, so depreciated is the currency of the country.

Rev. I. W. Williams Testifies.

This was done on the agreement of the attorneys. The Wells-Fargo, American, Adams and Great Northern Express companies are seeking to enjoin the commissioners from putting in effect a reduced schedule on express in the state.

LAND FOR WHISKY; ACRE FOR GALLON.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 25.—James B. Aiken of Fort Worth, who is in this city today, is authority for the statement that he has exchanged 100,000 acres of land in Brewster and Presidio counties, Texas, for 100,000 gallons of whisky. The exchange, he says, was made with a Dayton, Ohio, distiller. The land is valued at $1.50 an acre. The whisky was also valued at the same figures.

One Committed; Other Released.
Mandan, N. D., Jan. 25.—Upon the complaint of his wife, who laid an information of insanity before the county board, Max Horanko was arrested and brought up for examination, then released. It was found that his condition was not such as to warrant his being placed in the asylum. Gustave Johnson of Carr, was not so fortunate, he being committed to the care of the state authorities.

CHAN SMITH AMENDMENTS OPPOSED BY EXCHANGE

The real estate exchange, at a meeting at the Commercial club this afternoon, placed its stamp of disapproval on the last three amendments to the city charter, to be voted on at the election Feb. 1, the amendments known as the Chan Smith amendments.

T. T. Hudson of the charter commission addressed the exchange on the charter amendments to be submitted, and laid special stress on the arguments advanced in opposition to the Chan Smith amendments. His arguments covered substantially the ground he has covered in a series of articles, which have appeared in The Herald, and he read in part from the argument against the Chan Smith amendments published in last evening's edition.

After Mr. Hudson had completed his talk, a number of members of the exchange addressed the meeting, indorsing Mr. Hudson's views and urging activity on the part of the members of the exchange in opposition to the amendments.

BOTTOM OUT OF MARKET

Paper Profits on Copper Shares Wiped Out in General Decline.

Calumet & Arizona Again the Center of a Bear Raid.

Today was the most disastrous for copper stocks of any within the last eleven or twelve months. Paper profits piled high by manipulators and investors in Calumet & Arizona, Lake, Indiana and North Lake were wiped out in today's and yesterday's decline. The retreat of coppers which has been in progress for several weeks, gaining momentum in the last few days, developed into a rout, and practically all copper stocks tumbled unaided and unsupported even by the banking interests which came to the rescue of the market last week.

The United States Steel corporation declared only the usual dividends on its stock. Steel common was heavily traded in, declining from $83.25 to $81.12½ and returning to $82.25 when the report was issued that unfilled orders amount to 6,000,000 tons and the earnings for the quarter to about $40,000,000. Butte Coalition declared a dividend of 23 cents. The action had little or no effect on the stock, which declined from $26.25 to $24.75 and recovered to $25.25.

The action of Calumet & Arizona again was the feature of a badly demoralized market. It touched $63, a decline of more than thirty points since Friday, while Lake after selling at $94 on Friday fell to $74. The action in Lake simply was the collapse of a pool that never had any legitimate reason to go as far as it did. The speculation in Calumet & Arizona, the pernicious pool in Hocking Coal & Iron, the rottenness in the manipulation of Rock Island common, the inflated movement in Lake despite its sensational ore discoveries, all tend to bring about the regulation of the exchanges of the country by those most interested in them—the people.

The decline in the market is entirely speculative and seems to be engineered by Wall street interests in order to teach the administration to "keep hands off." The report today that the administration contemplates a general legal movement against all trusts brought consternation to Eastern traders, it is said, and they dumped stocks on the market, not knowing where the legal lightning was going to strike.

The local market was quiet and soft. Calumet & Sonora being the exception to the general rule. This issue sold at $23.25 up to $24 and down ½ point. Live Oak sold at $20 down to $19.12½, and then up ⅛ point. Red Warrior at $3.75, Butte & Superior at $2.75, Calumet & Montana at $2. Calumet & Corbin at $1 down to 98 cents, St. Mary's at 32 cents, and Carman at $1.31½.

Amalgamated sold at $80.25 down to $78.37½, up to $79 and down to $78.12½. Butte-Ballaklava at $11.50, Greene at $10.12½, at $10, down to $9.12½ and up ⅛ point. Giroux at $10.12½ down to $9.75, North Butte at $43 down to $39.50 and back to $40.25.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Butte & Ely Mining company was held in Butte last Friday and the following directors elected: W. D. Thornton, L. O. Evans, J. C. Adams, Roy S. Alley of Butte and Edward J. Maney of Duluth. Mr. Maney, who is treasurer of the Giroux Consolidated company, succeeds A. C. Carson as director of the Butte & Ely. He was also elected treasurer of the Butte & Ely Friday. Mr. Thornton was reelected prpesident, Mr. Adams vice president and Mr. Alley secretary.

No other business came up before the meeting. No work is being done on the property of the company at Ely, and everything appears to be in a waiting state. The company is in fine condition, having $240,194.45 in the treasury.

BENNETT'S BLOOD IS UP

New Yorker Scores Macon of Arkansas in Speech in the House.

Defends Immigration Commission Against Charges That Stopped Its Work.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Denouncing as "infamously and maliciously and wantonly false," statements made in the house yesterday by Representative Macon of Arkansas, Representative Bennett of New York, a member of the immigration commission, arose to a question of personal privilege in the house today to defend the commission against attacks which had been made. Mr. Bennett was absent when the discussion, which resulted in the striking out of the $125,000 deficiency appropriation for completing the work of the commission took place.

Reading from the Congressional Record the remarks of Mr. Macon, Mr. Bennett declared that the gentleman from Arkansas, by a five-minute walk from the capitol, could have reached the headquarters of the commission, and could have found that the charges he voiced were untrue.

Says He Was Told So.

"I said," interposed Mr. Macon, "that I had been advised that what I said was true. The gentleman does not, I hope, deny that I received that information."

Insisting that Mr Macon might easily have discovered the falsity of the charges, Mr. Bennett referred to a report made to the house within two weeks and accessible to everybody, which, Mr. Bennett said, showed the facts in relation to "the white salve traffic."

"I am very anxious to have the gentlemen make a statement of the proceedings of the commission," protested Mr. Macon.

"The expenses of the commission and seven employes," proceeded Mr. Bennett, "for three months travel on the continent of Europe, was only $13,000, traveling as we did as the commissioners of the best government under the sun."

"This statement requires instant, complete and full retraction," thundered Mr. Bennett, glaring across the aisle into the eyes of Mr. Macon.

A storm of applause broke forth from the Republican side.

One Day's Vacation.

Referring to the commission's trip abroad, Mr. Bennett said he had spent only one day in Naples in "taking a vacation," by seeing some objects of interest.

"I went through Rome," he continued, "without seeing St. Peter's or the Appian way. I did visit the king of Italy, which it was my duty to do."

Mr. Bennett insisted that as the result of the trip abroad the head tax on immigrants was raised by the legislation of 1907 which had increased the amount in the treasury $3,300,000.

"The expenses of this trip," Mr. Bennett continued, "were borne by each of us to a greater extent than by the government. We each paid more from our own pockets than was charged to the government. It was proposed that we be granted a lump sum and we insisted upon declining that proposition in favor of itemized accounts. If the gentleman will go to the treasury department he can learn the cost of every egg I ate for breakfast."

STEEL DIVIDEND IS INCREASED

Extra Dividend of 3-4 Per Cent Declared on Common Stock.

New York, Jan. 25.—The directors of the United States Steel corporation this afternoon declared a regular quarterly dividend on the common stock of 1 per cent for the quarter ending Dec. 31 and an extra dividend of ¾ per cent, making a total dividend disbursement of 4 per cent for the year 1909. The regular dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock was declared.

SCUFFLING OVER PISTOL, NORTH DAKOTAN WOUNDED

Oakes, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a playful scuffle over the possession of a 32-caliber revolver, supposedly unloaded, Ernest Robinson received a bullet wound in his face which may result seriously. The ball entered the left cheek, following the cheek bone around in a peculiar manner, and lodging in the neck, where it still remains.

TRAVEL ON THEIR STOMACHS.

World-Wide Magazine: Certain devotees in India, in their fanatical zeal, practically travel from place to place on their stomachs! Their method of progression is rather peculiar. Throwing themselves forward full length on the ground, they make a mark with their hands as far in front of them as they can reach. Then, springing up, they put their toes to the mark and repeat the process. Some of these devotees travel half way across the Indian continent in this extraordinary fashion.

Cost of Beauty

How New York Dames Keep Young.

Recently a young New York society woman received her monthly bill from a downtown beauty parlor. This particular bill amounted to $52 for the month, which was, perhaps, a little lower than the average monthly accounts rendered by this shop. It contained such items as turkish baths, $2; violet water rub, 75c; facial massage, 75c. The attendants at these exclusive "beauty parlors" frequently make as much as $10 a day in tips. Occasionally some "grande dame" in sables extracts a perfumed 10-dollar piece from her gold bag and tosses it to Nancy with an air of lofty grace. One of these attendants confided to a friend in an unguarded moment that among the many lotions and beauty restorers used in such establishments a preparation for restoring gray hair was most in demand. It is usually charged on the bill at $5 a bottle, under a fancy name, but in reality is the same formula as Hay's Hair Health, which retails at all druggists for 50 cents and $1 per bottle, and is manufactured by Philo Hay Specialties company, Newark, N. J., U. S. A. Hay's Hair Health has many imitators, but those who have used different preparations agree that Hay's Hair Health is the most effective and safest.

OUR FIRST BOTANICAL GARDEN.

The first botanical garden in America was established near Philadelphia about 1730 by John Bartram, a Quaker, who was also the first native American botanist. It was a small affair (the entire property comprised only five acres) and a part of the limited space was occupied by the house, built by his own hands; but the garden was a remarkable project indeed for those days and is known to have contained many choice specimens.

William Bartram, son of John, is perhaps better known as a botanist because of the fact that his account of his extended travels in the Southern Atlantic states was published and contains many important observations upon the plants of the regions explored by him. He maintained the garden established by his father and after his death the property remained in the hands of owners who were deeply concerned in its preservation for many years.

During a short period of neglect serious damage was done to the old garden, but within the last twenty years it has become the property of the city of Philadelphia and is now a city park. According to the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden its collection of trees and shrubs has always been notable and the old house is still in an excellent state of preservation.

The second American botanic garden in North America was also near Philadelphia and was established in 1773 by Humphrey Marshall, a first cousin of John Bartram and like him a Quaker. The old garden has long since passed into a state of decay, but the house built by Marshall with his own hands in 1772 is still in an excellent state of preservation. Humphrey Marshall has the distinction of having written the first botanical work ever published in the United States, an account of our native trees and shrubs, printed at Philadelphia in the latter part of the year 1785.

HOW FAT WOMEN CAN REDUCE THEIR WAISTS.

Fat shows a preference for the abdomen, chin, ankles, hips, etc.—the quiet spots—just the places where it can show the most, or worst. What is to be done—exercise and diet—are they the only alternative? On the contrary, they seldom do the work.

A better plan for reducing the fat is to use the Marmola Prescription Tablet. One of these after meals and at bedtime will produce the requisite reduction without bother, delay or harm. In a few weeks you can be losing a pound of fat a day. It will drop off, as it were; disappear as quietly as it came; remove uniformly without causing even a suspicion of a wrinkle or distress. Meanwhile, eat and act as usual; deny yourself nothing. It is not required, if Marmola Tablets are used.

Get off two inches of waist line before the month's end. It can be done—certainly, cheaply, safely. The Marmola Tablet is non-injurious (it being made after the famous fashionable formula—½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara aromatic, 2½ oz. Peppermint Water), and it costs only seventy-five cents, the large case, of any druggist, or direct from Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

GREAT POLISH WRESTLER IS GRADUATE OF UNIVERSITY OF VIENNA AND AN ARMY OFFICER

A Short History of Man Who Will Meet Gotch ---Rowing at the University.

(BY BRUCE)

Stanislaw Zybszko Cyganiewics is the full and almost unpronounceable name of the great Polish wrestler who will be seen in this city in the very near future.

The strong man of Poland has been called Zybszko since coming to this country. His name has been shortened because the people can pronounce it with some degree of correctness. Even as it is, the name of the wrestler is pronounced in many different ways.

The man who came to America with the express determination of taking the heavyweight championship of the world back to Europe with him, was born in the little village of Stanislawice, in the province of Galicia, and in addition to his great strength and prowess on the mat, is a graduate of the University of Vienna and has served as a lieutenant in the Austrian army.

Like the world-famous Hackenschmidt, who was also a graduate of an European college and a civil engineer by education, Zybszo is a gentleman and is far above the usual professional in intelligence and intellectual attainments. Although he has wrestled all of the leading mat artists and has been in many countries of the world, Zybszko gives his age as 28 years.

Zybszko has been wrestling since he was 14 years of age. One year later he began to take serious interest in the sport. He took instruction under one of the best professional wrestlers in Austria. He began wrestling some of the less known wrestlers of Austria. Zybszko went to Vienna and wrestled Raicevich, the Italian wrestler, who was recently beaten by Frank A. Gotch in this country.

He was but 20 years of age at the time he met the Italian. The Italian won the match. At the age of 24 Zyszko graduated from the University of Vienna, taking a degree in law. After leaving college he served one year as a lieutenant of infantry. It was when Zybszko left the army that he seriously took up the wrestling game as a means of livelihood.

He wrestled in Turkey, France, Russia and England. He has met Padoubny the Russian Giant, twice at Graeco-Roman, with neither man securing a fall. A year after this Zybszko defeated the Russian. He has defeated Nenroulah, the Turk, the same man who was seriously injured by George Hackenschmidt, and who challenged Frank Gotch when the world's champion was in England last year.

Zybszko has also met Beck, Olsen, Lureck, the Russian, and Beaucarlos, the French champion. In 196 Zybszko won the world's Graeco-Roman title at Paris, there being sixty-five men entered in the tournament.

It was after the winning of this tournament that Zybszko took up the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling. He defeated Padoubny at this more modern style of the mat game. He was also matched to meet Hackenschmidt at this style, but the two giants of Europe never came together on the mat.

Since the defeat of Hackenschmidt by our own Frank Gotch there has been an intense desire on the part of the wrestling fans of Europe to again bring the world's championship back to Europe. The quick defeat for Yussiff Mahmout, who though less known than Zybszko, was considered a great wrestler, only exasperated the Europeans further.

Their feeling of disappointment can only be realized, when it is known that in Russia, Austria and Turkey wrestling is considered the greatest sport in the world. Frank Gotch is the first American to wrest the heavyweight title from an European champion. Muldoon and Whistler, great American wrestlers as they were, never attained to the title of world's champions.

Hackenschmidt, should there be any doubt of his holding the title of world's champion, defeated Tom Jenkins for the title in Madison Square Garden. The great Russian won the match in two straight falls. It was the ridiculous case with which Hackenschmidt handled Jenkins in this match that led the New York sporting writers to ridicule the idea of Gotch defeating Hack for the title.

The defeat of Hackenschmidt came as a shock to the wrestling enthusiasts of Europe, who had seen Hack handle Nouroulah, the giant Turk with ease, and to toy with the giant Joe Rogers, a man weighing 260 pounds, and known as the American Apollo, whom Tom O'Rourke took to England.

The great question in the wrestling game, is whether Zybszko can defeat Gotch. Many Americans will answer no. In Buffalo Zybszko wrestled Gotch to a draw. Gotch agreed to throw the Polish champion twice in an hour, and failed to secure anything approaching a fall. Gotch claimed he was not in the best condition at the time. Zybszko claims he is learning more about the American style of speedy wrestling every day. There you have it.

The coming contest between Gotch and the man with the 56-inch chest measurement should be one to test for all time the ability of the wonderful man from Humboldt, Iowa.

Again we have a good one from the Battling Dane. As a man to keep his name before the public the Dane is much like the late P. T. Barnum. He is the best press agent among the mitt handlers, with the possible exception of James J. Corbett.

Already Nelson has fought 642 rounds. He announces that when he has fought 1,000 rounds he will quit the fight game for all time. Now if the Dane has only fought 642 rounds during all the years he has been fighting, it is very difficult to see how he expects to get in the 1,000 sessions of fighting.

Should Ad Wolgast prove to be the boy who would douse the glim on the Nelson reception night lamps, perhaps the visions of fighting 1,000 rounds would fade like a soubrette's beauty after the final curtain.

Nelson is a wonderful man. He possesses as much energy as either Thomas W. Lawson or William Jennings Bryan. He is forever at it. So are Tom and Bill. Bill got his three times and Tom got his good from the people he loved and worshiped—for awhile. The question remains to be answered: Will the Dane get his?

He probably will, should he go through with the intention of fighting 1,000 rounds. Forget it!

When Jeff was in Salt Lake City he was given one of the greatest receptions he has received any place along the tiresome road of one-night stands. A brass band met him at the station and there was a wild and screaming riot at his hotel.

It is rather tough to tender a man such a reception as that. You see Jeff was between the devil and the deep water mark. In Salt Lake City they naturally wanted to know if Jeff would like to fight in the Mormon belt. What could he say after the brass band stuff? Wonder if Tex Rickard paid for the music?

But anyway Jeff told the Mormons and the other people assembled in the "opery" house that tickled would be an inappropriate word to use in describing his overjoy at being assured he was to battle with the coon in dear and sweet Utah. The audience roared, whistled, beat its collective feet, and some got so excited that they ran home to tell their many wives.

This is all very well and proper—but wait. Those native sons of the Pacific coast have a most long and sharp memory. Jeff will be at the coast in a short time. Then he will be called upon to answer a number of questions that will prove as embarrassing as the questions asked of John D. when our own Mr. Kellogg was in an inquisitive mood.

That is why it was rather mean and low down to come that brass band and public reception stuff on the man from Los Angeles.

Word from Minneapolis has it that assurance has been given that the scheme to have a crew at the University of Minnesota will be successful. It is even rumored that Ten Eyck will coach the young oarsmen of the Gopher institution. Ten Eyck is at the present time at the University of Wisconsin. It would be a great thing for the college to place a crew on the water. It has long been a question why Minnesota was not represented by a crew. It might be a very good thing for the Duluth and Minnesota Boat clubs, for there would be the chance that a triangular regatta might be held between the two clubs and the university.

Some one called up yesterday and informed us in no uncertain tone that there was not the least chance in the world that there ever would be a fight between Jim and John. Such information is always a delight to sporting editors. The best part of it is, it is freely given. Now that the question is settled definitely there will not be much cause for any great fuss over the condition of James J. Jeffries.

ZBYSZKO IS COMING

Armory, Feb. 4.

UMPIRES MAY REMOVE "SUBS" FROM BENCH.

Pittsburg, Jan. 25. — The extended power given umpires by the adoption of a rule by the rules committee of the National league last night is an inspiration of President T. J. Lynch. This is the rule empowering the umpire to clear the bench of substitutes of any team who express their disapproval of the umpire's decisions and indulge in rowdyism in general.

"There has been much rowdyism from the bench," Secretary Heydler said last night, "and these are the men President Lynch is after. Umpires Klem and Johnstone, two of the president's advisors in this matter, were sufferers from the bench during the last playing season. Up to last night there was no rule to cover this, but now rowdy players will be reprimanded, and for a second offense fined $10, and for third they will have to leave the playing grounds."

LONG SCHEDULE FOR NATIONAL

Ebbetts Says League Will Play 168 Games Next Season.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—The National league playing season will be based on a schedule of 168 games, and upon that basis the joint schedule committee of the American and National leagues is working, although its labors here were not completed last night. Another session will be held today, and in the meantime no information will be given out by any of the members.

Chairman C. P. Ebbetts of Brooklyn, chairman of the National league committee, said last night that as chairman of the schedule committee he had been instructed by the six club presidents to arrange for 168 games. They had the determining power in voting it next month, and Mr. Dreyfuss and himself had no vote by reason of being members of the committee, therefore the arrangements with the American league were being made on that basis. Mr. Ebbetts said further that as he was instructed, it would be a breach of trust to present any other than the 168-game schedule.

The committee on rules of the National league, which is also meeting here, was in session all day yesterday, from 11 o'clock in the morning until almost midnight with the exception of a short time last night, when they attended a complimentary dinner tendered by Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburg club. At this dinner, President Ban Johnson of the American league, and President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league exchanged expressions of harmony and fraternity between the two leagues.

The rules committee, like the joint schedule committee, would not make public their deliberations, merely sending out the statement that some minor changes were being made.

Representatives were present from almost every club in the major leagues.

No deals for players were announced throughout the day.

CLOSE GAME EXPECTED.

Crack Teams of Hockey League Will Meet Tonight.

Both the Big Duluths and the Northern Juniors are anxious to win the hockey contest tonight. The game means much to both teams. The winner will go to the league leadership and will be generally looked upon as the strongest team in the league.

the league, and Asher Taylor, the high school youngster, who has been playing a brilliant game with the Northern Juniors the present season, are expected to go good work in the contest this evening.

The game that will be played tonight will be the most important game that has been played in the league to date. The two teams are looked upon as the strongest in the league and a great game is expected.

JOHNSON TRIMS COSTELLO.

Saginaw Boy Has Better of Fight With Duluth Boy on Range.

"Scraps" Costello, a lightfighter of this city, was trimmed last night on the range by a lad named Billy Johnson of Saginaw. The whole affair was a distinct surprise to the Costello party and his friends. Little was known of Johnson and the backers of the local fighter had no doubt over the outcome of the fight.

The Johnson boy proved a bear cat, however, and won the decision at the end of the twenty rounds of milling. According to the reports of the fight, Johnson was the more clever boxer and the cleaner hitter.

Billy Heller, the man who fought Walter Whitehead on the range something like a year ago, is matched to fight "Doc" Roller before one of the Southern fight clubs.

Roller has been anxious to break into the fight game for some time. He has done some boxing, and being long and rangy, he believes he is fitted for the mitt game. Roller has had one fight and in this case proved a distinct disappointment. Whether he will do anything against Heller, who lost to Whitehead on a foul, remains to be seen. If he can't beat Heller, a man smaller than Roller, the big physician-wrestler had better stick to the mat game.

George Gunther fought in England last night. He met a fighter by the name of Charley Knott. The colored boy is doing so well in England that there is some talk of matching him against Ian Hague for the English heavyweight championship.

WEST DULUTH MEN ARE DEFEATED

Duluth Curlers Take First Match for the Manley-McLennan Trophy.

The Duluth curlers won out last night in a match with rinks from the West Duluth Curling club for final possession of the Manley-McLennan trophy. The total score was 55 to 41.

Two of the uptown rinks went down to defeat. Alex Macrae lost to A. G. McCauley, 9 to 5, and the Dunlop rink was defeated by Zauft, 15 to 13.

The second match of the series will be played tonight at the West Duluth rink. Should the West Duluthians win, a third match will be played at the rink of the Duluth club. A game played last night for The Herald trophy resulted in a victory for Dinham over Dr. Staacke, 13 to 5.

CHAMPION SKATER LAMY SHOWS POOR FORM.

New York, Jan. 25.—Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake, champion amateur skater of the world, failed to live up to his reputation last night in either the one mile or half mile handicaps, in which he was one of the scratchers with Clarence Granger of this city.

Granger is never at his best indoors and the track in the St. Nicholas rink measured sixteen laps to the mile. He failed to qualify in the shorter race, but had a good position in a trial for the mile when he fell.

Turk Defeats Austrian.

Richmond, Ind., Jan. 25.—Yusiff Mahmout, the Turk, won a wrestling match here yesterday from Stanley Fitzsimmons, Austrian champion, in two straight falls. It required twenty-four minutes for Raoul De Rouen, the Frenchman, to throw Charles Olsen of Indianapolis.

WAR FOR POLAND'S INDEPENDENCE

Poles Commemorating Insurrection of 1863 Against the Rule of Russia.

By Professor R. Pioutkowski,
Chief of Press and Information Bureau, Polish National Alliance.

The present week is being dedicated by the Poles, in Poland and America, in commemoration of the last war with Russia for Poland's independence. Forty-six years ago, Jan. 22, 1863, an armed insurrection was proclaimed by the secret national government in Warsaw, and what looked in the beginning to be a small fire developed into a tremendous conflagration that raged for over two years and swept all Poland and Lithuania.

When in 1856 Russia, beaten and humiliated by France and England in the Crimean war, was making in Paris her peace with the Western powers, Czar Alexander made two promises, which were not included in the treaty itself, but were added to it in a secret clause. He promised to grant Poland a moderate amount of liberal reforms and to abolish in his empire the state of servitude in which the peasants had lived in his domains for many centuries.

But as soon as foreign troops left Russia the czar seemed to forget his promises. The reforms failed to materialize and the liberation of serfs, it was found, would be premature and injurious to the economic interests of Russia.

The first signs of unrest made their appearance in Poland in the beginning of 1861. People began to gather in churches and to sing patriotic hymns with the sublime refrain at the end of each strophe: "To Thy altars, O Lord, we raise our prayers, that Thou mightst give us back our fatherland and our freedom." From the churches the people emerged into the streets in all cities and towns and continued their prayers to God for freedom.

The Russian authorities knew by those signs what was coming. All insurrections in Poland used to begin in the same way. Troops were sent against the peaceful gatherings of the people, blood began to flow, and as the people did not desist from praying for freedom, stronger measures had to be taken.

In the beginning of 1865 the Russian government conceived the plan to prevent Poland from arming herself for the impending struggle. An order came from Petersburg to arrest in one night 50,000 or more ardent young men in Warsaw and other Polish cities and to take them away as recruits to various distant places in Russia. But the secret Polish agents learned of this plan and even managed to secure partially the lists of intended victims. The boys, warned in time, fled from their homes to the nearest woods, armed themselves as well as they could and began to offer resistance to the detachments of Russian troops which were dispatched after them. So the actual struggle began, and the Polish national government, maintained secretly in Warsaw, seeing that the general outbreak could not be detained any more, declared war on Russia Jan. 22, 1863.

This passage occurs in the manifesto of the Polish national government:

"In this first day of our holy struggle for Poland's independence we declare all inhabitants, without difference of creed and race, of classes and occupations, free citizens and equal before the law. The land which the peasants have been tilling as serfs or otherwise becomes by this decree absolute property of the tillers; the landowners will be paid for their losses from the treasury of the republic."

So the question of serfdom, which the czar refused to solve, was solved by the Polish insurgents. To the Russian government nothing was left but to comply with this declaration in order to deprive the insurgents of the help of numerous millions of peasants not only in Poland, but also in Russia.

It is true that the czar two years before, at the first signs of the movement in Poland, gave to the serfs partial freedom, but he did not accord them the right of property in their lands. They were left with their old obligations toward the landowners and had to serve them with their labor, against their will and without any remuneration. Now the face of things underwent a quick change. The peasants in all the empire received their economic independence and the state undertook to remunerate the land-owners.

The success of the Polish insurrection depended much on the intervention of Western European powers. Napoleon III contemplated such intervention and opened negotiations for that purpose with the governments of England and Austria. But Prussia stepped in and Bismarck made haste to form an open alliance with Russia against the Poles and everybody who might try to help them. Austria was the first to hesitate, and against the combined forces of Russia and Prussia, France and England did not care to commit themselves.

So the heroic Poles were left alone to fight it out with Russia. And how they fought! There were in all over 600 battles and skirmishes in the period of two years. Some good arms were smuggled through Austria from Belgium, but most of the Polish warriors, especially in Lithuania, had only their hunting guns and scythes. Some cannon was taken from the Russians, but through lack of ammunition had to be abandoned. Over 200,000 Poles and Lithuanians served their country in this insurrection. About 50,000 of them died on the field of glory or succumbed to their wounds. The loss of Russian regular troops was about 40,000, according to Russian statistics. Among Polish officers those that most distinguished themselves were Generals Langlewicz, Mierosiawski, Hauke, Hejdenreich, Sierakowski, Jezioranski and Suzin. There were many others of distinction.

The struggle was directed in its second and more difficult part by General R. Traugutt as dictator and a cabinet of five ministers that constituted the last Polish national government. They resided secretly in Warsaw, which was all the time in the hands of the Russians, and held their meetings at night in the zoological cabinet of the University of Warsaw. In April, 1864, they were detected; they were courtmartialed and executed in Warsaw, Aug. 5, 1864. The last skirmish in that was was fought in March, 1865, where a handful of Poles made their last stand under the command of a priest, Father Brzoska.

The war was over and Poland settled to another long term of oppression. But the freedom from servitude of all the peasants, Polish and Russian, was won forever by the blood of those heroes, whose memory is deeply imbedded in the hearts of all Polish men, women and children.

TRY CORK OAK.

Forest Service Has Imported Seedlings for Experiments.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Cork oak, which grows to a large extent in Spain, is to be tried in the national forests here. Two thousand one-year seedlings now in the nursery at Chico, Cal., will be used for experimental planting of the forest service. Some will be placed in the Santa Barbara national forest and others will be planted in the Monteray national forest in Southern California. Seedlings also will be made the subject of experimentation at the forest school at Point Loma, Cal.

In addition to planting seedlings, cork oak acorns will be obtained from Catalonia, Spain, for experimental purposes. Some cork oaks have been raised in California, and the forest service thinks they can be raised in that state as well as in Florida.

THREE MILES OF NEW PAVING LAID IN 1909

City Engineer in Annual Report Urges Need of Storm Sewers.

Four Roads Leading to Farming Districts Surveyed During Year.

The annual report of Thomas McGilvray, city engineer, shows that twice as much paving was done in Duluth last year as in 1908. Nearly three miles of new paving were laid in the city in 1909.

The total cost of the improvements in Duluth last year was $356,378.92 Street improvements cost $150,662.70; water works, $26,722.63; storm and sanitary sewers, $81,915.83, and sidewalks, $97,117.76. This does not include work started but not finished last year.

Mr. McGilvray comments upon the lack of storm sewers above Fourth and Fifth streets. He says that until this lack is remedied, the city is liable to a washout at any time. In this connection, he comments upon an experiment on Third street which will better the condition. Third avenue west between Second and Third streets was tarred at a cost of 35 cents to 65 cents a square yard. It is a 15 per cent grade, and in the past has suffered greatly from every storm, but that was not the case this year, the floods of water running over it without doing much damage. This cost is equivalent to $1.98 a running foot, or less than $1 a front foot, the cost being divided between the property owners on both sides of the street. It also makes sprinkling unnecessary. The experiment in treating London road with tar is declared an unqualified success. Two blocks were treated at a cost of 25 cents a running foot. No sprinkling was necessary, the cost was small, and the swiftest vehicle failed to raise any dust, says Mr. McGilvray. The treatment needs to be renewed about once every two years.

An important feature of the year's work is the completion of four surveys of roads leading out of the city into the farming districts. One leads from Highland street at West Duluth to a junction with the Morris Thomas road; another runs from St. Mary street and Carver avenue through Oakland park division and section 11 to Stormaway street; one in Woodland to connect with Woodland avenue making a connection with Piedmont avenue and the Hermantown road, eliminating most of the bad grades of the latter; and the fourth was the Sundby road starting from Sixth avenue east and Sixth street and running under the boulevard to a connection with the Grierson and Grand Rapids road. These roads have a maximum grade of seven per cent enabling street cars to run over any of them.

Tar macadam was laid on a concrete base for the first time last year. This is considered economy, as it increases the life of the pavement while the base can be used for another pavement when the original is worn out. The cost does not exceed 35 cents a square yard. This was done on Fourth street between Sixth avenue east and Sixth avenue west and on Twentieth avenue east from Superior to Fourth streets.

Over sixteen miles of wooden and cement walks were built last year and three plats for new additions were approved by the council after they had been passed upon by the city engineer. A telephone is recommended for the ferry car and a stairway and platform for the aerial bridge. A station is also wanted on the north side of the bridge. Brewery creek is again characterized as an open sewer, with the recommendation that it be covered.

Another recommendation affects sewers laid in Park Point and Rice's Point at right angles to the avenues under the level of the bay, the idea being to let the wash of the water between the lake and the bay empty the sewage. The depression of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad crossing at London road and Twenty-seventh avenue east is commended.

W. P. SNYDER IN THE CITY

Pittsburg Iron Man Reaches Duluth in His Private Car.

Officials Will Investigate Holdings in Duluth and on Range.

W. P. Snyder, one of the officials of the Shenango Furnace company, and also president of the Snyder Iron company of Pittsburg, reached Duluth this morning in his private car with four officials of the Shenango company.

George L. Collard, C. H. McKee, C. D. Dyer and John A. Savage are with Mr. Snyder. The officials are here to look over the business of the furnace company as well as to inspect mineral holdings on the iron range. The members of the party will leave this evening for the range.

Mr. Snyder stated briefly that he and the other officials were here simply on a business trip, and that there was nothing of significance in their coming.

In addition to his position with the Shenango Furnace company, Mr. Snyder is one of the prominent iron men of Pittsburg. He is heavily interested in mineral holdings on the range and also interested in a fleet of ore boats.

Mr. Snyder predicts a very prosperous year in the iron business, basing his opinion on the business conditions at the present time and the heavy advance orders.

An Interesting Program Has Been Arranged for Wednesday Evening.

Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. there will be a program of water sports.

Physical Director Wegener has been hard at work on the program for some time past and the entry list is the largest ever arranged for an affair of this kind.

A feature of the water sport program will be the chasing of a live duck by all those entered in the events. A very wild specimen of the web-footed family has been secured and a prize of some sort will be given the man who succeeds in capturing it.

There will be a water basket ball game, an exhibition of fancy swimming, fancy diving, a swimming contest under water, a tub race, a speed event and other interesting stunts.

LOST IN MAZE OF CONFLICTING DATES.

Pittsburg, Pa., —Jan. 25.—Finding themselves lost in the maze of conflicting playing dates, the schedule committees of the American and National leagues were today again in session at the Fort Pitt hotel. To fit a 168 game National league schedule with a 154 game American League schedule was the task before the magnates. Intricate figuring and not a few double-header games will be the result of the committee's work.

By nightfall, it was said, the playing dates will be fixed.

SEEK REHEARING IN BIG DRAINAGE CASE.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys representing George Freeman and other property owners of Bottineau and McHenry county, will petition the supreme court of the state for a rehearing in the famous Mouse river drainage case. This was decided last week in favor of the board of drainage commissioners, being that the work should be allowed to proceed. The opinion of the court was divided, two of the justices dissenting. In view of this fact the plaintiffs believe that they have a good chance to win out on a rehearing.

WILL ADDRESS SALES MANAGERS

Harold N. Case Slated for Evening Talk at Commercial Club.

Harold N. Case, manager of the National Sales Managers' association, organized in the United States and Canada for the mutual benefit of sales managers, will address the Duluth division at the Commercial clubrooms this evening.

Mr. Case's territory covers both countries, keeping him constantly on the road. The last few days he has talked to 25,000 people informally and at meetings. National officers will be elected in a short time, and in connection with his work he is securing proxies from members of the association. The place of holding the convention has not yet been decided.

Only the highest class companies are admitted to membership in the association. "Quality first, and quantity afterwards," is the way Mr. Case expresses it. The members better their knowledge of salesmanship, training commercial travelers and advertising.

Mr. Case has some claims to distinction outside his connection with the sales managers' association. He is one of the best-known athletes in the country and went to Europe to participate in the Olympian games, distinguishing himself and carrying off his share of the honors. His wife is Ida Butler of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York.

DEER RIVER SCHOOL OPENS.

Worst of Scarlet Fever Epidemic Is Believed to Have Passed.

Deer River, Minn., Jan. 25.—The school which has been closed on account of scarlet fever was reopened yesterday. The number of cases here week before last aroused fear of a general epidemic, and Health Officer Fairall ordered the schools closed all week, and the building was fumigated daily; children were kept pretty close to home; the Electric theater was fumigated and no children have been allowed there; the special services at the church were discontinued, and no public gatherings have been held. The result is, not a new case has developed and those reported week before last are all recovering rapidly and are considered safe.

NO DECISION IS REACHED

City and Railroad Officials Talk Over Proposed Franchise.

Effort Made to Settle Points Which Are in Dispute.

No definite decision was reached yesterday afternoon at the conference between the city officials and President William Mackenzie of the Canadian Northern, on the franchise for the road to enter the city.

For several hours the points in the proposed franchise were talked over, and discussed in a friendly manner. The railroad wants the franchise, with some changes and the city is holding out for the franchise as it stands.

The principal matter discussed at yesterday's meeting was the clause regarding rates which the city traffic committee wants inserted in the franchise. Mr. Mackenzie refused to consent to it. The paragrapn binds the railroad to give Duluth fair and equitable rates. The basis is made the same as the rates given other lake ports on the Canadian side. It is the first time a clause of that nature has ever been inserted in a Duluth franchise, and the Canadian Northern officials said that it was the only one of its kind in the country.

Julius H. Barnes stated that Duluth is not getting the same rates as Port Arthur on harvesting machinery. He said that the rates on most of the other commodities are equitable, but that this city is being discriminated against in this particular.

The discussion at no time became acrimonious. Although the city authorities feel that Mr. Mackenzie was arbitrary, they are anxious to have the road come into the city, and Mr. Mackenzie stated that the road was anxious to come. But the city, it is stated, will insist upon some parts of the franchise to which the company objects, but which were not brought out at yesterday's conference. What will be done with the rate clause has not been determined. It is possible that if the road's reasons are sufficient, it will be dropped, but that will not be done definitely until it has been further considered and more light thrown upon it.

The city's side of the debate was conducted by City Attorney C. S. Wilson, who drew the franchise as well as the franchises which were granted to the Wisconsin Central and the Soo roads. Mr. Mackenzie was accompanied by D. B. Hanna, third vice president, and Col. A. D. Davidson of the land department. The party left last evening for Chicago, en route to Toronto, the company's headquarters.

Before leaving Mr. Mackenzie said that the company has much construction work ahead in Canada, and that it would not be greatly inconvenienced if the Duluth branch is not started at once.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS ENJOINED

Village Is Prevented From Purchasing Waterworks Equipment.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge B. F. Wright issued a permanent injunction against the trustees of International Falls, enjoining them from buying from Robinson, Carey & Sands company, the boiler and other pump equipment.

The village is enjoined from passing upon and allowing any claims in favor of the company for the sale or delivery of any of the supplies mentioned, and issuing any warrants or orders of the village for payment of any claim or account in purchasing, selling or delivery of the articles.

This injunction has been issued on the request of John T. Stone, acting for the so-called "municipal league," of International Falls, which objected to the village purchasing said waterworks paraphernalia without having first called for bids, and awarding the contract to the lowest bidder.

Heard at Bemidji Jan. 11.

The case came up for hearing in Bemidji Jan. 11, upon the returning of the order to show cause why temporary injunction should not be issued against the defendants, it being considered that the determinations of a temporary injunction would practically amount to a determination of the right to issue a permanent injunction, as prayed for in the pleadings.

The question involved in this case, according to Judge Wright, was not a right of the village to purchase these waterworks supplies, but the objection was made to the method employed by the village to do so; that the contract could only be made with the lowest bidder, after published notice of time and place of receiving bids.

The defendants contended that the statutes quoted by the plaintiff's attorneys did not apply in this case; that there was an emergency and necessity for immediate action; that, even if the council acted without authority in not having called for bids, "that such lack of authority was ultra vires in a secondary sense and would not make the purchase an illegal one."

PATTEN IN THE MARKET

Rumor That He Is Buying May Causes Advance at Close.

Flax Is Very Erratic, Closing at Loss of 6 Cents.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 25.—The wheat market declined from the opening today, which was lower than Monday's close, and was weak and uncertain, although active, until about noon when it became known that James A. Patten had begun to bull wheat and was buying Chicago's May around $1.09½.

This sensational rumor caused a general scramble for the band wagon. Patten has lost money on such movements, but he has made a few wads and the [illegible] year are still fresh. The buying movement that started in the last hour or two of the session was purely speculative and was due almost entirely to the report that Patten was behind wheat.

All other staples declined from the opening, but toward the close most of them advanced in sympathy with wheat except pork, which refused to be boosted. Pork is depressed by reason of the agitation against high prices. The upturn in corn was moderate compared with the advance in wheat. The spread in May wheat was from $1.10⅞ low, to $1.12⅝, high. It opened at $1.11¼ asked, declined to $1.10⅞, advanced to $1.11⅜, went to $1.10⅜, then to $1.10⅞@1.10⅝, and suddenly upward to $1.12⅜, closing at that quotation.

Lower cables, increased Northwestern receipts and the public agitation against higher prices, caused the opening decline.

May flax opened at $2.16½ asked and dropped to $2.07½, gained 1½c and declined to $2.08¾, up to $2.09½ and then to $2.14, back to $2.10½ and closed $2.10½ bid. The flax market was a dangerous proposition. It acted erratically and was the subject of a forced movement. Speculative activity was almost the sole interest in flax, as the country had very little to offer, and this was one of the chief reasons for the rapid advance after the price was beaten down to $2.08½. Stop-loss orders played an important part in the day's activity.

Receipts in the Northwest continue large. The farmer is looming up in a greater measure as a determining factor in the market. The farmer is holding for higher prices and he apparently believes that he can force market values upward.

It is an interesting question as to what will be the state of mind of the farmers if, as the season advances, the winter crop looms larger than ever before known in the country's history? This is the indication now. The heavy snows in the last thirty days have raised the statistical condition of the crop from the unusually high average of Dec. 1.

Referring to the ultimate consumer, this usually neglected person has taken the bit in his mouth and the country is beginning to feel the result. Prices in nearly all lines declined at the opening today, although they were subject to some speculative activity which caused an upturn toward noon that carried values over yesterday's close. The campaign against meats is being extended to other commodities. The government's investigation of the meat trust had a depressing effect on the pork market. It was also rumored that the government will proceed against a large milling interest accused of "combining" to hold up the price of wheat.

These domestic factors and lower cables were emphatic, and few traders looked for any foreign crop news or estimates. None came, anyway. As the traders did not pay any attention some time ago to an estimate of 64,000,000 bu on the Argentine exportable surplus, it would have taken an extremely important bit of news to attract attention to the other side.

There is a comfortable feeling among the milling and flour trade, their supplies being sufficient for requirements. They expect future prices to be influenced by the rapidity of the marketing of the surplus in the hands of the farmer. He is expected to sell on bulges. Some traders think it will take more than an ordinary decline and firmer messages than have been sent to make him become a free seller of wheat in the near future.

Duluth has not been accumulating much wheat although the higher prices prevailing here have caused receipts to increase in the last two days over the average last week and greatly so over the receipts a year ago. There was some outside buying in this market today, principally in the leading future option. Most of this came from millers, who, it was said, will hold for delivery. Spring wheat millers have been good purchasers and flour sales have been excellent. The cash markets are easier than last week when the mills took the floating supply at Minneapolis and Duluth.

Speculators in the last few days have liquidated their long wheat, believing that cash holders were about to sell freely, and that interior movement would increase. The milling trade is hedging considerable of its holdings in cash wheat and flour. The railroads are fairly well cleaned up and if the farmer does not begin to feed out his supplies, some traders think there will be a reduction in the movement from the interior.

One of the reasons for the present high cost of living may be found in the current high prices of wheat and corn and the slowness with which these crops are being sent to the primary markets by farmers. The farmers seemingly are hanging on to their grain in order to obtain higher prices. Two years ago the farmers got rid of their wheat in quick order and saw the grain speculators dispose of the stuff at a large profit. The farmers had their eyes opened and now they are endeavoring to turn the tables. Some people think the farmers will lose when all hands are laid down.

Foreign markets closed today as follows:

Berlin—Wheat closed 1¼c lower. Liverpool close—Wheat, ¾d to 1d lower; corn, ⅛d lower. Antwerp—Wheat was unchanged. Buda Pest—Wheat, 1⅜c lower. Paris—Wheat closed ½c to ¾c higher; flour, ¾c to ½c higher.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool: "Market at opening under pressure of heavy selling prompted by the decline in American markets yesterday and the weakness in Winnipeg and values at the start were ¾d lower. Following the opening there was a period of steadiness when prices advanced slightly, due to the firmness of La Plata offers. Later, however, selling again developed and offerings became heavy. There was a small demand for both parcels and cargoes, and spot markets were easy and generally ¼ to a penny lower. Broomhall's crop summary was bearish and this, together with the sharp decline in Argentine future prices at the close yesterday, caused renewed weakness. It is expected that the European visible will show a small decrease. At midday the market was dull at the decline with values ¾d to ⅞d lower than yesterday. Liverpool was slightly under pressure of cheaper American offerings and prices declined ½d to ¾d. Spot wheat, ½d lower, and No. 1 Manitoba a penny lower. Corn was quiet. American unchanged and La Plata ¼d higher. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast nil, and awaiting orders one. Wheat cargoes in distant positions quiet with buyers reserved. Corn quiet with more pressure to sell.

Minneapolis stocks increased 250,000 bu for the last three days.

United Kingdom——Crop outlook is most favorable. Weather now cold.

France—Outlook continues less favorable. There is some deterioration reported on account of heavy rains. Holders of grain are very firm.

Roumania—Outlook continues excellent. Weather is mild, which is favorable.

Hungary—Outlook favorable, there being good snow cover.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Advances Sharply, Due to Oversold Condition.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 25.—An oversold condition made wheat advance sharply during the late session today. May opened ½c lower than yesterday's close and during the first three hours was in the narrow range of ⅝c. Buying by leading interests, however, caused the reaction and May sold 1¼c above the opening today and ¾c above yesterday's closing. Local elevator stocks increased 250,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 344 cars of wheat as compared with 203 cars a year ago, Duluth 87 cars against 57 cars, and Winnipeg 222 cars against 264 cars. May opened $1.11; high $1.12⅜, low $1.10⅝, closed $1.12¼. July opened $1.09⅜, high $1.11⅜, low $1.09½, close $1.11⅜.

Cash wheat was in strong demand and offerings were liberal. No. 1 northern sold for 1¾@2½c above the May contract and No. 2 northern for ¼c below to ½c above. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.13½@1.14¼; to arrive, $1.13¼@1.14; No. 2 northern, $1.11½@1.12¼; to arrive, $1.11½@1.12; No. 3 wheat, $1.09½@1.11¼. No. 3 yellow corn, 60@61¼c. No. 3 white oats, 45@45½c. No. 2 rye, 76¾@77⅝c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,581 tons. There was no change in the situation today. Demand continued strong. Shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $23.00@23.50.

On account of early weakness in wheat, flour prices were lowered. Demand continued fair to good and shipments unusually heavy for this time of the year. Shipments, 70,721 bbl. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Another Decline in Wheat Helps Discomfit the Bulls.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Wheat registered another decline here today, falling off at the opening ⅜@1⅜c. The greatest decline was in the May delivery. Continued protest against high priced food stuffs contributed to the discomfiture of bullish speculators, and was to a large extent responsible for the initial weakness. General commission house selling overwhelmed the buying support. In the first hour, however, shorts seeking to cover stiffened prices although the advance did not carry quotations back to yesterday's final figures. The range over which the futures traveled was from ¼@⅞c. Opening figures from May were $1.09¼@1.08⅝, a price ½@1⅜c under yesterday's close. On the rally, May crept back to $1.09.

Late in the session prices rallied sharply on covering, and regaining all they could made an advance of ⅝@⅞c over yesterday's final figures. The range for the futures was from 1¼@2¼c. May advancing from $1.08⅜@1.10⅝. The close was strong at a fraction less than the high point with May at $1.10½@1.10⅝, a price ¾@⅞c higher than yesterday's.

In the corn pit prices at the outset dropped ¼@⅝c. Trade was large and offerings were quickly absorbed, steadying the market so that in the first hour prices advanced to practically yesterday's closing figures. At the opening May sold at 66⅜@66⅝c, which was ¼@⅝c below yesterday's close.

Under improved buying the market continued to advance regaining in the last hour more than the early loss. May sold up to 67½c from 66⅜c. The close was strong at practically the high point with May at 67⅜@67½c, which was ⅜@½c higher than yesterday's closing.

Oats showed the general tendencies observed in the corn pit, opening a shade to ⅛c lower and regaining most of the decline in the first hour. Opening figures for May were 47@46¾c and were ¼@½c lower than yesterday's close.

The effect of the agitation for lower food prices were again observable in provisions. January products declining 15@35c; May 5@25c and July from unchanged to 30c lower. Buying by shorts checked the decline, but the tendency was toward lower levels. Opening figures for May products were: Pork, $20.45@20.52; lard, $11.45-@11.30; ribs, $11.07½@11.00.

OFFERS ROYALTY FOR RIGHT TO MINE COAL IN ALASKAN FIELDS

Ballaine of Seattle Would Pay 50 Cents a Ton for Privilege.

Estimates That It Would Amount to $2,000,000 Per 100 Acres.

Charges That "Other Interests" Are Scheming to Get Land at Low Price.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Interest in the situation relating to Alaska coal lands, has been intensified by a proposition of John F. Ballaine of Seattle, holder of large property interests in Alaska, to the senate committee on territories, offering to the government a royalty of 50 cents a ton on coal mined for the lease of 5,000 acres of coal land in the Katalla and Matanuska districts.

Such a tonnage royalty, Mr. Ballaine claims, would net the government amounts as high as $2,000,000 per 100 acres.

In his letter to Senator Beveridge as chairman of the committee, Mr. Ballaine offers to give bond of $1,000,000 for the performance of his part of the agreement, the proposal to include that congress enact legislation authorizing a department to enter into a lease with a coal company, to be organized by him, for the 5,000 acres, and providing that no other coal lands be leased in Alaska for a smaller royalty.

Government a Purchaser.

The government also is to agree that at least half of its coal supply shall be obtained from this company or from a naval station which the government may itself establish in the Matanuska district, the coal to be shipped over a railroad to be built from Seward, 1,000 miles in length.

Mr. Ballaine charges that "other interests" have now at work in Washington a lobby headed by a former United States senator in support of a bill not yet introduced, designed to permit the sale of such coal lands at the price of $10 an acre, which, he argues, would be a practical donation of these lands to a railroad company that these interests propose to organize in Alaska.

Quotes Geological Survey.

Mr. Ballaine last night quoted the United States geological survey as stating in one of its recent reports that there are 10,000,000,000 tons of coal in sight in the known coal areas of Alaska and probably at least as much again in regions yet unexplored, and he pointed out that the leasing of these areas on a royalty basis, such as he was offering for an area of only 5,000 acres, would ultimately bring to the government a net revenue from that source exceeding $8,000,000,000.

Thinks Royalty Big.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Clarence Cunningham, whose claims to large tracts of Alaska coal lands have been largely responsible for the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, says that John F. Ballaine would not find it easy to make a profit mining coal in Alaska if he had to pay the government 50 cents a ton royalty.

Mr. Ballaine, he said, would be the builder of the Alaska Central railroad and financially responsible.

The coal lands sought by Mr. Ballaine are the cream of the Alaskan coal fields, said Mr. Cunningham, but the government would have to finance 1,000 miles of railroad to carry the coal to tidewater before there would be money in the proposition.

Mr. Cunningham added that up to this time he had not been requested to give testimony in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, and that unless he were summoned he would not appear in Washington.

OPPOSED BY DEMOCRATS

Taft's Corporation License Scheme Is to Have Hard Sledding.

Dr. Wiley Talks About His Troubles---Big Park Plans Are Aired.

Washington, Jan. 26.—President Taft's federal incorporation bill is doomed to meet with almost solid Democratic opposition, according to Republican senators who have canvassed the situation. The bill has not yet been perfected so as to conform to the views of a majority of the Republican members of the senate, and even if this is accomplished its supporters fear that the attitude of the Democrats will make it exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to pass the measure at this session. The expectations are that it will not be ready for presentation by Senator Clark, chairman of the judiciary committee during the present week.

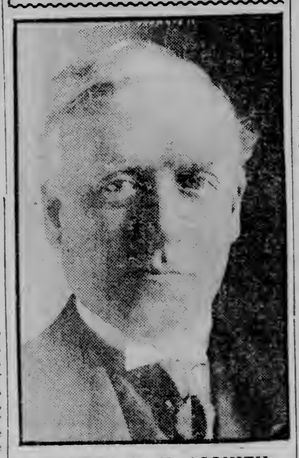

Bear Wiley's Complaints.

Aside from an intimate discussion of the American hen and her products, the feature of yesterday's inquiry into high food prices by the sub-committee of the house committee on the District of Columbia was in the statements of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, who charged that sinister influence, unnamed, had accomplished the repeal of the provision of law relating to enforcing efficiency in cold storage of food products.

Dr. Wiley said the elimination of the appropriation for this work had great-

RETURNS TO PARLIAMENT WITH BIGGER MAJORITY

PREMIER H. H. ASQUITH.

GAIN FOUR ON GOVERNMENT

Unionists Make Little Advance in the English Election.

Premier Asquith Returns With 615 Increase in His Majority.

London, Jan. 26.—Thirty results out of thirty-nine left over from yesterday's elections to parliament gave the Unionists 4 gains and the Liberals 2.

The state of the parties at 1:30 o'clock today was:

Government coalition—Liberals, 226; Irish Nationalists, 74; Laborites, 37.

Opposition—Unionists, 253.

Premier Asquith, for the East division of Fife, and Richard B. Haldane, for Haddingtonshire, were re-elected. Although the prime minister returns to parliament with a substantial increase of 615 over his former majority, the secretary of state for war must be satisfied with a majority less by 435 than that obtained in 1906.

John A. Simon, the Liberal member elected for the Walthamstow division of Essex, is a well-known barrister, and was counsel for Great Britain in the Alaskan boundary arbitration case.

Lord Willoughby de Frosby, the husband of Eloise, daughter of the late W. L. Breese of New York, will again represent the Unionists in the Horncastle division of Lincolnshire, having been returned with a greatly increased majority.

NORTHERN PACIFIC IN THE SCRAMBLE

Company Is Believed to Be After Olympic Peninsula Control.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 26.—According to the Post-Intelligencer this morning, there is an indication that the Northern Pacific is entering the fight to gain control of the traffic of the Olympic peninsula in the filing at Olympia of the names of the officers of three Northern Pacific companies doing business on the peninsula. All the officers named are connected with the Northern Pacific. The Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound was the first entrant of the peninsula. The tracks of the Northern Pacific will nearly parallel those of the Milwaukee.

FUMES FATAL TO TWO WORKMEN

Blackdamp and Gas Found in Caisson of Building in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Death from blackdamp and natural gas ninety feet below the surface, was the fate today of two workmen, who had been lowered in a bucket to the bottom of a caisson of a building being constructed in the downtown district here. In a fruitless effort to rescue the victims, two firemen were overcome by the gas, but they soon revived.

The dead are:

PETER CONROY, 45 years old.

JAMES WALSH, 40 years old.

Welsh was asphyxiated after he had volunteered to be lowered into the caisson in an effort to save Conroy.

GERMANY IS STANDING PAT

Declines to Defer Application of General Tariff to American Goods.

Reply Indicates, However, That Terms May Be Made Before Feb. 7.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—The reply of the foreign office to the request of the United States that the application of Germany's general tariff to American imports be deferred until March 31, is understood to be a non-acceptance of the suggestion for delay.

The reply, which will be dispatched to Washington immediately, will, however, represent that the German government feels that no obstacles to a complete agreement exist that cannot be overcome by Feb. 7, the date on which the general schedules will apply automatically.

Germany holds that the points at issue have been considered sufficiently to enable both sides to reach a decision at this time. The note, the tone of which is described as being most friendly, points out how highly desirable it is from the German standpoint that the tariff question between the two countries be settled at once.

Apple Duty Involved.

Among the points raised by the United States in the matter of discrimination against American imports was that of the rate imposed on American apples, which are assessed at $1.25 a barrel instead of 75 cents a barrel, on the ground that the excelsior placed at the ends of the barrels to prevent the apples being bruised was classed as paper wrapping by the customs authorities. The state department has just been informed that the federal council has modified the ruling in this case, and that American apples will be admitted at 75 cents a barrel when so packed.

A number of cases constituting discrimination in the view of the United States were brought definitely to the attention of Germany during the recent negotiations, and in several instances desired changes will be made.

Portuguese Treaty Rejected.

A special committee of the reichstag, to which was referred the treaty which the foreign office recently negotiated with Portugal, rejected the treaty today on the grounds that Portugal has raised her tariff on German imports enormously, and that the treaty would give Portugal all the advantages of the German market without any return whatever. The treaty will be submitted to the reichstag with the adverse report of the committee.

SUPPLIES OF FOOD IN PARIS ARE FAILING---FLOOD GETTING WORSE

PACKERS ARE SUBPOENAED

Federal Grand Jury Has Thirty Summonses Served in Chicago.

Men High in Authority Are Said to Be the Ones Sought Out.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The federal grand jury today began the investigation of the methods of the alleged beef trust. The first witness called was C. C. Snow, secretary and treasurer of the National Packing company. This was taken as verification of reports that the National Packing company would be the subject of the first attack by United States District Attorney E. W. Sims and his assistants.

About thirty subpoenas were served in the offices of the National Packing company, Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and Morris & Co., today. The summons were served secretly, and neither the government nor the packers would divulge the identity of those subpoenaed.

It is said the summons were served on prominent officials of the packing companies, and that it was done secretly in order to prevent a general exodus of the persons wanted.

Announcement was made that James H. Wilkerson, chief aide to District Attorney Sims, will be in charge of the investigation. It is expected about ten witnesses will be examined each day, as the subpoenas have been made returnable at different days.

CARNATION DAY SATURDAY.

If the early efforts of the Carnation League of America are successful, Saturday of this week, Jan. 29, will see a more general wearing of the carnation than on any anniversary of the birth of President William McKinley, except the one immediately following his assassination.

The Carnation league is the national body that instituted the custom of observing McKinley day by the display of his favorite flower. Reminding the public again of the approach of the day, letters and circulars have been sent from the league in quantities, sent from Bellefontaine, Ohio, and signed by Gen. Robert P. Kennedy.

Next Saturday is the sixty-ninth anniversary of President McKinley's birth. "Patriotism," says one of the letters, "feeds and grows upon national traditions, historic events and the memories of famous men, and, while the nation is greater than any man, yet there are those who stand on Pisgah's heights."

It is considered not unlikely that there will be a significant display of the president's flower in Duluth next Saturday.

MEAT LOWER IN DULUTH

Wholesale Prices Show Slight Drop From Those of Last Week.

Local Boycott Will Begin Next Monday---Reports From Other Cities.

Wholesale meat prices in Duluth are cheaper. The lower market is caused primarily by the agitation against high prices. The reductions in the wholesale price have made retail prices on pork cheaper. There has been no reduction in other lines.

Pork loins are selling wholesale at 11@11½ cents compared with 12½ cents a pound a week ago; hogs at 11@11½ cents compared with 12 cents a week ago; beef, 7@9 cents, about unchanged. Cheaper grades of beef are the same, while the more expensive grades are easier. The reduction in beef is not material. Veal is selling at 10@11 cents, a reduction of about 1 cent a pound in a week. Lamb is bringing 13@14½ cents and is unchanged, as lamb is difficult to obtain at this time of the year. Mutton is slightly easier, selling at 9@9½ cents.

Action by Superior Assembly.

In Superior the trades and labor assembly, with unions affiliated to the number of over 4,000 members, has declared a meat strike for February. An effort will be made to get fraternal societies to join in. A co-operative meat

SIXTEEN JAPS LEFT TO PERISH

Story of Hardship Is Reported From the Wilds of Kamchatka.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 26.—The news that eight Japanese out of forty who survived the wreck of the schooner Koseuku Maru were frozen to death, while eight others were left to a like fate in the Kamchatkan wilds, was brought by the steamer Aymeric, which arrived yesterday. After the wreck the forty men began a march without food, losing eight in the first two days, while eight others were abandoned because their faces and feet were frozen. The remaining twenty-four made only twenty-five miles when they were rescued by the Russian steamer Aitung.

SAYS AMERICANS MUST GET BACK TO THE FARM

DANIEL G. REID.

Daniel G. Reid of the United States Steel corporation says the solution of the high cost of living is for more Americans to get back to real work on the farm. He says the farmer is responsible for the real wealth of the country. Mr. Reid began life as a clerk in a bank at Richmond, Ind. He worked his way through all the offices in the bank, becoming vice president in 1895. He then became interested in the tin plate industry at Elwood, Ind., and was one of the organizers of the American Tin Plate company. He is a very wealthy man and is on the directorship of many railroads, trust companies, etc.

SCRAMBLE TO BUY STOCKS

The Shorts Find Themselves Caught in Bad Position By the Rises.

Sensational Sequel to Tuesday's Slump Seen in Wall Street.

New York, Jan. 26.—The volatile upsrush of prices of stocks when the market opened today made a sensational sequel to demoralized fall in prices yesterday. Such of yesterday's sellers as did not have stocks in their possession for delivery found themselves in an embarrassing position this morning with prices of Americans in London showing advances of 1 to 4 points over the last prices of yesterday in New York.

The scramble of shorts to cover made a wild opening, and forced prices 1 to 5 points above the closing level of yesterday. The most sensational gains were:

Utah Copper, 4; Chesapeake & Ohio and Amalgamated Copper, 3¾; Reading, 2¾; Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific, 2⅝; American Smelting and American Car, 2¼, and Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred, New York Central and Denver Rio Grande, 2. United States Steel sold at 83⅞ for 100 shares, but there were running sales of 14,000 shares at 84⅛@84⅞, compared with 82¼ yesterday.

Hocking Down Still Further.

The opening spurt brought out selling orders which carried prices backwards and the excitement died down. Columbus and Hocking Coal & Iron sold at 17, compared with 21 last night, on the appointment of receivers for the company.

CANNOT HURRY TRUST TAX CASE

Early Decision on Corporation Measure Is Regarded as Impossible.

Washington, Jan. 26.—All hope of the parties directly interested of procuring a decision from the supreme court of the United States in regard to the constitutionality of the corporation tax provisions of the Payne act before March 1, the date by which corporations must have made their income returns, has been abandoned.

There is hope that the question may be determined before the close of the period for the payment of the tax, June 30.

Next Friday, arguments in all cases before the court will be suspended until Feb. 21, when the court will meet again after a three-weeks' recess. If the court follows its custom, it will not announce its decision on the motions to advance the Vermont case, in which the constitutionality of the provisions is involved, until next Monday, before the adjournment.

It is not believed that the case will be set for argument until a late day in March. By that time other cases covering the same question may have reached the court.

Two Bakers Who Double the Price of Bread Thrown Into the River.

Subterranean Torrents Are Rising Under Heart of the City.

Rain, Snow and Hail Sweeping Everywhere---Wire Service Failing.

HUNDREDS HAVE PERISHED; PARIS STREETS SINKING.

Chalons-Sur-Marne, Jan. 26.—The waters are stationary here today. Hundreds of persons have perished in the valley of the Donbs. A whole family was rescued by soldiers in an outboat after the members had been swept from a raft and the father, holding a revolver above the floor, was about to shoot the others and kill himself.

In Ivry and Alfortville 16,000 residents have been rescued, but 23,000 still remain helpless in the house tops.

Paris, Jan. 26.—The situation here became more desperate momentarily as the day progressed. At 4 p. m. the Rue Royale, between the Place de la Concorde and the Madeleine, the famous church edifice, began to sink and was hurriedly roped off. Several big fissures have occurred in the Javel region. The boulevard adjoining the Pont de Bercy and the street in front of the Louvre museum also began to cave in.

The flood-invaded streets are filled with rowboats, the owners of which demand fabulous prices for the removal of furniture and valuables to places of safety.

Paris, Jan. 26.—Paris is beginning to feel the pinch of hunger. The supply of fresh meat and vegetables is falling and prices are soaring to famine figures. Some avaricious bakers, who attempted to double the price of bread, were roughly handled today, and two of them were thrown into the Seine at Charenton.

Details from the flooded regions of the provinces tell in harrowing monotony of broken dykes in the canals and of the inundation of villages. The rivers in the southwest were rising rapidly today. The swollen Loire has caused heavy damage in the province of Touraine.

The immense losses in every branch of industry were reflected today on the bourse, where a bad slump in industrials and railroad stocks occurred.

Losses Over $200,000,000.

Premier Briand and Minister of Finance Cochery, after a consultation today estimated that the flood losses would exceed $200,000,000. Paris has been divided into sections, each in charge of a military commander who will control the relief and rescue work. The Seine continued to rise today and the situation grows worse.

Rain, snow and hail are falling everywhere; the coasts are stormbound and ships are fleeing to the harbors for refuge.

A blinding snow storm raged in Paris today and, coupled with the bitter cold, added to the general consternation, suffering and misery of the poor and homeless.

The situation in Paris was not changed appreciably from yesterday, except that more streets had been converted into yellow canals, more districts evacuated, a few more pavements caved in and traffic was completely paralyzed. One of the greatest causes of alarm continued to be the constant rise of the subterranean streams under the center of Paris, which flooded cellars and undermined the foundations of buildings.

Whole Streets Closed.

Whole streets have been roped off as unsafe. All of the bridges over the Seine are still standing, but traffic over more than half of them has been closed.

Another serious phase of the situation is that Paris is becoming rapidly isolated, telegraph and telephone wires being "drowned or grounded." Wire communication is failing in all directions. It is impossible today to communicate by telephone between the two banks of the Seine. This greatly crippled the work of relief and the dispatch of prompt succor.

Only two railroads to the North and Yellow Pine Men Say They Do Not Like Corporation Tax.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—Prospects of the lumber industry for the coming year were discussed at the session of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association here today. It was generally agreed that there is a better tone in the market than at any time in recent months. A discussion of a federal corporation tax brought out a number of arguments against such a measure.

Delegate Wickersham Says They Had Alaska Lobby in Capital.

Charges Are Suppressed By Senate Committee on Territories.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Charges by Delegate Wickersham that President Taft and Former President Roosevelt had maintained in Washington an Alaskan lobby in the persons of Former Governor W. B. Hoggatt and Maj. W. P. Richardson, an army officer, who is head of the Alaskan road commission, are revealed by proofs made public today of an executive hearing before the senate committee on territories in relation to the Alaskan legislative council bill. Counter charges by Mr. Hogatt that Judge Wickersham "is humbugging" further enliven the situation.

The senate committee took seriously the aspersions which seemed to have been cast upon the motives of the president and ex-president by Judge Wickersham's testimony. Before an official stenographer was admitted to the hearing Judge Wickersham was called to order by Senator Beveridge, chairman of the committee, and warned to guard his utterances with more care.

Barred from Records.

After the Alaskan delegate had retired from the room, a portion of his testimony was considered and it was decided it should not appear in the printed records. Chairman Beveridge said to the committee:

"A witness will not be permitted to make such a reflection upon motives of the president of the United States in any committee of which I was chairman, even if that office were filled by William J. Bryan, or a Prohibitionist or a Socialist."

MILLING HEARING ENDED.

Clark Will Go to Other Cities for More Investigation.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The investigation into the alleged abuses of the milling-in-transit freight rates by Commissioner E. F. Clark of the interstate commerce commission was concluded here today. W. M. Hopkins, traffic manager of the Chicago Board of Trade was the principal witness of the day. After leaving here the investigation will be continued in Montgomery, Ala., then Memphis, Tenn., and Boston will be visited by Commissioner Clark.

BLIND MAN PLEADS CASE

Admits Swearing When Pencil Was Stolen and Gets Suspended Sentence.

Olaf Lindberg, Looking Like Cyclone Victim, Is Given Fifteen Days.

Peter Van Dyke, the blind man who is a common figure on Superior street, selling pencils and shoe laces, pleaded his own case in police court this morning when arraigned on a charge of using profane language.

After stating that he was guilty, he declared that he has always tried to be a gentleman, and that had he known that ladies were passing he would not have forgotten himself. He said that some one stole one of his pencils, and that as it was not the first time it has happened, he lost his temper.

Van Dyke is on the streets from morning till night. He makes his way along Superior street from the city hall at Second avenue east to the incline at Seventh avenue west with the aid of a single crutch, which he always has with him. Although about 65 years old, he makes his own living and never meets with an accident although he crosses the streets when they are filled with traffic. The court gave him a suspended sentence.

Olaf Lindberg, who was given a suspended sentence yesterday morning for being drunk, rose smiling again this morning, but he looked as though he had been picked up by a cyclone. His shirt was ripped to pieces, his coat was gone and his face looked as though he had been trying to move the Point of Rocks with his head. As usual, he had never been arrested before. The court gave him fifteen days in the county jail. The sentence seemed to please him immensely, for he broke into a declamation of thanks as soon as it was pronounced.

Fred Makowski entered a plea of guilty to attempting to defraud an innkeeper. The complaint was sworn out by Mrs. Lena Olson of 120 Second avenue west, who alleged that he had tried to leave the place without paying over $12 which he owed. When arrested Makowski told the police that he was just taking a suit to the tailor to have it pressed, so he could go to the roller rink looking well. Sentence was postponed.

• • •

Thomas McMahon, arrested yesterday on suspicion of having picked up a pocket book belonging to Charles Pierson at Kendall's livery barn, pleaded guilty to being drunk today. Part of the money found on McMahon fitted the description given by Pierson. The court imposed a fine of $10 and costs, but sentence was suspended on condition that he would leave the city.

• • •

John Matewski was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with assaulting Sigesmund Wicrciswski. The two men had a fight on Garfield avenue. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon.

• • •

Fred S. Clark and Joe Dishaw, arrested on charges of stealing watches, were discharged in police court yesterday. Their was not enough evidence to warrant their conviction.

• • •

Nestor Sapolla, the husband of Lena Sapolla, who was detained for a while at the police station upon receipt of a telephone message from the Eveleth police, came to headquarters yesterday to look for his spouse and their four children. But she had already left for Minneapolis. It is not known whether he followed her or went back to the range.

• • •

Jesse Rogers, an electrician, was arrested yesterday for the Superior authorities. They had a warrant charging him with wife desertion.

• • •

The case of Martin Pabst, charged with selling liquor without a license in his hotel at 9 East Superior street, was continued until Friday when it was called this morning. The postponement was requested by Pabst.

National Board of Trade Also Appoints Committee on Cost of Living.

Washington, Jan. 26.—In a letter from Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, commander-in-chief of the great American battleship fleet during the world-famed cruise, read at today's session of the National Board of Trade, Admiral Sperry stated that during the entire cruise, extending over a year's time and covering practically all the important ports outside of Northern Europe, he did not remember once having seen the American flag at sea.

The convention unanimously indorsed an American merchant marine, as recommended by President Taft.

STRIKE IN BITUMINOUS COAL FIELDS POSSIBLE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—A general strike of the miners of the bituminous coal fields of the United States and Canada will be called if the mine operators of all or any of the districts refuse to sign contracts granting an increase of wages. Such, at least, was the declaration of many leaders in the convention of United Mine Workers of America today.

President Thomas L. Lewis urged that wage contracts should not be signed by any districts of the union until all should have obtained from the mine operators a uniform increase of wages.

FRITZI SCHEFF DISPLAYED ALL ECCENTRICITIES OF GENIUS

Genius down through the chapters of history has tenaciously preserved its right to be erratic, to say the least. Missg Fritzi Scheff choose to be erratic while in Duluth.

Those who were intimately associated with Miss Scheff, called the eccentricity "crankiness." In the higher circles of the art workers, however, any show of temper is called "temperament" and any indication of being erratic and flighty, is called eccentricity.

Miss Scheff complained at the Spalding hotel that she could not sleep in the morning after the street cars began their daily run up and down the thoroughfare. She didn't suggest that the street car company be requested to stop the cars until she was ready to arise; but she did let the attaches of the hotel know that the running of cars by the Spalding at 6 o'clock in the morning, seriously disturbed her sleep.

It was also reported that Miss Scheff called her manager at the rather untimely hour of 2 o'clock in the morning and asked that he see to it that there was less noise in the vicinity of her suite. This report, however, failed to reach the desk of the hotel, and may have been only a rumor.

Stage hands of the Lyceum found Miss Scheff exceedingly particular in her demands and exactions. When the curtain call was given it is said that Miss Scheff demanded that the stage hands leave the stage. It is also said that the actress insisted that there should not be the least noise back of the scenes.

When Madame Bernhardt was playing in New York, she insisted that tan bark be placed on the streets in the vicinity of the theater, so that traffic would not disturb her. Miss Scheff did not go that far, but it is said that she insisted on many details that caused amusement among the men back of the scenes, and some words from them that would not look well in print.

WANTS PROBE BY SENATORS

Cost of Living Resolution Is Introduced By Senator McCumber.

Exhaustive Inquiry Is Provided for By the Measure.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Jan 26.—Senator McCumber wants to know who is getting all the money under the existing food schedules, and in order to arrive at the truth of the situation he today offered a resolution in the senate providing for a thorough investigation of the economic conditions involved. His resolution follows: "Resolved, That the committee on agriculture be, and it hereby is authorized and directed, by sub-committee or otherwise, to make a thorough investigation of prices paid for food products on the farms in various parts of the United States; wholesale prices of such food products at wholesale centers of the United States, and retail prices of such food products in the larger cities of the United States, and to report to senate at the earliest possible date.

"Such report to contain also a comparative statement showing the cost of production on the farm, cost of transportation to trade centers, and the cost and expense of handling such food products by retail dealers.

"And the committee on agriculture is hereby authorized to visit the large trade centers of the United States for the purpose of securing this information, and to appoint such clerical assistance as may be necessary, to administer oaths, examine witnesses and hold such hearings as may be deemed necessary; and the expense of the same shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the senate upon vouchers approved and signed by the chairman of the committee on agriculture."

WOMAN WALKS ON THE HIGH COPING

During Fire Scare in Hotel at Fargo, But Is Safely Rescued.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.—Fire started in the storeroom of the Waldorf hotel here just at noon and the smoke flooded the entire building to such an extent that the occupants of the rooms on the fourth and fifth floors were too frightened to use the ordinary exits and went out on the coping in an effort to escape onto the other roofs. They were rescued through means of an aerial truck.

Miss Niger walked on the coping almost around the two sides of the building four floors above the ground. The fire was extinguished with little damage.

PANAMA SUIT THROWN OUT

Big Libel Case Dismissed As Not Under Court's Jurisdiction.

Judge Hough Holds That Libel Is Not Punishable By Nation.

New York, Jan. 26.—The federal government prosecution of the publishers of the New York World was stopped by the federal court here today. Judge Hough in the United States circuit court quashed the indictment against the Press Publishing company, publishers of the World, for alleged libel in connection with publications concerning the Panama canal purchase.

The indictment was thrown out on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court and for other reasons which Judge Hough announced would be stated in a memorandum to be filed later.

The decision is generally regarded as a closing chapter in the Panama libel case.

Judge Hough in his decision held that libel was punishable by state laws and was not one of the crimes referred to in the federal statutes passed from 1825 to 1898, making state penal codes applicable to offenses on federal territory.

MARKS EPOCH IN THE HISTORY OF INDIA.

Calcutta, Jan. 26.—The new imperial legislative council, through which the natives will be afforded a larger share in the administration of the affairs of British India, met for the first time yesterday. Lord Minto, the governor-general, who presided, described the event as "a great historic occasion, opening of a new era with the inauguration of broader principles of government."

The viceroy lent no support to the faction desirous of following in the wake of Turkey and Persia, but declared emphatically that representative government in the Western sense was totally inapplicable to the Indian empire.

"UNLOADED" PISTOL GOES OFF; BOY MORTALLY HURT.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—While handling an old revolver which he believed to be useless, a boy named Tupper shot and mortally wounded Guy Boyere, aged 16, of Wausaukee.

FOUR MORE APPEALS ON CORPORATION TAX.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Four more suits involving the constitutionality of the corporation tax provision of the Payne tariff act were enrolled on the docket of the supreme court of the United Stats today within half an hour. Unlike the original bill in which the little $20,000 corporation, the Stone-Tracy company of Windsor, Vt., is the center, all the suits today involve big corporations with millions of capital.

Two suits were brought from the circuit court of the district of New York, and two were docketed from the United States circuit court for the northern district of Illinois. The latter were the cases of Fred W. Smith against the Northern Trust company, and that of William H. Miner against the Corn Exchange National Bank of Chicago.

In all four cases, a stockholder brought the suit to prevent the respective corporations from complying with the provision attacked as unconstitutional. A demurrer was filed and sustained, and the suit ordered dismissed in the circuit court.

MILLION AND QUARTER FOR POLICYHOLDERS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Seven thousand policyholders of the American Guaranty company will soon receive $1,250,000 as the result of a decision handed down today by Judge C. C. Kohlsat in the United States circuit court. E. A. Potter, the receiver, has converted the assets of the company into cash, and is ready to turn it over to the policyholders.

COLE AGAIN HONORED.

Duluth Man Is Elected President of the Tugmen's Association.

The Licensed Tugmen's Protective association has re-elected Capt. Martin Cole of this city grand president. The meeting of the tugmen was held this week at Buffalo.

Capt. Cole is one of the best-known tugmen on the Great Lakes and enjoys the esteem and confidence of the members of the organization of which he is the official head. He has commanded several tugs in the local harbor, and immediately previous to his election as grand president of the tugmen's association he was master of a tug owned by the Union Towing & Wrecking company.

CUTTING MUCH TIMBER.

Weyerhaeuser Concern Operating Extensively on Leech Lake Reserve.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Long, general manager for the Northland Pine company, a Weyerhaeuser concern, while in Bemidji yesterday stated that the Northland company is cutting about 20,000,000 feet of timber this winter on the Leech Lake reservation, east of the lake. According to Mr. Long, there are four camps, employing about 400 men, and some 160 horses are used, the company having laid up the steam hauler as not being of practical use in the section where the logging is now being carried on. The Northland company was one of the successful bidders for timber at the sales held at the Cass Lake land office some four years ago, when large tracts of reservation timber were sold by bids at public sale.

M'KENZIE'S FATHER BUSY.

Working Hard to Induce Governor to Release His Son.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Daniel D. McKenzie is tireless in his effort to obtain a pardon for his son, Alexander McKenzie, serving a life term at Stillwater for the murder of "Dutch" Henry.

Governor Eberhart has received a letter from the father enclosing two testimonials to show that "Dutch" Henry was killed on Jan. 11, and that Alex is wrongfully imprisoned. The letters are from W. O. Braggan of Warren, Minn., and P. M. Price of Harlowton, Mont. They both declare that "Dutch" Henry was shot by the officers on the January date of this year.

McKenzie says: "Had I the money, I could have proved my boy innocent when he was tried. I gave a lawyer $500 to fight the case. He went to Roseau and squandered the money."

Governor Eberhart has not had time to consider the matter, but it is probable that some action will be taken; at least further investigation will be made.

COAL OPERATORS MEET.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CITY CHARTER

Mayor Haven Contributes Last of the Series of Articles.

Favors Special Funds for Repair and Maintenance of Streets.

The last of the series of articles on the proposed charter amendments, which The Herald has been publishing for the information and guidance of the voters, is written by Mayor Haven. It deals with the amendments to provide special funds for the repairs and maintenance of the streets, both of which the mayor favors. Following are Mayor Haven's views on this subject:

Special Street Funds.

The proposed amendments to the city charter, known as No. 2 and No. 3, provide special funds for the repair and maintenance of the streets of our city. The former gives the city council power to impose a special tax upon all vehicles which use the streets and the latter is a supplement to it, providing for a levy of not to exceed 1 mill, to be used for the same purpose. The latter was offered by the charter commission because the members thought that the funds which would be raised by the wheelage tax alone would be insufficient to meet the demands in this direction. Both should be adopted at the coming election.

For years the streets of Duluth have been allowed to run down. Not through any neglect of the officials whose duty it has been to care for them, but for the very pointed and ample reason that they have been without the money needed. As a consequence thousands of dollars have gone to waste. Pavements which should have endured the wear and tear of traffic for from five to fifteen more years have fallen into decay. They died long before their time, might be one way of expressing the situation. Ruts and holes which should have been patched at small expense, have been allowed to grow larger and more common. Now these streets are unfit for traffic. They should be doing good service today and be in good condition.

A stitch in time saves nine" is an adage which might well apply to our streets and avenues.

A few of the better know highways may be cited to illustrate. Take London road as one example. Had the city had a fund for taking care of the public thoroughfares, it would be in fine shape today. But what is it now? A patchwork. Just fairly good, but not a credit to Duluth. It is used by thousands of people ever year. During the summer, it is one of the most popular drives at the Head of the Lakes, and justly so. Had a comparatively small sum of money been applied to it at the proper time the road would be in first-class condition, a pride to our citizens and a pleasure to all. Another is Grand avenue west, the only practicable street between Duluth and West Duluth. It is cut up by heaped up sewer trenches, dotted with jagged stones, filled with mud puddles and so neglected that but one side can be used a great deal of the distance. Yet a few thousand dollars would remedy this. Then there is Garfield avenue, probably the worst in Duluth. It is the only avenue or street which can be used by teams traveling to and from Superior. Had this received attention some years ago, there would be no foundation for the universal complaint which has been made.

Delay Means Greater Cost.

The longer our streets are neglected the greater is the cost of replacing or repairing them. The expenditure upon any of the three, which I have mentioned, would have been comparatively light had they been looked after at the proper time. A small crew of men with an efficient foreman could have kept them in fit condition. Many others in our city are rapidly approaching the same disreputable state for the same reason. Take them now, or even one or two years from now, and they can be saved to the city for a nominal price for many years to come.

Good roads are desired in Duluth, not only in the city proper, but connecting with the roads which lead out of the business district to the outlying suburbs and the farming district. In a few years every indication points to a thriving agricultural population within a few miles of us. A little help with their roads, at least as far as the corporate limits, will be of inestimable mutual benefit. They cannot all be along the street car line, which will undoubtedly be extended to and past the Jean Duluth farm. Show the future settlers that they have a good wagon road to Duluth and they will be a great deal more willing to take up the development of the soil in this vicinity. This phase of the question is important and too much thought cannot be expended upon it.

Bridges an Example.

A striking example of neglect is also found in our bridges, due to the fact that the maintenance fund of the board of public works has to be divided so many times. In this way money that should be used on the bridges goes to the street. The result is that both suffer. With the money made available by the wheelage tax and the levy for street purposes, the board of public works fund would be relieved, making it possible to give the bridges proper attention. They have cost immense sums. But they have not given enough service to pay for them. Now they are being torn down one ofter another, or fenced off, wholly or partially. Barely enough repairs are put upon them to enable teams to pass over them without menace to life and limb of man and beast. They are an eyesore and a standing advertisement of the unprogressiveness of Duluth. A few hundred dollars properly applied would enable many of them to stand for another five or ten years.

The amount which should be raised by the wheelage tax is estimated at $20,000. With a levy of one-half mill by general taxation this would be increased to $35,000 or $40,000, depending of course upon the assessed valuation, which is now approximately $36,000,000. The figures alone suggest the vast amount of good which could be done with intelligent men directing the work. It would not be spasmodic attempts at repair, but would be permanent work done year in and year out.

All vehicles using the streets ought to pay a special tax. They are the ones which get the direct benefit. I have heard no opposition to the tax from the owners of vehicles, those to whom I have spoken seeming to be very willing to pay such a tax as might be imposed. Double taxation cannot be put forward against the amendment. The question was tried out in the Illinois courts after Chicago passed a wheelage tax ordinance. Five cases were brought against the city and four of them have been decided in the city's favor while the other is yet to be passed upon.

How It Works in Chicago.

The Chicago license fee is regulated according to the size of the vehicle, running from $5 for the one-horse wagon to $35 for the automobile trucks, coaches and busses. A horse with a proper tax tag attached can be hitched to any wagon. The application is filed with the city clerk, and upon payment of the fee to the treasurer the license tag is issued, or caused to be issued, by the mayor. In this connection the Chicago council passed an ordinance regulating the width of the tires that could be used on various vehicles. This tends to reduce the wear on the different pavements, preventing wagons with narrow tires from carrying loads which would cut into them.

The adoption of these amendments will be a positive step towards the Greater Duluth for which we are all striving. The money expended upon the streets will be true economy, prolonging the life of the pavement, improving the appearance of our highways, aiding sanitation and making a better place in which to live.

WOMAN'S CLEVER RUSE LANDS MAN WHO STOLE $10,000 WORTH OF GEMS

She Keeps Him Busy on Telephone Until Detectives Reach Him and Put Him Under Arrest for Theft and Forgery.

New York, Jan. 26.—The resourcefulness of a woman deceived by the man she believed was to marry her, effected the capture yesterday of Frank A. Giese, wanted in Chicago and New York for forgeries, just before he had time to blow out his brains. He had robbed Mrs. Frieda Sommers of $10,000 worth of diamonds.

Giese spent the evening before with Mrs. Sommers and they had a bottle of champagne at her apartments for supper. Giese raised his glass in a toast and said laughingly:

"Take off those diamonds, they're so bright they make me dizzy."

"They'll be just as bright on the table as on my neck," protested Mrs. Sommers, spreading them out before him.

"That's true," admitted Giese, "put them in this," and he drew a small chamois bag from an inner pocket and tossed it across to her.

Mrs. Sommers placed the diamonds in the bag and laid it on her dressing table. It was there in the morning, or one like it, but the diamonds had gone. In some way Giese had effected a substitution.

At the discovery of her loss she went into hysterica, and the appearance of two detectives who had been shadowing Giese did not reassure her. At that moment the telephone bell rang. The evil genius of Giese had prompted him to call up just at the wrong moment.

Kept Him on the Line.

"Hush," said the woman to the detectives, "here's our man," and then into the telephone: "Where are you Frank?"

Mrs. Somers whispered the address, and while the detectives rushed to the place, she kept him hanging to the other end of the wire until he was caught.

"I always kept ready to go," Giese tried to shoot himself with an automatic pistol, but the detectives were too quick for him.

"I always kept ready to go," Giese told them. "I knew it couldn't last long, but it has been high flying while it did."

The diamonds were recovered and identified.

Giese, who came from Baltimore, was recently employed by the Hurley Machine company and confessed that last October he forged the name of Neil C. Hurley to a check for $2,900, which was cashed for him by the National Bank of the Republic of that city. Then he fled to San Francisco and later came here. The Hotel Astor and the Waldorf both have his bad checks for $150 and both have been looking him up.

He was held in $10,000 bail.

Wanted in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Giese, according to detectives working on his case, is wanted in connection with the forgery of a check for $3,000 on the National Bank of the Republic, Chicago. He is said to have been known also as F. A. Griffith and to have married a Chicago girl last year.

RECEIVERS FOR HOCKING.

Action Revives Ugly Rumors About Stock Manipulation.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 26.—Receivers were appointed by Federal Judge J. F. Sater late last night for the three companies comprising the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron company group of interests. A. E. Thurman of Columbus and William A. Barbour of New York were named receivers for the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron company; A. E. Seymour of Columbus, receiver for the Columbus & Hocking Clay Construction company; and F. N. Sinks of Columbus for the Columbus & Hocking Brick Manufacturing company.

The appointments were made upon the application of Henry D. Hotchkiss of New York, receiver in bankruptcy for Lathrop, Haskins & Co. of New York, for the first named receivership. The Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron company applied for receivers for the other two companies. The stock of these companies is held by the same interests as control the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron company. No allegations of insolvency were made.

Attorneys stated that the troubles of the companies were brought about by the failure last week following a 60-point drop in the stock in the New York market of one of the creditors, Lathrop, Haskins & Co.

H. S. Haskins of New York is president of all three companies.

Ugly Rumors Revived.

New York, Jan. 26.—News that Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron had gone into the hands of a receiver revived with interest the ugly rumors that have filled the street ever since the collapse last week of the Hocking pool, when the shares of the company dropped 50 points in a few hours and three brokerage houses were forced to suspend.

The manipulation by which the Hocking stock was advanced from the twenties into the seventies and maintained there without any apparent justifiable showing in the condition of the property or the reports of the management, is sure to play an important part in the investigation now going on before the governors of the stock exchange.

SANTA FE TO ST. LOUIS.

Road Will Enter That City, It Is Declared.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—The Republic this morning says:

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe is planning to enter St. Louis, either by the acquisition of an existing line or the construction of a new road. The arrangements relating to this enterprise are under the direction of W. B. Storey, of Chicago, vice president in charge of construction. Details of the plans of the Santa Fe are not expected immediately.

Among the conjectures advanced by officials of competing carriers are the following: That the Santa Fe will acquire the St. Louis, Kansas City & Colorado, which is the St. Louis-Kansas City line of the Rock Island, or that it will acquire all of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas outside of the state of Texas, while the Texas part of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas will go to the Frisco.

MAY DO BUSINESS UNDER OLD NAME

Judge Ensign Decides Against Northwestern Knitting Company of Minneapolis.

Judge Ensign yesterday refused an injunction to restrain Israel Garon of Duluth from doing business under the name of the Northwestern Knitting mill. The Northwestern Knitting Company of Minneapolis some time ago asked for this restraining order.

The Minneapolis concern claimed that Garon was using the name for the purpose of taking advantage of the name the Mill City concern had established.

Judge Ensign found that Garon's business consisted principally of the manufacture and sale of sweaters, and that the plaintiff in the action does not handle these garments.

TELL UNEMPLOYED TO TAKE TO THE FARM.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—All unskilled laborers who are unable to make a good living in the cities were advised to go "back to the land," at the national convention of the unemployed held here last night. Though no particular locality was decided upon, the members agreed to take up farming. After a session tonight the speakers will call another meeting, to be held in Kansas City later in the week.

WANT MRS. LEDBETER TRIED A SECOND TIME.

Mankato, Minn., Jan. 26.—A meeting of farmers from various parts of the country was held here, and money was raised to hire the opera house in which to hold a mass meeting this afternoon to consider the Ledbeter murder case. The grand jury meets next Tuesday, and the object of the meeting is said to be to devise ways and means for bringing about the reindictment of Mrs. Grace Ledbeter, who was acquitted here recently of killing her husband.

REPLIES TO MR. HUDSON

Chan Smith Comes to Support of His Amendments.

Chan Smith, in a communication to The Herald, replies to T. T. Hudson's article on the proposed charter amendments. For the purpose of giving both sides of the question, the communication is published in full below:

"The old charter commission belief that public improvements are entirely to the benefit of the lot owners according to frontage of lots upon the streets, ignoring all other beneficiaries, and giving the council power to levy special taxes on the already heaviest taxpayers of the city at the instigation of a small minority of the lot owners, is the great curse of Duluth.

"It makes the owner of the $1,000 lot liable to pay as much toward the construction of the system of streets and avenues as the owner of the $50,000 lot.

"It makes the owner of the $50,000 palace with a $10,000 garage housing three or four automobiles which use perhaps 100 miles of roadway a day, pay no more than the owner of a $1,000 house, as both are at present exempt.

"Relieving the congested wealth of the city along the brick and stone paved part of the city from taxation for probably twenty-five years on account of the system of streets and avenues of the remaining part of the city and of which they have the largest use and benefit in moving their goods, is a system regarding which polite language will not enable one to express his feelings with sufficient emphasis.

"This arrangement of putting the rich man and the poor man on a level was not inspired by the poor man and with a correct understanding of this system the poor man is going to vote to do away with it.

"These amendments leave the lot owners to pay the cost of the original grading, gravelling and paving under the supervision of the city council and does away with the power of the city council to levy special taxes to pay for a public provision unless a majority of the lot owners petition for it where it is in excess of 25 per cent of the assessed valuation in any five-year period. The residence lot owner after the amendments are adopted are liable to pay a total of 40 per cent of the assessed valuation for the needs of the community which should be sufficient for the most greedy politician or contractor.

"Business property would not be affected to this degree, but the residence property of the average wage or salary earner would be liable to overtaxation, and there certainly should be some limit to the taxing power of the council, as they have the record of going above 100 per cent of the assessed valuation at one time, so that at the present time we have a burden of bonded indebtedness of over $500,000, representing needless and extravagant improvements.

"It is not a correct supposition that only a minority of owners can recognize a benefit of a public improvement.

"Our city plat is over half the area of London, and it is wise to prevent too large an extension of the public highways beyond the needs of traffic.

"The council has the right over the construction of the streets, and the amendments cannot prevent it from opening any street, at the public expense. The demands of traffic on Garfield avenue were so great that they were forced to depart from the methods of the charter provisions and pay a large part of the cost out of general taxation. Other parts of the system of streets and avenues will also force them to depart from the system provided in the charter.

"The amendments were drawn up in form by an attorney who has had more experience with the charter of the city than any other attorney, to carry out the intentions of the petitioners.

"It is not possible to draw up any amenyment that another attorney cannot quibble over.

"James M. McKay of Youngstown, Ohio, secretary of a building and loan association which loaned in one year in that city over $1,000,000, chiefly for the purpose of buying, building or improving homes, writes: 'The 25 per cent limitation has worked well here, and I have never heard any one speak in favor of its repeal. In hard times it is plenty high, and in good times and where people especially desire the improvement, the limitation is often waived. I see that your amendment provides that a majority of the foot frontage can set the limitation aside. I believe that if I were framing the amendment I would require two-thirds majority to set the limitation aside.'

"Mr. Hudson is laboring under the delusion that part of the city highways are finally completed, but if he will reread the report of the committee of the Commercial club he can not but realize that in the next twenty-five years every street and avenue already improved will have to be renewed, and these amendments will make the distribution of the renewals easy for every taxpayer and a burden to none.

"He will not in the meantime be reminded of a long list of improvements that were 'unsuccessfully assessed' to owners of lots whose assessed valuation was from $5 to $50.

"When you take the view of the system of streets and avenues and drainage of the city being—one construction—built for the benefit and use of all, as distinct in its use for all as the courthouse, all of the objections so far urged vanish as mist.

"Let us get the right method of handling the cost of the public improvements among the taxpayers, and the finances will be easily adjusted to the conditions brought about.

"I have pointed out in the circular being issued that our taxes can be reduced $60,000 by cutting out hydrant rentals and the ½ mill tax, and with the income from the wheelage tax that should be adopted, amounting to $30,000 annually, I am satisfied that the general taxes need not be increased. Yours truly.

"CHAN SMITH."

MEAT LOWER IN DULUTH

market may also be established to buy direct from farmers.

The boycott in Duluth will not begin until next Monday, when the members of the International Women's Label league will cease buying meat for two weeks. The women are enthusiastic and propose to feed their families on milk, eggs and vegetables for at least fourteen days.

Duluth Council No. 261 of the Carpenters' union debated the question of the high cost of living at its meeting last night in Rowley's hall. Action was deferred until next Tuesday's meeting. It is believed by most of the members that the carpenters in Duluth will join the crusade.

Retailers said today that prices on pork have decreased owing to the slump in wholesale prices. Pork at retail is selling at 15 cents a pound. Retail prices in other meats are practically unchanged.

New York Market "Dead."

New York, Jan. 26.—"The market is dead; agitation against high prices did it," was the declaration today of a wholesale meat deler.

The action of the local markets, both wholesale and retail, confirmed the dealer's assertion. Lamb dropped 1 cent wholesale, pork loins 2 cents and some dealers in beef cut prices 1 cent or more a pound. It was said today that wholesale dealers were stocked with thousands of unsold cuts of dressed beef, with supplies still steadily flowing in.

Will Cut Down Supply.

"Beef will be cheaper by the end of the week than it has been in years," said another wholesaler. "After that the price won't go lower, for the supply will be cut down."

All this is laid to the widespread agitation against the use of food products considered to be over-priced. Force of public sentiment is shown in the price drop, the dealers admit.

Grand jury investigation of food combines, particularly of the alleged milk trust, continued today. District Attorney Whitman continued to look into the cold storage situation on complaints that the system is largely responsible for the ability of food dealers artificially to sustain prices in and out of season.

"Cost of Living Lower."

The cost of living has gone down instead of up, according to the arguments made last night before the New York Traffic club by Prof. Joseph French Johnson of the University of New York. He based his contention on the ratio between the increase in the world's gold supply and the appreciation of prices.

"Meat," said the professor, "is actually cheaper than it was ten years ago, taking into consideration the decrease in value of the dollar. The more gold you have in the world the less a given amount of it will buy. Now, the amount of gold has gone on steadily increasing, with an accompanying decrease in the value of the dollar; but that decrease, as measured by current prices, has not yet caught up with actual basic conditions. A dollar today buys more than it is worth.

Gives Some Figures.

"I will give you a few figures to prove my point. "A pound of porterhouse steak cost 20 cents in 1900 and today it costs 25 cents. Therefore the increase in the cost of meat is only 25 per cent, whereas if it had kept up in proper ratio to the value of the dollar, which is 40 cents cheaper than it was ten years ago, that increase would also be 40 per cent. On this basis porterhouse steak is cheaper now than it was in 1900.

Before Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—A resolution was introduced in the legislature today by Representative Apmadoc of Chicago, providing for an investigation of the high prices for necessities of life.

The resolution states that prices are beyond the reach of the masses and that a continuation of such conditions will render more severe the suffering and ultimately cause disrepute of the law. According to the resolution, it is not known whether the high prices result from natural causes or from monopolistic combines in restraint of trade. It is stated that the investigation commenced at Chicago relates only to interstate trade. Under the resolution a joint committee of ten is to carry on the investigation.

The committee, which is empowered to subpoena witnesses and require the production of books, documents, etc., from the packers, is to report to the next general assembly.

Pittsburg Boycott Is on.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Prices of all food products are beginning to feel the effect of the boycott on meats which went into effect with about 125,000 people yesterday. Cattle, hogs and lambs at the local stock market were again dropped in price from 5 to 15 cents per 100 pounds. Butter and eggs, and in many instances vegetables, are being shaded in price. Butcher stalls and markets in the residential sections are well nigh deserted.

There has been a rush on the fish markets. Fish prices are lower than they have been here in some months, and the consumption of fish and oysters will be startling, according to one of the dealers.

District Attorney Blakeley is in favor of a grand jury's investigation of the cause of high prices, and said that he would present the matter upon the first complaint made.

Lasts Only Two Days.

Redlands, Cal., Jan. 26.—Two days of the anti-meat strike were enough for the residents of "the Mission," a suburb of Redlands. Petitions circulated last Saturday were signed by almost the entire population, who pledged to refrain from eating meat for sixty days. The meat markets closed their doors, but were induced to reopen yesterday, and at once there was a rush to obtain fresh meat.

No Meat in February.

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 26.—The trades council here passed strong resolutions last night to abstain from the use of meat during February. This covers all the unions in the city except the railroad trainmen's organizations, and means some 4,000 union men alone. All citizens will, however, be asked to unite in the fight.

OPPOSED BY DEMOCRATS

ly hampered this department in protecting the public from deleterious food products. As to just what influences had been responsible for this result, he did not say. In reply to questions, Dr. Wiley stated he was sure the cold storage people themselves had had nothing to do with it, and of course the consumer was innocent. The appropriation for this purpose had been made by congress for many years past, but was omitted last year.

International Park Planned.

The fact that the United States and Canada are engaged in a co-operative scheme for the establishment of an international park of about 5,000 square miles in extent, along the backbone of the continent in the two countries, was developed in the senate yesterday. It came to the surface in connection with the consideration of a bill looking to the creation of the "Glacier National Park" in Northern Montana. It was stated that negotiations were in progress looking to the establishment of a similar park on the Canadian side of the international line, which it is intended shall connect with the proposed American reservation.

The senate bill failed to pass because of the objections of Senator Borah. Other senators indicated doubt as to the wisdom of it, and Senator Bacon took the position that the park would be an unnecessary expense. Others opposed it because of the proximity of the proposed park to Yellowstone park.

Only American Glaciers.

It was stated that the area on the American side of the dividing line contains the only living glaciers within the borders of the United States. There are sixteen of them, while in addition, according to Senator Carter, there are innumerable waterfalls and majestic bluffs thousands of feet in elevation. Senator Penrose, who stated that he had hunted over every foot of the land, joined the Montana senator in urging favorable action.

SUPPLIES OF FOOD IN PARIS ARE FAILING

West were operating directly into Paris today.

Railway communication to the South and with Italy, Switzerland and the Spanish peninsula is slow and by long and tedious detours to avoid places where the tracks have been washed out.

The newspapers today are filled with pages of details which constitute a long and pitiful recital of death and desolation, of ruined homesteads and fleeing refugees.

Half of the arrondissements of Paris are affected directly now and the rich as well as the poor are beginning to suffer. The wealthy Champs-Elysees district is without gas or electricity and some of the homes have no heat. Many of the residents are leaving their homes for the hotels which are crowded. The most deplorable situation in the neighborhood of Paris continues to be at Ivry and Alfortville, where the river Marne joins the Seine.

Perfect of Police Lepine has taken up headquarters in that district and is directing the work of rescue. After ceaseless work through the night with rowboats and auto boats the morning found more than 3,000 persons imprisoned in the second stories of their houses.

Grows Worse Hourly.

In Paris the flood situation grows worse hourly. At Pont Royal this morning the raging torrent of the Seine was 24 feet 8 inches above low water mark and was rising at the rate of nearly an inch an hour against an hourly rise of less than half an inch yesterday.

In the face of a national disaster France is giving a fine exhibition of pluck and solidarity. Political divisions have been buried and the government and people unite to solve the problem of relief. Powerless to do anything to conjure the rage of the elements, those in authority have devoted themselves solely to the work of rescue and of providing shelter and food for the homeless.

Every resource of the government, including the army, was employed today. Boats were requisitioned at all points and soldiers and firemen worked tirelessly. Nevertheless, Premier Briand and the other ministers who had not left their posts for forty-eight hours were unable to respond to the appeals for help coming in from every direction. Provincial authorities have been instructed to act on their own initiative without awaiting orders from the central government.

MANY LIENS ON NEW STRUCTURE

Court Decides on Priority of Claims Against Christie Building.

By a decision handed down yesterday in district court by Judge Dibell, the Christie Lithograph & Printing company must pay $13,028.53 to fifteen concerns which have liens against the Christie building. If the liens are not paid the building must be sold. Besides the Duluth concerns, the State Mutual Life Insurance company of Worcester, Mass., has a claim of $50,000 on a mortgage.

The decision is about the last of the case that grew out of the business failure of J. W. Hilliard, the contractor who erected the structure which stands on Fourth avenue west between First and Second streets. The Duluth concerns furnished building materials without getting their money. Each firm was represented by a lawyer, there being many lawyers engaged on the case than on any one case in the history of the local court.

The Helmbach Lumber company was the plaintiff and the other concerns joined in. This company, according to the decision, gets $1,260.71 and $125 costs if the building is sold, and $25 if it is not. The other fourteen plaintiffs get $25 costs each.

Those who were awarded liens with the amound awarded each of them follow:

Duluth Plumbing Supplies company, $171.81; Deetz & Company, (incorporated), $3,229.03; Scott-Graff Lumber company, $2,487.20; H. A. Hall & Company, $521.27; Whitney Brothers & Company, $62.74; A. H. Krieger company, $30; Duluth Van & Storage company, $28; Thomson & Stewart, $165; Duluth Hardware company, $280.12, Dunlop-Moore company, $723.38, and Lake Superior Quarries company, $492.50.

DURUM WHEAT MAN DEAD.

Sam Glover, Who Urged Its Cultivation in North Dakota, Called.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.—Samuel Glover, one of the best known of the men who have developed the agricultural resources of North Dakota, died Monday at his residence here. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Glover lived in Minneapolis, but he was the owner of much farming land in North Dakota and took an active interest in operating his big farm near Glover, Dickey county. He was one of the first men to introduce durum wheat into North Dakota, and to call the attention of the government to durum wheat.

Mr. Glover is survived by his wife and four children, Frederick S. Glover and Miss Marjorie Glover of Minneapolis, Mrs. Russell Folwell of Chicago, and Mrs. Frederick von Schlegell of Chicago. The funeral took place from the residence today at 2 p. m. Interment was in Lakewood cemetery.

TYROS ARE FED TO THE TIGERS

Al Sirat Temple, Knights of Khorassan, Holds Annual Ceremonial.

The ceremonial of Al Sirat temple, D. O. K. K., at the old Masonic temple last night, was a glorious affair. Nearly all of the members of the local temple attended and there were visitors from Superior, Minneapolis, St. Paul, the Copper country and surrounding towns. The feeding of several tyros to the tiger was the occasion of the ceremonial, and the work was put on in an impressive manner by the Duluth temple.

The Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan is a branch of the Pythian order and none may become members who are not members of the Knights of Pythias. Al Sarat temple is a large and enthusiastic one and its ceremonials are always occasions for large gatherings of Pythians and incidental merrymaking.

ALLEGE ACCUSED KILLED VICTIM WITH STOVE DOOR.

Granite Falls, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John F. Ruth of Milwaukee will be tried here next month for murder in the second degree, it being charged that he caused the death of James Granville by beating him with a stove door and a huge rock in a box car in this place several months ago. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive of his attack. The crude weapons of the assault were found near the dying man.

Granville had been employed in the Great Northern shops at Havre, Mont. He was taken to the university hospital in Minneapolis, where he died of his injuries.

Ruth was seen with Granville on the day before the assault, and when arrested was trying to wash blood stains from his clothes. When arraigned here last week for murder in the second degree, he pleaded not guilty.

TAKEN TO MARQUETTE.

Self-Confessed Ishpeming Murderer Locked in the County Jail.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Scopasca, the self-confessed murderer of Richard Varcoe, and his companion, James Donato, were removed from the Ishpeming jail Monday evening, and were taken to Marquette on the St. Paul train, leaving here at 4:55 o'clock. They will be confined to the county jail until the case is disposed of.

The time for the inquest has not yet been decided on. Coroner Prin said yesterday that it would probably be held before the week is out.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CITY PLANT PAYING ONE

Thief River Falls Does Well Operating Electric Lighting System.

Net Profit of Over $6,000 Last Year and Plant Was Improved.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual statement of City Clerk Lars Backe for the year, 1909, presents a striking illustration of the value of a municipally owned electric lighting plant.

This city began the construction of its own lighting plant some ten years ago at an initial cost of $6,000. A power house was erected on the dam at the falls in this city and water power was purchased at a fixed monthly sum each month from the owners of the dam, this plan being maintained to the present time. The original equipment has been improved, enlarged and extended to meet the requirements of a growing community, which now has a population of over 5,000.

Plant Is Up to Date.

The plant represents what is most modern and efficient in electric lighting material and, besides supplying all the needs of private citizens and concerns using electric power, furnishes free to the city some eighty street are lights, in addition to a great number of smaller public lights. The present cost to date of the whole equipment is a little less than $40,000, but its value from a commercial standpoint or as an investment would be $100,000. The total disbursements for the year, 1909, for the department were $11,945.52, and the receipts for the same period, footed up the sum of $18,485.24, leaving a net profit of $6,539.72. The city council has always assumed a generous attitude towards the electric plant and has not been niggardly in the matter of expenditure connected therewith and not in single year since its installation has it failed to pay percentage returns equal to that of 1909.

The city also owns its own waterworks and a strong sentiment exists for the municipal ownership of the local telephone system.

McGARRY NOT CANDIDATE AGAINST C. A. LINDBERGH.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hon. P. H. McGarry, representative from this district, has stated positively that he will under no circumstances become a candidate against C. A. Lindbergh for the congressional honors. Mr. McGarry realizes that the people of this district want to see him serve another term in the legislature. The manner in which he represented them at the last session won him the esteem and admiration of the people as well as of every representative and senator present, and, although his normal school bill was killed, it was not killed until after he had won one of the hardest fought battles in the history of the Minnesota legislature.

The people around this section of the state know that when Mr. McGarry sets out to do anything he usually succeeds before he gets through, and it is the general opinion that he will land

Acid Dyspepsia

Nervous People Are Frequent Sufferers From Too Much Hydrochloric Acid in the Stomach.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

"Sour stomach," or acid dyspepsia is a form of indigestion in which entirely too much hydrochloric acid is secreted by the stomach. A sour taste in the mouth is the most common symptom of acid dyspepsia; and the saliva, which is normally alkaline, is found, when tested, to be changed to acid, or just the opposite to what it should be, and is a state of the secretion which causes rapid and extensive destruction of the teeth.

Everything eaten turns more or less sour in the stomach, but sweets and acid fruits are far worse in this respect than other foods. If the eructations of liquids from the stomach occurs, they have such an extremely sour taste as to set the teeth on edge.

Hydrochloric acid is an important constituent in the gastric juice, but when too much of it is secreted, it does positive harm to the mucous lining of the stomach; and when acid dyspepsia is long continued it often sets up chronic gastritis, gastric ulcer, and other serious diseases. The premature loss of all the teeth has been caused by acid saliva, which was dependent upon the excessively acid condition of the stomach.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS, besides furnishing pure, aseptic pepsin to the stomach to dilute the excess of hydrochloric acid, and to digest proteids and albuminous foods very thoroughly, also contain bismuth subnitrate and calcium carbonate, which are antagonistic to the acid, and therefore neutralize the effect of the excessive amount of acid in the stomach, and the continued use of these tablets will change the perverted condition of the secretions to a normal state.

If you are suffering from "hyperchlor-hydria," as physicians term it, or in other words, acid dyspepsia, and experience a sour taste in the mouth, with acid eructations or heartburn, begin at once the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, using one or two after each meal, or as may be required, and the same quantity at retiring time, for if this trouble is allowed to run on, it may cause serious organic changes in the stomach. There are cases on record where the lining of the stomach has been completely eaten away through perverted action of the secretions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been tried in all forms of indigestion and dyspepsia, with unfailing success, so that no matter which form you may be suffering from, the quickest way to bring about a cure is through the use of these powerful stomach tablets.

Secure from your druggist a fifty-cent box, and get cured of acid dyspepsia, or whatever form of indigestion you may be suffering. Also send us your name and address for free sample. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FLAMES DESTROY GRADERS' SHACK

Twelve Italians Working for Soo at Cass Lake Lose Belongings.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire about 7 o'clock last evening completely destroyed the home and all the belongings valued at about $1,500, of twelve Italians, who are employed on the railroad here.

The men were preparing for bed when something on the stove exploded, throwing the flames all over the shack. They had barely time to crawl through the windows. In doing so, several of them received bad cuts on the face and hands.

This is the second time within two years that these men have lost all their belongings, including money, in the flames.

BEMIDJI PLANNING FOR FINE LIGHTS

City to Be Blaze of Glory During Two Coming Public Gatherings.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The streets of Bemidji will be well lighted when Governor Eberhart appears here to address the North Central Minnesota Educational association, Feb. 11, and also at the time the Northern Minnesota development and reapportionment meeting is held here Feb. 17 and 18, if the plans of W. H. Mackenzie, chairman of the Northern Minnesota Development association are carried out.

Mr. Mackenzie has requested that the council order placed across prominent streets eight new electric light arches, in addition to the large arch at present in use on Third street. This would call for two additional arches on Third street, three on Beltrami avenue and three on Bemidji avenue.

The matter of the arches was referred to the water works and light committee, and there is every probability that the council will act favorably on the request, in which case the city will present a very bright appearance nights.

Mr. Mackenzie states that he expects that at least thirty counties will respond to the call to send delegates to the development meeting, which would give at least 300 delegates; in any case he is certain there will be at least 200 persons who will officially attend the meeting from outside points.

CONVICT LAKOTA BANKER.

Found Guilty of Sending Objectionable Matter Through Mails.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sentenced to spend three months in the county jail here and to pay a fine of $500, S. A. Floren, a banker of Lakota, this state, is firmly convinced that Uncle Sam's regulations against sending objectionable matter through the mails were intended to be observed. He announces he will appeal from the conviction and sentence in the federal court. Floren's undoing resulted from his association with Druggist Wold, now serving time in the county jail.

The couple conceived the idea several years ago that a fortune could be made by secretly offering for sale objectionable goods which had been condemned by President Roosevelt. Wold pleaded guilty, getting two months and $300.

SUPERVISORS UNDER FIRE.

Is Alleged to Have Secured Insurance Through Position.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Great public interest is taken in the trial of Supervisor Andrew Johnson, now before the circuit court. While supervisor of the county, Mr. Johnson, who is an insurance agent, issued policies to cover the county buildings. He was advised by his solicitors that he might do this without violating the law which forbids supervisors taking business contracts with the county during their term of office. Prosecuting Attorney Schwittay, however, took issue on this point, and the indictment of Supervisor Johnson followed.

Inasmuch as the county received value at established rates for every cent paid the supervisor, the action against Mr. Johnson is considered purely technical, and he has the sympathy of the people. Supervisor Johnson is a prominent and respected citizen, and is at the present time secretary of the chamber of commerce of Marinette.

SOLD NASTY POSTALS.

Is Charge Against Two Newsdealers in Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—B. F. Boyd and Fred Boyd, newsdealers of this city, have been arrested on two complaints, charging the sale of obscene postal cards.

These cards, it is alleged, were sold to lads attending the city schools. They showed them to their schoolmates of both sexes and the matter came to the knowledge of Supt. Cobb, who laid the matter before the police department, and the arrests followed. The Boyds demanded examinations on both charges and one case was set for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock and the other was set for the same day at 2:30. They were put under joint bond of $500 in each case and released on bail, the bonds being signed by C. H. Paine as security.

CROOKSTON CHARACTER DIES IN THE ASYLUM.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Iver Nordblad, aged about 82, a pioneer in Crookston, and something of a character, who in the early days operated a second-hand store but lost his reason a few years ago and was sent to the Fergus Falls asylum, died there Monday.

For several years he lived alone in what is known as the old Dawley house on the bank of the Red Lake river, on South Broadway, which every one has expected to topple over into the river for years past.

Nordblad has a daughter whom it is thought resides somewhere near Middle River, but Nordblad stated at times that she was in North Dakota. She was a former school teacher, but was married several years ago.

CASS LAKE SEEING GOOD TIMES AHEAD

Coming of Soo and Other Improvements Help Build Up City.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The future of Cass Lake becomes brighter every day.

The building of the Soo railroad through has increased the shipping facilities wonderfully and several prominent firms are at the present time making negotiations for the erection of hardwood factories in the immediate vicinity of the city. There is a considerable amound of hardwood timber around here and such industries would undoubtedly be very paying. The erection of a turpentine plant is being very thoroughly investigated. Judge Ives has been advocating the erection of a plant of this nature for a number of years and he has at last got the moneyed men to believe that it is something worth while tackling. The judge has started the thing moving with a $1,000 check. The farmers in the vicinity of Cass Lake have got busy and have come to the conclusion that there is just as good farming land around here as there is in Dakota. A farmers' association has been organized and the farmers will put several hundred acres into crop this spring.

Good Summer Trade.

The summer trade promises to surpass that of the previous year. Besides the large number of launches on the lake last summer, there will be a large number of new ones, including two 100 horse-power ones. Supervisor Marshall of forestry service, who has charge of the renting of lots in the forest reserve has a large number of applications on file for lots, and it is doubted very much whether or not there will be enough left to suit the demand. It was only last winter that the forestry department decided to rent these lots for the erection of summer homes, and as soon as it became known, a large number of applications were made for lots, with the result that last summer in the neighborhood of twenty cottages were erected. This summer it is expected that at least fifty more will be erected.

Several prominent residents of Duluth and the Twin Cities are among those who will erect cottages. The lots are located on Norway beach and Star island, and are rented for $5 a year. It is necessary for the applicants to begin erecting a cottage within six months after making application.

The coming summer will be the first time that automobiles were owned by local people. About fifteen have already been purchased and the erection of a garage is now being figured on.

Besides these, the Commercial club has in view several things which will be a great help to the upbuilding of the city.

ONLY IN INFANCY.

Development of Minnesota Water Power Just Started, Says Expert.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Minnesota, with its unlimited water power, will become known within the present generation more as a manufacturing than as an agricultural state," declared William E. Crane, master engineer here yesterday.

"Ten years ago I visited Minnesota to observe how the power of St. Anthony falls was being put to use. Then I was solving a problem of harnessing the Hudson river. At that time I was impressed with the remarkable commercial possibilities of Minnesota's streams and now I see the beginning of a time when they will be lined with factories having cheap and never-failing power.

"I have been visiting my son, J. B. Crane at Duluth, chief engineer of the Great Northern Water Power company. That company has already developed 75,000 horsepower from the St. Louis river, and plans are making whereby they will have 250,000 horsepower.

"That is one one river. Here you have the Mississippi, with its great volume; the Minnesota, Red River of the North, St. Croix and almost innumerable smaller streams, all of which are capable of generating enough power, I might say, to turn the earth on its axis. The development of the water power of this state, and as a consequence the development of the state as a whole, is still in its infancy."

DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

Probe Into Death of John Negaunee Reveals No Crime.

Baraga, Mich., Jan. 26.—The inquest of John Negaunee, who died on New Year's night at Assinins, was conducted by Coroner William Hugo at the Baraga town hall. Mrs. Negaunee, daughter Maggie, and James Wawasong, who were present when the old man died, were on hand and gave their testimony.

Dr. Buckland testified that Negaunee has several bad bruises on the head, but these could not have proved fatal to him. He also said that Negaunee was troubled with paralysis, which might have resulted in his death.

TWO BOYS FROZEN DURING BLIZZARD

Leave Their Claim to Get Water and Perish in the Storm.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Turner and Odvin Lee, half brothers, aged about 14, brothers of Mrs. Koenig of this city, perished in the late blizzard that swept over the prairies near Densmore, Sask.

The two boys were the sons of A. T. Lee, formerly of Borup, Minn., young Turvin being the son of Lee's second wife.

Last fall Lee filed on a claim near Densmore, and the family reached their new home on Christmas day. On New Year's day a blizzard was raging, but the two boys anxious to get their work done, because on the following day they were going to visit at a neighbor's, hitched one of the horses to the stone boat. The well was located about half a mile distant, and the boys intended to get a supply of water to last for two days.

All efforts to find the boys, who had wandered several miles, were futile until Jan. 15, when they were found lying close together, frozen to death, and by their side stood the faithful horse, still alive, but weak with hunger. The boys had unhitched the horse and had endeavored to protect themselves from the cold. In this way they went to sleep, never to wake again.

It has been reported to us by several of our patrons that for the past five or six weeks a certain woman residing at the West end has been making a house to house canvas with a bundle of laces under one arm, and a child under the other, to gain the sympathy of her victims.

To some, she exploits a pitiful, hard-luck story—to others, that she is selling those laces for Panton & White Company—to others that our Mr. Panton bought the laces for her when he was in Europe last year—to others that her relatives makes her laces on the other side, and sends them to her to sell—and the reason she can sell them so cheap, she gets them through the customs without duty. To others, that we have engaged her to give lessons in lace-making in our store, and then winds up by asking for a pair of old pants or any old thing for her man that's home sick in bed.

Ladies

Take Warning and Notice!

That we do not know this woman. That she does not represent us in any way, or that she has never asked us, nor we her, to give lace-making lessons in our store. That we have seen some of the laces she sold, and that they are machine made and absolutely pure cotton.

LADIES' CIGARETTES.

New York Women Spend Half Million a Year for Puffs.

New York, Jan. 26.—New York women burned $500,000 last year. From today's indications in the business world they will burn even more—in fact, a great deal more—in the year 1910.

Half a million is a snug sum for women to send up in smoke. The figures are furnished by dealers, and conservative dealers at that. Three of them cater particularly to women. One of them seeks no other trade. To this $500,000 add money spent by women cigarette faddists for smart accessories and one has a fair idea of what the cigarette habit costs New York women today.

What is the reason for the astonishing increase of the smoking habit among New York women? Simply this: They took it up because it looks "smart," in much the same way that a small boy takes his first smoke. In much the same way, too, it has grown on them, until now they are wrecking their nerves with nicotine, to say nothing of squandering great sums of money. It is no longer a fad with women, this smoking—a woman must have her after breakfast puff just as much as she must have her breakfast. Sometimes she can get along without the food much more easily than without her cigarette. Thousands of women in New York smoke from fifteen to twenty clargettes a day.

Married Misery

People often rely on nature unaided to correct evil but it doesn't. One aim of corrective medicine should be to do away with married unhappiness. At the bottom of a deal of misery is found lack of cheerful yielding. Mean selfishness is as surely due to ill-health as famine is to failure. Ungovernable temper—a third fault—is largely the outcome of stomach disorder. All these causes disappear when stomach and liver are keyed to a finely balanced tone. The first sign of on-coming Biliousness, Indigestion or Headache, should suggest old Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. No other known medicine contains so complete a curing-power for disordered stomach and torpid liver—'Twill avert many a conflict between man and woman.

Take pains, however, not to insist too strongly on having your own way except with the druggist—insist that he give you Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Constipation is always aggravating. A costive person is hardly fit to associate with—while free and easy bowel action tends to make the grouchy grumbler a cheerful optimist, lovable and full of hope. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, taken now and then, move bowels gently once a day. That's enough.

ROOSEVELT CALLED ON

Urged to Return and Save Party in New York State.

Scandals Threaten Republicans and No Leader Is in Sight.

Albany, N. Y., Jan .26.—"Lead us or we're lost. Hurry home and save the party."

This is the essence of cablegrams and letters understood to have been showered upon Theodore Roosevelt in his African jungle by machine Republicans, affrighted by revelations of bribery, graft and other forms of corruption, implicating New York state officials.

"Stick to your post, complete your house cleaning," is the daily invocation of Governor Hughes, by those who contend that the party dare not go before the people next fall unless White, Allds, Conger and others accused, are ousted and the present executive reconsiders his announced purpose to retire this year.

To Roosevelt, telegrams are addressed that he quit hunting wild animals and head a crusade to rid the party of human harpies, whose alleged depredations have brought such shame upon it that it is threatened with a chastisement such as elevated Grover Cleveland to the governorship by nearly 200,000 plurality in 1882.

Work for Roosevelt.

The former president is being sought not only to cleanse the machine stables, but make it possible to retain the state by taking the nomination for governor.

Later advices from Africa, according to an intimate associate of Roosevelt here, are that he still adheres to his determination to delay his return home until June.

As for Governor Hughes, he emphatically declines to mix in the unsavory mess in which his associates in the state government are wallowing. His intention is merely to do what he can to put through the legislature direct nominations, telephone and telegraph supervision and other acts he has spoused, finish his executive functions by next New Year's day, and then try to retrieve his pecuniary fortune by the practice of his profession.

Party Without Leader.

Until Roosevelt comes back and agrees to serve in the capacity of a savior, then the party that has held the state consecutively for sixteen years will be admitteedly without a leader.

William Barns, Jr., of Albany, when asked where an available leader could be quickly found to lift the organization out from the pit, smiled frigidly and replied:

"I don't know. Roosevelt will not be back until he says he will. That means June, at the earliest. As for myself, I am keeping as still, very still, as David B. Hill in 1896."

With absolutely no one to direct its policy, the Republican organization is confronted the present week in the legislature with this critical situation.

Lieutenant Governor White, if he is rash enough to preside over the senate, will do so while indictments for conspiracy are being drawn against some of the men involved in the Peoples Insurance company scandal.

A Wild Blizzard Raging

Brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn of Pine Valley, Miss., 'after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, it's supreme. 50c. $1. Guaranteed by all druggists.

MORE HORSES AT HIGHER VALUES

Yearly Report on Livestock Is Made By Department of Agriculture.

Washington, Jan. 26.—In spite of the greatly increased use of the automobile, the self-propelling vehicle has been unable to depress either in numbers or value, its rival, the American horse. With automobiles coming into common use, the price of horses, according to a statement by the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture, rose from an average of $95.64 apiece in 1908 to $108.19 apiece in 1909. In numbers the horses of the United States increased from 20,640,000 to 21,040,000.

Incidentally the report, which gives the number and value of farm animals in the United States on Jan. 1, 1910, discloses the fact that the high price of beef is in the smallest degree due due to a decrease in the number of range cattle. Only a slight falling off in range cattle is shown from the figures of the previous year, while there has been an increase in the number of horses, mules, milch cows and sheep. Hogs, however, have lost in numerical strength.

The total value of all animals enumerated on Jan. 1, 1910, was $5,138,486,000, as compared with $4,525,259,000 on Jan. 1, 1909, an increase of $613,227,000 or 13.6 per cent.

STEEL EARNINGS ARE OVER $131,000,000.

New York, Jan. 26.—Yesterday for the first time in the reports of the United States Steel corporation, there appeared an item of $3,200,000, to be taken from the reserve fund "to cover advanced mining royalties."

The total earnings for the year 1909 amounted to $131,479,975. The record year of the corporation was 1907, with earnings of $160,964,673. Since its organization in April of 1901, the corporation has earned the sum of $1,071,220,945.

SAYS LIGHTNING OPENED SPRING OF CRUDE OIL.

Delhart, Tex., Jan. 26.—Mrs. Josie Pettis, owning a farm near here, declares that a bolt of lightning struck the ground on the mountain-side near her home recently and uncovered a spring of crude oil, which is now producing 200 barrels daily. It is claimed that she has been offered $10,000 for her small tract of land.

Six Smugglers Smothered.

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 26.—Seven Italian smugglers, engaged in carrying contraband through the wild Alpine pass, above Chiavenna, Italy, were overwhelmed by an avalanche yesterday. All but one of the number were swept over the precipice and killed.

IN MEMORY OF BURNS

Scotsmen of City Pay Tribute to Their Favorite Poet.

Henry F. Greene Delivers Address on the Life of Burns.

Duluth Scotsmen paid their annual tribute to Robert Burns at the Spalding last evening upon the occasion of the 150th anniversary of their poet. The affair was given by Clan Stewart, to which most of the sons of Scotland in this city belong.

The program was all Scotch, and was pronounced the best that has ever been given by Clan Stewart in Duluth. Bagpipes wailed, the clansmen gave a sword dance, and songs and readings filled out the evening.

The principal address was given by Henry F. Greene. His subject, of course, was "Robert Burns," and he followed his career from boyhood through manhood. He declared that Robert Burns was a good man, notwithstanding the weaknesses that have been attributed to him. He dwelt upon his sincerity, his genius, his thorough knowledge of the sufferings of the poor, his love affairs and of his work, which has enshrined him in the hearts of Scotsmen for all ages.

Alex G. McKnight, chief of the clan, in addition to his duties as chairman, sang a song, "Sandy McNab," which was greeted with applause, as was every other number given. The remainder of the program consisted of a bagpipe solo by Kenneth McGregor, two songs by Miss Alice Sjoselius, a sword dance, a reading by Miss Agnes Johnson, a song by John H. Matheson, a song by Miss Maude Matteson, a Cotch reel by four clansmen and "Auld Lang Syne," sung by the audience in conclusion. Dancing followed until an early hour this morning, when special cars took those present to their homes. Miss Lillian MacAskill was the accompanist.

WAS "STUNG" FOR $50,000 BY THE WIFE OF A PALMIST

MISS GAZZAM.

Antoinette Gazzam inherited $3,000,000 from her mother, the wife of Senator Joseph Gazzam of Philadelphia. Mrs. Gazzam was separated from her husband at the time of her death, and on her deathbed she requested her daughter to have nothing to do with him. So Miss Gazzam has been living at Cornwall, N. Y., in a marble palace which she inherited also from her mother. While she was in Los Angeles she saw "Prof. Niblo" and "Mizpah" doing a palmistry and psychic stunt on the stage. "Prof. Niblo" was Marshall Clark and "Mizpah" was his wife. Presently Mrs. Clark charged that her husband had become infatuated with Miss Gazzam and sued her for alienation. While the suit was pending Clark tried to get an annulment of his marriage, claiming irregularities in the divorce of his wife from a former husband. He was unsuccessful. Now Mrs. Clark's lawyer says Miss Gazzam has paid $50,000 to compromise the sult.

CUTS INTO FREE SEEDS.

Postoffice Ruling on Labels Will Affect Old Custom.

Washington, Jan. 26.—A question having been raised concerning the right to transmit labels for seed packages through the mails under congressional frank, the law office of the postoffice department has ruled that such labels are not public documents, within the meaning of the law, and that therefore, they cannot be mailed free of charge.

This apears to be a very simple ruling; but, as a matter of fact it will affect a good many members of congress who have been sending to postmasters in their district, seed labels, with instructions to mail the seeds—also sent free in packages, to those who desired them.

The postmasters always responded to the request of the congressmen, to whom they were under obligations for their jobs. The ruling of the department puts an end to the system, which has been practiced for many years.

DEFENDS THE CHEAP SHOWS

Miss Jean Poirier Thinks They Provide Cheap, Healthful Amusement.

Rewards Children By Taking Them to Moving Picture Exhibitions.

That the nickel theaters, when properly conducted, are not the curse of the twentieth century is the opinion of Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector.

Nearly everybody engaged in humane work and also the work of enforcing the compulsory education law these days, lays the blame for nonattendance to the influence exercised over the children by the nickel theaters, and it is this that Miss Poirier takes exception to. They claim that children steal the money to attend and work other schemes to procure the necessary funds. In addition, it is claimed that the subjects used for the canvas dramas are in no way elevating and that a bad influence is cast over the children.

Miss Poirier says that she thinks the cheap shows where they are managed rightly, fulfill a long felt want—cheap amusements. When she desires to reward a child for being good and wishes to encourage him in his goodness, she takes him to the show at a moving picture house. She says that she has never found much at these shows to prove that they are not a healthful recreation for the young mind. While they do sometimes suggest things that might influence older people, these facts are so indistinct that the child does not notice them.

Miss Poirier admits that there may be managers who are not careful in the matter of the pictures used, but says that it has been her experience that they are as instructive as they are interesting. Some of the pictures are made for no other purpose than to make people laugh. Others present pathetic stories that show another side of life. Many pictures show how different articles are made and military scenes are popular.

"No, I will not say that picture shows are the cause of some of our boys and girls straying off the straight and narrow path," she said.

Busted of the Canadian Pacific was carried down an embankment by a snowslide yesterday and seriously injured. Two ribs were broken and it is feared he has been injured internally.

THE MAZES OF THE LAW

Personal Injury Case Badly Complicated With Motions of All Kinds.

Michigan Man Sues Minnesota Road for Accident in Wisconsin.

The personal injury suit of Minaid Bennett against the Great Northern Railroad company for $25,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he was hit by a moving ore train in the yards at Superior on Sept. 5, last, has been frequently interrupted ever since its beginning before Judge Cant Monday, with motions and objections of various sorts.

At the present time the jury has been excused, and the attorneys for the railroad company are arguing for a directed verdict in favor of the railroad.

As soon as the case came to trial there were objections because Bennett is a non-resident. Samuel Anderson, the St. Paul injury attorney, remedied this by depositing cash with the clerk to cover the costs in case the defendant should win. The trial then proceeded and all the evidence was taken.

Then the question as to whether or not the local court had jurisdiction over the case came up. Bennett is a resident of Michigan. The accident happened in Wisconsin. The train was coming from Minnesota, and was known as an interstate train loaded with ore. The suit was begun in Minnesota against a Minnesota corporation. It is claimed that the case is for the consideration of the federal court.

After the testimony was taken the attorneys for the plaintiff made a motion asking that the complaint be amended so as to correspond with the testimony taken at the trial. At the present time, the attorneys for the railroad company are asking for a directed verdict in their favor.

In his complaint, Bennett asks for damages of $25,000. At the time of the accident, Bennett was employed by the company, and claims that he had a right in the yards. He claims that there were no lights on the approaching train and that although he listened, there was so much noise that he was unable to tell whether the trains were coming or going. The train was being backed into the yards. As a result of the accident, he suffered a broken leg, which later had to be amputated. He asks for $25,000.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT DIES

Albert Johnson, Member of Senior Class, Passes Away After Operation.

Albert Johnson, a member of the class of 1910 of the Central high school, which graduates this summer, died last evening at St. Luke's hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Principal Buck announced his death during the chapel exercises this morning and this afternoon his classmates are meeting to decide upon some plan to show their respect. The class will attend the funeral in a body. The arrangements will be announced later.

Albert Johnson was one of the most popular students in the institution, and was highly thought of by the members of the faculty. A week ago yesterday he was in school, apparently in the best of health. His father, Chris Johnson, is superintendent of Forest Hill cemetery.

GRADING WILL COST $50,000

Report on the Proposed Suburban Electric Road Is Completed.

The sub-committee of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, will report tonight to the general committee on the cost of grading a right-of-way for the proposed street car extension into the farming district in the vicinity of the Jean Duluth stock farm.

The cost will be about $50,000 for a strip thirty feet wide, including necessary bridges and culverts, acording to a member of the committee, which has been investigating the matter. A maximum grade of seven per cent can be secured, which will enable street cars to operate without serious difficulty.

The proposed route begins at Woodland avenue, runs along Hardy street to the Snively road, thence to a junction with the East Duluth and Lester river road, commonly called the Jean Duluth road, and then extends about half a mile to the other side of the Lester river. It intersects the stock farm at the river.

The proposed street car line forms an important part of the plans which are being formulated for the development of the agricultural territory about the city. Legislation has been secured enabling such a line to carry freight, as well as passengers, and arrangements will likely be made with the street railway company whereby the produce can be carried to a central market in the heart of the city.

FIREMEN RESCUE DOZEN PEOPLE

Guests at Clarendon Hotel Overcome By Smoke From Small Fire.

Smoke from a small fire in the basement of the Clarendon hotel building drove the guests from their beds early this morning. The damage by the fire was small, but the smoke was so dense that the boarders became frightened and left their rooms.

At least a dozen people were helped out by the firemen. One woman, Mrs. A. S. Goodson, was carried from her room in an unconscious state, almost suffocated by the smoke. She was revived with difficulty when she was taken into the fresh air.

The flames were first discovered about 3 o'clock in the basement of the hotel, where there is a small ski factory and supply store. The store faces on Michigan street. The damage was about $500, the stock of the store being destroyed. The fire burned through into the next story before it was checked.

FIELD FORCE TO BE INCREASED

Funds to Suppress Liquor Traffic Among Indians Augmented.

Washington, Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the request of Commissioner Valentine of the Indian bureau, the committee on Indian affairs has inserted in the Indian appropriation bill an item increasing the fund for the suppression of liquor traffic among Indians from $50,000 to $70,000. This will enable the commissioner of Indian affairs to largely augment the field officers assigned to this particular duty. Complaints have been received in Washington from various states that, in enforcing the law, state officers have not exercised proper discrimination, with the result that injustice has been done in a number of instances. With additional employes to do the work, Commissioner Valentine believes that he will be in position to direct his subordinates to proceed with more care in working up cases against violators of the liquor laws.

COMLINS IS HELD.

Baudette Man Must Answer Charge in the Canadian Courts.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 26.—John C. Comlins of Beaudette, Minn., was yesterday sent to the higher court by Magistrate McMicken on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Andrew Coleman, who was frozen to death on Jan. 3 while with a party of men in charge of Comlins on their way to work at the latter's lumber camp, twelve miles from Darwin.

The magistrate stated that there was no doubt from the evidence given that Comlins had done a lot for the men on that trip, but that he was guilty of negligence in that, after he reached the camp, he failed to send out searching parties to look for Coleman, knowing the condition he was in.

Comlins was given his liberty on $4,000 bail.

CHARTER AMENDMENTS 2 AND 3.

Charter amendment No. 2 gives the city council power to tax vehicles—automobiles, carriages, wagons, etc.—for the privilege of using the streets. Since it is by use that pavements wear out, it is proper that vehicles that use them should be taxed for the privilege of doing so; and it is proper that the money thus raised shall go into a fund exclusively for the repair and maintenance of streets.

Amendment No. 3, to carry out this plan, provides a "street maintenance and repair fund," out of which shall be paid the cost of maintaining and repairing all streets, avenues and alleys. By this amendment the council is authorized to levy a tax which is not to exceed 1 mill; this in case the vehicle tax does not raise enough to keep the streets in repair.

It is very important that these two amendments shall be adopted. They will repair a situation that as it stands is a blot upon city management.

When a city pavement is laid the property-owners benefited are assessed for the cost. Then the pavement is ready to be used, and use means wear. Presently holes begin to appear. If they are neglected, they widen, and soon the pavement is worn out, and must be replaced. Then the property-owners are called upon to pay assessments again.

A pavement kept in good repair will have three or four times the life of the pavement that is neglected. The cost of keeping it in good repair is infinitely less than the cost of new pavement every ten or fifteen years, but in the past Duluth has failed to keep up its streets, and has chosen the wretchedly uneconomical method of providing new pavements when the old ones are worn out. The cost to the city has been, under this system, several times what it will be under the proposed new system.

It simply is good business, this plan. It's bad business to keep going in the old way. The new way will save money; the old way wastes money. In the long run the cost of providing and maintaining pavements will be cut in two by the adoption of amendments Nos. 2 and 3.

Mayor Roland D. Haven, elsewhere in The Herald tonight, explains these two amendments and advocates their adoption. His article covers the ground fully and ably, and it should be read by every voter. Also, his advice should be followed, and these amendments should be adopted.

The amendments were asked for by the city council, because without them it is impossible to handle the paving problem along sound business lines. The city charter commission prepared and submitted them, because its members believed their adoption to be a matter of sound, progressive public policy.

Amendments 2 and 3 should be adopted. So, for the matter of that, should amendments 1, 4, 5 and 6. Amendments 7, 8 and 9 should be defeated.

A VERY SILLY BUSINESS.

It is small wonder that the commercial bodies of the country are appealing to the national board of trade to ask the government not to get into a disastrous trade war with Germany because that country places restrictions on imports of meat from this country. That appears to be the intent of the government, and if it carries out that intent will be doing great service to a few specially privileged interests and great harm to the nation and its people.

The Herald pointed out a week ago—and curiously enough it seems to have been the only newspaper to do so—that it is silly business to get into a trade war with Germany over the sale of meats to that country when it is so clear that there isn't enough meat in this country to supply the home demand. Until meat prices get within speaking distance of the humble consumer it would be more sensible to place an export duty on meat than to fight to make other countries to buy it from us.

SHIP SUBSIDY MAY WIN.

Cheering news came to The Herald from Washington yesterday—that is it is cheering to Special Privilege. The house committee is about to recommend the passage of a ship subsidy bill, and while the Democrats will fight it on the floor of the house, the indications are that the bill will pass the house. If it does it is certain that it will pass the senate and that it will receive the president's signature.

What this means, boiled down to its final elements, is simply that the people of this country will be called upon to pay more taxes to provide profits for still another closely controlled industry. The people now pay heavy tariff taxes on everything they eat, wear and use, to the end that a few may gain great profit. Ship owners, who have long been jealous of this special privilege and have been seeking to get congress to pass them some of it, now seem close to victory. If the ship subsidy bill passes and becomes a law, hereafter the people of the United States will have added to their indirect taxes a large and growing item for the profit of ship owners. Owing to tariff restrictions, ship owning does not now pay well. Instead of removing these tariff restrictions, the Republican plan is to keep them, and to offset the disadvantage they give to ship owners by taxing the people still more heavily.

It is a very pretty scheme for Special Privilege and a very vicious scheme for the people.

THE REAL CAUSE OF IT.

It is to be hoped that the people will not pay too much attention to Wall street's conniption fits. In the face of growing business, when the wheels of industry are humming a tune that means prosperity, and when the tide of good business is rising day by day, suddenly Wall street was attacked by a series of small panics, and stock quotations tumbled rapidly. It isn't that the stocks were worth any less than they were last week or week before; it may even be that instrinsically they are worth more. It may be that they were quoted too high before, as undoubtedly some of them were: but it isn't that there is anything in the situation that honest, legitimate business need fear. Today's rally shows that conditions have largely been manipulated.

But in spite of the accumulating evidences that business is good and growing better; in spite of such items as that the United States Steel corporation's business is enormous, and that its profits enable it to declare an extra dividend on its common stock; in spite of every assurance that honest business enterprises need have no fear of interference: in spite of all these things, Wall street flees at its own shadow, starting at every slightest sound, looking fearfully under the bed at night and over its shoulder in the day time.

The reason of it is only this: Wall street's conscience feels very guilty, and its action is a new proof that "the wicked flee when no man pursueth."

Also, Wall street may have had in mind the possibility that if it can communicate its alarms to enough people, congress may be scared out of doing anything except passing appropriation bills, kowtowing to Aldrich and Cannon, apologizing for its existence, and sneaking home through the back alleys.

A TIMELY INTERRUPTION.

Those who had laid cunning plans to induce congress to pass laws leasing or selling those rich Alaska coal mines, which belong to the people, for the paltry sum of $10 per acre, must feel exceedingly chagrinned over the untimely bobbing up of this Mr. Ballaine of Alaska who offers to pay a royalty of 50 cents a ton on 5,000 acres. Also, close analysis would reveal, no doubt, a marked vein of peevishness toward Mr. Ballaine for his unsportsmanlike conduct.

The people own, it appears, some very valuable coal lands in Alaska, and for several years the Guggenheims and other greedy interests have been laying wires to get them. They hadn't thought of paying much of anything for them. They had rather figured on getting them for practically nothing, just as most of the people's natural wealth has been acquired through the complaisance of a negligent government. The government is complaisant enough now, but thanks to Messrs. Roosevelt, Pinchot, Price, Shaw, Glavis et al, the people are looking, and the enterprise has been difficult. The presumptuous Mr. Ballaine, who comes in and says that his plan will yield the government $20,000 an acre instead of $10 an acre, and about $8,000,000,000 for the whole Alaskan field, has made it more difficult still to carry out pending plans of plunder. It is to be hoped that he has made it impossible.

GOOD COLD WEATHER HINTS.

"Better join the army of 'fresh air cranks' and stick around awhile longer."

This is the way a bulletin of the Chicago health department emphasizes the dangers of the "pneumonia season," which is the season of cold weather so intermixed with mild conditions that it is hard to tell which is more dangerous. On the whole, the mild intervals are the more dangerous because they lead people to do foolish things.

Peary's story of his discovery of the pole, in this month's Hampton's magazine, tells about the living conditions of the Eskimos, who endure cold and fresh air admirably, never having colds or pneumonia, but who if they came south and lived in houses would quickly die of pneumonia and consumption. In other words, it is not fresh air, even cold fresh air, that causes colds, pneumonia and consumption, but stale, stagnant air. Therefore, cultivate the fresh air cult.

Here are the rules laid down by the Chicago board of health by which people can guard against colds, pneumonia and consumption:

Good ventilation is the best means of preventing sickness.

Avoid crowded, ill-ventilated cars, theaters or halls, especially when feeling languid, depressed or sick.

Sleep with the windows open, top and bottom.

Thoroughly air all rooms, home and workplace, each day.

Air the bedding each day.

Rooms that seem "stuffy" when entered are unsafe to remain in.

Fresh air in rooms means economy in fuel. It takes more fuel to make stale air feel warm than to make fresh air comfortable.

A room temperature of 68 degs. Fahrenheit is more healthful than higher, if the air contains the right amount of moisture. Water in the furnace or in a dish set on the register will help. Dry, hot air is harmful to the air passages.

Refrain from visiting persons suffering from diseases of the respiratory organs. Remember that pneumonia is "catching" as well as tuberculosis, influenza and other diseases.

When perspiring freely, or when clothing is wet from that cause, avoid sudden cooling.

After over-eating or drinking too much don't lie down in a close room—better get out in the open air and walk till you feel relieved.

Bathe often and take a good rub down—not just before going out doors, however.

Above all, remember that pure air, sunshine and good health go hand in hand.

Those who adopt the cult of fresh air will get through the winter nicely. Those who disobey these rules, and insist on living in close, hot, stuffy rooms, will expose themselves to colds, pneumonia, grip and tuberculosis.

Wall street trembles at a sound and starts at a shadow. Truly the wicked lead miserable lives, for the most uncomfortable thing in the world is an accusing conscience.

Study the charter amendments and remember to vote upon them. A failure to vote is a vote against all of them, and it is a confession of ignorance or indifference. Both are dangerous to good government.

The friends of the so-called Chan Smith amendments, the last three on the ballot, talk mostly of city water rates. Are they trying to make people believe that these charter amendments have anything to do with water rates? There is no connection between them whatever, and each proposition should be considered on its merits.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SELLING WATER AT LESS THAN COST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I notice that your paper is enterprising enough to be able to induce Mr. Hudson, a member of the original charter commission, I believe, to attempt to explain the footfalls in the so-called Chan Smith amendments to the city charter. Why not go a little further and endeavor to induce one of the members of the water and light board, or their manager, to explain why they are compelling, as Chan Smith alleges, the small consumers of water, who can the least afford it, make up the losses occasioned by the low prices to large consumers, who are evidently getting water at one-third the cost of pumping? We ordinary mortals who supply most of the votes and are expected at the coming election to vote $200,000 more into their hands, may want to know who is actually to blame for such seemingly questionable methods of business as this, before we come to the slaughter. If the low prices are in the nature of a subsidy to big business, it should at least be admitted and the public enlightened on the matter. Endeavor to do this for Duluth, for the benefit of your thoughtful readers, and for better business methods in public utility ownership. Yours, etc.

THE DECLINE OF PIE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

This is a weak and degenerate race. Having stated my premise, I will plunge into the argument. A distinguished authority says we are eating more heartily than our forebears. Not on your life. Statistics show that this puny generation is on almost a starvation diet compared with that of our forefathers who wore flannels of an impassioned crimson and devoured succulent but hefty pie for breakfast. One sage declares that it was pie for breakfast that "caused the hatefulness that was the backbone of Puritanism." Alas! Are we becoming less hateful?

It is sad but true that when we sneak into the pantry late at night hygienic cereals and frugal, predigested things do not appeal to a starved and craving stomach. In such a tense moment man seizes upon pie in generous portions, if he can find it. He grabs for the mince or apple mixture snugly encased in snowy covers, as if by instinct; and who will deny that instinct is not superior to cold and dispassionate reason at such an hour?

When we read of the menus of a hundred years ago we shudder at the gourmandizing of that practical and unimaginative age. Twenty courses was a moderate order for old English dinners, when sheep were served roasted whole in their wool, and fowls by the dozen formed the simple pie. To be sure, some predatory plutocrats were seized with the gout and others died from overeating, but this simply proved the rule. They were doubtless a bunch of irascible old persons who probably richly deserved their fate. They would have died in time, anyway.

We are living frugally, despite this hue and cry of extravagance. Let us not decry the culinary triumphs and the gastronomic feats of another age. Let us not scorn the goodies of a former generation, especially the honored pie, immortalized in song and poesy by Emerson and other authorities. Dante puts ingratitude in the lowest hell—shall we kick at the ladder by which we have ascended?

A PIE EATER.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

A DESPICABLE HABIT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

What would you think of a man who would walk up and spit tobacco juice on a new mahogany piano or other furnishings of which you were equally proud? Most people wouldn't be very enthusiastic over such a fellow. There are people, Mr. Editor, strange as it may seem, who care not for that which belongs to other people but are at least careful of that which they own or have an interest in. Now, what I am trying to get at is, in the matter of city and county property—property that we all like to call ours and like to see as nice as possible. A few months ago we celebrated the new St. Louis county courthouse opening with fitting ceremonies. As we passed through the building we all admired it greatly and kept repeating to ourselves that the new structure was a credit to the county—so much different than the old building, you know. With all its beauty our new building has many of the earmarks of the old. The beautiful marble trimmings are a fair example of the carelessness of some people.

I have had occasion to be in the new building a good deal of late and I have noticed things. The walls are covered with tobacco marks, although there are cuspidors in plenty. Of course, the building is ours and we can use it in any way we see fit. It is impossible to enforce the regulations in a public building the same as in one that is privately owned, but I should think the residents of Duluth would have enough respect for the beautiful interior to desist from this filthy habit. There are janitors in plenty to do the work and I have talked to them. They say that although they have but one floor each to take care of, it is impossible to keep the walls clean, so much are people in the habit of committing this nuisance. Don't you think this a horrible state of affairs, Mr. Editor?

I hope this hint comes to the notice of some of those who are authors of the marks on the wall. This habit spreads disease and there are laws against it. We have heard much talk about a beautiful Duluth. How can we have a beautiful city with this sort of thing going on? Of course, being a woman, I suppose I notice this more than the men who frequent the buildings. I have, however, heard a number of the attorneys and judges speak of it. Hoping you will allow me space in your valuable paper, I am, yours truly.

A DULUTH WOMAN.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

HAVEN AND THE WIRES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper to say that Mayor Haven had nothing to do with pole and wire conditions in this city. All the poles that were moved this year were by the Duluth Telephone company, and Mr. Olson and myself went over their plans half a dozen times before they were turned over to the council for the permission. In many places they agreed to use the Electric Light company's poles on the hillside. They cut out forty-eight poles and only set eight, and Mayor Haven had nothing to do with this work. If I had let the companies put up all the death traps they wanted to, I would be in the city hall yet. Look at Michigan street's high-power wires tied to fire escapes, and the death rate this year. Three men were burned up. I witnessed one get burned. They tried to prove he was overcome by heat. I never saw a man overcome by heat who presented such an appearance—that color, and the smell of burned flesh—and Dr. Linnman, I understand, said he was killed by electricity. Ask Dr. Drexler, the leading doctor in St. Paul, about this case. He examined this man who was killed by wires.

JAMES CUMMINGS.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

The Public and the Pay.

Boston Globe: James J. Jeffries' first ring battle was for $7.50. His next one, if he fights it, may bring him something like $100,000.

John Milton sold "Paradise Lost" for $25. If he had written it today, he couldn't sell it at all.

The reason is, that pugilism is more popular than Puritanism, or than pedantry. Anything that goes over the people's heads—metaphorically, that is—is no success at taking money from their pockets.

THE WEATHER.

After rain or snow had been threatened all night, a light mist fell this morning, turning to snow later. Driven by a brisk northeast wind, it made walking decidedly uncomfortable. More snow and colder weather are promised for tonight.

A year ago today was spring-like and balmy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:40 and it will set at 5:01, giving nine hours and twenty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A storm of marked intensity has moved its center from Northwest Canada to the Upper Mississippi valley. During the past twenty-four hours it has caused much higher temperatures in the lake region and Mississippi and Ohio valley states, high winds in the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, and rain or snow in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Saskatchewan, South Dakota, the plateau region, and the Pacific and North Atlantic states. This disturbance is followed by colder weather which attends a decided rise in pressure to the estward of the one-hundredth meridian.

Indications favor somewhat colder weather and snow at the Head of the Lakes tonight, probably followed by clearing skies Thursday."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the past twenty-four hours and the minimum for the past twelve, ending at 7 a. m. today:

Accidents Cost $10,000,000.

New York World: Interesting figures as to the cost to English employers of insuring their workmen against accidents are now available for the New York state commission, which is investigating the plan with a view to its adoption there. The state of Minnesota also has a commission looking into the subject, and the National Civic Federation of America is agitating to the same end.

The objection most commonly raised against the system is that it will involve the employer in a largely increased burden of expense. The following data covering the recent workings of the compensation acts in Great Britain, do not seem to bear out that view. The average annual compensation in several trades nas been as follows:

Docks and stevedores	$6 08
Building	4.13
Engine and shipbuilding	2.92
Shipping trade	2.33
Quarries	1.91
Railways (not clerks)	1.34
Metal trades	1.52
Cotton industry	.35
Woolen industry	.18

According to the Engineer, these compensation payments in 1909 amounted to $10,000,000. But it was split up among so many employers and employes it amounted to not much in the case of any one employer. Not so much, in fact, as had been paid out under the old system, where an employe sued his employer in case of injury.

In other words, the compensation act is cheaper for the employer than the old system. So it would be in America, it is assumed

Under the compensation acts the employers do not themselves pay out the money to their men in case of accident. That is done by the accident insurance companies that bond the employers. This custom is growing in America without any legislative compulsion to that end.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Sex Education.

Chisholm Herald: The Duluth Evening Herald never discussed a more worthy question than that which it advocates concerning the teaching of the physiology and hygiene of sex in the public schools. The trouble with most of our American papers is that they do not keep continually hacking away at a subject of the importance of the above topic and soon it is lost sight of, the public forget it, and once again we are back again in the old rut. Let The Herald and, for that matter every newspaper and magazine take up this vital question and in that way will some good be accomplished, and the health, morals and spiritual welfare of our coming citizens will be raised to a higher standard than any other country on the face of the globe. "Dangerous false modesty" as The Herald styles its article is well worth consideration by everyone interested in the proper rearing of our American youth.

Watch Duluth's Smoke.

Ely Miner: Some 300 men are employed in Duluth at present on the steel plant railroad. Another month will see a force of over 1,000 at work on the railroad and bridge. The attention of some lawmakers in the southern part of the state is called to this fact. It is also well to again recall to their minds the indisputable fact that it is not alone their particular township or county that has made Minnesota the most famous state in the Union. Watch the northern end grow. Give us reapportionment and a square deal and we will take care of ourselves in good shape besides, as we are now doing, about two-thirds of the counties in the southern end of the state.

Good Practice.

Chicago Record-Herald: A Duluth ski expert has jumped 144 feet. A man who can jump that far and get down without hurting himself ought to find the aeroplane a comparatively easy thing to handle.

Correct!

Quentin in Minneapolis Tribune: Prof. Coulter of the university told the Duluth Commercial club that it costs a lot more to live in Duluth than it does to live here. But that didn't phase 'em any for you never saw a Duluthian yet who didn't think it was worth a lot more.

And Sometimes Deserve It.

Princeton Union: Two Duluth editors have been mentioned as good timber for congressional honors from this district, in a complimentary way. A mere halo is what editors usually get.—Eveleth News.

Don't they oftener get h—, brother?

Come On in. Water's Fine.

Biwabik Times: There are evidences that the range people propose to get into the county campaign in a decisive manner, thus giving Duluth another opportunity to show that its pretense of favoring the range has real foundation.

A Great Opening.

Two Harbors Journal-News: All that Duluth is saying and doing to encourage market gardening is applicable to Lake county. Conditions here are exactly the same as in St. Louis county. There is a ready market for all kinds of garden truck here, and there should be good money in the business for those who enter it with industry and good management.

Temperance Reform.

Harper's Weekly: It does not seem to us that there is any prospect that the use of alcoholic beverages will ever cease in the United States. We do not believe in compulsory total abstinence for all the people. It is not practicable, and we doubt if it would be beneficial. This opinion is not based on esteem for alcoholic beverages, or on the idea that they do people good. It is based merely on observation of the habits of mankind and on some reading. You cannot run a country on the lines of an inebriate asyium, nor treat its population like patients, who must be kept from drink at any cost, and whether they like it or not. An effort was made to do something like that in the army when the canteen was abolished. It has been a great failure and has helped very much to give our army the worst hospital record of any army in the civilized world. The most that can be done about drink, as we see the case, is to minimize its temptations, regulate and restrict its manufacture and sale, keep it out of the young, disseminate sound instruction as to its effects, favor the mild beverages rather than the stronger ones, and work out a more intelligent treatment of drunkenness and drunkards. The encouraging signs of our time anent drink are the increase of abstemiousness, and even of abstinence, among the intelligent, and the refusal of employers to tolerate drinking among workers in employments of high responsibility. Alcohol seems constantly to be better understood; and impatience with the mischief it does is increasingly deep and persistent, and effort to abate those mischiefs is ceaseless. All that is encouragine, and would be still more encouraging if the effort were more intelligent.

Do They Miss Me at Home?

Do they miss me at home—do they miss me?
'Twould be an assurance most dear
To know that this moment some loved one
Were saying, "I wish he was here;"
To feel that the group at the fireside
Were thinking of me as I roam.
Oh, yes, 'twould be joy beyond measure
To know that they missed me at home.

When twilight approaches the season
That is ever sacred to song,
Does some one repeat my name over,
And sigh that I tarry so long?
And is there a chord in the music
That's miss'd when my voice is away?
And a chord in each heart that awaketh
Regret at my wearisome stay?

Do they set me a chair near the table,
When evening's home pleasures are nigh,
When the candles are lit in the parlor,
And the stars in the calm, azure sky?
And when the "good nights" are repeated,
And all lay them down to their sleep,
Do they think of the absent and waft me
A whispered "good night" while they weep?

Do they miss me at home—do they miss me
At morning, at noon, or at night?
And lingers one gloomy shade round them
That only my presence can light?
Are joys less invitingly welcome,
And pleasures less hale than before,
Because one is miss'd from the circle,
Because I am with them no more?

—Author unknown.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Le Sourire: He—You don't know what interest I take in you.

She—I would rather have the principal.

Catholic Standard and Times: "There's Mrs. Nurich," said the first woman at the reception. "I understand her husband is at death's door."

"Sh!" cautioned the other woman; "I believe she doesn't say 'door,' but 'portochere.'"

Ideas: He—That drawing is entirely out of my head.

She—Does your head feel better?

Fliegende Blaetter: Count (to the matrimonial agent)—One other point. I am living out of the country; my intended must be shipped to me. Are your terms F. O. B. or do you pay the freight?

Boston Transcript: Young Woman Customer—I'd like some rice, please. You have different qualities, haven't you?

Grocer—Yes, miss—wedding or pudding?

Bon Vivant: "Have you heard that poor Firmin is dead?"

"No. He wasn't ill long, surely."

"Ah, you see, medicine has made great progress lately."

Harper's Bazar: Teacher—T-h-i-r-d is pronounced third, not thoid.

Chicago Tribune: The Missus—Norah, how many families have you ever worked for?

The Maid. Wurruked, is it, ma'am? I'll have you know, Mrs. Pa-arker, I've wurruked fr ivry fam'ly I ever lived with!

New York Sun: Cincinnatus arranged to be found plowing. "For 15-cent cotton and $1.25 wheat," he explained. Herewith we perceive his pose was really plutocratic.

London News: Have you ever heard tlie story of Algy and the Bear?" asked a boy of his father. "It's very short. 'Algy met a bear; the bear was bulgy; the bulge was Algy.'"

University of Minnesota: The law class was studying wills "Young gentlemen," said the instructor, "I will give you one maxim that every lawyer needs. 'Where there's a will there's a way' to break it." Class dismissed.

Puck: Startled Visitor—Gracious! What that? Must be an earthquake! The plaster is falling, too!

Mild Mater—Oh, no. It's just the boys. Two of them are sick in bed today.

Uncle Ben.

Uncle Ben has lost his job; he's lost a lot before;
Pa has to help to keep the wolf from Uncle Ben's front door;
He's out of work because he drinks, and doesn't seem to care;
His little boys would freeze unless we gave them things to wear.

One time I heard pa tellin' ma if Uncle Ben was dead
His family would be better off—they thought I'd gone to bed—
And ma told pa it was a sin to speak in such a way,
'Cause Uncle Ben might take a brace and be a man some day.

When he comes home from bein' out sometimes night after night
They have to nearly chain him down and he's an awful sight;
And pa has often said Aunt Sue could come and live with us
If she would take the children and give up the worthless cuss.

I'm sorry for my cousins, 'cause they're nearly always sad,
Exceptin' when their pa's away; folks say that it's too bad;
And aunt Sue's hair is turnin' gray; there ain't much joy for her;
Ma says that God made Uncle Ben—she don't explain what for.

The Day When the Sleepers Shall Rise.

The stars are spinning their threads,
And the clouds are the dust that flies,
And the suns are weaving them up
For the time when the sleepers shall rise.

The ocean in music rolls,
And the gems are turning to eyes,
And the trees are gathering souls
For the time when the sleepers shall rise.

The weepers are learning to smile,
And laughter to glean the sighs;
Burn and bury the care and guile
For the days when the sleepers shall rise.

Oh, the dews and the moths and the daisy-red,
The larks and the glimmers and flows,
The lilies and sparrows and daily bread,
And the something that nobody knows!

THE EVENING STORY

DARKEST JUST BEFORE DAWN

By Matt Keating.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Her father was dead—had been killed in the railroad yards while coupling cars at $60 per month. Her mother also was dead—having spent the small life insurance money in a heart-breaking dressmaking venture for which she was eminently unfitted, and then succumbed to pneumonia.

So Nina was left alone to work out the problem of life—and in its working out she had finally landed in a department store as "saleslady." True, the salary was not much—only $4 per week—but to her it was untold riches, especially when she reflected upon the status of the other girls—Jessie, Maud and Ethel and countless others who were getting only $3 for work much more abhorrent. For be it known, Nina was in the stationery department on the first floor, which was comparatively well ventilated, and she served people who had some sort of an idea as to what they wanted, while Jennie and Maud were in the bargain nation department in the stuffy, ill-smelling basement, where women shoppers, knowing not what they wanted, elbowed and fought for a vantage ground from which to paw over the stock; and Ethel was under the sidewalk in a sort of tunnel which the store had stolen from under the street, where she mechanically handed out tacks and nails to people who had pursued them to this grewsome lair.

In the meantime Nine was living with a half-sister whose husband received $50 per month for nailing covers on boxes in the shipping department of a great wholesale house. On this income he supported his wife and four pallid children, who never had seen green things grow nor smelled fresh country air.

They charged Nina $2 a week for her board and cot under the stairway—and thought it was great luck to get it. Then she paid 60 cents a week for car fare, 10 cents a week for her dues to the Saleslades' union and 10 cents per week to the Medical Aid and Burial association as a sort of insurance against sickness or death. She was driven to this latter extravagance by the gloomy forebodings of her half-sister and her husband regarding her possible, indeed probable, impending sickness and death, the query being, "Where's the money coming from to take care of you and bury you?"

The astute mathematician can easily figure that Nina had $1.10 per week with which to clothe herself and buy ice cream sodas and chewing gum. It was not a hilarious life.

In the meantime she was growing thinner and paler and more tired every week. It would have been plain to any intelligent person, were such interested in her, that she would not last long in such environments. About this time there was another addition to her sister's family, and her brother-in-law, being pressed to extremities, informed Nina that he would have to raise the price of her board to $3 per week. This was a staggering blow to the girl, already carrying far more than her fair share of burdens.

All day long in the hot, stifling store she brooded over it, wondering vaguely how in the world she was to get along at all if she handed three precious dollars to her brother-in-law each week. And then there was that muslin dress she had been coveting so fiercely for so many months—and nearly attained, too. Of course that must be given up, and all the other nice things of life. She must hereafter toil on enduringly with only the hope of paying her brother-in-law for her board and lodging and money enough over to pay car fare.

Communing thus, heart-broken and sick with fear, she staggered forth from the store to catch her car home—home, oh! what a travesty on the word—a dismal, squalid cottage, filled with the wails of neglected children, the complainings of an overworked wife, and the sordid demands of an incompetent master. Her cup indeed was full.

The gong of the street car clanged fiercely just before her, and awakened her from her reverie. She stepped quickly back and found herself directly to the path of an approaching spirited team of blacks, the control of whom the driver seemed to have lost. To go forward was to meet certain death under the iron wheels of the street car; to remain was to fall between the hoofs of the horses. On top of all her strenuous mental strain Nina collapsed and sank to the ground in a swoon.

A cry of horror went up from the passengers on the electric car and from the pedestrians on the sidewalk, all of whom expected to see the girl mangled to death beneath the ironshod team.

Even as the gasp of emotion and sympathy went up, however, a tall, athletic figure, clad in the unmistakable habiliments of the west, swung from the car, and with the precision of the trained horseman, grasped the rearing horses by the bridle reins, and with the strength and knowledge of the plains, threw them sideways with a force which made them swerve in nearly a half circle. The carriage barely touched the unconscious form of the girl as it swung around.

A second later the big man under the slouch hat had the girl in his arms like she was a baby, and was striding toward the corner drug store at a pace which would have made an ordinary man run to keep up with him.

It developed that the fainting fit was not serious at all, and was due wholly to fright and to the nervous strain the girl had been under. There was no physical injury at all, and she soon recovered.

The tall stranger, however, insisted on taking her home in a cab—she had never been in a cab before—and when he paid the cabman, he pulled from his inside pocket a roll of bills which made Nina gasp. In all her life she had never seen so much money.

Nina thanked him with an expression in her eyes that made his heart beat faster than it ever had thumped in all his life, and emboldened him to ask her if he might call, on the following evening and ascertain if there were any bad effects of the accident.

"My name is Thad Bunker," said he, came here with a few carloads of cattle. I sold 'em at a thunderin' good price, and thought I would stay over a day or two and see the sights. I'm all-fired glad I did, 'cause there didn't seem to be nobody about who knew a blamed thing about a horse—and you'd been all in in about a minute."

So he called the next night, causing almost as much surprise to Nina's sister and her husband and the various children as the cab had caused the night before. There was a wheezy and puffy old melodion in the stuffy little parlor, and Nina played for Mr. Bunker. Her playing was very indifferent, but Thad thought it was the grandest music he had ever heard, and a great desire came over him to buy a brand-new melodion and ship it to his lonesome home in Oklahoma, and then carry Nina along with him to play it for him forever. What he did, however, was to induce her to lay off from her work on the following day and show him the mysteries of the park.

It was a red-letter day in Nina's life in more ways than one. In the first place she had never laid off from work on a week day since she could remember. Nor had she ever been escorted about by a man; nor had she ever been treated to such a fine dinner in so fine a restaurant—in fact, never had money been spent for her personal pleasure. Why, he even hired a carriage and did the park in luxurious style.

All of this would have served to make the day a red-letter one in her life.

But the great thing was when he asked her to marry him and go to Oklahoma with him—assuring her that he had two sections of the best land in the territory all under cultivation and paid for, plenty of cattle and money in the bank.

And she placed her hands in his and turned to him a face so wonderfully transformed by the thrill of a new emotion, by happiness, by relief from the dreadful burden of sordidness—so transformed, in fact, that he scarcely recognized it as belonging to the wan girl he had picked from under the horses' feet.

Westerner's ways are peculiar, and Thad Bunker insisted that they should be married the next day and leave at once for home, as he wanted to know, "by ginger, what them blamed boys are doin' to the cattle." And being a big, dominant Westerner, he had his way. Before they sought the preacher the next day they went to a music store and Thad bought the most expensive melodion in the place and had it shipped by express. So it will be there by the time we git there, by ginger," said he.

And under country skies, with ample country fare and surrounded by love and respect, the roses came to Nina's face and the music sang all the time in her heart—and she worked so hard on the melodion that after a time she could really play nearly as well as her husband thought she could.

THAW'S ALIENIST IS ACCUSED OF THEFT.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Dr. C. C. Wiley, one of Pittsburg's leading physicians and an alienist for Harry Thaw during his first trial, is under $1,000 bonds to answer the charge of larceny brought by a Miss Dora Pedder. Dr Wiley was arested on Jan. 18, but the fact was not known generally.

Miss Pedder has appealed for the return of $1,400 worth of jewels she had entrusted to Dr. Wiley two years ago. In her complaint she asserts she has been trying to recover her jewels ever since. Dr. Wiley is said to have refused to tell where they are.

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"Polly of the Circus."

"Polly of the Circus."

The Lyceum will offer as its attraction tonight and the remainder of the week with matinee Saturday, Frederic Thompson's production of "Polly of the Circus." The scenes of "Polly of the Circus" are laid in a small town in the Middle West, where a circus is playing on a lot adjoining the parsonage. Polly, the principal rider, has a mishap in the ring and as there is no hospital in the town, she is taken to the clergyman's home for care. Up to that time she has known nothing of any life except that under the white top. During the long period of convalescence her artlessness makes a tremendous appeal to the clergyman who is in love before he knows it.

Frederic Thompson is today recognized as a most successful producer, having launched such big hits as "Brewster's Millions," "Polly of the Circus" and the greatest attraction in the world today, Luna park at Coney Island, New York city.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

New Orleans, La.—"I suffered with inflammation and ulceration for a long time, and had dreadful backache and a weakness. I had been under the doctors' treatment for six months and they claimed I must be operated upon. I was in bed three weeks and could not turn over on either side the pains were so bad and I was so nervous.

"Then Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by a neighbor, and I had taken it only a short time when I felt relieved and now I am a well woman. I am in fine health and feel like a young girl. I have recommended the Compound to my next door neighbor, and hope that all suffering women will try it."—Mrs. J. Wilson, 4016 Ulloa St., New Orleans, La.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it did Mrs. Wilson.

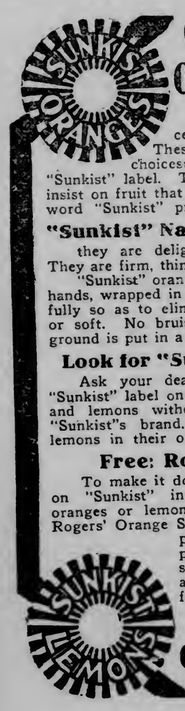

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

"MORE IMPORTANT THAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION"

Real Estate Men Discuss the Proposed Charter Amendments.

T. T. Hudson Explains the Effects the Various Changes Would Have.

"I think I am safe in saying that the city election on the charter amendments is of more importance to the citizens and property owners of Duluth, as far as direct effects on them are concerned, than any presidential election or state election," said T. T. Hudson in addressing the members of the Real Estate exchange at the Commercial club yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was well attended, over forty real estate men turning out to hear the amendments explained. Mr. Hudson was followed closely during his argument, and the expressions of those who spoke after he had concluded his address heartily indorsed the opinions expressed by him.

Mr. Hudson said in part:

"I am interested in the city government and in the rules which we will have to govern ourselves, and particularly in the charter amendments. You know that the city charter is the people's charter, and they can have it just as good or just as bad as they want it. I am sure that they would have it very good if everybody could give it the attention they should. We are so apt to let the other fellow take the interest, do the work and get the results. We are so busy with our private affairs that many matters of vital interest are neglected. Take the matter of the charter amendments, the city charter and the city election.

Of Supreme Importance.

"I think I am safe in saying that the city election on the charter amendments is of more importance than any presidential election or state election to the citizens and property owners of Duluth.

"While I have been a member of the charter commission, which has been since the commission was formed, I have always taken considerable interest in endeavoring to have the charter right as far as I understand it. Men have different notions as to what constitutes a charter that is right.

"I think the charter amendments as presented this time of considerable importance. The charter is of importance to the welfare of the city. The purpose of the charter commissioners, who have had considerable experience and have given attention and deliberation to the charter amendments, has been to try to approach the matter from the standpoint of what would be for the best interests of the city. I want to speak to you on this matter of taxation today.

"I will only say this. I will give you a little of my own experience. At the time the charter was first adopted and the first commission was appointed, it was at a time when our streets were nearly all worn out. Those that had been improved needed repairs. Many that had never been improved needed improvement. I urged strongly on the commission this principle, that we should try and arrange the matter of the cost of the improving of streets so that the cost to each property would be according to the benefits received as nearly as possible. I advocated this proposition at that time.

"Had it been so provided in the charter that no more than 50 per cent of the cost of special improvements should be assessed as special benefits, I believe it would have been all right. We had to renew streets that had been previously improved.. That would have been the right time to commence. Property actually benefited by improvements would have to pay the cost of improvements. Fifty per cent of the cost of the improvements should be assessed as special benefits and the other 50 per cent should be paid by general taxation.

"An overwhelmnig majority of the commission concluded that the abutting property had paid most of the cost of improvements and the proposition in the matter of assessments was that abutting property should pay the cost of the improvement as special benefits. The theory was that the benefit was equal to the cost of the improvement. At that time the commission believed that the cost of street intersections upon which no property abuts would be paid from general taxation. That was the theory. But subsequently, the city attorney held—I believe one case was taken to the district court as a test—that as the charter had made no provisions for raising money to pay the cost of street intersections, therefore the intention of the provision was that the property along the street should pay not only the cost of improvement in front of the lot but all of the cost of the improvement along the street. This policy has been followed since that time.

"For some time I have felt and some of the other members of the commission have felt that it would be wise to have a certain percentage of the cost of improvements paid by general taxation—that there is some benefit to the property of the city in general by the improvement of any street in the city. In framing the amendment this time we had a considerable investigation made as to the best way to make this change shifting some of the cost of the improvements so that it would not work inequitably against those who had paid all the cost of improvements in years past. I know after out storm last summer, in which there was a great deal of damage done, some of the commissioners, in talking the matter over, thought they saw a manner in which they should shift part of the burden.

"The result was that the commission, in framing Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of the amendments, which will be voted on next Tuesday, thought they would relieve abutting property of paying all of the cost of the improvements. We figured that the relief would amount to about 20 per cent of the total cost of improvements, which will be paid out of the general taxation. As I realize the matter, if persons who have property on streets to be improved are relieved of 20 per cent of the amount heretofore paid, there will be a special benefit to property to the amount of 80 per cent of the cost of the improvement. Property is actually benefited as special benefit to the extent of 80 per cent of the cost of the improvement. Take property in unimproved sections. I believe in making such improvements on those streets as the value of the property will warrant. I believe in keeping to those lines. In improving such a street the property on the street is benefited to the extent of 80 per cent of the cost and when we shift 20 per cent to general taxation. 90 per cent of it will be shifted to those who have already paid $8,000,000 for street improvements. In doing that, there is no great injustice, as other property will receive some little benefits in the shape of general benefits. Property in general should pay a part of the cost of storm sewers at least.

"We have improved up hill in this city. When we have a storm, what property is most damaged? The property that sustains the greatest damage is the property right here in the improved section of the city. The nearer you go to the lake the greater that damage is. Then you want to find out where this damage comes from. It is occasioned by a collection of surface, where up on the top of the hill there are no improved streets. Property there is not damaged at all. Remove the cause and we figure that property down here on Superior street is benefited by the means taken to prevent it. If property in this section does pay 90 per cent of the cost of removing the cause of that damage it is benefited by 90 per cent.

Storm Sewers Needed.

"There ought to be a good many storm sewers provided. When we have a great storm, streets are torn up and damaged and we spend $25,000 to $40,000 in repairing them, all paid by general taxation. We ought to take care of it beforehand and prevent damage by making provisions for taking care of the surface water. In shifting this 20 per cent of the cost of improvements to general taxation, we are but doing it in the way the charter commission has decided is as equitable a proposition as we can get at at this time."

Mr. Hudson then took up the amendments separately and explained them. In regard to the third amendment, which provides that the council may levy 1 mill for a fund for the maintenance of streets, he said the life of streets would be greatly prolonged if steps were taken to repair it as soon as repairs are needed. The whole rate, he said, may not be levied at first, but it should be provided for. He discussed the fifth amendment, that providing for the abolition of the board of public works, at some length.

"That amendment ought to be carried," he said. "It is one of the most important amendments. I mean for the interests of the tax-payers of the city of Duluth. It would have good results. It was worked out thoroughly by the charter commission in the interests of the city. The board of public works is a place in which politicians may get rid of supporters they want to reward. We have inspectors of streets. We have a horde of people who stand around with their hands in their pockets watching other people do the work and we pay them for it.

"It will accomplish this: It will put a man who is to manage the business under the control of a board of men who are not in politics for a living, who want results for anything that is undertaken. There will be a check on the department. The director of public works will bend his energies to please the board. It will be his duty to look to the interests of the city. The inspectors of streets will look after the interests of the city, not those of the contractor, for he will know that if he doesn't do the right thing by the city his head will come off.

"There will be less work. There will be just as many jobs, only that those employed must do the work when they are paid for it and must give value received for their pay. The city must be run in the same way as any private business and this department ought to have that requirement. Take the department out of politics."

In touching on the amendment providing for an increased salary for the assessor, Mr. Hudson says the city has always had difficulty in securing the right kind of a man for the place on account of the inadequacy of the salary.

In discussing the Chan Smith amendments, Nos. 7, 8 and 9, Mr. Hudson first discussed No. 7, saying that one reason the commission had never submitted that matter before was that the commission thought it had power under the charter to pave street intersections. This year, the commission has incorporated the amendment in No. 1 in addition to the provision for levying taxes to pay for the cost of street intersections. "When you have voted on No. 1, you have carried out the desires of those who favor No. 7," said Mr. Hudson.

Mr Hudson pointed out that if the last two amendments are carried, most of the cost of improving streets in outlying sections would come from general taxation. His argument followed the lines he has followed in articles published in The Herald.

After the close of Mr. Hudson's speech, C. P. Craig said: "Personally, I feel very much indebted for the clear explanation of the amendments by Mr. Hudson. I realize now what the last two amendments would mean to our companies. If they were carried, we should go in for improvements at Lakeside immediately. We could get every street out there improved, and get the signatures necessary also. We have paid some $200,000 out there in improvements already as special assessments. The last two amendments would be a splendid thing for us. I cannot support them, however. We could escape paying for a good many benefits, but I believe the amendments are bad in principle."

"I feel that this is a very important matter," said N. J. Upham. "There is one phase of it that I want to impress on the members of the exchange. That is the matter of taxation and the effect the Chan Smith amendments would have on it. The tax rates last year was 33.7 mills. The tax rate this year is 38.7 mills. The rate is to be increased 1 mill for maintenance of streets under one of the amendments. The street intersection, figured on the basis of assessments that have been made, will amount to 1.67 mills, which brings the total rate, based on this year's rate, up to 4.2 mills. We are going to be up against a proposition of a tremendous tax rate if the last two amendments are adopted and the cost of improving streets in the outlying districts, or a large part of it, is paid by general taxation. We are going to keep people away and injure the city. In addition, the heavy taxpayers will raise such a howl that it would be practically impossible to get any new work done."

Farmer Ropes Coyote.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 26.—Ole Carlson, a farmer who lives abou seven miles south of the city, brought a full grown coyote into the city. Mr. Carlson stated that one morning he heard a noise in his oat bin and on investigating found it to be this coyote. He secured a rope and roped Mr. Coyote and brought him to the city to sell.

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Physicians Say: "Don't Use Poisonous Depilatories."

The extravagant claims recently made by unscrupulous manufacturers of hair removers in sensational advertisements unquestionably justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of this class of depilatories. How many people have been enticed into using these dangerous preparations with consequent injury to themselves, cannot be estimated, but only guessed at.

The preparations above referred to are invariably in the form of creamy pastes, which are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they dry. These contain Sulphide of Barium, an insoluble chemical, which cannot be dissolved, therefore cannot be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these pasty compounds on the skin until they dry and cake and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are, why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear stronger and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair, and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. De Miracle, known all the world over as the only real superfluous hair remover, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed, and after you have used it you will note there is nothing left on the skin. It leaves the skin free from irritation, and what is more to the point, it is absolutely nonpoisonous, therefore it will not produce eczema or blood poisoning. Remember, no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no pois nous, pasty compound or other worthless concoction can reach the hair root, and we can prove it.

Beware of the fake free advertisers and others. Don't be deceived by them. Heiter take a doctor's advice. De Miracle is sold by I. Freimuth. We will send you a 52-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable treatment, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and the principal magazines. You should read this booklet before you try anything. Write to the De Miracle Chemical Co., Dept. 38, 1005 Park av., New York, Simply saying you want this booklet, and it will be mailed, sealed, at once.

COPPER MERGER WRIT DISSOLVED

Utah-Boston Plan Can Be Carried Out Without Obstacle.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 26.—Judges Lanning and Cross late yesterday afternoon filed a memorandum dissolving the injunction restraining the stockholders of the Utah Copper company from holding a meeting to pass on the question of acquiring the property of the Boston Consolidated Mining company. This decision permits the carrying out of the plan for the merger of the two companies.

The proceedings to prevent the merger were instituted by Col. Enos A. Wall and Charles W. Graham, stockholders of the Utah company, who claimed that the merger would work an injury to the Utah company and that it was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The dissolving of the preliminary injunctions removes any obstacle from the way of the Utah company carrying out the proposed merger, which it is understood is to include the absorption by the Utah company of not only the Boston Consolidated Copper company, but also the Nevada Consolidated Copper company.

ON THE IRON RANGES

PROPERTIES LOOKING UP

Development Work on the Vermilion Range Mines Is Very Encouraging.

One of Pioneers of Range Is Pleased Over Showing Being Made.

Tower Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Vermilion range properties continue showing good results of development and all concerned are each day becoming more jubilant over the outlook.

Mike Le Chance, one of the pioneers who came in over the Vermilion trail from Duluth in 1883, has been here looking over his property. It was his first visit here in twenty-two years. He owns the fee of the northwest one-quarter of section 3, 61-15, which is now being explored by the White Iron Lake Mining company, whose operations are meeting with excellent results. There is one diamond drill working on the property and a churn drill will be started in the near future, several test pits have been sunk, all showing up clean ore of a high grade. From this pit, sinking and stripping have been done for about 500 feet across the formation, all showing up well.

Old Favorite Well Pleased.

Mr. Le Chance is very much pleased with his prospects which at present tend to the possibility of his becoming a mine owner at no very distant date. Besides the hardships of a homesteader in the early days, Mr. Le Chance had a nine-years' contest on his land, consequently he is entitled to the best the land may produce.

The property joins the North American on the east and the Roy property on the west. Mr. La Brec, who has charge of the exploration work, states that there is none of the treasury stock of this company now on the market.

The shaft on the Roy property is down eighty-five feet in depth and is mostly all in ore. This is contrary to expectations for from the top of the shaft for a considerable depth the ore vein seemed to dip away from the shaft, but as progress was made it was found that the vein dips back and present indications are that ore underlays the slate on which the shaft has been sunk.

Pushing Work on Roy.

Manager McGrievey is pushing the work as rapidly as possible, a day and a night crew being employed. The company is now putting in a supply of coal to meet their demands for the time intervening between now and next year's sleighing time. This fact alone warrants the well meaning of the promoters and the likelihood that they have something in sight and that prospects at present are all they could wish.

The North American is rushing work with all possible speed. The foundation of the engine house is rapidly nearing completion; the machinery is now all on the ground and most of the square timber and other material for the proposed 1,000-foot shaft is also on hand. Work was commenced on the shaft, but has been impeded by water. This impediment cannot be removed until the machinery and pumps are installed and for the present, the work of sinking has been necessarily suspended. As soon as the obstacle is overcome, day and night crews will be put to work and operations hastened with all possible speed. A boarding house for the miners, a dryhouse and a stable are being built.

The churn drill is now in the eighth hole, and is down 109 feet. In six of the holes, iron ore was encountered, while in the other two, black slate assaying 37 per cent in iron, was found. The management are confident that they will be shipping ore from this property by next July or August.

Nordstrom a Bonanza.

The Nordstrom property in the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 2, 61-15 is considered a bonanza, according to present indications. The company having the work in charge on this property are meeting with good results. There is already a stock pile of ore on the dump and test pitting, stripping and shaft sinking on this property are going on at a rapid rate, and it is likely that it will be among the shippers next season, if railroad facilities will permit. It will be necessary that the Iron Range Railroad company extend a spur from the Ely branch, for a distance of about one and one-half miles. This piece of land has always been considered one of the most desirable iron properties in this vicinity of the Vermilion range, and the theory is being confirmed as operations progress.

Another property, which has been classed with the good ones, is the J. D. Murphy holding in the northeast quarter of section 11, 61-15, adjoining the Nordstrom on the south. Several good offers have been refused, but it is now stated that a party of Eastern capitalists will be here in the near future to close a deal which has been pending for some time. Expert mining men claim this property to show up on the surface as well as any on the range, and it is about the only prospective iron property in the vicinity on which an option has not been granted. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that Mr. Murphy is in no hurry to make a deal until he gets responsible parties to take charge of the land, and at the same time agree to his terms.

Murray Property Looking Up.

The Murray property, in the northeast quarter of section 12, 61-15, also deserves mention. The second diamond drill hole is being put down. Jasper was first encountered, then the drill passed through eight feet of ore, then through fifty feet of paint rock and is now again in ore. First orders to the management were that the drill go down 200 feet. Orders have since been changed and there is now no restriction as to the depth, so in all probability it will go down to a much greater depth.

There is a distance of 400 feet between the two diamond drill holes on this property and the third hole will be sunk between the two, as it is not known whether the paint rock overlays the ore body or whether the great body of ore may be on either side, therefore this test will be made across the vein.

The prospects so far are very pleasing to all concerned and it will probably, in fact, undoubtedly prove as the other properties are, a great body of ore.

The cab on the engine struck by the oncoming engine was smashed and the boiler twisted out of shape. The engines were put out of commission.

The cause of Mrs. Seppila leaving home is alleged to be cruelty, it being reported by neighbors that Seppila ill treated his wife on many occasions. Mrs. Seppila before departing took all the ready cash in the Seppila home, and after providing her small children with clothing and food, for the long journey, made the departure to Minneapolis via Duluth, and has as yet not been heard from.

DID NOT GO TO COLORADO

Cured of Asthma Without Climatic Change Ordered by Doctor.

His physician told Mr. Samuel Arnstein of 246 Pearl street, New York, that if he was ever to be cured of the asthma he would have to go to Colorado for a few years. Other physicians were alike unable to relieve his suffering, and Mr. Arnstein, in his dilemma, decided to investigate the Austrian ascatco treatment, which at that time, four years ago, was comparatively new in this country. He experienced a complete cure and reported a month ago that he has never had a return of the disease.

Being taken at home in small seven-drop doses, ascatco does not even interfere with regular duties and climatic change, so often advised, is never necessary. It is a constitutional treatment which has accomplished the most surprising results ever accredited to any remedy for bronchial affections. The genuine ascatco may now be procured, in both the 50-cent and $2 sizes, at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, and other leading drug stores, and a free sample will be mailed to any one who will write to the Austrian Laboratory, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

relli is friendless and pennyless they have come to his aid, by advancing him sufficient money with which to carry on his defense. The case is also of considerable local interest because of the fact that James P. Boyle and J. C. McGilvery, both of Eveleth, are the opposing attorneys.

Sparta Element in Gilbert Objects to Proposed Location.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a hot fight on here over the location of the old village hall of Sparta, which has been moved to the Gilbert townsite, and the matter may be aired in the courts. The Spartans who make up a respectable portion of the population, desire that it be located in the Sparta addition, while others want it placed on a side street, about 200 feet from the main thoroughfare. The matter will not be settled until it has been voted on in March, and perhaps carried to the courts. The Spartans claim the building was donated to them by the steel corporation and they should settle its location.

The degree team contests were instituted to stimulate interest in the work of the order among the membership. The contests were judged by a committee consisting of Judge Leckve of Hibbing, Mr. Knutson of Ely, Peter Stocky of Biwabik, and J. H. Polglaze of Virginia. The decision of the judges gave first place to the Virginia degree team with 87 2-5 points out of a possible 100. Biwabik was a close second. The Hibbing degree team failed to make a good showing owing to the illness of several of its members.

LEAP TO SAVE THEIR LIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Demoe Throw Baby Into Arms of Neighbor.

Slight Injuries Sustained in Thrilling Escape From Burning House.

When the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Demoe of 509 North Sixtieth avenue west, caught fire about 10:30 o'clock last evening, the members of the family were sleeping upstairs. Mr. De Moe tossed his baby from the second story to a neighbor standing below. Then he and his wife jumped twenty feet to save their own lives.

The members of the family had retired early and were asleep before the fire, the cause of which is unknown, broke out. Mr. Demoe awoke and started to go down stairs to investigate, but the dense smoke and flames drove him back. Then he picked up a chair with which he broke a window facing the street.

It happened that a neighbor had noticed the fire and had come over to render what assistance he might. Demoe saw him and told him to catch the baby, which he dropped from the window. Then Mr. and Mrs. Demoe crawled through the broken pane out on to a small veranda, from which they jumped to the frozen earth, twenty feet below.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Demoe were badly cut with glass. Mrs. Demoe sustained a long gash in her heel, while her husband was badly cut about the hands and face.

The damage to the home is confined to the lower floor and will amount to about $300. Firemen from No. 8 department responded to the call and the blaze was quickly extinguished.

The West Duluth firemen were called out again this morning to put out a small chimney fire at 317 North Sixty-third avenue west, the residence of Louis Sorenson. The damage was small. The alarm came in to No. 8 department shortly before 8:30 o'clock.

WILL ESTABLISH PLANT HERE

Minneapolis Welding Company Will Have a Duluth Branch.

J. W. Smith of Minneapolis, secretary-treasurer of the Northern Welding & Manufacturing company of Minneapolis, is in Duluth today looking up a site for the proposed new manufacturing and welding plant, which, he intimates, will be established at West Duluth or at the West end this year.

Mr. Smith holds the rights for the patents used in the process for the Northwest, and he stated today that the field in Duluth for a factory and repair plant of this kind looked very good. He will spend the day in the city and will probably leave this evening for Minneapolis.

"The only opposition that the project is meeting in Duluth," said Mr. Smith this afternoon, "is that the people at large will not believe the possibilities of the process that we employ. They are skeptical and have to be shown. We met the same difficulty in Minneapolis, but when the plant was established we soon secured more work than we could take care of."

With the new process, according to Mr. Smith, broken parts of machinery of all descriptions can be perfectly welded so that the old break cannot be discerned, leaving the metal with all of its original tensile strength. Broken parts of automobiles can be easily and cheaply fixed at about one-fourth of the cost of purchasing a new part.

Not only can wrought iron be welded under the patented process, but also cast iron, aluminum, steel, bronze, copper, German silver or nickel. The process is accomplished by means of a torch in which chemical oxygen and acetylene gas are combined, producing the temperature of 6300 deg. Fahrenheit.

The process was discovered about five years ago by a French inventor who holds the patents. It has only been applied commercially for the past two years, when it was introduced by the Davis Bourbon company of New York city. Mr. Smith recently secured the exclusive rights for the Northwest territory.

It is the intention of the Minneapolis concern to establish four of these factories in the Northwest. Another will probably be established in St. Paul, one in Fargo, and the other will be located in Duluth, where Mr. Smith thinks there is a good field, being in close proximity to the ranges.

J. W. Smith is a brother to E. A. Smith, druggist at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. This afternoon he stated that the plant would undoubtedly be located in this city this year.

HOT FIGHT IN THE EIGHTH

Registration Almost Equal to That for Presidential Election.

That the aldermanic fight in the Eighth ward, where the candidates are L. A. Barnes, Republican and F. H. Martin, Democrat, will be one of the warmest in the coming city election is evidenced by the fact that the registration this year in the Eighth ward was larger proportionately than in any other ward.

Another thing that leads the candidates to look for a spirited contest, is that the registration in that ward is close to the number shown in the presidential election in 1908. This is taken to mean that the voters are much interested in the outcome.

Both parties have had their workers out this week, canvassing the different precincts. The Republican club is holding meetings every week and the Eighth ward Democrats are planning on frequent gatherings between now and election day.

BETTER TONE TO COPPER MARKET

Shorts Covering and Taking Profits---Quiet Session in Duluth.

A desire on the part of shorts to close up trades and a feverish buying activity by professionals caused a strengthening all along the line today in the copper market as well as in railroads and industrials.

An announcement that added to the buying movement was an official statement that a copper merger of mines in the Butte district will be formed, composed of Amalgamated, Anaconda, Boston & Montana, Butte & Boston, Washoe, Trenton and other subsidiaries of Amalgamated, North Butte and Butte Coalition. The stock of Anaconda will be increased preparatory to the formation of the merger.

Whether or not the liquidation that has been in progress for several days has run its course is problematical. It seems likely that the bottom has been reached, but it is not believed that the upturn will be pronounced until the political situation clears.

The local market was quiet and there were few bids. The general tone was confident.

Amalgamated opened at $80, declined ⅛ point and advanced on heavy buying to $83. Giroux sold at $9.87½, off to $9.50 and up to $10; Greene at $9.50, up ⅝ point; North Butte at $41, up 2 points and back ⅛ point; Butte-Ballaklava at $11; Calumet & Arizona at $66 to $68, down to $66.50, up to $69.50, off ½ point and then to $70, down 1 point and back to $70 and toward the close to $69.62½. Ojibway sold at $9.25, up to $9.50. Superior & Pittsburg was traded in at $12.25 up to $14. Steel common advanced from $83.87½ to $84.12½.

In the local market Butte Ballaklava sold at $12, $11 and $11.25. Cactus was traded in at $5 and $5.25, Live Oak at $19.12½, Red Warrior at $3.75 and $3.50, Shattuck at $20 and $20.12½, Butte & Superior at $2.62½, Calumet & Corbin at 9 cents, Calumet & Sonora at $23.50, $23.25 and back to the opening, Keating at $1.87½ and $2, Tuolumne at $3.18¾ and $3.25, St. Mary's at 32 cents.

Word has been received in Duluth that the dispute between North Butte and Tuolumne as to the ownership of the Jessie vein has been settled, from the viewpoint of Tuolumne at least, by the discovery of the Jessie vein by a drift north from the north ledge of the Tuolumne property. The drift is on the 1,000-foot level and it encountered the Jessie vein of the North Butte property, timbered for mining, at a distance of sixty-five feet from the north vein of Tuolumne. On the surface the two veins are about 300 feet apart so that it is assumed that they join at a depth of about 1,200 feet, or 1,400 feet on the North Butte property which is on higher ground than the Tuolumne.

The supposition is that the two veins meet not only on tie dip but on the strike and that the entire ledge after the union belongs to Tuolumne as the result of prior location. The discovery of the Jessie vein refutes the claim that Tuolumne was taking ore from North Butte property. It is evident that there are two ledges in the Tuolumne shaft and there appears to be no doubt of ownership.

He sued for the profit on boxes he would have furnished at the rate of 40,000 boxes a month for six months and for the depreciation in value of 1,300,000 feet of lumber which he claimed to have purchased in expectation of fulfilling the contract. About $10,000 is involved in the action.

Holm, formerly assistant postmaster at Sandstone, who was acquitted at this term of court on a charge of falsifying the records of the office, and was rearrested on a charge of embezzlement, was released from the county jail today, bonds in the sum of $500, having been furnished. He will be tried at the next term of court in July.

The road was knocked down to Charles A. Olen of Chicago for $67,999.08. It is understood Olen represents a committee of Walsh creditors.

FORESEE FALL OF THE ENGLISH UNIONISTS.

London, Jan. 26.—The election to parliament of 18 Liberals, 17 Unionists, 2 Nationalists and 1 Laborite, with one seat for Sutherlandshire still to be heard from, makes up the 39 results left over from yesterday's balloting. Out of these contests, the Unionists gain five seats and the Liberals two.

With only seventy-one pollings remaining to complete the membership of the house of commons the parties stand thus: Government coalition—Liberals, 231; Irish Nationalists, 74; Laborites, 38. Opposition—Unionists, 225.

Deducting the eight Nationalists still to be returned, the election prophets calculate that the remaining seats will be so divided as to give the Liberal and Laborite parties combined a majority anywhere from 15 to 30 over the Unionists. The Unionists' gains to date are 116, the Liberals 18 and the Laborites 1.

WHITE BEAR MAN FLIES

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John O. Johnson, a boat builder at White Bear lake, is the Northwest's first practical aviator. In an aeroplane, which he constructed himself, along original lines, Mr. Johnson made a flight of about 200 feet over the lake yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a little crowd, and though it ended with a slight accident when he provides the machine with a lighter motor he will be able to get into the class with the Wrights, Bleriot, Paulhan and others.

Assisted by his son and several other youngsters, Mr. Johnson pushed his aeroplane out on the ice for the first attempt. A place had been cleared on the ice, for Mr. Johnson's machine starts from the ground on runners, not wheels, and when the inventor had taken his seat in the machine a half dozen youngsters took hold of the long planes and gave it a push. The operator started the engine, the wind caught the planes and the machine rose into the air.

Engine Failed to Work.

But triumph was short lived. He had covered a distance of about 150 to 200 feet at an altitude of about twenty feet when the engine began to miss fire. Desperately Mr. Johnson worked to obtain a regular spark, but to no avail.

The aeroplane began to descend slowly. The propeller ceased to revolve and the giant wings were the only thing that saved the inventor from serious injury on the ice. The planes were so arranged that by manipulating a wire the inventor was able to tip the wings in such a manner that they yielded just the right resistance to the air, and the force of the fall was broken. Nevertheless the big machine hit the ice hard enough to shatter the propeller and the rudder and break the runners, so that another attempt, without repairs, was impossible.

Far from being discouraged, Mr. Johnson was elated with what he called his "first success."

Andrew J. Williams, who was twice elected president of St. Paul Typographical union, No. 30, is dead at Luther hospital, St. Paul. Mr. Williams had been sick two months. He was 42 years old, was a delegate to the national convention of the union in Denver in 1906, and was a member of the executive board of the union ten years. He was employed on the St. Paul daily papers.

GLAVIS IS THE FIRST TO TALK

Washington, Jan. 26.—With Senator Nelson of Minnesota presiding, the congressional inquiry into the matters concerned in the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy began in earnest this afternoon at 2:37 o'clock, with Louis R. Glavis on the witness stand.

Glavis, the first witness called, is the dismissed field agent who preferred charges against Secretary Ballinger in connection with the Cunningham coal claims in Alaska. Glavis sent the charges direct to President Taft, and the latter, after considering them, wrote a long letter to Mr. Ballinger, declaring that the latter had been unjustly attacked, and that Glavis should be immediately separated from the service.

Since his dismissal Glavis has carried on an unrelenting campaign against Secretary Ballinger by means of interviews and signed articles in various publications.

It was in connection with the preparation of the Glavis charges against Secretary Ballinger that Gifford Pinchot was drawn directly into the controversy.

Mr. Glavis will be represented throughout the hearing by two attorneys, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston and Joseph B. Colton of New York. Messrs. Pinchot, Shaw and Price are collectively represented by George W. Pepper, an attorney of Philadelphia.

COMISKEY RELYING ON WALSH TO PUT WHITE SOX IN RACE FOR AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

Ketchel Turns Down a Big Offer From Australia--Other Live Sporting Gossip.

(BY BRUCE)

What will big Ed Walsh do the coming season?

If you can answer that question, you can get some money from Old Roman Comiskey.

The gray-haired wizard of the American league is just naturally pondering over the manner in which the endurance hurler will throw them over in the season that is just coming out of the long hibernation.

The year before last Walsh proved the wonder of the two major leagues. He worked in something like sixty games. He was the life of the White Sox just as Christie Mathewson has been the life line of the Glants all these seasons.

Last season there was a change. The Walsh party was much dissatisfied with the way Comiskey treated him. He believed he should have received a substantial increase in salary and a handsome bonus for the way he kept the Sox in the race, all through the exciting season of 1908.

Now Commy is a man who has always enjoyed the reputation of treating his players in a royal manner. When his team won the world's championship from the chesty Cubs, Commy gave a gladsome sigh and dug deep into the pockets of his trouserettes and pulled his hand forth with something like $15,000 in real money.

He divided this money among his players. The next spring he also took them for a "tower" through old Mexico and a few other places which some of the recruits on the Comiskey special had never heard of.

No, Comiskey has never earned the reputation of being a man stingy with the goods of this world. Therefore the kick of Big Ed fell upon unsympathetic ears. But never the less Walsh refused to report at the beginning of last season. He came out of it later, but his work throughout the season was not of the same brilliant standard as his work of the year before.

The Sox without Walsh would be like a tank town "opery" company without a kitteish soubrette. That is the reason the old Roman is wondering how Edward will perform the coming season. If Ed is like the little girl with the mid-forehead curl, when she is good, then Commy may have some hops of making a brave fight for the pennant. If, on the contrary, the human steam engine is like the little girl when she was feeling in a real saucy mood, Commy will have to develop some very good hurlers to overcome the loss.

Walsh is one of the greatest twirlers who ever stood on the rubber and waited for the signal of the catcher. He had everything the season he made his wonderful record. Speed, curves, spit ball delivery and control were all owned by the big boy. Maybe Walsh attempted to do too much in that season; perhaps he has overtaxed his wonderful strength. Such a thing is easily possible.

Comiskey has a raft of new material to try out the coming season. He is going to set his new manager, Hugh Duffey, on the job. Some of the veterans will have to go. But there is one man that Comiskey hopes has some more wonderful baseball in his system —that man is Edward Wizard Walsh.

Walsh is an Appollo in physical beauty—leaving his phiz out of the argument. He has a body that would make Jack Johnson or his publicity rival, James Jackson Jeffries, turn a near-Paris-green color. He is big and fast and wonderfully strong. He has been called the strongest man in baseball, and that is not forgetting Piano Mover Smith of the same team. He is one of the great characters of the great national game, and great characters of baseball are becoming scarce, like overhead electric signs.

Therefore, and for that reason, Georgia, it is to be hoped that Walsh, like Christie Mathewson, will remain an ornament to the game for some seasons to come.

It seems almost impossible—yet it happened—what? Stanley Ketchel refusing an offer of $10,000.

Hugh McIntosh was the man behind the currency. He wants Ketchel to come to Australia and fight three men. That is odd, of course,—fighting three men—but then there is money in it.

Hugh Mac wants Stanley to fight Tommy Burns and one Bill Lang. The third of the bloody trio is an unknown. No one seems to savvy the reason why Ketch won't accept the offer of the kindly McIntosh party.

Hugh Mac has done much for the down-trodden pug. He has assisted in making Tommy Burns, the J. P. Morgan of the leather workers. He has also assisted in making Jack Johnson the champion of the world. He has also made Bill Lang the champion of Australia. Ketchel should get wise to the helping hand of the Australian promoter and take the trip to the land of the Kangaroo.

But Stanley has an idea in his head. When a prize fighter has an idea, it is best to go quietly out of the room and let him alone. It won't last long. He wants to fight Tom Thomas, the middleweight champion of England. George Gunther, the former resident of Duluth, also desires devoutly to get a crack at the man posing as the greatest ever.

Stev- had best hurry if he wants to annex the glory of beating the best middleweight man in England. Bill Papke is also on the trail of the Thomas person. That is one of the reasons why Ketchel can't see that $10,000 he wants to get Thomas first.

In these days of the afternoon and evening receptions to the almighty dollar, it does seem passing strange to hear of a man turning down a big crowd like 10,000 of those iron men. Money has come easy to Ketchel since those days and nights, too, in dear, old Butte. He is broke once in a while, but there is always a way to get the money. He forgets.

Young Corbett used to behave in the same way. Then there came a time when the wine and the manners of the great white way told the old story. Corbett was broke. He said, said he: "I'll go out and clean up another roll." Well, the old stamina wasn't there and he found that his roll-gathering days were frolics of the past. Poor Steve Ketchel will one of these days discover the same sad fact. There is really nothing new about it, but it seems that each fighter must discover it for himself. And there you are. Some day Ketchel may look back and ponder o'er the fact that he passed by and wouldn't even nod to Miss Forty-thou'. Foolish boy. But, gee! anyway it is great to be young and not to care —for awhile.

Just listen to the tale I tell—as "Noodles" Fagan has it.

This tale is the tale of—not a kangaroo—but of Joe Woodman, the manager of stubby Sam Langford, the hard luck fighter.

He tells, in a weepy voice, of the efforts of Sam to break into swell pugilistic society. None of the white fighters will mingle with Sam. They don't tell him to go and acquire a reputation; oh, no, nothing like that; they just naturally avoid him, like a colored man with a leghorn under his well-worn coat avoids the more beaten paths of travel.

It is so, and it has been so for some time past. Sam is so good that no one wants to fight him. Of course it is no disgrace to be beaten by a good man—but it hurts, nevertheless.

There is not a white or black heavyweight in the ring today who will mix with Samuel Adams Langford. Therefore he is going to Europe. He will fight in the countries where they look upon the black battler with an eye of admiration. He will go to France, where they shout "vive la noir," whatever that means. He will fight Sam McVey and Joe Jeannette. Sam liked this country. He is a very good disciple of Roosevelt. He has a big family and does not believe in race suicide—neither do the fellows whom Sam wants to fight. Therefore, they do not fight him. It is an argument that plays both ways.

Sam can't afford to starve, and besides, has a large family to fight the wolf with. He must gather in the sheaves while the gathering is fairly good. He can't fight always—maybe not at all, if the others have their way. He must seek matches, and he is going away. Goodby.

LA CROSSE HAS STRONG TEAM

New Material Makes Outcasts Loom Up Like Pennant Winners.

La Crosse does not intend to get away to a bad start the coming season. The officials of the John Gunds intend to have the team in the hunt for the pennant from the opening of the season of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league until the closing game. Manager Joe Safford is very busy at the present time signing players and expects to have a very strong team to try out this spring.

Of the players with the club last year, it is expected that Joe Safford, Eddie Kline, J. T. Malloy, Ollie Gregory, F. Schriner, Roy Klein, Joe Wolford, Charles Watson and Fred Doll will be with the Saffordites the coming season.

In addition to these players Henry Berens and C. C. Gibbons, infielders, have been signed. Walter Jenson, a crack first baseman from the Twin Cities, and George Kromer, who led the Lake Shore league last season as a fielding first baseman, have been secured. Orville Turner, a pitcher; Merle Spade, a pitcher who jumped the La Crosse team last season, and Harry Tracey, well known in this city, have also been signed by the team.

With the new material, in addition to some players that Safford has in sight, and the men who kept La Crosse in the fight last season, it is expected that the Winona team will be very strong at the start of the season.

BIG DULUTHS WIN CONTEST

Clash of Leaders Results in Defeat of Last Year's Champions.

Cummings and Taylor Star---Scoring All of the Points Made.

Last night's hockey game between the crack teams of the Big Duluth and the Northern Juniors was a duel between Earl Cummings, star center of the former team, and Asher Taylor, the brilliant high school wing of the Northerns, in which Cummings secured four goals to his younger rival's three.

Two of the most brilliant and speedy players in the City Amateur Hockey league, these two boys have been distinguishing themselves in all of the games played this season. A great contest was looked for when the two teams met and those who saw the contest were not disappointed. Although Cummings and Taylor starred, every man on the ice played hard and well and assisted in making the game close and interesting.

The Big Duluths won the first clash with their rivals, though at the close of the play last night the Northerns were playing the stronger game. Judging from the play last night, there is little to choose between the two teams. Caulkins, rover of the Northern Juniors, was dazed last night and this accident undoubtedly had its effect on the playing of his team, as well as impairing the usefulness of Caulkins. It was shortly after the injury to Caulkins that the Big Duluths began to show better form than the Northerns. It looked like an easy victory for the Big Duluths, until the Northerns recovered their form and began to creep up on their rivals.

During the first part of the game the Northerns kept the puck in the danger zone of the Big Duluths. Seyfert, Duluth's goal tender, was narrowly missed. At the end of about the first ten minutes of play Caulkins was struck over the eye and dazed. Shortly after this Cummings carried the puck almost the length of the ice and shot the first goal of the game. Five minutes later he scored a second time.

Five minutes after the second half had started the Northerns shot their first net, Taylor taking a clever shot by a piece of dashing play. Encouragement was turned into dismay for the followers of the Northerns when Cummings shot two more goals shortly after the first goal for the Northerns had been registered.

With the score of 4 to 1 in favor of the Big Duluths the champions of last year braced and began a game up-hill fight.

The puck was continuously in the territory of the Big Duluths and Taylor shot two goals with only a minute intervening. The last net was registered with only a minute of the game remaining. The Northerns were traveling at top speed when the final whistle blew.

The result of last night's game does not decide the better team, in the opinion of the majority of the followers of the Northern Juniors. The first part of the game the winners played the better game, and during the last part of the contest the Northerns showed a marked superiority. The next meeting of the two teams will be looked forward to with interest.

The Hunter's Parks and the Fairmonts will clash Friday evening.

The lineup in last night's game was:

Big Duluth.	Position.	Nor. Jrs.
A. Woods	goal	Feetham
Kelly	point	Fenton
G. Wood	cover point	R. MacCrea
Bartlett	center	McFadyen
Cummings	rover	Caulkins
Wharton	right wing	Taylor

Referee, Roy Deetz; time of halves, 20 minutes; timekeepers, Clyde Fenton, Swanstrom. Goals—Cummings, 4; Taylor, 3. Penalties—Fenton, 1 minute; R. MacCrea, 1 minute.

BOWLING SCORES

The Fitwells won three straight games from the Big Duluths last evening. In none of the games did the winners find it necessary to extend themselves. Sam Olson rolled the high score of the evening, 243, and also secured the high average of 214. The score:

TO KEEP TROPHY ANOTHER YEAR

Duluth Curlers Win Last Game For the Manley-McLennan.

The rinks representing the Duluth Curling club last night won an easy victory over the West Duluth curlers for final possession of the Manley-McLennan trophy. The West Duluth men were twenty-two down when the contests were finished. The games were played at the rink of the Western Curling club, West Duluth.

The trophy has been held by the uptown men for the past ten years.

The scores:

Brewer, 13; Zauft, 8.
Whyte, 16; McCauley, 13.
Currier, 17; Ihlis, 7.
Pugh, 11; Meldrum, 7.

With the big bonspiel and the match games out of the way, the time of the curlers at the uptown rink will be devoted from this time on to getting the local events run off. The season is now getting short. But few games have thus far been played, and some tall hustling must be done to get the remainder of the contests out of the way before the ice breaks up. The play of forfeit rule will be enforced.

The drawing for Thursday evening follow:

REPORT THAT FIGHT WILL BE CALLED OFF.

New York, Jan. 26.—A report that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will shortly be declared off on account of the dispute between Rickard and Gleason as to the place where it is to be held, was current in New York today.

Many sporting men said that if a clash between the promoters occurred the rival pugilists would likely take sides. It was pointed out that Jeffries had been reported as in league with Gleason many weeks ago, while Rickard was supposed at the same time to have secured assurances of Johnson's support. Neither of the pugilists is in the city at this time, and Rickard and Gleason are on the Pacific slope.

JOHNSON IS INELIGIBLE.

Star Guard of High School Basket Ball Team Out for Season.

Authorities of the Central high school have decided that Johnson, the star guard of the crack high school basket ball team is ineligible, preventing his playing in the game with Nelson-Dewey high school in the Superior high school gymnasium, Friday evening.

It is expected that the game with Nelson-Dewey will be a very hard game and the loss of Johnson will reduce the chances of the Duluth boys for victory. Nelson-Dewey is reported to have the best basket ball team on the other side of the bay, and the loss of Johnson may mean the defeat of the local high school team.

Kelly will take Johnson's place. He has been playing as substitute this season and is considered a sure and hard player. Whether he will be able to fill acceptably the place of the disqualified player remains to be seen.

The barring of Johnson is unfortunate, coming as it does just before the hard game with the Nelson-Dewey team. The chance to win the interscholastic state championship has also been lessened by the barring of the star player.

HOLMES DISPUTE DECIDED.

National Commission Orders Waco, Tex., Club to Return Draft Money.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 26.—The national baseball commission today decided that the Waco, Tex., club must refund the $500 draft money received from the Brooklyn club for player R. H. Holmes.

A previous finding of the commission had vested title to Holmes in the New York club of the National league over the protest of the St. Paul club of the American Association. The commission therefore declared the draft by the Brooklyn club illegal and ordered the refund.

Today's work consists of comparing American and National league schedules to avoid conflicting dates.

London, Eng., Jan. 26.—Matty Baldwin of Charlestown won the decision over Owen Moran of England at the end of twelve rounds of a close fight last night. Baldwin roughed it through the early part of the bout and did some heavy hitting, while Moran proved the cleverer in blocking and clean hitting.

Ski Slide at Branch.

The officers of the Duluth Boat club have had men at work for several days preparing a ski slide down the bank of the valley at Spirit Lake branch and visitors to the branch will have an opportunity of enjoying the sport for the remainder of the winter. There is no skating or ice boating at the branch and visitors should take their skis along.

GOVERNOR RETURNS.

"Get Together" Meet of State Officials to End Insurgency.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Immediately upon the return of Governor Eberhart from Washington yesterday a conference was held in his office, attended by the state officials. Julius Schmahl, S. G. Iverson, Clarence D. Dinehart, C. F. Staples, Iver B. Mills and C. B. Elmquist were present.

The meeting was executive, but it is understood that a "get together" of the Republicans of the state was warmly desired. If the meeting bears fruit, as at present expected, it may mean the death of insurgency as such in this state, though it will not mean that insurgency principles are to be forsaken. The tariff will quietly be laid on the shelf and the matter left in the hands of the proposed tariff commission.

WIRELESS ON STEAMERS.

F. G. Moe Gets Contracts With Companies for Service Next Season.

F. G. Moe, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the United Wireless Telegraph company here, returned to Duluth yesterday from the East with a bunch of contracts for the installation of wireless instruments on many boats on the Great Lakes, including the North West and the North Land, the two big passenger ships of the Northern Steamship company; the entire fleet, both freight and passenger, of the Anchor line; the wrecking tug James Whalen of Port Arthur; four ships of the Algomah Central Steamship company, and the entire fleet of the Inland Navigation Company of Canada.

A hallelujah wedding was held at the Salvation Army headquarters, 22 East Second street, last night, when Miss Agnes L. Martin and James Williams were married. Both are members of the Army. Maj. Percy Williams of Milwaukee performed the ceremony.

Songs were sung and speeches felicitating the bride and groom were made. Many guests and the band went to 421 East Fifth street, where Mr. and Mrs. Williams will live. Dinner was served there.

Mr. Williams was recently appointed to take charge of the Army's relief store in Superior.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

GILBERT MAKES PERFECT SCORE IN HIGH WIND.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 26.—The high wind interfered somewhat with the shooting at the Sunny South handicap yesterday, although Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Iowa, broke 130 targets and did not score a miss. Livingston was also high amateur at the same score.

Harry Dunnell of Fox Lake, Ill., won the Chronicle cup. Dunnell shot a total of 225 on Monday and missed only five.

Capt. Tom Marshall of Kelthsburg, Ill., is agitating the matter of sending a squad of American amateur shooters to the Olympic games next season.

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

There is no way to cure Catarrh except to purify the blood, and thus do away with the cause. The symptoms may be benefited by the use of washes, inhalations, sprays, medicated tobaccos, etc., and through the use of such treatment catarrh sufferers receive temporary relief and comfort. External and local measures however cannot have any effect on the blood, and therefore their use alone is of no real curative value. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and comes as the result of catarrhal matter and other impurities in the circulation. These morbid matters in the blood cause an inflammatory and irritated condition of the mucous membrane or tissue lining of the cavities of the body, producing an unhealthy secretion, ringing noises in the ears, stuffy feeling in the head and nose, headaches, hoarseness, bronchial affections, watery eyes, etc. S. S. S. is the best treatment for Catarrh because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. This medicine removes every particle of the catarrhal impurity from the circulation, making this vital fluid pure, fresh and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, because they are nourished with pure, health-giving blood, every symptom disappears, and soon S. S. S. produces a perfect cure. S. S. S. does not contain any habit-forming drugs, which really never can cure Catarrh, but often ruin the health. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

STRENGTH IS RETAINED

Strong Demand From the Millers Keeps Wheat Prices Firm.

May Flax Scores an Advance of 6 Cents Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 26.—The wheat market retained its strength today, a firmness which developed late yesterday on an exaggerated rumor that James A. Patten had begun to bull wheat. The Patten report was not a market factor today.

Today's strength was due to the excellent milling demand, reflected in the strong position of the Minneapolis market, the lack of supplies at Duluth, the firm position of the cash market, and the good foreign demand which was particularly strong on the continent due to floods in France and colder weather.

May wheat opened $1.12⅝, went to $1.12⅞, off ⅛c, then to $1.13 and off ⅛c, closing $1.12⅞ bid. May flax opened $2.10½ bid, jumped to $2.17, was off 2c and up to 2c, closing at $2.17. Wheat was active and flax dull.

Cables were fractionally higher on reports from France that floods had rendered thousands homeless and that food supplies were scarce. Reports from Argentina were also bullish. The weather throughout Europe was colder, causing an increased demand for food. The French situation is said to be acute and the government is purchasing supplies for the destitute thousands.

Cables were also influenced by the bullish reports from Argentina, which, however, received little attention on this side. Le Count cabled his final export on the Argentine surplus at 80,000,000 bu. He said the damage by locusts is not serious and that the crop will be an average one. Wheat, he said, is heavily stacked and the interior movement is light, but that a heavy movement is expected soon. Slaughter received a cable from Rosario saying that wheat exports will be smaller next month and that there are few sellers. Guesses on the Argentine surplus do not now receive much credit in this country and the market was not directly influenced by Le Count's latest. Domestic factors predominate, however.

The cash market was strong, St. Louis experiencing an advance of 1c. Supplies have been coming in heavily to Southwestern markets but the milling demand has been good and all available stocks have been absorbed. Minneapolis is receiving heavy shipments compared with last year but despite the inflow of wheat the mills are taking practically all in sight. Spot wheat in Minneapolis today sold at 1½@2¼c over May. Nearly all of the available supply in Duluth is in the hands of millers and the lack of receipts, compared with the heavy demand, caused this market to be even higher, generally, than Minneapolis which was the determining market in the country today.

The flour shipments this month will reach the largest total in several years. The flour demand continues good and although no heavy sales are being made the daily bookings are good. Liberal receipts have not depressed the market as the millers are steady buyers.

The export demand, said Ames-Brooks, was fairly healthy. The supplies in the East are rapidly decreasing and the lack of supplies here puts this market in a strong technical position. It was about 2c over Chicago today. The Chicago market was somewhat nervous, professionals being inclined to sell on the bulges. Considerable long wheat came out on the fractional upturns and the markets all over the country pursued a fairly even trend, the range of prices being narrow. The undertone was firm, although the bears were confident that with a slackening in the foreign demand and weaker cash markets the future options would suffer a decline. They still hold to the belief that receipts will force down the cash position. The export demand from Duluth today was principally in Canadian and durum.

Elevator companies in the Northwest report the movement of grain moderate and steady. The roads are in good shape but the farmers are still marketing grain conservatively. The American Society of Equity expects prices to hold strong.

The difference between the Chicago and the Northwestern markets is due, probably to the fact that the millers have taken the place of Chicago speculative interests as the leading bull factors in the market. Some Minneapolis traders do not believe that the mills own most of the supplies at Minneapolis and the pit element is inclined to sell. Canadian flour is 20c lower than last week.

Despite today's bulge the bears are still hopeful. They point to the fact that the bull edge is off stocks, cotton, most cereals, provisions and farm products, generally. A wave of uneasiness, they say, is spreading through the speculative trade. Prices on everything are high and wheat is regarded as having more stability than other commodities, but they believe that it, too, will succumb to the general declining tendency.

The flax market was quiet, not more than 5,000 bu being traded in up to noon and very little afterward. The action was speculative, there being practically no offers. Flax receipts compared with last year are light. The total movement to this market since last September has been about 15,500,000 bu, and some traders look for receipts of about 2,500,000 bu between now and Sept. 1.

Durum was ½c over yesterday, oats ⅛c off, rye and barley unchanged, and cash sold on a parity with May. The high quotation for durum was 99¾c.

In view of the recent utterances of Stephen H. Jones, president of the Duluth board of trade, relative to intensive farming and the securing of more Canadian grain for export through Duluth and for consumption by the United States, the following recent remarks by Sidney Fisher, minister of agriculture for Canada, as quoted in the Manitoba Free Press, are of interest:

"Ten years ago the three Western provinces raised only 23,000,000 bu of wheat. Last year they raised 147,000,000 bu, and there has been a proportionate increase in other grains. It was a satisfaction to know that among the newer countries of agricultural production Canada stands pre-eminent in the quality as well as the quantity of production. Nevertheless, a word of caution was necessary, for, while we stand pre-eminent amongst the newer countries, we are far behind the scientific agriculture of the older nations of Europe."

After giving comparative figures as to production, to the disadvantage of Canada as compared with France, Germany and other countries, Mr. Fisher said: "This leads me to say a word about our agriculture in general, and I fear that I have here to cast a reproach upon the people of this country. There is much excuse, there is much reason for it, but at the same time our farmers are not doing what they might easily do, and what, if they avail themselves of the information that is laid freely at their feet, they could do."

Mr. Fisher spoke of the time, fast approaching, when the United States will cease to be the wheat exporting country, and made an estimate as to what Canada should be able to do in the way of production when that time the way of production when that time comes. His estimate was that there is available in the Canadian West probably about seven times as much land as was under cultivation last year and if Canadians are able to keep up the average of production, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will some time in future produce 1,000,000,000 bu of wheat, or about one and a half times the production of the United States.

Referring to the high quality of the wheat grown in the northern latitudes, Mr. Fisher said that the flourmakers of the world over will for all time have to come to Canada for high-grade wheat for mixing purposes. This, because the best wheat is grown in northern latitudes, means a great deal for Canada. Mr. Fisher said that the Dominion will wish to encourage people to go out West with the idea that they would make their fortunes, it seemed to him that at the present prices of the land any one ought to be able to make a net profit of from $8 to $10 in farming in the West.

Chicago wired—"A message from New York state reports Ohio is asking for bids for corn for Eastern shipment, the first time in thirty or forty days. Acceptances of corn by Eastern industries are heavy."

* * *

Minneapolis wired—"Commision houses report of grain in transit mixed. Some houses well caught up on their delayed consignments while others have the stuff to come in."

* * *

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool cable said—"Wheat and corn affected upwards by advices from your side. Wheat firm on continental demand. No pressure to sell. Corn firm with better demand."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"The wheat market at the opening was favorably affected by the unexpected firmness in America yesterday and futures showed an advance of ¾@¾d. Later and during the remainder of the morning offerings were extremely light and shorts excited which resulted in an additional advance of ½d@¾d. Support was attributed to the fact that Argentina steamers loading have advanced their price 1½d and there was an active demand at the advance. Reports are current here of further damage regarding the quality of the Argentina crop and arrivals from the interior continue light. Another bullish feature was the strength in French markets resulting from the scarcity of supplies and further rains there which are increasing the flood damage. At midday the market was strong and from 1½d to 1¾d higher than yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later buying power developed with offerings light and shorts nervous and values advanced ¾d to ⅞d. Strength was due to the sharp advance in American offers, very cold weather here which is increasing consumption and the demand."

* * *

Concerning yesterday's report that Patten was bulling wheat, B. E. Baker received the following today from the Chicago speculator: "I think we are going to see nothing but a scalping market in wheat for some time. I am not bullish at heart. There is plenty of wheat in the country."

* * *

Minneapolis received forty-two cars of flax today compared with twenty-eight last year.

Minneapolis shipped 59,839 barrels of flour today.

Foreign markets closed today as follow: Liverpool—Wheat, ¾d to 1⅛d higher; corn ⅜d to ½d higher. Paris—Wheat unchanged; flour ½c to 1¼c higher. Antwerp—Wheat unchanged. Berlin—Wheat ⅛c higher. Budapest—Wheat, ⅝c higher. Liverpool opening—Wheat, ⅞d higher; corn, ½d higher.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Cables Strengthen Wheat, But Prices Ease Off Later.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—A governing factor in wheat today was the strength of foreign cables, which told of an advance in grain values in Liverpool and of higher premiums for La Plata cargoes. As a result, wheat prices here opened a shade to ⅝c higher. Some commission buying on the swell brought out a quantity of long holdings and for a few minutes the trading was rapid, the market easing off to nearly the closing figures of yesterday. Trading in the first hour kept practically within the opening range. The figures at the outset for May were a shade to ⅜@½c higher at $1.11@1.10⅝.

Prices see-sawed in the last half of the session, May selling between $1.11¼ and $1.09¾. The close was strong with May up ⅝c at $1.11⅜@1.11¼.

Corn at the opening ranged a shade lower to ⅜c higher, and under the influence of liberal selling gradually declined over a range of ⅜@¾ cents. Bearish sentiment gained impetus from the mild weather and increased arrivals. May sold down to 67c from 67⅜c. At the opening, May was a shade lower to ¼@⅜c higher at 67⅜@67¾c.

The market held comparatively firm on the low levels, later in the session, May selling off from 67⅜@66¾c. The close was weak with May ⅜@½c off at 67c.

General selling in the oats pit in the first hour changed an advance of ⅛@⅜c into a net decline of ¼c. As in the corn pit, prospect of large receipts had a bearish tendency. May sold off from 47⅜@47⅝c after opening at ¼@⅜c up at 47⅜@47⅝c.

Provisions, influenced by the light run of live hogs at the opening at packing centers, opened with futures generally 5c lower to 2c higher, a noticeable demand for lard giving firmness to the market, which continued on buying, gaining strength in the first hour. Opening prices on the May products were: Pork, $20.47½ to $20.55; lard, $11.55@11.60; ribs, $11.17½@11.25.

RAPID RISE IN STOCKS

Furious Buying Caused Volatile Upshoot in All Quarters of List.

Prices Receded From Best, Except for Coppers, Near the Close.

New York, Jan. 26.—Furious buying of stocks at the opening today caused a volatile upshoot of prices in all quarters of the list. The rush to buy was even more hasty and indiscriminate than was the selling to unload in yesterday's market. The eagerness of uncovered shorts to close their contracts was an important element in the movement of prices. Gains ranging from a fraction to two points were universal and in the most important stocks were more sensational.

In Consolidated Gas there was a jump of 4¾; Utah Copper, 4; Chesapeake & Ohio and Amalgamated Copper, 3½; Northern Pacific, 2⅝; Reading, American Car and American Smelting, 2¼ and Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Denver & Rio Grande and New York Central, 2. There was a sale of a single 100-share lot of United States Steel at the opening at 83⅞, followed by running sales of 14,000 shares at 84⅛@84⅜, compared with 82¼ last night.

The attractive profits shown by the first prices induced heavy realizing and many of the leading stocks reacted a point. Speculation then became quieter and more orderly and fluctuations normal. The receivership for Hocking Coal caused a break of 4 points in that stock.

When there came a lull in the profit-taking sales, prices were again bid up. This attracted renewed selling and forced United States Steel and Union Pacific lower than on the first reaction. A period of dullness followed. Anaconda rose 3¼ and American Beet Sugar 3. Bonds were strong.

Trading fell off again to light proportions but prices kept rising, the list generally getting back to the high figures at the opening. Kansas & Texas preferred gained 2½ and Tennessee Copper 2. Gains were not fully held at 2 o'clock.

The market closed slightly irregular but generally strong. Buying followed prices upward to a general level from ½ to 1 point above the opening and then died down again. Prices receded from the best except for coppers. The rise of 5⅝ in Amalgamated Copper had some sustaining effect at the last. American Smelting gained 4¼, Anaconda 3⅝ and National Lead 2½.

FREIGHT CARS SNOW BOUND

Northwestern Road Has 4,000 Men Digging Out Box Cars.

Traffic Is Delayed on All the Roads Entering Duluth.

Freight cars are very scarce at the present time on the Omaha, Northern Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and on the Chicago division of the Soo, formerly known as the Wisconsin Central railway. Severe storm conditions are given as the cause of the car scarcity.

On the line of the Northwestern, between Madison and Chicago, conditions are the worst in the history of the road. Both loaded and empty cars are stalled in the drifted snow, holding up shipments and also making cars scarce.

It was reported this morning at the local office of the Northwestern that 4,000 men are employed at the present time in shoveling out cars that are under the deep snow on the side tracks along the main line of the road. At places along the line the snow covers the tops of the telegraph poles and has completely buried cars on the side tracks.

Business has been delayed while the sidings are cleared of snow, and the cars under the snow are released.

Not only are there a large number of freight cars of the Northwestern stalled on the main line between Madison and Chicago, but there are also a large number of cars of the company snowbound in the East.

Conditions in the East are but slightly better than conditions in some parts of the West. For that reason cars of the Northwestern that were on other lines at the time of the storm, have been stalled.

The Milwaukee has met with similar conditions east of Butte, on the Eastern Montana division. In the Northwest the Wisconsin Central has had somewhat the same experience as the Northwestern. Deep snow in many places along the line has resulted in delaying and tying up traffic.

Out west the Northern Pacific has also had some trouble with deep snow. Coupled with the storm conditions in the West, is the fact that there is heavy business over the line at the present time.

However, of all the Duluth roads the Northwestern is the greatest sufferer as the result of heavy snow storms. The Great Northern does not report a scarcity of cars for local freight traffic, but there is some trouble in getting back cars of the company that have been sent to the lines of Eastern railroads.

Duluth freight agents on most of the lines are kept on the jump attempting to fill orders, so few cars have many of the roads at their disposal.

With the clearing of the tracks of the Western lines and the freeing of many Western line cars that are in the East at the present time, the car situation will become much better. Until that time, however, there is liable to be a car scarcity in the Northwest.

OFFICERS OF HILLSIDE CLUB

C. E. Evans Elected President --Charter Amendments Are Discussed.

t a meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club last night, C. E. Evans was elected president, W. A. Conkley, vice president, and Arthur A. Fider secretary and treasurer. The grading of Sixth street was discussed and the property owners will request the city engineer to make plans and specifications covering the entire cost of the paving, so that there will be no extras.

Chan Smith, who is fathering the last three amendments on the ballot to be submitted to the voters at the election next week, spoke to the club on the amendments. He touched particularly on the matter of water rates, asserting that the family rate to consumers is 23½ cents per 1,000 gallons, that the city is selling water to corporations at a rate of 3 1-3 cents per 1,000 gallons, and that it costs 10 cents per 1,000 gallons to pump the water. He took as his stand that the city should sell water to no consumer at less than cost.

Members of the club followed Mr. Smith and discussed the amendments.

ISHPEMING SKI CLUB TO HAVE TOURNAMENT.

In addition to the medals for the amateurs, valuable cash prizes will be awarded the professionals, and it is expected that all the best riders and jumpers in America will participate in the various events.

The Ishpeming club was the first of its kind to be organized in the United States, and for a number of years it conducted the only tournaments held in this country.

Blizzard in Mountains.

Denver, Col., Jan. 26.—A terrific wind storm damaged thousands of dollars worth of property throughout Colorado last night. All over the state, telephone and telegraph poles and wires are down. In Denver a dozen big plate glass windows were blown in. In the moutains it is snowing heavily and cattle are drifting helplessly before the blizzard.

FEDERAL INSPECTION OF GRAIN DENOUNCED BY NATIONAL BOARD

Radical Changes in the Sherman Anti-Trust Law Indorsed.

Elimination of the Educational Test for Immigrants Is Approved.

Meeting at Washington Ends in Wrangle Over Conduct of Delegates.

Washington, Jan. 27.—After indorsing sweeping amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law so radical in character as to alter largely the present effect of the law, and after going on record as unalterably opposed to the federal inspection of grain, the National Board of Trade today ended the fortieth annual meeting of the organization.

Amendments to the immigration laws to eliminate the educational test were unanimously approved, and a proposal to have the United States government negotiate with other nations for the creation of an international court of arbitral justice was indorsed.

The session ended in a wrangle when H. F. Reynolds of Scranton, Pa., charged upon the floor that delegates sent by their home chambers of commerce and boards of trade to attend the meeting of the National Board of Trade came to Washington and spent the time elsewhere than at the convention.

IS HANGED FOR MURDER OF GIRL

Man Who Pleaded Insanity Caused By Jealousy Pays the Penalty.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—Alfred Wnek was hanged here today for the murder of 17-year-old Emma Karner; whom he shot because she refused to marry him. Two years ago Wnek met the girl as she was returning home from work, and after a brief conversation, killed her. His defense was that he had been made temporarily insane by jealousy.

THINK TIME NOT RIGHT FOR STRIKE

Philadelphia Street Car Men Are Likely to Wait Until Next June.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—The officials of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company and the Union employes are awaiting the result of a meeting of the men tonight which probably will decide whether peace shall reign between the company and the employes, or whether a strike will be declared. It is believed the motormen and conductors will decide to await a more opportune time before calling a strike.

The executive committee of the union was empowered a week ago to call a strike "at the most opportune time" if the company persisted in refusal to adjust certain grievances. It is expected the leaders will advise that the strike question be put off until June, when the present one year agreement between the employes and the company expires.

HORSE TAKES BODIES HOME

Boy of 16 and Girl of 14 Drink Poison in Suicide Pact.

Refusal of Parents to Let Them Marry at Once Causes Tragedy.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 27.—Because their parents would not let them marry, owing to their youth, Vernon Burt, aged 16, and Lina Ammer, aged 14, killed themselves early today. They were from well-to-do families.

Their bodies were found near Monroe in the boy's buggy, in which they had ridden from a dance. The two were clasped in each other's arms and were sitting upright on the seat.

On the girl's lap rested a cup partially filled with strychnine and water. They had both drank of the mixture and then waited for death. The horse, ignorant of the tragedy that had deprived him of a driver, proceeded on his way and stopped at the gate of the girl's home. The arrival of the horse disclosed the tragedy.

HAS CALLED MEETING ON COST OF LIVING

HARLOW C. CLARK.

A national conference on the high price of food will be held in Syracuse, N. Y., probably in the latter part of March. Harlow C. Clark, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Syracuse, has the matter in charge and is interesting the boards of trade of the cities in New York state as well as the agricultural department at Washington. Associated with Mr. Clark is John A. Stewart of the New York state school of agriculture and domestic science at Morrisville. Mr. Stewart says American food products are costing the American consumer more than they cost the foreign consumer. He says that personal investigation has shown him that asparagus which the farmer sold for 3 cents a bunch and the village dealer for 6 cents retails in the city for 45 cents a bunch. Mr. Stewart says that the commission men in the city fix the price they will pay producers and the prices they will charge consumers and that the profit on food supplies is wholly unreasonable.

CUT RETAIL MEAT PRICE

New York Dealers Lower Cost, But Demand Remains Under Normal.

Boycott Is Influencing Markets in Other Parts of the Country.

New York, Jan. 27.—Retail dealers who have held out against the agitation for cheaper meat felt the pinch of the situation today and many of them lowered prices. Thus recent reductions in the wholesale rates began to benefit the consumers, but the demand failed to pick up much and every evidence was given that a large section of the public was either eating no meat at all or much less than in normal times.

Other commodities continued to decline under the combined influence of the agitation and increased supplies.

Investigation goes on rapidly regarding the cold storage plants and their ways. Under the direction of Health Commissioner Lederle a thorough inspection of cold storage plants was begun today by a big force of inspectors.

Lessening the Demand.

Boston, Jan. 27.—"Since you tell us that the present high prices of the necessities of life are due to the inevitable law which governs supply and demand, we will say to you that we will attempt to secure relief by lessening the demand, and that we shall immediately make public our report calling upon the citizens of Boston to abstain from the use of meat for two weeks."

That was the ultimatum given the wholesale producers late yesterday at the conclusion of a conference between

MRS. SOL SMITH HURT IN TAXICAB

Oldest Actress in America May Not Survive the Accident.

New York, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Sol Smith, the actress, is in serious condition today as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident last night, but members of her family say that she shows improvement, and that it is believed her recovery is assured. Mrs. Smith is the oldest actress on the American stage.

Last night the taxicab in which she was returning from the theater, collided with an automobile and Mrs. Smith was thrown out and rendered unconscious. She was severely bruised and cut about the face and head, but the effects of the shock to a woman of her age—she will be 80 years old in March—are most feared.

FIX POSTAL BANK BILL

Senate Committee Will Report Measure to That Body Friday.

Prevention of Concentration of Deposits in East Is Sought.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The finishing touches on the postal savings bank bill to be reported from the senate committee on postoffices and post roads, are being made by a sub-committee composed of Senators Carter, Dolliver and Owen. They expected to complete their work today and the bill will probably be reported to the senate on Friday.

Some very important changes in the draft of the Carter bill, which is being used as a model, already have been agreed upon. Sections prescribing methods for the conduct of the proposed postal banks have been eliminated and a general proposition has been adopted leaving the question of making rules to the secretary of the treasury, the postmaster general and the attorney general. These officials will constitute a board which will have the control of the postal depositories.

To Prevent Concentration.

The most important amendment under consideration is designed to prevent a concentration of postal deposits in money centers of the East. It will provide that the postal deposits shall be distributed pro rata among such banks, local to the postal depositories, as will undertake the payment of the prescribed rate of interest.

Senator Dolliver took the position that the local banks would be compelled to go to the bond centers to purchase securities necessary to entitle them to receive funds deposited with the postal banks. In order to meet this objection the sub-committee has agreed upon an amendment providing for the acceptance of indemnity bonds as security to the government for funds received from the postal depositories.

ANOTHER AVIATOR OUT OF DAYTON

New Orleans, La., Jan. 27.—H. H. McGill, an aviator of Dayton, Ohio, the home of the Wright brothers, will attempt the first aeroplane flight to be held in New Orleans or any part of the South next Saturday. He will use a biplane. Negotiations are in progress for flights by aviators of international prominence at New Orleans during the Mardi Gras season.

WANTS UNCLE JOE'S JOB IN THE HOUSE

G. J. DIEKEMA
Of Michigan.

Since the development of the opposition to Speaker Cannon in the house of representatives several candidates for the succession to the speakership have been announced. The list includes M. E. Olmstead of Pennsylvania, James Tawney of Minnesota and J. R. Mann of Illinois. G. J. Diekema, a member from Michigan, has announced his candidacy, not in opposition to Mr. Cannon, but with the understanding that the speaker is planning to retire. Mr. Diekema is a member of the judiciary committee and of the committee on the election of president, vice president and representatives. He is a native of Holland, Mich., and a lawyer.

GOES BACK TO GOVERNMENT

Land Referred To By Glavis in Ballinger Case Will Revert.

Court Gives Decision in Washington---Garfield Criticises Land Measures.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 27.—United States District Judge Cornelius Sanford has decided that title to 1,024 acres of valuable coal lands in Lewis county, claimed by P. C. Richardson and several members of the R. S. Wilson family, all of Seattle, should revert to the government.

This is the land referred to by L. R. Glavis in his testimony before the Ballinger-Pinchot committee yesterday afternoon. Litigation and negotiation over these lands has been in progress for eleven years.

In February, 1899, R. A. Wilson and his son, George B., filed a declaratory statement on the northwest quarter of

HOUSE WILL PASS BUDGET

Liberals Alone May Outnumber Unionist Force in Parliament.

Action Beyond First Vote Is Hidden in Chaos Up to Date.

London, Jan. 27.—With the exception of two Scottish counties where the returns are snowed in and will not be generally known until tomorrow, reports of yesterday's elections are now complete. The Liberals add sixteen seats to their previous total, the Unionists three and the Laborites and Nationalists two each.

This makes the position of the parties this afternoon as follows: Government coalition—Liberals, 249; Irish Nationalists, 76; Laborites, 40. Opposition—Unionists, 258.

The Unionists from today's returns place three gains to their credit and the Liberals one, making the net Unionist gain to date an even 100.

The gains made by the Unionists in yesterday's elections were much smaller than expected, and should the same ratio prevail in the contests today and tomorrow, when, with the exception of half a dozen scattering constituencies, the elections will be concluded, there is a possibility that the Liberals alone may have a slightly larger membership in the new house of commons than the Unionists alone.

Budget Will be Passed.

The numbers, however, are so close that legislation will be practicable only with the consent of the Irish Nationalists and Laborites, and it is impossible to predict the developments with any confidence.

That the budget will be passed is now certain, but beyond that all at present is chaos. The speeches being made in the campaign show that even the members of the cabinet are at

ELLIS ARRIVES TO AID MEAT INQUIRY

Assistant Attorney General Will Help Sims in Chicago Cases.

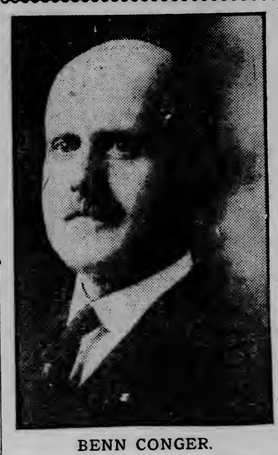

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Assistant Attorney General Wade Ellis arrived here today to take charge of the federal grand jury's investigation into the methods of the so-called "beef trust." Shortly after his arrival Mr. Ellis went into conference with United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims and the latter's assistant, James H. Wilkerson. The grand jury did not convene until the close of this conference.

Grand Jury in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27.—The grand jury has begun an investigation into the workings of the alleged meat trust. In a recently published article A. E. Hargreaves, a local wholesale merchant, made the assertion that four local representatives of the big packing houses have a close working agreement. Mr. Hargreaves was a witness before the grand jury.

STIRRED UP MUSS IN NEW YORK LEGISLATURE

BENN CONGER.

State Senator Benn Conger is the man who made a charge of bribery recently against Senator Fotham Allds at Albany. What made the charge peculiarly embarrassing was the fact that Allds had just been elected Republican leader of the senate. The charge of bribery runs back to the time when Allds and Conger were fellow members of the house at Albany. Conger made the charge in a secret conference, but when it became public he said he would stick to it.

THOMPSON TO QUIT SENATE

Rumored North Dakotan Will Resign on Account of Poor Health.

Report Also That Governor Burke Will Appoint Mr. Purcell of Wahpeton.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unconfirmed rumor from Washington has it that United States Senator Fountain Thompson of Cando, N. D., has resigned because of ill health and that Governor Burke will name State Senator Purcell of Wahpeton to succeed him.

Senator Thompson became ill soon after going to Washington and had several hemorrhages. His physician advised a trip to Mexico. The senator is reported to have written Governor Burke regarding his resignation, but the latter urged him to wait till the governor went to Washington last week to attend the meeting of governors.

Decided to Resign.

At that conference, according to Washington advices, Senator Thompson decided to tender his resignation to the senate and Governor Burke started home with a copy of the letter of resignation in his pocket, and is reported to have definitely announced the selection of Purcell, as Thompson's successor. Purcell had already announced his candidacy for senator before the next primaries. Senator Thompson was recently named to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Johnson.

Sydney, N. S. W., Jan. 27.—President Bowling of the Northern Miners' federation was today convicted of obstructing work at the mines during the strike and was sentenced to one year at hard labor in prison. Three other strike leaders were given sentences each of eight months at hard labor, while a number of miners were condemned to briefer terms of imprisonment.

People Shout With Joy as Flood Is Said to Be Decreasing.

Louvre Is Invaded By Water, But Is in No Present Danger.

Rome and Florence Also Suffer From Floods and Storms.

Paris, Jan. 27.—Late in the afternoon the fluvial department predicted a further rise of eight inches before the crest of the flood in the river Seine is reached. The flurry of joy at noon was followed by pessimism as the water continued to rise.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The sun is shining in Paris today. The rain ceased throughout the afflicted districts before noon, and as the waters of the Seine appeared to subside the lamentations of the populace gave way to rejoicing. It is hoped that the worst is over, but the wish is father to the thought.

The stage of the waters this morning exceeded all records back to 1615, and up to 12 o'clock the river continued to rise at the rate of three-quarters of an inch an hour.

At 12 o'clock the water guage showed a drop in the waters of the Seine at Pont Royal. The subsidence continued for thirty minutes, amounting to three-quarters of an inch. Cries of joy from the watchers were taken up by thousands along the quays.

Later it was asserted that the fall was due to the rapid overflow into the Bercy quarter from points where the Seine had broken barriers. The experts say that the river was still rising this afternoon, but that the maximum flood should be reached at 3 o'clock. The Bercy quarter has been abandoned by the residents.

Besides the failure of the gas and

ENGLAND AND ITALY PROTEST

Nicaraguan Holding Up of Mails Brings Notes From Powers.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 27.—The British and Italian consuls today made formal protest against the holding up of incoming foreign mail. Two steamers arrived from Panama, one on Jan. 15 and the other on the 24th, both without their mail, which had been detained at Panama. It is said that the mail was held up by Isidore Hazera, the Nicaraguan postal agent, who took this way to force, if possible, the payment of his salary, overdue from the Nicaraguan government.

Hazera is a Nicaraguan whom former President Zelaya sent as minister to the United States, but who was not recognized officially at Washington.

MRS. FORD FACES JURY

Trial of Woman in Big Four Robberies Is Begun at Cincinnati.

Warriner Will Be Chief Witness for State in Blackmail Case.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 27.—The case of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford, who is charged with having blackmailed Charles L. Warriner, convicted former local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was called for trial in the criminal branch of the common pleas court here today.

Warriner, who is now serving a six years' sentence in the state penitentiary at Columbus for embezzlement, was brought here to testify in the case. He is expected to be the state's chief witness.

Extra Venire Drawn.

The courtroom was packed with spectators when the task of selecting a jury was begun. An extra venire of eighteen was drawn, making thirty-five men from whom the jury will be selected.

The county prosecutor stated just before the trial began that while Warriner's testimony would be the chief reliance of the state, letters from Mrs. Ford to Warriner would be used to corrobrate the charge that a verbal demand for money was made by the woman upon the defaulting treasurer of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway.

OUTLOOK IS FAVORABLE

C. E. Bassett Voices Optimistic Feeling Among Furniture Interests.

C. E. Bassett of French & Bassett, who has just returned from the great furniture expositions and markets at Grand Rapids and Chicago, takes an optimistic view of business conditions for the coming year, as gathered from the experiences of other large buyers from various parts of the country. To a Herald reporter, Mr. Bassett said, today:

"In many years' experience in these markets I have never heard more uniform expressions of prosperous business and bright outlook, by business men from all sections of our country, than this season. Business seems to be growing in a safe, substantial manner in all lines and I think that during the past five years we have reached a much higher and broader standard in all lines of business.

"In the furniture business the designs and methods of manufacture have been vastly improved until now they have reached a point never before equaled.

"Yes, the high cost of living is being broadly discussed and considered by the people and press everywhere and I believe such discussions, in connection with the great work being done by the agricultural schools and colleges, will turn many of the people to the land and also cause those upon the farms to increase production and thus restore the proper relation of supply and demand and regulate the price of local supplies.

"Concerning advanced prices in furniture, I am glad to tell you the real facts on this point. I have never bought furniture to such good advantage, and while there has been some advances here and there, many lines have not changed their prices and some have lowered them, so the actual market remains about the same. But the improvement in designs, methods of manufacture and finish has given us the most beautiful and best values I have ever seen.

"Yes, I bought largely for immediate shipment, for I believe Duluth will enjoy a high degree of prosperity in 1910. In fact we have the best city in America, and are just coming into our own."

COTTON SILENT ON THE MERGER

Refuses to Discuss Copper Situation on Return From East.

Joseph B. Cotton has returned from New York, where there have been important developments in copper circles of late. Mr. Cotton declined to discuss the proposed copper merger today. He apparently did not attach any great significance to the proposed increase in the capitalization of the Anaconda Copper company as announced in New York yesterday, nor in the proposed merger of the Utah Copper company and Boston Copper company, as far as the talk of the greater merger is concerned. He refused to discuss the matter, however.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

TO EXPLORE IRON LANDS ON THE VERMILION RANGE

St. Croix Lumber Company Will Start Work in 62-14 This Spring.

Section 30 Development Company to Explore D. T. Adams Homestead.

The St. Croix Lumber company proposes to explore its iron lands on the Vermilion range in 62-14 this spring.

The St. Croix Lumber company is the corporation that owns the lumbering interests of the Torinous family on the Vermilion range. Their center of activity is at Winton, a few miles from Ely.

The Torinous family literally possesses millions. Besides Mrs. Torinous, the mother, there is a married daughter, Mrs. G. Tolan, and three sons, Ernest, Martin and Bert. Their home is at Stillwater, Minn.

For many months past, the Torinous interests have been acquiring well selected Vermilion range fees, quietly but persistently. It is thought that their holdings are heavy as well as carefully selected.

In township 62-14, they control the west half of the northeast quarter of section 19. This covers, in width, most of that huge belt of Soudan ore-bearing formation between Tower and Ely and which has such great width and strength in this township as well as the one between its west line and the Minnesota mine at Soudan. It corners with the land under exploration by the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company. While a contact between this Soudan ore-bearing formation and Ely greenstone is the better place to seek ore, there are possibilities in this great jasper zone. L. W. Powell, when with the United States Steel corporation, demonstrated this fact with a series of holes across this belt, not far from this Torinous land. The further south his work progressed towards the greenstone contact, the better the indications were for clean ore and in commercial quantity.

With their great wealth and enterprise, it would not cripple the Torinous interests to drill holes 2,500 feet deep on this jasper zone, and, with great depth, something new and important might be added to the iron history and exploration practice on the Vermilion. Down in Michigan explorers now seek ore at a depth of 2,500 feet and find it. Those who believe in the existence of deep-seated iron bodies on the Vermilion would be pleased to see the Torinous family go to a depth of 2,500 feet, just as Mr. Longyear is going 2,000 feet to prove or disprove certain opinions on the Mesaba range.

Other land in 62-14 controlled by the Torinous interests is the southwest quarter of section 20. This land is just east of Four Mile lake, and the geological map slows that it possesses a splendid contact between the Soudan iron-bearing formation on the north and the Ely greenstone on the south. Between this property and that of the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company, on the west side of the township, is land in the southeast quarter of section 19, covered in part by Four Mile lake, belonging to Robert B. Whiteside, Kenneth McDonald and others.

The Torinous interests will not start exploration until the spring is well open, but at that time they will set a swift pace in 62-14.

As previously stated, the storm center now well covers township 62-14. Thomas J. Walsh has written some brilliant pages of history in sections 4 and 5. C. C. Kennedy is going to do his best to show that Don H. Bacon lost a mine when he might have found one in section 10, on land belonging now to Mrs. Annie McCue. John Helmer's oriflamme is lighting the trail to the Sang and Levy lands in section 13, and when John Helmer writes mining history he does it in letters as large as they are bright. William Besson is seeking ferruginous treasure in section 15, on lands recently passed to the Central Vermilion Iron company by Alois Ebmer. The Marquette & Vermilion Iron company is test-pitting on the southwest quarter of section 19, from which Thomas Moe brought down some very fine samples Wednesday noon. A diamond drill will be on the land by Feb. 1. Then, last week, George A. St. Clair aroused interest to fever heat by hauling down a delicate for the noted old Macomber property.

There seems to be some feeling over the outcome of the scramble for this option. There were three different aspirants for Rollie Stewart's favor, he cleverly played one against the others. Finally, Mr. St. Clair, who was not trained in the deep mining and business methods of Michigan for nothing, announced that he was out of the running.

The others took courage, and the leader of one faction was opposed to raising the lucre from 30 cents to 35 cents a ton royalty, and there matters stood. It may have been that Mr. St. Clair was playing 'possum; anyway, he came back into the game, offered 35 cents a ton and Brother Stewart surrendered to him. Now there are heart burnings and complaints over the outcome by some of those who fell down in the scramble.

Duluthians may be interested in the fact that the late James A. Boggs made one of his periodical financial "killings" in connection with the old Macomber mine. He was hard up, and just about twenty-three years ago, when he needed money pretty badly, pulled $16,000 in hard, cold cash out of a deal in connection with the property.

The latest corporation to be born for a life of activity on the Vermilion range is the "Section 30 Development company." This company has been incorporated by Capt. James Bale, one of the best known Vermilion range pioneers; Kenneth McDonald, a local lumberman, who has been a heavy and persistent investor in mining enterprises and stocks; T. T. Hudson, a local attorney, who is identified with some very important interests; W. J. Wallace, while not appearing as an incorporator, is understood to be heavily interested.

This company will have a capital stock of $500,000. The limit of indebtedness will be $100,000. It is understood that the company will be a closed one, practically so, and that very conservative policies will be followed as to finances.

Section 30 Development company will explore and develop the David T. Adams homestead, known as lot 4, in the northeast corner of the noted section 30, 63-11. This section has an extra row of "forties" on the west side and this lot 4 is right up in the corner. There is a very attractive formation on the land and a shaft about ninety feet deep. There is a firm belief by those who know this property best that a mine will be the outcome of proper exploration and development.

Speaking of section 30, it is not generally known, perhaps, that Alfred Merritt has a third interest in the lease with George A. St. Clair. Leonidas Merritt owns in the fee, but Alfred Merritt comes in on the lease. Alfred Merritt is a firm believer in the Vermilion range, and right now is selling a big iron property in California so as to have a high pile of cash to use in carrying out broad, extensive and aggressive operations on Minnesota's pioneer range.

Right here it may not be amiss to say that a quiet but active scramble is under way for fees on the Vermilion. Many will seek, but few will find. The next recourse will be options and leases. There will not be enough of those to go around. The outlook is that when the snow goes off the rush will be something not seen for twenty-five years. Those who cover the Mesaba range in their course of business report that they expect to see people on that range go over to the Vermilion in swarms when spring opens, just to see what there is to be seen, if nothing else.

A late copy of the Ely Miner had the following item:

"John Hipp and Theodore Haenke of St. Paul were in the city several days this week looking up their interests in the Iron Queen Mining company, in which they are heavy stockholders. This is the property promoted by Capt. Franklin and situated on the Illiva farm on the White Iron Lake road. The gentlemen failed to see very much at the works, the shaft being full of water. The machinery is still there. They do not know the whereabouts of Capt. Franklin at the present time. Both expressed themselves as highly pleased with this country, but failed to enthuse much over the prospects of the Iron Queen."

One of the best posted iron men in Duluth, who knows that country like a book, states that the Iron Queen iron mine is situated in an area of the finest red Mesaba granite one ever saw. By no possibility known to the mining and scientific world could any one ever expect Iron to exist in that locality or that formation

Capt. Franklin was a cruiser in the palmy days of white pine. About the middle of the '90s he joined the rush to Rainy lake. He interested various Duluthians in gold claims on the lower Seine river that were in formations, rejected by prospectors. Later on, after the gold boom burst, he turned some gold claims on Grassy bay into iron claims and induced C. W. Erickson and some wealthy men in New York city to back him with cash in exploration. There was some black iron there, running exceedingly high in titanium, therefore worthless today.

The last heard of Capt. Franklin, he was over in Douglas county, Wis., exporting the finds of bog ore that Capt. E. E. Lewis was exploring the past season. Capt. Franklin was a most fluent and even interesting talker in his palmy days, and had he not possessed such original views on mineral formations, he might have amassed millions and now ride in a varnished limousine.

These granite areas, by the way, afford a fertile field for the land locators, who possess elastic consciences, in which to locate verdant seekers after cheap mining lands. Very recently a lady came into a Duluth mining office to look up some land which cost her $125 for a location fee. She took it for iron, but the map showed it to be in a broad, barren area of granite in 63-12. She had been shown land in 62-14, but located in the granite in 63-12. When the duped dame finds that locator, the fuzzy fur will fly.

Maj. Hoover was a great man in his day to fuss around the outer edges of the iron-bearing formations and to keep as far away from the rich center of a zone as possible. He was an Englishman of imposing appearance, but, unfortunately, considered the Mesaba granites in 62-10 as an important portion of the Vermilion range proper. On Garden lake, in Eave's bay, near Section 30, he ran a tunnel a considerable distance in the Ely greenstone before satisfying himself he was barking up the wrong tree, so to speak.

Maj. Hoover, even if he was one of those ships that come in the night, was in touch with "British millions" and, along back in 1886, brought several Englishmen over here to acquire iron mines. They were anxious to invest and required only to be shown something of merit. He took them from Tower by a canoe route along Mud lake, Buntside lake, thence through a creek to Long lake, and finally landing at Ely.

As canoe men, Maj. Hoover had some of the best men in Northern Minnesota, among them being Jack McCaskill, Mike and Jean Maxwell, "Curley" Bedford and John Durand.

Maj. Hoover had a couple of gallons of extra good whisky to keep his Englishmen at peace with themselves and that region. But the canoe men espied it and proceeded to empty the jug. They forgot to put the cork back in one jug and stuck a wad of grass in the mouth. Maj. Hoover saw that and became wise to what had happened. When the flotilla reached Ely, the angry Maj. Hoover discharged the entire lot. They demanded canoes in which to go back to Tower, but were refused. Being unable to find other paddlers at the Chandler mine, Maj. Hoover was compelled to hire the men over again.

Then, to crown all his troubles, Maj. Hoover failed to soak the Englishmen with his granite iron mine.

"I notice that John B. Bisbee is going to start a townsite on Robinson lake," said an old Vermilion range pioneer as he set down the glass that had so recently contained "Injun whisky." "I believe there's a good field there for a town and I feel sure it will turn out better than Silver City or the White Iron Lake townsite.

"Along back in 1887, I think it was, one Loud, a former Michigan man, was scouting around the Vermilion range. He finally interested a Michigan banker named Fox in some of his schemes. Loud's most noted operations were at White Iron Lake Falls, on the Birch river. On the west side of the river, a townsite was laid out, platted and recorded. This was called White Iron Lake townsite. In it Loud and Fox also interested the late Frank Eaton, Dick Fagan, Frank Cutting, now assistant municipal judge, and others. On the east side of Birch river was Silver City and the supposed silver mine. Several tons of the silver ore were hauled by sled, fully fifty miles, to Tower but never shipped from there. Loud must have had a clever tongue for he interested the late Senator J. D. Howard, and one of the hardest men to separate from his cash of all those who ate fish at the Head of the Lakes in the early days. With him, also, was interested a man named Stockbridge who used to run a hotel near the canal here in Duluth.

"This supposed silver mine bore black iron and iron pyrites in a belt of black jasper. What they considered was silver ore was a quartz-like rock on one of the walls. During the excitement and before the boom bursted, a tunnel was driven into the bank sixty or eighty feet.

"Just as The Herald said the other night, where half a dozen Duluth men are interested together, you may expect a townsite boom of some sort. I have sold my iron land that I have held for twenty-five years. I propose to celebrate as I have not celebrated for a generation. Come, let's take something on the Vermilion range."

Then there was much mingling of the essence of iron and war whoops, learned on Vermilion's shores away back in the dark ages, before the railroad arrived.

YOUTH IS PENITENT

Arrested for Petit Larceny, He Sobbingly Begs for Mercy.

Officers Fear His Mind May Be Unbalanced By Worry.

"My God—get somebody to pray for me," shrieked Russell Johnson, an 18-year-old boy in police court today after he had confessed to stealing a watch from Theodore Hanson, a teamster at the Jean Duluth stock farm.

The boy sobbed and wailed from the time he was taken from the cell to the courtroom and returned to his quarters in the boys' section at headquarters. He was the most pitiful subject that has been in the hands of the local authorities for many months.

So hard does he take his offense against the law that it is feared that constant pondering on his wrongdoing may unbalance his mind. It is said that he is not very strong, mentally or physically.

When the officers unlocked his door, young Johnson started to cry and fell on his knees before the policeman, begging him to be kind to him. "Give him more rope," shouted some prisoner in the bullpen, who heard his entreaties. At the words he almost went into hysterics, fearing that he might even be hanged for having stolen the watch. The officer tried in vain to calm his fears.

Johnson came to Duluth several days ago to look for work. He called upon a contractor in the Manhattan building, who had been a close friend of his father. Not having a place for him, he had him taken on at the stock farm, thinking that it would be a good place for him, as he had been brought up on a farm.

The next thing the contractor learned was that a watch had been stolen and that his protege was missing. The police were notified at the same time and given a description of Johnson. Johnson went to call on the contractor yesterday afternoon before leaving the city. He came in, and when he came back the police were waiting for him.

Judge Cutting postponed the case until next Monday. In the meantime an effort will be made to locate the boy's parents, who formerly lived in Duluth.

ARE PROSPEROUS IN THE WEST

Homeseekers Pouring Into Western Canada, Says Judge Lawrence.

Judge David Lawrence of Two Harbors returned today from a trip to the Pacific coast and points in Alberta and Saskatchewan. He is still wondering at the indications of progress he observed through the Canadian Northwest and along the coast.

In Alberta, Judge Lawrence saw an entire train of thirty-two cars loaded with American plows, that were for the use of farmers in the Southern Alberta farming country. Most of the farmers were Americans who had gone to Canada to make their homes.

In the towns of Alberta, and especially at Lethbridge, the judge was unable to get a room, so many Americans and homeseekers are in Western Canada at the present time seeking homes.

Canada, however, was not the only part of the Western country where prosperity was to be observed. Judge Lawrence stated that all along the Pacific coast there is an air of prosperity. In Seattle and Portland and Vancouver, the judge says there is every evidence that the West will enjoy a very prosperous year.

"There is every indication that the immigration to Canada this season will be very heavy," said Judge Lawrence. "There are many Americans going over to the other side. Many of these people have purchased farms some time in the past and are going over to take their families. I believe Western Canada is just in its infancy. Land that sold for $3 and $4 an acre a few years ago, is today selling for $25 an acre.

"It is only a question of time until Western Canada will be known as the greatest farming and grain-raising country in the world. The American farmers are going there, which means prosperity for that section of the country."

CAPTAIN SWARTZ' CASE HIS LIFE IN DESPAIR PERUNA'S GREAT VICTORY.

Was a Wreck.

"Four years ago I was a total wreck. My friends did not think I ever could pull through. Was weak, dizzy-headed. Everything passed through me as water.

"After doctoring with the best doctors I concluded to try Peruna. After taking one bottle I commenced to mend, and after taking three bottles in the last three years I am the best eighty-one-year-old man in America. Am able to attend to as much business as I could forty years ago."

Owner of Steamer W. J. Bryan.

So writes Capt. G. W. Swartz of Huntsville, Alabama, master and owner of the steamer W. J. Bryan. We give his letter above exactly as we received it from him.

He desires every invalid in the United States to read his letter, and if any one would like to write to the captain direct they are at liberty to do so. They should, however, enclose a stamp for reply.

Gives All Credit to Peruna.

They will find the captain hale and hearty, able to answer all letters. He is as sound as a nut, and is proud of it. Peruna rescued him from the fate of an invalid, and he is happy over it. He wants everybody in the wide world to know it. Just write him and see if some of his health vibrations won't convince you that he has found the real thing.

Peruna's Victory Everywhere.

Peruna has not only accomplished this for Capt. Swartz, but a great many other chronic invalids all over the land.

Another Remarkable Recovery.

Mr. Sylvester E. Smith, Room 218, Granite Block, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Peruna is the best friend a sick man can have.

"A few months ago I came here in a wretched condition. Exposure and dampness had ruined my once robust health. I had catarrhal affections of the bronchial tubes, and for a time there was a doubt as to my recovery.

"My good honest old doctor advised me to take Peruna, which I did, and in a short time my health began to improve very rapidly, the bronchial trouble gradually disappeared, and in three months my health was fully restored.

"Accept a grateful man's thanks for his restoration to perfect health."

CLAIM WATER IS NOT SOLD FOR LESS THAN THE COST

Water Board Answers Statement That Big Consumers Are Favored.

Sliding Scale Explained and Claimed to Be Best Possible.

The board of water and light commissioners resents the charges that have been made that the city is selling water to large consumers for less than cost, thus discriminating against the small consumer.

An answer has been made to the recent assertions, and the city fathers have directed that it be published in connection with reasons which are set forth favoring the adoption of the proposed $200,000 bond issue of the water and light plant.

The board declares that if the theories of the uninformed are what Duluth desires, the citizens can undoubtedly get commissioners who will put them into practice, but they supposed that the water and light board is expected to study conditions from a practical standpoint and to exercise its best judgment after it has received information bearing upon the subject from all sources.

"On any other basis the commissioners might better contribute an automaton to the department to record the babel of advice given them than to spend their time (valuable at least to them) and outrage their common sense, by doing what in their position they know to be against the best interests of the city," is the concluding statement.

The board declares that the rates are just and equitable and that the sliding scale now in force is the best that could be devised to meet the needs of the city. They state that all consumers, large and small, pay their share of all expenses required to run the department. The expenses are divided into three parts. The first is the pumping cost, the second is termed water service cost, and includes all office expenses, and the third is the interest charge. The statement is made that after all expenses are taken into consideration, all that should be charged the large consumers is the excess cost of furnishing them the additional water.

To do this a sliding scale is used. For the first 8,000 feet the charge is 17½ cents per 100 feet; for the next 8,000 feet the charge is 10 cents per 100 feet; for the next 60,000 feet the charge is 7½ cents per 100 feet; for the next 100,000 feet the charge is 5 cents per 100 feet, and for all over 176,000 feet the charge is 2½ cents per 100 feet. Before getting the benefit of the 2½-cent rate, the large consumer must pay all the other charges. In other words, he pays 17½ cents per 100 feet for the next 8,000 feet, and so on, until he gets over 176,000 feet.

The interest charge is the heaviest of the three divisions. Manager Case explains that this is due to the fact that much more work has to be done in order to give satisfactory fire protection than would be necessary to supply ordinary needs. The mains are larger, the pumps are more powerful, and the extensions are greater than would otherwise be the case. This brings the construction cost away up, he says, necessitating more bonds and consequently more interest. The total interest on the bonds now out is about $139,000, of which amount the city helps pay about $39,000 in the shape of hydrant rentals.

The water board says that if the rates were increased the board would reduce its annual earnings and surplus. The members claim that many large users of water would put in their own plants if they had to pay any more. One example is given, that of the Carbolite company at West Duluth. The company's annual consumption is placed at 135,000,000 gallons. Were the city furnishing this, the income would be approximately $5,000. The cost of furnishing it would be $1,400, according to the statement, netting the city $3,600. As it is, Mr. Case says the city has in pipes and is supplying some water, but is cut off from these earnings because the Carbolite company refused to pay the rate now in force, putting in its own plant instead. It is also claimed that a change in the rate would make the cost of sprinkling lawns prohibitive, and that hydraulic elevators would be changed to the electric system because of the added cost caused by raised rates.

JAPS AND UNCLE SAM GOOD PALS

Komura Says Friendship Is on Firm and Lasting Foundation.

Tokio, Jan. 27.—Baron Komura, minister of foreign affairs, addressed the diet this afternoon upon the subject of diplomatic relations, laying special stress on Japan's relations with Russia, China and the United States. Regarding Russia he said that the international relations had been regarded recently with a feeling of suspicion due to groundless rumors.

"The friendship between Japan and the United States," continued the baron, "stands firm and enduring upon the foundations which are essentially to the best interests of the two countries. Both governments are directing their best efforts to attain the object in view."

"The relations between Japan and China," he said, "involve important and far-reaching consequences, politically and economically. In a spirit of mutual conciliation, the most important outstanding issues have been successfully adjusted. My sincere hope is that the Chinese authorities, in view of those considerations, will exert every endeavor to promote these friendly relations and secure the general repose and stability of the Orient."

CHINAMAN IS FEEDING HIM

American in Mexican Jail Would Starve But for Oriental's Help.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 27.—A letter from Gaudalajura asserts that Conductor Cook, the American who is in jail there, is failing rapidly under his close confinement and that his clothing is in rags. He would have nothing to eat but for the generosity of the Chinese hotel keeper, with whom he is now several months in arrears for food supplies.

The Quickest and Simplest Cough Cure.

Better than all the cough medicines you could buy, and far less expensive, is a simple remedy that you can make at home in five minutes. A whole pint of it—enough to last a family a long time—costs only 54 cents. It is pleasant to take—children like it.

It will usually conquer a deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours. Two or three doses overcome an ordinary cough. It is also splendid for colds, bronchitis, incipient lung trouble, whooping cough, etc.

Granulated Sugar Syrup	13½ oz.
Pinex	2½ oz.

Take a pint of Granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about two minutes. Put the 2½ ounces Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with the syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Granulated Sugar Syrup is a simple but excellent sedative. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, and is rich in all the medicinal elements of the pine. None of the weaker pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. All druggists have it or will get it if requested.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

PLAN INTER-COLONY TRADE.

English Commissioners Arrive at Kingston, Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 27.—Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Sir Daniel Morris and W. M. Pattersen of the royal West Indian commission, with H. R. Cowell, W. R. King, R. M. McCarthy and C. W. Scott, arrived here today on the steamer Clyde. The object of the commission is to encourage reciprocal trade relations between Canada and the West Indies.

Lord Balfour said that there was nothing aggressive in the duties of the commission so far as the United States is concerned. It is understood here that the commission proposes to recommend increased steamship facilities between the colonies through the means of government subsidies and also preferential tariff schedules.

DREADFUL WEAKNESS

Could Not Raise Head From Pillow, Says Jennie B. Kirby, of Valley Heights, Va., Till I Took Cardui.

Valley Heights, Va.—"My family doctor," writes Jennie B. Kirby, "said I had change of life and I was sick in bed for about 9 months.

"I had a bad spell this spring and was so weak I couldn't raise my head off the pillow.

"I commenced to take Cardui in April and have now used three bottles. It does me so much good. I saw it was helping me before I had taken half the first bottle. Now I can work all day.

"I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world, for women who suffer from female troubles. I have not taken a dose of any medicine but Cardui for 9 months and am feeling very well."

No other medicine is needed, but Cardui, for weakness, loss of appetite, tired feeling, female pains and distress, etc.

However, if you are taking any other medicine, Cardui will not interfere with it, but rather help it.

As a general tonic, for weak women, you can get no medicine so good as Cardui, the woman's tonic.

To prevent unnecessary pains and misery, nothing, for 50 years, has been found that would take it place.

No druggist keeps Cardui in bulk, for prescription purposes, but every druggist sells Cardui, in original bottles.

JOSHES THE DEMOCRATS

Boutell of Illinois Begins By Lauding Taft and the Tariff.

Tells Minority They Cheer Pessimism Because of Party Loyalty.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Admitting that the Payne tariff law would have to be justified by the results of its practical operation, Representative Boutell of Illinois, a member of the committee which framed the measure, made a vigorous defense of the law in the house today.

President Taft had been criticised, Mr. Boutell said, because of having declared that the Payne bill was the best tariff law ever passed by congress. But, added Mr. Boutell, the result would justify that statement.

"The common sense and sagacity of President Taft will be recognized by his re-election in 1912," he declared.

"It has been said," continued Mr. Boutell, "that the act gives preferences to certain individuals and is the cause of the present high prices. It has been asserted that the tariff act has not brought prosperity, and that the act will retard prosperity."

Joke on the Democrats.

When the Democrats applauded these statements and laughed in derision, Mr. Boutell sharply rebuked them.

"Why is it," he asked, "that the Democrats always applaud any tale of misfortune or prediction of adversity?"

It was then the turn of the Republicans to laugh and applaud, and the Democrats lapsed into silence.

"I think," said Mr. Boutell, answering his own question, "it's because adversity is so familiar and so in keeping with the history of their party. It is not indicative of approbation, but the result of party loyalty."

FIRST STEPS ARE TAKEN

For Merger of Principal Copper Producers of the Country.

Anaconda Company Makes Official Announcement of Its Plans.

New York, Jan. 27.—Preliminary steps were taken yesterday to effect the long looked for merger of the principal copper producers of the country into one gigantic corporation.

In Wall street another $1,000,000,000 company was frequently mentioned but the more conservative believed final capitalization would be closer to $500,000,000.

The Anaconda Copper Mining company officially announced that a meeting of the board of directors had decided to call a special meeting of the stockholders in Anaconda, Mont., on March 23, to pass on a proposal to increase the capital stock from $30,000,000 to $150,000,000 "for the purpose of acquiring the property of other companies located in the Butte district." The Amalagamated Copper company owns 55 per cent of the Anaconda stock.

Bigger One Coming.

Following the merger of the Butte properties, which include the Amalgamated Copper company and its various holdings, namely, the Anaconda Copper company, Boston & Montana, Parrot & Boston, Washoe, Trenton and other subsidiaries, and the North Butte and Butte Coalition, it is expected that the new Anaconda with its increased capital of $150,000,000 will merge with the Guggenheim, Haggin and other interests, thus effecting a corporation which not only will control the copper output of the United States, but will influence the copper market of the world.

Utah Files Certificate.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—The Utah Copper company filed an amended certificate yesterday with the secretary of state increasing its capital stock from $7,500,000 to $25,000,000. The increase was decided upon at a meeting of the stockholders after Judge Lanning had filed his memorandum dissolving the injunction restraining the Utah company from consolidation with the Boston Copper company.

CHANGES IN THE WOLVIN OFFICE

Harry H. Dinham Succeeds Roy Wolvin as Manager of the Fleet.

Harry H. Dinham will succeed Roy M. Wolvin as manager of the Wolvin line of lake carriers. Mr. Wolvin recently resigned to engage in the package freight business between Lake Ontario, Canadian ports and the Head of the Lakes.

Mr. Dinham has been with the Wolvin people for the past ten years and on the resignation of Mr. Wolvin he becomes manager of the Provident and other lines controlled by the A. B. Wolvin interests. His appointment to the managership is in the line of a substantial promotion.

Joseph E. Hayes, who has resigned as fleet engineer, will engage in business for himself at Cleveland. Mr. Hayes has been with the Wolvin people for twenty years. For fifteen years past he has held the fleet engineer position. Gilbert Patterson, formerly fleet engineer for the Tomlinson line, will succeed Mr. Hayes. He will assume his duties at once.

On the completion of the new Alworth building the Wolvin offices will be moved from the present quarters in the Wolvin building to the top floor of the new Superior street structure. They will probably be the finest steamship offices in the city when they are finally occupied.

BATTLE GROUND IN WEST END

Heavy Batteries of Candidates Turned on Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Wards.

The West end and West Duluth wards are forming the battle ground for the aspirants for mayoralty honors. The fight seems to center in these parts of the city. Both Mayor Haven and Dr. Cullum are paying close attention to the situation and have the heaviest of their batteries unmasked in that direction. Neither is making a specialty of big mass meetings, but several ward meetings will be held before the election next Tuesday.

The Democrats of the Seventh ward will meet tonight at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Saturday night, the West Duluth Republicans will hold a mass meeting at Wade's hall. Monday night the Sixth ward Republicans will meet at Sloan's hall, and the Seventh ward Republicans at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street.

The last two days, large sums of money have been placed with various bookmakers about the city. The amounts range from $5 and $10 upwards, with many sums of $100 and $500 available. The betting is even.

FINE SPECIES OF WHITEFISH CAUGHT IN ISLAND LAKE

Some time ago, W. D. Tomlin, while on a trip in the territory northeast of Duluth caught several white fish in Island lake, at the boundary between Lake and Cook counties. These whitefish differ considerably in appearance from those now caught in Lake Superior, a distinguishing feature being a noticeable humped back, which can be seen in the accompaning photo. Mr. Tomlin sent several specimens of the fish to Prof. George Wagner of the zoological laboratory of the University of Wisconsin, and has received the following reply:

"Madison, Wis., Jan. 24, 1910.—My Dear Mr. Tomlin: Your letter of the 20th at hand. Of course the fish you sent reached me long ago, and I should have written you about them before this; but I have been head over heels in a lot of whitefish work, and have but just gotten out for a little while.

"The fish you sent me are of more than ordinary interest. The photograph and sketch you sent me last fall do not represent them very well; it was largely the character of mouth, as drawn in the sketches, together with the high base of tail, that made me think them Argyrosomus, but they prove not to belong to Argyrosomus, but to Coregonus, the genus to which the old-fashioned whitefish belong. To this they have a close resemblance, but also differ in a number of points of measurement.

"In 1866, Dr. Gunther of the British Museum described a new species of whitefish from British America, which he called "Coregonus Richardsonii." The exact locality where they were collected was not known. From then until now this form has not been recognized. On examination of your specimens, I am forced to come to the conclusion that they belong to this species, with the description of which they closely agree. The species is closely related to the old-fashioned whitefish of Lake Superior, which we now believe to be different from the whitefish of Lake Erie, but to be like the whitefish caught in the rapids at the Soo, and also occurring in several lakes of Wisconsin. That it makes a fine table fish I have no doubt.

"I have placed the specimens you sent in our collection, under your name as collector. They will be of continuous value to us in unravelling the vexing question as to the number of species of whitefish occurring in North America. Yours very truly,

"GEORGE WAGNER."

It is believed that this was the whitefish that originally inhabited the waters of Lake Superior, and as it is much better than the whitefish with which the lake has been stocked in recent years, an effort will be made to induce the Minnesota state game and fish commission to plant a large number in Lake Superior. A plentiful supply for this purpose can be obtained in a number of the lakes in the northern parts of St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties.

the military barracks and public school buildings at the disposal of the refugees who already number more than 100,000.

Fifteen thousand laborers of the city are out of work and although subscriptions are pouring in, $200,000 having been raised last night, including $1,400 contributed by the American chamber of commerce, the government today decided to ask parliament for an additional credit to be used in relief work.

Every moment today brought a new tale of disaster.

Louvre Safe at Present.

The curator of the Louvre museum said today that although the basement of the building had been inundated, the Statuary Hall was still six feet above the level of the water and the sculptures in no danger at present.

Immediately opposite, however, there was grave danger to the Institute de France, the home of the Academie Francaise, which was surrounded by water, as was the Mazarin palace, whose valuable art collections were hurriedly removed to the second story.

The region in the neighborhood of the Law Courts and the prefecture of police were flooded and chairs and tables were drifting about. The water invaded the court of St. Chapelle, the most glorious gem of gothic architecture in France, and the lower floor of the historic Conciergerie was flooded.

Notre Dame was surrounded with water today and the Crypts were flooded. The Rotter palisades back of the Ile St. Louis gave way, adding the situation in the overflowed quarter back of the Quay d'Austerlitz embankment gave way with a roar, flooding new districts.

The waters have not yet reached the catacombs, where rest six million skulls.

May Submerge Whole City.

Perhaps the most alarming feature of the situation in the morning was the fissure at the Auteuil viaduct at the foot of Paris. Should this give way it would act as a dam and submerge the entire city.

The valley of the Seine now presents a terrific spectacle. The flood is miles wide for twenty-five miles above and the raging torrent runs through the city at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour. It is flush with the parapets of the bridges where it is not actually overflowing them, turning streets into muddy lagoons and choking underground workings of the city to the bursting point.

There are 700 miles of sewers, and two rivers, the Bievre and the Grange Botel Betliere, under Paris. The latter is running under the opera house, whose confining walls are subjected to the pressure of thousands of cubic yards of water.

Streets Caving In.

Whenever a break in masonry occurs, the streets cave in and the water and refuse emerge. Thus dozens of places a mile back from the river streets are flooded and the walls of adjoining buildings have been rendered unsafe, in many instances the police have forced tenants to abandon their threatened homes.

Tiber on Rampage.

Rome, Jan. 27.—The rain, snow and wind storm increased in intensity today. The river continues to rise and at noon had almost reached the top of the arches of the bridges. Dead cattle and trees are being borne down its current.

The weather has been stormy throughout Italy for several days, causing considerable damage. The Tiber rose forty feet here yesterday, flooding the country, while many trees and walls were blown down, a number of persons being injured.

Along the Mediterranean coast, several boats were driven ashore. In the south there have been many serious floods, and numerous earthquakes have occurred.

Floods at Florence.

Florence, Jan. 27.—The River Arno is out of its banks and is flooding the adjacent districts. Telegraphic and telephonic communication as well as railway transportation to points surrounding the city have been cut off and it is impossible to learn the extent of the damage wrought in the flooded villages. Squads of relief workers have been despatched to nearby places from this city.

Naples Stricken Too.

Naples, Jan. 27.—The damage from the storm increases. Many roads along the sea front are under water and the country at these points devastated. Wreckage thrown out by the tide, proves that many small boats have been lost. The churches are filled with persons praying fervently for the passing of the evil.

Crisis at Charenton.

Charenton, France, Jan. 27.—The flood situation here continues critical. Bluejackets and soldiers with their canvas boats and barges, worked throughout the night under the light of torches, rescuing the persons imprisoned in homes at Ivry and Alfortville. The rescuers took off 1,500 of the imperilled ones, but many refuse to leave the inundated houses, though the buildings are in imminent danger of collapsing.

Before noon today the waters had invaded the city hall, forcing abandonment.

POLICE USE SABERS ON RIOTING SOCIALISTS.

Brunswick, Duchy of Brunswick, Jan. 27.—During a Socialist election-reform demonstration last night, several shots were fired from the crowd. The police charged, using their sabers energetically, and as a result fifteen wounded persons were removed to the hospitals. A police sergeant was seriously injured.

WHEN DINNER COMES

One Ought to Have a Good Appetite.

A good appetite is the best sauce. It goes a long way toward helping in the digestive process, and that is absolutely essential to health and strength.

Many persons have found that Grape-Nuts food is not only nourishing but is a great appetizer. Even children like the taste of it and grow strong and rosy from its use.

It is especially the food to make a weak stomach strong and create an appetite for dinner.

"I am 57 years old," write a Tenn. grandmother, "and have had a weak stomach from childhood. By great care as to my diet I enjoyed a reasonable degree of health, but never found anything to equal Grape-Nuts as a standby.

"When I have no appetite for breakfast and just eat to keep up my strength, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with good rich milk, and when dinner comes I am hungry. While if I go without any breakfast I never feel like eating dinner. Grape-Nuts for breakfast seems to make a healthy appetite for dinner.

"My little 13-months-old grandson had been very sick with stomach trouble during the past summer, and finally we put him on Grape-Nuts Now he is growing plump and well. When asked if he wants his nurse or Grape-Nuts, he brightens up and points to the cupboard. He was no trouble to wean at all—thanks to Grape-Nuts." GERMANY HOPES FOR NEW TERMS

America's Non-Insistence as to Meat Imports Points to Settlement.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The non-insistence on the part of the United States that Germany admit American meats more freely is regarded in official quarters as greatly simplifying the pending tariff negotiations and as removing one of the principal embarrassments.

Upon the point of American cattle imports, the German government, it is declared, could not yield. It would be impossible to overcome the opposition of a majority in the reichstag, even were the government willing to adlvse a concession.

ONE KILLED BY TUMBLING WALL

Another Is Missing and Four Persons Suffer From Injuries.

Police and firemen were still searching the ruins for possible additional victims today.

HUNDRED FLEE IN FIRE PANIC

Factory Near New York Tenement Burns---One Fireman Badly Hurt.

New York, Jan. 27.—Panic reigned in nearby tenements while fire was raging in a five-story factory building on Elizabeth street today, and more than 100 persons fled to the street in terror.

In fighting the flames, which for a time threatened St. Matthew's German Lutheran church and parsonage adjoining, Fire Capt. Joseph Connelly fell two stories and was seriously injured. Six other firemen were cut off by the collapse of a stairway, but escaped by a daring slide down lines of extended hose.

The first burst of the flames was soon subdued by the firemen, and the damage was not heavy.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"I would be willing to do any possible thing," said a housewife today, "to help lower the price of things we have to eat but when I think of atempting to provide things to eat for two men and three boys that will satisfy them, without meat, my heart falls me. A meatless diet, that is supplemented with eggs and an unlimited quantity of milk and plenty of butter where butter is needed is not a thing to appal any one, but with milk at 8 cents a quart and eggs at 40 cents a dozen and butter near the 40-cent mark for a pound, it is too discouraging."

Certain it is that the housewife will have the burden of worry upon her to the greatest extent during the temporary boycott on meat, but it can scarcely be any worse than it is at the present time. The households in Duluth and throughout the country that are seriously troubled concerning the cost of living would include almost the entire population. There are, of course, a very limited number of incomes that stretch elastically to include every comfort and every luxury without hardship on any individual, but those few incomes are the exception so rare as almost to be unknown. From the family—where it is the whole aim of life to get enough of anything to keep body and soul together, when that end and aim becomes such an effort and is regarded with such poor success that people wonder why make the effort—to the people who have an income that does not increase with increased demands upon it all along the line the effort is apparent.

But the woman who satisfies the growing appetites of boys and the plain unfrilled and unberuffled appetites of men without a centerpiece of meat has her work laid out for her. Here is the time when the knowledge of foodstuffs and the training of domestic science in the grade schools would come in most timely.

Here are a few hints that practical cooks say are possible. Peas, beans, lentils, rice, macaroni and cheese are good, hearty, wholesome, satisfying dishes that will take the place of meat. Meat eating is a habit, any way, and the family can be made to become accustomed to a meatless diet. Prunes, which are almost as expensive, and evaporated peaches, may take the place of grape fruit nicely. Prunes, however, are no longer fruit that may justly be dealt the contumely that was their share heretofore. Prunes, the nice, clean, plump, large kind, retail at 25 cents a pound. There are cheaper varieties. Baked lima beans are a splendid food. Whole wheat bread is better than white bread or biscuits, and cheaper. Rice with cheese, is a splendid food, and macaroni is proverbially satisfying. Corn meal made into variations of johnnycake and mush is nourishing, and there is a possible way out of the dilemma of eating satisfyingly without spending your whole income, but it takes all of one individual's time, ingenuity and resourcefulness to accomplish it.

Salads and Things.

A delicious salad to be served with mayonnaise is made of big white cherries filled with broken nut meats. The fruit should be arranged on white lettuce leaves.

A tablespoonful of oranges peeled, divided into sections and cut in pieces and a spoonful of broken pecan meats arranged on a lettuce leaf with mayonnaise make a delicious salad.

For a sightly salad, cut crisp lettuce into shreds and arrange it as a border around a flat salad plate. Among the shreds scatter strips of red pepper or the canned Spanish sweet pepper. In the center pile chopped cabbage mixed with strips of olives or a mound of any fruit or vegetable mixture. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise.

For a late Christmas night supper toast slices of graham bread from which the crust has been cut, spread with butter, cut each slice in two and place on each piece an anchovy. Squeeze a few drops of lemon juice on it sprinkle with cayenne and heat in the oven.

The white grapes for the table tomorrow may be easily frosted. Cut the bunches into convenient size for serving and brush the grapes all over with white of egg and then sprinkle with granulated sugar. Use them as the border with the other fruit in the center of the dish or in the center with apples and oranges around.

TENNIS CHAMPION AND HIS MOTHER

JAY GOULD AND MRS. GEORGE GOULD.

This is a recent picture of Jay Gould, the international tennis champion, taken with his mother on their return from Europe. He is the most athletic of the Gould children, following in the footsteps of his father, who is devoted to polo and other sports.

Fashion's Fads.

The new colors are all subdued, delicacy and refinement adding charm to their beauty.

• • •

Jet buttons are a favorite mode of adding the invaluable touch of black to a colored garment.

• • •

The new felt hats are lovely, the felt in many cases being difficult to distinguish from cloth.

• • •

The newest coiffure is flat in front and piled heavily over the ears. It is called the Brittany.

• • •

Many of the handsomest silk gauzes have printed borders which work well into the new draperies.

• • •

Wide wale serges and other coarse weaves are worn by girls more than the smooth cloths.

• • •

The spherical button in gilt and also in silver is appearing among the novelties in dress trimming.

• • •

Black waists are popular and are shown in net, crepe, voile, messaline, taffeta, moire and satin.

• • •

An extremely smart white felt hat with a brim that dips on one side has two quills as sole trimming.

• • •

There is little limitation upon the length of sleeves, but the general tendency is toward shorter ones.

• • •

Coats for fancy wear have lace insertion on the collar. It is usually placed to form an inset panel. Again, lace is used on the cuffs, entirely covering them, and a belt is designed of lace on the cloth and cut to point low at the front. All pieces are stitched to the jacket.

Fur for Trimming.

Fur is immensely popular for evening wear, and many of the most fragile evening frocks show borders of dark fur, skunk, sable and lynx being the pelts most generally used.

A pink chiffon dinner gown most simply built with a draped surplice bodice and a long tunic drapery was trimmed with bands of skunk fur, which edged the tunic, and also the very deep decolletage of the V-shaped surplice bodice.

Many of the new evening and dinner gowns coming from Paris now show these chiffon tunics bordered with fur, and the style is directly traceable to the Russian influence now dominating dress.

Ermine also will be more used than in many seasons, and on evening wraps the costly and rare white fox is a feature.

Motoring Lorgnettes.

Latest of fads in motor accessories is an isinglass lorgnette which one holds in front of the eyes, instead of using the disfiguring leather goggles.

The isinglass sections have rims of dark velvet, which are most becoming, and a little silk curtain falls over the face.

For midwinter motoring this trifle would not be of much use, for in very bleak winter it would be impossible to hold the gloved hand up in the face of the wind for more than a minute.

For short trips about town, however, the auto lorgnette is a very attractive little affair.

THE EVENING STORY

"AW, CUT IT OUT"

By A. F. Bonney.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

With elbows wide spread on the top rail of the yard fence, hands under clean-shaven chin, he smoked lazily on his "paper pipe." His big spurs hung idle on four high heels of his boots, the empty pistol scabbard clung to his lithe hip. The scabbard was decorated for the owner of it had artistic taste and talent, which he lacked the language to express the idea in such words; he had "just fixed it up to look nice," he said.

It had been a lazy day for him, one of the few which had come into his life, and he reflected morosely on the extreme comfort of a life of toilless ease. From the fine elevation of a man of leisure he surveyed those of his own craft as they worried the sullen cattle pass the place, their explosive English toned down in deference to the divinity that ruled there and the "company." For once he was aloof from his own kind, a guest of the "boss," and on equal terms with the genteel son of the "owner" and his father, who were out on a tour of inspection.

There was a consideration which he added to the habitual scowl on his brow, the inevitable return to the saddle, the weary night guard, the frenzied chase after the stamping herd. The retribution for a few days of ease he saw looming in the tomorrow, a whole perspective of tomorrows, in fact, and unconsciously the smoke of his cigarette oozing from lips and nostrils was mixed and blended with his one persistent soliloquy:

"Aw, cut it out."

The owner's son heard. Seeing, however, that the remark was not intended for him, he smiled.

"Day dreaming," he said.

As inert and sleepy as the man appeared, his eyes almost hidden in the shade of the broad brim of his sombrero, he heard, and suspected a sneer. His hand started on its familiar journey to the scabbard, but remembering that it was empty he surveyed his critic for a time, trying to invent a formula of words sufficiently striking to meet the demands of the case, and failing, said:

"Aw, cut it out!" a little louder than before.

The last savage glance he shot at the other took in for the first time the girl, who was watching him with amused interest. It gave him a queer, not unpleasant sensation, and conscious of height, weight and a certain savage beauty of head, he drew himself up, taking a pull at his neglected smoke.

The most of the herd was now past the house, and the girl and the owner's son went out through the rude gate to the corall near by, where some calves were being branded. As they passed the tactiturn one the owner's son said, pleasantly:

"This is all very novel and interesting to us, while constant repetition has, I presume, made it monotonous to you."

After deep thought the man finally decided that he had analyzed the question, meanwhile deftly rolling another smoke, and he started to answer, when his eyes met those of the girl, deep, blue eyes, which laughed out from a pink and white face framed in a tangle of golden curls, the bewildering combination shaded by a flower-bedecked summer hat. His heart struck his throat, and setting his teeth in his inoffensive cigarette he growled:

"Aw, cut it out!"

And then there came a distance yell, mingled with the sound of pounding hoofs, and turning to look he saw a maddened steer charging down on the two, the bright crimson of the girl's sash a focus for his murderous efforts.

"Run!" screamed the owner's son, grasping the girl and pushing her in front of him, madly conscious of the futility of flight. The girl stumbled and they went down in a helpless heap together, with the onrushing animal almost upon them.

The sullen-eyed man inside the fence spat out the roll of paper his teeth held and, sweeping the big hat from his head, sprang for the fence, which he cleared at a bound, feeling for his gun as he landed on the other side, to give vent to an untranslatable snarl of rage as his hand groped over the empty scabbard. The steer was within a few feet of the glaring red thing now, never pausing at the sight of so common a thing as a cowboy, until with a savage "Aw, cut it out!" the man hurled himself on the animal's head, grasping the nose with one hand and a horn with the other. As the muzzle of the brute was driven into the sand there came the cracking of a pistol shot; but the bullets, spent from long flight, only angered the brute the more.

"Cut it out!" breathed the man to the distant marksman as the steer bore him down.

"Naw ye don't!" as the maddened brute ran swiftly back, trying desperately to shake him off, then surged forward again, his feet pounding against the man's ribs.

The man clung desperately, while feeling his strength failing rapidly, licking at the blood which dripped over his mustache, wondering why in blazes don't the boys get a rope on the cuss? shut his teeth together and spurred his failing strength.

Then: "Aw, cut—" and merciful oblivion cut it out for him.

He lay for a long time dimly conscious of life, not remembering and not caring, only wondering a little regarding his surroundings. Something very like his mother's hand was smoothering his brow, while his nostrils took in a perfume new to the desert. He was not breathing easily, while there was a strange roaring in his ears, through which he heard words of lavish praise he could not understand nor apply, then, all in a flash, his mind cleared and he opened his eyes, his lips moving silently with: "Aw, cut it out!"

A man was speaking, and he recognized the wheezy tones of the voice of the father of the owner's son.

"I tell you, I'll make him the richest man in this country," the voice cried. "I will, by Jove! He won't have to punch cows any more, no, sir. He saved Fred and his wife, and I'll take care of him, yes, sir, by Jove!"

Another voice at his shoulder said: "Oh, he's all right, dad. Hello!" as the man opened his eyes, "Waked up, have you?"

He was lying on the bed in the "spare room" of the house, and curiosity stifled his habitual remark. It was the owner's son who, with professional deftness was pinning bandages around him so tightly that he could not breathe. The blue-eyed girl, her face stained with tears, sat on the other side of the bed, bathing his head with some sort of sweet smelling water.

Then the owner crowded through the circle of anxious faces, repeating his declaration that he was going to make a rich man of the hero, while he wiped hysterical tears from his face.

"What's the old maverick spilling brine for, I wonder?" soliloquized the helpless man, filled with angry contempt for such womanish weakness as tears.

"You're all right," said the owner's son. "A couple of ribs cracked and an arm broken, that is all. Now, brace up."

The owner stood over him, twisting his hands together.

"My boy!" he cried. "You saved their lives. You did, by Jove! And I'll—"

The injured man stirred uneasily, looking him squarely in the face from under sullen brows.

"Aw, cut it out!" he snarled.

Great Pianist Plays A Great Piano

Busoni and His Pellucid-Toned Chickering Have Great Success at Auditorium.

COLOR, DEPTH, WARMTH, RICHNESS

Chickering Repays in Splendid Service Honor Paid It By Busoni.

The concert at the Auditorium by the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, Jan. 19, in which Ferrucio Busoni appeared as soloist, not only revealed a great pianist, but also a great piano. The pellucid tone of the instrument, its warmth and resonance, gave to the whole performance a depth and variety it could not have attained had the piano he played not possessed qualities both new and wonderful—qualities quite unknown to old-time pianos. That a master like Busoni chooses to play the Chickering is ample argument for its supremacy among pianos, but not even a master could have commanded so much of pure enchantment, color, virile tone and musical thunder from any but a masterpiece in the way of a piano. The artist owed it much in the wide canvas of the Liszt concerto, and he owed it even more for the delicacy it gave to the Chopin Nocturne, while its nobility and delicate, yet strong, perfection were fully revealed in the building of the great crescendo in the Chopin polonaise.

In everything played it gave witchery for his witchery and magnetism for his magnetism—piano and pianist happily companioned.

Chickering Pianos are sold exclusively by

EDUCATION IS REMEDY

Dr. Sperry Says Medical Men Are Fighting "Black Plague."

Segregation of Evil Does Not Have Desired Results, He Says.

With all the attention the white plague has attracted, there is a more terrible disease, known as the black plague, which is menacing not only the health of the youth of the nation, but of posterity, according to Dr. Lyman B. Sperry, eminent authority on sexual diseases, who is delivering a course of lectures to young men at the Y. M. C. A. this week.

Death, ill health and evil results to children that are born without the heritage of health, as well as degeneracy in the physical standard of the race, result from the black plague, according to the statement of the doctor.

Dr. Sperry was asked what the physicians and medical fraternity of the country were doing to minimize the evil results of this national evil.

His answer was very simple and direct: "Education, the intelligent, forceful and kindly presentation of facts."

"There is a false idea that the social evil is better when licensed and segregated, than to have the evil scattered over a community," said the doctor in reply to a question. "This idea is both theoretically and practically erroneous.

"Investigation has proved that much of the disease originates in the so-called 'red light' districts. Medical prevention of disease in these dives is impractical. Most examinations of the inmates are perfunctary, carried out under the provision of a law or ordinance that is but carelessly enforced in many cases.

"It is not so much reform; rather, it is the dissemination of true facts, information setting forth the evil results to the young men. By letting the young men of the nation know the terrible facts in the case, much of the disease can be remedied and many young men saved in the future."

In both New York and Chicago, according to the statement of Dr. Sperry, are societies that are doing great good in the attempt to prevent the spread of the black plague. Much of the work of these two medical societies lies in the dissemination of literature giving the true facts.

This literature is distributed at cost. It is sent out through the Y. M. C. A., through school boards, through ministers of the gospel, and through other mediums. The great sin is to get the facts into the hands of the youth and the young men of the nation.

Dr. Sperry says the age of prurient ideas along many of the vital things in life is slowly passing. People, that people who are broad and sensible, know that there are many facts that must be placed squarely before the young men of the country. It is this method that is being followed by the two societies, one in New York and the other in Chicago.

And along with the black plague Dr. Sperry classes drinking and the use of powerful narcotic stimulants. He believes they travel hand in hand, a trio of iniquity—alcohol, drugs and the social evil.

Ignorance, that in the past has been profound, is often the cause of terrible results, says the doctor. He points out that it was, and perhaps, is, the deep ignorance of parents and their sons and daughters, that has enabled the rapid spread in this country of the black plague.

Education must be made the basis of the fight against the spread of the evil, Dr. Sperry says that at the present time perhaps the turning point of the evil has been reached in this country. Perhaps, he says, the evil has reached its height. The people of the country are alive to the danger, and a campaign of education is on.

Dr. Sperry believes that Horace Greely told a great truth when he intimated that reform was more a matter of education than revival or exhortation. This idea has been followed out by many of the physicians of the country. Dr. Sperry believes that much is up to the individual; his manhood is at stake. The facts, the terrible consequences, can and should be placed before the young man. It is his right to know. But the doctor also suggests that much is expected of the youth of this country in the battle that is being waged against the plague that threatens to become worse than the white plague that is attracting the attention of the medical fraternity of the world.

Dr. Sperry says the prevalence of loathsome and dreadful disease is greater than people imagine. He says little is known or cared for the dreadful consequences this disease must carry to the future generations of this country. Facts, plain, straightforward facts, are recommended by him as weapons for the fight against the terrible plague.

The Civil and Spanish-American wars were partly responsible for the spread of the black plague in this country, according to the doctor. The fast life of many of the young men of the cities of this country have also caused the spread of the various sexual diseases, he says.

TOO MUCH MONEY TIED UP IN WORTHLESS MARRIAGE LICENSE; WANTED $2 BACK

He was a shy, timid-appearing youth and he approached the counter at the clerk of court's office in a timid way.

He didn't appear to be in a hurry and seemed at a loss as to just how he ought to begin. He appeared ill at ease and the high collar he wore seemed to choke him. He was thin and gaunt and didn't look as though his last night's rest had been particularly refreshing.

He glanced about the room as though in search of a place to escape in case escape was necessary, and began: "I want to return a marriage license."

The clerk was amazed. It broke all records in the office. Never before had such a thing been heard of. The clerk shifted from one foot to the other in an uneasy manner. The silence embarrassed them both. One was awaiting an answer, the other did not know what to say. The strange young man began to perspire noticeably and the clerk wondered if it would be policy to laugh.

"Why,"—— he stammered, "what on earth is the trouble?"

"It's this way," began the worried one. "It isn't mine, you know," and with this off his mind he seemed more at ease. "A friend of mine got it a while back. It is still good, I think, and he wants it changed."

"What does he want for it," asked the clerk.

"His money," answered the tall one.

"But why? Tell me all about it," said the clerk, for he is naturally a curious person and likes to probe into strange affairs.

"I don't know much about it, but the girl, that is, the girl that was to have been, or had promised to be, or thought she wanted to, well, marry him, you understand, gave him the slip at the last moment. Went clean back on him. Says that he isn't good looking enough and refuses to patch up. He didn't have the nerve to bring this document up here and he made me do it. He is down at the door waiting for his $2 now. I told him to save the paper, that it might come in handy some time, but he said that he needed the $2, and that he refused to have it tied up in romance. He said the paper didn't amount to anything anyway, and that the clerk of court would hand back the money if the ceremony had not been performed."

This recital was given in a low voice, and all through the clerk of court listened attentively. "Tell you what you do," he said, "Bring up the unhappy man and let's have a look at him."

Then the waiting began. There was no reappearance on the part either of the principal or the man who was acting as agent, although they are anxiously awaited.

It is the first time in the history of the local court that an attempt has been made to return a marriage license.

LINE TO NORTH LAKE.

Lake Superior & Ishpeming Road Preparing to Extend.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway company is preparing to extend its line to the Cleveland-Cliffs iron company's North Lake property. The line will branch out from the main track at a point a trifle north of the Lake Superior dump, at the western end of Division street, and will cross both the Northwestern and South Shore tracks, also West Division street, about 100 feet or so west of Division street crossing.

The management of the railway company has asked the city for the privilege of changing Division street from the north to the south side of the Cleveland-Cliffs' barn. The members of the committee on streets and alleys, together with Supt. Devine of the board of public works, and a representative of the railway company, looked over the ground Monday with a view to preparing a report regarding the proposed change in the street, to submit to the council at its next regualr meeting.

ROSSI'S MONTH IS ALMOST OVER

Italian's Time in County Jail Is Now About Up.

Rossi's month ends Sunday.

When the Italian was sentenced one month ago, he was ordered committed to the county jail for one month and to then be hanged on a date to be set by the governor.

It is expected that the date of the hanging will soon be set. This will to a certain extent lessen the condemned man's suspense. He is fearful that it will be very soon after his month has expired.

Just where the hanging will take place is already a matter of speculation about the jail and courthouse. It is expected, however, that the courtroom in the old building in which Henderson was hanged years ago, will again be pressed into service and the scaffold erected there.

As the days go by Rossi does not gain in courage, but he still hopes that the sentence may be changed to life imprisonment.

CASE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Mrs. Miller Settles Claim Held By St. Louis County.

For a consideration that is not made public the county has settled its case against Mrs. A. M. Miller, who took certain house fixtures and shrubs away from the property after it had been sold to the county.

The case was to have come up in district court this morning before Judge Dibell. The parties to the action got together shortly before the session and agreed to settle.

The case has been dragging along ever since the work was begun on the new building. The property was condemned and later bought by the county. On her removal from her former residence, Mrs. Miller took articles with her that the county believed it had bought and paid for. The shrubbery about the house was also considered bought with the rest of the property. At first the county believed that it had been damaged to the extent of $2,000. Later it offered to settle for $1,000.

The basis for the final settlement is not known.

UNNATURAL THINNESS EASILY CORRECTED.

By Clever Prescription Which Can Be Filled at Any Drug Store.

No Need to Be Thin Now as Reports Show This Method Effective.

People who are very thin and scrawny ought not to be so. Undoubtedly they are more subject to disease and contagions than the normally fleshy. Thinness is usually accompanied by weakness, and weakness subjects any one to colds, coughs, consumption, pneumonia, etc. It has been discovered, almost by accident, that tincture cadomene, when combined in a prescription with proper accelerative medicines, becomes one of the most valuable, effective, and reliable nutritive or flesh making medicines known to science. It is especially beneficial to men and women between the ages of sixteen and fifty-five, who, from lack of proper nerve force and digestion, remain undeveloped in body, limbs, arms and bust. A well rounded symmetrical figure in man or woman indicates health, magnetism, stamina and happiness.

The reader who wishes to add from ten to forty pounds should not fail to begin with this valuable prescription:

First, obtain of any well stocked druggist, three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb in an 8 oz. bottle. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol. Shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take one teaspoonful before each meal, one after each meal. Drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Keep up this treatment regularly and of a certainty from one to three pounds will be added to the weight each week, and the general health will also improve.

BIG INSURANCE FRAUD SCENTED

"Graveyard" Swindles Alleged By Companies Against People of Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—"I believe this investigation now under way will unearth the biggest swindle in the insurance line ever exposed west of New York," said State Insurance Commissioner Bell today, as he took up the case of Walter E. Rider, a teamster who died Jan. 4 and whose body was examined yesterday by the coroner at the request of certain insurance companies.

The death certificate indicated that Rider died of intestinal trouble, but it is reported that the autopsy, which began this morning, showed a large portion of the lungs eaten away, supposedly by tuberculosis.

"Graveyard" Swindles.

Commissioner Bell has taken up the case upon the request of life insurance companies in cities in Indiana and Tennessee, who are said to be large losers by reason of "graveyard swindles. These companies, which it is alleged have already paid $10,000 on policies issued in the Rider case, are excluded from business in this state, but it is said have carried on a large business in Kentucky through an agency at New Albany, Ind., across the river from Louisville.

The scheme worked on the companies is to a certain extent an old one, the company issuing the policy to men virtually in the shadow of the grave after having examined a man of athletic build.

The classic is represented by two of the classic is represented by two portions of Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique," beautiful in expression and sentiment, while the operatic contributes that portion of act 4 of "Carmen" known as "Here They Come," where the approaching cavalcade can be heard faintly, gradually increasing in volume. The imitation of the beat of the horses' hoofs is perfect. Then comes the chorus, and a strain of the song of the "Toreador." The program concludes with Wagner's great overture to the opera of "Rienzi" with its celebrated prayer and full harmonies, calling on all the resources of the organ and the player.

TALKS ABOUT FOOD CRISIS

Wilson Says Prices Are Higher in America Than Anywhere Else.

Claims That Leaving of the Farms Is Cause of the Trouble.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—"It costs more to get the common necessities of life in the United States today than in any other country in the world," was the statement made last night by James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, in an address delivered before the Manufacturers' club of this city.

Secretary Wilson discussed "The Present Food Crisis," in a way that was original and forceful.

"Some people," he said, "tell us that if we repeal the present tariff law to let in foreign products free of duty, the present difficulty would cease. I do not believe it. Eggs are 35 cents a dozen in Canadian cities and 60 cents a dozen in some American cities. The duty is 3 cents a dozen. What difference would it make whether you took off that 3 cents or not?"

"Cost of High Living."

The secretary further stated that he believed the American people are suffering at present not so much from the high cost of living, as from the cost of high living, his statement being:

"It has been said that an American is the best fed, best clothed, best educated and best housed man upon the earth. We shall have to add now that he is the most expensively fed."

Secretary Wilson pointed out that the fundamental difficulty was that the people are leaving the farms to such an extent that there are not enough remaining to produce the food of the increasing population. The boys and girls of the farm, he asserted, are being lured away to the cities, to the factories and to the mines, and to too great an extent the agricultural resources of the country are being neglected.

Combinations to Blame.

He said he was convinced that the combinations of retailers, wholesalers and the like were responsible in great measure for the keeping up of high prices, and that that same influence would be sufficient to control the prices of products brought from other countries, even though the tariff were removed.

Secretary Wilson spoke of manufacturers as follows:

"The record made by the manufacturers of the United States is a good one. Conditions have been favorable. A highly intelligent people, abundance of raw material, well-developed systems of transportation and a home market unequalled, have furnished facilities for the application of capital, skill and labor to the production of manufactures.

"The education of the farmer, however, has been overlooked. Manufacturing industries have built up cities, towns and villages, but the growth of knowledge of the soil, the plant and the animal has not been fostered.

Educated Away From Farms.

"The young farmer has been educated away from the farm and from the production of food for the people. The school, the college and the university, which admirably prepare young men and women for their life work in all other directions, have forgotten the farmer."

In discussing further the lure from the farm to the cities, the secretary continued:

"It is up to you, gentlemen of the Manufacturers' club, to look into these things. Go down to the foundation and inquire. If you find my statement to be correct, that the people are leaving the farms to such an extent that there are not enough left to produce the food of our growing population, take steps to have the young farmer taught regarding his life work.

"You should be giving instruction to 10,000 young men and women along these lines. In the winter time they might be getting theoretical knowledge and be introduced to applied science. In the summer they should go into the fields. If you do not have enough acres, Pennsylvania has plenty of acres.

Plea for Education.

"Get a farm big enough to educate the people who are to grow your food in the future if you are to have food in the future that can be sold to the people at reasonable prices. If it is necessary to get a 5,000-acre farm, get it."

The secretary closed his plea for the agricultural education of the young with the declaration that the worst farming is being done East of the Alleghany mountains.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR and we can

PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DAKOTA NOT WORRYING

High Cost of Living Not Bothering Residents of Neighboring State.

Farmers After Getting Good Prices for Everything Are in Clover.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cost of living is not bothering the people of North Dakota, according to M. F. Murphy, the Grand Forks banker, who is in Minneapolis on business. He says the North Dakota farmers are getting good prices for grain and are happy.

Mr. Murphy is president of nine banks, former president of the North Dakota Bankers' association and formerly a member of the state senate. He was a passenger on the ill-fated steamer Republic, which sank a year ago off the Massachusetts coast, and on which there were a number of Minneapolis people who escaped.

Farmer Not Getting All.

"This agitation of the higher cost of living is not affecting us except that we resent the insinuation that the farmer is getting all the advantage," said Mr. Murphy. "It is true that farm prices have been high and more remunerative than in past years, but the farmer puts back into his investment in one form or another between 80 and 90 per cent of his total gross annual income, and on Red river valley land, worth $40 to $50 an acre, he ought to be entitled to make a net profit of 10 per cent at least. The average farmer works hard and is entitled to all he gets."

E. J. Weiser, vice president of the First National bank of Fargo is also in Minneapolis. "In Chicago and the East, where I have been, there is much talk of the cost of living," said Mr. Weiser. "It seemed the popular topic of conversation. We know little about it in Fargo. As grains and hogs go up the farmers of North Dakota are benefited. Conditions are very prosperous. We are not troubled with the problem."

WALSH ESTATE CASE SETTLED

Women Who Nursed North Dakotan Before Death Win Out in Contest.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The famous Martin Walsh case, which has been pending several years, was settled here yesterday when M. J. Moran, as administrator of the estate, paid the money to the beneficiaries, Mary Carney and Mary Payne, who took care of Walsh before his death.

John Walsh, George W. Walsh, Josephine Walsh, Mary Keys and Elizabeth Porter, relatives of Walsh, contested the will and undertook to collect the insurance. Judge Hassell held that the assignment of the will was sufficient. The heirs appealed to the district court and Judge Templeton ruled that the assignment was insufficient. Moran then appealed to the supreme court on the ground that if the will operated as an assignment the beneficiaries would receive the money, while if the will did not so operate the heirs would receive the property. The supreme court upheld him and Judge Hassell in this ruling.

Several of the plaintiffs were not converted to the ruling of the supreme court and withdrew from the case, while others filed a stipulation of dismissal several days ago.

FINE EXHIBIT BY DULUTH CONCERNS

At North Dakota Hardware Dealers' Association Meet at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before the meeting of the North Dakota Hardware Dealers' association here ends today action will be taken looking towards the appointment of a legislative committee to work with similar committees of other trade organizations in this state.

Fargo and Devils Lake are candidates for the 1911 convention. The fact that this year has seen the institution of the hardware exposition, makes it necessary that cities that would hereafter entertain in the association must be able to afford such accommodations as will care for the exhibit.

In the exposition this year remarkably fine displays have been made by the leading manufacturers and jobbers of the county. One of the most extensive is by the Marshall-Wells company of Duluth, while the Kelly-How-Thompson company of the same city also has a very creditable display.

The features of yesterday afternoon's session were addresses by President F. L. McVey of the state university, and George Maxwell of Chicago, representing the American Home Craft society.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. Mackenzie, chairman of the Northern Minnesota Development association, under the auspices of which there will be held here, Feb. 17 and 18, a development and reapportionment meeting, is daily receiving many letters in answer to the call to the counties of Northern Minnesota to send delegates to the meeting.

Many of the replies are couched in strong terms as to the unfair treatment which has been accorded Northern Minnesota, and commending the efforts of the committee of the Commercial club to get representatives together from the various counties so as to come to an understanding as to concerted movements that will result in obtaining what the North-country residents desire and have legitimately coming.

Present indications point to there being a very large attendance at the meeting, as the request for the names of the chairmen of the boards of county commissioners and the suggestion urged upon them to appoint delegates to the convention, in addition to the delegates to be elected by the commercial clubs of the district.

Arrangements will be made here to properly care for the visiting delegates, so that everything of importance to the participants can be discussed and united action taken for the betterment of conditions generally hereabouts.

Several prominent newspapers are taking up the appeal of the development association for bettering the conditions, and the agitation promises action at the convention.

All replies so far received to the circulars are of a very optimistic nature and assure the local committee that everything possible will be done to further the success of the meeting.

THIEF RIVER FALLS BUSINESS BUILDING.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—As soon as work can be started in the spring, Dr. Grundy will begin the erection of a large double front brick store building on his lots on Third street, to occupy the ground on which now stands the Cady confectionery store and the Vallacher tailor shop.

These buildings will be removed this winter and the excavation started in a short time. It is the purpose of the architect to plan for a two-story structure, but with walls which will be sufficiently heavy to be raised one or two stories more, should business warrant it. Just across Third street from this proposed store building will be constructed the $45,000 Evelyn hotel by Julian Provencher of this city. This also will be started in less than eight weeks and when completed will be the most complete hotel in Northwestern Minnesota, and at the same time one of the handsomest structures in the city.

THE GARDEN PLAN MUST WIN.

It was made quite evident at last night's meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club that what is needed to make Duluth go ahead, and to carry out such plans as the Williams market garden project, is a little more enthusiasm.

That plan needs enthusiasm quite as much as it needs investigation; and it has had too little enthusiasm—the kind of enthusiasm that breaks through obstacles or finds a way around, that refuses to admit defeat until defeat cannot be escaped.

The Williams plan came mighty near defeat last night, apparently more because this kind of enthusiasm was lacking than because of any insurmountable obstacles in the way of its success. There are no insurmountable obstacles in its way. If, in its original form, it does not form an investment promising rich and immediate returns to those who put their money into it, it should be easy to alter it to make it win. For instance, if a trolley road seven miles long cannot be justified from a financial viewpoint, very likely a shorter road can be justified. That way out is now being investigated, and while it is being looked into, what is needed even more is a deeper appreciation of how important it is to Duluth that this plan, or some plan reaching the same results, be carried out.

For Duluth could better afford to bribe farmers to settle on its nearby soil, in order to get its development started, than it could to let matters stand as they are. Failure to develop the nearby soil and thus open the way for feeding Duluth's population without paying heavy tolls in long distance freight rates pretty nearly means failure to develop the enormous possibilities that lie dormant in this city. Duluth can't continue to import its food from a distance and expect to grow very rapidly. The problem of the cost of living is vexatious everywhere in the country; and to the handicaps that prevail elsewhere, in Duluth is added an additional burden because the rich nearby soil is not being made to raise the food needed in Duluth.

This problem is fundamental. It is the cornerstone in the foundation of that Greater Duluth which every loyal citizen expects to see develop within a few years. Here is the market—hungry, profitable, ready to consume all that can be raised. There lies the soil—rich, fertile, capable of yielding the food needed in Duluth and independence and even wealth for those who cultivate it. But market and soil have stood side by side for many years, and unless herculean efforts are put forth along lines similar to those laid down in the Williams plan, they will stand side by side without profitable relationship for many years more. Meantime, Duluth must get its food from afar, paying heavy freight tolls and the tolls of two or three sets of middlemen.

On its face, the Williams plan seems certain to succeed; but it will not succeed of its own momentum, for it has no momentum unless Duluth provides it. As it stands, it is an enertia to be overcome, and at present the city's attitude toward it is too much like another inertia.

It would be foolhardy to blunder into a visionary scheme without counting the cost, and without making it reasonably certain that it will not fail. The cost must be counted, and all possible obstacles surveyed. But the plan should not be dropped when the first obstacle comes in sight. If there isn't a way through it, maybe there is a way over it. If there isn't a way over it, there must be a way around it. There is a way, whether it is through, over or around the obstacle; and nothing is more important than that Duluth should find that way and go ahead.

THE SHORT BALLOT.

The old idea of government in this country was that the best way was to scatter power by making practically all important offices—and many unimportant ones—elective for short terms.

The new idea is to concentrate responsibility into fewer hands, give them longer terms, and add the principle of the "recall" to be used if they misuse their power.

For the trouble with the old way is that while it does scatter power, it also scatters responsibility, and between so many dodging centers of responsibility it often is impossible to know where to point the finger of accusation; so the people's business suffers. Besides, while having many elective offices scatters official power, it increases and concentrates the power of the bosses, who have plenty of trading material and can play one set of offices off against another set to their own advantage and the people's cost.

Prof. C. A. Beard of Columbia university recently said, in discussing this subject: "We have tried in the United States almost every scheme known in the history of politics except, simple, direct and responsible government." Both the fear of democracy and the passion for democracy, he added, has led to the organization of a most cumbersome political machinery, in the cogs and wheels of which the voter was lost and only the professional politician was thoroughly at home.

That expresses the situation admirably, and it shows why many people are talking of what is called the "short ballot movement." That movement proposes the "simple, direct, responsible government" which has not yet been tried, and which seems likely to be tried soon. It is being tried partially in many cities, and no city that has adopted it in the commission form of municipal government has yet returned to the old way; and here's a prediction that none will return.

Suppose that in the national government not only the president and vice president, but the secretaries of the treasury, state, war, navy, agriculture, interior and commerce and labor, and the attorney general were elective. The people of the country would know a good deal about the candidates for the presidency; they couldn't possibly know much about the candidates for the other places. The bosses would pick them, and responsibility would be scattered so widely that the people never would know whom to blame. As it is now, only the president and vice president are elected, and the president appoints and is personally responsible for the other officers, who are members of his cabinet.

The same plan can be carried into the state government, the county government and the city government; and while the idea is new The Herald is strongly inclined to believe that the change would be for the better. At any rate, it is hard to see how it could make for the worse.

A MAD WORLD.

People are still talking of a war between Germany and England—a war that, if it were calamitously precipitated, would not only plunge these two nations into a gulf of horror, misery and suffering, but that would drag other countries in with them. During the recent British campaign all the lords had to do was to shake the German war scarecrow before the fascinated eyes of the populace, and all the real issues of the contest disappeared.

Why should Germany and England fight? Nobody knows; yet everybody knows why they should not fight. William Bayard Hale, upon his return from Europe, where he has been in a position accurately to judge the situation, contributes to the World's Work an illuminating article which bears out the theory that the threat of war beween Germany and England is proof conclusive that this is a mad world.

"Neither the German government nor the British seeks war or desires it," says Mr. Hale. "No issue, dispute or controversy exists between them, nor does the prospect of any exist. No honest ground for hostilities could be found by either if it desired today to assault the other—a pretext would have to be invented. There exists no secret dossier that troubles the chancellor; there impends no delicate negotiation to justify concern. So, as the course of international relations ordinarily exists, there is no cloud in the sky. Relations could not be more strictly 'correct' than they are. It is possible to go further: those responsible for the conduct of the government of England, and equally those responsible for the conduct of that of Germany, not only do not desire war, but, for the strongest of reasons, do today desire to avoid war."

Yet the war talk continues, and war yet may come. It is a curious example of the bewildering psychology of national spirit. Neither government wishes war; both governments wish to avert war. Neither people wishes war; both peoples wish to avert war: for it is the people who pay for war in blood and death and misery and deprivation and hunger and the moans of widows and orphans. Yet war may come.

The two countries, in this light, are much like two timorous men, shut into a dark room together, unconscious of each other's presence but both fearing attack. When they jostle in the dark, they fight. There is no reason; but they fight. So it may be with Germany and England.

Neither country has much to gain by war; both countries have much to lose. No matter which won, both would lose. The contest would be the greatest, the deadliest and the costliest the world ever has seen. Six months of it, according to Mr. Hale, "would halve the fortunes of England's rich and double the sufferings of its starving poor." Germany has been struggling during the last three years to get enough revenue to meet its peace expenses; war expenses would be ruinous. Both countries have domestic problems needing all their attention. England is undergoing a peaceable revolution toward equality of opportunity; Germany is passing through a period of commercial and industrial development that war would paralyze.

Yet, in spite of all these things, and in spite of the fact that war is barbarous and foolish and should be abolished, war yet may come. "Both powers," says Mr. Hale, "are keenly alive to the dangers of a conflict. It could only be a fight to a finish. It would almost certainly involve other powers. Japan is in full alliance with England; Russia and France are its sworn friends. The vitality of the Drei-Bund was proven last spring; Italy may be lukewarm but Austria is heart and hand with Germany. From a struggle which would dwarf the Napoleonic cataclysm of a century ago, who can say what would emerge? What cell in the mind of kaiser or king could dream of inviting such chances?"

Yet the conviction that war will come is ground so thoroughly into the minds of both countries, that many in Europe regard war as inevitable. War, then, would be without reason, and war without reason is madness.

THE SIXTH AMENDMENT.

All of the proposed charter amendments have been discussed in The Herald except the sixth, that raising the salary of the city assessor from $1,800 to $2,400 a year. The other eight amendments have been explained by T. T. Hudson and T. W. Hugo of the charter commission and by Mayor Haven, and from these explanations The Herald has come unqualifiedly to the conclusion that the first six amendments should be adopted and the last three rejected. It believes that the good sense of the community will agree with this conclusion, and that if those who vote at the election remember to vote on the charter amendments and the bond issue, the bond issue and the first six amendments will be adopted, and the last three amendments will be defeated.

The sixth amendment hardly needs explanation. The city assessor now gets $1,800 a year, and it is proposed to raise it to $2,400 a year. Anybody who reflects upon the importance of this office to every citizen will realize why the increase is proposed. Upon the city assessor depends the adequacy and justice of the assessment for taxation of all the property in Duluth. It needs a big and well qualified man. It cannot be expected that that sort of a man will take the place and give all his time to the work for the meager pay now provided.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FOR MEAT ABSTAINERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading about the different organizations intending to cut out meat eating for one month. Now my husband has always been a very heavy meat eater, but I sometimes put before him a dish which he thinks far surpasses meat, and it might come in handy now.

The recipe is as follows: Take two cups of rice, wash clean and put into rice or oat meal boiler with about three pints of boiling water, and a teaspoonful of salt. Cover and let cook three or four hours, or until quite solid. Put away to cool. When needed, cut slices about an inch thick, put into a pan with plenty of hot drippings. When one side is cooked, turn and cook the other side to a light brown. Have ready a bowl with two or three eggs beaten lightly. Add two tablespoonfuls of milk, a pinch of salt and pepper, and a heaping teaspoonful of flour, beat together and pour over the rice. When cooked turn with cake turner. Turn on to hot platter and serve.

THE ONLY REMEDY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The high cost of living and Uncle Joe Cannon seem paramount among topics for discussion now-a-days in the press, both being liberally criticised and neither seemingly seriously affected. A cure against Cannon and Cannonism may be effected in Mr. Cannon's congressional district, while a lasting remedy for high prices can only be administered at the base of supply where the cause exists. There is no trouble at centers of consumption. Things are working perfectly and with a clock's regularity there, in spite of boycotts and legislative investigation. People may boycott eggs and meat but it will not caange the situation. Did you ever board where the landlady tried to boycott your appetite? If so, you know what the effect was. The American people are accustomed to the use of the best food stuff agriculture produces, and they are not going to deny themselves a square meal in these most prosperous times; and as for legislative investigation in congress and the Capitol City it may be effective on commodities they produce, such as politicians and officeholders, but it will not affect the price of living. If our politicians will come out here to Roseau valley they will find that our farmers are receiving two and three times as much for their butter, eggs, cheese, meats, grain, vegetables, wool, hides, horses, etc., as they did a few years ago, and that they are not able to supply the demand at that. It is not coffee, sugar, tobacco, illuminating oils, fuel, building materials, and such like that are high. No, it is such commodities as our Northwestern farmer produces and here we will have to administer our remedies if we desire results; and unless we do so, present high prices will not only continue, but go higher. A few years ago prices of farm produce were low and a general discontent existed among our country folks and migration from the farms to the cities followed. Thousands of farms in Minnesota alone were thus vacated, the fields lying idle entirely, and when used abused until they produced little or nothing. This at a time when the consumers have doubled numerically. Under these conditions is it to wonder at the high prices? Has not the scarcity always had a tendency of advancing the price of a commodity? Therefore, if we really wish to do something to relieve the situation or prevent it from getting worse, let us encourage occupation and cultivation of the farm and to accomplish this end the press can do more than any other existing agency. If people learn of the profits there are in farming under the present conditions, and that fertile farm land can be secured cheaply and on easy terms, there can be no doubt that thousands will join the producing forces and that production may be increased so as to meet consumption. In this way the high cost of living might be reduced, and not otherwise. Most respectfully submitted.

SOME MUCH NEEDED REFORM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

If you will now kindly spare a little more of your valuable space, I should like very much to add my firm, and I think widely shared, opinion to those of "A Duluth Girl," "A Tramp Stenographer" and others which I have read with much interest. The filthy habit of expectorating on the sidewalks, street cars, etc., and the unspeakable one of blowing the nose on the sidewalks, are tolerated to an almost incredible extent in Duluth nowadays. The last mentioned "custom" one usually associates with only the very lowest and roughest class of men, but a few months' residence, or even a few days' visit, in Duluth effectually explodes that idea, if, indeed, one may be allowed to assume that some well-dressed and respectable appearing man really consider themselves above the aforesaid low class. My recollection is that "A Tramp Stenographer" (whose suggestions I read when in Duluth a few weeks ago) said that enforcing a few laws would be in truth "Doing it for Duluth," and that is true in more than one sense, as, if the city authorities (?) would very justly impose a few fines each day, the city would most certainly be much better off financially as well as morally at the end of a year, and might then have more money for illuminating its now poorly lighted residential streets, adequately sprinkling the same in summer, and making proper provision for clearing snow from the sidewalks and abolishing the aboriginal idea of simply allowing the snow and ice to "stay and melt off." In well-regulated cities of any size the sidewalks are all cleaned within a surprisingly short time after snow ceases falling—each citizen attending to the walk in front of his premises, and upon his failure so to do after one warning from a police officer, such citizen is promptly fined. This may be astounding to some Duluthians, but I know whereof I speak, as my observations have extended beyond Two Harbors and Fond du Lac. And to go back for a minute to "Don't Spit on the Floor—Read the Ordinance," I am informed that a man, accompanied by a woman, was seen to clear his throat thoroughly and then lean over and expectorate, not once, but several times, on the floor in front of the vacant seat next to him at one of the local theaters, and a few minutes later another woman occupies that seat and wipes the floor with her skirts. Hasten the building of the tuberculosis sanitarium.

I noticed, too, the many admonitions to the children about exercising care in coasting down the street. Just fancy such an idea! Few persons are fonder of seeing the children enjoy themselves in every possible and reasonable way than I am, but there are plenty of suitable hills for them to coast to their hearts' content without endangering not only their own lives and limbs, but those of pedestrians also. One could imagine such a thing being tolerated in a small town or village, but who ever before heard of children being allowed to coast down some of the principal streets of a "city," and crossing car lines and streets such as First and Second? Only last week a tot of 3 years was saved from instant death almost by a miracle, and her sled smashed to atoms by the car. Methinks I hear "Huh, wonder if he was ever a child himself?" Yes, he was. Yours respectfully, A. C. H.

Guess What Happened.

He met her in the darkened hall,
And whispered, "I bring you roses."
Not relevant was her reply at all.
She said: "How cold your nose is!"

THE WEATHER.

FAIR

Last night was somewhat breezy, though not very uncomfortable. Today is fine, but the lower temperature promised for tonight will be welcome, for the weather today is nearly soft. Fair weather is promised for tomorrow. A year ago today it was spring-like.

The sun rose this morning at 7:39 and it will set at 5:03, giving nine hours and twenty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions are central this morning over Lake Ontario, Manitoba and Texas. During the past twenty-four hours these disturbances have caused rain or snow in the lake region, New England states, the Upper Mississippi valley, Utah, Nevada and Oregon. Moderately high winds also occurred in the lake region and Ohio valley during either Wednesday or last night. Colder weather prevails in the western lake region, Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys as a result of an increase in pressure. The barometer is highest over Utah and Nevada.

"The easterly movement of this high pressure area will cause a further drop in temperature at the Head of the Lakes during tonight."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

From Bob to Adolph.

Princeton Union: "Governor Inhales Gas," says a headline in a Kentucky paper. With Minnesota's governor, it is exactly the reverse.

Not Settled Yet.

Hibbing Tribune: United on Eberhart the probabilities are that the Republicans will win. But it is not a certainty. There are things to be thought about. Such as the Dunn and Jacobson and other sore spots, the "independent" madness, and—John Lind.

So it is not altogether certain as yet, who will be the next governor of Minnesota.

Not Much Longer, However.

Madison Independent Press: Pinchot says the rights of the common people need conservation just as much as do the resources of the country. In this statement, Pinchot is right, but the common people are going to get it right where Mr. Pinchot got his, in fact, the common people have been getting it for the past twenty years.

Neither.

Glenwood Herald: Mr. Dunn has for the last three months been using his little hammer on Governor Eberhart to the tune of about twenty-three knocks per issue of the Princeton Union. In the last issue, there was only one knock and it was almost in the nature of a friendly pat. Has Mr. Dunn changed his mind, or is the hammer out of order?

Higher Up Call—Maybe.

Elk River Star-News: A good deal of speculation is being indulged in by the newspapers as to whether R. C. Dunn of Princeton would consent to serve a term in legislature from this district. There is nothing to be gained in honor for such a course by Mr. Dunn, but should he consent, the district would have a live wire in the next legislature. There would probably be but little opposition to him, should he consent, but—it is not yet fully settled that Bob may not have a higher up call.

Makes Little Difference Which.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel: Fur Press (Rep.): The next Republican candidate for presidency will be an insurgent, or the next president will be a Democrat.

Only the Little Are Jealous.

Hibbing Tribune: Are you jealous of the other fellow? Don't let anybody find it out, for it is certain evidence of smallness of soul.

Poor Old G. O. P.' Rather.

Appleton Press: Republicans still protest that they would be good if Cannon would let them. Poor old Joe Cannon!

Posed as a Joke, It Is a Joke.

Moose Lake Star-Gazette: The parties who engineered the anti-cigarette law through the legislature last winter must be proud of their fiendish achievement. There are just as many smoked by minors as before the passage, the general tendency being to bring all law into contempt. Minnesota would do well to follow the example of Indiana and repeal the absurd enactment.

When Roosevelt Is Speaker.

(Extract from the Congressional Record of future date.)

The House was called to order, with the Speaker in the chair;
The gentleman from Tennessee rose promptly to declare
He espoused a point of order, and he asked the Speaker that
To settle it he'd wrestle him two rounds upon the mat.

That ceremony finished, with the Tennesseean downed,
The Speaker donned his coat again and took a look around,
Till the gentleman from Wyoming his eye essayed to catch
And recalled that he had promised him a four-round boxing match
To decide a little question of appropriation for
An irrigation project that had hung a year or more.

Then the member from Rhode Island asked the Speaker right to make
Debate upon a bill for his constituency's sake.
I'll run you around the Capitol," the Speaker said, "and then
If you succeed in winning you can talk from 4 to 10."

The Gentleman from Delaware refused to yield the floor
To the gentleman from Maryland, which quickly raised a roar.
The Speaker called them up to him and made them fight it out
In strictly prize-ring manner, and he refereed the bout.

"I'll now appoint committees," said the Speaker with a grin.
"We'll have a battle royal and the strongest ones shall win."
The House then stripped to fighting togs, the desks were moved away,
And the auction was a corker for the balance of the day.

At 4 o'clock the Speaker looked upon the panting pile.
"Will some one move we now adjourn?" he murmured with a smile.
The motion made, he donned his hat.
"And now come on," said he;
"We'll take a jaunt of ninety miles and then all go to tea!"

—PAUL WEST, In New York World.

An Impossible Task.

Puck: "This fight must go on, and you are the men who must carry it on. Stay by the work; hold fast to the standards we have set together. Never allow yourself to forget that you are serving a much greater master than the department of agriculture, or even the administration. You are serving the people of the United States."—Gifford Pinchot to the Foresters.

President Taft dismissed Mr. Pinchot, not because of any question of the latter's ability as an expert servant of the people, but because of certain acts of Pinchot's, bearing on the controversy with Ballinger, that have been generally classed as insubordination. Mr. Pinchot for years has served, unselfishly and ably, "a much greater master than the department of agriculture." Experienced in forestry and familiar with the forest conditions, he gained as friends and supporters all those who object to the stripping of our mountain sides, to the ruin of our soil for farming purposes, to the dwindling of the streams that feed our rivers, and to the waste generally of our natural resources. He gained as enemies, and bitter ones, all those who would let the future go hang as long as the present gain was good; who would and do steal, with expert legal aid, rich public lands; and who have no use for the people of the United States, save as victims of their own insatiable greed. President Taft took a big job on his hands when he tried to convince the West that Nelson W. Aldrich was a devoted public servant, but he has taken on a still bigger job if he expects to persuade the country that Gifford Pinchot is not.

"ONE OF THE FEW."

Life: Speaking lately in the Evening Post for the directors of the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York about their late associate, D. O. Mills, Brayton Ives said:

"He had too keen a sense of fair play to be a monopolist. His is one of the few conspicuously great fortunes of the country to which no just criticism can be directed. Industry, honesty, and far-seeing sagacity were the sole factors in its accumulation. He had no advantage which was not open to all."

"One of the few conspicuously great fortunes of the country to which no just criticism can be directed!" That was a sensational sentence to be put officially by the president of a New York trust company into the obituary columns of the respectable Post. It was true, of course, and well said at the right time and in the right place, though it lines up Mr. Ives with the muck-rakers. But it is their realization of the scarcity of fortune builders who have "too keen a sense of fair play to be monopolists," their knowledge of the methods by which many conspicuously great fortunes have been heaped together, their scorn and extreme impatience of such methods, and their appreciation of the readiness of aspirants, new and old, to use them, that makes a large proportion of the American people credulous—pending fuller information—of anything Mr. Pinchot believes. They think, as Collier's says, that "'the system,' or freemasonry of the privileged has lasted long enough; the give and take between politicians and plutocrats has too long ruled the country." They believe, as Mr. Pinchot says, that these concerns of the water powers and the coal lands are merely parts of the great issue "whether this country shall be managed by men for human welfare or by money for profit."

Of men who have grown rich by "industry, honesty and far-seeing sagacity," there is, it seems to us, very little jealousy. People like to admire somebody, and they are very ready to admire rich men who are admirable. They greatly admire Mr. Pinchot, and all the more because he is a rich man who has got everything he needs, so far as himself is concerned, and chooses to employ himself in defending the interests of folks who have less. The kind of rich men they do not admire are the hogs: the men who, having a great deal already, feel that their possessions give them a sacred right to grab everything in sight that is not nailed down. Neither do they admire rich men who rig the stock market and make disgraceful gains, and sometimes even more disgraceful losses, as in the case of the barbarian millionaire whose half drunken operations made so great a scandal after New Year's.

Oh, You Small Town!

Emporia Gazette: The dweller in the small town has many reasons to be thankful, and he gives them little thought. He is free from pawnbrokers, jackleg attorneys, instalment sharks, and a thousand pirates and Shylocks who infest the cities, and the fact seldom occurs to him as a cause for thanksgiving. He is so busy complaining about some little trifling grievance that he doesn't take time to count his blessings, count them one by one.

If a citizen of Emporia is arrested for declining to haul the rubbish from his alley, or for giving his wife a deserved chastisement with a fork handle, or for dispensing spirituous liquors in a cellar, he is taken to the village tollbooth, and all the rights guaranteed him by the Constitution and the bylaws of the national league are freely accorded him, without the intervention of profane attorneys. If he wants a lawyer to defend him he selects a reputable man, who looks after his interests with a strict regard for the rules of the game, charges a reasonable fee and lives happy ever after. There is no oppression anywhere, and the gent under arrest is as sure of a square deal as he would be anywhere in the world.

If a poor man, residing in a large city, gets into trouble, the shyster lawyers flock around him like buzzards around a dead horse, and unless he is as wise as a serpent they will get him. If he has any money they take it; if he has no money, but has a steady job, they take an assignment of his pay; failing that, they will take his Waterbury watch, or his shirt, or his pants. They have intimate relations with the pawnbrokers, and they can always realize a few cents on any old junk.

Their despicable tricks remind one of some of the villains of Dickens' stories of the thieves of underground London.

Thirst for Novelties.

Washington Times: The curse of modern life—the thirst for the new, the rage to get out of the old skin—is the blight on our literature, our art, our drama, our manners—even our morals. It is a passion without aim, or conviction, or feeling—a mere restless itch to get free from old habits and to get into something uncommon, it hardly matters what, if only it can announce itself as "unconventional."

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 30. Mat. v. 17-26, 38-48; Some Laws of the Kingdom.

THE CONNECTION.

Our lesson takes up Christ's next thought, in His great sermon on the mount, and gives principles of conduct that are to be operative always and everywhere, not rules, but great fundamental laws. The Pharisees had a multiplicity of minute regulations, but Jesus sweeps past these to the laws that are to be obeyed.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Deeper Fulfillment of God's Law, 17-26.

"But I say unto you, that every one who is angry with his brother shall be in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council; and whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of the hell of fire. If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art with him in the way; lest haply the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou have paid the last farthing."

1. The Law of Moses Fulfilled by Christ and in Christ.

In verses 17-20 he says three things that are of highest moment. First, that He fulfills or fills full every law of Moses. It points to Him. He exemplified it, embodied its spirit and principles and obeyed it perfectly. He taught it. Second, that the violation of any of those fundamental laws in teaching others is a heinous sin. Third, that the attempt of the Pharisees to keep the law was so far from right that is righteousness, that it unfitted them for the kingdom of heaven.

2. Sin is not in the sinful deed alone but in the sinful thought out of which the deed comes. As all murder comes from anger, Christ forbids anger itself. That is the true way to stop murder. Not only the angry deed but the angry word must be restrained, even words of contempt that seem harmless, such as "Raca," "fool" and the like. So important are amicable relations with our fellowmen that we must suspend an act of worship to become reconciled. Prompt action with adversaries, in settling difficulties, will save much trouble, because nothing is ever settled at all, till it is settled aright. In the omitted verses, 27-37, Jesus applies the principle still further in the matter of chastity, divorce and simple affirmations as contrasted with foolish and hurtful oaths.

II.

Unselfish Service vs. Revenge, 38-32.

"Ye have heard that it was said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: but I say unto you, Resist not him that is evil: but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also. And if any man would go to law with thee, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. And whosoever shall compel thee to go one mile, go with him two. Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away."

1. The Prevailing Habit.

They confounded civic regulations with private duties. In the laws of Moses, of Solon and of other wise lawgivers, the state must protect itself and its subjects from evil doers, by punishing them for their evil deeds, in proportion to the evil done. This strictly forbids private revenge. The law was just, for their times, and is so for ours. They perverted it, by making it the law of their private relationships and habits.

2. The Wrong of It.

It was first of all, a violation of God's law, in changing civic justice into private vengeance. It was next wrong, in giving way to the worst rather than acting on the noblest sentiments. It was useless, since revenge never destroys enmity, but only makes it worse; never satisfies the thirst for vengeance, but only makes it more bloodthirsty. It is awfully wrong, since there is a noble alternative, that will usually change the enemy into a friend and make him punish himself far more severely than another could, while it will make the injured man nobler and greater.

3. The Right Way.

We must first of all have the Christ-like spirit and must seek the good of the offender in each case. Anything else leads to a war of extermination, which is usually interminable. The principle is that you can do more for the one who does you an injury, and therefore for yourself, if you do not resist than if you resist.

There are several forms of injury one might receive and in each case he must be willing to suffer more than justice requires, rather than give way to a wrong spirit or make the wrong-doer worse. First in the matter of personal violence, rather than show a like spirit or aggravate the enemy's violence one should be willing to be smitten on both cheeks. And in the matter of deprivation of property: it is better to give up even the more expensive outer "cloak" which the law could not seize, than to cherish a vindictive spirit for the loss of the "coat" or tunic, of which he has been deprived by law. Also in the matter of restraint of personal liberty; when impressed by some strong robber or enemy to travel with him a mile in order to show him the way or render some other service, far better go on another mile voluntarily than to give way to a revengeful spirit. Even when you are not under compulsion to submit to a wrong-doer and it is simply a matter of granting a loan, better do it than refuse it simply out of selfishness. One must do what is best with a view to his good, rather than just what he asks. That is the way God gives to us. It is a fascinating and conquering religion that enables men to meet the ills of life that way.

III.

Love vs. Hate, 43-48.

"Ye have heard that it was said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy; but I say unto you, Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you; that ye may be sons of your Father who is in heaven: for He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust. For if ye love them that love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same? And if ye salute your brethren only what do ye more than others? do not even the Gentiles the same? Ye therefore shall be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect."

Here He gives positive instructions as to the proper bearing toward their enemies—love.

1. It is intelligent, for it perceives the worth, even in enemies, at any rate, perceives their possibilities.

2. It is sympathetic, for it is attracted toward them, notwithstanding their sins.

3. It is unselfish, for it thinks of their good rather than your grudge.

4. It is aggressive, for it ministers to them. It ministers in prayer and in doing good. It ministers, all the more, when the enmity is more active and blind and virulent.

5. It is Godlike and ranks you up among the sons of God who imitate their Father. He sends the temporal blessings to His enemies without any grudge and He sends His Son to all, with richest spiritual blessings.

6. It, therefore, lifts them really above those whom they have considered themselves to be above—the Gentiles. It enables them to make good their claims of superiority, for even the Gentiles love their friends and give them cordial greetings.

7. They are on the path toward perfection. It is both a precept and a prophesy. The type after whom they are growing is their Father in heaven, for they are like Him in feeling and action. That perfection begins at once to show itself in their wholeness and integrity.

The foregoing principles are perfectly illustrated in Christ and they can be embodied in us, only as we know Christ and imitate Him.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The most objectionable evil, however, is in the too common habit of swearing to almost anything, with and without need. The other day a young girl, scarcely 16, reported to me that another girl had accidentally broken a water pot at the fountain, and in two minutes she must have sworn twenty times by Allah, by the local saints and by the life of her father and brothers. I wish this case was an exception. The prohibition of Exodus xx, 7 is not without cause.—Howie.

There is a story told of Louis XII of France. He had many enemies, and, when he succeeded to the throne, he caused a list of these to be drawn up and marked against each of their names a large black cross. When this became known, the enemies of the king fled, because they thought it was a sign that he intended to punish them. The king, hearing of their alarm, recalled them and gave them an assurance of his good will, saying that he had placed a cross beside their names to remind him of the cross that brings pardon to all; and he urged them, by his own example, and especially by the example of Him who prayed for His enemies, to go and do likewise.—Thompson.

Wesley was once attacked by a highwayman, who demanded his purse. Wesley did not resist, but calmly said: "If you ever come to regret this, as you doubtless will, I beg you remember 'The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth from all sin.'" Several years afterward a man took Wesley by the hand as he came out of church and said, "Do you remember the time you were robbed in a certain place?" "Yes," said Wesley. "I shall never forget that." "Well, I was the man that robbed you, and the words you spoke to me made me a Christian and an honest man."—Dixon.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Are civil oaths wrong?
3. Why should one's word be as good as his bond?
3. Is it possible for one to love those who hate and mistreat him?
4. Why cannot one overcome evil with evil?
5. What is the philosophy of careful speech?

ONLY NECESSARY TO TREAT THE STOMACH, SAYS COOPER

The new theory advanced by L. T. Cooper relative to the human stomach has attracted such widespread attention that the public in cities visited by the young man has been joined by many physicians in a discussion of his beliefs and medicines.

Mr. Cooper says that human health is dependendt almost entirely upon the stomach. He says that no disease can be conquered without first alleviating all stomach diorders. He further says that most men and women of this generation are half-sick, owing to degenerate stomachs. And lastly, he claims that his New Discovery medicine will rejuvenate the human stomach in ninety days.

Cooper has been traveling from one city to another, conducting in each what he calls a campaign of education. For the past year he has met the public in the larger cities of the country, and his success has been phenomenal. Thousands of people have flocked to his headquarters wherever he has gone, and the sale of his medicine has been beyond anything of the kind ever before witnessed.

Possibly the most interesting feature of the attention this young man has attracted is what his army of followers, whom he has converted to his beliefs through his medicines, have to say on the subject. The following statements are from two well-known residents of Chicago and Boston, respectively, and the enthusiasm of these is characteristic of Cooper's admirers generally.

Mrs. H. B. Black of 3201 State street, Chicago, says: "I have been suffering for twelve years from a combination of stomach troubles, catarrh and constipation. I had a gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach, a sort of a dull pain that I could not quite understand. Then there was a dull headache, and my mind seemed to be wandering continually. I could not eat, and what little solid food I did eat I could not retain on my stomach. I tried every remedy I could think of, and also tried out a number of patent medicines, but without any apparent result. It was through one of my friends that I heard of Cooper's preparation, and I immediately decided to try some of it. It is two weeks since I took my first dose of it, and I feel like a new woman. The headache seems to have disappeared, and the pain in my stomach along with it. The medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I want to thank Mr. Cooper for what he has done for me."

Mr. Edwin F. Morse of 20 Oakley street, Dorchester, a suburb of Boston, says: "For three years I had not a well day. My stomach was in frightful shape; the mere thought of food would nauseate me, and I really had a horror of anything to eat. All solid food would cause me extreme indigestion, bloating and gas on my stomach, and nothing tasted right. Some time ago I got some of this Cooper's medicines, about which there is so much talk. I actually feel as well and strong as a boy ever since the first bottle. Every sign of stomach trouble has disappeared, and I have a hearty appetite and eat three square meals; everything seems to taste good. Any one who knows what chronic indigestion is can appreciate what this means to me. I consider this the most remarkable medicine I ever heard of."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

TOWNS DID BEST WORK

State Anti-Tuberculosis Society Reports on Red Cross Stamp Sale.

Small Towns Bought More Freely Than Large Cities.

The Minnesota Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, which was appointed sole agent for Red Cross stamps for the state, issues the following report today:

Stamps sold in Twin Cities	325,675
Stamps sold in rest of State	274,868
Total	600,563
Total cash receipts	$6,005.63
20 per cent on sale returned to American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.	1,201.00
Profit realized by Minnesota Association for Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis	2,639.85
Profit realized by local Anti-tuberculosis associations	2,164.78

In the following places where anti-tuberculosis work is organized, or about to be organized, the 80 per cent left after paying the American Red Cross for the stamps, placards, etc., was divided evenly between the state and local association or committee, each receiving 40 per cent. The remainder of the cities and villages in which stamps were sold (there were seventy-seven main centers of distribution and forty or fifty sub-depots) sent in to the state association their entire receipts, less local expenses, on which the state association realized 80 per cent, but the total number of stamps sold on this basis was only about 75,000.

The cities retaining 40 per cent for local use were: Winona, Lake City, Clara City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Peter, Cloquet, Stillwater, Rochester, Alexandria, St. James, Two Harbors, Litchfield, Marshall, Benson, Duluth, Warren, Austin, Fergus Falls, Mankato, Red Wing, Worthington, Luverne.

In nine of the largest of these cities the proceeds were placed to the credit of a visiting nurse fund. The others will expend the money for a variety of purposes. The St. Paul Anti-tuberculosis committee proposes to use it for an open-air school for children predisposed to tuberculosis. While the sums realized in the small towns are not large, yet if they provide relief for one case or pay for the printing of some educational placards, it will be worth while. As a result of the stamp campaign many new and enthusiastic workers in the cause have been enlisted and many new organizations to be affiliated with the Minnesota Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis planned, and much local work for consumptives entered upon.

Though in a majority of cases the women's clubs affiliated with the State Federation of Women's clubs assumed responsibility for the sale, yet the auspices under which they were sold included the following: Local tuberculosis associations, hospital auxiliaries, civic leagues, improvement clubs, housekeeping clubs, mercantile companies, health officers, ministers, editors, postmasters, and private individuals.

In one place a cemetery association volunteered to sell the stamps, though it would appear to be an unprofitable business for such an institution to engage in.

The following list of places where sales exceeded the population, is given:

	Total.	Per Capita.
Redwood Falls	$.600	4.76
Benson	6,787	3.84
Zumbrota	3,578	3.52
Wabasha	9,057	3.46
Windom	5,500	2.92
Sauk Rapids	600	2.16
Cloquet	12,144	2.00
Two Harbors	5,259	1.88
St. Cloud	17,176	1.82
Fergus Falls	11,737	1.75
Hutchinsin	6,224	2.50
Brainerd	12,847	1.58
Warren	2,500	1.52
Willmar	5,000	1.27
Hallock	1,223	1.20
Madelia	1,529	1.18
Northfield	4,000	1.13
Madison	1,800	1.13
Detroit	2,312	1.07
Austin	6,728	1.04
Morris	2,959	1.02
Fulda	702	1.00

The sales in the three large cities follows:

St. Paul	115,000	.58
Minneapolis	210,695	.80
Duluth	56,708	.88

The sale in Redwood Falls showing the highest number sold in proportion to population and in Cloquet, showing over, were conducted by clergymen. Only those in the work can realize the amount of energy and enthusiasm and the completeness of organization required to bring about a sale two to four times as large as the population. Results in some of the smaller cities should not, however, reflect on the three largest cities of the state, where the campaign was thoroughly organized and energetically carried on, but owing to the large foreign population it was not possible to show as high a ratio to population.

It is interesting to note that the sale this year is about four times as large as that last year.

Simple Remedy for LaGrippe.

LaGrippe coughs are dangerous, as they frequently develop into pneumonia. OFFERS NEW VOCATION

Wireless Operators for Lake Vessels Will Be in Demand.

Fully 200 Vessels Will Be Equipped By Next Spring.

The handling of both the wheel and the wireless telegraph instrument will next year be a new vocation on the Great Lakes.

On the boats equipped with the wireless apparatus to employ a man especially to work the new invention is too great an expense and has kept a number of owners from installing a most useful invention. Next year an effort will be made to use the men for both the wireless and the wheel.

There is a great scarcity of wireless telegraph operators. Next season more than 200 boats which ply the lakes will have means of communication with the land, according to F. G. Ames, the Duluth manager of the United Wireless company.

For taking care of the wireless the wheelsmen will receive about $10 a month extra. This will bring the salaries up to about $70 a month with their board and room included. This year there were but thirty-five or forty boats on the lakes that carried the equipment. There will next year be at least 150 additional.

It is quite probable that a station will be erected on Isle Royale early next season. The local branch has been working for this station for some time and there is at this time a good prospect of getting it. When this station is built, this part of the lake region will be well equipped in the matter of wireless stations. The good done has been many times demonstrated and the vessel men have at least come to believe that it is entirely practical.

It is a dangerous thing to take a cough medicine containing opiates that merely stifle your cough instead of curing it. Foley's Honey and Tar loosens and cures the cough and expels the poisonous germs, thus preventing pneumonia and consumption. Refuse substitutes and take only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

THE PASSING OF PHILADELPHIA JACK O'BRIEN—HIS DEFEAT BY KAUFMANN MEANS HIS FINISH

The Earning Power of Brains vs. Brawn--- Other Live Tips on Sports.

(BY BRUCE)

Naturally there is a suspicion that Philadelpha Jack O'Brien has gone back and joined the waiting list of the down-and-out club.

When a fighter as slow as Al Kaufman can have decidedly the better of O'Brien in six short sessions of fighting, it is surely time that the suspicions of the muckrakers of pugilism were let loose on the friend of Anthony Biddle.

O'Brien has had a most interesting life within the squared circle. By nature the man was never rugged. Dropping into the style so often pursued by Laura Jean Libbey, we might say that Jawn started life as a frail and weakly boy. He never worked in a steel mill or a blacksmith shop, and until he began mildly mixing with the life strenuous, he had arms that looked like bean blowers.

He started as a welterweight boxer, often mixing with some of the amateurs in his native city of Philadelphia. He was so weak when he began boxing that he cultivated the style of keeping away from the other fellow. He has never forsaken this style, though in later years he has gained in strength, if not so much in Spartan courage.

As the years rolled by, Jawn gained in weight until we heard of him fighting the big pugs of the heavyweight class. Most of his battles have been fought in the sleepy city of Philadelphia. Most of them, therefore, have been of but six rounds duration. As the short route he soon became known as the king of fighters.

It is not probable that O'Brien had to take many of his battles over the sprint route. He was so clever that few of the heavies could hurt him, much less put him out in six rounds. But whenever O'Brien left the city of his nativity and engaged in a longer fight, he generally knew what the outcome of the fight would be long before the spectators who paid good money to see the show had any inkling of the result.

He has fought Bob Fitzsimmons in Frisco, and if O'Brien didn't know that Fitz was too old to hurt him, he probably had the fight framed. He also fought Tonsilitis Tommy Ryan in Philadelphia, when the latter was still good enough to put up a great fight. They tell a very good story about this fight.

It has generally been agreed many times that the fight was a frame. Both fighters were going along at a good clip. Suddenly O'Brien saw an opening and shot one in as hard as he could send it home. Ryan slipped to the floor. He was sore all the way through at the way O'Brien had violated the terms of the agreement.

When Ryan arose to his feet there was menace in his eyes. The old fighting gleam shone in the eyes of the Ryan child. Suddenly he feinted and shot one to the stomach of the Philadelphia man. It was a wicked blow and was delivered by a man who could put a lot of steam into a punch. It hearly put O'Brien out, and had Ryan wished he could have easily finished the Quaker.

After that O'Brien was very careful not to hit Mr. Ryan too hard. In fact, he let Ryan set the pace for the rest of the fight.

O'Brien also fought the famous Kid McCoy in Philadelphia. The Kid was not as good then as he was in the earlier days, but some think he was good enough to beat the Philadelphia fighter, had he so desired. The pair fought six rounds and the milling was very even throughout. These two fights gave the home man a great standing in his own town.

The faking one gained a lot of prestige in Philadelphia by whipping a lot of old men. A big, slow man was always a cinch for O'Brien in a short while. It used to set the crowd wild fight to see O'Brien skipping around some perspiring pug, jabbing him in the nose and cleverly ducking away from danger. That was before the days of his confession.

Naturally he has never been so popular, even in so sleepy a city as Philadelphia. There are some things they won't stand for, even in Philly. Since his two fights with Tommy Burns, O'Brien has been going back. He made a great fight against Stanley Ketchel in New York, but in the second fight at Philadelphia the "assassin" knocked all the fight out of the Philadelphia fighter.

Now comes Al Kaufman, the last man in the world you would think could hurt the O'Brien person in the short route, and actually has the better of the fight.

Regardless of the recent fight have it that O'Brien was far from being the O'Brien of old. His blows lacked the speed and snap, his judgment of distance was poor, and his footwork and ducking of blows was very funny at times. This would indicate that O'Brien has lost his fighting sense and that he has reached the going back stage.

He will never be classed among the list of really great fighters. He was one of the fastest boxers ever produced in this country. It is doubtful, however, if he ever had the speed and lightning ability as a boxer, that was possessed by Jim Corbett.

If the boxing game is in disrepute in many parts of the country, O'Brien is one of the men who has helped to make it so. He could sooner fake than take a chance. He never showed much courage at that, for in the Burns fight he ran like a school boy who is trying to outrun a policeman through an alley.

Jawn is on the athletic toboggan. He had better retire to the practice of law. He has been one of the boys who has always looked out for the number one end, and they will never have to give a benefit for the O'Brien chap, unless he suddenly develops spending habits that have never made themselves manifest during his public career.

A sport story of now Christy Mathewson secured his control, is at the present time making the rounds of the sporting pages. It is funny—too funny to be true.

It is told of how, even when a mere boy, that Christie realized that some day history intended making a great hurler out of him. Even at that tender age he realized that control was something that he must learn. Therefore, with true heroic spirit, he set about to learn control—not self-control—control of a baseball.

He went out into the back yard and painted a bull's-eye, about the size of a catcher's glove, on the door of the shed. And there he would practicee, according to the nice little story, from early morn until dewey eve, throwing a baseball, a rock, or in winter a snowball at the little mark.

It is a wonder that Christy had any arm left, after these years of hard and unrelenting practice. It is said that his aim became so true and accurate that the birds flew high in going over the town.

With all those years of persistent practice it is no wonder that Mathewson has the greatest control of any pitcher in the big leagues.

Again we have the ancient question of brawn against brain.

We will most of us admit that Theodore Roosevelt has brains. If he hasn't, he has made an awful good bluff. Most of us will also incline to the opinion that Frank Gotch, the greatest wrestler that America has ever produced, is the brawniest man that Iowa ever turned out.

The question arises, many time in the complicated problem of the cost of living, etc., as to which is the better wage-earner, the man with the rounded biceps, or the kink in the bulging forehead.

Col. Roosevelt earned $50,000 per annum during the strenuous years he put in at the White House. You will kindly notice that the words, "earned" are used here. Last season, season, you understand, Frank A. Gotch collected $52,000.

There is no need of going deep into the question of the brawny guys against the fellows who really enjoy reading Henry James; the comparison is simply given as food for thought. We will need food for thought, now that the beefsteak boycott is an actuality.

• • •

And while speaking about currency, it might be stated that a purse of $6,000 has been offered by Chicago promoters for a finish match between Stanislaus Zbyszko and Yussiff Mahmout. The winner of the match, will have earned the unquestionable right to wrestle Frank Gotch for the undisputed championship of the world. That is a very big purse for a wrestling match—one that will make the eyes of the old timers of the game stand out in wonderment.

WINNIPEG OUT OF IT

Canadian City Will Not Join Minnesota-Wisconsin League This Season.

Merrill and Red Wing Most Likely Candidates for League Franchises.

There appears to be little chance that Winnipeg will be a member of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league during the coming season.

Word from the officials of the Winnipeg club to A. W. Kuehnow, manager of the Duluth Baseball club, is to the effect that Winnipeg will be a member of the Western Canada league the coming season. The management of the Winnipeg club is signing players, so that it does not look as if that club intended dropping out of Canadian baseball.

With Winnipeg practically out of the consideration of the club owners and officials of the Minny league, they must look around for other cities for the league the coming season.

Red Wing, Minn., and Merrill, Wis., have their formal applications before the secretary of the league. Whether Mankato will make application for a franchise is a matter that will not be known until the meeting of the magnates, probably the first Sunday in February.

Virginia has made no formal application for a franchise in the league, and it is not believed that the range town will be a member of the league the coming season. If Winnipeg had broken away from Canadian baseball and made application for membership in the Minny league, it is very probable that Virginia would have been a member of the league. But as conditions are, there is little chance for the entrance of the range city.

It looks now as if Red Wing and Merrill would be the two new members of the league. Merrill is only a short distance from Wausau, and is a town of 20,000 population. Red Wing is on the way to Winona and will make the territory compact and easy to cover.

There are some of the magnates who are in favor of Mankato, and if the application of that city is filed before the meeting of the officials and club owners of the league, earlier in February, it would not be surprising if favorable action were taken on the Mankato application.

At the February meeting the schedule committee will be appointed and work begun on the schedule. It is expected that the meeting will be held in St. Paul. There is a possibility that President John Elliott will be in this city before the meeting is called.

JEFF COMING TO DULUTH

Retired Champion and Gotch Will Show at Lyceum Next Month.

James J. Jeffries and his troupe of world famous athletes, including Frank A. Gotch, the champion wrestler of the world, and Dr. Benjamin F. Roller, the famous Seattle physician-wrestler, will be the attraction at the Lyceum theater, Feb. 11 and 12.

Some time ago, Manager Charles A. Marshall received an information from Harry Frazee that Jeff and his troupe would be booked to the Pacific coast and then back. Mr. Frazee promised Duluth one of the earliest return dates, and he has kept his word.

At the present time the Jeffries show is working toward the coast. The company will play some return dates in this part of the country, then Jeff, if he follows out his schedule, will hike to the California mountains for a brief hunting trip before settling down to the training grind.

Duluth will probably be one of the last cities in the country to see the retired champion before he goes into actual training. In his exhibition Jeff does the regular gymnasium stunts that are done by a fighter in conditioning himself for a fight. He works the pulley weights, does abdominal exercises, shadow boxes, boxes three rounds with Sam Berger, in cities where sparring is permitted, and in some of the cities he has visited has gone on the mat and roughed it with Gotch.

The coming of Jeffries will furnish Duluth fans an excellent line on the condition of the big fellow.

LAMY SHOWS HIS PROPER FORM

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 27.—Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake in the national indoor championship meet last night broke two world's championship skating records, one of which he himself made at Pittsburg last year. He reduced the quarter-mile indoor record 40 2-5 to 38 4-5, and took three seconds off the mile and a half record made by J. S. Johnson, in Montreal in 1894.

Lamy took two heats of the first event, the quarter mile. In the mile event Kearney took the second and third easily at 2:52 4-5.

PERSON WINS MATCH.

Duluth Champion Defeats Wirtenen and Gronlund at Houghton.

A special from Houghton says Chris Person, Northwestern champion heavyweight wrestler, defeated Wirtenen and Gronlund, two heavyweight wrestlers of the Copper country, in an hour's time.

Wirtenen was thrown in eight minutes of wrestling time. The second local grappler stuck something like forty minutes. Person had him almost down when the two men rolled off the mat. Gronlund refused to continue the match and the contest was awarded to Person.

Person challenged Karl Lehto, who poses as the champion of the Copper country, but the big Finn failed to accept the defi of the Duluth man.

Person will be in Duluth tomorrow and will start training for his match with Zyszko, which will take place at the Armory Feb. 4. He will be assisted in his training by Adolph Drews, Carl Nelson, William Trepanier, Andrew Danielson and other local wrestlers.

PLANS OF DULUTH GARDEN COMPANY GIVEN SETBACK

Committee Says Land Owners Should Guarantee Cost of Operating Road

Refuse to Indorse It as Investment Without This Feature.

While every man on the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club firmly believes that the plans for the Duluth Market Garden company, as proposed by John G. Williams, should be carried out, the matter was again tabled last evening without definite action being taken.

The further postponement was the result of the report submitted by the sub-cimmittee, composed of E. P. Towne, G. H. Rupley and T. H. Hawks, which was delegated to investigate the plans from a purely business standpoint, and report whether or not the public affairs committee could stand behind the plans, and recommend the company as a safe investment, to the citizens of Duluth. The report of the committee was to the effect that this recommendation could not be given unless a guarantee could be secured from the owners of the land benefitted by the road, that they would make good the deficit in the operation of the road itself, during the first few years of its operation.

The committee was requested to prepare a report on the proposition as a straight business deal and as an investment that could be counted upon to return interest and the original capital if it were wanted at any time. The committee did so and the report was a most thorough one, but it completely tied the hands of the public affairs committee, and unfortunately gave the plans of the garden company a setback.

There is probably not a member of the committee who would not subscribe toward stock in the company, for his own personal profit, and several of them so expressed themselves last evening. They all have faith in the plan's ultimate success, and believe that it will, in time, give returns on the money invested, but the sub-committee refused to give it an unqualified recommendation to investors, unless the guarantee could be secured, and this is declared to be impossible.

Two Alternatives.

At the former meeting the general committee had two alternatives. It could either give the plan a superficial indorsement, approving of it as a good thing for the city of Duluth, or it could go into it thoroughly, and after securing statistics, back up its approval with a recommendation to investors. Julius H. Barnes brought this alternative out clearly, and on his motion the sub-committee was instructed to make a thorough investigation, and report back, giving facts and statistics of the cost of construction and maintenance. "Without this," said Mr. Barnes in making his motion, "your recommendation is worth nothing, unless you make it as an appeal to the public spirit of Duluth people."

The sub-committee went at its work with a vengeance, and after two weeks spent in collecting facts from all available sources, presented its report last evening.

The report left the general committee in a quandary. Every member favored the plan and wanted to see it carried through, but to accept the report and approve of it would be to say the investment was not one in which the investor was certain of getting returns, unless the land owners benefited would guarantee the deficit on the road for the first few years until the land of the garden company began producing and shipping.

The report was finally tabled, and a new committee will be appointed, for the purpose of finding out the cost of building but four miles of the road, or the part which would touch only the lands of the proposed garden company, and to report whether or not the increase in the value of these lands would not be sufficient to take care of the losses on the railroad, and in effect guarantee the deficit of the railroad until it was put on a paying basis. This committee will be appointed by the chairman, and it will report at a future meeting of the club.

Favors the Plan.

Mr. Towne stated after the meeting that he was heartily in favor of the plan, but since it was put up to the committee as it was, the members had no alternative but to report as they did. "I am asking you to put up the money for the benefit of the city, and as public-spirited citizens, we would not have hesitated a minute," he said, "and I would have been willing to go and help get up the money, as I did the fund raised for the traffic committee. But we could not recommend the company building the full line of road, as a safe and sure investment, without the guarantee of 50 cents or $1 an acre from the land owners benefited, that they would make good any deficit on the road itself, until these lands were cleared and developed."

Mr. Craig, who has been closely identified with the plan, together with Mr. Williams, was not disposed to criticise the report of the sub-committee. "I regret very much that we ever brought the plan before the public affairs committee," he said. "We had a large part of the subscriptions pledged, and a large part of the money in sight. But I believed that it would start a campaign of education that would be of almost as much benefit as the road itself."

The report of the sub-committee in full follows:

"Duluth, Minn., Jan. 26, 1910.—To the Chairman and Members of the Public Affairs Committee—Sir and Gentlemen: On Jan. 7, 1910, your sub-committee reported to you upon the proposition to purchase certain tracts of land and clear and prepare the same for market gardening and at the same time reported upon the proposed railway in connection therewith. After discussion, the report was referred again to us in order that we might investigate the same further. We have made said investigation and beg leave to submit the following supplementary report:

"As far as the values of the lands in question are concerned, the costs of clearing, etc., we find no reason why we should change any of our figures as shown in our former report. In connection with the railway proposition, you will note that we have considered the same under certain heads, which seem to us the only feasible way to bring the matter clearly before you.

1. Cost of Constructing Line.

"We give herewith itemized estimate of cost, compiled by Mr. A. A. Mendenhall, on basis of 45-pound rail:

"Estimated cost of eight miles of single track (being seven and one-half miles from Hardy street, Woodland avenue, to Magie, and allowing one-half mile for armory connection, one loop and two sidetracks), grading not included—

571 tons 45-lb. new rails at $28 per gross ton	$15,988.00
2,658 joints at 75c each	1,990.40
33 kegs ⅝x3½ track bolts at $4.80 per keg	162.80
15,077 ties at 35c (laid 33" center to center)	5,276.95
1,000 tie rods at 40c each	400.00
128 kegs ½x5 railroad spikes at $4 per keg	518.00
300 feet of guard rail at 66 2-3c per foot	200.00
100 rail braces	12.00
Tools	400.00
Special work for Second avenue east and Second street	735.00
Special work for Armory	140.00
Special work for Hardy street	750.00
Special work for Hardy street	360.00
Special work for loop at Magie	140.00
Special work for two sidetracks	280.00
Labor, distributing ties at $2 each	301.54
Labor, distributing rails at $2 gross ton	1,142.00
Labor, setting ties at $16 per mile	128.00
Labor, spiking ties at $20 per mile	160.00
Labor, bolting joints at $12 per mile	96.00
Labor, tamping and filling at $20 per mile	160.00
Labor, putting in tie rods at 20 cents each	300.00
Labor, bending rails	100.00
Labor, placing special work	300.00
Total	$30,040.69

"Should 60-pound rail be used the increase in cost would be $7,310, making a total cost of line, exclusive of grading, $37,350.69. These figures above given, as far as possible, we have verified and we understand that they are based on the present actual market prices.

"The estimated cost of grading the road is $32,650, making a total of $70,000.69. This item of grading is one that has caused your committee a great deal of trouble and we have obtained the same from the best possible experts available, but even then it is a matter of conjecture, until the line is definitely located.

Cost of Equipment.

"We give herewith an itemized estimate of cost, amounting to $19,050, which was compiled by A. A. Mendenhall, and which follows:

1 gas locomotive, 100-horse power for passenger or freight service (see proposal)	$6,700
1 gas passenger and baggage car, 50-horse power, seating capacity, 35; carrying capacity, 70 passengers	8,000
1 tank for gasoline	1,000
1 passenger trailer car	250
1 freight trailer car	150
1 milk trailer car	150
2 flat trailer cars	300
1 snow plow	500
1 carhouse	1,000
2 stations	1,000
Total	$19,050

"You will note by this estimate that it provides for only one locomotive for the present service. Some arrangement would probably have to be made for another locomotive in the event of accident to the one provided. The estimate of equipment was based upon the proposals herewith submitted with this report.

"You will see that this makes the actual cost as estimated, of constructing this line and equipping the same, to be approximately $50,000.00.

Cost of Operation.

"We herewith submit an estimate furnished us by A. A. Mendenhall:

Maintenance of roadway and structures, $300 per mile, per annum	$2,400.00
Operation of one gas car for passengers and baggage:
Wages of crew at $150 per month	$1,800.00
Gasoline—
Allowing five round trips per day, 22 miles each, 1 gallon for five miles; 9 cents per gallon, $1.98 per day	722.70
Lubricating oil, 50 cents per day	182.50
Track rental—
Allowing five round trips per day, 7 miles each; 3-10 cents, per ton, per mile, 12-ton car, 2-ton load	536.55 3,241.75
Operation of freight cars	3,241.75
General expenses, $300 per month	3,600.00
	$12,483.50

"In this you will note that the track rental is placed at 3 mills per ton per mile. From the best information that we can obtain, we find that this item is low and that it would probably cost 5 mills per ton per mile, if gasoline was used. If power were furnished we find that it would be 8 mills per ton per mile. With this increase, we would be compelled to add to Mr. Mendenhall's estimate, $715. To this should also be added an interest charge of at least $5,400 and to that amount be again added the depreciation, which your committee places at 10 per cent or $9,000 per annum, making a total approximately of $27,600.

"Estimating the traffic and increase, you committee respectfully refers to the letter furnished them by the traffic commission of the Commercial club, and would state that they assume the earnings to be approximately $30,000, based upon the figures shown in their letter.

"Your committee wishes to refer to the necessity of having assistance in the maintenance and operation of the railway from owners of land to be benefited. This can be done in various ways. Your committee heretofore suggested a guarantee against deficit for a term of years, thus introducing an element of stability which would assist the company in its financial operations. This guarantee may be personal or it may be possible for owners of the land to be benefited, to obligate their land for an annual amount if any required for the deficit. Such an amount would be small, if put upon a per acre basis.

"It is the unanimous opinion of your committee that unless this is done in some way satisfactory to all, that the general committee should not give it the weight of its indorsement or its assistance in placing any shares of stock of the proposed railway company."

LYCEUM—"Polly of the Circus."

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS"

Real Circus People in Cast of the Big Lyceum Attraction.

"Polly of the Circus," Margaret Mayo's strange mixture of the life of the sawdust ring and small-town narrow-mindedness, was enjoyed by a fair-sized audience at the Lyceum last night. Polly's is a pathetic little story, but it is the kind of pathos that appeals to a theater audience. One doesn't attend the theater to weep, but one may weep over Polly's troubles and be happy in the act. The story gets across the footlights, grips the audience and holds the interest to the last curtain, when, with sighs of relief, the people in the auditorium watch the circus wagons wend their way down the hill in the flare of the blazing torches, while Polly and the minister make their pledges of love.

To those who follow the theater, either by attendance or in the reviews, the story of the play is familiar. Polly, the youthful circus rider, "born of a family of circus people," falls from her horse during a performance and is carried into the home of a young minister. The show goes on and leaves her, and the minister promises to care for her. She recovers, but stays on at the minister's house until the town people begin to talk. A deacon of the church tells the minister he must send her away, but he refuses. The deacon goes to Polly and tells her she is making trouble. Dismayed, she goes back to the circus, where the minister finds her and makes her a declaration of love. Together they watch the circus wagons leave the town, while they stand on the lot where the circus showed.

Frederic Thompson's production of the pretty piece is realistic. The circus in miniature, as it is shown on the stage, is very much like the wagon shows of the days that are gone. The people who take part are real circus people, who have gone from the sawdust ring to the legitimate stage. One doesn't have to stretch the imagination to find the realism. The scenic effects are perfect.

Ida St. Leon, a real circus rider, is playing the role of Polly this year. The talented Mabel Taliaferro, who created the role, and her talented sister Edith Taliaferro, who appeared here in it last year, have set a high standard for those who follow them in the piece. Ida St. Leon comes up to that standard. She has some trouble in adapting herself to the slang of the lines in the first act and her girlishness isn't so apparent in the bedroom scene as it is in the two following acts, but in the "big" scenes, she probably outshines Edith Taliaferro a little. She is at home in the circus scene. She does her brief bit of equestrianism as though she knew how. She gets the complete sympathy of her audience, which thinks of her only as Polly.

The company is a capable one. Earl Ryder gets out of the minister's role everything in it. Mart E. Helsey as Big Jim, the boss canvasman, is realistic. Kate Jepson, as the colored housekeeper, doesn't overdo the comedy relief work. Elsie St Leon really rides in the last act and rides well. The other members of the St. Leon family gave the circus scene most of its realism and the other small parts are well taken.

"Polly of the Circus" will be here for the remainder of the week and Duluth people should see it. It is a pretty story, well told.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by all druggists.

AROUND THE CAPITOL

Bank Tax Bill.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Secretary MacVeagh submitted to the house drafts of proposed acts providing that the tax rate on national bank circulation secured by United States bonds, hereafter deposited, bearing more than 2 per cent a year, shall be increased more than the tax on circulation secured by 2 per cent bonds, one-quarter of 1 per cent each half year for every one-half of one per cent excess over 2 per cent in the rate of interest borne by such bonds; and directing that any bonds and certificates of indebtedness hereafter issued shall be payable principal and interest in gold coin and exempt from taxation.

Oppose Alaska Plan.

The fact that the bill providing for the creation of a legislative council for Alaska to be appointed by the president, recently reported from the senate committee on territories, will not have an easy road, was made manifest when the measure was under consideration in the senate. Before Senator Beveridge could have it read he was compelled to answer a volume of questions and to meet a number of criticisms of the bill. The principal objection was based on the provision for the appointment of members of the proposed council by the president. The prevailing opinion of senators who spoke seemed to be that election would be preferable, but by some there was objection to any legislation. The opposition to the bill in its present form was voiced by Senators Clark of Wyoming, Clark of Arkansas, Borah of Idaho, Frazier of Tennessee and Crawford of South Dakota, while it was championed by Senators Beveridge and Flies.

Mann's White Slave Law.

The Mann white slave bill was passed by the house today by a viva voce vote. Action followed a discussion. The bill imposes a fine of not more than $5,000 and imprisonment for not more than five years upon any persons who knowingly aids in the transportation of any person by the purchase of a ticket to be used in going to any place for the purpose of prostitution. Other provisions are aimed at preventing traffic in alien women.

After Uncle Joe.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Representative Fowler of New Jersey, one of the original insurgent Republicans of the house, has introduced a resolution providing for a reorganization of the rules committee and the removal of Speaker Cannon from that committee. The resolution aims straight at the house organization and would shear the speaker of a great portion of the power of his office, according to the statement of its author.

A Traveling Salesman.

H. F. Beers, 617-7th Ave., Peoria, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled for some time with kidney trouble, so severely at times I could scarcely carry my grips. After using one bottle of Foley's Kidney Pills I have been entirely relieved, and cheerfully recommend them to all." Foley's Kidney Pills are healing and antiseptic and will restore health and strength. Sold by all druggists.

WOODSMEN ARE DUPED

McEwen Says They Are Fleeced of Big Part of Their Wages.

Tells Incidents Related in Complaints He Has Received.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lumberjacks employed in the Minnesota woods are being beaten out of the wages, according to complaints filed with W. E. McEwen, state labor commissioner.

Mr. McEwen has received affidavits citing many instances in which men employed by lumber companies lost from 40 to 60 per cent of their earnings. One man is said to have been employed at $30 a month and when he left the company he was offered $20 or nothing. Another earned $6.51 and bought 25 cents worth of tobacco from the company. His account, he alleges, was raised to $1.25. He was given a check for $3.35, which was discounted 10 per cent on being cashed.

In another instance a man was sent to the "pest house." At the time he had a check for $54 in his possession. The attending physician advised him to indorse the check, and charged $30 for his services. A companion, who went to the "pest house" at the same time, declares that he had but $5, which the physician appropriated and discharged him penniless.

Cook Makes Complaint.

A cook declares that he worked 101 days, earning $252. He had an account of $15 at the company store, which, he swears, was raised to $27. Before the tangle was straightened out, the cook says, he was obliged to settle for $100.

Another man asked to see his slips. He declares that the company refused to show them.

Another man says that he was employed at $60 a month and after working six weeks, wanted to settle but the company refused to pay him more than $35.

An investigation of the conditions set forth by these affidavits will be made by the labor department, and if it is found that the labor laws have been violated, prosecution will follow.

COPPER FOUND IN HINCKLEY

Samples of Ore Discovered There Are Brought to Duluth.

Charles T. Swain and H. M. Kibbie of Hinckley were in town today with samples of copper ore from four shafts about five miles east of that place. The copper ore contains values runing from 2.7 to 2.9 per cent.

Three shafts are operated by the Great Western Mining company and one by the Keweenaw Western Development company. The shafts are down about 100 feet and on the 85-foot level are being opened up. About twenty veins on an average have been encountered but not in sufficient extent for mining.

Those who have faith in the Hinckley district hope that the veins center at depths and that efficient exploration work will discover a ledge. To this end a company of Hinckley people, headed by Mr. Swain and Mr. Kibbie, will put down a diamond drill on property they have secured near the four shafts and will go to a depth of about 2,000 feet. The company will be called the St. Croix Valley Lands Development company.

"Of course it's a gamble now," said one of the men," but if our hopes are realized we expect to make a big thing of it besides proving the existence of a copper lode that will warrant future operations and development. The discovery of such a ledge would mean much for Northern Minnesota."

NELSON SLATED TO BE REGENT

Butler of St. Paul May Be Dropped from University Board.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The university regency question is clarifying. It seems safe to say that B. F. Nelson of Minneapolis will be reappointed by Governor Eberhart.

While there was no one at the capitol today who would say positively that Nelson's reappointment was decided upon, there were many rumors to that effect. If Nelson is chosen it means unquestionably the dropping of Pierce Butler of St. Paul, who also is a candidate for reappointment.

J. J. DOW IS EXONERATED

Blind School Inquiry Report Is Made to Governor Eberhart.

Investigators Say State Does Not Supply Funds Enough.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.—The report of the state board of visitors on its investigation of charges made with reference to conditions at the school for the blind at Faribault exonerates Supt. J. J. Dow. It was received by Governor Eberhart this morning from Rev. S. G. Smith of St. Paul.

The board found that the appropriation made by the state for the institution was inadequate. It learned that some bad meat was sold to the school last year by a Faribault contractor, but it was pointed out by the board of control that this contractor furnished only about one-quarter of the meat used at the institution.

Against Corporal Punishment.

The board of visitors recommends that a competent matron be employed though it does not criticise the work of the present matron; that there be no corporal punishment in the school; that more fire escapes be put on the main building; that better cooks be employed; and that physical culture be provided for the pupils, and makes minor recommendations.

GETS VERDICT FOR $3,300

The jury in United States court, which heard the case of C. J. Petruschke against the E. I. Du Pont de Nemeurs Powder company, returned a verdict this morning in favor of Petruschke, fixing his damages at $3,300. He sued for about $10,000 on a box contract, which he claimed the company wrongfully rescinded. Mr. Petruschke is a box manufacturer in West Duluth.

STRENGTH WAS NOT MAINTAINED

Bears Continue Their Onslaughts on the Copper Market.

The copper market opened strong, but soon weakened on continued liquidation and selling by the shorts who persisted in their driving onslaught against the leaders. The foreign situation was heavy and the market on this side acted sympathetically. The short interest was hit fairly hard in yesterday's bulge, but the shorts got back into the saddle today and the market received little support until toward the close when shorts endeavored to settle contracts. A buying movement at the last moment started a rally too late to affect the entire list and the upturns were individual.

The local market was weak and soft and practically featureless. The only factor of interest was the action of Calumet & Sonora, profit-taking causing fairly heavy offers in this issue, which bore up well. Buying sent the stock up ½ point in the early part of the session, but some liquidation knocked the issue down to the opening.

It is rumored among brokers that only a tentative advance has been made in North Butte and Butte Coalition regarding the proposed copper merger, and that nothing definite will be done in the matter of the supreme court's decision in the Standard Oil case which may knock the entire proposition into a "cocked hat."

Amalgamated sold at $83.25 down to $80.75 and back to $81.75. Butte Coalition sold at $26.87½ off to $25.87½. Calumet & Arizona at $71 down to $64. The drive on this issue was swift, but the upturn was fairly good, the stock recovering to $68. North Butte sold at $42.75 down to $40 and then at $41. Giroux and Greene-Cananea at $10.50 down to $9.87½. Ojibway at $9.25. Superior & Pittsburg at $14 down to $13.37½ and Steel common at $84.25 down to $82.75.

Butte-Ballaklava sold at $11 up to $11.12½. Cactus at $5.37½. Copper Queen at 65 cents, Cordova at $1 and 98 cents, Live Oak at $19 and $18.12½. Red Warrior at $3.50. Shattuck at $20.12½. Butte & Superior at $2.62½. Calumet & Sonora at $22.50, $23 and back to the opening. Keating at $2, and Rawhide Royal at 8 cents.

Lake Copper was raided on the Boston stock exchange today and slumped to $60, a drop of $16⅞. Last Saturday the stock sold at $94½. When the stock touch $69 at noon, stop-loss orders were uncovered and within an hour the prices sagged to $60, recovering later to $64. Calumet & Arizona dropped $5⅝ to $64 and North Lake $2 to $14. The rest of the market was unsettled.

The annual meeting of Giroux Consolidated will be held here Feb. 1. The company has $1,500,000 in its strong box and is amply fortified in this direction to carry on developments at its property. Developments thus far, it is said, are satisfactory to the management.

SAYS REPUBLICANS MADE PRICES HIGH

Heflin of Alabama Arraigns Party in Speech in the House.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Charging the Republicans with being responsible for the high cost of living, Representative Heflin of Alabama declared in a speech delivered in the house today that never before did it cost so much to produce a crop of cotton as during the last year. The cost of living, he said, had increased the cost of the cotton crop.

"If you Republicans in the North had a monopoly of cotton such as we have you would make us pay 20 cents a pound for it every year, and you would convince us it was cheap at that price."

Mr. Heflin arraigned Speaker Cannon and "Cannonism," eulogized the Republican insurgents and declared that the "meat trust has sprung up under the Republican party."

Predicts Democratic Victory.

He predicted Democratic success in the next election. Referring to the meat trust, he declared the Republicans should say to it:

"You shall not pinch with hunger the starving people of this country; you shall not reduce the common people of this country to the slavery of the peasants of Europe."

GREAT MEN OF LOW BIRTH.

Scrap Book: Many of our greatest men were the sons of obscure parents. Thomas Moore was the son of a grocer. Rembrandt of a miller, Euripides of a fuiterer, Virgil of a baker, Horace of a freed slave, Anayot of a currier, Voltare of a tax-gatherer, Lamonthe of a hatter, Sixtus the Fifth of a swineherd, Fletcher of a chandler, Massillon of a tuner. Tamerlane of a shepherd, Rollin of a herdsman, Rousseau of a watchmaker, Moliere of an upholsterer, Ben Jonson of a mason, Shakespeare of a butcher, Sir Thomas Lawrence of a custom house officer, Collins of a hatter, Gray of a notary, Beattie of a farmer, Edward Sudgen of a barber, Keats of a liveryman.

PROFITABLE EGGS.

Of course, I have met with a good many interesting experiences during my career as an auctioneer, relates Henry Stevens in the February Strand, but the most striking of them all occurred, I think, in connection with a great auk's eggs.

Some years ago a young fellow rode over to an obscure furniture sale at the country village in the hope of securing a bargain to help in furnishing a home in view of his intended marriage. And a bargain he did get, though not of the kind he originally thought of! One of the lots put up for sale was a basket full of shells, eggs and other oddments which had attracted the attention of an old lady who happened to be present. Just as they were on the point of being knocked down to her, the young man was struck with the appearance of two large eggs in the basket, and thinking he might as well have them as curiosities he started to bid, with the result that the lot was knocked down to him for $9. Upon examining the eggs it occurred to him that he might be able to make a slight profit on their sale. He accordingly wrapped them up in a handkerchief, and brought them to me. As soon as I had washed off the grime which covered them I discovered that they were eggs of no less a bird than the great auk, and as the result of their sale a few weeks later I handed the astute young bargain hunter a check for $2,000, which was sufficient to set him up in business.

WEST END

NEW HOSPITAL FOR DULUTH

Site of Lutheran Institution Will Be Selected By Committee.

The plan to establish a hospital at the Head of the Lakes under the direction of the Swedish Lutheran churches of the Lake Superior district was favorably discussed at the conference of the church which was held yesterday at Superior. No definite action on the matter was taken, in regard to choosing a site. This will come up in the near future when the hospital board meets.

Three sites for the hospital have been proposed in Duluth. One is at the West end near Twenty-third avenue west. This is favored by many of the Swedish people of Duluth. Another is at Oneota in the vicinity of Forty-sixth avenue west, while the one that is favored by some of the medical profession is at Sixth avenue east and Second stret, the site of the old courthouse.

The matter was left in the hands of a special committee named as the hospital board. The members who were appointed to the board at yesterday's meeting were: Rev. Carl Solomonson, Duluth chairman; Gust Bergquist, Duluth; H. T. Lofgren, Superior; Andrew Johnson, Superior; Rev. Dr. Mugney, Carlton; Rev. Carl G. Olson, Duluth; and Rev. J. B. Idstrom of Hibbing.

THEATER IN NEW BUILDING

Vaudeville House Secures a Lease on Structure to Be Erected.

E. A. Nelson of the Mutual Electric company, who will establish a vaudeville theater in the West end this year, has completed negotiations with the Nelson Brothers' knitting firm for a lease of a part of the new factory building which will be erected at the West end this summer.

The new factory building which will be erected on the lots just west of the present location of the factory, 2102 West Superior street, will be a two-story building with a basement. The theater will occupy the westerly portion of the lower floor and part of the basement. The remainder will be for factory purposes.

It will have a fifty-foot frontage on Superior street and will run back 140 feet to the alley. The theater will use about thirty feet of the frontage. It is expected that it will be ready for occupancy by the first of August.

The plans for the new building are about completed. The structure will be fireproof throughout and will cost between $40,000 and $50,000. The contract for the excavation work has already been let and actual operations will probably begin early next week.

E. A. Nelson stated today that he intended to put in vaudeville from the Sullivan & Considine circuit. When the demand for larger quarters presents itself, Mr. Nelson intimated that he would build a larger playhouse on other property at the West end. The house, now planned, would then be used for moving picture shows.

MANY SETTLERS COMING.

Red River Valley Is Attracting Attention of Easterners.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Ball, the land man, who returned from a trip to Chicago, Rockford and other points, says that the movement of the settlers to to the Red river valley, the coming early spring and summer, will be the heaviest that it has been in many years.

He states that hundreds are turning their eyes towards the Red river valley for homes where the cost of living is so much less than in the congested cities, where many are having a hard struggle to make both ends meet, even those who are in comfortable circumstances finding that instead of holding their own, or gaining a little each year, that their means are steadily dwindling.

FARMERS MEETING AT GRAND RAPIDS

To Join Movement Started in Duluth for Producers' Co-operative Market.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thursday, Feb. 3, the annual meeting of the Itasca County Agricultural association will be held here. It is expected that there will be a good attendance, as considerable more interest than usual is being taken in the fair matters.

After the meeting of the Agricultural association, a meeting of the farmers, and particularly those who make a specialty of growing potatoes, will be held. Supt. A. J. McGuire, of the Northeast Experiment farm has issued the following call for this meeting:

Supt. McGuire's Call.

"An organization has recently been effected in Duluth known as the Producers' Cooperative Market association. It is comprised of farmers' clubs from all over Northeastern Minnesota from Bagley on the West, to Pine City on the South.

"Its purpose is to market the farm produce of Northeastern Minnesota. If a sufficient number of farmers' clubs join, the operations will commence March 1 to find a market for the potatoes the farmers now have on hand.

"It is important that the farmers in the vicinity of Grand Rapids join this association. The membership fee is only $10 per club which would amount to $1 or less per member.

"For the purpose of organizing a local club to join this association, a meeting is hereby called to take place at the close of the annual meeting of the Itasca County Agricultural association to be held Thursday, Feb. 3, at the village hall in Grand Rapids."

There is no doubt but that the membership to the large organization would be of great benefit to the local club, and the farmers of Grand Rapids and vicinity are urged to attend and take part in the meeting.

The Healing Power of Pine

If you have ever taken a walk through a forest of pine trees, you will remember how, almost unconsciously, the head was thrown back and lungs expanded as you inhaled with long, deep breaths the glorious pine-laden air. How invigorating it was—how healing!

The medicinal virtues of pine have been recognized in medical practice for many years. For coughs and colds the mixture of two ounces of Glycerine with a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky is highly recommended. It is claimed that a teaspoonful of this mixture, four times a day, will break a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients are not expensive and can be bought in any good drugstore, the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure being put up for dispensing only by the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati.

them and a committee appointed at a citizens' mass meeting in Faneuil hall last Saturday night.

Hog Prices Drop.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—Agitation for low-priced food products has caused stagnation in the Indianapolis live stock market. There was a drop of from 20 to 35 cents in the price of hogs here.

Atlanta Unions Enlist.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 27.—A 30-day boycott against "trust-produced meats" was declared last night by the Atlanta federated trades, representing 2,800 union men of this city. Slight drops had been recorded in veal and pork.

Retailers Cut Prices.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—Pork chops slumped yesterday, the packers reducing their prices 1 cent a pound and the retailers cutting off 2½ cents. Chops sold at from 15 to 18 cents last week, but now the flat rate for them is 12½ cents. The meat boycott is the cause. About 500 union boycotters were added to the list last night.

Farmers in Counter Boycott.

Frankfort, Kan., Jan. 27.—Farmers in this vicinity have started a counter boycott against labor unions that have refused to eat meat, and they expect to make it state-wide. The farmers plan to quit using the products of the labor of unions that refuse to eat meat. In addition to this, they purpose to advocate free trade. Organizers of the movement aver that the packers are back of the meat boycott.

"Put Them on Free List."

Washington, Jan. 27.—Representative Sabath, Democrat, of Illinois believes that the way to lower the prices of foodstuffs is to place them on the free list for importation from foreign countries. He has introduced a bill to bring this about. His bill would place on the free list articles such as sugar, flour, eggs, vegetables, fish, livestock and meats of all kinds.

EAU CLAIRE BUTTER PRICES FEEL BOYCOTT

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Creamery butter is no longer retailing at 40 cents in Eau Claire for yesterday and today the prices dropped from 5 to 7 cents a pound. Day before yesterday grocers were selling creamery butter at 38 and 40 cents, but most of them were selling at 30 and 35 cents per pound yesterday. Today all retailers are selling creamery butter at the last named figures.

According to the grocers the present drop in prices is due largely to the present agitation of the public against high prices, particularly the meat strike. Local butter men are of the opinion that there will be no further drop in butter prices, neither do they anticipate any boost in prices to speak of. They expect to see the prices stay about where they now are.

HOUSE WILL PASS BUDGET

sixes and sevens regarding the ministerial program, and that nothing definite is likely to be decided until after the cabinet coouncils, the first of which is to be held early next week.

Although parliament will assemble on Feb. 15, there seems to be little likelihood that a formal state opening by the king will take place before Feb. 22, as the swearing in of members, the election of the speaker of the house and other preliminaries are necessary before the royal inaugural ceremonies.

Rosebery's Son Elected.

Among the new members of parliament announced today is Donald MacMaster, a Canadian and member of the king's counsel. Mr. MacMaster turned a deficiency of 99 at the last general election in the Chertsey division of Surrey into a Unionist majority of 4,613. Neil Primrose, Liberal, a son of Lord Rosebery, was elected to parliament from the Wisbech division of Cambridgeshire.

The Unionists received a jolt at the Southeast division of Durham, where F. W. Lambton was thrown out in favor of the Liberal lawyer, Evan Hayward.

R. Leicester Harmsworth, Liberal, brother of Lord Northcliffe, was re-elected in Caithesshire, defeating H. H. Strain, Unionist.

O'Connor Gives Interview.

T. P. O'Connor, president of the United Irish League of Great Britain, in speaking of the next parliament and the policy and influence of the Nationalists, says:

"It is absurd to contend that the Liberal ministry cannot hold office with a considerable majority because a considerable portion of that majority must be Nationalists. Nationalist members before now have put Conservative ministries in power, notably in 1885, and I know members have helped to make Conservative majorities several times. Is an Irish vote to count equal with an English vote when it is Unionist and not when it is Nationalist?

Not Dictated by Donors.

"It is ridiculously contrary to the facts to suggest that the policy of the Irish party will be dictated from America by those who are called their American paymasters. The people of our race in America, who subscribe so generously to our funds, attach no conditions to their gifts, which are the outcome of their love for the motherland, and an ardent desire to improve her condition.

"They take the position that it is not for them, but for the men on the spot, to choose the party's policy, and they have confidence in the judgment and patriotism of the Irish party as well as in the leadership of John Redmond."

FEDERAL INSPECTION OF GRAIN DENOUNCED BY NATIONAL BOARD

coming year: President, Frank D. Lallanne, Philadelphia Board of Trade; first vice president, W. H. Douglas, New York Produce exchange; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Tucker, Philadelphia.

That ambassadors from the United States to foreign countries should be better paid was declared by President Taft at the dinner last night. It was a shame, he said, that with all the wealth of the United States nobody but a millionaire could today afford to accept a post as its ambassador.

The president also spoke in favor of the purchase by the government of homes abroad for our representatives to foreign countries. He asserted that while the country was in name a democracy, it made it appear like a plutocracy for it to send abroad only men of great wealth.

GOES BACK TO GOVERNMENT

section 10, township 14, Lewis county, and about two years later Wilson conceived the idea of obtaining title to 1,040 acres of coal lands in the vicinity.

Various declaratory statements were filed by other members of the Wilson family, and legal action was instituted to obtain title. Half a dozen of the members of the Wilson family filed claims.

The government officials investigated the whole case, held up the applications pending for the acquirement of title to the remainder of the 1,040 acres, and eventually entered suit for the recovery of the original 320 acres.

Hear Glavis' Charges.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Just what the charges are that Louis R. Glavis upholds against Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, were made clear to the congressional investigating committee before its first session adjourned yesterday afternoon. Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, special counsel for Glavis, informed the committee, upon its insistence, of the specific nature of the allegations, though maintaining that it was not any one act, but a series of acts and circumstances upon which the charges were based.

Particularizing, Mr. Brandeis said that Mr. Ballinger had acted as an attorney in drawing up an agreement in escrow and deeds in the Wilson Coal company cases in Lewis county, Wash., these cases being an alleged fraud on the land laws, this being before Mr. Ballinger entered the government service; and his name not appearing in the court records of the case.

Due Diligence Not Shown.

As commissioner of the land office in 1907, said Brandeis, further specifying, Ballinger did not show due diligence in further investigating the alleged frauds connected with the Cunningham coal land cases in Alaska, and was otherwise involved improperly therein.

Glavis was before the committee, and both he and his attorney were closely questioned by its members. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Former Secretary of the Interior Garfield, continuing his statement before the senate committee on public lands, in reference to the several bills introduced at the request of the present secretary, Mr. Ballinger, again failed to approve of the recommendations of Mr. Ballinger on several important features of the proposed legislation.

Criticises Ballinger Bill.

Mr. Garfield thought the Ballinger bill relating to the control of water-power sites would interfere with the improvement of lands for development of water power. He declared, however, there should be legislation for the control of any lands valuable for the development of water power so as to prevent monopolies. The same principle would apply, he said, to coal lands.

According to Mr. Garfield, the government should not weigh down future settlers on these lands in such manner as would prevent them from competing with others who obtained their lands and use the waters under more advantageous conditions.

Most of the members of the committee declare that they are opposed to any bills which are designed merely to enable the government to get every cent possible out of water-power sites or mineral lands.

Mr. Garfield has succeeded in avoiding the appearance of attacking the policies of his successor, by approving, in part, many of the propositions he suggests.

FROM CLUTCH OF THE CZAR

Two Russians, Who Thought Too Freely, Arrive in Duluth.

One Goes to Canada and Other to Woods Near Tower.

Ivan Ivanovitch and Sergius Polinski came to town yesterday, having just dropped in from Odessa, Russia, by way of the Soo and Montreal.

Sergius is the most crimson of "Reds", figuratively speaking and the Russian government would like to get its hands on him, but Sergius knows what happens when the Little Father gets after "Reds," so Sergius took a run and jump and landed feet foremost in America. Ivan is distantly related to Sergius and when Sergius came to the United States Ivan accompanied him.

Several of Duluth's fairly well known citizens were classed as "Reds" in Russia. If the truth could be told about several Russian Jews in this town, the story would read like a Nihilist romance. They had some strenuous times getting away from the land of the frozen steppes and they suffered mentally and physically after arriving in a strange country which they could not understand and which does not trouble itself much about its new citizens.

Duluth has gradually become a clearing house for these people who come usually by Boston or Montreal and from Duluth go southwest to Kansas or Nebraska, or northwest to the Dakotas or the coal fields near Lethbridge or the great agricultural regions of Canada. All of which is preliminary to the little story of Ivan and Sergius.

Sergius is a middle aged man who has been touched heavily by the passing years, which have left furrows in his cheeks. His eyes shine unnaturally as if reflecting a hidden fire, but his glance is furtive and he seems always to be watching for the soldiers of the Little Father with their bayonets or the police who know where the imprisoned silences are.

Sergius and Ivan did not want to remain in Duluth because they had heard that several men wanted in Russia for political offenses had been extradited recently from this country. Of course, they could not appreciate the logic of a situation that would permit the extradition of a man accused only of a political crime, but the fact confronted them and they decided to solve it by going to Canada.

At Lethbridge, Alta., are many coal mines and strange to say there are Russian miners there. Sergius and Ivan went to a local labor agency accompanied by a man who is fairly well known here, and who came from Russia about seven years ago in a hurry, and who has had no desire to return. Local labor agencies seldom get orders from places so far distant as Lethbridge and the manager told Sergius and Ivan that they would have to go to Lethbridge and take chances of securing work. Russian Jews, expatriates in a land that becomes hospitable if they demonstrate their ability to carve a niche for themselves here, rally to each other's support. Soon a purse was raised to send Sergius and Ivan to Lethbridge. Better still, there was need of an organizer for a society, akin to the Socialists in the United States, which flourishes in the Lethbridge district, and Sergius got this job when his friends wired for it. He left last night over the Canadian Northern for Lethbridge. There was a mist in his eyes when he took leave of the youthful Ivan with a characteristic Russian embrace.

Ivan Goes to Tower.

Ivan worked on a great estate in Russia and what he deos not know about the woods is not worth knowing, so Ivan did what few Russians do—he got a job from this labor agent in the woods near Tower, and a gang of Austrians who went there on the Iron Range yesterday afternoon made their strange and silent companion welcome. Ivan—the Russian lumberjack. The Austrians couldn't understand it, but they knew vaguely from him of Ivan's experience. They were Socialists and they gave an indication of the significance of the red flag, which stands for universal brotherhood, for the blood which is red in all men.

Sergius lived in Odessa, a goldsmith. But Sergius liked to study the things which in Russia should be spoken of only in whispers. He got political documents and books through an American Bible society in Turkey which maintained a representative in Odessa and soon the police heard about Sergius. There was a bloody little massacre of Jews near Odessa about two years ago, and when Sergius took a census of his family he found that he was the only one left, his aged father and two young brothers and the girl-wife of one of the brothers having been slain by the Cossack's sword. Another brother was put in prison because Sergius read political economy. Sergius was a hunted creature, but he managed to get through the mountains and then into Germany. It took him nearly two years, but he persevered. And Ivan was with him—Ivan who used to live at Kiev, and whose mother died when she saw her three young sons killed by soldiers and a frenzied populace. Ivan didn't read political economy but Ivan was a Jew, and in Russia. He had heard of America, so when he met Sergius two kindred spirits joined their fortunes—or misfortunes.

And this is the story of Sergius and Ivan, of the man who read and the youth who dreamed in far off Russia.

Came Near Choking to Death.

A little boy, the son of Chris D. Peterson, a well-known resident of the village of Jacksonville, Iowa, had a sudden and violent attack of croup. Much thick, stringy phlegm came up after giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Peterson says: "I think he would have choked to death had we not given him this remedy." For sale by all druggists.

CHARGE $60,000,000 ERROR.

Publishers Say Postoffice Department Made Mistake.

Washington, Jan. 27.—An error of $60,000,000 is charged by the Association of American Magazine Publishers against the postoffice department in the latter's figures on the deficit in carrying second-class mail matter. This and other mistakes are alleged to be in the department's figures upon which as a basis it is proposed to raise the rate for carrying magazines and periodicals through the mails.

About twenty-five leading magazine publishers appeared yesterday as representatives of the Periodical Publishers' association before the house committee on postoffices and postroads.

CARNEGIE AIDS COLLEGE.

Ironmaster Makes Large Donation to St. Paul Institution.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Thomas college has obtained pledges of about $200,000 towards the $300,000 endowment for which work was begun last spring.

Of that amount $25,000 has been given by Andrew Carnegie and $75,000 was originally promised by the general education board of New York city on condition that the college raise $225,000 more.

Archbishop Ireland has confirmed the report of Mr. Carnegie's donation, and the subscription of $200,000 in all.

A campaign in Minnesota to raise the rest is well under way. So far those who have been approached have in every instance responded so liberally that the college authorities hope to obtain the entire fund of $300,000 within a few months.

BOUND AND SET AFIRE BY EAST SIDE BOYS.

New York, Jan. 27.—In a "war to death" between the "Teddies" and the "Gorillas," two rival gangs of the upper East side, 8-year-old Joseph Yeager, a "Gorilla," was tied to a lamp post, gagged, his pockets stuffed with excelsior and set afire. Three "Teddies" who tied and fired him fled after dropping lighted matches in his pockets. He owes his life to chance passersby who smothered the flames.

The three "Teddies," all 12 years old, pleaded guilty in children's court.

"We were just a-playing," they said. "We didn't mean to hurn Yeager up; we only wanted to scare him a little for saying things about us."

They were paroled until April 21.

TOWN NOTES FORGED TO AMOUNT OF $1,185,000.

Framingham, Mass., Jan. 27.—Forgeries of notes of the town of Framingham amounting to the stupendous sum of $1,185,000, with $320,000 still outstanding, were committeed during the last five years, according to Harvey S. Chase, an expert accountant.

The circumstances are expected to be fully brought out at Cambridge in the trial of former Treasurer John B. Lombard charged with forgery of the notes, and Charles S. Cummins, a Boston note broker.

SALOON KEEPERS MUST GO TO CHURCH SUNDAYS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—Local saloon keepers who violate the closing laws will hereafter be compelled to keep their saloons closed until they can produce a letter from a minister certifying that they have attended church on Sunday morning and remained throughout the service. Such was the ruling of Mayor Samuel L. Shank in two cases before him yesterday and so, he announced, he will deal with other violators.

WHEAT WAS UNCHANGED

Opening Was Weaker, But Rally Came Before the Close.

Flax Market Dull and Lifeless, Showing Decline of 4 Cents.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 27.—The wheat market opened weaker today, on account of the large receipts in the Northwest, but grew stronger, and toward the close was higher than yesterday, due to the strength of Chicago, which was firm on account of a scarcity of supplies and heavy shipments of contract wheat. The market closed on a parity with yesterday.

The local wheat market was almost featureless. May opened at $1.12⅝, lost ⅛c, advanced ¼c, lost ⅛, and sold at $1.12⅝, then at $1.12¼ up to $1.13, and closed at $1.12⅞.

The flax market was dull and lifeless. May opened at $2.17 asked and declined to $2.14, closing at $2.13 bid.

Liverpool opened weak, and was soft until toward the close, when the position strengthened on receipt of bullish news from Argentina, the wheat shipments from that nation being estimated this week at 960,000 bu, compared with 472,000 bu last week. The shipments are small and the interior movement is restricted. The weakness in the Argentine market was reflected in the early hours in the foreign markets, but toward the close, the Argentine situation strengthened and four-eighth markets followed in the same trend.

Despite the large receipts in the Northwest, comparatively, the supplies coming in are only moderate when it is considered what the shipments could be. The cash demand was not so brisk today, but this was an abnormal condition as millers, it is said, discriminated against wheat in cars that could not be reloaded with flour for Eastern shipments. No. 1 northern at Minneapolis sold at 1⅛@2⅛c over May. Cash here was on a parity with May. From Sept. 1 to Jan. 15 Minneapolis, Duluth and outside mills have ground 2,000,000 bbls more flour than in the same time last year. Some people think the retailers are well stocked, having bought heavily expecting an advance in price, but others say that this condition does not exist.

The market is strengthened somewhat by the realization by more traders that the mills do not own everything in sight in Minneapolis and Duluth. The east-in milling demand here is not due for some time. The needs in the Minneapolis market are more insistent, a condition reflected in the strong position of the cash market.

The upturn today was due to some extent to buying after the decline and some traders were of the opinion that the market was in an oversold condition, but this was disputed by others. Many think that the market is in a scalping position and that it will be nervous and inclined to take occasional dips until the situation becomes clearer in the spring. The failure of the bears in this week to depress wheat prices to last week's level is considered a bull argument. There is considerable positiveness on both sides of the market. The short interest was reduced on the bulge and some think that the market has advanced sufficiently, considering it simply from a technical standpoint.

The export trade, said Ames-Brooks, was moderately good. The small shipments from this country and Canada have had a strengthening influence abroad. The foreign news is now centered chiefly in Argentina and despite the increase in Australian and Russian crops the leading bulls receive with favor the reports from Argentina that the quality of the wheat there is poor and that the exportable surplus will be greatly reduced.

Estimates of supplies back on the farm vary greatly, but the general opinion seems to be that they are in excess of the stocks on hand a year ago. Farmers generally are bullish as well as the millers and although they have loosened up some on the hard spots so that the primary receipts have shown large increases, yet they have refused to part with their supplies on the declines and this had a decided influence on the maintenance of premiums on a firm level.

The wheat situation is confronted by unusual conditions and traders are somewhat non-plussed. Some are of the opinion that the crusade on the part of the public against high prices would cause a decided lowering of values in all markets. A few traders speculatively inclined have thought that lower prices would come in order to ward off any proposed investigation by the government. Other traders think the boycott against meats will cause an increased demand for flour and that the wheat market would go higher as a result. The future is somewhat problematical and the result of the public furore is doubtful.

The report of a well-known firm that wheat supplies in the spring wheat country, including the marketable stuff in first hands, country elevator stocks and supplies at the two leading Northwestern markets, will be needed to take care of the milling demand at Minneapolis up to Sept. 1, and the requirements of Eastern millers and distributors in the spring was received with favor by the bulls. Cash wheat is in demand for the last two or three days and the market has been able to free itself from the bearish influences which were predominant the latter part of last week.

MARKET GOSSIP

The Australian wheat crop is estimated at 82,400,000 bushels, compared with 65,000,000 bushels last year.

• • •

Piper, Johnson & Case have issued a statement which tends to show that there is no surplus stocks of wheat in the Northwest and that by the end of the year stocks will be as low as last year. The statement follows:

	Bushels.
Government estimates, three states	232,000,000
Required for seed	20,000,000

Bartlett-Patten said: "Cables on wheat ½d lower and corn ⅛d higher. Cash demand for wheat yesterday showed improvement. We will have a nervous market for some time until the spring months are reached when more will be known about the outcome of the growing winter wheat crop. We do not expect any break in prices for the present. Receipts of corn moderate. Transportation is difficult as the railroads are endeavoring to clean up their tracks and get them in normal shape."

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool agent cabled—"Wheat opened firm, closed lower. Futures neglected and declining, situation unchanged. Local speculation controls the market. The market is chiefly dependent on the accumulation of contract stock. Corn, quiet, tendency upward, weather cold."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Our Argentine agent estimates the wheat shipments this week at 960,000 bu; last week, 472,000 bu; last year, 1,656,000 bu. Shipments this week, 400,000 bu; last week, 276,000 bu; last year, 16,000 bu. The corn crop in the North has been benefited greatly by the recent rains and the crop look well. The wheat market was firm at the start with values ⅜@½d higher, being influenced by the Argentine forecast, although materially larger than last week was smaller than expected. Later and during the morning some pressure developed on realizing sales and values declined ½@⅝d. There was a poor demand for spot and Argentine distant cargoes were more freely offered. The Argentine future market is now showing a declining tendency and this decline is materially affecting the market here and on the continent. It is expected that shipments will continue to show an increase from this country. At midday the market showed a rather heavy undertone with values ⅛d lower than yesterday and ½@⅝d off from the opening. Corn was steady and about ⅛d higher. The undertone was firm although the market was dull and the light offerings were attributed to a fair inquiry for American parcels. Wheat cargoes arrived off coast nil and awaiting orders one. Wheat cargoes in distant positions steady, unchanged. Corn quiet, unchanged."

Weather in Russia is cold, said a foreign cable, and most of the crop in important districts is without snow covering and some apprehension is felt.

• • •

Bartlett-Patten were on the bull side of wheat today, but they appear to regard the market as a scalping proposition. Although Patten bought Monday, he sold on the bulge that followed.

• • •

Minneapolis shipped 72,124 bbl of flour. The total wheat stocks there are 4,437,859 bu.

Minneapolis received 23 cars of flax and Winnipeg received 7.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Larger Arrivals of Wheat Help Weaken the Prices.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Larger arrivals of wheat in the Northwest, weather more favorable to transportation and a weaker market in Liverpool caused prices to fall off in the early trading here today. Opening figures were ⅜@½c lower. The range in the first hour was between ⅛ and ½c with a tendency toward an advance as the offerings were absorbed. May sold up to $1.10⅞ from $1.10⅝ after opening ⅜@½ to ⅜@⅝c lower at $1.10⅜@1.10⅝.

The market was nervous throughout the session, May moving up from $1.10¼@1.10⅝ to $1.11¼ on a rally late in the day. The close was strong with May up ⅛c at $1.11¼@1.11⅜.

Large arrivals and weather prospects indicating increased movements had a bearish effect in the corn pit. Improvement in the cash demand in the first hour changed an initial decline of ⅛@⅜c t oa net advance of ⅛c in May and July. May sold up from 66⅜@66⅞c for May were ⅛@¼c lower at 66⅞@66⅜c.

The market kept within a range not exceeding ⅜@½c. The close was firm at practically the high point of the session with May up ⅜c at 67¼c.

Oats showed a decline at the opening, falling off ⅛@⅜c. Commission houses led in the selling. During the first hour trade kept within narrow limits. Offerings were readily absorbed, and ½c of the initial decline was regained. May sold up to 47@47⅛c after opening ⅛@¼c lower at 46¾c.

Good demand for lard and pork from commission houses advanced provisions prices, pork ranging 10@20c higher and lard advancing 2½@20c, while ribs were 5c up. Receipts of live hogs continued moderate and traders declared that market conditions had not changed despite the widespread protest against high food prices or because of recent liquidation of long provision lines. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $20.85@20.90; lard, $11.70@11.65; ribs, $11.32.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Pit Is Nervous and Near Option Gains But Little.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 27.—The diversity of opinion regarding the future of wheat made the market nervous today. May opened ⅜c below the close yesterday and ranged within ⅜@⅞c. The near option closed ⅛@⅜c above the opening. Local elevator stocks increased 450,000 bu for five days. Trading was light and the majority were satisfied with scalping profits. Receipts continued heavy and stocks light. Minneapolis today received 295 cars of wheat as compared with 180 a year ago; Duluth, 81, against 32, and Winnipeg, 140, against 84 cars. May opened $1.12⅜, high $1.12⅞, low 1.11⅝@1.11¾, close $1.12⅝@1.12¾; July opened at $1.11⅜, high $1.12, low $1.11@1.11⅛, close $1.11⅞@1.12.

Cash wheat was about steady. Demand was good for all grades, especially for the cars that can be reloaded with flour for Eastern shipment. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@2½c above the May option, and No. 2 northern for ½c under to ½c above. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.14@1.14⅜; to arrive, $1.14@1.14⅜; No. 2 northern, $1.12⅜@1.12⅝, to arrive, $1.12@1.12½; No. 3 wheat, $1.10@1.12.

STOCKS ARE UNSETTLED

Sharp Advances in Some Quarters and Heavy Selling in Others.

Some Declines Carry the Leaders Below Tuesday's Lowest Quotations.

New York, Jan. 27.—The opening dealings in stocks showed a very unsettled tone. Snarp advances in some quarters were accompanied by heavy selling in others. Amalgamated Copper, selling ex-dividend, started ⅝c higher than last night, but receded at once to below last night's level. Tennessee Copper rose 1½. American Car and Chicago Great Western 1, and Pennsylvania, Northwestern and American Smelting large fractions. Union Pacific sold down two points within a few minutes, United States Steel 1¼, Southern Pacific and Anaconda 1 and St. Paul, Atchison, Wabash preferred and Reading large fractions.

A rally of a point in Union Pacific caused a slight pause in the selling, but when pressure was resumed later the whole list broke badly to the low point of the hour. Union Pacific, United States Steel, Southern Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated Copper were the chief points of weakness. Union Pacific declined 2⅝, Southern Pacific, American Sugar and Westinghouse Electric, 2; Reading, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and Colorado Fuel 1⅞; New York Central 1⅝, and Chesapeake & Ohio 1⅜.

In the course of the second hour prices fell to near the low levels touched on Tuesday. The liquidation conveyed on the most highly speculative stocks with resultant declines in Colorado Fuel of 5¼, Union Pacific of 3⅜, Reading 3⅜, Pittsburg Coal preferred 3½, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, American Can preferred and Delaware & Hudson 2, Southern Pacific 2¾, Anaconda 2⅝, and Northern American and American Beet Sugar 2½. Losses ranging up to 2 points were universal. There were rallies of 1 to 2 points by noon, but this brought activity almost to a stop. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed irregular and unsettled. Bears offered prices down again after 2 o'clock, but their attempts to cover at the decline brought prices up vigorously. The rally in Reading extended to 2½. Pennsylvania showed a good resistive strength, rising 1⅝ over last night. Northern Pacific rose a fraction over last night. Reserries of 1@2 points were general, but they were not fully held.

TAFT TO TRY TO PACIFY NEW YORK

President Will Visit Albany and Rochester Some Time in March.

Washington, Jan. 27.—President Taft has decided to pay a visit to Albany and Rochester, N. Y., some time in March. The date has not yet been fixed. At Rochester he will be the guest of the chamber of commerce and in both towns will deliver addresses which are expected to have considerable influence in bringing together the factional differences in the Republican party in New York. The invitation was extended through Representative Perkins.
Upon the invitation of Senator Burton and a delegation of Ohioans, the president has also consented to attend the fifty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of Marietta college at Marietta, Ohio, June 15 next.

CONVENTION IS INDORSED

Public Affairs Committee Enthusiastic Over Development Convention at Bemidji.

The public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club last night enthusiastically indorsed the development convention to be held at Bemidji on Feb. 17 and 18.
This convention will be attended by delegates from all the surrounding counties.
Ten delegates will represent Duluth at the meeting. The members have not as yet been appointed, but will be within a few days. State Senator George R. Laybourn, who is known as one of those very strongly in favor of reapportionment, has appointed Dr. J. D. Budd and W. N. Moulton of Lake county and C. H. Carhart and Charles J. Johnson of Cook county as delegates from those counties to the Bemidji convention.
In explaining the purpose of the meeting in a circular letter, W. R. Mackenzie, chairman of the organization committee states:
"The purpose of this convention will be to consider and take action in reference to those matters, which, in its opinion, are most needful for the full and proper advancement and development of the natural resources, advantages and conditions of the territory embraced in the counties named, to the end that there may be built up in Northern Minnesota a condition that will insure to the benefit of the entire state of Minnesota and be a source of pride to every citizen of our fair state."

CLIFFORD G. ROE TO SPEAK SUNDAY

White Slave Traffic to Be Discussed By Prominent Chicago Attorney.

The address at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon will be of special interest at this time on account of the subject to be discussed and the prominence of the man who is to make the address. Clifford G. Roe, formerly assistant state's attorney for Cook county, Ill., will speak on "The Relation of the Red Light District to the White Slave Traffic."
Mr. Roe was for several years in the state attorney's office in Chicago, and during that time he came into intimate contact with the white slave traffic through the prosecution of those engaged in it. He has a large fund of personal experiences and a wide knowledge of the subject, with voluminous statistics on its history, and his address should be interesting and enlightening.
Mr. Roe spoke last Sunday at Muscatine, Iowa, and J. G. Mitchell, formerly general secretary here and now general secretary at Muscatine, wrote General Secretary Phil Bevis, warmly commending Mr. Roe and the work he is doing. Mr. Roe resigned his position in Chicago to engage in the crusade against the white slave traffic. He is a man of national prominence and a great lawyer, and the Duluth Y. M. C. A. officials promise that his address will be well worth hearing.

CARS CHASE MAN TO THE HOSPITAL

Ambulance Bearing Victim of Trolley Is Hit By Another Car.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 27.—Pursued by malevolent street cars almost to the door of the hospital, B. F. Flynn, a traveling piano salesman, probably will die of a fractured skull.
Flynn was struck by an interurban car in Pearl street early today and an ambulance was called. Speeding with the injured man to the hospital, the ambulance was struck by a street car. The hospital internes on duty were thrown from the seat and both horses were bowled over and so badly hurt they could not rise.
Finding their patient secure on the pallet in the ambulance the young physicians freed the wagon from the horses and themselves pulled it the remaining block to the hospital.

MAY YET SECURE DEEP CHANNEL

The public affairs committee of the Commercial club will attempt to show the board of army engineers that a twenty-foot channel to Commonwealth avenue, New Duluth, is a necessity.
Lieut. Col. Fitch in his report on the proposed improvement, recommended it, but the board of army engineers claims that the deep channel is not a necessity until the steel plant is completed.
The public affairs committee was in communication with Congressman Miller and Senators Clapp and Nelson on the subject, and the Minnesota representatives at Washington stated that if the engineers could be shown that the steel plant was being built and that the channel would be needed in the near future, the appropriation might be secured. At the meeting of the public affairs committee last evening, W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, was delegated to forward to the Minnesota representatives a statement showing just how far the work on the steel plant has progressed, and what might be expected this spring. There is still a good chance that the desired appropriation will be secured.
The plan to extend the deep channel from Commonwealth avenue on up to the quarries above Fond du Lac will probably not be pushed by the club at this time, as it is not believed that the necessary appropriation can be secured.

'RECKLESS RECKLAW' TROUPE AT LINCOLN PARK RINK.

Beginning next Tuesday evening and continuing for six nights, with matinees Saturday and Sunday the "Reckless Recklaw" troupe will appear at the Lincoln park roller rink in a comedy cycle and skating act. The performances will be given each evening at 9:15 and the matinees will be given at 4:15. There will be roller skating before and after each performance.
The troupe, which consists of four people, gives a novel act, consisting of tricks on bicycles, monocycles and roller skates. Fannie Leicht is heralded as the best lady skater in America, and the press agent says she will prove her right to the title.

STATE RECIPROCAL DEMURRAGE LAW IS FOUND TO BE VALID

Supreme Court Upholds Nolan Measure in Elevator Case.

Provision for Payment of Attorneys' Fees Comes Under Police Power.

City of Ely and Modern Woodmen Lose Appeals of Their Suits.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Nolan reciprocal demurrage law was held to be constitutional by the state supreme court today, Justice E. A. Jaggard writing the opinion.

The case was brought to the supreme court on appeal by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company, against which a verdict had been found in Rock county giving the Hardwick Farmers' Elevator company damages amounting to $218 and $50 attorney's fees.

The railway company claimed that the law was unconstitutional and that congestion of freight made it impossible anyway for the company to meet the orders of the elevator company. The lower court overruled both contentions and was sustained.

The law provides that a carrier must furnish cars to the shipper upon demand, within forty-eight hours at terminal and seventy-two hours at intermediate points, after the request is received.

Penalty for Non-Performance.

Failure to do this carries with it a penalty of $1 a day and attorneys' fees. The company is excused in case of inability to furnish cars through flood, wrecks or strikes. This part of

TRAVEL MILES ON THEIR KNEES

Mexicans Are Scared By Appearance of Comet A1910.

Guadalajara, Mex., Jan. 28.—With the appearance of comet A1910, pilgrimages to the shrine of the Virgin of Talpa are being organized, many of the pilgrims making the journey for miles on their knees. Talpa is in the western section of the state of Jalisco and pilgrimages are made annually to the shrine.

Advices from several points state that consternation reigns among the more superstitious natives.

Has Two Tails.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 28.—Prof. A. F. Douglas, observer at the University of Arizona, reports that comet A1910 is double tailed. Wednesday night the second tail was noted branching off due south, with the other pointing straight upward. Prof. Douglas estimated the length of the double tail at 26 degrees, the longest since the comet of 1882.

SAY UNCLE SAM MEANT NO HARM

Japanese Officials Issue Statement on the Manchurian Plan.

Tokio, Jan. 28.—The foreign office has issued a statement, which is published in all Japanese newspapers today, setting forth that the government is fully satisfied with the good intentions of the American government in connection with the proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways, and the officials of the department are now firmly convinced that the American suggestion was advanced in a most friendly spirit and with the desire to benefit Japan.

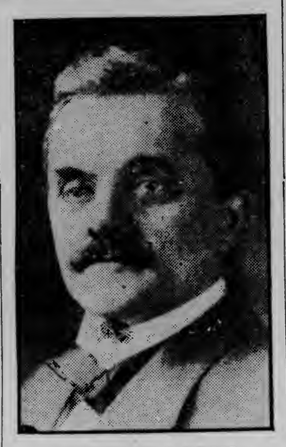

MEN AGREE TO DELAY STRIKE

Philadelphia Rapid Transit Employes Indorse Action of Union Officers.

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—The union motormen and conductors employed on the lines of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company in mass meetings last night and early today indorsed the action of their leaders in withholding the signal to strike until all hope of obtaining arbitration fails.

At the suggestion of the Central Labor union a strike will not be called until after a series of mass meetings are held under the auspices of the various trades unions. Arrangements are being made to hold these meetings nightly.

GLAVIS ADDS TO HIS STORY

Accuser of Ballinger Again Appears as Witness Before Congressmen.

Letter to Chief of Field Division of Land Office Quoted to Committee.

Washington, Jan. 28.—An executive session of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee delayed the opening of today's proceedings until 10:35 a. m., at which hour Louis R. Glavis again took the witness stand. All the members of the committee were present at the opening of the session. Mr. Pinchot and his dismissed assistants of the forest service were on hand early, but Secretary Ballinger was again absent.

Attorney Brandeis, representing Glavis, presented to the committee a long list of papers and documents to be introduced in evidence; also a list of witnesses to be summoned.

For the resumption of the congressional Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry today, the committee room in the senate office building had been entirely rearranged to provide better accommodations for the principals and attorneys. The seat-

TROLLEYMEN MAY DEMAND MORE PAY

Connecticut and Massachusetts Lines of New Haven Will Be Affected.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 28.—Demands for a wage increase, it is expected, will be made on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad by the 4,000 trolleymen on the company's lines in this state and Massachusetts, following the meeting here next Monday of the New England joint conference board of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes. The demand, it is understood will be for a maximum wage of 30 cents an hour.

Explorer in South America Sends Word of Peculiar Discovery.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 28.—Dr. John Haseman, on an exploring trip in South America for the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburg, has discovered the missing link in animal life between the salamander and the fish, according to a dispatch received by Dr. Karl Elgemann, head of the Indian university zoological department.

At the junction of the Rio Negro and the Amazon rivers, near Manos, Brazil, the explorer says he recently found a fish with rudimentary legs.

CUDAHY AGENT SAYS BOYCOTT ON MEAT IS DOOMED TO FAILURE

Prices Will Go Up Again When the Movement Has Subsided.

Supply Will Be Regulated to Meet Lesser Demand, He Asserts.

Economic Conditions, Not Packers, Responsible for the Conditions.

The recent reduction in the price of meats is merely temporary, according to James Young, manager of the Cudahy Packing company's branch here. When the present movement subsides and everybody begins to eat meat again, the demand will send the prices up to their former level, he says and conditions will be exactly as they were before.

Local meat dealers are beginning to feel the effect of the boycott, not so much so as in other parts of the country but sufficiently to make it noticeable. They asked Mr. Young to inform the public from the side of the packers and the butchers and he does so in a communication to The Herald today.

Mr. Young takes the position that the high prices of meat are a direct result of economic conditions, particularly to the high price of feed. Prices have gone down now because the demand has decreased, he says. When the demand increases again, prices will go up, for the meat market, just as every other market, is governed by the law of supply and demand.

He says that even if people do not

FAKE FRAT DRAWS SCHOOL BOARD FIRE

Los Angeles Pupils Get the Laugh on Authorities With Eta Pi.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 28.—Students of the Polytechnic high school are enjoying a laugh at the expense of the city school authorities in connection with the war upon fraternities. They had caused it to be noised around that a new fraternal society—the Eta Pi—had been formed and attained a large membership. As the authorities have been rooting out all fraternities, an official inquiry was ordered yesterday.

The ringleaders testified gleefully that the "Eta Pi" fraternity was an "eat a pie" club to obtain wholesale rates in pies at the luncheon hour.

WILL SELL NO ANIMALS

Mower County Farmers Start Move to Trim Packers' Profits.

Hope to Make It Country-Wide---Prices of Meat Are Fallling.

Grand Meadows, Minn., Jan. 28.—Farmers residing in Mower county have taken the initiative, it is believed, in a movement they hope to make country-wide, for a boycott of the stock buyers. That is, they propose to have observed a pledge that the farmer and stock grower shall sell no stock in a period of six months. The pledge is being freely signed here. It reads:

"To Whom It May Concern::

"Realizing the need of united effort on the part of both producer and consumer to properly trim the packer's profit, and appreciating the noble work of the consumer in boycotting all forms of flesh for a period of thirty days, we, the farmers and producers of the corn belt, do hereby solemnly pledge ourselves to neither offer nor deliver an animal for slaughter for the

BIG CHIEFS WILL TURN PUBLISHERS

Will Issue Paper Designed to Educate and Reassure the Indians.

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 28.—An Indian newspaper will be established here next month, the first copy appearing probably on Feb. 15. Chiefs of the Five Civilized Tribes and other influential Indians are backing the movement. The paper will be edited by Augustus W. Ivey of Stillwell, a Cherokee, and will appear weekly. It will be known as the Degwanns Ahcheeta," which means "Form and Fireside," when translated into English.

Every department of the paper will be printed in some Indian language.

There will be no politics in the paper. Its purpose will be to educate the Indian in the duties of citizenship and remove from his mind the stubborn prejudice against the white man.

FAVOR COAL LANDS BILL

House Committee Members Will Report on Mondell's Measure.

Postal Bank Law Draft Returns to Senate With Few Changes.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The house committee on public lands voted today to report favorably the Mondell bill admitting to entry the surface of coal lands in the United States. The measure affects about 30,000,000 acres of lands in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

The postal savings bank bill was favorably reported to the senate today from the senate committee on post-offices and post roads, practically in the form submitted by the sub-committee. Senator Carter, who will have charge of the measure, will seek an early opportunity for consideration by the senate.

ONION JAG NOW THE VERY LATEST

Pittsburg Judge Lets Victim of New Inebriation Go His Way.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 28.—Unsuspected forces in the lowly onion were revealed when George Prunner appeared before Magistrate Fred Gottman, and the onion jag was added to the catalogue of pitfalls for the unwary.

"I was going to call on a friend who has consumption," explained the prisoner, "and my doctor advised me to eat some onions first, to avoid contagion. I did so. They went to my head and things began to whirl. I don't remember what happened after that," he added plaintively, "I didn't know onions ever affected folks like that."

The magistrate did not confess to similar ignorance and promptly discharged the victim of the newest joy creator. Prunner left, followed by a crowd anxious to learn where he got the onions.

UNIONISTS MAKE FOUR

Twenty-Eight Elections Yet to Be Heard From in Britain.

Asquith Leaves Country Suddenly and the Gossips Wonder Why.

London, Jan. 28.—With only twenty-eight elections to be heard from, the position of the parties this afternoon is:

Government coalition—Liberals, 262; Irish Nationalists, 77; Laborites, 40.

Opposition—Unionists, 263.

The Unionists were credited today with four additional gains, giving promise of a close fight between the Liberals and Unionists for numerical superiority in the new parliament.

Premier Asquith this afternoon furnished the politicians food for gossip when he started unexpectedly for the South of France, where he hopes for a period of quiet during which he may review the situation and develop his plans. His absence is likely to cause a postponement of the cabinet councils announced for early in the coming week.

Puzzled by Asquith.

The official explanation of the premier's sudden trip abroad is the great strain put upon him by the campaign, but this hardly satisfies those who realize the urgent importance of the prime minister's presence at headquarters in the present state of political affairs.

Sixteen representative Scotch peers who will sit in the new parliament were elected today at Holyrood palace at Edinburgh, the only change being that Lord Semphl replaces Baron Torphichen, who had the support of a small body of peers that voted for the budget.

MONEYLESS MAN FATALLY BEATEN

Italian's Death Is Laid to Operations of the Black Hand.

Nyack, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Valentino Ditende, who lived at Rockland Lake, was held up on the road between that place and Congers last night and beaten so badly that he died today. He had no money, and it is believed that his murder was connected with the operations of a gang of the Italian Black Hand.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE EXCITE THE ITALIANS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—A mysterious explosion, which is said to have been caused by a bomb, was followed by a fire, and resulted in general excitement in part of the Italian quarter today. The lower floor of the building in which the explosion occurred is occupied by an Italian banker and steamship agent. There were many persons sleeping in the building, but all escaped without injury.

Dr. Foster Transferred.

Amoy, China, Jan. 28.—A. D. Foster, surgeon of the marine hospital here, who was appointed American vice consul in this city last October, has been transferred to Hongkong, for which post he sailed today.

STREETS OF PARIS TORN UP BY FLOOD

Situation Is as Bad as If City Were in Throes of War.

Heavy Rainfall Continues and River Seine Is Rising Rapidly.

Prominent Buildings Have to Be Deserted---Bridges Are Ordered Cleared.

Paris, Jan. 28.—The boiling waters of the Seine were still rising at noon today at the rate of an inch and a quarter an hour. There is a steady downpour of rain. The temperature is falling. Everywhere the situation is appreciably worse than yesterday.

The palace of the Legion of Honor has been evacuated. The situation in the neighborhood of the French institute has become desperate.

Today's papers are filled with pages of pitiful and terrifying details. War could hardly play such havoc. The "city of light" has become a city of slime, filled with muddy waters. Business is almost at a standstill, and the hotels are crowded with persons who have fled from inundated homes.

Prices Leaping Up.

The prices of necessaries are advancing by leaps and bounds as the paralysis of transportation facilities entering the city extends. The Northern railroads alone, of the vast network of railways, still operates directly into the city, but the operation of this line is threatened by the deplorable situation at the St. Lazare station, where the tracks are submerged and the immense building is in danger of falling

MEDINA AND SELVA ARE ACQUITTED

Orders From Zelaya Are Presented at Trial for Killing Americans.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 28.—The court at Mesaya today acquitted Gen. Medina, Prosecuting Attorney Salomon Selva and other members of the court-martial, charged with responsibility for the illegal conviction and execution of the Americans, Groce and Cannon.

The acquittal followed when Gen. Medina presented the original telegrams of instruction signed by President Zelaya. The court, however, does not indict or accuse Zelaya.

ALIENATED HER HUSBAND.

Illinois Woman Sues Husband's Parents in Fargo Court.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adlaynn Montressa Snider was on the stand nearly all of yesterday in the district court here, giving testimony to support the claim that Alpheus and Martha Snider, her husband's parents, alienated her better half's affections to such an extent he left her. The woman is suing for $20,000 damages. As the defendants are believers in the Christian Science faith and their adherence to the creed being alleged responsible for the treatment of the plaintiff as well as power exercised over the son and against her, this feature of the case promises to furnish some interesting developments.

STORE NEWS:

During the tremendous rush of last Saturday afternoon a man apologized to the salesmen attending him with what he called a confession. "Being very tall and irregular I've always gone to a tailor. A year ago I thought perhaps some clothiers could do as much for me as they claimed. I visited every store in town but this one, and it was back to the tailor for me. I didn't come here, because a remark made in another store prejudiced me against this one. This year I decided to try you fellows and I now see that little remark has cost me just one year's time. If it hadn't been for that remark I would have saved money and had perfect fitting clothes last year." Well it took us just a year to gain a permanent customer, and the other store just a year to lose one.

MEETS DEATH AT COAL DOCK

Ole C. Ekroot Crushed Under Bucket at Pittsburg Dock.

Workman's Back Is Broken and Death Is Almost Instantaneous.

While picking coal this morning, down at Dock No. 2 of the Pittsburg Coal company on Garfield avenue, Ole C. Ekroot, employed as a hatchtender, was struck by a clamshell bucket, sustaining fatal injuries. He died a few minutes after the accident.

Ekroot had been working but a short time today when he met with the fatal accident. A few minutes after 8 o'clock he was engaged in knocking down coal from one of the big piles on the dock.

While at work, one of the huge clamshells descended upon him and before he could get out from under it, he was imprisoned under the heavy iron bucket, which is a part of the mechanism at the dock.

Ekroot was picked up by fellow workmen after the accident and a physician was sent for. Dr. Braden was summoned but before he arrived, life was extinct. The man had a broken back.

Ekroot resided at 2132 West First street. He is survived by a wife and a small boy. He was about 40 years old. Tae body is held by Olson & Crawford, undertakers, pending funeral arrangements.

TO LIMIT AS INSURGENT

Congressman Steenerson Replies to Criticisms Made By Henry O. Bjorge.

Declares He Was Anti-Cannon As Far As Was Consistent.

Washington, Jan. 28.—An address "to the people of the Ninth congressional district has been issued by Representative Halver Steenerson. The address is a reply to the criticisms of Mr. Steenerson's course in the house made by Henry O. Bjorge, who is a candidate for congress to succeed Mr. Steenerson.

The sitting member takes up the question of Cannonism, outlines his attitude toward Speaker Cannon and the house rules, treating in detail his votes on the rules, and other matters in which the question of Cannonism, so-called, was involved.

Mr. Steenerson points out that when he filed for the Republican nomination for congress last year he announced that he was independent on the speakership question, "but favored a change in the rules so as to take away from the speaker the power to appoint the standing committees of the house and vest it in a committee to be chosen by the house." Mr. Steenerson continues:

"I did not nor could I as a Republican nominee, announce that I would fool the party's nominee for speaker. When congress convened I went into the Republican caucus and voted against Mr. Cannon and did all I could to defeat his nomination, but after he was nominated I voted for him."

Mr. Steenerson says he joined with the Republican insurgents in supporting the resolution providing for a committee on committees, which committee was to have authority to name all standing committees.

For Sake of Party.

Taking up the statement of Mr. Bjorge, that Mr. Steenerson voted against the Norris amendment providing for the election of house members on the Ballinger-Pinchot committee by the house itself instead of being appointed by the speaker, Mr. Steenerson says:

"I voted against the Norris amendment not because I desired to have an unfair commission, but because I believed a combination with the Democrats would lead us into difficulties, and so far as the Republican members of the commission were concerned, I was satisfied the speaker would only appoint men favored by the majority. In fact, it was well understood that practically the same men would be chosen as Republican members as were later elected by the house. When I took my oath of office I swore I would discharge the duties of the office to the best of my ability, and in casting this vote I did what I thought was right, according to my own conscience."

Mr. Steenerson's address to the people continues in part as follows:

To the Limit as Insurgent.

"I contend that my record is perfectly consistent both with my party principles and my professions. I have stood for reforms within the party. I have been an insurgent, but I have refused to join the Democracy. I refused to follow the Republican leaders on the tariff bill, because in my opinion, it failed to comply with the national platform on which I was elected. I have voted and worked for a reform in the rules so as to reduce the power of the speaker, and have gone to the very limit in my insurgency, short of leaving the party.

"To the question propounded as to who, in the event of my election to the next congress, I would support for speaker, I will reply, I will support any good Republican who is favorable to the reform of the rules to which I, as well as the other insurgents, stand pledged.

Worn-Out Issue.

"Are we to understand that Mr. Bjorge is a candidate for nomination of a party whose nominee for speaker he pledges himself in advance to bolt and repudiate? My opponent in the last campaign, running independent, with Democratic backing, was making exactly the same issue against me as Mr. Bjorge now makes in this. Evidently this is not only a borrowed, but a worn-out issue, that ought not to be injected into the Republican primary campaign.

LAWLER TO RETIRE.

St. Paul Mayor Decides That One Term Is Enough.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor D. W. Lawler has executed another sensational movement. In a letter announcing that he will not be a candidate for re-election. The announcement is the result of an understanding reached last Sunday between the mayor and R. T. O'Connor, boss of the St. Paul Democracy. Henry G. Haas, president of the common council, is to be the machine candidate for mayor.

Mayor Lawler declares he has fulfilled all the promises made in his inaugural address, that he is ready to retire, and that Mr. Haas is his choice for his successor.

Wants to Find Her Son.

A letter has been received from Lisbon, Iowa, seeking information regarding Frank Vettengle. He left Plato, Gowrie township, Cedar county, Iowa, five years ago, and went to Minnesota to seek work as a laborer. He is a Bohemian, speaks English, 38 years of age; height five feet eight inches; weight about 150 pounds; gray eyes; light brown hair; smooth faced; uses tobacco and liquor. His aged mother is poor, and is worrying over her son's absence and wants to know whether he is dead or alive. Information can be sent to the Sun Printing house at Lisbon.

MANUFACTURERS' SURPLUS

Sale of Ladies', Misses and Children's Ready-to-Wear Garments.

This stock, which consists of suits, coats, dresses, shirtwaists, petticoats, furs and fur coats and jackets, will be sold by H. Levine at 325 East Superior street. You have, no doubt, noticed in the daily papers on Jan. 7 that Mr. Levine, formerly of the New York store, sold his share to his partner. Every merchant, as a rule, when selling out, notifies all of his creditors, and as I did this, one of New York's large manufacturing houses made me a proposition to send me down a stock, and if I was not perfectly satisfied to send it back at their expense, but as I found it to my satisfaction and prices low I decided to keep it and put it on sale. It stands to reason that no merchant would buy a winter stock at this time of the year unless he got the right price. The price I got enables me to outclass all half-price sales. Remember, this sale will last until every garment is sold. As this is a winter stock, no goods will be reserved. Circulars have been distributed all over the city with full particulars of this sale. No doubt you have received one. If not come to this store and you will not be disappointed.

MUCH GOSSIP ABOUT MERGER

Copper Consolidation Stories Rise and Are Denied in Wall Street.

New York, Jan. 28.—There was a lively interest in Wall Street yesterday over the plans to combine the Guggenheim and the Amalgamated copper interests into one gigantic corporation, second only to the United States Steel corporation. Those best informed denied the previous report that J. P. Morgan & Co. would finance the transfer.

It was pointed out that thus far all that has been done by the allied interests is to group their own properties in separate divisions. By this means, if a greater merger should later seem advisable, it can be effected without the complications that beset the simultaneous absorption of many small companies. Wall Street has it that the general outline of this plan has already been passed upon informally by the attorney general. In any event, it will take several weeks to work out the details, and there is still a possibility of litigation over the terms proposed to the Nevada Consolidated properties.

Denial was made that the Amalgamated will eventually absorb the Anaconda. On the contrary, it was said, the Anaconda will absorb the properties in its own territory and then pass into one great holding company, together with the Amalgamated and its subsidiaries and Butte Coalition.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Minard Bennett Recovers $7,500 for the Loss of His Foot.

Accident Happened at Allouez During September of Last Year.

Minard Bennett will receive $7,500 for the loss of his foot, the result of a railroad accident in Superior last fall. A verdict was this morning brought in by the jury in the case for this amount against the Great Northern Railroad company. The case has been on trial for some days before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

Bennett sued for $25,000. He claimed that while walking through the yards at Allouez one evening last September he was without warning, knocked down and injured so badly that the foot was later amputated. He stated in the original complaint that there were no visible lights on the ore train which was being backed into the yards and that there was so much noise that he could not tell whether the train was coming or going. He also alleged that the yards were not sufficiently lighted.

The case was an unusual one and it looked for a time as though it would be transferred to the federal court. The accident occurred in Wisconsin, Bennett is a resident of Michigan, and the case was begun in the Minnesota courts. As similar personal injury cases had been disposed of in the local court, Judge Cant ruled that the case should be finished here.

The jury while finding a verdict for the plaintiff in the amount stated, found also that a fellow worker had contributed to the accident in the matter of negligence.

MANKATO SCENE OF CONFERENCE

Meeting of Charities and Corrections in Southern Minnesota Town.

On Feb. 18 to 21 inclusive, the Eighteenth Minnesota Annual State Conference of Charities and Corrections will be held at Mankato.

As this is a state institution, fathered by the state and kept up by the state and the interest in work of this nature has lately increased greatly, it is expected that the attendance will be large.

The program has as yet not been definitely decided upon, but the notices have been received by many in Duluth who are interested in the work. A number of important topics will this year come up for discussion and many prominent speakers have promised their services.

The conference is made up largely of delegates from county poor boards, superintendents of county farms and delegates from charitable institutions like the Children's home.

The conference will probably be held in Duluth next year. The delegates last year expressed a desire to meet in Duluth and as the Zenith City workers are anxious to have them it is quite probable that this city will be the next meeting place.

C. F. Henderson, professor of sociology, at the University of Chicago, is one of the speakers. William E. McEwen will also speak.

Chan Smith Submits Figures in Water Consumption and Sale.

Says Cost of Water Exceeds Price to Large Consumers.

In support of his contention that water is sold to large consumers at a lower price than the cost of pumping and in reply to the statement issued by Manager Case of the water and light department, Chan Smith made the following statement to The Herald today:

"To support my contention that the water board is selling water below cost to the large consumers, I submit the following detailed proof, from their own figures, during 1908.

"Referring to Mr. Case's report, page 25, you will find amount of water pumped to be a total of 2,124,780,000 gallons. I think that the board will admit that a conservative estimate of the water wasted, leaked or disappeared amounted to not less than a total of 500,000,000 gallons, leaving as amount pumped and sold to be a total of 1,624,780,000 gallons.

"Another reference to page 14 of the report gives total cost of the pumping, service and interest on bonds to be $163,798.02.

"This gives my basis for the claim that the cost for each 1,000 gallons pumped and sold is over 10 cents, without allowing anything for depreciation or a sinking fund.

"The amount used as a basis of estimate is a little more than the amount used and accounted for in a city of 114,000 population."

"Using Mr. Case's figures the cost of the water can be separated into the following parts: 4 1-3 cents for pumping, 2 1-3 cents for services, and 6.4 cents for interest on bonds.

"I claim that the minimum charge should not be less than cost and in determining the cost none of these items can be left out."

Mr. Case stated that after a large consumer had used a certain amount of water that he had satisfied his part of the interest and service charge. To follow out that line of reasoning, if he would use a little more he would also satisfy the pumping charge.

"By referring to the meter card issued by the department you will find the following four statements of rates: First, domestic rates; second, general purposes; third, water used for cooling and refrigerating machinery, and fourth a note stating that neither schedule of meter rates applies where agreements exist for larger amounts.

"I change the schedule from the basis of 100 cubic feet to an equivalent charge for 1,000 gallons with the following results:

Domestic and general purposes—
First 3,000 cubic feet per 1,000 gallons 23 1-3c
First 16,000 cubic feet per 1,000 gallons 18 1-3c
First 76,000 cubic feet per 1,000 gallons 11 7-10c
First 176,000 cubic feet per 1,000 gallons 9c
First 276,000 cubic feet per 1,000 gallons 6 8-10c

"With increasing amounts the scale slides down below cost of production with the use of 176,000 gallons by the large consumer.

"The third scale starts below cost of production and there is nothing to indicate as claimed, that they pay over 6 6-10 cents as the scale starts in with this statement. First 21,000 cubic feet at 5 cents per 100, or an equivalent of 6 6-10 cents for each 1,000 gallons and all over at rate of 2½ cents per 100 cubic feet or 3 1-3 cents per 1,000 gallons.

"The last scale indicates a still lower rate and for the information of myself and many others I will ask the water board to publish the names of the ten largest users during the month of December, giving the number of gallons used and the amount paid and the agreement with party or parties getting water for Proctor.

"We will then be quite sufficiently informed for a further discussion of the rate question.

"The manager of a plant in a city double the size of Duluth writes as follows: 'The cost of delivering water in this city is between 7 and 8 cents per 1,000 gallons. At the time the city acquired the plant in 1903 water was furnished to one or two of the railroads at a rate of 7 cents, which was so close to cost of production that the commissioners discontinued that rate as the contracts expired. A reduction of 20 per cent was made to all consumers of less than 100,000 gallons and at the same time the rates to consumers of over 100,000 gallons per month were raised. Again on Jan. 1, 1907, the rate to consumers of over 100,000 gallons was again raised and the present minimum rate of 10 cents per 1,000 gallons was established. In other words, the commissioners took the ground, that they were not justified in selling water below cost, and that as the water plant was owned by the citizens it was an injustice to them that the small consumer should pay enough to compensate for water sold to the railroads at an unremunerative figure.'"

PRINCE FAVORS A CENTRAL BANK

Duluthian at Head of State Bankers' Association Likes Aldrich Idea.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—William I. Prince of Duluth, president of the Minnesota Bankers' association, has come out as a supporter of the central bank plan as suggested by Senator Nelson A. Aldrich. "I do not know just how such a bank should be handled," Mr. Prince said, while here Wednesday. "But the country needs it. We need a governing influence, a 'balance wheel' so to speak. The central bank plan has proven itself in other countries and it will come to the United States eventually."

Mr. Prince believes the Northwest in better financial condition than any other section of the United States and speaks optimistically of the outlook for 1910. Plenty of money is in the banks, he says. The deposits in Duluth alone amount to approximately $22,000,000.

"I am not an advocate of the bank guaranty law such as Oklahoma is enforcing, Mr. Prince said. "I believe the proper way to control banks is by means of the clearing houses such as exist in St. Paul and Minneapolis. Let the clearing house associations employ examiners and when they find a bank becoming insolvent, let the associations take action requiring it to 'toe the scratch.' If it doesn't do it, then close the bank, leaving the stockholders liable for the loss. If this were done, care would be taken to keep the affairs of the banks in solvent condition."

Mr. Prince said it has been estimated that 50,000,000 tons of iron ore will be shipped from the docks at the Head of the Lakes in 1910. The shipments in 1909 amounted to about 43,000,000 tons.

PUT STRYCHNINE IN THE WHISKY

North Dakotan Alleged to Have Confessed to Poisoning His Father.

Minto, N. D., Jan. 28.—Few more brutal murders in the history of this state have been perpetrated, if the alleged confession made by Charles Moline, aged 23, that he poisoned his father, is borne out. The elder Moline left Barton, Pierce county, on Friday in good health and died on the way to his home, four miles in the country.

The son drove the horses to their home, unharnessed them, and later returned after the body. The cause of death appeared to be heart failure.

At the inquest remarks were overheard which led Sheriff Erickson to believe that a murder had been committed, and the son was forced to confess.

According to the alleged confession, he and his mother, who had been divorced from Moline, were afraid that Moline was about to remarry, and leave all his property to his bride. The son meant to murder both the woman and his father, but had only "gotten" his father. He put 10 cents' worth of strychnine in a small bottle of whisky and offered his father a drink just before leaving town.

SURVEYING ON SNOWSHOES.

Novel Method Adopted By Surveyors to Carry on Their Work.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Engineer Ralph and crew of surveyors passed through here this week on their way to Karlstad, some forty miles north, where they will survey on snow shoes a large tract of lowlands, for a ditch. The winter season is the only time when this task can be accomplished successfully. The lands which are to be reclaimed will be drained into the Twin lakes, which in turn will drain into the Tamarack river. A large quantity of state and unentered lands will thus be brought into use and will furnish homes for many families.

CLAIM IT IS LEGAL TO ASSIST SUICIDE

Wardlaw Sisters Demur to Charge in Snead Murder Case.

New York, Jan. 28.—Claiming that aiding and abetting a suicide is not a crime in the state of New Jersey, counsel for the three Wardlaw sisters now in jail awaiting trial for causing the death of Ocey W. M. Snead, the East Orange bathtub victim, are taking steps to free the elderly prisoners.

Today the New Jersey prosecuting authorities found on file a demurrer to the indictment against the women and prepared to combat it when it is moved, as anticipated, for early argument before the supreme court. The women held are Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, mother of the victim, and Mrs. Mary Snead and Miss Virginia Wardlaw, the dead girl's aunts.

Relief Corps' Head Operated On.

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Jennie Rerry of Des Moines, national president of the Woman's Relief corps, underwent an operation at St. Mary's hospital in this city, and is doing as nicely as can be expected. No information could be obtained as to the nature of the case or the seriousness of the operation. Her husband is at her bedside.

SPECIAL OPENING, MONDAY, JAN. 31.

"LEAF" NOT "THIEF."

Novel Defense of Man Sued for Slander Has Effect With Jury.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Connors was awarded 6 cents in circuit court as balm for his injured feelings. He sued Ben Eck, a local saloon man, for $10,000 damages, claiming that Eck had called him a chicken thief. The defendant maintained that he had called him a chicken leaf and not a chicken thief. He said a chicken leaf was a person who was always flitting about, putting his nose into other people's business.

FELL FROM HIS CAB.

Omaha Engineer, Injured at New Richmond, Taken to St. Paul.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Killeen of Altoona have been called to St. Paul on a sad mission. Mr. Killen's brother, Michael Killeen, lies in a hospital in an unconscious state. He is an engineer running on the Omaha line between St. Paul and Spooner. On Monday night he fell from his engine cab while near or at New Richmond and was rendered unconscious. In this condition he was taken to a hospital, and up to Wednesday it was not learned how seriously injured he was. His relatives were notified. Mr. Killeen is well known in Altoona, Eau Claire and along the line.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Fears South Dakota Scandal.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Senator Jeff Davis charged fraudulent purpose in connection with the consideration by the senate of the bill providing for the sale of the unallotted lands in the Rose-Bud agency in South Dakota.

He referred especially to the provision authorizing payment for certain sections of the land for school purposes, saying:

"So many scandals have arisen in connection with the disposal of public lands of the Northwest that the senate should act cautiously in permitting this invasion of the treasury."

He said that $250,000 would be required.

Senator Crawford pronounced the dangers imaginary.

Criticises Postal Service.

Severely criticising the government's system of conducting the postoffice department, George W. Wilder, principal spokesman for the publishers trying to prevent the threatened increase of the postal rate on second-class matter, charged before the house committee on postoffices and post roads that the postoffice department was not efficient because of the inadequate salaries paid, and that therefore the quality of men needed for the work was not attracted. Representative Fawcett of New York resented the latter statement, declaring the postoffice department had attracted such men as John Wanamaker and G. B. Cortelyou. Mr. Wilder said that there was no justification for separating newspapers and magazines and charging the latter more than the former.

Spying on the Hens.

Dealers in the District of Columbia who sell stored eggs for "strictly fresh" ones, may be prosecuted and convicted, according to statements of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's chief chemist, at the "high cost of living" hearing being conducted by a house sub-committee. Dr. Wiley brought with him a large number of fresh eggs and also some of the cold storage variety. Dropping them into a large vessel of water containing a 10 per cent salt solution, the fresh eggs immediately sank to the bottom and the refrigerated ones floated on the surface. When asked how he knew the eggs were fresh, Dr. Wiley replied that one of his inspectors had watched the hens lay them yesterday.

Air Land Opening Methods.

In the senate a bill was passed providing for the disposition by lottery of unallotted Indian lands in South Dakota, but not before Senators Gore and Burkett had bitterly assailed the system. Mr. Gore offered an amendment permitting applications for the land to be made by registered mail instead of requiring a personal registration on the ground. He declared the present system was both inconvenient and expensive and had the effect of cutting out the very people who especially should be permitted to avail themselves of the privilege of entering the lands.

Mr. Burkett criticised the present system in unmeasured terms, as the most vicious ever employed.

Senators Gamble and Crawford of South Dakota defended the present method as the best obtainable.

Special Oleo Tax.

Senator Penrose introduced a bill to amend the oleomargarine law in accordance with the requests of dairymen and similar organizations. The measure imposes upon manufacturers of oleomargarine a special tax of $600 a year. The tax to be paid by wholesale dealers in uncolored oleomargarine is fixed at $200 and the tax assessed against retailers in similar products is fixed at 50.

Day of Rest in Capital.

Trailing after many of the states of the Union, the national capital hereafter will observe Sunday as a day of rest, if a bill passed by the senate becomes law. With broad exceptions, the measure makes it unlawful for any person or corporation to labor at any trade or calling on this day. Among the exceptions are housekeepers, public service corporations and sacred concerts. Jews and Seventh Day Adventists and others who observe another day of the week are also exempted. A penalty of fine and imprisonment is provided for violators of the law.

Scores Taft's Gag Order.

Reading the order of President Taft of Nov. 26 last, forbidding officials of the government from giving information to members of congress except through the head of the department in which they were employed, Representative Sisson of Mississippi pointed to the many dangers that he said might arise from such an order.

"If this order goes without challenge," said Mr. Sisson, "does it assume that the president has a right to control any information congressmen can get?"

The question arose, he said, whether information was to be censored before a congressman was to get it.

"Information," he added, "should be had for the asking as a matter of right and not as a matter of favor."

War on Seed Giving.

Warfare against the distribution of seed by the department of agriculture has been begun in the house by Representative Moss of Indiana. The department was sending out, he said, mustard seed in one package and a bulletin in another giving directions for the eradication of the mustard plant.

"Hereafter," Mr. Moss declared, "I will not send out mustard seed except in connection with the bulletin telling how to eradicate the plant when once it is started in the garden."

The seeds being sent out, he said, were not rare, but in many instances of a kind that no experienced agriculturist would purchase.

Mine Census Work Begun.

Work on the federal census of manufactures, mines, quarries, petroleum and natural gas for 1909, has been begun by the census bureau. About 1,500 special agents will be employed in the work. Manufacturers are being assured that extraordinary precautions will be taken to hold all their answers absolutely confidential.

Porto Rico Bill Ready.

President Taft has received from Secretary of War Dickinson the draft of a bill to provide a complete form of organic law for Porto Rico. The bill, it is understood, contains a citizenship clause giving to the people of the island much the same advantages as now are enjoyed by the Hawaiians.

Park at Fort Fisher.

Senator Root has launched the movement for the establishment of a national park on the site of Fort Fisher, N. C., by the introduction of a bill authorizing the purchase of 1,800 acres of the old fort site and appropriating $30,000 to pay for the land.

Wants Part of Arizona.

Senator Smoot of Utah introduced a bill to annex to Utah that part part of Arizona north and west of the middle of the Colorado river. This territory is that separated from the greater part of Arizona by an enormous gorge.

NO USE FOR COURTS

If Mass Meetings Are to Conduct Trials, Says Judge.

Mankato, Minn., Jan. 28.—"If trials are to be held at mass meetings, we might as well do away with the courts," Judge Pfau of the district court said, commenting upon the mass meeting held here Wednesday to protest against the methods alleged to have been followed in the defense of Mrs. Grace Ledbetter, acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband. The judge, who presided at the recent trial, would make no further comment, asserting that it would not be proper for him to discuss the meeting at length.

S. B. Wilson, chief counsel for Mrs. Ledbetter, declared that the charges made at the meeting were too ridiculous to call for earnest comment, and that, as the meeting was not authorized or justified, he would not discuss it.

WEYERHAEUSER AIDS YALE.

Lumber King Makes Donation of $25,000 for Forestry Instruction.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The necessity for teaching the application of theories of forestry to lumbering is given as the cause of the donation by lumbering interests of $100,000 for a chair of applied forestry and lumbering at Yale, Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul has given $25,000 and has agreed to give another $10,000, provided a further sum of $22,000 be raised by other lumber interests.

The authorities at Yale have announced that they can secure a further contribution of $150,000 if the $100,000 promised by the lumbermen is raised. Of the latter sum $62,000 has been turned over to the school.

ALLEGED SLAYER IS MINNESOTAN

Reputed Murderer of Rochester, N. Y., Did Time in This State.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 28.—James Hall, alias James Kilmlicka, who confessed at Portsmouth, N. H., where he was while doing time in the federal navy yard prison for desertion from the navy, that he brutally murdered Anna Schumacher in a local cemetery last year, repudiated his confession when brought here, but despite such action District Attorney Widener expects the grand jury to return an indictment and confidently expects a conviction.

According to the story Hall told at Portsmouth when he made his alleged confession, he was born in Austin, Minn., and did time for law breaking in that state.

As Hall's parents died when he was a child he was adopted by Anthony Kilmlicka. He served a three-year sentence under that name beginning with 1902 in the St. Cloud reformatory and the Stillwater state prison for forging a promissory note. After his release he lived with his foster parents and was later arrested for breaking into the home of his aunt Mary Kilmlicka, being released on returning the goods. He says his foster parents are now living in London, Minn.

DAVIDSON CANDIDATE.

Rumored at Madison That Governor Will Seek Another Term.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—That it has been practically decided that Governor Davidson will be in the field for a renomination on the Republican ticket for the office he now holds is generally accepted here, and the politically wise ones about the capitol seem to have been definitely informed that the chief executive will not be the candidate of the anti-La Follette people for the Republican nomination for the United States senate.

Governor Davidson declines to discuss the matter and promptly changes the subject whenever it is broached.

Friends of the governor in and about the capitol, however, are not quite so close-mouthed on the proposition, though even their talk is somewhat short of taking the form of any definite declaration.

Have You Been Hoodwinked?

It has been reported to us by several of our patrons that for the past five or six weeks a certain woman, residing at the West end, has been making a house to house canvas with a bundle of laces under one arm and a child under the other, to gain the sympathy of her victims.

To some she exploits a pitiful, hard-luck story—to others, that she is selling those laces for Panton & White Company—to others, that our Mr. Panton bought the laces for her when he was in Europe last year—to others, that her relatives makes her laces on the other side and sends them to her to sell—and the reason she can sell them so cheap, she gets them through the customs without duty. To others, that we have engaged her to give lessons in lace making in our store, and then winds up by asking for a pair of old pants or any old thing for her man that's home sick in bed.

Ladies Take Warning and Notice

That we do not know this woman. That she does not represent us in any way, or that she has never asked us nor we her, to give lace making lessons in our store. That we have seen some of the laces she sold, and that they are machine-made and absolutely pure cotton.

SEEK BRITISH PASTOR.

New York Church Disappointed Because Dr. Jowett Declined Place.

London, Jan. 28.—The American representatives of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church of New York are making overtures to another British clergyman. They were much disappointed at the declination of Rev. John J. Jowett, pastor of Carr Lane chapel, Birmingham, to accept the call to New York, and are now making overtures to Rev. Campbell Morgan, the well-known London preacher.

Rev. Dr. Jowett, in announcing his decision, said: "I can frankly state that I know of no church on either side of the water which can compare with the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in the possible range of life and labor. The greatness of its pastorate is only excelled by the grace and delicacy with which it has been offered to me."

DR. COOK HAS "IDEE FIXE."

Frankfort Paper Declares He Is at Heidelberg Sanitarium.

Berlin, Jan. 28.—Heidelberg has been considerably excited over the rumor that Dr. Cook has become an inmate of one of the numerous sanitariums abounding in that district. Inquiries at various establishments gave negative results.

The most definite rumor placed Cook, under the name of Hunter, in the Schloss Hornegg, a cold-water cure institute in the Neckar valley, the director of which gave evasive replies to inquiries. The Frankfort Klein Presse states that it knows positively that Cook is taking the cure at one of Heidelberg's best-known sanitariums.

He is said to be very ill owing to the after effects of the excessive consumption of alcohol during his Arctic travels. The doctors diagnose his complaint as alcoholic psychosis, the commonest form of which is known as drink madness, but in Cook's case it has taken the rare form of the "idee fixe," which doctors say in some cases is so harmless and plausible that the existence of the derangement is often unsuspected for some time, and its extent is extremely difficult to gauge, by specialists.

Mrs. Cook is said to be living at Heidelberg and is allowed to see Dr. Cook at intervals.

"SPIES" ONLY ENGINEERS.

Amusing Incident at Irish Island With an English Garrison.

Dublin, Jan. 28.—There has been an amusing incident at Bere Island, which is a fortified point of some importance, and possesses an English garrison. A few days ago a couple of English mining engineers employed by a company which has information that there are rich mineral deposits on the island arrived there. They were armed with the ordinary surveying instruments, small mining picks and hammers and cameras, but these peaceful implements were evidently not familiar to the garrisons, who took the men for German spies.

The officer commanding was not sure enough to feel justified in ordering their arrest, but he told off all the available soldiers to shadow them, and despite their protests, they were followed about by an escort for the three days they remained on the island. When they finally took the boat for Kerry they were escorted on board it, and on landing they found half a dozen policemen waiting for them. A few words of explanation soon convinced the police that their mission was a peaceful one, and they were allowed to go their way.

It seems that they were vastly amused at the surveillance to which they were subjected, and didn't say a word while they were on the island to undeceive the military authorities. The funniest part of it is that a Unionist election speaker heard part of the story, and declared that the Germans already were preparing to land troops to help the Irish in the fight for complete Independence, which he declared was sure to come if the English Liberals granted home rule. Of course, the rest of the story came out then, and the Unionist orator was discomfited.

Quite as wild as this, however, was a speech made a few days ago by "Major" McBride, who fought for the Boers, and who is seeking election to parliament. In his speech, McBride declared that if the Germans landed in Ireland they would be welcomed, and would find thousands of willing hands to help them in the conquest of England, who would be quite willing to grant Ireland complete selfgovernment within the empire.

KAISER LIKES WOODFORD.

Presents Him With Ribbon of First Instead of Third Degree.

Berlin, Jan. 28.—The kaiser has shown himself remarkably cordial toward Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, who came to Europe for the purpose of presenting medals to various sovereigns in behalf of the Hudson-Fulton celebration committee, of which he is chairman. After a long private conversation with Gen. Woodford on the occasion of his first reception, the kaiser presented him with the ribbon of the first degree of the Order of the Prussian Crown, instead of the usual third degree. Gen. Woodford, who attended a reunion of all those holding the kaisers' orders, says he has never seen so democratic a gathering in any any empire. All those who wear these decorations are the emperor's guests, no matter to what rank in life they belong.

CHIVINGTON MASSACRE

Idaho Erects Statue of Hero of the Battle of Sand Creek.

Story of Late Senator Shoup's Destruction of Indian Marauders.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The latest addition to the groups of marble and bronze monstrosities which the states are permitted to erect in "Statuary hall" as memorials to their favorite sons represents a counterfeit presentment of the late senator from Idaho, George L. Shoup. As the Washington collection of "statuary" goes, the Shoup monument is not so bad. The sculptor probably did his best, and there are certainly worse examples of the product of the mallet and the chisel than that which stands for Idaho's contribution.

George L. Shoup was a product of the civilization which made the East. There has never been another man in the state just like him, although Senator Sanders of Montana, the "vigilante," who cleaned out the cut-throats of the Mountain State and forced civilization upon a lawless mob, was of a similar type.

A great many citizens of Idaho came to Washington to hear the dedication speeches, and one of these told the story of the "Chivington massacre" which startled the world nearly half a century ago.

"George L. Shoup," said this gentleman, "was a resident of Denver some forty-three years ago. On the one hand he was denounced as an infamous leader of the Chivington massacre, but among his neighbors he was lauded as the hero of the battle of Sand Creek.

Led by White Antelope.

"The surrounding country was overrun with a band of aborigines, known as the Sand Creek Indians, under the leadership of White Antelope. They were what are known as 'friendly' Indians. Notwithstanding their demonstrations of affection, numerous outrages were traced to the warriors of the tribe. Men were murdered, women were outraged, children stolen, property purloined, and stock driven off the ranches. To all demands for aid the United States officials responded that the Sand Creek Indians were 'friendly,' and could not be authors of the outrages. One day mutilated bodies of four settlers were brought into Denver. They had been treated with nameless violence. People of what was then a mining camp arose in indignation. A militia regiment of 400 men was at once organized, al trained, picked men, familiar with Indian methods. George L. Shoup was one of this body. He was not its nominal leader, but in the events which followed he took virtual command and led the fighting.

"The men who went out upon this expedition were not noisy, blatant ruffians. They were quiet-voiced, gentle, but determined citizens of a pioneer town, nearly all with what have been described as the 'inevitable blue eyes which seem to prevail among the heroes of the West.' They followed the Indians, found their villages at nightfall, and prepared for attack at sunrise. A line of pickets was thrown out to guard against surprise. During the night one of the 'friendly' Indians sneaked up to one of the watchers, killed him, scalped him, cut out his heart, divided it into four quarters, and laid it upon the bleeding body. This was the spectacle which confronted the band of avengers in the morning. The sight drove them to frenzy. They fell upon the Indians with merciless purpose, sparing neither warrior, squaw nor papoose. It was a battle of annihilation. White Antelope and his people were absolutely wiped out. Not one lived to tell the tale. But from that day to this, a period covering more than forty-four years, there has never been an Indian outbreak in Colorado.

Women's Scalps Found.

"Col. Shoup led the men who destroyed that band of Indian marauders. That the claim made for the Indians of being friendly was mockery was demonstrated by the fact that in their camp were found scalps of three women, still wet with blood, and a vast amount of plunder which had been stolen from settlers and from trains passing through that region. When subsequently asked why he permitted butchery to extend to both women and children, Col. Shoup quietly answered: 'It was impossible to control my men. The spectacle of their comrade with his cut up heart upon his breast made madmen of them. As to the squaws, they fought us more desperately than the warriors. They crawled on their hands and knees in efforts to cut us down.

"There was not a man among us who had not witnessed evidence of nameless atrocities, which had been perpetrated upon white women. The battle was probably, considering the numbers involved, one of the fiercest in the history of the world. It was a hand-to-hand conflict from beginning to end, and if we had not wiped the Indians out of existence, they would have destroyed us. I admit that it was a butchery, but a necessary one."

Complete Machine Shop.

Strange and unusual are the things to be found in Washington if one only takes the trouble to look for them. The other day under escort of Gen. James Allen, chief of the signal corps, and one of the heroes of the Spanish-American war, your correspondent saw, for the first time, the most complete machine shop in the country for the manufacture of wireless telegraph equipment. And this shop is located in a modest brick structure on busy, bustling Pennsylvania avenue, not a stone's throw from the state, war and navy building.

Here are installed the most up-to-date lathes for the manufacture of the innumerable parts used in wireless outfit, stationary as well as for freed purposes, and the most delicate appliances in conjunction with this rapidly growing service are turned out under the personal supervision of Gen. Allen, who takes a very pardonable pride in the adjunct to one of the most important branches of the army.

Best Money Could Buy.

The election of Arthur Gorman, son of the late United States senator from Maryland, as presiding officer of the senate of that state, recalls a story told of Maryland politics. Several years ago a bitter fight was on over the election of a United States senator, there being several candidates in the field. At the Maryland club of Baltimore a number of well-known politicians were gathered, discussing the outcome of the senatorial fight. A lawyer from Philadelphia "butted" into the conversation and addressing the best known of the politicians present said:

"Well, Mr. Blank, what kind of a legislature have you in Maryland just now?"

"Oh, the best that money can buy," replied the person addressed, as the laugh went round.

The story with some modification might, with entire propriety, be told of West Virginia, in view of the fight now going on over a successor to Senator Nathan Bay Scott.

ARE NOT YET CONFIRMED

Nominations of Judges of New Customs Court Are Pigeon-Holed.

No Action Is Likely to Be Taken for Some Time.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—None of the judges of the new customs court, the creation of which was authorized by the tariff bill of last year, have yet been confirmed. In fact the judiciary committee of the senate, to which the nominations were referred, has "pigeonholed" the names and it is not likely that any action will be taken for some time to come.

The paragraph of the tariff law under which the court is created, provides that a salary of $10,000 shall be paid to each of the judges, but the deficiency bill, which carried the appropriation for the payment of these salaries, reduced the stipend to $7,000. The presiding judge of the new court named by the president, is Arthur Cleveland Coxe, son of the late Episcopal bishop of Western New York, and at present a judge of the United States circuit court. That position is a life one, and inasmuch as the salary is equal to that which has been appropriated for the new judges, friends of Judge Coxe declare that he prefers to remain in his present position, and that unless the salary provided equals that which was originally fixed by law he will decline the promotion.

In the event of the confirmation of the nominees and the acceptance of the new places, it is understood that the president will tender the place thereby vacated by Judge Coxe to Judge Ray, now on the federal bench as the United States judge for the Northern district of New York. Judge Ray, until elevated to the woolsack by President McKinley, was for several years chairman of the house committee on the judiciary and he is regarded as one of the ablest lawyers who ever served in congress from the Empire State.

The bill recently introduced in the senate by Senator Root of New York, who proposed to grant a pension of $5,000 per annum to Mrs. Grover Cleveland has met with the most cordial indorsement from all sections of the country and its passage through both houses is already assured. The only civil pensions which have heretofore been authorized make provision for the widows of former presidents, Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Grant, enjoyed the nation's bounty to the extent of $5,000 per annum during the latter days of their lives, and Mrs. Logan, widow of Gen. John A. Logan, is still the recipient of an income of $2,000 per annum, paid through the pension office. But in the latter case the pension was granted in recognition of her husband's eminent military services and not on account of his political services to the country.

In these days of heated controversy over the Pinchot-Ballinger disagreement and the congressional investigation into the merits of the Imbroglio fiasco, they was quiet-voiced, gentle, but determined citizens of a pioneer town, nearly all with what have been described as the 'inevitable blue eyes which seem to prevail among the heroes of the West.' They followed the Indians, found their villages at nightfall, and prepared for attack at sunrise. A line of pickets was thrown out to guard against surprise. A Baby in the House

No joy or pleasure on this earth quite equals that which comes into the home when baby arrives. Who can describe the happiness of man and woman, joined in wedlock, as they look upon the delicate mite that is blood of their blood and flesh of their flesh? And who can depict the hopelessness and dejection that hover about the home where the wife is incapable of becoming a mother? Barrenness proceeds from some derangement of the distinctly feminine organs. Many of the common ailments known as "female troubles" cause it.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription overcomes barrenness by stamping out diseases of women, and by healing and curing ulceration. It tones up the system and restores strength.

It makes the baby's coming almost painless, and gives wonderful recuperative power to the patient. By making the mother strong and cheerful, it makes the little one healthy, vigorous and good natured.

Insist upon the medicine dealer giving you Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when you ask for it. Substitutes are often dangerous.

For 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, you can get a free copy of that celebrated doctor book, newly revised, up-to-date edition—the Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, copiously illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness. They regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Tiny sugar-coated granules, easy to take as candy.

Are Microbes In Your Scalp

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebur, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish, it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens, there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe, which when left to pursue its course causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebaceous matter, which latter then unnaturally dries up and scales off.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied, tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it in Duluth only at our store, —The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

Acid Dyspepsia

Nervous People Are Frequent Sufferers From Too Much Hydrochloric Acid in the Stomach.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

"Sour stomach," or acid dyspepsia is a form of indigestion in which entirely too much hydrochloric acid is secreted by the stomach. A sour taste in the mouth is the most common symptom of acid dyspepsia; and the saliva, which is normally alkaline, is found, when tested, to be changed to acid, or just the opposite to what it should be, and is a state of the secretion which causes rapid and extensive destruction of the teeth.

Everything eaten turns more or less sour in the stomach, but sweets and acid fruits are far worse in this respect than other foods. If the eructations of liquids from the stomach occurs, they have such an extremely sour taste as to set the teeth on edge.

Hydrochloric acid is an important constituent in the gastric juice, but when too much of it is secreted, it does positive harm to the mucous lining of the stomach; and when acid dyspepsia is long continued it often sets up chronic gastritis, gastric ulcer, and other serious diseases. The premature loss of all the teeth has been caused by acid saliva, which was dependent upon the excessively acid condition of the stomach.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS, besides furnishing pure, aseptic pepsin to the stomach to dilute the excess of hydrochloric acid, and to digest proteids and albuminous foods very thoroughly, also contain bismuth subnitrate and calcium carbonate, which are antagonistic to the acid, and therefore neutralize the effect of the excessive amount of acid in the stomach, and the continued use of these tablets will change the perverted condition of the secretions to a normal state.

If you are suffering from "hyperchlor-hydria," as physicians term it, or in other words, acid dyspepsia, and experience a sour taste in the mouth, with acid eructations or heartburn, begin at once the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, using one or two after each meal, or as may be required and the same quantity at retiring time, for if this trouble is allowed to run on, it may cause serious organic changes in the stomach. There are cases on record where the lining of the stomach has been completely eaten away through perverted action of the secretions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been tried in all forms of indigestion and dyspepsia, with unfailing success, so that no matter which form you may be suffering from, the quickest way to bring about a cure is through the use of these powerful stomach tablets.

Secure from your druggist a fifty-cent box, and get cured of acid dyspepsia, or whatever form of indigestion you may be suffering. Also send us your name and address for free sample. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

TALKS ABOUT WATER FRONTS

Ransdell Says States or Cities Should Own and Improve Them.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—Speaking before the merchants and manufacturers' association here last night upon the subject of inland waterways improvement, Representative J. F. Ransdell of Louisiana, who is also president of the national rivers and harbors congress, declared that in his judgment congress, before making any appropriation for any river or harbor improvement, should require as a condition that the state or community interested be compelled to acquire and hold sufficient water front and provide modern and adequate terminals.

Mr. Ransdell made the statement in connection with an assertion that terminals on all navigable waters should be public property, but in many cases they are owned and operated by railroads in what Mr. Ransdell said was "in their selfish interests with scant regard for the rights of their rivals or the public."

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md. — "For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Ford, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. NO CHIVALRY IN ENGLAND

Hostesses Complaining of the Manners of Their Male Guests

Suffragists Blamed for Humiliation to Which Women Are Subjected.

London, Jan. 28.—"How long will hostesses put up with the manners of the usual Englishman of the hour?" is a question which every woman is asking. For the day is at hand when the worm in the shape of the long-suffering hostess will turn, and she will fortify her courage, she says, to have "hen" parties, rather than endure the patronage, and not infrequently, the positive impertinence which she now has to accept from most of the men she meets.

Some put down the attitude and manners of the man of the hour to the suffragists. It is because he resents their general tactics, it is said, that he feels it necessary to be rude to every woman.

"Englishmen are losing their heads absolutely, says a hostess, who, during the shooting season, sees in her house more than 100 men guests. "Talk of growing a new race of women," she went on "why we have an entirely new man now, the like of whom was never seen at any stage in the world's history."

At a big ball at Prince's Galleries the other night, a smart young man about town was dancing with a girl who did not perhaps trip the light fantastic quite as dainty as she might have done. He suddenly stopped and said quite audibly:

"You think you can dance, do you? I would advise you to take a course of lessons before you come again to a place like this," and he led her straight across the room to where her mother was sitting and landed her there. Then he turned his back, without a bow or a word, and made for the refreshment room.

At private dances the men will drop in about supper time; will look around the room and see who are the prettiest and best-dressed girls, and then, with an air of interest condescension, say:

Fancies Girl in Blue.

"You may introduce me to the little girl in blue. I don't see anyone else I fancy."

Men have been known to say that they prefer to go in to supper alone, or with another man.

"Oh, no you don't," said a hostess lately to one of these. "What do you think I brought you here for, if it was not to escort one of my girl friends? You just come along until I find some one for you. I shall give you that girl in maize color."

"For heaven's sake, dear lady, don't," was his reply. "I can not stand the look of her. Let me take in your beautiful self?

"Me! Are you dreaming? I am hostess, and I have to go in with one of the men," was her response. And she left him standing in the middle of the ballroom to collect his scattered senses.

All this may suggest that men who thus behave are "outsiders" and "hounders." They may be; but not in the received sense of the word, for many are well born, wealthy and have moved all their lives among those who should have a knowledge of the fitness of things. It is to such men as these that the suffragist cause owes the hundreds of recruits which it daily registers.

Even the wealthiest hostesses and the most beautiful have to possess a fund of good temper, diplomacy and good nature if they hope to make their parties pleasant. They have to endure gracefully snubs from callow youths and "cheek" from scoured old bachelors, and they put up with both because, so far, in England a party without men is hopelessly dowdy.

The usual man of the day in London is like that famous Mr. Hoggenheimer, who was "bored in the morning, bored in the afternoon, bored in the evening." He suggests before everything else that he has not a vestige of heart. For it is generally admitted that politeness and courtesy spring from innate kindness.

The Tenth Danced Home.

Some years ago there was quartered in Dublin the regiment of the Tenth Hussars, whose "side" was the talk of the Emerald Isle. When they were asked out and were requested to do something, the reply they invariably gave was that "the Tenth did not dance. Oh, dear, no, the Tenth did not sing." The only thing the "Tenth" could do, it appears, was to sup, and that it did in fine style. One night the colonel and officers were invited to a dance at a beautiful home in Bray, which is now the Loretto convent. The hostess, an Irishwoman, was ready for them. She asked if she might get partners for one and all, but they promptly replied, as usual, that "the Tenth did not dance." "Well, what did you come here for, then?" she said. "The best thing you can all do is to dance out of my house and then dance home to your barracks."

And so they did. Although it must be nearly half a century ago since this happened, it is still talked of in Ireland. For years afterward no English regiments put on any more "side" in any part of the kingdom. An Irishwoman off the type of the lady at Bray is at the moment badly wanted in London. It is just possible that such a one would bring the callow youths and some old gentlemen to their senses. One thing is certain, desperate means will have to be used if men are to be made to retain anything of their manliness and good breeding, not to say a word about chivalry.

HILL TALKS FOR WOMEN.

Says Buying By Telephone Increases Cost of Living.

New York, Jan. 28.—James J. Hill, the railroad builder, and one of the first to issue a warning against national extravagance in its reflection in the advanced cost of living, says that half the problem lies in the discretion of the housewife.

"If a housekeeper," said Mr. Hill yesterday, "instead of standing in front of a telephone to order the family supplies, would go to the market and learn what foods are cheapest and what are dear, there would be less of this kind of talk. As I have said before, the high cost of living is the cost of high living."

Mr. Hill denied that there is any industrial or financial uneasiness over the attitude of the government toward corporations.

Asked to what he attributed the depression of the stock market, he answered laconically: "Hystrela."

WANTS TO KNOW WHOSE BABIES THEY ARE ANYHOW.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 28.—Following the confession made by Mrs. W. W. Wilson that she was not the mother of quadruplets reported born to her last Friday, Superior Judge Wilbur has begun an inquiry to determine the parentage of the waifs. The inquiry is at the instance of the humane society.

Humane officers are proceeding upon the theory that investigation will reveal inhuman abandonment of offspring by parents.

CONSUMER IS SOAKED AGAIN

Price of Shoes Will Be Higher During the Coming Summer.

Shoes will cost from 10 to 25 per cent more than present values as soon as retailers have cleaned out their old stocks, according to L. D. Stickles of the Northern Shoe company who has returned from the convention of the national shoe wholesalers at Boston.

"The advance in prices," according to Mr. Stickles, is due to the increased cost in hides. The demand is increasing more rapidly than the supply. If the tariff had not been taken off hides, said Mr. Stickles, the boost in prices would have been greater.

"The action of the national association," said Mr. Stickles, "was taken because of the rise in the price of hides. The cost of raw material has jumped from 10 to 20 per cent all over the country. Calf skin, for instance, has gone up 4 cents a foot. Sundries also cost more than they did formerly.

"Local dealers and manufacturers are in no wise responsible for the present condition. It is due solely to an increased demand all over the world and a scarcity of leather. Prices of skins of all sorts have increased very perceptibly."

The raise will mean that a $4 shoe will cost $4.50 next summer, and a $3.50 shoe, $4.

HARTLEY TALKED OF FOR SENATOR

Reported That He Would Like to Succeed Moses Clapp.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—The Pioneer Press says: A free-for-all fight is one of the possibilities in the coming senatorial race. Gil Hartley of Duluth, it is reported, would like to succeed Moses Clapp, and some Duluth people are talking of him as the third candidate. Another man mentioned is Tom Shevlin of Minneapolis. E. T. Young is another who is looking for a fight in which he might come in as a dark horse. But after all the talk it may turn out that there is only one candidate, who will be accepted by the party, and peace and harmony will prevail. That is what the friends of the state ticket want, and they may yet succeed in bringing this about.

DENOUNCED AS SPY.

Russian in New York Blacklisted By Paris Journal.

New York, Jan. 28.—In the list of "traitors, instigators and spies," published by the Paris organ of Russian discontent, there appeared in the copy received here yesterday the name Evalenoko, followed by this description: "An old agent of the Russian police department in New York."

Immediately the cafes of the East side buzzed with excitement.

Bourtzeff. This is his work," buzzed everywhere, for it has been an open secret here that the man who unmasked Azeff, chief of the Black Hundred, is here to expose Russian spies in America.

Evalenoko has been well befriended here for twenty years, and has made it an especial point to meet an incoming revolutionist and supply him with funds.

"His life won't be worth much," said the East side Russians last night. "A place in the revolutionary black list is an unofficial sentence of death."

Prohibition is Defeated.

Joplin, Mo., Jan. 28.—By a majority of 814 in a total vote of 6,504, prohibition was defeated at a local option election here yesterday after a bitter campaign. Women and children took an important part in the campaign, marching and singing in the street and serving free lunch at the polls.

Union Men Start West.

New York, Jan. 28.—Representatives of the Railway Trainmen's union, who were to have conferred here with the officials of thirty-two controlling railroads east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio and Chesapeake, left last night for the West and the conference has been postponed indefinitely.

Vibrant Nerve Force Supplied to Man.

(From "Man's Maladies.")

Without stamina, man is a failure. What is stamina? It is constitutional vigor-health. It is keen, responsive, vibrant nerve force, that gives wonderful inner strength of will, sustains a sound body, supports a wise mentality, makes money and keeps friends. Keen, strong, sensitive nerves make stamina, and with it man can excel in business, sport, pleasure and social favor. Without it, he is apt to be weak voiced, weak memoried, feeble in motion, with cold hands, cold feet, nervousness, timidity, fear without cause, trembling, melancholy, pain in the back of hear, neurasthenia and a general lack of grit, courage and nerve, so that it is impossible to act naturally under all circumstances, as a man with stamina should. It should be the aim of every man to correct the condition responsible for failure and unhappiness, for it can be done by the simple fulfillment of nature's law that the nerves receive their nourishment through the blood, which enables the nerve fluids to recover the daily waste which is constantly taking place. The nerve fluids and body tissues undergo constant changes, and unless the supply is equal to the demand the stream of health ebbs low, and misery prevails.

Astonishing strength, nerve force and poise is quickly restored by the following valuable formula, which any one can prepare in the privacy of home.

First, obtain three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound in a six-ounce bottle; add one ounce of compound fluid balmwort, shake well and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom) and one ounce compound essence cardiol. Mix. Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

The above ingredients, except the syrup, are rare concentrations of purest drugs without opiates and are used for various prescriptions.

IMMIGRANT IS VICTIM

Two "Con" Men Get $500 on Old Lost Pocketbook Game.

Police Capture Alleged Swindlers as They Are Boarding Train.

Sam Rakac and Milan Sajotoric are under arrest at police headquarters charged with swindling Wasel Stozko, a Russian immigrant, out of $500 by the old lost pocketbook game. The two swindlers were arrested last night at Superior by Chief Troyer, Detectives Toewe and Terry and Detective Meed of Superior, just as they were boarding a train for the Twin Cities. All but $20 of the money was recovered, although the wily crooks tried to throw it away while being taken to this side of the bay. Peter Stankoxits is also being held as an accomplice.

The Russian and his family reached the city yesterday morning over the Soo line on their way to Northwestern Canada. While Stozko was at the depot, a man who could talk Russian approached him. He wanted help to bring a trunk to the station. Stozko was glad to help him.

The stranger led him along Michigan street to Lake avenue, where they turned down. After crossing the aerial bridge a second man ran up to them crying that he had lost his purse, and accusing Stozko of having it. The only way he could be satisfied was to allow Stozko to let him go through his clothes. The Russian, ignorant of "con" games, stood for it like a lamb. The second man found a large roll of Canadian money on Stozko, who allowed him to examine it, upon the advice of his companion. During the "examination," a wad of paper covered with three $1 bills was substituted for the bank roll.

The Russian discovered his loss a couple of hours later after he had gone back to his family at the depot. It is believed that the two Austrians had seen the money on Stozko or had been informed of it by some one who had seen him counting it on the train.

CUDAHY AGENT SAYS BOYCOTT ON MEAT IS DOOMED TO FAILURE

eat as much meat as formerly, the prices will go up again when conditions adjust themselves, owing to the foreign demand. If the farmers cannot get what they want for their stock, they will not raise so much stock and instead of feeding their grain to the stock, they will sell it in the market and the supply of meat will become adjusted to the demand.

Mr. Young's communication follows:

"At this time, when the people have suddenly awakened to the fact that it is costing them too much to live, it is wise to consider conditions and what brought them about by studying ourselves, our habits and methods of living, before rushing to the conclusion that some one else is to blame, because some one has said so. Our people are usually too willing that some one shall do their thinking for them, and accept conclusions which seem most tenable. We rush to the standard of the party which voices the most popular idea at the time, supporting it strongly for a short space. Then something attracts our attention in other directions, and we forget or at least turn lukewarm to the idea that shortly before held out attention.

"I refer particularly at this time to the general dissatisfaction with the price of meats and foodstuffs in general and the proposed remedy that is being adopted by different sets of people, namely of cutting the different items off their lists of eatables. Here comes in the old law of supply and demand which has made the price of every commodity since the beginning of time. If there is no demand for lumber and no use for it, then it has no value. The same is true of coal, iron and everything else in the universe. So is also true of meat. If all the people discontinue eating meat for all time, it will cease to have a value and people will discontinue to raise the stock because it costs money to feed stock, as any of you know who keep a horse, because a steer on feed eats as much or more than your horse.

Prices Cannot Go Down.

"But when the people commence to eat meat again it will cost just about what it is costing now, for the reason that the farmers cannot raise stock to advantage and sell it for any less than they are now, when corn is worth 55 to 60 cents a bushel, oats 45 to 50 cents, wheat around $1, rye 75 to 80 cents, barley 65 to 70 cents per bushel, and hay $12 to $18 a ton, and these items constitute the menu for stock that is being fattened for the market.

"All of the people are more or less familiar with meat but for those who take their ideas from what they read and hear, I will say there was an article in one of our papers a few days since that purported to be the difference between what the farmer or cattle raiser received for the stock and what it cost in the homes. That article gave the prices of the livestock as the price the farmer received, which was true but misleading. If a steer sells for five cents a pound alive and he weighs 1,000 pounds, he costs the buyer $50. When the animal is killed and dressed the average shrinkage is 50 per cent and out of the live steer weighing 1,000 pounds the man gets a carcass of beef weighing 500 pounds, making the raw beef cost 10 cents a pound instead of 5 cents, the original price. The other 500 pounds consists of the hide, tallow, bones, entrails and the residue. These, after saving all, even to the "squeal," will not reduce the price of the 500 pounds of meat over 1¾ cents to 1¾ cents per pound at the outside. With these figures before you it is an easy matter to look at the livestock quotations any day and tell what beef is costing in the carcass.

"On Jan. 26 choice to fancy corn fed steers sold in Chicago at $6.75 to $7.90 alive; medium to good steers, $5.20 to $6.50 per hundred alive. You will notice quite a range in values there occasioned by the difference in quality of the stock. Take these figures and figure out what the stuff costs the packer and the butcher and then decide whether you are being robbed or whether this particular business is being handled as economically as possible, consistent with good business policy. In the first place the packer is under a heavy expense and so is the butcher.

"The average butcher's expenses of doing business will run 15 per cent to 20 per cent and this is anybody's game. Any butcher can go in the market and buy the livestock just as cheap as the packer can and would do it if he could better himself any. The reason they don't do it is because on account of the packers handling so much stock that they can handle it at far less expense than the single butcher. It takes men to buy cattle and men to kill them, also men to handle the beef and haul it from the slaughter house to the market and this all costs money. By making a central killing point and keeping the men busy all the time the packer can kill and dress the stuff cheaper than the butcher and the butcher takes advantage of the saving. You must necessarily see that the margin is small because the market is open to everybody and the buyer is not restricted to market centers. He can go right out into the country and buy if he wants to.

Packers Don't Make Much.

"There are over 20 packers in the United States today who are large enough to do interstate business and any number of smaller packing houses who do a purely local business. I doubt much whether many of you believe there are over ten or twelve. These I mean are all different concerns, not branches of some large concern, but there are only a few large enough to do a national and international business.

"As for the butchers, they are making money. Why shouldn't they? What does a man go into business for? Surely not for fun. If he can't make money on capital invested he is better off working for wages. As for the packers, they make money because they are in the business to make money. But look at the dividends averaging about 7 per cent. Is there any paying business that pays less, considering the tremendous capital invested and the enormous business? One concern did over $200,000,000 of business last year. If it netted 3 per cent it was a fortune for anybody. But you must remember that a man can loan out money and rest easy and net 5 to 6 per cent. Is it not worth something for a man to be in business, giving his time to it and taking the chances? The statements of all of them are on file and everybody has a chance to look them over. No, there is no one to blame but conditions, and when you say conditions that means everybody is to blame because they make conditions.

Fifteen to twenty years ago there were millions of acres of government land in the Middle West and Southwest, which were practically waste acres and suitable for nothing but cattle grazing. The land was worth from nothing to $1.25 an acre. No one wanted it, so the cattle men raised cattle there and let their herds wander over boundless wastes, finding what they could to eat. These were the days of the Western cowboy, and all it cost the cattle kings to produce beef was the first investment in live stock and the wages of what cowpunchers they needed to look out for the herd. In the late fall and early winter when cold weather threatened, they rounded up the cattle and shipped all that were fairly fat to the market. The cattle came to market centers with a rush from everybody at one time so dealers bought them cheap and sold them cheap, and everybody had cheap meat and became accustomed to it. But the beef was just what you would expect from the care they had received. The cattle roamed the ranges in all conditions of weather and unfed so they could stand most anything. Naturally the meat was tough. Many of you remember the kind of beef you got in August, September and October and November of those years. A great portion of that same land, in fact all of it, has been reclaimed in late years by irrigation and is now worth $20 an acre. The free pasture is a thing of the past. What makes it worth $20 an acre? The fact that by irrigation, it will bear crops and is being cultivated. The people began to demand and were willing to pay for a better grade of beef and where there is a demand it is always supplied.

Cattle Is Grain Fed.

"The cattle raisers bought what land they wanted in different sections, brought in thoroughbred cattle and raised the grade of stock. They commenced raising feed for their cattle, and it was only a matter of a few years until the old style of long-horned Western range cattle were as scarce as buffalo, which preceded them. About that time wheat was worth 40 cents a bushel, corn, 22 cents a bushel, oats, 155 to 25 cents per bushel, hay worth what it cost to cut it and care for it. Compare these prices with the price of the same feed today and it is surprising that meat costs more than it did then. There are practically no straight grass cattle that come on the market now. Practically all of them are fed and finished at least on feed. Most of the cattle killed, are from 2 to 4 years old, and during the winter at least, it is necessary to feed them.

"Those of you who have had any experience with live stock, have some idea what it is to winter an animal. The ranches are all cut up into small ones now, or practically so, with very few exceptional instances, and each man keeps just the number of cattle he can raise feed for, and the price the feed is worth on the market is what it costs him. If a man can get 60 cents a bushel for his corn, every bushel he feeds to his stock costs him 60 cents a bushel, regardless of whether he raises it himself or not. If this corn only nets him 40 cents a bushel, when he has sold his cattle, he has lost 20 cents a bushel on all he has fed, besides the labor of taking care of the stock.

"It's a business proposition with these farmers now, and we have business men to deal with in the farmers. It is scientific farming that has raised the standard of the farmer in the last few years. They can tell you exactly how many pounds of beef or pork a bushel of corn will produce, and it's not guess work. They know. And if their feed will buy them more on the market than it will feed to cattle, they market the grain instead of feeding stock. You may depend upon it we are not going to have cheaper meat until we have cheaper feed to make it out of. The price of meat today is not as high as proportionately as it was twenty years ago, because the saving that has been effected in the handling of the stock by the slaughterers, in utilizing everything of any commercial value has had the result that while feed has more than doubled in price and the price of live stock has doubled and more than doubled in some lines, the price of the dressed article has not quite doubled. This is particularly true of beef, but not of hogs.

Law of Supply and Demand.

"Understand that packing houses and butcher shops are not primarily manufacturing establishments. They are dealing in as nearly like raw material as is possible, and any one even partially acquainted with the business as it is, can see the utter fallacy of blaming either the wholesalers or the retailer for the present high prices. If you don't eat meat, your meat will cost you nothing. If you eat nothing, it will cost you nothing for what you eat. It is not my purpose to defend either the packer or retailer. I am giving you facts. Figure it out yourselves. The cost of production has increased, therefore the finished product must be worth more. There is another reason for the present high cost of living, and tat is the extravagance of our people as a whole, and the fact that our people, especially among the class that are complaining about the increased cost of living, have of late years either forgotten how to live cheaply, or do not desire to put up with what people have to if they are going to live cheaply, or they have never learned how to do it. It is to this latter class I will talk in another article later, and will call attention to some extravagances which probably you have not considered in that light before, and will suggest a remedy which will help your condition if you care to try it, although there is no hope of living as cheaply as you did twenty years ago.

term of six months from date hereof. Dated Jan. 25, 1910."

Sympathize with Boycott.

While R. E. Crane, proprietor of a large stock farm, and president of the local Farmers' society of Equity, is not one of the original promoters of the movement, it meets his hearty favor.

"The aim is to remove temptation from the consumer," he said this morning. "The consumer has taken a pledge in many instances to refrain from eating meat for the next sixty or sixty days. Marked-down prices at the meat market are a temptation, particularly to the housewife with her natural inclination to seize a bargain. We purpose to remove this, by preventing an oversupply caused by the decreased demand due to the consumers' boycott.

"Of course, we believe that to limit the supply will prevent the dropping of prices. We do not feel that we are profiting so largely that we can afford to have prices paid us trimmed to any extent."

Produce Prices Off.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Eggs, butter, pork and milk continue to be sold to consumers at reduced prices. Dealers claim this is due to outside agitation rather than to any specific objection on the part of Chicago consumers. Small decline in the demand for meat is reported. Potatoes have declined about 60 per cent as compared with this time last year. Fish, with the exception of frozen varieties, are higher, increasing demand by consumers who are eating less meat being held responsible by dealers.

Lower in New York.

New York, Jan. 28.—Effects of the anti-meat campaign were still strongly reflected in local markets today. While retailers are cutting figures on all kinds of provisions, and today it was predicted that the Saturday marketers would find themselves able to replenish their larders at from 10 to 20 per cent less cost than a week ago.

Butter and Eggs Lower.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Wholesale meat dealers here reduced prices 20 per cent today, owing to public abstinence from eating meat. Butter has also been reduced 1 and 2 cents a pound. Eggs also have been reduced in price.

Sales Fall 30 Per Cent.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—For the first time since the meat boycott was started here last week the beef market has shown a weak tendency and there was today a decline of 25 cents per 100 pounds. Since Monday the price of pork has continued to fall until that commodity is today selling for $2 less per 100 pounds than the price at this time last week. Many of the larger dealers report that their sales have fallen off fully 35 per cent since the crusade against high prices began.

Decrease in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 28.—The agitation against the high cost of food has begun to show results in Boston, a general decline in the prices of meat being shown in the markets here yesterday. Retail prices fell from 2 to 4 cents a pound on the higher grades of meat.

An increase in live beef shipments abroad, following the crusade against high meat prices, is announced by port inspectors here. A liner which left Boston yesterday had 873 head of cattle, 120 more than she had been booked to carry, while a second liner took out 338, an excess of 50 head.

Farmers Will Not Sell.

Nevada, Mo., Jan. 28.—Three hundred farmers of Vernon county, at a meeting in a country schoolhouse near here yesterday, adopted a resolution agreeing not to sell any cattle, hogs, poultry, eggs or butter for sixty days, beginning Feb. 1. Their action is as a protest against the statements of the large packing house interests that the farmer and stockman is responsible for the high prices of foodstuffs.

A letter will be sent to all the Farmers' associations in the United States requesting them to withhold their products from market.

STATE RECIPROCAL DEMURRAGE LAW IS FOUND TO BE VALID

the law, the court holds, must be broadly construed, but not abused, and the plea of congestion complained of in this case was not sustained, as "the court was not furnished with a transcript of the testimony and could not review the evidence."

The law, according to Justice Jaggard, was designed to insure the prompt performance by the carrier of its common law duty to furnish cars for transportation of freight, and was not displaced by the interstate commerce act.

Exercise of Police Power.

He holds that the provision requiring the payment of attorneys' fees is not invalid, because it imposed a charge on carriers and not on debtors generally, inasmuch as the statute was enacted in the exercise of the police power of the state.

Insurance Company Liable.

An insurance company cannot escape liability by claiming that an answer in the application was incomplete where no fault nor intention to deceive is proved, according to a decision handed down by the state supreme court today. Justice Brown writing the opinion.

The case was appealed by the Modern Woodmen of America from the district court of St. Louis county, in which judgment was secured by Bennie Elizabeth O'Connor against the order.

The Woodmen claimed that intemperate use of liquor caused the death of the insured member. The court holds that by "intemperate use of liquor is meant indulgence to the extent of impairing the health." It finds that the evidence does not show in this case an excessive use of liquor, within the meaning of the contract.

GLAVIS ADDS TO HIS STORY

ing capacity of the general public has been doubled since Wednesday afternoon, when standing room was at a premium and there was a general confusion.

Louis R. Glavis, offered as the first witness for the "prosecution" on Wednesday afternoon, had hardly begun his story when the committee adjourned that afternoon, and from the manner in which his examination progressed it was evident that he not only would occupy the stand all day today, but probably for several days to come.

May Have Long Quiz.

Glavis began his testimony by reciting the fact that his interest in Secretary Ballinger first was attracted in connection with the Wilson coal land cases in Lewis county, Wash., in 1902, when he alleges Mr. Ballinger, then a private citizen, acted as attorney in drawing up an escrow agreement and in preparing deeds for claimants who, it is alleged, were practicing a fraud upon the land laws. Mr. Ballinger's name did not appear in the court records, and the agreement never was signed.

The witness chair was today placed on a dais. As a result, Glavis, when he took the stand, sat well above the heads of the committee. He took up his story where he left it Wednesday afternoon, giving his testimony in response to questions from his attorney.

Told Chief of Division.

Glavis said that United States Attorney Hoyt had suggested in 1907, that the witness should take up direct with Secretary of the Interior Garfield, the question of Alaska coal lands. "But I didn't think it would look well to go over the heads of my immediate superiors," he added.

Glavis said he did write to H. H. Schwartz, then a chief of the field division, and expressed himself as worried about the Alaskan situation, and desirous to confide in Schwartz.

"It will pain you as much as it has pained me," the letter ran; "but I am sure you will want to learn the true situation."

"What Alaskan claims did you refer to in that letter?" asked Representative Olmstead.

"All of them," replied the witness.

"Some 900 in all?"

"Yes."

At this time Mr. Ballinger was commissioner of the land office.

Showed Ballinger's Work.

Attorney Brandeis next took up the 800 page printed document in the case and spent some time in calling the attention of the committee to various letters, telegrams, etc., tending to show Glavis' activity in the Alaska case.

The attorney said he also wanted to call attention to certain letters which showed the part Mr. Ballinger played as commissioner in directing the inquiry. The purpose, Mr. Brandeis said, was to indicate that President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham were mistaken when they reached the stated conclusion that Mr. Ballinger's participation had been "merely formal."

REFORM MEN OUSTED BY SAN FRANCISCO MAYOR.

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—Following their refusal to resign, Mayor P. H. McCarthy summarily removed the three remaining members of the old Taylor reform administration last night and appointed three others of his own selection in their places. Chief of Police Jesse D. Cook tendered his resignation, which was accepted. John D. Martin, former captain of detectives, was appointed chief of police.

FATHER AND SON ARE BOUND OVER

Sub-Carrier in Brainerd Postoffice and Parent Face Serious Charge.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Boyd and B. F. Boyd, charged with selling obscene photos, waived examination on each of two counts in the municipal court and were held to the grand jury at the May term of court. Their bail was fixed at $1,000 each, but this had not been secured.

Fred Boyd is a sub-carrier in the local postoffice. B. F. Boyd, his father, is a stationary engineer and was employed by the city the past season to run a stone crusher. They are alleged to have sold the cards in question to schoolboys, who showed them to some of the young girls in the school.

One girl is said to have told her parents and the matter came to the knowledge of Supt. Cobb of the city schools, who started the investigation which resulted in the arrest of the Boyds. The affair has caused a searching examination into the lives of many boys and girls whose parents have known little of their school life and still less of how they spent their evenings.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MAKE SUGAR AT BEMIDJI

Establishment of Beet Sugar Factory There May Become a Fact.

Soil Conditions for Raising Those Vegetables Are Very Favorable.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The sugar beet and the dairy cow, co-operating together for the upbuilding of the agricultural interests of Northern Minnesota, will be the salvation of this section, when the logging and lumbering industry has waned and the sound of the sawmill whistle is no more heard in the land," declared M. Jester, at a meeting of north-country delegates held here to form a shippers' association, and discuss other matters.

The question whether a sugar beet factory would not be a feasible enterprise to establish in the city of Bemidji, providing the farmers would cooperate by raising the required amount of sugar beets, has been under consideration by the Bemidji Commercial club for several weeks past. The club representative, J. J. Opsahl of Bemidji, S. E. Thompson of Tenstrike and others, have been gathering data as to the operation of these factories and the raising of the sugar beets, with the result that there is an agitation that may result in the establishment of a sugar beet factory here.

Beets are Being Tested.

Samples of sugar beets which have been raised in this county have been shipped to the sugar beet factory at Carver, and the result of the test is awaited with interest. Some which have already been tested have given the finest kind of results—very encouraging for the successful raising of a high grade of sugar beets in this county.

In speaking of the possibilities of sugar beet raising and securing a factory for Bemidji, Mr. Jester said:

"The raising of sugar beets is the principal question which is being agitated by the farmers of the surrounding country at the present time, as being the answer to the question as to what to do to make small tracts of land which have been cleared produce profitable crops.

"We have been investigating the sugar beet question for some time, as to its adaptibility for this section, and the feasibility of getting a sugar beet factory for Bemidji; and we have every hope, that, with the hearty cooperation of the farmers in the raising of the beets, to inaugurate a permanent, paying industry for every owner of an acre of land in Northern Minnesota.

"It is necessary that 5,000 acres of land be grown to sugar beets in order to provide the beets for the factory, and 10,000 acres are better. The factory furnishes a specified variety of seed.

Leavings Good Stock Feed.

"The tops and the pulp of the beet left from the manufacture, makes the finest kind of feed for the dairy cows which are being raised in large numbers by the farmers who are starting dairying in this section."

epresentative J. J. Opsahl stated that in 1908, according to the government statistics, there were sixty-four sugar beet factories in the United States, and that last year there were between eighty and ninety in operation. The statistics showed that the land adjacent to the factories had increased in value tenfold, after the installation and operation of a sugar beet factory and the raising of sugar beets on the lands.

Mr. Opsahl quoted from a letter written by Prof. Bull of the state agricultural college, that there was about $600,000 invested in the plant at Carver, and that it took 4,000 to 5,000 acres of sugar beets each season to keep the plant in "raw material," as it were. The average yield from these 5,000 acres was about five to ten tons of beets, but, by intelligent cultivation, thirty tons have been raised from an acre. One hundred and fifty men are necessary to operate the factory.

THRASHING IN WINTER.

Belated Farmers Just Getting Results of Their Crops.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The unusual spectacle was presented at the Great Northern depot here this week of some farmers unloading a steam thrasher and separator for use northeast of here some thirty-five miles, where it is easier to transport heavy machinery in winter than in summer. Heavy rains last November prevented the ordinary harvest work being completed, and the result is that there are many farmers who have not yet thrashed last season's crop. Several of these formed a company and bought the new thrasher, and will move it about on runners or sleds. The grain they purpose to thrash is all in stack and has suffered no harm by reason of the long wait for the machine.

ST. CLOUD MAN DEAD.

John O. McClure Interested in Lands in This Section.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—John O. McClure, aged 31, son of Thomas McClure, a pioneer here, died suddenly Tuesday at Medford, Or., where he was looking after some placer mining interests. The body will be brought here for interment. He was educated in the local schools and at Rush Medical college, where he studied for a physician but never practiced. The deceased was one of the wealthiest young men in this section, owning considerable land in Northern Minnesota.

For Amount of Typhoid Fever Cases Prevailing in Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. F. M. Hill, bacteriologist for the state board of health, who has been here and gone over the typhoid fever situation, stated to Dr. Belse, the local health officer, that in his opinion the river water was the source of infection. They went over the history of every one of the thirty-four cases now existing in the city and with a single exception all have drunk more or less river water and that one drank well water.

Dr. Hill stated that the infection doubtless came from Aitkin or from some of the railroad camps situated on creeks running into the river. During the summer months the river would probably purify itself but in winter, when the river is frozen over it becomes one long sewer, and will carry infection an unlimited distance.

Dr. Hill also stated that he considered the ice taken from Rice lake perfectly sanitary and would not be afraid to use it himself. He also considered the spring water all right but would not consider river water fit to use without boiling.

Son of Chairman of North Dakota Prohibitionists a Suicide.

Tower City, N. D., Jan. 28.—F. B. Kiff, son of M. H. Kiff, state chairman of the Prohibition party of North Dakota, committed suicide Wednesday night by cutting his throat with a razor. A few weeks ago he returned from an asylum, where he had been given treatment for a mental affection. Kiff retired last night in the same room in which his wife and daughter slept. He arose in the night, but the others in the room thought it was his purpose to take some medicine, as had been his custom. He secured a razor, it was learned later, and returned to bed, where in the morning he was found dead.

He was a partner of his father in the mercantile business.

COUNTY GOES INTO COURT

Site for Virginia Court Building to Be Secured By Condemnation.

Proceedings Are Instituted for Twenty-Six Lots in Block 43.

Condemnation proceedings have been begun by the county of St. Louis against the city of Virginia, the Cleveland Avenue Presbyterian church, the Cleveland Iron company, J. R. Myers and Fred W. Paine for the site for the proposed courthouse and jail at Virginia.

The papers in the action were filed this morning with the clerk of the district court by William J. Stevenson, special counsel for the county commissioners.

The land which the county wants at Virginia includes lots from 4 to 29 inclusive in block 43. The property was secured by the city of Virginia last spring for park purposes, but the title to parts of it has not been finally secured by the city.

The petition asks that appraisers be appointed. Judge William A. Cant of the district court at once appointed E. M. Treadway of Duluth, Charles Kauppi of Duluth and C. B. Lenont of Virginia.

CHIEF TROYER MAY BE A LIVE CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Rumor Says His Head Will Fall If Cullum Is Elected.

Very Interesting Ward Fights in First, Sixth and Eighth.

The political campaign now in progress has reached the boiling point, where it will stay until after the general election, Feb. 1. Democrats and Republicans have their forces lined up with all possible holes in the fences patched. Workers and partisans have started on the home stretch at a gait which they hope to maintain the three remaining days. Mayor Haven and Dr. Cullum are the pacemakers, and the are hitting about a 2:00 flat clip from morning until midnight. They are here, there and everywhere, from one end of the city to the other, with the chief battle ground in the three western wards.

Gossip is rife. Many different stories are being told about as many different matters pertaining to administrative policy, but no public utterances have been made. The first may come tomorrow night, when Mayor Haven addresses two mass meetings, which have been called in the West end and West Duluth. The Democrats will hold no mass meetings, and if any public statements are made, they will come direct from Mr. Cullum. Each member of the campaign committee, as well as others interested in the campaign, has been instructed to make absolutely no statement. The directions are to leave it all to the leader.

Troyer An Issue.

C. H. Troyer, chief of police, is being made an issue. Downtown talk has it that of Dr. Cullom is elected Troyer will lose his official head. Mayor Haven declared in an address to a New Duluth audience that Troyer is recognized throughout the Northwest as one of the best police chiefs in this part of the country and that he will retain him. Bert Fesler, Cullum's campaign manager, said this morning that Troyer is not an issue. "Will you authorize a statement that he will be retained if the administration changes?" he was asked. "I will not," he replied. "Dr. Cullum is the only man who can make any statement relative to the campaign. As far as I am personally concerned I have noticed that it has been the policy of Dr. Cullum in the past to retain efficient men in office. All they have to do is to perform their duties well." Efforts were made to locate Dr. Cullum this morning, but without success. A telephone inquiry to his residence elicited the information that he had left home at 8 o'clock. He had not been at Democratic headquarters in the Manhattan building and several calls at his office failed to receive a response. He was ill yesterday and remained indoors.

In his address at New Duluth last night the mayor discussed the wheelage tax, which he brought before the charter commission and which will be submitted at the coming election. He stated that it would be of much benefit to that end of the city as it will make funds available for improving the roads to the suburb. He reviewed his administration, which he said has been conducted on a business basis. The only reason for the existence of the opposition, Mayor Haven claimed, is that there are some people out of office who want to be in office.

Ward Fights Lively.

The fight in the wards is lively. The only one in which the outcome seems certain is the Third, where Frank Jordan will be re-elected. The Republican candidate has not put up a fight against him. One of the prettiest contests is in the Eighth ward, where P. H. Martin, Democrat, is making it exceedingly interesting for L. A. Barnes. Martin is doing a great deal of work and will poll many Republican votes.

The scrap in the Sixth ward between John P. Bergstrom, Independent, and Sands Van Wagner is attracting attention. Both are strong, and the totals will be close. In the First ward Frank Cox, Democrat, is hustling James A. Wharton, Republican, despite the fact that the ward is heavily Republican, and the chances are bright for his election.

Thomas Trevillion is working under difficulties in the Fourth ward. His brother George was taken to the hospital several days ago, and his condition has been so serious that Mr. Trevillion has been compelled to remain at his bedside a great deal of the time. His opponent, H. P. Curran, Democrat, has a large acquaintance in the ward and is sparing no efforts to gather in the votes which will put him in the city council.

John Hogan, Democrat, has an able opponent in B. F. Neff, Republican. Both want to be alderman from the Fifth. Wednesday evening a large meeting in the fire hall at Duluth Heights indorsed Mr. Hogan's candidacy. In the Seventh ward Fred W. Erickson, Republican, is opposing William L. Bernard, Democrat. Both have strong followings.

The Republican ward chairmen met last evening in the mayor's office with the campaign manager. All brought in glowing reports of conditions, and confidently look forward to a Haven victory next Tuesday. The polling lists were checked and estimates made upon the Republican majority.

GAYNOR YANKS ON PURSE STRINGS

Takes Strong Stand on Extra Expenditures By New York Officials.

New York, Jan. 28.—Mayor Gaynor today took his strongest stand yet against official extravagance when he announced that any head of a department who exceeded his budget allowance without sufficient cause would be removed.

Comptroller Prendergast replied at the board of estimate meeting to numerous calls for funds to meet deficiencies from various department heads, and cited the charter to show that it was a misdemeanor to exceed departmental appropriations in expenditures. The comptroller said conditions in this respect were rapidly growing worse and that a check was needed.

Mayor Gaynor was ready to supply it.

"Things cannot go on as they have gone," said the mayor. "I shall consider it a sufficient ground for removal if any department head exceeds his appropriation without just and proper cause."

BLUE COATS WILL DANCE

Policemen's Annual Affair to Be Held at Armory Monday Night.

Proceeds Will Go to Swell Fund of the Relief Association.

The city's finest will "trip the light, fantastic toe" at the Armory, Second avenue east and First street, next Monday night, the eve of the general election, the usual time for holding the annual policemen's ball.

The big blue coats have already started to burnish their brass buttons, slick up their dress uniforms and get in shape for the big event. When they think nobody is looking at headquarters they surreptitiously practice some of the steps, just to see if they have forgotten how since the last grand rally.

The coppers claim that the ball next Monday will put all those of the past, no matter how good they may have been, away in the backyard. The committees which have had charge of the preparations have been working overtime. They declare that the arrangements are the "best ever" and that the decorations in the hall will be unexcelled.

The large armory will undoubtedly be filled. Duluth policemen have acquired an enviable reputation as hosts and everybody is sure of a good time. The sale of tickets has been large. The proceeds go to the treasury of the police relief association fund, which is used for the benefit of disabled or sick policemen. In order that as many of the force as possible may attend extra policemen will be employed for the night to take care of the more important beats.

NO MERGER AT PRESENT

Duluth People Believe Copper Interests Will Await Opportune Time.

It Is Said No Overtures Have Been Made to North Butte.

It is not believed locally that the proposed merger of the big copper interests of the United States, which has been in the air for several months, will go through in the very near future. All existing conditions are against it. The decision in the Standard Oil case to the effect that holding companies, which takes up the stock of different corporations in the same line of business is in restraint of trade because it takes the companies out of competition, one with another, is pending before the United States supreme court. Securities are dropping off somewhat, and general financial conditions are unsettled, although secure enough. President Taft's policies have not been clearly outlined. Congress and general political conditions are in a turmoil, with the Republican party, the dominating party for so many years, split into "regulars" and "insurgents," throughout the land.

The opinion of local people who are interested in coppers and are students of economic conditions, is that a big copper merger at this time would be a flight in the face of the supreme court, which is to hear the arguments on the Standard Oil decision in March. Such a course taken at this time would be impolitic, they say.

The steps taken in New York this week for the consolidation of the Utah Copper company and the Boston Copper company, are regarded as a move toward an ultimate merger of copper interests, as is the proposed increase of the capitalization of the Anaconda Copper company to $150,000,000 for the absorption of subsidiary corporations of that company and the Amalgamated Copper company, which owns a controlling interest in the Anaconda company.

It is believed the copper interests, while planning the merger and awaiting an opportune time to consummate it, will content themselves with reducing the number of units to be involved by consolidating the companies in the different camps. The move of the Anaconda Copper company, if it is authorized at the meeting to be held March 23, will consolidate most of the companies in the Butte camp. The company will not be in the position of a holding corporation as defined in the decision against the Standard Oil company, but the increase in capitalization is designed to provide means for purchasing the subsidiary corporations outright and making them composite parts of the Anaconda Copper company. The consolidation of the Utah Copper company and Boston Copper company will merge the big companies in the Bingham camp in Utah and it is also understood the merger includes at least the minority stock of the Nevada Consolidated, although it is said the Guggenheims have been unsuccessful in their attempt to secure control of that company.

It is said locally though no confirmation can be secured, that no overtures have yet been made to the North Butte and Butte Coalition companies toward entering the merger. Local officials of North Butte say that when any move toward a merger is contemplated, the stockholders of that company will be given full opportunity to understand the terms and to express their views. The same is said to apply to Butte Coalition. Some of those prominent in Giroux are said to be opposed to the merger.

At any rate, it is believed in Duluth that the New York dispatches to the effect that the merger is contemplated immediately are overreaching the facts somewhat. That the merger is contemplated, there is little doubt, but it is believed that those behind the proposition will await a more auspicious time than the present for putting it through.

GIVES WIFE TO MAN SHE LOVES

Karl Jorn Makes Public the Terms of Their Separation.

New York, Jan. 28.—In a written statement, witnessed by the German consul here, Karl Jorn, the German tenor, made public last night the terms of his separation from his wife. Like Ruskin, he surrenders his wife to the man she loves.

"I have agreed," says Jorn, "that she get a divorce so that she can marry the man of her choice. Furthermore, I have bound myself to pay her $25,000 in cash and $1,000 a year until she is married again. To our three children I give $1,000 a year for the rest of their lives. I gave my wife all the money I had before she sailed, and I did not even have 50 cents to buy her a bunch of violets at the pier."

Jorn kissed his wife affectionately before she sailed last week for Germany. He met her when a young man struggling for success, and their life until recently had been very happy together.

FIRES ROUGH POLICEMEN.

Baker Lets Three Men Out and Is Praised By Gaynor.

New York, Jan. 28.—Commissioner Baker of the police department dismissed three men from the force yesterday for brutal assaults upon citizens. Informed of this action, Mayor Gaynor wrote the commissioner as follows:

"I am very much gratified by this prompt action. Let all such men on the force be treated in the same way. Let the whole force know once and for all that it will be deemed a greater offense to commit unlawful assault upon a citizen or unlawfully to enter a house, than to let a criminal escape."

TO ASSIST CHRISTIANS

Chinese Ministry of Education Would Prevent Anti-Christian Troubles.

Hereditary Slavery in High Families Is Ordered Abolished.

Shanghai, Jan. 28.—A native dispatch reproduced by a Shanghai journal states that the ministry of education has hit upon the following plan for preventing anti-Christian troubles in China. It proposes to select a number of the smartest students who have been educated abroad to translate extracts and selections of Christian works and in the case of any tenets or principles coinciding with those taught in Confucianism to compare and illustrate them with words from the "Four Books and Six Classics." Copies of these selected compilations would then be circulated in schools and public offices in the empire, to acquaint the people with the fact that Christianity, like the doctrines of the Chinese philosopher, Mai Tzu, has for its object "the exhortation of men to be good and altruistic." In this manner, it is added, the doubts of the people would be removed and anti-Christian fiction should die a natural death.

In response to a memorial from the viceroy of Kuangtung, the Peking government recently directed that hereditary slavery in high families must be abolished. It now appears that the orders to this effect issued for the guidance of all the provincial governments have in some cases been ignored. The ministry of the interior, has therefore, once more taken up the matter and instructed all viceroys and governors to give the necessary directions to their subordinates.

Industrial Development.

Some interesting information in regard to China's industrial development is furnished by Mr. Akatsuka, secretary of the foreign office at Tokio, who has just completed an extensive tour of inquiry in that country. According to a Japanese journal, he reports that the "rights recovery" cry is now supplemented by a demand for the development of native industries, so that the inhabitants, as far as possible, may be able to dispense with foreign products and manufactures.

But while admitting that the clamor is loud, Mr. Akatsuka evidently has great doubts as to its sincerity. He divides the promoters of the agitation into five classes. In the first are placed those who are influenced by really patriotic motives. Their number is exceedingly small. The second consists of persons who utilize the excitement as a lever for getting themselves into good positions. They are incomparably the most numerous. In the third group are promoters of companies who, by exciting the popular mind, hope to obtain subscribers for shares in enterprises which would not otherwise command support.

In the fourth category are placed men who, being envious of the successful combinations formed by foreigners and Chinese for business purposes, are anxious to oust the foreigner and succeed to the position his capital and energy have built up. Finally, there are the local officials who are genuinely solicitors on behalf of native industries, and who would fain see the country develop so as to be independent of supplies from abroad.

Is Having Good Effect.

It is stated that the movement is undoubtedly serving to inspire industrial progress. Companies are springing up for the prosecution of electric works and railways, although it is noticeable that these are, for the most part, undertaken partly by officialdom and partly by private persons. This combination is, however, not unnatural, for by the aid of officials alone can land be cheaply acquired for building factories and other facilities secured.

Since 1907 the authorities have taken steps to discriminate between foreign and native manufacturers in the matter of domestic taxation, and no small advantage for competitive purposes is thus conferred on makers of such articles as paper, woven goods, candles, needles, woolens and cotton yarns. The system of exemptions is extended to goods produced at factories within the foreign settlements. In Kwangtung province, which has always been noted for industrial enterprise, factories have been established for making lemonade, woolens, school utensils, uniforms, matches, cement, woven fabrics and leather. In the case of matches, the materials are procured from Japan, and Chinese cheap labor is employed to work them up. It is noteworthy that on the labels attached to the fabrics produced at one factory these are imprinted words which signify "development of local industry."

LATE HOURS PUNISH THE FAT FOLKS

It is the wisdom of ancient days that the fatter you become the quicker you weary. One sits out more dances than formerly, the flesh grows weaker after 1:30 a. m., in exact ratio to the lengthening of the waist measure. Fat is robbing you of fun, just at a time when you have the leisure and the cash for it.

You may reduce that fatty overplus, and so revive your flagging energies, if you will, in the simplest way. You can take off a pound of it a day, if you wish, without causing weakness, or wrinkles, or calling upon exercising or dieting for help. For years fashionable fat people have been using the famous Marmola Prescription, ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water. Now these same proportions have been combined, most elegantly, into a tablet, the Marmola Prescription Tablet.

You may take one tablet or many daily (without injury) as an offset to the fat, and a sure destroyer of that springy, jumpy, lithesome agility and tireless endurance you have begun to learn to yearn for. Tender seventy-five cents to your druggist for a case; or write the distributers, the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Why not?

ROCKEFELLER IS FULL OF CHEER

Gives Out Glowing Statement on Conditions in the Northwest.

New York, Jan. 28.—William Rockefeller, vice president of the Standard Oil company, following the directors' meeting of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, gave one of his rare but characteristic interviews, sounding a high note of optimism for the Northwest and speaking glowingly of the St. Paul's extension to the Pacific coast.

The St. Paul railroad declared its regular dividends, and after the meeting Mr. Rockefeller declared that the company's treasury was overflowing with money. He said:

"It is all nonsense, this talk of a cut in the St. Paul common dividend. The dividend is much more likely to be raised than it is to be lowered.

'Optimism is Justified."

"Just now the St. Paul and Puget Sound roads are struggling with bad weather, but otherwise conditions are such as to justify the most extreme kind of optimism. The coast extension is exceeding not only our expectations, but I might say, our hopes.

"I notice that in spite of the Puget Sound road's phenomenal earnings, those of the Northern Pacific continue on the increase. Undoubtedly the natural wealth and the hustle of the great Northwest will support two railroads.

"So far as we can see ahead, St. Paul's financing is done. As to the St. Paul proper, its treasury is overflowing with money."

MARION FOUND GUILTY.

Theatrical Man Convicted of First Degree Murder.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 28.—George L. Marion, a theatrical agent of New York city, who was on trial here for ten days, charged with the murder of his common-law wife in this city last August, was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out one hour.

Marion followed the woman to this city from New York after he had learned she was married to a man named Brooks. He met the woman in the office of the chief of police and, after exchanging a few words with her, shot her twice.

The theatrical people of the country raised a defense fund for Marion.

A POSTAL SAVINGS BANK AT LAST?

In 1892 the platform of the People's party—the "crazy" Populists—demanded the creation of a postal savings bank system.

In 1910, after eighteen years of agitation and delay, it now looks as though that "crazy" demand of a "crazy" party was about to be heeded by the Republican party, the party that has made it possible to prevent this government of, for and by the people from doing things for the good of the people. The Populists, then, were not so crazy after all, so far as this plank in their platform is concerned; and if you will look back to that platform of 1892 you will find that it was a pretty reasonable and safely progressive document.

The postal savings bank bill introduced in the senate yesterday seems to meet the needs of the nation. The objection that a postal savings bank system would result in congesting the people's savings in the money centers has been overcome by providing that money received by local postoffices shall be deposited in local banks, and to obviate the need of going to the money centers to buy bonds for security, such banks are allowed to furnish indemnity bonds in lieu of other securities.

Briefly, the provisions of the bill are as follows: While in the beginning only presidential postoffices will become savings banks, the bill provides for extension of the system, as the postmaster general sees fit, so that ultimately it will include practically all postoffices. Accounts may be opened by any person ten years of age or older, and by married women in their own names and free from any interference on the part of their husbands—a wise and salutary provision. No person can have more than one account, not more than $100 can be deposited in any one month, and total deposits, exclusive of interest, are limited to $500 for each individual. Accounts can be opened with one dollar, and increased in multiples of one dollar; for smaller amounts postal savings stamps will be sold in denominations of 10 cents, and attached to cards until they amount to a dollar. Deposits will draw 2 per cent interest, and banks receiving deposits from the postal banks must pay at least 2¼ per cent interest on them.

Those who have feared that the postal savings banks would provide competition dangerous to national and state savings banks will be agreeably disappointed. Millions that now are not banked at all will go into the postal savings banks. The deposits are limited to $500, and draw only 2 per cent interest; and it will not be long before the private banks begin to receive deposits from those who have acquired the saving habit and are attracted by the higher rates of interest paid by private banks.

The Herald has advocated the postal savings bank for many years, and was one of the first newspapers in the country to champion the plan. It sincerely hopes that the administration is in good faith, and that the long-delayed response to a widespread demand is at hand.

TAFT AND THE INCOME TAX.

The fight for the income tax is on. A number of state legislatures that will pass upon the income tax amendments are now in session, and by next winter most of them will have acted. It will take only twelve states to defeat the amendment, and there is such a certain nucleus of opposition in New England and the East that only by the hardest kind of fighting can the amendment prevail.

Meantime, what is President Taft's attitude on this amendment, for which he personally is responsible? It is a test of his good faith by which many will judge him. Since congress submitted the amendment the president has referred to it but once. In his tour of the country last fall he spoke on nearly every subject imaginable, and he spoke often on some subjects. On the income tax he spoke but once, and then he damned it with faint praise.

If the president permits this amendment to go down to defeat without exerting himself in its behalf, his failure to act will constitute a breach of good faith that will condemn him in the minds of many. A brief review of the history of the submission of the amendment will make that clear.

Senator Bailey of Texas and Senator Cummins of Iowa, one a Democratic leader and the other a Republican leader, both had income tax measures before the special session. While the supreme court, by one of its famous 5 to 4 votes, had declared an income tax to be unconstitutional, many good lawyers disagreed with the majority of the court, and as there had been changes in the court's membership, it is quite as probable that an income tax law would have been upheld as it is that a tax on the income of corporations will prevail. Bailey and Cummins got together on the income tax plan, and agreed on a bill which represented the ideas of both. They had votes enough pledged in the senate to pass it, their strength coming from both parties. When their plans were about to succeed, Aldrich fled in a panic to the president, and there found the help he sought.

The next move came from the president. Though he had declared for the income tax, and had stated his belief as a lawyer that no amendment to the Constitution was necessary, he announced to congress a change in his attitude. If an income tax law were passed it would be held up in the courts and collections delayed, and very likely the court would annul it. It would be better, he said, to submit a constitutional amendment authorizing an income tax, and in the meantime he proposed a tax on the income of corporations.

So the Cummins-Bailey bill was laid aside. The proposed constitutional amendment was submitted by congress to the states, and the corporation tax bill was made a part of the new tariff law.

Having defeated the adoption of an income tax law in congress, and urged the adoption of a constitutional amendment removing all doubt about the legality of an income tax, it was the duty of the president to urge the states to adopt that amendment. Has he done so? He has not. He has referred to the subject publicly but once, and then, as we have said, he damned the proposal with faint praise. Ever since, his mouth has been closed. Apparently this man who clamored for an income tax upon the stump and who declared that no amendment was necessary to its enactment, has not only changed his mind about the need of an amendment, but about the advisability of having any income tax at all.

AMENDMENT NO. 5.

Charter amendment No. 5 is needed by the city, and has been needed for some time; but other amendments on the ballot that are likely to be approved by the voters make it more necessary than it ever was before.

If the first six amendments are adopted, as they should be, new duties and responsibilities will be placed in the hands of the departments of city government having charge of public improvements. Amendment No. 1 provides that the cost of paving street intersections and building storm sewers shall be paid by the city instead of by property-owners. Amendment No. 3 provides for a street maintenance fund which is to be used to keep the streets in repair and thus save the waste of frequent repairing. These amendments will add new duties, and will make old duties more important.

They emphasize the need of having a department in charge of such works in which the responsibility is definitely fixed. Now it is divided between the board of public works and the city engineer, and the result commonly is that there is no responsibility at all.

Hence the proposed fifth amendment, which consolidates these two departments and provides in their place a nonpaid, nonpartisan board of public works which is to appoint a director of public works, who is to be a civil engineer, and who is to work under the direction of the board. Thus responsibility will be fixed, and work will be centered under a single head; and that is the way business matters should be arranged, whether they are in city affairs or in private business.

This amendment was submitted at the last election, but it failed of passage because it did not require the director of public works to be a civil engineer. That defect has been remedied, and no reasonable objection has been offered to the amendment in its present form. On the other hand there are many undeniable arguments in its favor. It should by all means be adopted.

"THE ONLY ANSWER."

The Baltimore American, one of the leading newspapers of the East, has come out flatfootedly for "votes for women", and the Cleveland Plain Dealer, obviously disgusted with its action, says: "It presents the old arguments that there can be no arguments against giving all adult human beings an equal chance at the ballot box. It waxes eloquent and chivalrous in its advocacy, and cries shame upon those who would keep American femininity in its present downtrodden condition. The only answer to the American's unanswerable arguments is that the women of the United States do not want to vote."

"The only answer!" Mind that. It is the only answer possible, and it is the only answer that yet has been made. But what a pitifully slim answer it is!

In the first place, to admit that that is the only answer is to admit that every argument in the affirmative is correct. It is to admit that women should vote, that they have the right to vote, that they are qualified to vote, and that conditions would be improved if they did vote. That is what it means to say that the "only answer" to the arguments for votes for women is that women do not wish votes.

And then, is that "only answer" true? It is easy enough to say that women do not wish to vote, but it is hard to prove it. It is also easy to say that women do wish to vote, and it is easier to prove that because a great many women are declaring that they do wish to vote, and only a very few are saying that they would rather not vote. The great majority of the women have made and probably will make no public utterance; and in the absence of that utterance it is quite as fair to construe their silence to mean a desire to vote as it is to construe it to mean a reluctance to vote.

Who gave these male objectors to votes for women the right to say that women do not wish to vote? And even if a few do not care to vote, and the great majority haven't yet thought much about it, what difference does that make, anyway? If votes for women are right, women should have votes. That is about all there is to it.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer adds that women not only do not want the right to vote, but would not use it if they had it. There it goes too far. If it wasn't betting on a sure thing, we would propose a wager with the Plain Dealer that just as many women as men would vote if the suffrage were universal. That would be an easy bet, because this country now has four states where women vote, and in those states the proportion of women who register and vote is as great as the proportion of men who register and vote.

Whether women wish votes or not, they are going to get them. And when they get them the men who are opposing this reluctant concession of an inherent right are going to be surprised. The women will vote, just as large a proportion of them as there is of men who vote; and they are going to vote just as intelligently as men, if not more honestly.

And we bank a little on this proposition: that when women vote, the bosses are going to be so confused in their calculations for a time that there will be a chance to take the reins of power away from them. And anyway, women are not going to be fooled by the brutal, thicknecked, thickskinned and unscrupulous rascals that manipulate primary politics now when only men vote.

The Williams garden plan, or something like it, MUST be carried out if Duluth is to go ahead.

If the administration isn't careful, the popular demand for a postal savings bank is going to be met.

"RETALIATE."

To the Editor of The Herald:

"I don't buy meat, do you?" has, in less than a week, been made the slogan of over a million voters. It is the cry of distress. The packers are reported ta have been greatly amused at the people's efforts to cut tiedr prices. The self-sacrifice of a million voters will be useless, unless they retaliate and let Duluth be noted as the place where the movement started. Demand of our congressman that he introduce and sustain a movement to place an export duty on meat and all its by-products of 4 cents per pound, or another man will get his place. An export duty is as legal as import, and beneficial to cheaper living.

Show that the people must rule, and when abused, will retaliate; that wages which they must take, must be made adequate to properly house, feed and clothe those whom they love, is the inherited right of every voter, even though the heavens fall.

"MARCEEDS."

KEEP IT OUT OF POLITICS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is one office at least that politics should be eliminated from in our city, and that is the health department.

Never have we had such a capable officer at the head of this department, and his evolution of the milk standard from the most degrading of affairs to a standard second to none in the state, is worthy of his retention as long as he cares for the place, and his removal for political favorites would be many steps backwards in the advancement of the things that are of vital interest to the health and life of our citizens.

His deputy, Wellington Luxon, has gone after those who have dared to disregard the laws of decency along this line with a fearlessness that stamps approval to such a degree, that he must be retained.

This is more important than most people are willing to concede.

Poor, filthy milk, some perhaps from diseased cows, undermines the lives of our children, and often takes from us those who are dearer to us than all other things combined, and so overshadows mere political whims that they should be obliterated entirely. Yours truly,

WILL G. STARKEY.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

MAKE THE USER PAY.

To the Editor of The Herald.

I am surprised that such apparently intelligent citizens as C. P. Craig and N. J. Upham can make the blunder of assuming that the council can make or cause to be made, public improvements in excess of the amount provided in the funds devoted to that purpose.

Absolutely the only effect of number nine of the proposed amendment is to simply increase the number of petitioners from 25 per cent to 50 per cent of the owners and frontage.

If Mr. Craig gets his petitions signed by all of the owners of all of the plat of Lakeside the council could not make the improvement at the public expense. They would tell him that they were very sorry to not be able to turn over more work to their favorite contractor, but other parts of the charter would prevent.

The council can refuse or consent to the extensions of the system of streets and avenues without regard to the number of petitioners.

The Lakeside Land company and other land companies and speculators having lots and acres off the improved streets will begin to pay a larger part of the cost of the system of streets and avenues, which they have not heretofore, and the business area that Mr. Upham represents will also pay a larger part of the cost of the system of streets and avenues, making taxes lighter on the residence sections.

The man of fifty years can easily remember that the first improved roadway he passed along was through a toll gate and the users paid the cost of building, repairing and renewing according to use while the owner of lots or acres living beside the roadway paid nothing.

In Duluth it is a strange development that the user pays nothing and the owner of the abutting lots is called upon to pay practically all. The fact that roads are built for traffic and movement of persons and goods, has been lost sight of in Duluth. The council is given powers of taxation to an unlimited extent on one class of taxpayers, providing a small minority of owners sign a petition.

There have been enough voters wakened to the condition and are going to vote right and carry the last three amendments by a large majority. Yours truly,

CHAN SMITH.

A Governor Who Governs.

"Judson Harmon, governor of Ohio, is a striking character," says a writer in the February number of Hampton's Magazine. "Among the big men of this day and generation he looms large and is becoming larger. Ohio has always known his size and weight. The rest of the country is now beginning to understand. Mr. Harmon has been governor for only a year, but in that time he has made a record that is the pride of Ohio people, regardless of party, and the utter and pathetic despair of the machine politicians. The latter nominated him.

"It is obvious that Mr. Harmon is not a machine governor. His is distinctly a personal administration. When he first took the office there was a loud clamor for the removal of various officials, notably members of boards governing state institutions. Mr. Harmon decided to investigate. He let the politicians rage while he made trips here and there. Where he found conditions bad, he made quick, swift changes. Where he found them good, he commended and permitted the trustees to remain. A large proportion of the officials appointed by his Republican predecessor are still in office.

"If a man is a good public servant,' says Harmon in response to the politicians, 'I want him to stay right where he is. I did not seek this governorship, but now that I have been elected, I'm going to be governor—not merely a job dispenser.'

"The most striking thing about Harmon is his absolute refusal to do things in the appointed way. He is a constant surprise; to the politicians an unpleasant one; to the people at large, a delightful one. Mr. Harmon was attorney general in Cleveland's cabinet. He was solicitor general under Harrison. Before that he was a judge, and a good one. It is rather remarkable that he and W. H. Taft, his friend and Cincinnati neighbor, have always crowded close to one another along the public way. When Harmon resigned a judgeship in Ohio, years ago, Taft was appointed to succeed him. Taft became solicitor general after Harmon held that position. Harmon became a cabinet member. Taft was soon elevated to a similar job. And Ohio now thinks that it is Harmon's turn to succeed Taft."

Max O'Rell on the Peers.

The English Radicals have dug up this description of the lords from the almost forgotten book, "John Bull and His Island:" The nobility is here essentially a moneyed nobility, a monopoly of property. * * * Nine-tenths of the English peers would be unable to produce any quarterings further back than the last century. The heroes that are ennobled are the heroes of money; English pale ale and double stout have more earls and barons to answer for than all the other national products. * * * The house is not destitute of common sense, and knows quite well that its existence entirely depends upon its keeping quiet and not attracting public attention.

THE WEATHER.

Last night was fine with the temperature just a little higher than it should be for snappy winter weather. Today is the same and the present weather conditions will continue tonight and tomorrow with probably a little snow, the weather man says. Nobody is complaining very much—except possibly the coal man.

A year ago today, baseball weather prevailed and people were postponing their trips to the South.

The sun rose this morning at 7:38 and it will set at 5:05, giving nine hours and twenty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Rather unsettled weather prevails throughout the country generally. Slight barometric depressions are central over New England, the Carolinas and Alberta. During the past twenty-four hours these disturbances caused light snow in the lake region, and rain over Louisiana, Oregon and Washington. An increase in barometric pressure over Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Dakotas caused somewhat colder weather in those districts with zero temperatures occurring this morning at Williston, Battleford and Prince Albert. The barometer remains high over the plateau region.

"Indications favor a continuance of the present weather conditions at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m. today:

The New England Language.

A writer in the New York Times, in search of information, asks these questions: "Why, even in Boston itself, is it common to ridicule the cockney habit of prefixing a false 'h' to words beginning with a vowel and of decapitating those beginning with 'h,' while, from Beacon street to Bangor, the parallel custom is universal of treating all words ending in a vowel sound to an unearned 'r' and of curtailing all words ending in 'r?' From lecture platform and pulpit it is usual to hear, throughout New England, of villers, pillers, sofers, lor schools and ror eggs, while the same people speak of taking a cab to the station to buy a ticket to Bah Hahbah. One intelligent young stranger, for example, was much surprised to learn that the university which specializes upon pedagogy in Worcester, Mass., the principal building of which bears a prominent clock tower, was in reality not 'Clock versity,' as it is universally called there, but Clark university."

Why Moderate Drinking Does Not Pay.

A well-know novelist who was for years a moderate drinker writes his experiences in the February McClure's. He found in the end that it didn't pay.

"It should be borne in mind," he says, "that I am not dealing with conditions where drunkenness, drinking that has become an organic necessity. Inebriety is a disease, as much so as tuberculosis, and must be so considered and treated. I am dealing with the custom of drinking as it is practiced by the great majority of men who drink at all. And, for that very reason, I think that testimony like mine should be suggestive and valuable. I have absolutely no prejudice against the custom; and yet, though I never abused it, socially speaking, and am still a worshiper of Dionysus (from afar), I do not hesitate to declare that moderate drinking does not pay.

"I have tried it. I know. No one can tell me anything about its joys and satisfactions. I have also tried total abstinence. As a consequence, I feel better, sleep better, work better, enjoy life more, and have increased my usefulness as a citizen.

"Drinking is a pleasure that may be innocent, but must be paid for, like sitting up late to play bridge or to finish a novel; a recreation with something to be said for it, like speeding an automobile, exciting, but dangerous; an indulgence, like overwork, which sometimes seems necessary, but is seldom worth the price. Drinking does not pay."

Hall, 16; M. J. Davis, 6; George Rupley, 1. The Davis delegates threw their strength to Hall on the second ballot, which resulted: Pearson, 21; Hall, 20; Rupley, 1. The third ballot was: Pearson, 19; Hall, 22; A. W. Bradley, 1. M. O. Hall was declared the nominee of the convention. The nomination of Hall was a complete surprise and created considerable excitement and confusion. The nominees for aldermen were: First ward, James Dingwall and Charles Beattie; Second, D. J. Sinclair; Third, George F. Ash; Fourth, T. W. Hugo; Sixth, S. A. Siverts. The city committee was appointed by the chairman as follows: William Stephen, First ward; E. S. Palmer, Second ward; N. F. MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Meaning Aldrich and Cannon.

Ortonville Herald Star: When congress completes its work of investigating the causes for the increased cost of living, the public will be of the same opinion still, that the principal cause is —congress.

And the Cost of Living to Increase.

Warroad Plaindealer: The city population is increasing more rapidly than the country population. That is the reason for the high price of all farm products. And if the present tendency of the people to crowd into the cities continues, the price of farm products will continue to advance.

Prevention Beats Cure.

Little Falls Transcript: A city paper tells how to make cough syrup at home, thereby saving $2 on what would cost $2.50 if purchased. A health curist says save both the $2 and the 50 cents by flirting with the fresh air, and thus ward off a cold. Easy to do and much cheaper.

Same Here.

Walker Pilot: Just the same, we think a heap sight more of the man who loses a political job because he won't change his politics, than we do of the fellow who loses his politics in order to hold his job.

And Such Luxuries as Tawney!

Elk River Star-News: Congressman Tawney gives his reason for the increased cost of living to the chase after luxuries by the common people. Such luxuries as pork, potatoes, beans, etc., for instance!

Bob Is Not Grateful.

Princeton Union: Governor Eberhart says he campaigned for Dunn, Cole and Jacobson at his own expense. Poor Cole is dead, Jacobson can speak for himself, and as for Dunn—he devoutly wishes the governor had "conserved" his energies in 1904 for some future occasion.

Strange Bedfellows.

St. Peter Herald: Bob Dunn and Joel Heatwole have fallen into step on the Eberhart issue. They both want him—retired. To our mind, Governor Eberhart has conducted his office quite satisfactorily. No other Republican governor has been in such demand as a speaker, and it is somewhat singular that earnest party patriots like Heatwole and Dunn should wish to compass his defeat. Their opposition illustrates what strange bedfellows politics will make.

Insurgents at Home Only.

Hutchinson Leader: Congressman Davis is the only Minnesota Republican representative who did not agree to the retention of Tawney on the Republican national committee. The others are insurgents for home consumption only.

The Way to Do It.

Fairmont Sentinel: John Lind says he will not be a candidate for governor. Mr. Lind can have any position within the gift of the people of Minnesota without being a candidate. Put his name on the ticket. The voters will do the rest.

Not a Bit.

Little Falls Herald: We do not think that the Democratic member of the legislature now in congress who goes back on pledges made to the people deserves any more consideration than a recreant Republican.

The Well-Beloved Enemy.

I know a chap who's used me ill
Almost since I was born.
He's put my name to many a bill
And trouble most forlorn.
In school he's cost me endless woe,
Too many here to tell.
And yet in spite of all, ye know,
I love him mighty well!

He had me spanked when I was ten
For something that he did.
As I look back upon him then
He was a fiendful kid.
He said mean things about my dad,
The little infidel,
And yet there was no other lad
I cared for quite as well.

In college he on mischief bent
On me put all the blame;
No matter where that villain went
For me 'twas quite the same.
He had the fun, I got the hook,
In all things that befell,
And yet by sonie queer mental crook
I loved that fellow well.

The girl I loved he went and wooed,
And wed her, and today
Is father of a lovely brood
Of kiddies blithe and gay.
His are the glances of her eye,
His is the blissful spell,
Yet spite of all I can't deny
I love him just as well.

I know full well his weaknesses,
The strange twists of his mind,
And yet there's something in me says
He's not a half bad kind.
And though he's been an enemy
Beyond all parallel
The time has never ceased to be
When I have loved him well.

Who is he? Well, come hither while
I whisper secretly—
I fear his name will make you smile—
It's ME!
—Blakeney Gray in New York Sun.

The Danger of Vegetarianism

Puck: The subject of economics is an intricate one. A case in point: Hitherto we have always looked upon vegetarianism as lying almost wholly within the realm of hygiene and dietetics. So far as the rest of us are concerned, we have considered vegetarians as harmless. If they wished to forgo the delights of a luscious piece of porter house, why naturally that was their business.

We have been egregiously in error. It has been discovered that vegetarians are a serious menace to the peace and prosperity of modern society.

This is the way: By abstaining from meat, not only do they injure the meat business directly, but by thus diminishing the incentive for killing cattle the cost of producing hides increased, and the disaster ultimately comes home to us all in the shape of enhanced shoe bills.

Thus we may see how inextricably bound up together are the stomach and the pedal extremities, and it may become necessary to legislate against vegetarianism to keep the whole world from getting cold feet.

FREE LOVE AGREEMENT.

Man Promised to Pay Woman's Debts and Give Her Money.

Paris, Jan. 28.—A curious "free love" contract has come before the Paris courts. Mlle. de Nuce, better known as "La Belle Chiquita," is claiming the sum of $128,600 and a pension of $4,800 a year from her ex-lover, a wealthy Paris manufacturer known as Julien, who recently abandoned her with debts to the value of $28,600. The woman's advocate produced in court an unsigned agreement drawn up between the parties, to which both were said to have consented. In this "La Belle Chiquita" agreed to become the "affectionate, kind and faithful friend of M. Julien," if the latter consented to pay her debts and give her $400 a month.

Clause No. 2 declared that "La Belle Chiquita" was entitled to leave her friend in case she found among her other numerous admirers one who would give her a handsomer return. Either party wishing to terminate the agreement was bound to give the other a fortnight's notice in writing.

PERSIAN LOSES JEWELS.

Seals of Trunks From Which They Were Taken Intact.

Vienna, Jan. 28.—A mysterious theft is occupying the attention of the Austrian and Italian authorities. Some days ago his excellency, Ibrahim Gaffar, the Persian minister in Rome, left the Italian capital for Vienna, via Venice, with the intention of spending three days in the latter city. His luggage, consisting of ten trunks, was forwarded direct to Vienna by rail, and eight of the trunks arrived in safety. When the other two were received, however, the minister found they had been tampered with. They had contained jewelry, Persian gold coins and numerous private and other documents, but the jewels and money, valued altogether at $3,000, had disappeared and several private papers had also been abstracted.

The mysterious part of the affair was that the seals of the trunks were apparently unbroken. The police, however, are convinced that the affair is another of the expert robberies which have been of frequent occurrence on the Italian railways, in which seals have often been removed and replaced later in such a manner that detection has been almost impossible.

WOMAN MANAGER OF ENGLISH GAS WORKS.

London, Jan. 28.—Ina Richmond, who has just been appointed manager of the gas works at Magherafelt, is the first of her sex to hold such a position.

She has justified her appointment by coming to the rescue of the concern at a critical moment. It was necessary to test the gas at a purifier, and the test valve was found to be choked. While the stokers rushed in different directions for a piece of wire with which to clean out the valve, Miss Richmond removed one of her hairpins, performed the necessary cleaning, and was testing the gas when the stockers got back.

EGG PRICES ARE LOWER

Receipts Increase and Decline Comes in Spite of Meat Boycott

Butter Also Cheaper---Warmer Weather Increases Receipts of Green Stuff.

The butter and egg markets are lower. An easier tone in prices was to have been expected, but hardly as soon as the reductions took place. Fresh eggs are now selling at 31 cents a dozen, wholesale, and storage eggs at 26 cents, a decline of about 2 cents in fresh eggs and 1 cent in storage grade in the last five or six days. The supply of fresh eggs is rapidly increasing. Hens are laying fairly well, and, as the roads are in good condition, farmers can get to market. The supply of storage eggs in the large centers, including Duluth, is becoming low. On the other hand, fresh eggs are becoming more plentiful. The demand is easily on a parity with the supply.

Butter declined 1 cent a pound this week, partly in sympathy with eggs and partly as the result of efforts to stimulate a buying demand. Retailers said that consumers have been exceedingly reluctant to pay prevailing prices and that purchases in many instances have been reduced and, on the whole, the consumptive outlet has been greatly restricted. Easier prices stimulated buying, although not in as large a measure, perhaps, as had been expected. Creamery butter is selling at 34 cents and the lower grades at 30 cents, wholesale.

Receipts of butter are fairly liberal and prices have been somewhat artificial, as some dealers held their selling quotations firm, despite public clamor and restlessness on the part of the retail men.

If the public crusade against meat continues, some dealers think there may be an increased demand for eggs, both for cooking purposes and for eating. They think the crusade, while forcing a reduction in meat prices, may cause an up-turn in the prices of eggs which will place the latter commodity on a level with values which were current two or three weeks ago. Other dealers are inclined to view the crusade as temporary, and think that the increasing supply will be sufficient to meet a sudden demand above normal. A few dealers believe that the furore on the part of the public will be directed against eggs as well as meats, but other dealers point to the recent reduction in the price of eggs as a reason why the public should not regard this food with disfavor. They maintain, too, that eggs are generally regarded as a substitute food for meat.

There has been little change in poultry prices. General receipts of both live and dressed poultry have been in a moderate volume and there are no pressing factors in the trade.

The trade in potatoes and rutabagas continues good. The weather two or three weeks ago was such as to cause a slackening in receipts but recently the weather has been excellent. Roads are good and zero weather does not exist anywhere in the Northwest. Prices are firm. New potatoes are being offered and are well taken.

• • •

Climatic conditions have been favorable for the shipment of green stuff and prices are slightly easier. The weather has not been so cold as recently and shipments are arriving in better condition, with less chances of loss to the commission man. The commission business in this class of stuff has been somewhat hazardous this winter on account of the switchmen's strike, congested condition of the railroads and the cold weather. It is doubtful if commission men have made much profit on green goods even at the fairly high prices which have prevailed. String beans, cauliflower, new beets, carrots and cabbage have been received in increasing quantities and the trade has been satisfactory. Offerings in lettuce, radishes, celery, and tomatoes have been plentiful, in fact, somewhat superior to the demand.

The vegetable and fruit trade has been moderately good. Many remnants of frost-injured shipments which had to be cleared away have had a tendency to demoralize the market but these have been rapidly cleaned up. A large quantity was a total loss to the shipper.

• • •

The demand for fresh fruits is quiet. The cranberry market is heavily stocked. Oranges, lemons and apples have met with a fair inquiry. Improved weather has quickened the demand moderately. Many shipments of pineapples have been received too ripe for immediate consumption and a small portion is reported to have spoiled before a disposal could made at a satisfactory price. The supply of grapes has been small and offerings have been sold at firm quotations.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes. "My skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing forty pounds; growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death, in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine, Electric Bitters, cured me. I regained the forty pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at all druggists.

MAYOR OF BELFAST MAY GET SALARY OF $10,000.

Dublin, Jan. 28.—The new city council of Belfast will soon vote on a proposal to pay the lord mayor of the city a salary of $10,000 a year. Belfast has always been able to get men of wealth to serve as lord mayor without compensation, but it is felt by a good many people there that this system is untair to men of ability, but of moderate means, who could serve the city well, but who can not stand the great financial strain which a year as chief magistrate means. As a matter of fact, if the lord mayor does get a salary, he will have to spend practically the whole of it in entertaining during his term of office.

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL INDORSED

Both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Charles Murphy Favor It.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 28.—Premier Laurier made some important pronouncements when addressing a meeting in behalf of the government candidate, Allard, at the bye-election here. Hon. Charles Murphy, secretary of state, foreshadowed the appointment of a commission of five, composed of one shipowner, a banker, a business man or manufacturer, an engineer and one other to report on the commercial feasibility of the Georgian bay canal, as a preliminary step to its construction by the government.

In connection with the project Sir Wilfrid Laurier also came out strongly in advocacy of the construction of the canal, intimating that he would like to have the name of his (the Laurier government) connected with the enterprise and at the same time he declared that the deepening of the Welland canal was also a necessary project that must be undertaken in the near future, in order to provide an outlet for the rapidly growing export traffic from the West, which in a few years must include 600,000,000 bushel of wheat for export and which would be sufficient to tax every possible outlet.

Sir Wilfrid also intimated that the government was prepared to go ahead with the project for providing another outlet by way of Hudson's bay for Hudson's Bay railway would be begun this spring. If men of the East would support the latter project he was sure the West would indorse the expenditure of $100,000,000 for the Georgian bay canal, for the work which would benefit Canada as a whole. He said that the government must proceed slowly and not impair the national credit and that although the country's revenue was very rapidly growing they must remember that they still had the great undertaking of the N. T. R. to complete.

"There is room for both the Welland canal and the Georgian Bay canal projects," he said. "One will not defeat the other. I am in favor of them both, not in fear and trembling, but with full confidence."

PARSONS WOULD SUCCEED HUGHES AS GOVERNOR.

New York, Jan. 28.—Rumors are current in political circles to the effect that Herbert Parsons, who resigned from the presidency of the Republican county committee last week, aspires to succeed Governor Hughes. The report appears to have been started by the friends of Mr. Parsons in the Republican county committee.

The faction opposed to young Mr. Parsons greets the announcement that he hopes to get the Republican nomination for governor this fall with amusement. The anti-Parsons leaders declare that he held his position at the head of the Republican county committee solely by virtue of the indorsement, first, of Theodore Roosevelt and next of President Taft. Mr. Parsons appears to have lost his pull at the White House.

Roosevelt is going to have a lot to say about the Republican nominee for governor. It is upon the Roosevelt support that the Parsons adherents are banking. The Parsons men also see encouragement in the upheaval in the Republican party upstate, due to the Conger-Allds scandal in the legislature. This scandal, local politicians figure, will utterly disrupt the upstate "old guard" and result in great advantage to the Hughes followers.

St. Paul Will Aid Census.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assembly has passed a resolution providing that the city appropriate $5,000 to assist in the taking of the government census. Assemblyman Henry G. Haas introduced the resolution, explaining that the census as taken by the government is inefficient and does not truly show the population of a city.

STOMACH CENTER OF HUMAN LIFE--ALL ELSE SECONDARY

The immense success which has followed L. T. Cooper during the past year with his new preparation has exceeded anything of the kind ever before witnessed in most of the leading cities where the young man has introduced the medicine. Cooper has a novel theory. He believes that the human stomach is directly responsible for most disease. To quote his own words from an interview upon his arrival in an Eastern city: "The average man or woman cannot be sick if the stomach is working properly. To be sure, there are diseases of a virulent nature, such as cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes, etc., which are organic, and are not traceable to the stomach, but even fevers can, in nine cases out of ten, be traced to something taken into the stomach. All of this half-sick, nervous exhaustion that is now so common, is caused by the stomachic conditions, and it is because my remedy will and does regulate the stomach that I am meeting with such success.

"To sum the matter up—a sound digestive apparatus that is doing its full duty, getting every particle of vitality out of all food by transferring it to the bowels in a perfectly digested state—this above all else brings health."

Mr. A. C. Brock, chef of the Brock Restaurant, Market District, Boston, Mass., who is a staunch believer in Mr. Cooper's theory and medicine, has this to say: "I had chronic indigestion for over three years. I suffered terribly, and lost about thirty pounds. I was a physical wreck when I started this Cooper medicine, a month or so ago. Today I am as well as I ever was in my life. I am no longer nervous, my food does not distress me in the least, and I have a splendid appetite. I am gaining flesh very rapidly—in fact, at the rate of a pound a day. I would not believe any medicine on earth could have done for me what this has done. It is a remarkable preparation, and Mr. Cooper deserves all his success."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach five minutes after.

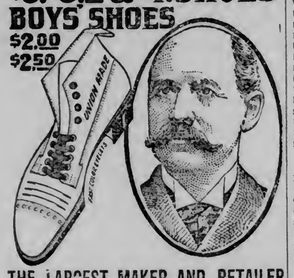

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

TERRORIZED BY TOUGHS

Outbreaks of Lawlessness In Poorer Quarters of New York.

Due to Order Against Free Use of Clubs By Police.

New York, Jan. 28.—Encouraged by the mayor's mandate against the free use of clubs by the police, thousands of toughs have today begun to terrorize the poorer quarters of this city by outbreaks of lawlessness that the patrolmen are hesitating to quell by force. The exhibition of a few bruises at the city hall by a crafty member of these rioting gangs might work the undoing of the most conscientious cop, members of the force are arguing, and as a consequence little is being done to control this sudden spread of hoodlumism. About the beats of Hell's Kitchen, Cherry Hill and the water front only the prompt use of club and pistol has ever made life safe for the policemen on night duty, while in all the shadier parts of town the law is respected only on account of the heavy night sticks of its guardians. Though wanton brutality on the part of many policemen has always marred the brave showing of the force for New Yorkers, no one has yet declared himself ready to sacrifice law and order to inculcating parlor manners in the patrolmen who guard the sleeping city.

Feeding Furnaces.

Thousands of extra tons of fuel are today being ordered by the householders and landlords of Greater New York to meet the snowy siege that this winter of record severity threatens to continue about this island. Already the heating supplies of skyscrapers as well as suburban cottages are known to be exhausted to a point seldom reached before the last of the winter months. With furnaces to feed full for three long months ahead everyone is frantically making plans to lay in more stews for the bitter war against the rigors of this severe season. While the city will spend many millions to fight off the snow that is clogging its streets, its inhabitants will be obliged to pay thousands of dollars for the extra heat with which they must surround themselves.

Hughes' Horoscope.

That plain, homely bread winning must claim the services of Governor Hughes after his present term, is the consensus of opinion among the governor's former legal associates who are discussing recent rumors of his political retirement here today. In one year of work at his old trade of lawyer Hughes could more than make up the $50,000 that it has cost him personally to keep up a governor's establishment at Albany for the last three years, it is calculated. Big brain work in the legal profession is limited to comparatively few years of any man's life, the lawyers declare, and no man in the governor's position can afford to lose another two years which might be devoted to providing for his family. That Hughes will not be allowed to remain forever in retirement of private life is, however, confidently asserted by his admirers in this town.

Rising Rates.

Higher cost of living and the higher living wage that must consequently be paid to draughtsmen and supervisors are today being assigned by the leading architects here as the reasons for the higher percentage of fees that they have just decreed as a body. That more money must now be paid to the men who design their houses as well as to the men who build them at rapidly increasing cost, is being accepted by New Yorkers as one more burden that has been brought by these times of gilt-edged prices for food and clothing. Never in its history has Gotham set such prices on every buyable thing, necessity as well as luxury, and yet never has more buying been done. Merchants as well as consumers declare they are at a loss to understand this trend of the times and the action of the architects has not served to clear up the problem.

Nurses' Names.

Just because no one will call them "Miss," two score nursery maids, who were being trained at a children's hospital here, are today on a vigorous strike against the institution that would insist on knowing them by their first names. Though many of these fair strikers came to learn expert nursing from places as servants where they were plain "Mary," "Jane" or "Bridget," they are now holding out for the prefix of gentility which they assert should go with their exalted calling. While these proud maids are holding indignation meetings outside the palings of the hospital fence, however, new nurses are being brought in to their old places and it looks today as though all nurses must be forever called without a handle to their names.

A Wild Blizzard Raging

Brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, it's supreme. 50c. $1. Guaranteed by all druggists.

LIGHTNING REVEALS OIL.

Petroleum Bubbles Out of Great Furrow Torn in Ground.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 28.—"The lightning plowed a great furrow down the side of the old canyon and gouged out a big hole at the bottom, and 200 barrels of crude petroleum are bubbling out every day now," says Mrs. Josie Pettie of Madison, Beaver county, who was in Guthrie recently, taking out a charter to develop and exploit her remarkable well.

Mrs. Pettie says she has been offered $10,000 per acre for the land around the well, but she has refused to consider any bids whatever. She has a farm in Beaver county and has until recently had a hard time eking out a livelihood from the barren, dry farm, which is located in a country where rainfall is rare. During a severe thunderstorm a stroke of lightning uncovered a spring down in a dry canyon on her farm, and this spring is now running crude oil in large quantities.

This is the first positive knowledge that oil in paying quantities existed in that part of Oklahoma, though several test wells have been drilled.

ST. LOUIS CLUB WOULD HAVE CENSOR OF PLAYS.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 28.—After a six-hours' session at the Mercantile club the special committee of the stage censorship committee drafted an ordinance, contained in a formal report prepared for the committee as a whole, providing for the licensing of dramas and all kinds of theatrical performances and creating a municipal officer, to be known as a theatrical commissioner. The license fee is to differ according to the admission charged to the performance, under the committee's plan, and a penalty of from $200 to $1,000 is provided for violation of the ordinance in failing to get a license. The commissioner, by the terms of the ordinance, is to receive $3,000 yearly salary, and it shall be his duty to examine all plays and see that they contain no objectionable features before issuing the license. He will have exclusive authority to determine what is proper in theatrical performances, under the plan. The committee is composed of John S. Leahy, George R. Robinson, Rev. Dr. W. J. McKittrick, R. Emmet Kane and Leighton Shields.

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of poslam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used in the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the day time, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. The Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, make a specialty of it. Fifty cents' worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

Any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or clear a complexion overnight and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

FISH POND ON EVERY FARM.

Prof. Dyche Proposes to Dedicate His Life to That Work.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 28.—A fish pond on every Kansas farm. That is the work to which Prof. L. L. Dyche of the university proposes to dedicate the rest of his life.

"Do you know," said he, "that a farmer can clean up more ready cash on one acre of water, properly stocked with fish, than he can on ten acres of land planted to wheat, corn or alfalfa? That is the history of the fish industry in Germany and other European countries.

"The trouble is that American farmers don't grasp the situation in regard to the fish industry. It is easy to raise fish. They grow rapidly. In fact, they never quit growing. They are not like a human being or an animal. They keep on growing until they die. Fresh fish bring about the same price at the markets as a good beefsteak. In fact, beef sets the price of fresh fish.

"Now, we brag a good deal about the farmer's wife who markets her butter and eggs and secures enough revenue to feed and clothe the whole family," said Dyche. "Why not let her also add fish and take that to market, too?"

Prof. Dyche is now making a special study of the various methods of building ponds on the farm and the kind of fish that will do the best in the different kinds of waters of the state. He hopes soon to have out a pamphlet giving detailed information so that any farmer can make a pond on scientific principles and start to produce fish for profit.

"Why, the boys on the farm can go out and build a pond during their idle hours," said he, "and in three years have all the sport they want right at their door catching three-pound black bass or fine, large catfish, and selling them at a good price.

"The farmer's wife can invite her city friends out to a fishing bee, and after filling them with delicious fish, can sell he surplus catch for more money than the corn would bring that was raised on the ground which the lake covers.

"Experts in the fish business say that the industry could be made to yield Kansas farmers a revenue of $20,000,000 a year, aside from the fish they could eat themselves. Just think of that and the fun it would be to catch that much fish."

CO-OPERATION BADLY NEEDED

Grand Rapids Considered Good Field for "Boosting" Commercial Club.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—At no time in the history of Grand Rapids has there been more urgent need for a good, active "boosting" commercial club than now. There are any number of matters of utmost importance needing co-operation of the business men of the city to bring them to a successful termination.

There is need of co-operation between the business interests and the farmers of the surrounding country. As a speaker in the recent farmers' institute very aptly said, "The farmer cannot get along without the town man, but neither can the town man get along without the farmer," and it would seem up to the local business people to cultivate the farmer.

The building of the Soo south of this place, which is eating into the territory of the Great Northern, is bound to cause some developments in the railroad building line in the vicinity.

The park idea is one which will not down, but as long as the village has no park board nothing can be done. Grand Rapids has any number of beautiful spots which are now lying idle, or, worse yet, are being used as dumps, which could be transformed into the prettiest parks imaginable at very little cost.

Another matter which demands attention is the disposition of garbage. Something should be done in that direction, whether by the commercial club or by the village council. As it is at present, there is great danger of infection from the dump south of the village.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Berg, a trapper from Mile 11, above Drummond, was killed by a train about 2 a. m. Tuesday, just a little north of the Seventh avenue bridge.

Up to a couple of years ago he worked on the section at Drummond, and then located on a homestead at that point. He was in the habit of coming to the city two or three times a month to get supplies. Berg came to the city early Monday morning. He remained until 11 p. m. and drank considerably, and then started to walk to his place along the railroad track.

When he reached the place where he was killed he evidently sat or lay down, as the engine crew of the engine that struck him could not see him and did not know that they had hit him until the engine arrived at Two Harbors, when blood and cloth were found on the engine. A switch engine was started out immediately, and found the remains in the place named. The body was horribly mutilated, in fact was ground to pieces. The remains were taken to Brown's morgue. No inquest was held. The man has no known relatives in this country.

CONDITIONS IN PARIS ARE GROWING MORE DESPERATE

as a result of broken water mains beneath the foundations.

The roads leading to the city were filled this morning with pedestrians coming to work and with long processions of refugees bent beneath the weight of sacks containing the few belongings that the bearers had been able to save. Practically all of the refugees are without funds.

Disaster After Disaster.

Disaster followed disaster during the day. A gaping chasm opened in the lower Champs Elysee engulfing a cart and two men. One of the men was rescued, but the other, with the horse, was swept away to death.

Toward noon the water gushed out of the Tuileries entrance to the metropolitan subway, flooding the square in front of the Comedie Francaise.

Within the city there is practically no means of transportation except by cabs and taxicabs, the owners of which charge fabulous prices. The steam tramways which were the only surface lines remaining after the electric cars failed, were unable to move today as the water had entered the engine boxes. Communication by omnibus and autobuses between the two sides of the river has been suspended owing to the unsafe conditions of the bridges.

Prospect is Cheerless.

When the day broke over Paris and the submerged provinces surrounding, the prospect was a cheerless one. A heavy rain fell in and a brisk breeze out of the north served to drive the flood to points which heretofore had escaped its invasion.

During the night there was little of encouragement, and with the early hours of the day came a decided change for the worse.

For a time the temperature moderated today and in some measure the suffering of the homeless ones was alleviated. Messages of sympathy from the outside, many of them accompanied with substantial financial contributions, were another feature of the situation that afforded cause for thanksgiving.

Communication May Fail.

Telegraphic communication with the outside was extremely defective today and at times wholly interrupted. There is no direct communication between this city and England and messages for central Europe generally were diverted through indirect routes. It was feared this morning that it might be impossible after a little to transmit any great amount of the press matter with which the officers of the telegraph and cable companies were heavily burdened.

Early today the French cable company announced that communication between this city and the provinces was difficult and at times interrupted, causing great delay.

The morning found a great force of masons still at work in the erection of a wall which it was hoped would divert the flood from the historic Hotel Lambert and the famous Hotel Lauzen, adjoining. Both of these houses were built in the seventeenth century, the Hotel Lauzon having been purchased by the city ten years ago and made over as a museum of art.

Subway Roof Falls.

The Rue St. Lazare was inundated throughout its extent, the water having found its way up through the subway. The roof of the subway under the Place de l'Opera fell in during the night.

The Isle St. Louis is fast disappearing beneath the waters, and unless conditions change soon, it will be submerged.

The River Seine at noon lacked but a few inches of attaining the greatest flood maximum on record. This was in 1615, and when the country was without the modern barriers which are designed to protect Paris and nearby points in such emergencies.

An unfortunate shift of the wind from north to southwest, accompanied by a falling barometer and heavy rain, added a new thrill of horror to the stricken city and country this forenoon. Throughout the night the condition in this city and nearby grew more serious.

Devastation Is General.

The devastation has now penetrated the very heart of Paris, the gorging rivers and sewers underneath literally blowing up the streets, while the area of the surface overflowed by the waters of the Seine had been doubled today. Twelve of the twenty-five bridges over the river have been closed, and the quays on either side from one end of the city to the other are either inundated or have been roped off as unsafe.

The Esplanade Des Invalides is a sheet of water. The turgid flood has crept back almost to the Jardin du Luxembourg on the left bank, and invaded the Place de la Concord, which was closed and guarded by soldiers, and the lower Champs Elysee on the right bank. The Palais de Glace and other pleasure resorts and restaurants are surrounded, even the Place de L'Opera at the core of the city threatening to sink into the subway beneath.

Cellars Are Overflowing.

Cellars throughout the district from that point to the St. Lazare station, comprising the Faubourg Montmartre and the Rue Berger and the richer sections in the Rue de Provence, the Rue Drouot and the Rue Chateaudon, are filled to the street level with water from the overflowed subterranean river.

From the Rue de la Grange-Batelier only one street, the Rue de la Roquete, is open into the submerged eleventh arrondissement necessitating a three-mile detour to reach the eleventh from the ninth arrondissement.

INSOMNIA

Leads to Madness If Not Remedied in Time.

"Experiments satisfied me, some five years ago," writes a Topeka woman, "that coffee was the direct cause of the insomnia from which I suffered terribly, as well as the extreme nervousness and acute dyspepsia which made life a most painful thing for me.

"I had been a coffee drinker since childhood, and did not like to think that the beverage was doing me all this harm. But it was, and the time came when I had to face the fact, and protect myself. I therefore gave up coffee abruptly and absolutely, and adopted Postum for my hot drink at meals.

"I began to note improvement in my condition very soon after I took on Postum. The change proceeded gradually, but surely, and it was a matter of only a few weeks before I found myself entirely relieved—the nervousness passed away, my digestive apparatus was restored to normal efficiency, and I began to sleep restfully and peacefully.

"These happy conditions have continued during all of the five years, and I am safe in saying that I owe them entirely to Postum, for when I began to drink it I ceased to use medicines." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The demonstration lessons in the domestic science department of the Young Women's Christian association promise to be among the most popular features of the work and the first lesson was well attended. Miss Ruth Patrick arranged a lesson including a creamy, delicious Welsh rarebit and a frosting—a creamy, soft, tender frosting for cake.

The domestic science equipment at the new building is complete and most conveniently placed. Each member of the class is provided with a gas burner and all of the necessary utensils arranged in the most convenient manner. The room is supplied with two kitchen sinks and a large gas stove for the cooking of baked dishes. A waiter is installed to carry the supplies from the store room.

After the organization of the second semester classes it is expected that one or more evening classes will be arranged to accommodate the young women who are occupied during the day and who desire this instruction. It is also planned to form a bride's class in addition to the regular classes for the women who are at liberty during the day.

Two more free lessons as demonstration of the pleasure and value that this department may be, will be given Wednesday evening of next week and Thursday afternoon. The evening lesson will be on muffins and omelets and promises to be particularly interesting.

WASHINGTON DINNER

Is Served on Rare China and Glass.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Cardinal Gibbons was the honored guest of Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. MacVeagh at a dinner they gave at their home last night. Among the china and glass used were dessert plates which belonged to Napoleon Bonaparte and wine glasses that had belonged to King Charles I of England. Many other rare pieces owned by Mrs. MacVeagh were used at the dinner.

POTTER LECTURES.

Famous Suffrage Worker to Speak in Duluth.

Two Minnesota women, Miss Mildred Holland, the actress, and Frances Squire Potter, formerly of the faculty of the state university, were among the chief speakers a short time ago at the twenty-eighth anniversary banquet given by the Thirteenth club of New York city. The banquet was held at the Hotel Majestic.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch were of "those present."

Mrs. Potter is one of the prominent leaders of the suffrage movement in America, and she will lecture in Duluth during February, presenting three lectures here under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. Mrs. Potter's lectures promise to be the most important events of the club year. The arrangements for this series of lectures were made some months before Mrs. Potter had decided to give up her work at the Minnesota university, as teacher in the English department, to go actively into the work of spreading the interest and securing support in the movement for votes for women. If this arrangement had not been made, Mrs. Potter would not be available for the Duluth engagement, as she is one of the speakers most in demand throughout the United States.

Since her removal to the East she has been identified with the active campaign that has been waged this year. She has been associated with Dr. Anna Shaw, president of the movement. She was a speaker at the now famous meeting at Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's marble house at Newport, and with other women whose names are famous in the movement, was a speaker at a meeting but a short time ago at Philadelphia, in support of the striking shirtwaist makers.

Although the subjects of the three lectures are not directly on the suffrage question, in which Mrs. Potter is so interested, she will undoubtedly present her views at some opportune moment during her visit here. The subjects of Mrs. Potter's lectures will be "Woman and Economics," to be given Feb. 10; "The Boys and Girls of America," Feb. 11, and "John Milton," on a date to be announced later. The lectures will be free to members of the Twentieth Century club. Any Duluth woman is eligible to become a member of the club on payment of the dues of $1, and men may become associate members.

CONCERT PIANIST

And Philosophical Student Is Mme. Hallock.

Mary Hallock, who will play before the members of the Matinee Musicale Wednesday evening of next week, is one of the most interesting pianists who has come to Duluth in recent years. Mme. Hallock in her birth and training brings a note of unusual interest to her work.

Mme. Hallock's mother was Sara Tabet, the scion of an old Oriental family, prominent in Asia Minor since the middle of the seventh century. The head of the family was the Emir Al Maradi, prince of Akoura, who married the sister of the patriarch, Youhanna Maroun, founder of one of the early Christian sects and canonized a saint. His descendants, wherever they settled, became honored and influential citizens. Mme. Hallock's mother was noted for her beauty, as well as philanthropy and charm. A pretty story is told of an Englishman who came up to her husband, then United States consul to Beyrout—it was at one of the court balls—and said: "Come with me and I will show you the most beautiful woman you have ever seen." "That is my wife," was the proud rejoinder. To those who are unacquainted with the real status of an Oriental family of wealth it will be found suggestive that Sara Tabet's toilets came from Paris.

Mme. Hallock, on her father's side, comes from a long line of illustrious Americans who number many famous men in letters, diplomacy and science. She is a lineal descendant of Thomas Mayhew, first governor of Connecticut.

Aside from her position as a concert pianist, Mme. Hallock has given to the world the results of her study on rhythm in several articles which have attracted much attention for their exposition of that intangible thing that is vital to all music.

It was in the year 1903 that she plunged into the psychological problem of rhythm, with all the more eagerness that she felt herself trained stale so far as her piano playing was concerned. The much-needed rest was turned to good scientific account. She worked long and assiduously at the different reference libraries of Philadelphia, the result being an epoch-making paper on rhythm which appeared in the Popular Science Monthly for September, 1903. This was followed by an article on verbal rhythm printed in Poet Lore for June, 1904. After this followed the lecture on "Time Universal," delivered under the auspices of the Free Libraries of Philadelphia. This work on rhythm has been noticed in magazines all over the world—in Japan, England, Germany, America and naturally the Oriental papers of Asia Minor.

Bran Baths.

One of the latest things for the nervous woman who is trying to reduce her fractious nerves is the bran bath just before retiring at night.

This not only has a soothing effect, but incidentally softens and whitens the skin.

To make the bath buy ordinary bran at a feed store and keep it in a tin box away from mice.

Make a bag of cheesecloth, from twelve to eighteen inches square, and stuff it with bran until about as full as a pine pillow.

This bag is put in a bath tub half filled with warm water and squeezed until the water is brown and bubbly. It is not well to remain in the water longer than five or six minutes, and, if possible, the bather should rest ten minutes and then be massaged.

If there is no one to do the massaging one can rub the body thoroughly with a rough towel and knead it with the hands.

THE EVENING STORY

A RUDE AWAKENING

By Frank Davis.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

I.

"I heard something in town yesterday that made me a bit uneasy," he said. "I was told that this dude from St. Louis had been shining around here. Begins to look as though there was a rival in the field," and Jack Gladden assumed a melodramatic air.

"No, sir," she said, sharply, "there's no 'rival' in the field—only your lack of manners; a gentleman wouldn't talk the way you do."

He had always liked to see her flare up like this—it was a refreshing break in the monotony of smooth love making; but, somehow, she seemed more in earnest now than usual, and it irritated him.

"No, Grace," he said. "I presume a gentleman wouldn't talk that way, but a man would, when he wants the girl he loves to turn from the error of her ways."

They were sitting in the shade of a big elm, back of the house. The day was warm, and the girl fanned herself vigorously with the magazine she had been pretending to read. Her face was flushed with something besides the heat, as she replied to his sarcasm.

"Jack, you are always talking about the girl you love, when, if you only knew it, you don't love anyone but yourself. You really make me weary with your everlasting nonsense," and the fan moved with accelerated vigor.

"We have known each other all our lives, dear," said Jack, in sudden humility, "and I have loved you ever since I can remember; do you really think I am that sort of a fellow?"

"What sort of a fellow?" asked the girl, not looking at him, and she very carefully examining the advertising pages of her magazine.

"Didn't you just say that I am selfish—don't love anyone but myself?"

"Well, you don't," she retorted; "if you did, you would talk less and do something. You are 23 years old, and you don't seem to have any ambition to do anything except work your mother's 40-acre farm. You have a good education, why don't you use it?"

He generally enjoyed these scolding motherly lectures; now, they stirred him to bitterness, and he said, with boyish petulance: "I suppose you are mentally comparing me with Henry Souders, the gentleman from St. Louis."

"You talk like a boy, Jack; and I am afraid you—will always be one." She was 19.

Jack subsided into sulky, troubled silence. Above them, in the topmost branches, a thrush began to sing, in pure, sweet notes, a love-song to its mate.

A step was heard on the walk, followed a moment later by Henry Souders, "the gentleman from St. Louis." "Good afternoon," said he, hat in hand. "I hope I don't intrude. They told me at the house that I should find you here, but they did not inform me that you had company," and he glanced in a deprecatory way at Jack; but that young man did not appear to notice him.

Miss Grace Hadley rose to her feet. "Why, how do you do, Mr. Souders? Certainly you don't intrude. My friend, Mr. Gladden, Mr. Souders."

Jack acknowledged the introduction both awkwardly and rudely. "Glad to make your acquaintance," he said without rising. Grace shot him a look of mingled anger and disgust. What a boor Jack is. She wondered now she had ever fancied herself in love with him.

Mr. Souders, with perfect self-possession, sat down on a corner of the rustic seat, and began making himself agreeable. "For shade," he said, "there's nothing comparable with the American white elm," and he glanced up at the heavy masses of dark green foliage overhead.

"No, I'm sure there isn't," acquiesced Grace. "Papa says that he wouldn't take $500 for this tree."

Jack mentally concluded that the old gentleman wouldn't either, and he felt like saying so, but he didn't.

This question of shade seemed an important one, and Mr. Souders turned to Jack: "What is your opinion about it, Mr. Gladden?" he asked.

"Owing to the kind of weather," was the reply, and Jack continued to watch a "measuring" worm, as it measured its way up a blade of grass. Mr. Souders smiled appreciatingly.

Mr. Souders was determined to be pleasant. "You're a farmer, aren't you?" he asked.

Jack looked up from his worm. "Yes, sir, I am. Why?"

Grace stirred uneasily in her seat.

Mr. Souders, however, had met country bumpkins before, and smilingly replied: "O, nothing, only I thought I saw you plowing in the field near the schoolhouse as I passed yesterday morning."

Jack felt, somehow, that this well-groomed, city-bred chap was politely making fun of him. Jealousy like love, is blind, and Jack was absurdly jealous just now. Mr. Souders, however, was simply trying to be agreeable to an inferior.

The conversation after this was chiefly between Mr. Souders and Grace, Jack vouchsafing an occasional remark. Finally, Mr. Souders arose to take his leave. "I had hoped," he said, "to take you riding this afternoon, Miss Hadley, and drove around this way for that purpose; but under the circumstances, I presume that it would be out of place to ask you to go?"

Grace hesitated a moment. "No, thank you ever so much," she said. "I couldn't very well go this afternoon."

"Some other time, then?" insinuated the suave Mr. Souders.

"Perhaps," smilingly assented the girl.

With a "Good afternoon," Mr. Souders departed. As the gentleman from St. Louis disappeared around the corner of the house Jack said, maliciously: "Didn't tarry long, did he?"

With a burst of passion the girl turned on him: "Aren't you ashamed of yourself to act that way in the presence of a gentleman? You—oh, I'm disgusted with you!" and, catching up her magazine, she started for the house. Jack met the shock imperturbably. "Good-by, Grace," he called after her.

II.

A pink parasol, a pink and white girl, and a well-groomed young gentleman were moving slowly along the grassy side of the narrow road. The man was talking earnestly, with bent head beneath the pink parasol, the girl, with flushed cheeks and downcast eyes, listening.

"I know that we have known each other but a few months," he said, "but for me those months have held more of life than all the past years of my existence. I have met many women, but none has ever touched my heart but you. Let me look into your sweet eyes, dear—" Bang! bang! came the almost simultaneous reports of a shotgun, down the road toward town; then shouts and the barking of dogs.

"Oh, what is it?" exclaimed the startled girl. The love light had left Mr. Souders' eyes, and they had an anxious look. "I don't know," he answered; "somebody hunting, maybe."

Presently, they saw a crowd of men, armed with guns, pitchforks and clubs, running up the road; and, in advance of the crowd, 200 yards or more, running with head down, and frothing mouth, came a gaunt, hound-like creature, which, at every bound, gave vent to short, snarling cries.

Straight on it came, up the road toward them, with long, swinging leaps, its great red tongue hanging out, its open jaws dripping froth at every leap.

"Oh! what shall we do?" cried the frightened girl.

Her lover of a moment ago was gazing at the frightful thing in a sort of fascinated stupefication. The girl's voice seemed to break the spell. Seizing her by the arm, he cried, in a voice hoarse with terror: "Run!" and he broke for a clump of trees, in a field some hundred yards distant, half dragging the girl after him.

The mad dog was only a few rods behind them now, and the trees were about the same distance away. The man gave one backward glance, let go of the girl, and redoubled his efforts to reach the trees. With a moan of terror, Grace stumbled and fell.

III.

Sauntering along the road that Sabbath afternoon, swinging a heavy hickory stick as a cane, came Jack Gladden; and he was in no pleasant mood, for he had just come from the Hadleys' where he learned that Grace was out walking with Mr. Souders. He heard the gunshots, and the shouting, and saw the mad dog and its pursuers; and, just ahead of the swiftly approaching terror, he saw Grace and Mr. Souders. He caught a better grip on his stick and started on a run toward them.

As Grace fell, the slavering brute was almost upon her. The next instant it lay stunned and quivering from the effects of a well-delivered blow from Jack's stick. A few more blows and the danger was past.

"Oh, Jack!" she said, as he helped her to her feet; and then she put her arms around his neck and kissed him.

Mr. Henry Souders slid silently down his tree and joined the crowd from town.

DR. SPERRY TALKS TO STUDENTS

Tells Young People to Gain Moral, Mental and Physical Strength.

Principal Buck surprised the pupils at the Central high school again this morning by having Dr. Lyman B. Sperry, who is touring the country on a lecturing trip to speak to the students.

Dr. Sperry spoke for fully an hour and gave the students much good advice. He spoke of the advantages which lie before the students in high school and said it was the duty of every one to make the best of these advantages. He named several great men for the students to take for an example; men who rose from poverty to success. He then told the pupils that the secret of success, no matter what condition of life they were in at present, is not to dissipate; to keep away from tobacco and liquor and while still young to apply themselves in gaining mental, moral and physical strength.

Dr. Sperry's speech made a great impression upon the pupils and from now on Mr. Buck will attempt to secure speakers more frequently.

BLACK HAND GETS THE LIMIT

Leader of Gang in Brooklyn Given Twenty-Five Years in Sing Sing.

New York, Jan. 28.—Raefaelo Pisano, leader of the Black Hand society in Brooklyn, was today sentenced to twenty-five years in Sing Sing for attempted murder.

"The full limit of punishment is not severe enough in your case," said County Judge Fawcett. "Life sentence should be inflicted for Black Hand offenses such as the character of your crime. You have been convicted of aiding and abetting Pasquale Albano in an attempt to murder Giusseppe Cacace.

"You and Albano are international criminals and your conviction is of the greatest importance. It will have a far-reaching effect for good among those of your class who resort to the infamous practices of the Black Hand, which frequently involve murder.

"Through your sentence I serve notice to the members of the Black Hand who are convicted in this court that full limit of punishment will be imposed in each case."

Pisano was a member of the gang which enticed Cacace to a house on Conover street on Nov. 2 and attempted to kill him for refusing their demand for $100.

Dedham, Mass., Jan. 28.—Clarence H. Dadmun, tax collector of the town of Wellesley, entered today a plea of not guilty to a charge of larceny of funds of the town. He waived examination and was held to the grand jury in $7,500 bail, which he was unable to furnish.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

WHO'S WHO AMONG THE WELTER WEIGHTS OF THE RING—OTHER LIVE TIPS ON SPORT.

New World's Records Are Expected At Duluth Ski Tournament Next Month.

(BY BRUCE)

Who's who in the welterweight division is a problem that is taxing some of the most astute of the followers of pugilism.

There is Willie Lewis and there is also Harry Lewis, no relative of the other claimant of the welterweight crown. There is also Mike (Twin) Sullivan and Jimmy Gardner, brother of the famous George. These four men all lay claim to the much-disputed title.

Willie Lewis is getting pretty heavy for the welterweight class. Willie and Harry will clash in Paris in the near future for the welterweight championship advertised, and it is a good bet that neither of the men will weigh in at the welterweight limit.

Billy Papke is advertised to meet the winner of the encounter. Everybody who knows anything about fighting knows that Papke is not a welterweight and would never attempt to make anywhere near the limit for that class. Therefore the matching of Papke and the winner of the Harry Lewis-Willie Lewis fight makes it appear as if both of the Lewis wallopers were rather heavy for the welterweight division.

Mike ("Twin") was a very clever fighter in his day. He never was very generous with a punch, but then he took an awful good man at his weight to beat him. He is bald and beamy and looks like some peaceful old Irish gardener, yet if the smaller of the Sullivan twins is roiled, he is a nasty customer in the squared circle.

Mike made an awful mistake, about two years or more ago. He imagined he could whip Stanley Ketchel. Some one told him so, and he took the advice very seriously. Brother Jack was also of the opinion. He trained Twin Mike for the contest and was his chief adviser during the short conflict.

Someone also told Michael another falsehood. They told him that Ketchel could only hit with one hand. When time was called, Mike walked jauntily out of his corner, with eagle eye on Ketchel's right. He didn't consider the left dangerous.

Bing! Down went the Sullivan man. It was the left, too. Sullivan didn't come to until all the people were out of the hall. Since that time Mike has kept pretty close to the welterweights.

Brother Jack tried to revenge the family name and also got his. However, that is another story.

Then there is Jimmy Gardner. He can whip fellows that Mike Sullivan is unable to whip, but Sullivan is the Angora to the ambition of the Lowell, Mass., boy. The welterweight situation is muddled up, no matter how you view it.

Stubby Joe Wolcott, who was the San Lanfgord of the colored race, five or six years ago, and was a terror among the fighters large and small until he shot away part of his trusty right hand, held undisputed claim to the welter title. Then Honey Mellody came along and beat the pride of the Boston blacks.

Joe Thomas beat Mellody, but he grew too heavy for the class. Then Harry Lewis came along and knocked out Mellody in Boston in four rounds. Mellody won the title when in his prime and was beaten when going back.

The situation is very complicated, as you will see. Honey Mellody beat Matty Mathews and did Joe Wolcott. Mike Twin beat the Honey boy in Los Angeles and in turn was outpointed by Harry Lewis at Denver. Jimmy Gardner whipped Harry Lewis at Denver and has been beaten twice by Twin Mike. What's the answer, or who's the answer?

The truth of the matter is, the welterweight division is a thing of the past. Very little attention has been paid to the fighters of this class. Perhaps it is because there are so many claimants to the title, or perhaps it is because Sullivan and Gardner are both stallers.

You will remember that there was but little doing in the middleweight division after the retirement of Tommy Ryan until the two sensational fighters, Papke and Ketchel sprang up simultaneously and created new interest in the class. If some sterling young welterweight fighter should come to the front and beat all the others, there would probably be greater interest shown in that fight division.

There are sure a lot of people who have become stung by the fight bee. The last one told yet, is on Pitcher Mover Smith, the big pitcher of the Chicago White Sox.

Smith has for some time had the hunch that he would have made a great fighter. A strapping big and powerful man, he has often confided to his friends that he made a very serious mistake in not taking up the career of a fighter.

When Jeff and the black were matched, Smith was greatly excited. He was determined to see the fight. When Jeff was at the White Sox park last summer it is said that Smith was right after the big fighter all the time, and that baseball was the farthest from his thoughts.

Recently Smith and Comiskey met to talk over the terms of the player's contract for the coming season. Comiskey gave the big pitcher a $700 increase. That was fine and great for Smith, but there was one thing he happened to think of, and he came tearing into the cafe, where Commy had gone after finishing with the player, and asked that the Old Roman listen to one urgent request.

The pitcher wanted two weeks off in July, so that he might see the Jeffries-Johnson fight. He was willing to work for $500 less during the season, if he only be given the opportunity of seeing the fight.

There was nothing doing on the urgent request idea of Smith's. He was informed that he would be very badly needed about the time the big fight was called, and that no decrease of salary would permit him to witness the fight.

Now that the example has been set by Smith, there will probably be a lot of other players who will ask for a two-weeks' vacation in order that they will be enabled to witness the great fight between the white and black champions.

Jim Jeffries still retains his sharpshooter's eye. Out on the range at Salt Lake City the big fellow, Frank Gotch and Dr. Benjamin Franklin Roller the man who aspires to the crown held by Gotch, went out for a crack at the pigeons.

Jeffries killed 22 out of a possible 25, while Gotch trailed along in second place, with something like 19 out of a possible 25. If there is one thing that Jeff is really interested in, that thing is hunting. He is probably the greatest shot of any of the champions we have ever had. He prides himself upon his good eye. Let us hope that the eye is as good as in the days of old.

After inspecting the new baseball park at Pittsburg, Charles Comiskey stated that the new park of the Chicago White Sox would be every bit as fine as the new Forbes field of Pittsburg.

Expensive baseball parks are getting to be quite the fad. Philadelphia has one and Pittsburg has one. Comiskey will be the next magnate to erect a handsome new baseball plant. Murphy will probably follow suit. New York will some day fall into line, and so on.

If some of the old players of three decades ago would be granted a short leave of absence, what a pleasant and wonderful day they would have flying over the country and inspecting the handsome new baseball plants.

Duluth is sure being placed on the athletic map. During the present winter two of the greatest wrestlers in the world will be seen here in finish matches, and then we are to have the opportunity of judging for ourselves of the condition of James J. Jeffries.

Ole Fiering is jumping better the present winter than ever before, and ski riders from other towns where the popular rider has been seen this winter pick him as the one to have the winner of the national championship.

At the big ski tournament, to be held in this city, Feb. 12, Fiering will be opposed by the very best riders in this country. If he wins first honors at the local ski meet, he will be the favorite for the first honors at the national meet at Coleraine.

Anent the ski tournament that will be held here the day the excursionists from the Southern territory are in the city, it may be stated that no effort will be neglected to get the very best riders in this country. The officials of the Duluth Ski club are spending every effort to make the tournament the greatest ever held in this state.

It is generally conceded that the local slide is the best, at least in this part of the country, and that is the aim of the officials of the Duluth Ski club that some new national records be hung up at the tournament next month.

GREAT RIDERS WILL BE HERE

Northwestern Ski Clubs Will Send Crack Jumpers to Duluth.

From information received yesterday by the officials of the Duluth Ski club it is expected that over seventy riders will compete in the big tournament that will be held on Chester hill Feb. 12.

President Hovde has received word from the officials of all the ski clubs in the Northwest, and they have informed him that every prominent rider will be here to take part in the contest.

Minneapolis will send a large delegation up, including Ole Larson, who has been doing some very good jumping on the slide of the Minneapolis club, and Olaf Jonnum. A. Melgaard will be another Minneapolis rider who will be seen here.

Haugen of Chippewa Falls, who made the longest jump at the meet here two weeks ago, but who fell, has informed the officials of the local club that he will be here and will attempt to break the American record on the local hill. But for the fact that Haugen fell a week ago last Sunday, he would hold the American record at the present time.

President Hovde stated today that the tournament would without doubt be the greatest ever held in the Northwest, and that every effort will be made to get the greatest collection of riders that has ever been seen together at a meet in this country.

Duluth riders are practicing on the big slide every day in preparation for the tournament.

LAMY SKATING IN GREAT FORM

Saranac Lake Man Lowers Some of His Own Records.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 28.—Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake held his championship title in the indoor skating races here Wednesday night and last night and made four new records. Last night he reduced the mark for the half-mile from 1:20 3-5 to 1:17 3-5. In the three-quarters-mile he reduced J. S. Johnson's time of 2:13, made in 1893, to 2:04 1-5. He also took the two-mile event, but failed to touch the record. Summaries:

Half-mile—Lamy won; Kearney, New York, second; Alroth, Duluth, third. Time, 1:17 3-5.

Three-quarters-mile — Lamy won; Kearney, second; Wheelock, Montreal, third. Time, 2:04 1-5.

Two miles—Lamy won; Kearney, second; Roe, Toronto, third. Time, 5:12.

Special for 14-year-old championship, three-quarters-mile — Ben Oshlcky, Cleveland, won. Time, 2:26 4-5.

Good Scores at Shoot.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 28.—Good scores characterized the fourth day's shoot of the ninth annual Sunny South handicap. The program consisted of 150 targets, divided in eight target events and the Houston Post team shoot. In the latter contest Daniel O'Connell and W. Mangum of San Antonio were first with 50 straight. Out of the 150 targets that counted for an average during the day Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Iowa, led with 156, Fred Bills of Chicago second with 155, and E. D. F. Corsgard of Waco third with 154.

DARBY SIGNS TWO PLAYERS

Giant Pitcher and Fast Outfielder Added to List of Recruits.

No More Players Will Be Signed---Thorsen May Be Traded.

Two more players have been added to the already large list of recruits who have affixed their signatures to a Duluth contract.

Wilson Knowles, a pitcher, standing six feet four inches and of the tender age of 21, has been signed by the busy Darby, and R. D. Frank, an outfielder who comes from the semi-professional league of Chicago, through the medium of Jimmy Callahan, have been signed up.

According to the information received by Mr. Kuehnow, Frank hit over .300 last season. He is recommended by Callahan as a very fast fielder as well as a heavy hitter.

Last season Knowles worked with Mansfield in the Ohio State league. He was in twenty-eight games and won half his battles. He is only a boy, though a veritable giant in stature, and much is expected of him.

Mr. Kuehnow announced today that the two men signed by Darby will about close the list of recruits that will be tried out by the Duluth club this spring. If some bargain is offered that looks extremely good, Mr. Kuehnow says he will take advantage of it, though at the present time Duluth has a very large number of players under contract.

Several deals are on for the trading of players. Richard Brinsley Sheridan Thorsen may be traded to Oshkosh, Wis. for a pitcher held by that club. Negotiations are being carried on at the present time. Several other deals are pending.

Mr. Kuehnow stated today that the management of the club hopes to have a team fully as strong as the crack team of last season. Good money has been spent in scouting players, and it is the intentions count, the White Sox will start the season with a very fast team.

Mr. Kuehnow has received no response to telegraphic inquiries of the officials of the Winnipeg club, and he stated today that there seemed little chance that Winnipeg would be an applicant for a franchise in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

BASKET BALL PLAYERS BUSY

Y. M. C. A. Will Meet Two Harbors---High School vs. Superior.

Basketball games will furnish amusement to lovers of indoor sports this afternoon and evening. Four games will be played in this city and Superior.

The Y. M. C. A. will open the regular season in the city by a game with the Two Harbors' team, at the local association gymnasium this evening. The Y. M. C. A. has a very strong team the present season, according to indications, and should have little trouble in defeating the team from Two Harbors.

LARRY BOYLE,
Captain Central Basket Ball Team.

This afternoon the sophomores and juniors will line up against each other in the interclass league. The game will be played at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. There is a great deal of interest taken in the interclass games, and the game this afternoon promises to be a very close and interesting one.

At Superior, this evening, the first and second teams of the Central will play the first and second teams of Nelson-Dewey. The Superior high school is credited with having the best team on the other side of the bay, and the game promises to be a very close and exciting one.

FINAL GAME WON BY C BOYS

Company E Defeated 8 to 4 in Last Game of Military Schedule.

Company C won second place in the Military league pennant race by last night defeating Company E team by the score of 8 to 4. The game last evening was the last regular game on the schedule of the league.

Although Company E secured twelve hits to the seven of their opponents, errors came at inopportune places, and assisted in piling up the enemy's score. The loose fielding of Company E players contributed directly to their defeat.

Negotiations are on to bring some of the Twin City military teams here to play Company A team, the winner of the bunting in the Military league.

Lineup and score:

Company E—Baumgartner, second base; Beatty, third base; H. Foster, pitcher; J. Mausolf, right field; Balduc, catcher; Norski, right short; Bordeleau, left field; Lester, left short, Southwick, first base.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 28.—A cablegram from Coffroth, the fight promoter, who is now in England, says that he has practically perfected arrangements for match in this city for the international featherweight championship between Abe Attell of San Francisco and Jem Driscoll, the English champion.

Coffroth will start for home at once, and it is presumed that the fight will take place next month.

THE SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Michigan Has Hard Football Games Lined Up for Next Fall.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 28.—The board in control of athletics at the University of Michigan last night gave out the football schedule for 1910, as far as it is completed.

Notre Dame will be required to play under Michigan eligibility rules; Minnesota plays at Ann Arbor, Nov. 19; Notre Dame at Ann Arbor, Nov. 5, and the Pennsylvania game will probably be played at Philadelphia, Nov. 12. A game is to be played with Case college. A game with Syracuse is scheduled to be played at Syracuse, Oct. 29.

TO FIGHT IT OUT IN CALIFORNIA

Big Jim Denies That Championship Bout Has Been Called Off.

Portland, Or., Jan. 28.—That the Jeffries-Johnson fight will probably be held in San Francisco, in view of the opposition of Governor Spry of Utah, and that Johnson's backing down only could call off the fight, are declarations made by Jim Jeffries yesterday. Jeffries' attention was called to recent reports that there is doubt as to whether the fight will ever occur and that his intention to return East after visiting Seattle, is taken to mean nothing else. In reply Jeffries said:

"The report of my calling off the fight now or later is the invention of some unscrupulous person. I will return East after leaving Seattle, but only to meet my wife, who is ill in a Chicago hospital. I will be in Los Angeles not later than Feb. 15 to begin training for the fight. That gives me plenty of time. All I need is rounding into condition."

Trainer Corbett Trains.

New York, Jan. 28.—James J. Corbett, who has been for some time hard at work in a New York gymnasium, preparing for his work at Jim Jeffries' training camp next May, gave himself a trial yesterday with Jim Kennedy. Corbett showed speed and much of his old cunning and declared himself well satisfied with his physical condition.

"I have got to be in pretty good shape, you know," he said, "if I am going to fight Jeffries as per schedule once a day for six weeks."

Class Team Defeated.

The high school juniors were yesterday defeated by the senior class of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., at basket ball, the game being played in the junior department gymnasium, and the score being 12 to 10. The lineup:

Senior class.	Position.	Juniors
Simons	c	Taylor
Whiteside	f	Hutchins
Johnson	f	Bevis

Longboat the Winner.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 28.—Tom Longboat, the Indian runner, last night beat Percy Smallwood, the Welshman, in a 12-mile indoor running race by four minutes. Longboat's time was 1 hour 8 minutes 37 seconds, while Smallwood, who finished almost five laps behind, did it in 1 hour 12 minutes 37 seconds.

Season Will Open April 14.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The season of the American baseball league will open this year on April 14, according to President Johnson of the league, who returned yesterday from Pittsburg. Johnson announced that he will issue a call today for the annual meeting of the American league club owners to vote upon the adoption of the schedule. The meeting will be held here Feb. 15.

SATURDAY IS CARNATION DAY

Duluth People Will Wear Flower to Honor McKinley's Memory.

Tomorrow is Carnation day, the anniversary of the birth of William McKinley, the martyred president of the United States. Throughout the United States, patriotic people will honor the memory of the late president by wearing the carnation, his favorite flower.

The custom of wearing carnations on Jan. 29 has not been taken up as generally as those who originated the movement desired, but the National Carnation league, which is fostering the custom, urges all patriotic people to take it up and honor the memory of the third president to die by the assassin's hand.

It is expected that there will be a good display of carnations in Duluth tomorrow, for Duluth is not lacking in patriotism and the late president had many admirers in the city.

INCREASES IN IMPORTED FOOD

Decrease in Exports Reported By Department of Commerce and Labor.

Washington, Jan. 28.—America seems to be losing her hold on her ability to be a bread basket for the world. Foodstuff exports last year fell off heavily as compared with the previous year, while foodstuff imports increased. According to figures of the department of commerce and labor, the foodstuff exports in 1908, amounted to $493,046,981, while last year they amounted only to $399,950,419, a decrease of almost 19 per cent. A similar comparison shows that the imports of foodstuffs increased, those for 1908 amounting to $292,299,391, while last year they totaled $334,430,105, an increase of nearly 15 per cent.

What is true of foodstuffs, also holds good for manufatures and crude material for use in manufacturing, the imports having increased last year while the exports decreased.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Negro Arrested for Brutal Killing of Woman in Chicago.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 28.—George B. Robertson, a negro, was arrested here yesterday afternoon, charged with the murder of Mrs. Jennie Cleghorn, a white woman whose dismembered body, in the head, was found in a Chicago resort Jan. 20. Robertson left Chicago Jan. 20, and after his departure the Chicago police searched a trunk at his home, finding a bomb, a razor and undergarments stained with blood.

Robertson is a fancy penman and plied his trade of furnishing postcards among resorts like that in which the murder occurred. Specimens of his handiwork were found in various rooms of the house, and the Chicago police learned he was in the house several times before the murder. This fact, coupled with testimony given by a visitor to the resort that Robertson had threatened to cut the Cleghorn woman's heart out if she failed to pay him a sum of money he claimed she owed him, set the police on his trail.

Agricultural Editor Ill.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 28.—S. M. Owen, editor of Farm, Stock and Home, an agricultural paper, and a member of the board of regents of the state university, is critically ill at his home on Knox avenue. He has been suffering several weeks with heart trouble.

Mr. Owen has been in public life for many years. In 1894 he received 80,000 votes for governor on the Populist ticket.

Southwestern Lumbermen Elect.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 28.—The convention of the Southwestern Lumbermen's association adjourned last night after the following officers had been elected: E. Matthews, Webb City, Mo., president; J. H. Foresman, Kansas City, treasurer; John Atwell, Chillicothe, Mo., and W. M. John, Sedalia, directors for Missouri; W. D. Franz, director for Oklahoma and L. R. Putnam, Fayetteville, director for Arkansas. The board of directors re-elected Harry A. Gorsuch secretary of the association for another year.

TERMS OF TAFT'S POSTAL SAVINGS BANK MEASURE

Washington, Jan. 28.—The postal savings bank bill, drafted by Senators Carter, Dolliver and Owen, a sub-committee of the committee on postoffices and post roads, was introduced in the senate yesterday and referred to the postoffice committee. The bills originally introduced on this subject were considered and a large number of changes made.

Particular attention was given to a scheme to prevent the concentration of postal deposits in the money centers of the East. This objection to the establishment of postal savings banks has been met by a provision allowing banks receiving the postal funds for safe keeping to give indemnity bonds in lieu of collateral security, which obviates the necessity of banks going to bond cents to purchase the securities required by the government.

The bill provides that there shall be established a system of postal savings depositories under the supervision and direction of a board of trustees, consisting of the secretary of the treasury, the postmaster general and the attorney general acting ex-officio.

In Money Order Offices.

All postoffices of a class to issue money orders and such others as the postmaster general may designate, are declared to be postal savings depositories. They are to receive deposits from the public and are to be kept open for the transaction of business every day. Sundays and legal holidays excepted, during the usual postoffice business hours of the town or locality where the depositories are located.

It is provided, however, that the postmaster general may limit at first the number of depositories to money order offices of the first, second and third classes, and extend the system thereafter as rapidly as practicable.

Accounts may be opened in any postal bank by any person of the age of 10 years or over, and by married women in their own names, and free from any control or interference by their husbands.

No person will be permitted to have more than one account.

Not Over $100 a Month.

An account cannot be opened for less than $1 and not more than $100 can be deposited in any one calendar month.

All deposits must be in multiples of $1, but in order that smaller amounts may be accumulated for deposit, savings cards will be issued and 10-cent postal savings stamps sold. When these cards and attached stamps show an investment of $1 or multiples thereof, they will be received as deposits.

Funds received by postal savings banks are to be deposited in any solvent banks, subject to public supervision and examination, in the state or territory, and as nearly as practicable in the immediate neighborhood in which the funds are received, at a rate of interest not less than 2¼ per cent.

Distributed to Local Banks.

The deposits are to be distributed among the local banks on the basis of their capital and surplus, and the banks may give indemnity bonds to insure the safety and prompt repayment of deposits. At its option any bank may deposit collateral securities, subject to the approval of the board. In the event that banks refuse to receive postal deposits on the terms prescribed the funds may be deposited with the treasurer of the United States.

Provision is made for the maintenance of a reserve fund not more in amount than 10 per cent of the total funds deposited.

Interest and profits accruing from deposits or investment of postal savings are to be applied to the payment of expenses of administration, and any excess is to be covered into the treasury as a part of postal revenues.

All statutes relating to the safe keeping of and proper accounting for public moneys are made applicable to such funds, and the postmaster general may require postmasters or their assistants to give any additional bonds deemed necessary.

NO LOOSE COINS IN MAIL BOXES

Postoffice Department Rules Against Custom of Rural Patrons.

The postoffice department has issued a ruling, of which Postmaster Guy A. Eaton has been notified, to the effect that after Feb. 15, rural letter carriers will not be required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes. The custom of dropping coins in the boxes to pay the postage on letters and packages has grown to such an extent that it is a nuisance and a hardship to the carriers.

People may enclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in paper or place them in a coin receptacle, so that the carrier may secure them easily. In the event of their being deposited in such form, the carrier will be required to put the requisite stamps on the accompanying mail.

WILL DEBATE AT CAMBRIDGE

Central High School Boys to Contest on Initiative and Referendum.

The debating team of the Central high school will meet the spell binders from the Cambridge high school at Cambridge, Minn., tonight. The topic of discussion is "Resolved, That Minnesota Adopt the Initiative and Referendum." The Duluth team will argue in the affirmative. The Cambridge team has scored one victory in the state league thus far, holding down the negative side of the question successfully.

The Duluth debaters are Charles Evans, Rupert O'Brien and Harry Zlatskovsky. They will be accompanied to Cambridge by Prof. Robert Brackett and Roger Lerch. The Cambridge team is coached by Prof. M. D. Aycarm. It won tae championship of the state at St. Charles last year.

Will Get More Pay.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 28.—Enginemen on the Philadelphia & Reading railway will receive an increase in wage amounting to 13 per cent beginning Feb. 1, according to an announcement. Twelve hundred men are affected.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Removing the outward symptoms is not all that is necessary to cure Contagious Blood Poison. The virulent germs which produce these external manifestations must be completely driven from the blood before a real cure can be effected. The least taint left in the circulation will sooner or later cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. Only a blood purifier can cure Contagious Blood Poison. Medicines which merely check the symptoms for a time, because of their strong mineral nature, and leave the poison smouldering in the system, have brought disappointment to thousands. The disease always returns after such treatment. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison and cures it permanently. It goes into the blood, and removes every particle of the poison, making the circulation pure, rich and healthy, nor does S. S. S. leave the slightest trace of the disease for future outbreaks. S. S. S. does not contain any mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, which are most valuable in their blood-purifying properties, and at the same time specifically adapted to building up the entire system. If you have Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. will cure you because it will thoroughly purify your Blood. Home Treatment Book and any medical advice free to all. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

GLAVIS NOT SOLE KICKER

Congressmen Hear That the Alaska Case Was Reported By Others.

Witness in Inquiry Tells of Instructions From the Secretary.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Louis R. Glavis today continued his testimony against Secretary Ballinger before the congressional investigating committee. Glavis declared that despite the fact that he was directed by Mr. Ballinger, as commissioner of the land office, on Dec. 13, 1907, to make a complete and thorough examination of all the Alaskan coal land cases, sparing no one, the Cunningham claims were ordered "clear listed" for patent in less than a month thereafter. On his protest by wire and mail, Glavis said, the clear listing was revoked.

Among many letters read was one from Special Agent H. T. Jones, calling attention to the alleged fraudulent character of the Alaskan claims.

Nelson Asks Questions.

"That letter was written before Glavis came into the matter in any way?" questioned Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee.

"Yes," replied Mr. Brandeis.

"Then you don't mean that Glavis originally called attention to these claims?"

"No. In addition to Jones' report there had been one from Special Agent Love," said Brandeis.

Mr. Glavis, resuming, told of a visit to Washington in December, 1907, when he took up with officials of the land office the matter of the Alaska claims. He told Mr. Schwartz that people in Seattle were saying that there would be no further investigation of the claims in Alaska and that the patents would be granted.

One Scandal Suppressed.

"I said there was great danger of another big scandal equal to that in Wyoming and Colorado, where the investigation of the coal land cases had been suppressed," declared Glavis.

"Who suppressed those investigations?" demanded Senator Painter, Democrat.

"It was testified at Salt Lake City that former Commissioner Richards did—Mr. Ballinger had no connection with it in any way."

Glavis testified that after an interview with Mr. Schwartz, he was conducted to Mr. Ballinger's office and as a result of the visit to Washington and the story there told, was immediately placed in charge of all the Alaska cases.

"What did you say to Commissioner Ballinger?"

"I told him I thought we should cancel all the Alaska claims, that a lot of prominent people had formed a pool, and that the evidence would prove it."

What Ballinger Said.

"What did Mr. Ballinger say to you?"

"He said a number of the claimants were friends and former business associates of his, and that there had been a lot of talk that they would get their patents. 'Now Glavis,' he said to me, 'when you get back to Seattle, I want you to let it be publicly known that you have started this investigation, and that I want it to be thorough. No matter who it hurts, you are to go right after them, whether they are friends of mine or not.'"

"Did he mention names of his friends?"

"Yes, he spoke of H. C. Henry and C. J. Smith, both of whom were in the Cunningham group."

Glavis said he went back to work happy and satisfied that there was to be a thorough investigation, and that he had worried unnecessarily about a possible scandal.

Claims Were "Clear Listed."

Glavis declared that it was Dec. 13, 1907, that he had his interview with Commissioner Ballinger. On Jan. 7, 1908, less than a month after he had been directed to make the investigation, a letter was addressed to him by Mr. Ballinger stating that the Cunningham claim had been "clear listed" from the investigating division for patent.

On Jan. 22, 1908, Glavis sent a telegram and letter protesting against the clear listing of claims, and they were withdrawn and sent back to the investigating division.

will be organized at the Duluth Business University on Monday, Jan. 31. Location, 118-120 Fourth avenue west, Christie building.

FINE PROGRAM AT ELKS' SESSION

Members of Duluth Lodge and Visitors Enjoy Evening's Entertainment.

One of the most enjoyable evening's entertainments ever attempted by the local lodge of Elks was given last night at the new club rooms on West First street, the occasion being a stag session and smoker. A large number of Elks, both local and visiting were present and the program thoroughly enjoyed.

"Seeing Duluth," by John Doran, was probably one of the biggest hits of the evening. Mr. Doran took the Elks all over the city, beginning at the Spalding hotel, in an airship. He wasn't trying to break any records or do any unusual stunts, but he succeeded in keeping his audience in laughter the great part of the ride. Among other things he informed them when on the boulevard that it was built long years ago and then Duluth was erected under it.

Mr. Gerwin, who is a member of the Indianapolis lodge, gave some piano selections that were greatly enjoyed, and Mr. Winchester who, besides being an Elk, is a monologist of no mean ability and who during the week has found time to amuse several audiences at the Bijou theater, gave some talk that got to the ticklish spots in great shape. Harry Hall of Superior sang in his usual pleasing manner as did Patrick Doran. A string orchestra furnished music at intervals during the evening.

The affair was a big success in every way and the only regret of the members of the order is that they do not come more often.

EMPLOYMENT AGENTS DISAGREE

Oscar Sundstrom Is Fined for Assault on His Rival in Business.

Oscar Sundstrom, an employment agent, was fined $2.50 in police court yesterday afternoon, when he pleaded guilty to assaulting Ed Bergstrom, another employment agent. Bergstrom said Sundstrom made his nose bleed, and Sundstrom admitted that he did.

Bergstrom claimed that Sundstrom came over in front of his office and hired some men who were looking at his sign. Bergstrom, it appears, told Sundstrom to get away. Sundstrom refused, saying he had a right to be there as he came to buy a box of snuff. Bergstrom is said to have thereupon tried to throw Sundstrom out, with the result that his proboscis collided with the other fellow's fist. Bergstrom was so mad that he swore out a warrant. The assistant city attorney refused to give him one, but he kept on until he got results.

Howard Baxter, a colored man who has been in the bull pen several times, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being a vag. The police reported that he got into a quarrel with a colored woman on St. Croix avenue yesterday and threatened to shoot her. When searched the police found a small cannon in his pocket. They confiscated the smoke wagon, and the judge gave him $20 and costs or twenty days.

Charles Dahl denied that he was drunk. But when the policeman who arrested him told is story he didn't deny it. The cop said he had seen Dahl drinking last night and found him lying on the sidewalk dead to the world at 5 o'clock this morning.

Eva Saharan evidently can't stay away from the booze. She was arrested Wednesday after she had been out of the county jail six hours. Yesterday morning she was given the minimum sentence, which was suspended. This morning she was arrested again, almost paralyzed. The police said she'd have to sleep off the jag before she could be brought into court.

Martin Pabst's case was again postponed this morning, being set over for a week. Pabst is charged with selling liquor without a license. One of the witnesses against Pabst told City Prosecutor Kenny this morning that he is without work and that Pabst is asking for continuances in an effort to compel him to leave the city. He says he owes for board and will soon be obliged to return home. The authorities will likely take steps to keep him here.

CHASED BY HUNGRY BEAR

Sam Griswold Has Unpleasant Experience in Woods Near Bena.

Fine Weather Draws Animals From Their Annual Hibernation.

It seems as if the unseasonable Indian summer weather has deluded the beasts of the forest. At least, the experience of Sam Griswold, a lumberman of Bena, Minn., who occasionally comes to Duluth, would indicate that the bears of the Northern Minnesota woods were persuaded that the time to terminate the winter's hibernation had arrived.

Mr. Griswold holds steadfastly to the opinion that the bears in that part of the state have become firmly convinced of the fact that spring is here, and are up and rambling about the forests, looking for anything that may come within their gaze.

Mr. Griswold was walking in from one of the Simpson Lumber company's camps to Bena, when he encountered a bear, that, according to his story, was the most vicious and the most hungry looking bear that he has ever seen, and he says he has seen a few since he has been living in the camps of the Northern woods.

"I'll bet those bears are hungry, after their long winter's fast," said Mr. Griswold this morning, in telling of his experience. "Most of the bears you see, at least the ones we see up in that part of the country, will turn and tear for the thick woods at sight of a man. The bear that I saw yesterday exhibited no intentions of hurrying to the tall and uncut. He stood there on the trail and eyed me with the look of a person that was just sitting down to a very good meal.

"I turned and ran back in the direction of the camp. The bear did not follow with undue speed at first. It was more curiosity than anything else on the part of the animal, I believe, that prompted it to follow along at a kind of a dog trot. Then the hungry feeling oppressed the beast and it began to tear after me.

"It was very fortunate for me and unfortunate for the bear that I had not walked very far from the camp. I turned a bend in the trail and you can believe that the sight of the camp house was one of the most welcome and wholesome looking sights I have ever beheld.

"I never stopped running, though there was two of the boys standing right out there in front of the cook house. I ran right by them and pell mell into the house and slammed the door. I was plum locoed, as they say in the West.

"There was a gun hanging along the wall of the cook shanty. The sight of that gun brought the oozed-out courage back into my system. With the return of my courage I began to get mad. The more I thought of the nerve of a Northern Minnesota bear chasing an old resident through the forests in what should be the dead of winter, the more angry I became.

"I grabbed the gun and saw that it was loaded. Then I started out of th house with fight in my eye. The two men were doubled over with laughter. There was no bear in sight. That made me all the more angry.

"'Which way did he go?' I demanded, spluttering with rage.

"The two men were too convulsed with laughter to speak—they simply pointed up the trail.

"I started on the run in the direction from which I had come only a few minutes before. I ran as fast as I could, swearing at every step, almost. I turned the bend in the trail and saw the bear running up the path, as scared as a rabbit that has been shot at. I let fly at him, which only had the effect of making him jump the trail and disappear in the timber at the side of the trail.

"I stopped and sat down and waited until I recovered my breath. I was mad as some men are when they have been browbeaten by a woman. Then the funny side of the whole affair struck me and I laughed. I walked back to camp and threatened to shoot both of the men if they said anything about the affair.

"That is the first bear I have seen since last fall, but I will wager that there is a lot of them running around."

Publishers and Members of House Committee Exchange Verbiage.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Words such as "graft, robber and treason" were hurled back and forth between members of the house committee on postoffices and post roads and magazine publishers at a hearing held today. The acrid exchanges grew out of editorials published by the latter protesting against increasing postal rates on magazines.

ALIBI FOILS POLICE.

Alleged Murderer of Boys Aided By Mother and Sister.

New York, Jan. 28.—When Herbert Jerome Denison was arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court today, charged with the maniacal murder of the two boys in High Bridge park, Robert Lomas and Arthur Shibley, Assistant District Attorney Rubin announced that Dennison had admitted to him that he had owned and pawned a revolver similar to the one found near the scene of the tragedy, but could not remember if he had taken it out of pawn.

The aged and crippled mother of Dennison and her sister were in court to submit an alibi for Dennison, an alibi which the police have not been able to break down.

WOULD VEGETARIANS BE RACE OF MOLLYCODDLES?

Physicians Are Non-Committal on Burning Question of the Day.

E. M. Stone Hasn't Eaten Meat for Seven Years and Is Healthy.

Would the race degenerate into an assortment of mollycoddles? Were the folks made to eat meat or, conversely, was meat made for people to eat?

These topics are just as interesting as "How old is Ann?" because the discussion can be carried on eternally without arriving anywhere, seeing that there is a butcher shop on nearly every other corner and most folks appreciate a luscious porterhouse now and then and there are a sprinkling of packers that this country must continue to support so long as it has any money in its jeans.

To promote an argument—not a riot—The Herald asked a few Duluth medical men the questions stated in the foregoing.

Dr. T. L. Chapman said there is very little authoritative data on the subject of meat eating on which to base an opinion. Dr. Chapman, who incidentally relishes an occasional beefsteak with plenty of garnishments, referred to the propaganda of vegetarianism as promulgated in jolly, old Britain and said that folks in that island who abstain from meat are fanatics on the question and that from their actions he would not be willing to advise anyone to tell the butcher to go hang. He characterized the data collected by them as practically worthless from a general viewpoint. Although many people believe vegetarianism is of some account, he said he sees no valid reason for abstaining from eating meat. The practice of eating meat is world wide, he says, and man is physically able to stow away a hefty beefsteak without deleterious results. He does not believe that the average person should long dispense with either meat or vegetables.

"Was meat made for people to eat?"

"They certainly digest it, all right," was the laconic reply of Dr. D. D. Murray. He said the effects of meat eating are individual, that some folk could dispense with it without harm and that others apparently could not. People are individually strong in some points, physically, while others are correspondingly weak. He doubts, however, if the world would produce a race of mollycoddles if everybody should put the double-cross on the succulent porterhouse. Other physicians were noncommittal.

Edward M. Stone, although not a physician, except for people mentally depressed, can be regarded as an expert on the subject of meat eating, as he has not eaten any meat for seven years.

"I wouldn't touch meat in any form," said Mr. Stone. "I quit seven years ago this March when my physician advised me to do so. I had a little trouble, and he said, 'You stop eating meat for a month.' I went him one better and quit for all time. I've never had a trouble since. I don't even eat soups from meats."

Mr. Stone's 10-year-old son is following in his father's footsteps. He doesn't eat meat and he is a sturdy specimen of young America. He weighs ninety-seven pounds, and although he could probably put away several chops and sleep peacefully afterward he assiduously devotes himself to a vegetable diet.

Incidentally, it is said that one of the most beautiful young women in Duluth has never eaten meat. She simply doesn't like it. Her health is perfect and her complexion, it is said, reminds one of the tints in a Christy or a Fisher painting.

WANTS LESS FOR ARMY AND MORE FOR FARMING.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Representative Douglass of Ohio protested to the house today against the appropriation of 71 per cent of the revenues for the army and navy and only 2 per cent for agricultural purposes. He proposes saving $10,000,000 by authorizing only one battleship this year and giving half of the amount to promote agriculture.

WHEAT AND FLAX QUIET

Firm Tone Early in Session ---Wheat Weakens at Close.

Few Offerings of Flax---May Advances Three Cents Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 28.—The wheat and flax markets were quiet today, being pervaded by a firm undertone on account of higher cables, principally, and a few minor factors of only moderate significance, until toward the close when the market eased off on profit-taking and closed lower than yesterday by ½c. The market is in a scalping position.

May wheat opened at $1.13, ⅛c higher than yesterday's close, sold up ¼c, back to the opening and then at $1.13⅜, $1.13¼, $1.13 and $1.12⅜, closing at that price.

May flax sold at $2.13 bid, yesterday's closing price and advanced 3c, declining to $2.15½, then to $2.14¾, advancing to $2.16½, losing ½c, and closing at $2.16½.

All American wheat markets were firm and slightly higher at the opening today than yesterday, easing off toward the close on profit taking, to lower levels than yesterday's close. The foreign situation was the principal factor besides considerable speculative sentiment of a bullish nature. Cables were higher and it was reported that the damage by floods in France amounts to about $200,000,000. Much wheat, it is said, has been lost. The demand for foodstuffs to take care of the shortage caused by the ships waters and the destitution of the homeless sufferers contributed to the stronger foreign situation.

The foreign markets were firmer also because of the small Argentine shipments. The shipments this week are 952,000 bu, compared with 4,696,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply is 2,904,000 bu, compared with 4,800,000 bu a year ago and 1,696,000 bu last week. The increase of 1,200,000 bu in the Argentine visible supply is significant of increasing supplies and it is expected that the movement will grow larger from now on. Australian shipments are expected to increase, also. The movement this week is 2,608,000 bu compared with 3,080,000 bu last year, and 2,262,000 bu last week. The large Russian increase over last year is being maintained and the combined situation offsets to a large extent the effect of the low supplies in the United States, so far as the foreign market is concerned. The latest reports from Argentina indicate that the market is strong and that cargoes loading at Argentine ports have been held for high prices. There is some speculation as to the probable crop damage by floods in France. If there is a crop shortage there it is possible that France may be placed in the ranks of importing countries, although this is not now considered likely.

The domestic situation was bullish with the possible exception of reports that the Southwestern crop has been damaged. These hints will be coming along from time to time, but will not be seriously regarded until the crop is further advanced. The receipts in the Northwest continue large compared with last year. The increase in supplies at Minneapolis this week is estimated at 540,000 bu and 400,000 bu at the Head of the Lakes. Storm conditions, it was expected, would cut down receipts, temporarily at least. Whether or not this factor is the reason, shipments to the Head of the Lakes today and yesterday showed a falling off from receipts in the several days previous.

The milling situation is in a favorable position, and the mills are said to be doing an excellent business. City mills are grinding heavily and the commercial outlook is good. Northwestern mills are underselling Chicago mills and James A. Patten, who is credited with being the considered the Northwestern demand for wheat abnormal. Millers have been buying wheat continually, because they have been making sales of flour. This is sufficient explanation of the remarkable disappearance of wheat from the primary markets and the reduction in the supply. Last year bakers did not lead up, because they considered wheat too high, and eventually, many lost considerable sums, when they took contracts in the early summer on close margins. This year, apparently, they determined not to get caught without stores, and they have been heavy buyers.

That the market is in a strong scalping position is evidenced by the attitude of the crowd which changes nonchalantly from the short to the long side and back again, the disposition being to take profits on the bulges. Some traders have been getting long on the hard spots and short on the breaks to their discomfiture.

The duty on wheat to Mexico will be removed Feb. 15, and Southwestern markets sold considerable wheat today for export by way of the Gulf of Mexico. Kansas City is said to have disposed of 100,000 bu of No. 2 hard. St. Louis also sold a considerable amount. The bulls are inclined to regard this as favorable news.

The cash position remains firm and unchanged. Cash here is on a parity with May.

The flax market was quiet today, there being few offerings. The flax situation is strong on account of the available supply and the outlook for restricted shipments. From Aug. 1 to Jan. 1, 1909, the flax receipts were 9,046,212 bu, compared with 12,482,659 bu in 1908, 12,142,921 bu in 1907 and 14,053,243 bu in 1906. The shipments were unusually small last year, due to the great decrease in the yield.

The question that now looms up is the amount of flax which will be received here before next September. Last year from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1, the receipts of flax at the Head of the Lakes were 1,010,000 bu. It is problematical if this amount will be equalled this year. It is not likely that this influx will be totalled by the receipts in the next seven months. The receipts in flax this month will amount to about 175,000 bu, 30,000 bu more than the receipts last January. But in July last year the receipts were 361,000 bu and there is no possible likelihood of any record anywhere near this figure next July. Last February the movement to the Head of the Lakes was only 81,000 bu and this year it is probable that this figure will not be reached.

An indication of the exceedingly slow receipts was shown in today's car inspection figures, only one car of flax being recorded. The grain tax in North Dakota will be due April 1, when grain in elevators will be assessed. This method, formerly in vogue in Minnesota, has been changed here, grain now being taxed on the gross bushels handled by elevators during the fiscal year. The approach of the day for estimates on grain in North Dakota elevators for taxable purposes is not expected to stimulate the influx of flax to Northwestern markets, as there is comparatively little flax available for shipment. Most of the seed now held in the interior, it is believed, will be needed for seeding purposes.

MARKET GOSSIP

The Northwestern Miller says:—"Increasing 19,115 bbls, the Minneapolis flour output last week was not large. The quantity of flour turned out (week of Jan. 22) was 352,280 bbls, against 231,500 bbls in 1909 and 250,705 bbls in 1908. A compartively large milling capacity was in operation at Minneapolis today and the week's production promises to exceed 360,000 bbls. For the corresponding week in 1909 it was 272,425 bbls. Considering the time of year, the mills last week made good sales of flour. Both Minneapolis and outside mills are running much heavier than usual, and still the business booked represented from 50 to 100 per cent of as much flour as was made. Perhaps the average was between 60 and 75 per cent. Prices too often were unreasonably low."

R. W. Kinyon wired from Parsons, Kan.—"Wheat mostly marketed. Corn in this vicinity light crop, and the bulk of it consumed locally. They are paying 60c here for corn, with light stocks on hand. Winter wheat looking fine."

Broomhall wired from Liverpool—"Argentine shipments this week, 952,000 bu; last week, 472,000 bu; last year, 4,696,000 bu. Corn, this week, 258,000 bu; last week, 276,000 bu; last year, 16,000 bu. Arrivals from the interior are increasing, but the quality is bad. The corn market is strong, with the demand quiet. Arrivals from the interior are light and the quality satisfactory. The wheat market opened with a firm undertone and prices ⅜@½d higher, being influenced by the strength in America yesterday. Following the opening the market was firmly held with offerings light and values showed an additional advance of ⅛@¼d. Support at this time was attributed to the reports of bad conditions of the quality of Argentine wheat arriving from the country and the fact that shipments so far this season have amounted to 1,864,000 bu against 9,528,000 bu. for the same period last year. There was a generally better demand for both parcels and cargoes and La Plata cargoes were in good request notwithstanding the firmness of holders. Liverpool receipts for three days amounted to 616,000 bu and of this more than half came from America. At the midday the market was firm and prices 5d higher than yesterday. Corn was unchanged at the start and later January lost ⅛d on the less active demand for American parcels. The general market was dull."

The Modern Miller said—"Snow has disappeared from the larger part of the winter wheat belt. Reports of thawing and freezing injuring the plant come from soft winter wheat section, but are by no means general, and the average condition of the crop is good. Illinois millers report that farmers are delivering their holdings more freely."

• • •

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool agent cabled—"Wheat is firm with better demand. Argentine shipments are small. Quality reported to be bad. Corn is quiet, with prices unchanged."

• • •

World's estimate, exclusive of North American wheat, is 7,200,000 bu.

• • •

Bartlett-Patten, who have been bullish on wheat for the last two days started the selling movement late today.

Minneapolis received 30 cars of flax, compared with 21 last year, 44 of corn and 38 cars of oats.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Cash Demand and Foreign News Send Wheat Up.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—A fair demand for cash wheat today was supplemented by foreign cables telling of advanced prices in Liverpool. As a result the market here held to an upward trend in the early trading. Opening figures were generally ⅛@⅝c higher. In the first hour the market moved up ¼@⅝c. Influential elevator interests were buyers. Moreover, longs showed a disinclination to lessen their holdings. May advanced to $1.12 from a fraction below the opening figures, which were $1.11½@1.11⅝.

The market dragged in the last half of the session, declining ⅝@1c. May fell off from $1.12 to $1.11⅛@1.11¼. The close was weak at the low point with May ¼c under yesterday's final figures.

In the corn pit the start which was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher was speedily changed to an advance of ⅝@⅞c. The upward tendency was due to the firmness of wheat and an improved demand. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 67@67⅛c, and in the first hour advanced to 67⅝@67⅞c.

The bulge in the first half of the session was followed by a decline, increased offerings taking the edge off the market. May sold off from 67⅝c @67⅜c to 66¾@66⅞c. The close was weak at the low point with May ¼@⅜c down from last quotations yesterday.

Oats followed corn, opening ¼c lower to ⅛c higher and advancing ⅜@⅝c. Moderate receipts aided the bullish sentiment. From a start ⅛@¼c lower to a shade higher at 46⅞@ 47¼c. May advanced to 47⅜c in the first hour.

Provisions showed an initial decline of 2½@5c, but advanced 5@7½c in the first hour under the stimulus of the continued heavy runs of live hogs at the packing centers. Opening prices for the May products were: Pork, $20.85; lard, $11.67½; ribs, $11.25.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Firmer But An Easier Tone Develops.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 28.—The wheat market was easier today. During the early session a firmer tone prevailed and fluctuations were in a narrow range. May opened steady to ⅛c higher than yesterday and closed ¾@ ⅞c lower than the opening. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 540,000 bu for the week, as compared with 390,000 bu last week, making a total of 4,530,000 bu. Minneapolis today received 350 cars of wheat, as compared with 167 a year ago; Duluth, 50 against 7, and Winnipeg 139 against 121. May opened $1.12⅝; high, $1.13⅛; low, $1.11⅞@1.12; closed, $1.11⅞@1.12. July, opened $1.11; high, $1.12¼@ 1.12⅜; low, $1.11⅛@1.11¼; closed at $1.11⅜@1.11¾.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Had Periods of Strength, But Close Was Easy and Dull.

Dealings Shrank to Small Proportions in Final Hour.

New York, Jan. 28.—The opening stock market today showed some traces of unsettlement in the sentiment ruling yesterday. Changes were mixed and were quite sharp in some cases. Reading advanced 1¼, Union Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande and Delaware & Hudson 1, and Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific large fractions. Consolidated Gas receded 1¾, United States Realty 2, Amalgamated Copper and Bethlehem Steel 1, and Kansas & Texas preferred and Republic Steel ¾.

Stocks which were strong at the outset lost most of their gains when profit-taking commenced. Large buying orders, however, appeared for the high priced railroad stocks, such as Pennsylvania, New York Central, the Hill stocks, Reading, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Accordingly prices were bid up vigorously in all directions. After a score or more of the leading stocks, including United States Steel, had sold a point or more above yesterday's closing, the market became dull and droopiing.

The movements of prices became uncertain. Reactions of a point on light dealings in half a dozen stocks were followed by a recovery to the top. Business was meager in both directions. Pullman rose 2. Bonds were steady.

Special strength was shown by Reading and the Union Pacific in the early afternoon, a rise of 2⅞, together with an advance of 1⅝ in United States Steel, giving a stimulus to the whole list. A drop in Pennsylvania from 135 to 133¾ and realizing in other quarters depressed the market afterwards, Union Pacific and United States Steel reacting large fractions. American Sugar and Great orthern Ore certificates advanced 1¾. Toledo, St. Louis and Western fell 2 points.

The market closed easy and dull. Dealings shrank to small proportions in the final hour. Pennsylvania gravitated to lower level and affected the general tone in sympathy. Prices hung below the best but without any marked increase in selling pressure. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha sold at an advance of 5, and Wells-Fargo 2.

Butte-Alex Scott is about to become a shipper and should be the first dividend payer of the new properties. Nine feet of first-class ore on the 1,400-foot level, in No. 2 vein, and is improving as they drift on it. Two big veins to be opened up. A very large tonnage should go forward from the Scott property. Bullaklava, Tuloume and the Butte-Alex Scott properties are developed about the same, and it is hard to tell which of the three is the biggest mine.

The Scott mine is being developed and it is proving up better than expected and this must count in the long run. We care nothing about the market on shares for shipments and earning power of property will soon regulate that part of it.

Bullaklava looks good. Calumet & Sonora also one of our favorites. Shattuck and Butte & Superior could not act better on a slow general market. St. Mary stock should be bought.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 28TH.

Plenty of bids were in the market this morning for the best stocks and with the turn which has come in the Eastern stocks and the advance which they have had this morning, we can see nothing but higher prices for our local stocks. This market has had a big shake out. The weak holders have been eliminated and those who have the stocks are strong enough financially to hold them until they reach much higher prices. And that they will reach higher prices, is in our opinion, a certainty. We advise the purchase of Red Warrior and Live Oak, as we believe they are the two best on the Duluth list. Both of them have lots of ore and are intrinsically worth much higher prices. Calumet & Montana and Calumet & Corbin are in our opinion, very cheap at the present price and the people behind these two issues will without question put them higher. A very bullish telegram was received from the representative of Gay & Sturgis, who has been making an examination of the Cactus property for the last five days. He predicts that it will be larger than Miami and Inspiration put together. This stock is bound for higher levels. We have been calling your attention to Savana part paid and it is the cheapest stock intrinsically in the whole Duluth list, and in our opinion, it presents an opportunity for investment which is seldom offered. We strongly urge the purchase of North Lake and Indiana of the Michigan stock. They have had a big decline and are now in a position to have a rapid advance. We advise the purchase of any of the best stocks.

LIQUIDATION ABOUT OVER

Copper Market Still Weak, But the Declines Have Ceased.

The copper market was weak today although buying from public sources was fair. This was due, it is believed, to the attractive possibilities of some stocks which are selling below their intrinsic value. The burst of forced liquidation has about run its course, apparently, and the market held a stronger undertone than for some time despite the sagging prices. The general situation is still nervous and traders are inclined to an opinion that the market will not be prepared for a stiff rally until the political situation is cleared, the Standard Oil decision is rendered and the copper merger is either accomplished or a working agreement made to maintain a price level of 15 cents and regulate production to the demand.

Copper exports for the week ending Jan. 27 were 6,710 tons, an increase of 2,227 tons. From Jan. 1 to Jan. 27 the exports amounted to 23,115 tons, an increase of 4,645 tons. This favorable showing in an ordinary market would have had a bullish effect. Copper futures in London were easier and the tone was soft.

Some traders think a general rally is due, but there is little doubt that there will be heavy selling on any bulge. After the long decline an advance would be a natural return, as the market moves in a series of circles, more or less irregular. There is no outlook, however, for a general upturn spread over a long duration such as that of last spring and summer.

Lake was strong today on heavy buying. It is said that one-fourth of the number of outstanding shares was traded in yesterday. The sixth level of the mine is showing up well, according to reports. A drill has penetrated the lode over seventy feet. The level has not reached the lode. The fourth consignment of six cars of rock from Lake to the Franklin smelter has been received. The values are said to be about the same as the last shipment. Lake advanced from $62 to $68 and lost ¾ point.

Calumet & Arizona advanced from $69 to $73 and declined to $71.50. The advance was due to short covering. Giroux sold at $10. Greene at $10. Amalgamated at $82.12½ down to $81.50. North Butte at $40.50, up to $41.75 and down to $41. Superior & Pittsburg at $13.50 up 1 point. Ojibway at $9.25 to $9.50. Steel common at $82.12½ to $84 and down to $83.75.

Cactus was strong today on Eastern buying, caused by favorable reports from the property. South drifts on the fourth level are growing richer, although none of the drifts have penetrated the heart of the ore body. A churn drill will be installed to prove another body northward. The stock sold at $5.62½@5.75 and back to $5.62½ and closed at $6 asked. Butte-Ballaklav sold at $11.25, Live Oak at $19@21 on flattering reports from the property. The buying was in the East. Butte & Superior sold at $2.81¼. Calumet & Sonora at $22.25 up to $23. Carman at $1.25. Cliff at $1.75 up to $2 and back to $1.62½. Montana Clinton at 40 cents and Keating at $1.93¾. The local market was dull, but the quality of trading was good.

The Anaconda Mining company in its statement concerning the proposed copper combination says:

"The reasons for the proposed increase in stock involve consideration of difficult and complicated legal questions as well as those relating to the economical and efficient management of business operations of the different companies.

"What is known as the law of the apex or the right to follow a vein on its dip extra-laterally and the surface lines of mining claims, prevails in Montana, and has given rise to many perplexing problems in connection with operators in the Butte district.

"Mining claims of the Anaconda Copper mining company and of the other companies affected by this plan are all located within a comparatively circumscribed area and are contiguous and so closely and inextricably interlaced as to make almost impossible the segregation of ownership of underground ore bodies.

"Some of the operating features which have been considered in favoring the proposed transaction are economies which will result from working all the mines in accordance with a general system of development, thus relieving owners from necessity of maintaining numerous expensive surface and underground plants necessary under the present conditions of separate ownership.

"The Anaconda company, because of its size and its location, is regarded as the logical company to become the purchaser of properties of the other companies, and the step taken to call a special meeting was the first toward submitting the matter to stockholders of different companies for their consideration.

"It is not likely that all of the increase of stock, if authorized, will be used at present for carrying out this plan."

The main purpose of the proposed copper merger is to eliminate the note of discord that prevails among large producers and to put copper on a sound basis. The copper industry has been suffering from over-production and has made comparatively slow progress since 1907, the year of the pronounced business depression. Protective measures are necessary to put the copper industry on a sound basis and inject life into the trade. Copper in 1907 hit 26¼ cents and in October, 1907, it sold as low as 12½ cents, a condition which could be prevented in the future.

Amalgamated, if the combination does not materialize by reason of a possible adverse decision by the supreme court against Standard Oil, will be compelled to make a full report after next August 31 of its assets, earnings and liabilities or withdraw its shares from the New York stock exchange. It has accepted the alternative, and will lose its identity in the proposed merger, if it is put through.

WANTED TO SEE PRESIDENT

"Big Bill" Taft would be the least bit touched in the vanity spot if he knew that a Duluth citizen waited and hung around forty-nine days to gain an audience with the former friend of Theodore Roosevelt.

Jacob Karlikas, who resides at 924 West First street, has notions and hunches. Seven weeks ago he had the hunch that the president wanted to see him. He told his friends so, and though they did not believe him, Karlikas was not in the least bit discouraged. He packed his traveling togs together and set out for the national capital.

He arrived in the Capital City in due time and for forty-nine days made himself a human interrogation point around the capitol. He wanted to see the president and he informed various people of his desire. However, the president never sent for the Duluth citizen.

Karlikas made himself so evident down Washington way that he was sent back to Duluth in charge of an attendant, who was instructed to humor him if necessary, but to keep a close watch on the man. He will be examined in probate court this afternoon, when it will be determined whether or not he is insane.

TO CLEAR TITLE TO RIPARIAN RIGHTS.

To clear away a cloud, which he says has come upon the riparian rights to land owned by him on the shore of St. Louis bay near Split Lake, through the formation of a small island between the shore at his property and the improved navigable channel, George W. Norton of Louisville, Ky., as executor of the estate of George W. Norton, has filed suit in United States court against Robert R. Whiteside, E. P. Alexander and Andrew J. Tallas.

Mr. Whiteside's holdings are opposite to Mr. Norton's, and are on the Wisconsin side. Mr. Alexander has an interest in Mr. Whiteside's holdings, and Mr. Tallas has taken up his residence on the island in the belief that it is government land and subject to settlement as such, according to Mr. Norton's complaint.

Mr. Norton asserts that the defendants claim an interest in the island, which lies in the water covered by his riparian rights. He asks that they be adjudged as having no interest in the island and that his reparian rights to the channel be declared existing and covering the entire space between the shore line at his property and the channel of the bay.

SAYS HE WAS TOO ACTIVE

Emil Stanley Is Accused of Threatening to Kill Austrian Interpreter.

Says Nick Papkotitch Stirred Up Trouble for His Friends.

Acting on the belief that Nick Paikotitch, an Austrian interpreter, stirred up trouble with his friends, causing one of them to be arrested on a charge of "jumping" a board bill, Emil Stanley, it is claimed, threatened him with death. Stanley was arrested last evening at West Duluth. He will be tried this evening before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court.

Palkotitch, Stanley says, has been altogether too eager in offering his services as interpreter in securing the arrest and conviction of certain members of the Austrian colony below Raleigh street, where Stanley lives. The culmination of the trouble between the men came about when Mike Skorich was arrested yesterday for defrauding an innkeeper.

Skorich, it is understood, is a friend of Stanley. Palkotitch brought the complaining witness, Dan Palnovich into court yesterday morning, where a warrant was sworn out for Skorich, who came in later and made a settlement with Palnovich. Palkotitch acted as interpreter during the proceedings. The case was settled, however, before it came to trial.

Later in the day, Palkotitch met Stanley and the latter threatened to kill him because he was instrumental in securing the arrest of Skorich. Palkotitch reported the matter to the police and had a warrant sworn out for Stanley. He was arrested last evening and taken to the station. When searched he had nothing on his person, with which he could have carried out his alleged threats.

There has been trouble brewing in the colony for some time and the police have expected a small riot in this district. There have often been many disputes and the police are watching the district as closely as possible.

ARE READY TO AID SUFFERERS

French People Do Not Think General Appeal Will Be Made.

While the French of Duluth stand ready to help the flood sufferers of Paris, if an appeal for help is made by the French government, there is no movement now on foot among the French of the city to raise funds, according to Rev. Father Guilette, pastor of the St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church, at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

Most of the French settlers in the city reside either at West Duluth or at the West end and with few exceptions, they are French Canadians. It is said that there are less than a half dozen Parisian families known to be residing in Duluth at the present time. The French Catholic parish in the western end of the city is comprised almost entirely of French Canadian people.

Father Guilette stated this morning that he thought that the French of the city would fall in line with a substantial subscription list, providing that it was needed and a call for funds was issued by the people of France. But he claims that France today is the richest country in the world and the people there have enough money to take care of themselves.

"They have no millionaires to speak of in France," he said, "and conditions there will be found different from what they are in this country." He said that the poor are not as poverty-stricken and the rich not as wealthy in France as they are in this country. There are no big trusts there, he says, to make living a struggle for existence the way that it is in the United States.

Father Guilette doubts whether the French government will appeal to outside sources for the necessary aid to the Parisian sufferers.

Old Folks' Club Dance.

Invitations have been issued for an old fashioned dancing party to be given, Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, at Wade's hall, under the auspices of the Old Folks' club. The affair is intended for married people and many of the old time dances will be on the evening's program.

SITE IS SELECTED.

Committee Will Recommend Location of Market on City Property.

The West Duluth Commercial club, at its meeting this evening, will receive a complete report from its committee on the proposed public market. It is thought that the report will contain recommendations for the location of the market on the city lots in the rear of Wade's store, on Ramsey street and the Northern Pacific right-of-way.

It was pointed out at the former meeting, that when the village of West Duluth originally acquired that property is was the intention of using it for a market site and an armory. The armory was never built nor the market established. It has been used by the city as a storage ground for the board of public works and for a small office of the water board.

SLIPPED ON STEPS.

Mrs. Axel Carlson Painfully Injured By Fall at Her Home.

While leaving her home yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Axel Carlson of 727 North fifty-eighth avenue west, slipped on an icy step and fell heavily. She sustained serious bruises about the head and was also painfully injured across the shoulders and back.

She was assisted into the house where an investigation was made to determine the extent of her injuries. Dr. D. E. Seashore was called and dressed the wounds. He stated this afternoon that the woman was out of danger.

Anderson Trial On.

Ben Anderson, charged with attempting to criminally assault 16-year-old Annie Fosness of 7 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, furnished $500 bail last evening and was released. This afternoon he was arraigned before Judge J. B. Flack in the West Duluth justice court.

Building Is Moved.

James McArton has purchased the old building formerly used by J. J. Moran as a confectionery store and newsstand and has moved it to Sixty-third avenue west and Grand avenue. It will be remodeled and fitted up for a confectionery store.

FALL 100 FEET AND THEN BURN TO DEATH.

Dalhart, Tex., Jan. 28.—Plunged 100 feet down to the bottom of Blanco canyon and then burned to a crisp with her baby amid the debris of a wagon that contained all her household goods, was the fate of Mrs. S. R. Breck, a widow, near the little plains town of Floydada, yesterday. The struggling woman with her baby was unable to extricate her self or the infant from the wreckage, which took fire from the explosion of a can of gasoline.

The charred remains of the mother and baby clasped to her breast were found later by a ranchman who had witnessed the tragedy from the other side of the canyon.

SAY IT WOULD OPEN WAY TO BAD PRACTICE.

Washington, Jan. 28.—An application by the Armour car lines to the interstate commerce commission for reparation against the Southern Pacific company on shipments of ice from Los Angeles, Cal., to Yuma, Ariz., was rejected today. The commission held that the granting of the request would "open the door to the grossest form of favorites and rebating."

WILL DROP THEIR PLAN

Originators of Duluth Garden Scheme Will Not Proceed Privately.

Commercial Club Yet Has Chance to Carry It Through.

"Certainly not," said C. P. Craig, when asked this afternoon if he and Mr. Williams intended to proceed privately with their plan for the Duluth Garden company, provided the Commercial club failed to take further action.

"I don't feel that there was anything personal in the action of the committee, but our plan was turned down, and it does not behoove us to push it any further privately."

The plans for the Duluth Garden company are not yet dead, even though the scheme was given a rather hard blow at the last meeting of the committee. Another committee will be appointed by Chairman T. W. Hugo to work out a plan for shortening the road to extend only to the end of the land owned by the proposed garden company, which was the original plan. It is believed that this would greatly reduce the cost of construction, as the greater part of the filling will have to be done on the last three miles of the road. If this is done, it is believed that the increase in the value of the company's land brought about by the construction of the road would be more than sufficient to guarantee the deficit in the operation of the road for the first few years until the land began producing. If the report of the new committee on this phase of the question is favorable, it will not be necessary to secure the guarantee of land owners along the line, in order to permit the club to recommend the plan to investors.

This committee will report at the next meeting of the public affairs committee.

"It would be better to hire automobiles to carry the truck to town, than to abandon the plan for the Garden company because the road might lose a little money for a year or two," said one member of the public affairs committee this morning. "It seems to me that we are not taking hold of this scheme the way we should, and are dying off at a tangent. The main point is to settle up those lands with truck gardeners, and to get an open market here. Even if the road is never built, we should go ahead with the garden plan. But I can't see why we couldn't secure a guarantee from the farmers out there. If I owned land there, I wouldn't hesitate long about pledging 50 cents or $1 an acre a year for the road, which might increase the value of my land 100 per cent or more. This is not a time to quibble about trifles. We have talked about it long enough. When this new committee reports, we should adopt the report, and go ahead and raise the money for the first four miles of the road, which it is now proposed to build. The plan got a hard knock, but it is not dead yet, and we should not let it die."

NEW COLONY IS GROWING

Bishop McGolrick Will Visit New York to Work for Plan.

About Feb. 6, Bishop James McGolrick of this city will leave for New York, where he will do work to further the interests of the colony of farmers he is placing on land in Hubbard, Otter Tail and Becker counties.

The colony is growing rapidly, and the work is going along in a very satisfactory way. More settlers are needed, however, and in the crowded Eastern cities, it is expected, they will be found.

Bishop McGolrick has had explanations of his plan printed in several languages, and these pamphlets are being distributed through the mails and by other means. The Duluth prelate has agents in the large cities, who are addressing the people in several languages, and many who have saved some little money, and know something about farming, are being induced to leave the city and get back to the land. These are the settlers that are wanted. A man without means and without knowledge of farming is practically useless, and makes a dismal failure of his attempt. There are agents at work in Belgium and Holland, and they are very successful in inducing the peasants to come to Minnesota to farm. In two years time, Bishop McGolrick expects to have all of the 170,000 acres of land occupied.

The length of his stay in New York has not been determined and will not until he finds out what success is being experienced in inducing people to give up the city for the farm. He says that while many are moving to the land, the work in the cities is discouraging. The movement is rather from the country to the city, than from the city to the country. This is what he is doing his best to overcome and get the people moving the other way.

Settlers on the bishop's land pay but $3 down to the acre. They are given $500 worth of lumber and 10 acres is cleared and plowed for them. The man who has a small amount of money to make the first payment, and is willing to work is given an excellent chance to make good.

INSPECTS THE ALWORTH BUILDING.

Following a report that a number of bricks had fallen from one of the walls of the new Alworth building, Sunday, striking on the roof of the J. J. Wall building, Building Inspector Kielley today made a thorough inspection of the new structure.

"A tier of bricks about seven feet long and twelve inches wide, fell," said Mr. Kielley today. "Brick work at this time of the year has to be very carefully done, especially where pressed bricks are used, as in this case. The bricks that fell were from the outer tier, which was connected with the inner tier by what is known as a 'blind header.' Proper care was not exercised in connecting these bricks. The building itself is all right, and the men in charge of the work assure me that the wall will be thoroughly gone over to guard against any further accidents of this kind. I will also personally see that this work is done."

The bricks fell from about the tenth story.

MUST FURNISH BONDS.

Link Holden Must Keep Peace for Six Months and Not Threaten Father.

Link A. Holden, charged with threatening to murder his father-in-law, Charles Cole, treasurer of the town of Superior, a prospective candidate for county treasurer, who has been prominent for some time in county politics, was ordered to furnish a six-months' peace bond of $500, when arraigned late yesterday in municipal court.

Holden, it was claimed, started out last Christmas eve to shoot his father-in-law. The men met in a saloon at South Range, but before Holden could pull a gun, Cole was at hir. and had him overpowered. Holden received a bad beating. Since that time, he instituted a civil action for $5,000 damages against Cole.

Holden could not furnish bonds yesterday and was taken to the county jail.

IS FINED FOR "TOTING" GUN.

F. C. Caughlin, a bartender at the Rex hotel on North Third street, who was arrested last evening on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, paid a fine of $13 this morning in the municipal court.

According to the story told in court this morning, Caughlin came to the saloon last evening to get some articles of clothing which he had left there. While there he became engaged in a dispute with Jack Collins, another bartender.

Collins, he claims, attempted to strike him, when he pulled a gun from his pocket and flashed it in his face. He put the gun back in his pocket, but Collins persisted in his attempt to hit him.

Then, according to the testimony, Caughlin drew out the gun and shot at Collins. The bullet from the revolver missed its aim and was found imbedded in the floor. Caughlin claims that he shot to scare Collins.

The arrest of Caughlin followed.

The conference is likely to last several days.

PATRICK IS DISBARRED.

Convicted Murderer Can Fight His Own Case No Longer.

New York, Jan. 28.—Albert T. Patrick, who has been a prisoner for nearly ten years, and who is now serving a life sentence in Sing Sing prison, for the murder of William Marsh Rice, was today formally disbarred as a practicing lawyer by the appelate division of the supreme court.

Taking advantage of his position as a member of the bar, Patrick has been able to fight his case for years, obtaining many reviews on writs of habeas corpus and otherwise thwarting the sentence of death. Later the governor commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. As Patrick now has been disbarred, he must retain a lawyer in good standing.

TO THE CITIZENS OF DULUTH:

The Board of Water & Light Commissioners desire to state to the citizens of Duluth the reasons why in its judgment, the bond issue of $200,000, to be voted upon the coming election, February 1, should be approved.

The demands of the department for new extensions, incident to the growth of the city, are so great that they necessitate such enlargement of the works as cannot be met, except by a new issue of bonds, or by an increase in the rates to consumers.

During the last seven years, the citizens of Duluth have contributed toward the payment of the water and light plants the sum of $460,916, being over $109,000 last year alone; meaning by this that they have paid that amount in addition to the actual operating, maintenance and interest expenses of the plants, and the Board believed that present consumers are doing enough in this direction and increased rates would be unjust to them. This amount, it is true, has not been used to reduce the bonded debt of the city, but has been used in making new extensions and has thereby become a money earner.

People who may in the future desire to have gas and water services extended to their premises should vote for the bond issue, because otherwise the department may not be able to supply them, and people already supplied should vote for it because there are certain improvements imperatively demanded in order to safeguard the interests of the city as a whole, and provide our adequate supply of gas and water to meet the increased consumption of extensions already made.

By reason of the method the board pursues in the matter of extensions, viz: that extensions shall be made only on guarantees of an adequate income from such extensions on an amount sufficient to cover their cost, each new extension becomes soon therefore itself a contributor to the surplus earnings of the department, and no private corporation dealing in a public necessity, having a monopoly of the sale of its products, able to borrow money at reasonable rates, and having certain knowledge that extension of its business would bring an increase in its surplus, hesitates to take advantage of the opportunity to grow very much more, therefore, should Duluth, having regard for the healthfulness of its people and the protection of its property, follow the same plan.

In a general way, the unmet demands on the Board are as follows:

First—New extensions, 25 of which are on file with the department.

Second—Other new extensions, sure to be petitioned for during the year of great growth, we all believe we have before us.

Third—To begin the extension of a main, leading from the Sixteenth avenue east 36-inch main to West Duluth, to serve not only as an additional source of supply through the central part of the city, but also to furnish an increased supply to West Duluth and to protect a whole section of the city from being entirely cut off by reason of a break in the single main upon which the supply now depends. If the Steel Plant is to be constructed and that section of the city furnished with gas and water, this last improvement is not only desirable, but is an absolute necessity.

Fourth—The improvement will as shown be of material benefit to many without increasing the rates of any consumer or increasing the taxes of any property owner.

Inasmuch as the policy, the Board pursues has a bearing on the bond issue, the Board desires the public to know fully what its schedule of rates is and why.

The cost of supplying water is divided into three classes:

First—The cost of pumping.

Second—Water service, consisting of management, clerical, repairs, insurance, and all other expenses not included in cost of pumping and interest charges, which last makes the third classification.

The water service expense is as great for small consumption as for large consumption, and a large proportion of the interest charge is properly based upon fire protection and on the ordinary and average uses of water, and any excess consumption of water should be charged for on the basis of the increased cost to the department of furnishing such excess, such large consumption first being charged its full share of water service expense and interest charges at the same rate charged all other consumption. Forming our schedule on this basis every consumer, whether in large or small amounts, pays monthly.

For the first 8,000 feet at 17½ cts. per 100 feet;

For the next 8,000 feet at 10 cts. per 100 feet;

For the next 60,000 feet at 7½ cts. per 100 feet;

For the next 100,000 feet at 5 cts. per 100 feet;

And for all over 176,000 feet, 2½ cts. per 100 feet.

The lower rates on large consumption, therefore, are not only equitable but also in the interests of the city as a whole because they serve to hold certain large consumption not dependent upon the municipal plant for its supply; and, laying aside all theories, the fact remains that if, irrespective of the quantity or purpose for which it is used, a uniform rate were made as we are being criticized for not doing, the cost of lawn sprinkling would be largely prohibitive to the regret of every lover of the beautiful and believer in "The City Beautiful," and to the discredit to the city in the eye of strangers; hydraulic elevators, would give place to electric elevators, and other large consumers, especially where purity of water is not necessary, would put in their own pumping plants and thereby decrease the annual surplus of this department, without lessening the rates to any. Decreasing the annual surplus means either less extensions, higher rates or still larger bond issues. Failure to establish a still lower rate lost to the city the largest portion of the consumption of the American Cartridge company at West Duluth; that particular loss amounting to about 138,000,000 gallons of water annually, yielding under our present schedule of rates 300 numbers $5,000 in revenue, at an actual total cost of pumping of not to exceed $1,400, thus contributing very materially to the department's surplus. To increase our rates would lose us other large consumption to the further material loss of this surplus.

The successive Boards of the department have considered and approved the present plan as being for the best interest of the city as a whole.

If the city desires to carry out the theories of the uninformed, at the expense of practical results, it doubtless can find commissioners to carry out its views, but the Board, as now constituted, and as it has been constituted from the time the department was first organized, has believed that it was appointed to study conditions from a practical standpoint, and having thus studied, to exercise its own best judgment in the conduct of the affairs of the department, first giving consideration to advice from whatever source received. On any other basis, the Commissioners might better contribute an automaton to the department to record the label of advice given them than to spend their time (valuable at least to themselves) and outrage their common sense by being what in their position they know to be against the best interests of the city.

Respectfully submitted,

ONE OF THE REASONS
the cost of table necessities is getting so high in this day and age: The people do not pay enough attention to where they buy them. SAVE FIFTY-THREE BY BREECHES BUOY

Rescuers Take Officers and Men Off British Naval Craft.

Dover, Eng., Jan. 28.—Fifty-three officers and men were saved from the British torpedo boat destroyer Eden today by means of the breeches buoy.

The Eden broke from her moorings during a gale in the Channel last night and was driven ashore off this place. When the tide receded the destroyer was left high and dry and badly damaged.

Her guns, heavy gear and coal were removed in the hope that she could be floated at the next high tide. Unless this is possible the destroyer will be pounded to pieces. One of the small boats of the battleship Albermarle, which was engaged in salvaging, was overturned, but the fourteen occupants were rescued.

THOMPSON IN DENIAL.

North Dakota Senator Will Go South But Holds Onto Job.

Washington, Jan. 28.—When asked about a report from Fargo that he had resigned, United States Senator Thompson of North Dakota said:

"I have not resigned and I do not intend to resign. I have not been well recently. The climate of Washington has affected my lungs and my heart and on the adivce of my physicians I am going south in a short time, to remain for about two months."

Senator Thompson's determination to leave Washington was reached rather suddenly as he announced on Monday that he was not going to leave until after adjournment.

MIXES IT WITH CARRIE.

Butte Woman Pulls Hair of Wielder of Hatchet.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 28.—Carrie Nation and May Maloy, keeper of a dance hall, had a set-to during Mrs. Nation's crusade through the red light district here. Fearing for the safety of oil paintings which the Kansas woman had denounced, the Maloy woman sailed in, tearing Mrs. Nation's bonnet and pulling her hair. Mrs. Nation, in spite of her age, swung a vigorous right to the jaw of her antagonist. Then the crowd interfered.

INDIAN AGENT SUSPICIOUS OF BRAINERD SALOON MEN.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joolm T. Frater, Indian agent at Onigum, and formerly county treasurer of Crow Wing county, while here from the Leech Lake agency asked the chief of police to keep watch on any Indians coming into the city, and see where they went and what they purchased. He said that some of the Indians from his agency had been coming clear to Brainerd to get whisky, and added that if the saloonkeepers of Brainerd did not quit selling whisky to the Indians he knew who would cut out the saloons in Brainerd. He added that many of them resembled white men and much care would be necessary on the part of those dispensing liquors in order that they might not unwittingly violate the law.

Woman Beats Up Burglar.

New York, Jan. 28.—A bantam burglar was no match for Mrs. Clare Lindenauer, a welterweight, in a rough and tumble fight in her apartments, where she found him yesterday afternoon packing up the silverware.

Mrs. Lindenauer pounded the intruder and then led the culprit to the nearest police station. In court the judge said she deserved a Carnegie medal and held the man, who said he was Isadore Rothman, 20 years old, in $300 bail for trial.
